PITT COUNTY MOURNS THE DROWNING NEAR GRIMESLAND OF 3 YOUNG BOYS

All Night Search for Bodies of no Avail

ACCIDENT NOW MYSTIFIES ALL

Robert Hardee, of Greenville and Two Sons of Mr. Sam Tucker, of Near Grimesland, Victims of Watery Grave

Early Friday night the sad news reached town that three boys had been drowned in Tar river. The boys were Theodore Tucker, aged 13 and Elbert Tucker, aged 12, both sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Tucker who live on the river road about six miles below town and Robert Hardee, aged 12, a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hardee, of Greenville.

Robert Hardee was visiting the Tucker boys, who were his cousins. Just after dinner Friday the three boys mentioned above and another of the Tucker boys, named Milton, went to the river fishing. About three o'clock Milton got tired and went back home, leaving the other boys in a canoe at the river. As night drew near and the other boys had not returned home, Mr. Tucker sent Milton back to the river to call them. When Milton reached the river he found the clothing of the three boys lying on the river bank, their canoe with the fishing tackle in it pulled on a sand bar, but the boys were nowhere to be found. Alarmed at this discovery Milton fled back home to report to his parents what he had found at the river. Quickly the distressed parents and some friends who joined them hurried to the river and found conditions just as Milton had reported. The only supposition left was that all three of the boys had been drowned, but there were no indications as to how the accident occurred and it may forever be a mystery. Naturally it is concluded they left their boat, undressed on the river bank and went in swimming.

Mr. D. W. Hardee, whose son was among the three missing, was communicated with by telephone from Mr. Tucker's home and he and Mrs. Hardee with other friends from town hurried to scene.

Several boats were gathering where the drowning was supposed to have occurred and a fruitless search for the bodies continued all night.

The drowning occurred at a place on the river called Farmers Landing. A sharp bend in the river there caused a dangerous eddy near the bank and in some way the boys must have been caught in this while swimming. At some points there the water is very deep and the drags used in searching for the bodies did not reach bottom.

Much sympathy is expressed for the parents and friends of both families in this great misfortune and sorrow. It has cast a gloom over the community.

Not many years ago another triple drowning occurred at almost the identical spot, the victims then being a white boy named Johnnie Whitley and two colored youths. Their bodies were also dragged for but not found until several days later when a passing steamer washed them up. Report says that in time gone by there had been a previous triple drowning near the same place. It seems to be a dangerous point on the river.

Neither of the bodies of the three boys drowned Friday had been recovered at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Remarkable Auto Accident in New York

NEW YORK, July 12.—An automobile accident which in some respects was the most remarkable ever witnessed on a New York track occurred at the Coney Island motordrome shortly after midnight this morning.

Two matches were racing at fifty miles an hour around the saucer track, which has a slant of nearly 65 degrees when suddenly a forward axle broke on the car driven by George Cook. Automobile and driver turned a complete somersault from the top rim of the track and at the same time the other car driven by Jack Randall, shot beneath the somersaulting machine and continued on around the track in safety. Cook was found unconscious under the wreckage of his car but was not fatally injured.

Bull Moose Party Not Socialistic

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 12.—A protest against any hint of sectionalism in the Progressive party was made today by Colonel Roosevelt who said that he did not care a rap where a man was born or whether his father wore the blue or the grey, so long as he was the right type. Colonel Roosevelt was told of a speech, made yesterday by Major General Daniel E. Siqules, of New York, at the meeting for the organization of the new party in this state. General Siqules was quoted as saying Woodrow Wilson was born amid rebel surroundings and that we of the North have never been disposed to put such a man in the White House.

Colonel Roosevelt said he could not discuss the speech, but that it was the desire of the founders of the new party to make the movement one which would truly represent all sections of the country. "The call for the progressive convention stated that this was to be a nation wide, non-sectional movement, free from any of the sectional or other jealousies and bitterness of the past. In my speech at the Orchestra hall mass meeting in Chicago in which I stated that I would accept the progressive nomination if tendered to me, I also stated that we appealed alike to the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the grey and to the sons of the men who wore the blue and to the sons of the men who wore the grey.

He continued "I am myself by blood half a Georgian. The brothers of my own mother served in the Confederate navy just as the kinsfolk of my father served in the Union army.

