GOOD ROADS NOT MENTIONED

Postal Bill Fails to Report On Highways

INVESTIGATION IS RECOMMENDED

Postoffice Committee Presents New Document to House. No Provision for Good Roads. Changed Parcels Post System

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The postoffice appropriation bill shorn of the good roads provision and embracing a revised parcel post system with charges based on zones of distance was reported to the Senate today by the postoffice committee.

The total appropriations proposed by the bill are above those of the House measure which carried approximately $260,000,000.

One of the principal increases is in the pay of railroads for transporting mails, the Senate committee adding more than $2,500,000.

In striking out the Shackelford good roads feature of the House bill, which provided for Federal improvement of highways, the Senate committee by a special commission of three House members and three Senators and provides for no highway improvements until this commission has reported.

The Barnhart amendment in the House bill for the regular publication of the names of stockholders of newspapers and periodicals is changed to provide for publication once a year when lists of stockholders are required to be filed with the local postmasters.

The parcels post section is radically different from that incorporated in the House bill, which provides a flat rate of postage for all distances. The Senate provision is that of the Bourne bill slightly modified. Senator Bourne recommended that third and fourth class mail matter be combined for the parcels post service; but the bill makes the parcels post apply only to fourth class matter.

The Senate committee struck out of the House bill the provision giving to postal employees the right to combine in labor unions and the right to petition Congress for redress of their grievances.

It also provided for the abolishment of the present system of carrying second class mail by freight under what is known as the blue tag system.

Under the Senate bill all second class would be put back into regular mail cars after August 31.

A special commission is also proposed to investigate the subject of pneumatic tube service and determine whether the government shall purchase that now in use in various cities. A ten thousand dollar appropriation is authorized for improved mechanical devices in the Chicago postoffice, which is now overcrowded.

Steel cars for railway mail service which were required by the House bill, is to be in universal use by American railroads by 1917, are also required by the Senate bill. The House bill required the railroads to replace 20 per cent of its wooden mail cars every year; while the Senate bill would give the roads one year of grace and then require them to replace 25 per cent of their cars each year for four years.

DETROIT, Mich., Preparations have been completed for the seventh annual tournament of the Michigan State Golf Association which will be opened on the links of the Detroit Club tomorrow and continued until the end of the week. The tournament is to decide the Michigan amateur championship.

Labor Leaders Sentenced

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Jonh Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, today was sentenced in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to nine months imprisonment for contempt of court, growing out of the Buck Store and Range Company case.

An appeal was taken and $4,000 bail furnished to abide by the decision of the upper court.

FIRE DESTROYS GUILFORD PLANT

Explosion of Night-watchman's Lantern Starts it

MUCH FINISHED PRODUCT LOST

Flames Try to Gain Admittance to Other Buildings Near by, Among Them Was the Presbyterian Church and Cottages

TROY, July 23.—Fire, the largest and most destructive that has ever occurred in this town, originated last night about midnight in the plant of the Guilford Lumber Company, completely destroying the plant and a large portion of the lumber yard. Thousands of feet of rough lumber were stacked on the yards and the sheds with finished lumber ready for shipment.

The loss cannot be stated accurately, but at a conservative estimate it will be from $25,000 to $50,000, partially covered with insurance.

The fire had its origin in the roof of the boiler room, the explosion of a lantern used by the night watchman being the cause. When the lantern exploded fire was scattered among the timbers of the building, which were covered with dry sawdust and so fast did it spread that before the watchman could give the alarm the building was in a mass of flames.

The lumber plant was located just outside the incorporate limits but was near the main business section of the town, and had it not been for the stillness of the night the damage that would have been done is inestimable. For a time little hope was had for saving the Presbyterian church which was located across the street from a corner of the Guilford plant. Several cottages were also in danger and but for a slight wind which turned the course of the flames they would have been destroyed also.

The Guilford Lumber Manufacturing company is a branch of the Greensboro firm of the same name. Its plant here was one of the largest lumber plants in this section and was one of the largest manufacturing establishments in Troy. It was located here more than 12 years ago and has been the means of giving employment to hundreds of people, bringing thousands of dollars to the town. Should the company decide not to rebuild it will be a great loss to the town and section.