Annual Celebration in France PARIS, July 13.—The French capital donned a garb of patriotic colors in anticipation of the customary celebration of the national holiday tomorrow, which will be the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the fall of the Bastille and the beginning of the French revolution. The popular merrymaking began this evening with the customary street balls, in which the pleasure loving Parisians take such delight. The boulevards were thronged with gay crowds and in all the parks and public squares there were band concert provided by the municipality. The big spectacular feature of the celebration tomorrow will be, of course, the grand military review at Longchamps. For the review this year there is to be an added attraction for the masses. This will be the presence of Moulay Hafid, the picturesque Sultan of Morocco, which has recently been made a protectorate of France. The Sultan will attend the review as the special guest of President Fallieres.

by Archbishop Quigley. The convention sessions will be opened at noon of the same day with an address by the national president, James J. Ragan of St. Paul. Wednesday night a banquet will be given at the auditorium. The business sessions will conclude Friday with the election of officers. Special entertainment has been arranged for Saturday and Sunday.

AMERICANS AGAIN VICTORIOUS Lead all Other Nations by Many Points

In Hurdle Race Boys of the U. S. A. Capture all Three Places With Ease. Vermont Man Sets Up New Long Jump Record

STOCKHOLM, July 12.—Important additions to the list of victories of the United States team at the Olympic games were made today.

All three places in the final of the 110 meters hurdle race were carried off by Americans. Fred W. Kelly, University of South California, was first; James Wendell, New York A. C., second and Martin W. Hawkins, Multnomah, third, and thus six points were added to the score of the United States.

In the running long jump also the winner was an American, Albert L. Guterson, University of Vermont, who with his jump of seven meters 60 centimeters, (24 feet 11 inches and a fraction) only won the event and scored three points for the United States but beat the previous Olympic record of 24 feet 6 1-2 inches.

In the same event a Canadian, C. D. Bricker, secured second place, scoring two points for his team, and Sweden registered a point by G. Aberg securing third place.

The discus throwing competition was something of a disappointment for the American team, who met a powerful opponent in the Finn, A. H. Taipale, who obtained first place with a world's record throw of 148 feet 1 1-2 inches. Two of the United States team, H. L. Byrd and James H. Duncan, were second and third, respectively.

Nine American runners qualified for the semi-finals of the 400 meters race and when these were being run off the record was broken twice, the first time by Charles D. Reidpath, Syracuse University, who, with his time of 48 7-10 seconds knocked half a second off the standing Olympic record of 49 1-5 seconds.

This new record was, however, not to stand long, as James E. Meredith, Mercersburg Academy, wittled it down by another seven-tenths seconds. He covered the distance in 48 seconds.

The morning started with a fine performance by the Finn, A. R. Taipale in the discus throwing, best hand, final. He beat with his throw of 45 meters 21 centimeters (148 feet 1 1-2 inches), not only the Olympic record of 136 feet 1-3 inches made by the American, Sheridan in Athens in 1906, but also the world's record of 145 feet 9 1-2 inches established by James H. Duncan at Celtic Park, N. Y., on June 2 this year. R. L. Bryn's throw of 42 meters 32 centimeters (138 feet 9 5-8 inches) and James H. Duncan's throw of 42 meters 28 centimeters (138 feet 8 3-8 inches) also exceeded the standing Olympic record.

LORIMER CHALLENGES KERN If he Can Prove Charges Will Resign Position

Long Fight to Oust Illinois Man From Senate Assumes Interesting Aspect as Lorimer Hits Back at His Political Enemies.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Calling on Senator Kern, of Indiana, to point out anything in his private, business or political life where he had been guilty of wrong-doing, Senator Lorimer, at a dramatic moment in the midst of his speech, today declared he would walk out "yonder door and never enter it again if Kern made good."

Senator Kern was not in his seat when Lorimer delivered his challenge. "I have been charged by this senator from Indiana on the floor of the Senate with political wrong-doing," Lorimer cried. "Here and now I challenge him to point out to this Senate anything in his record, anything he knows, anything he has ever heard, anybody has ever told him—I will make it broader than that—let him point to anything where I have been guilty of wrong-doing in private, in commercial, in financial or in business life, and if he will do it here and now I will not embarrass you by voting on my case. When he has done it I will walk out of yonder door and never occupy my seat again in this chamber."

"Come on, Senator Kern, you have sinned and smeared this record with suspicion; come on now and make good."