Get Wise to the Latest of Bugs

Philadelphia, July 23.—Beware of the ear bug, is the latest warning of the physicians of the city hospitals at several of the city hospitals and many of the bugs have already driven patients to those institutions for treatment. Annie Rooney of No. 1532 Naudian street, is the latest victim of the new summer pest and the surgeons at the Polyclinic Hospital found the bug alive, snuggled close to ear drum, stinging the sensitive organ as it pleased and causing the child excruciating pain.

When an applicator was inserted the insect refused to budge and all attempts to dislodge him were futile. Finally Dr. Leferly, the house surgeon, though of a practical method and holding an incandescent bulb close to the girl's ear for about fifteen minutes, made it so hot for the bug that it crawled out of its own accord.

Third Party in Alabama

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT

The Benzine atmosphere permeating five points would be conclusive evidence that Greenvillians (them as can afford it, at least) are automobile mad. And if the mentioned atmosphere should not be sufficient a two or three minute stop at Five Points would route any suspicion of doubt. Around from every street they swing honk-honking along at a gait that means so much per hour in gasoline and lubricating oil.

Many funny stunts have happened since Greenville acquired the 'mobile habit. Some ride slow, some ride fast and others again faster. Any how they all ride. Perhaps the queerest thing that happened in the Greenville auto world was the presumption that an ordinary five passenger car could dispute a right of way to a N. S. freight. You should have seen the engine of the disputing benzine wagon!

Ever heard of "Bully" Anderson's got? Look up above. A staff photographer was on the job when B. A. got a glimpse of it and shivered his way out of sight. You just gotta believe the camera, even if you don't believe B. A.

CAN'T FIND BODY OF MISSING BOY

HIS BICYCLE HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED

Man With Whom Boy Was Last Seen Located in Berkley Ward, But Refuses to Make Statement.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., July 23.—About ten days ago the young son of Charles Laden, a resident of Belvedere, N. C., left home with a man who seems to have undue influence over young boys.

As the boy did not return the family became alarmed and searching parties have been sent out in various directions. The man with whom the boy left was located in Berkley Ward, Norfolk but absolutely refuses to give any information in regard to the disappearance of the boy.

A brother and several relatives arrived in this city and found the bicycle belonging to the boy at Cartwright's repair shop.

Mr. Cartwright stated that a man who seemed in great haste asked permission to leave the wheel at his shop, but failed to return for it.

As yet there is positively no clue as to the whereabouts of the boy.

Durham Police Catch Up Eloper

DURHAM, July 23.—The local police have a phone message from the mother of 14 year old Lillian Stell, saying that she was eloping with Charlie Capps, and to intercept the couple and hold the young girl until relatives arrived. The officers did not know the girl, but acting upon the description given, they soon located the couple at the union station, took the girl to police headquarters, where she was detained until the arrival of relatives. She was sent home disappointed but not disheartened, for she says she will marry Capps or break her neck. Both residents of West Durham. The opposition to the wedding was on account of the youthfulness of the girl.

FIRMAN TO HAVE A VERY DRY TIME

NO-TAX VENDERS BEHIND THE BARS

As Soon as the Firemen Arrived in Fayetteville all Doubtful Characters are Put Under Arrest

FAYETTEVILLE, July 23.—A bomb was thrown into the gala week festivities attendant on the firemen's state convention and interstate tournament this afternoon when Sheriff M. H. McGeachy on seizure warrants arrested every "no tax" dealer in the city on the charge of retailing intoxicating liquors and beer and having more of the same in their possession than allowed by the law.

Eight "no tax" saloons were raided, their owners taken before Magistrate C. P. Overby and placed under bonds ranging from $100 to $500.

Hundreds of barrels of beer were seized and is being stored in a building in market square which was cleared for that purpose about a week ago. It is estimated that 500 or 600 barrels have been seized.

The warrants were signed by E. J. Kennedy who is represented by Shaw and McLean and Newton, Herring and Oates as counsel.

Miss Aycock Recovering From Accident

RALEIGH, July 23.—Miss Mary Aycock, who was injured by being thrown from a surry late Monday, was reported as much improved today and there is no longer danger of her condition. She received only bruises, it is thought. The young woman was in a surry driven by Dr. Albert Anderson with Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. C. B. Aycock, when the horse became frightened at a street car or automobile and veered completely in front of the car, all occupants being thrown to the ground.

Delegates to the national convention at Chicago August 5 were selected and resolutions strongly indorsing the stand of Colonel Roosevelt were adopted.

TO GET MEN "HIGHER UP"

Two Police Inspectors Mentioned in Case

GANG LEADER LODGED IN JAIL

District Attorney Whitman Placed in Charge of Case and Police Department Pledges Support. More Arrest Being Made

NEW YORK, July 23.—The gunmen wanted for the killing of Gambler Herman Rosenthal are beginning to fall into the nets.

Harry Vallon, one of the five notorious gangsters who were in the murder car the night Rosenthal was shot, surrendered himself to the police this morning and within ten days Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty expects to round up the whole gang of gun carriers.

With the men who actually did the shooting in the tolls the main work of District Attorney Whitman and Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty will commence, that of trying to learn the identity of the conspirators who so greatly desired that Rosenthal be done away with before he could make further revelations of the relations between the police and gamblers.

Several of New York's prominent citizens have offered to pay for a private investigation into the question of whether police partnership with gamblers led to the slaying of Rosenthal.

Commissioner Dougherty remarked significantly to District Attorney Whitman that "I guess we agree as to who is back of this killing." But the public prosecutor does not feel that Commissioner Dougherty can swing the investigation into the killing alone, as he is of the belief that the police department will give no real aid.

The surrender of Vallon may be followed by the voluntary appearance of the other gangster known to have been in the murder car the night of the killing.

Besides Vallon there were Harry Horwitz, best known under his gang name of Gib the Blood, Dago Frank, an East Side gangster; Lefty Louie and Whitey Lewis.

Vallon has nothing of the meanness of a gangster of the meaner sort. His appearance at police headquarters dumfounded the desk sergeant and he had to convince the sergeant as to his identity before they locked him up.

Vallon drew up at headquarters in a taxicab and loungers saw a fastidious dressed, dapper, little chap stepped lightly out from the car swinging a cane from a gloved hand, mount the steps of the building.

"Kindly tell me where the detective bureau is," he asked. Then Vallon appeared before Lieutenant McNelly and gave himself up, and was locked up after that astonished officer could summon an officer.

Commissioner Dougherty prepared to give Vallon the third degree today to learn further of those who hired the gunmen to kill Rosenthal. That some of the gunmen gave some of the gunmen have fled the city is believed by detectives who add that the gangsters are probably hiding in gang holes in Chicago.

Commissioner Dougherty thinks that from some one of the gunmen he will be able to obtain a confession that will result in bringing to book those higher up. The commissioner says that nearly a score of men played parts in the plot that ended in the killing of Rosenthal in front of the Hotel Metropole and from among them he expects to find a squealer.

The first intimation has gone forth for the benefit of the East Side gangmen that those who shot down Rosenthal will be leniently treated with if those higher up can be reached as the real conspirators.

District Attorney Whitman, when told that counsel for Shapiro was ready to buy the chauffeur of the murder car turn state's evidence if he would be protected it is said.

Here is my position: I will protect every man in the case if I can get the evidence I want against policemen. Evidence I know exists. I will let Shapiro and Libby turn state's evidence if I can get the police conspirators. But I ave got to be shown first.

There are bigger men than Becker

T'WAS BULL MOOSE NOW MELTING POT

All Discontented Welcome Under Bandana Kerchief

MOOSE CHIEF VERY HOSPITABLE

Ex-Republicans and Ex-Democrats to be Given Royal Welcome Into New Party. No Need to Worry About Former Politics

NEW YORK, July 23.—In his first speech since he returned from Chicago, Colonel Roosevelt today set forth his reasons for leading in the formation of a new party.