There was craning of necks toward Senator Kern's seat, but he was not visible in the chamber.

Well filled galleries and an attentive audience of Senators and House members heard Mr. Lorimer. Dramatic gestures again characterized his delivery as he strode back and forth in the center aisle of the senate chamber.

The attack on Colonel Roosevelt with which he opened his speech, was based on testimony given by George B. Cortleyou yesterday before a senate committee regarding the $1,900,000 campaign fund raised for the Republican presidential campaign in 1904. Mr. Lorimer referred to Colonel Roosevelt as the custodian of all the morals of the country, private and public.

"Of course," he exclaimed, "not one cent of that $1,900,000 could have been contributed to the predatory wealth of the country. Surely all of it was the free gift of the common people for whom this man is the great champion. No malefactor contributed to that fund—only the common people of whom he was the guardian."

The letter from President Taft to Colonel Roosevelt, expressing the hope that Lorimer would be ousted which became public in the pre-convention campaign, was taken up by Lorimer. He drew attention to President Taft's phrase emphasizing the "necessity of winning". He declared his enemies had tried to win "not by free and fair fight," but by sneaking up behind like a thief in the night.

"Was ever mortal man ever more completely surrounded by conspiracy and intrigue!" exclaimed Lorimer dramatically. "The president of the United States, William Taft; Theodore Roosevelt, the ex-president; a former Democratic candidate for the presidency, William Jennings Bryan and the trust press of the country all were in it—all joined in the conspiracy to poison the minds of the citizens in order that one man might be destroyed to satisfy the malice of the most corrupt set of newspaper owners known to the history of the country."

Allen Case Almost Ready For Jury

WYTHEVILLE, Va., July 12.—When Commonwealth's Attorney Wysor concludes his speech the fate of Claude Allen, being tried on the charge of having shot up the Carroll county court, will be in the hands of the jury.

Judge Hairston, speaking for the defense at the opening of court today was followed by John Draper, who appealed to the jury to mete out justice. R. P. Wells, who closed for the defense, claimed the trouble grew out of a political feud, started by Dexter Goad, clerk of the court, who was wounded in the shooting.

Thomas F. Ryan Will Vote for Wilson

NEW YORK, July 12.—Multimillipaire Thomas Fortune Ryan, who was half a delegate from Virginia to the national Democratic convention at Baltimore, called on the Hamburg-American Liner Amerika. He was amiable when approached on the pier, but became an epitome of silence when first asked to express an opinion on the political situation.

"Shall we vote for Wilson?" Mr. Ryan was asked.

"By all means," was the quick answer. "I am going to Aix-les-Bains, and after about two month's stay abroad, will be back in time to cast my vote for a Democratic president."

"Do you still love Mr. Bryan?" was the next query and it broke up the interview.

"I love them all," laughed Mr. Ryan, as he rushed up the gangway, waving a smiling good by. Mr. Ryan will have a full vote at the election.

William Burns Star Witness in Georgia

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 12.—Detective William J. Burns was the star witness today before the special investigating committee of the South Carolina legislature which instituted its probe here today into the old state dispensary system. The hearing was primarily called to take the testimony of Thomas B. Felder, the Atlanta attorney, who represented the commission which wound up the dispensary affairs. Testifying at tonight's session of the hearing, Detective Burns asserted that records, which will be introduced by his men would show whether or not Governor Blease of South Carolina has been grafting as governor and senator.

Evidence taken by a telephonic device and personally by a Burns detective was submitted today purporting to show that Governor Blease secured $2,000 for pardoning Rudolph Rabon, convicted of harboring stolen goods. Testimony from the same source was to the effect that Governor Blease received $500 for blocking railroad legislation; $200 for thwarting the first attempted dispensary investigation and that the governor gets his share of the blind tiger protection oney from Charleston, S. C.

A law has been enacted by the Massachusetts legislature and signed by the governor, regulating the hours of street railway employees.

LAWN FETE NEXT WEEK

The severe weather we are experiencing suggests a great many things. Chief amongst them, from our point of view, being a desire to strange ourselves from work. Not so with the ladies of the End of the Cetry Club and St. Pauls Guild. For sometime they ave been industriously planning an entertainment unconfined by paper decorated walls. In other words a lawn fete is to be given in Mr. E. B. Ficklin's lawn next Tuesday night at 8:30. That is, of course, provided Mr. Pluvius does not interfere with the arrangements, in which case the event will be postponed to the first fair evening. The program arranged is most interesting, some of the numbers being Mother Goose, Pierre and Pierrette, Dances, etc. Admission will be charged, this fete being a benefit for the State Federation of Woman's Clubs and St. Pauls Guild. For prices and other announcements see "local briefs" column.

Slayer of Stanford White to Know Fate Soon

AGED MOTHER LAST WITNESS

Allenists are Getting the Lion's Share of Thaw's Protracted Fight For Freedom. Some Get as Much as $250 a Day For Services

NEW YORK, July 12.—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will probably know two weeks from today whether he is to be released from the state asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan or returned to that institution as an incurable paranoiac with homicidal tendencies.

The final evidence in the habeas corpus proceedings he brought at White Plains was introduced late yesterday afternoon and when court adjourned Justice Keogh announced he would hear the summing up of the homicide's counsel at his private chambers in New Rochelle next Tuesday morning.

On the following Friday William Travers Jerome, representing the state will submit his brief. The Justice said he believes he will be able to announce his decision one week from that day.

Twenty-four witnesses were examined by Clarence J. Shearen, counsel for Thaw, and cross-examined by Mr. Jerome, between 9.15 a. m. and 5.25 p. m. The testimony of many seemed unimportant, while that of others distinctly aided the homicide. Dr. Charles K. Mills, the alienist who was on the stand when court adjourned Wednesday, was the first witness and Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of the prisoner, was the last.

The testimony of Mrs. Thaw brought out several new facts, as did that of her daughter, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie. Another important witness was Alan W. Evarts, counsel for Stanford White at the time of the shooting.

After Dr. Mills had reiterated his declaration made Wednesday that Thaw is sane, Mr. Evarts was called to prove than an effort had been made to send Thaw to Matteawan without a trial and that consequently the idea some one was trying to railroad him to a madhouse was not a delusion on Thaw's part.

Mr. Evarts said that Lewis Delafield, while counsel for Thaw, had informed him the Thaw family believed the homicide was insane and wished to send him to Matteawan. He was asked how Mr. White's family would consider such a move. After talking with Mrs. White he communicated with the District Attorney's office through Lewis Cass Ledyard, sending word that the Whites had no desire to insist upon the punishment of Thaw.

Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie testified that upon her mother's arrival from abroad a few days after her brother shot White she and Mrs. Thaw called upon Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton an alienist engaged by Harry's lawyers and he had shown her a memorandum relating to the case. Refreshing his memory from this he told Mrs. Thaw her late husband, William Thaw, had suffered from fits of anger during which he would fall upon the floor, pound the carpet with his fists and bite the furniture.

He also told of a small boy Harry Thaw had beaten while in swimming and of a horse he had ridden to death. Mrs. Thaw had branded all these stories as false and preposterous and instructed him not to use these stories whereupon Dr. Hamilton had told her not to mind, as the stories would all help.

Mrs. Thaw when called testified that Dr. Delafield had told her the best defense that could be made was insanity and added that the friends of White and the White family hoped there would be no trouble because of the distress it would bring to innocent persons. He said, the witness swore, that her son was near a nervous breakdown because of excessive use of tobacco and that when he went to pieces the psychological moment to declare him insane would have arrived.

Our Special Washington Letter COMMENT ON CURRENT EVENTS

WASHINGTON, July —Now that the Sherman anti-trust act, offers means the national conventions of both political parties have settled upon their respective candidates and published some 6,000 words of "platform" upon which they will go before the voters in November, conferences are being held and plans laid to make the great fight for the presidency.

The Republican fight, of course, will be made the old conservative issue. Revision of the tariff downward will be advocated in a "safe and sane" manner. The party will point with pride towards its record as a "trust buster."

The unrivalled prosperity for the last four years will be aroused from the slumbering past and shaken before the voters and wired mishappen caricatures of the future under a Democratic rule will be painted by pen and word. In a word, the Republican party will come to the battle backed by years of precedent, years of achievement and—say its enemies—years of mistakes.

Of course the Republican party will be sharply criticized. In fact it will be torn to shreds by the opposing faction, both the Taft and Roosevelt wings, though as different as different as can be, coming for an arraignment. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the Republicans, through their long tenure in office, will have a distance and decided advantage over the Democrats, who must make their campaign issue practically untried theories and who cannot point to recent affairs that have a vital bearing upon the man who works for his daily wage and casts an occasional ballot.