His address was delivered at a meeting of the New York State county chairmen of the national progressive party. Colonel Roosevelt did not intend to speak, he declared, but the chairmen would not be denied.

Colonel Roosevelt said: No man knows better than I that enthusiasm and high principles cannot be effective without organization and work. A great responsibility rests upon you men here, who are undertaking the organization of a new party which is to stand four squared to democracy, which is to be literally the party of the people.

It will fight on live issues and not dead ones. It will embody a protest against the corruption of both of the old party machines. It will be a party into which ex-Democrats and ex-Republicans without regard to their political past as to come in an exact equality and to have each the same in the party management.

When we get this started it will be a party and not only representing the people at election time but will represent them in party management. We are going to see to it that it is organized so that it will be impossible for any fifty three men, chosen four years before by politicians to stand superior to all the voters of a great state like California and that if that state has not shaped its laws according to a given call of fifty three private men the state shall not be disenfranchised.

My own judgment is that Messrs. Barnes, Penrose, Guggenheim and Co. made a poor swap when they took two stolen delegates from California in place of the electoral vote of California. They were not contented with that. They swapped the electoral vote of Massachusetts for the vote of two delegates. I think it was about as expensive a swap as was ever made by political managers.

North Carolina Scribes At Morehead City

ATLANTIC HOTEL, Morehead City, July 23.—Tonight the North Carolina Press Association was scheduled to hold its opening session, but a postponement of the inaugural program was announced on account of the military ball given at the Atlantic hotel by the officers of the First regiment of North Carolina National Guard.

Many Carolina editors are here for the convention and the Atlantic tonight is crowded. Don C. Seltz, business manager of the New York World, who is the guest of honor of the convention, arrived tonight on President Lamb's Norfolk Southern private car. The program tomorrow will include the usual addresses of welcome; response; reminiscences by Major Hale of the Fayetteville Observer; the address of President Farris and the address by Mr. Seltz.

In this case and I want them. What has the police department, except Dougherty done? Nothing. They aren't doing anything now. Dougherty is honest and on the level, but can he swing this thing alone?

Sam Paul, the East Side gambler, and Bridge Webber, were brought in the Supreme Court today on writs of habeas corpus sued out by their lawyers.

District Attorney Whitman resumed his investigation into the Rosenthal murder case as soon as he reached his office today. Mrs. Rosenthal will be the principal witness.

could, never to meddle with affairs that do not concern you."
"Indirectly, some of yours do. You are in love with Ryanne, as he calls himself."
"My dear, you do not usually stoop to such vulgarity. And are you certain that he has any other name?"
"If I were I should not tell you."
"Oh!"
"A man will tell the woman he loves many things he will not tell the woman he admires."
"As wise as the serpent," bantered the mother; but she looked again into the mirror to see if her color was still what it should be. "And whom does he admire?" the Mona Lisa smile hovering at the corners of her lips.
"You," evenly.
Mrs. Chedsoye thought for a moment, thought deeply and with new insight. It was no longer a child but a woman, and mayhap she had played upon the taut strings of the young heart once too often. Still, she was unafraid.
"And whom does he love?"
"Me. Shall I get you the rouge, mother?"
Still with that unchanging smile, the woman received the stab. "My daughter," as if speculatively, "you will get on. You haven't been my pupil all these years for nothing. Let us go down to dinner."
Fortune, as she silently followed, experienced a sense of disconcertion rather than of elation.

CHAPTER VI.
Moonlight and Poetry.