The Democrats, in fact, must make their fight upon issues untried though theoretically both just and serviceable. They will have to cope a personal opinion of millions of voters who are dependent upon their labor for their sustenance and who, in the last analysis, are firm believers in the old adage "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." In other words, many of them would rather eat their cake under a high protective tariff and spend their evenings in lambasting the idle rich embark upon the unknown sea of political procedure.

This fact is recognized by leaders of the Democratic party in the present session of Congress and they are even now formulating a plan of attack that will overcome the handicap. This attack will include two vital points, the tariff and the trust issues. With these two mighty clubs with which to whale their political opponents they hope to show the voters a grievous wrong has been done them, that they have been cheated out of their birthright and that only through the supremacy of Democracy can the country be led through the devious trials of a political Egypt to the promised land.

At the begining of the 62nd Congress, when the Democrats were swept into power in the House of Representatives, it was, though that the tariff issue would far overshadow the trust in importance in the coming campaign. Therefore, the leaders of the Democracy proceeded to revise the principle schedules of the tariff along true downward lines. They were, in fact, complimenting themselves upon having created an argument in behalf of their party and its candidates that could not be easily overcome by their Republican opponents when the trust issue suddenly took into an importance that placed it on an even footing with the tariff.

This prominence of the trust question was due in part to Theodore Roosevelt's pronounced intention of taking a hand in the coming campaign and in part of the fact that the Taft Republicans include a strong tariff plank in their platform. To beat Democratic thunder, and Taft, who has Roosevelt, who has stolen much of the tacking of the conservative element of the electorate, the Democracy has found itself obliged to go before the voters upon some principle vital in interest and unadvocated by its adversaries.

This principle is trust control. The recent discussion in the tobacco and steel trust cases, together with the Supreme Court's interpretation of the of criticism; or, at least, it would had the Democrats taken as much pains to create a record in corporation matters as they have in the tariff.

This is something that is apt to give them ore or less embarrassment during the coming campaign and illustrates the fact that when it comes to going before the country and advocating a various policy as to trusts and great combinations the party who has already taken steps to restrain these combinations has a great advantage.

This seeming lack of record of trusts regulation, however, is regarded as a blessing by many Democrats. In fact there is a large faction in Washington which is adverse to dabbling in trust matters at all, especially at the present session. This body believes that the Democracy will be more successful in its fight if it goes before the electorate with a clean slate and advances plausible recommendations looking toward the elimination of "predatory interests."

Confidence Inviolable.

A Milwaukee judge has decided that a newspaper man cannot be required to name the sources of his information. This is a just decision. Confidence newspaper writer and newspaper work is the one indispensable capital of a ers have almost invariably chosen to go to jail if necessary rather than violate the trust imposed in them. It is to be hoped that the view of the Milwaukee judge will be accepted by the courts generally.—Knoxville Sentinel.

Mutual Life Pays Heirs.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York has paid the estate of the late W. R. Bryson, of Mountsville, S. C., $1001 in full on a policy applied for three days prior to Mr. Bryson's death.

On March 26, 1912, Mr. Bryson was murdered on his own premises. This was three days after application was filed consequently same had not been acted upon by the New York office of the company, nor had the policy been issued. The company investigated the circumstances carefully and when it was shown that he had paid the first premium for the insurance and he was found insurable, as of March 13, his guardian was advised that the claim would be paid.—Insurance Herald.

TAFT & VANDYKE

Farmville, N. C., July 10, 1912.
 Editor Reflector:

Last winter the public road in Grimesburg was about the worst in the county. In a buggy with a good horse hitched to it you could scarcely make over four miles per hour. Now we have nearly as good a road as the sand clay-road near Greenville. This road is now an automobile boulevard, which is a perfect delight to the average chauffeur. They like to view the splendid crops of corn, cotton and tobacco. Coming out from Farmville when one watches Dexter Jones' corn he is amazed; he says here indeed is some good corn. When he crosses the branch and sees George Burnett's corn he exclaims "surely such corn was never made in this section". Just after crossing the railroad Mr. Herbert Burnett's extra fine corn attracts his attention and he is unable to decide which Burnett will gather the most per acre. Passing by some fine tobacco at Mr. J. L. Flanagan's he comes to some fine cotton of Dr. Alfred Moore and upon the left sees Mr. and Mrs. Ike Norman's cotton which is equally as fine.