A ball followed dinner that night, Wednesday. The ample lounging-room filled up rapidly after coffee; officers in smart uniforms and spurs, whose principal function in times of peace is to get in everybody's way, rowel exposed ankles, and demolish lace ruffles, Egyptians and Turks and sleek Armenians in somber western frock and scarlet eastern fez or tarboosh, women of all colors (meaning, as course, as applied) and shapes and tastes, the lean and the fat, the tall and short, such as Billy Taylor is said to have kissed in all the ports, and tall-coats of as many styles as Joseph's had patches. George could distinguish his compatriots by the fit of the trousers round the instep; the Englishman had his fitted at the waist and trusted in Providence for the hang of the rest. This trifling detective work rather pleased George. The women, however, were all eyes to his eye; liberal expanses of beautiful white skin, the bare effect being modified by a string of pearls or diamonds or emeralds, and hair which might or might not have been wholly their own. He waited restlessly for the reappearance of Mrs. Chedsoye and her daughter. All was right, with the world, except that he was to sail altogether too soon. His loan had been returned, and he knew that his former suspicions had been most unworthy. Mrs. Chedsoye had never received his note.
Some one was sitting down beside him. It was Ryanne, in evening clothes, immaculate, blase, pink-cheeked. There are some men so happily framed that they can don ready-made suits without calling your attention to the fact. George saw at once that the adventurer was one of these fortunate individuals.
"Makes a rather good picture to look at; eh?" began Ryanne, rolling a flake-tobacco cigarette. "Dance?"
"No. Wish I could. You've done quick work," with admiring inspection.
"Not a flaw anywhere. How do you do it?"
"Thanks. Thanks to you, I might say. I did some tall hustling, though. Strange, how we love these funeral toggeries. We follow the dance and we follow the dead, with never a variation in color. The man who invented the modern evening clothes must have done good business during the day as chief-mourner."
"Why don't you send for your luggage?"
Ryanne caressed his chin. "My luggage is, I believe, in the hands of the enemy. It is of no great importance. I never carry anything of value, save my skin. I'm not like the villain in the melodrama; no incriminating documents, no lost wills, no directions for digging up pirates' gold."
"I suppose you'll soon be off for America?" George asked indifferently.

The Choice of a Husband is too important a matter for a woman to be handicapped by weakness, bad blood or foul breath. Avoid these pitfalls by taking Dr. King's New Life Pills. New strength, fine complexion, pure breath, cheerful spirits—things that win men—follow their use. Easy, safe, sure. 25c at all druggists.

"I suppose so. By the way, I saw you at the game today."
"No! Where were you?"
"Top row. I am going to ask a favor of you. It may sound rather odd to your ears, but I know those two ladies rather well. I kept out of the way till I could find some clothes. The favor I ask is that you will not tell them anything regarding the circumstances of our meeting. I am known to them as a globe-trotter and a collector."
"That's too bad," said George contritely. "But I have already told them."
"The devil you have!" Ryanne dropped his cigarette into the ash-tray. "If I remember rightly, you asked me to say nothing."
"I know," said George, visibly embarrassed. "I forgot."
"Well, the fat is in the fire. I dare say that I can get round it. It was risky. Women like to talk. I expect every hour to hear of some one arriving from Bagdad."
"There's no boat from that direction till next week," informed George, who was a stickler on time-tables.
"There are other ways of getting into Egypt. Know anything about racing-camels?"
"You don't believe . . . ?"
"My friend, I believe in all things that haven't been proved impossible. You've been knocking about here long enough to know something of the tenacity of the Arab and the East Indian. Given a just cause, an idol's eye or a holy carpet, and they'll follow you round the world ten times, if need be. I never worry needlessly, but I lay out before me all the points of the game. There is one man in Bagdad who will never cease to think of me. This fellow is an Arab, Mahomed-El-Gebel by name, the real article, proud and savage, into whose keeping the Holy Yhiorde was given; Mahomed-El-Gebel, the Pasha's right hand, a sheik in his own right."
"But you haven't got the rug now?"
"No, Mr. Jones, I haven't; but on the other hand, you have. So, here we are together. When he gets through with me, your turn."
George laughed. Ryanne grew thoughtful over this sign. Percival Algernon did not seem exactly worried.

"I Expect Every Hour to Hear of Some One Arriving From Bagdad."