Mr. R. L. Joyner's extra nice tobacco attracts his attention until he comes to Mr. Leon Joyner's tobacco which seems to be a little superior to his fathers, but as he glances to the right he is surprised to see another crop, Mr. W. J. Tugwell's, almost as fine, then wonderful to tell, near Tugwell's corn appears to be a finer crop than any he has passed. Continuing southward he is attracted by a nice crop of young corn with soja beans in the middles. Andrew Barrett's cotton is a real dandy. He surpasses anything yet beheld. Mr. Moses Moyer's tobacco is up to the usual high standard but as you pass Mr. Moyer's beautiful grove in which is his elegant modern residence, you see some corn which reminds you of traditional Hyde county or Gum swamp corn, you will readily agree with Mr. Moyer that one hundred bushels per acre is the probability at the present time. Mr. A. J. Moyer's corn not being upon the highway you probably will not see it, but his three boys have two acres which will possibly make enough corn and fodder to feed four work horses during an entire twelve months. By now you will have become tired of feasting your eyes and imagination and will probably retrace your steps and wonder why all the county does not read the Progressive Farmer as these do and profit by its teachings.

Styles in Petticoats—Rustling Garments Go over to Next Winter—Many Fetching Touches.

The summer season is naturally and pre-eminently devoted to thin gowns. It naturally follows that the question of under petticoats should come in for serious consideration.

In the winter the well-gowned woman revels in the rustling of her silk petticoats. But her summer sister is not obsessed by the idea that her skirt must make a noise. She rather leans to the lacy, clinging, essentially feminine and entirely suitable skirts of lawn.

Under the linen gowns she wears something a little more severe than under the lingerie outer garments. A good model is in pongee with three narrow hemstitched ruffles. All of the petticoats are specially fitted so that there is not even a crease under the glove fitting outer skirt.

Many have elastic webbing yokes. As these are not only clinging, but very warm, the average woman is content with the properly made, well fitting skirt, all lawn or nainsook.

A dainty idea is to have embroidered bands in color used as inserts. When skirts thus planned, tally with the color scheme of the gown they are very attractive.

Hand embroidered dots used in long lozenge rows are sets between groups of tucks to excellent advantage. As this plain style is essentially "tubular" it is much more in vogue for the morning or afternoon gowns that do not demand special fluffiness beneath.

When this is desired a favorite style shows perpendicular tucks, with parallel inserts of lace ending in points which fall over a lace ruffle below. At the head of this deep flounce reaching to the knee is a beading thru which an inch wide ribbon is run. This ends in a large clustered loop rosette at the side and is a bewitching touch that makes a coquette out of the most sober minded female.

Thin entire princess slips do away with the corset cover and petticoat in separate pieces and in this way avoid the palpable waist line evidence which the two garments cannot very well escape showing.

These come in colors as well as in white. Some in silk are exquisite with lace trimming. They are the soft messaline family and not of the more strenuous taffeta, beloved for its rustle.

These of course cost a pretty penny. While brides generally choose them in white, the great majority are content with lawn or organdie slips, either in white or in colors. The latter vary the appearance of an all white gown, so that the single costume can do service in different ways that make it appear like a new one each time.

One day it can be an all white effect or have the smart touch of velvet at neck, belt and elbow sleeves, run thru a narrow beading.

With an all pink slip, pink ribbons at waist and a filet of pink in the hair, the white gown flushes into a semblance of rosy dawn.

Green, lavender, and blue lend themselves to other variations and the summer girl of ingenuity can give the more gowns than she really does, if impression of owning a good many she has a single smart white lingerie as the basis principle of her changes.

NITA.

BRILLIANT tale of the Orient, full of color and with never a dull moment, is the new serial we have secured and which we will print in installments.

The Carpet from Bagdad

is probably the best and most fascinating story that has thus far come from the pen of Harold MacGrath. The plot, starting with the theft of a rare and holy rug by an American adventurer from its Moslem owner and sold to an American collector, is MacGrath's most salient stroke of originality.

You will enjoy following the fortunes of the little group of Americans who meet dangers amid the strange surroundings of the Near East, and who come home only to be involved in more dangerous and remarkable complications.