"Aren't you a little afraid?"
"I? Why should I be?" inquired George innocently. "Certainly, whatever your Arab friend's arguments may be, moral or physical, I'm going to keep that Yhiorde."
"Was he bluffing?" Ryanne wondered. Did he really have nerve? Well, within forty-eight hours there would come a test.
"Say, do you know, I rather wish you'd been with me on that trip—that is, if you like a rough game." Ryanne said this in all sincerity.
"I have never been in a rough game, as you call it; but I've often had a strong desire to be, just to find out for myself what sort of a duffer I am."
Ryanne had met this sort of man before; the fellow who wanted to know what stuff he was made of, and was ready to risk his hide to find out. His experience had taught him to expect nothing of the man who knew just what he was going to do in a crisis.
"Did you ever know, Mr. Jones," said Ryanne, his eyes humorous, "that there is an organization in this world of ours, a company that offers a try-out to men of your kidney?"
"What's that? What do you mean?"
"What I say. There is an established concern which will, upon application for a liberal purchase of stock, arrange any kind of adventure you wish."
"What?" George drew in his legs and sat up. "What sort of a jolly is this?"
"You put your finger upon the one great obstacle. No one will believe that such a concern exists. Yet it is a fact. And why not?"

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE N. C. GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION.

The annual convention of the North Carolina Good Roads Association for 1912 is to be held in Charlotte, August 1 and 2. Perhaps no convention yet held by this association has been confronted with such possibilities of achievement as the present one. The whole State is alive to the importance of good roads, due in large measure to the educational campaign which has been carried on by this association in co-operation with the Geological and Economic survey, for the past twelve years. The widespread interest in improved road conditions is evidenced by the fact that county good roads associations have been organized in about 60 counties in the state; that many counties have issued bonds or levied taxes to build good roads; that others are now waging campaigns for bond issues, and that even in the unprogressive counties of the state, there are good roads advocates who are willing to contribute their time and money toward inaugurating this progressive step within their county.

Many questions will be discussed at this convention, and it is believed that through such an interchange of ideas from citizens representing every section of the state, from the mountains of the west to the Coastal Plain region of the east, that the outcome will insure to the benefit of the entire state.

Among the questions that will be taken up for general discussion are:

- (1.) Sand-Clay Roads, their Construction and Maintenance. Because of the possibility of constructing this type of road over a large area of the state and the cheapness of such a road as compared with the construction of the macadam, and also because of the comparatively low cost of maintenance of such a type of road, the discussion of this question will be of considerable importance to the delegates, and especially to those interested in actual road construction.
(2.) State Aid in the Form of Engineering Assistance. This is a form of legislation which has for a number of years been advocated by this association, in cooperation with the N. C. Geological and Economic Survey. It is believed that a great deal of

Editorial of Human Interest

By Arthur Brisbane

PARENTS HAVE NOT THE RIGHT TO DECIDE ON TREATMENT FOR THEIR CHILDREN

They can decide as they please on the child's religion, not on the care of the Child's body.

Part I

The Hearst newspapers have advocated and do advocate the establishment of a public department of health under the management of the national government.

The government and the people of the United States, spending millions to tell farmers how to care for young pigs, horses, chickens and geese, should spend some money telling mothers and fathers how to care for their children—and, if necessary, compelling proper care of those that need care.

This wise measure has been opposed by many that do not understand it, and by many others that have good reasons for fearing science and intelligent action.

Some of those that hate the idea of a department of health are well-meaning dreamers who amuse themselves by saying that there is no disease—until disease comes. Then they die or send for a doctor.

Others make money by exploiting the diseases, terrors and sorrows of humanity and fear the spread of knowledge.

Among those that oppose the public health department is one who writes as follows:

You speak of the great good that the government does through the departments that give to the farmers information regarding the care of their various animals, all of which is perfectly true and a great work and then of the lack of interest displayed by the same government in caring for the health of the children. But it does not seem to me that the cases are parallel, because in the case of the animals, they, being dumb brutes, must take whatever kind of care is given to them without any choice in the matter, but when it comes to a human being he, or she, is absolutely entitled to the right to choose for himself or herself, what method of treatment he, or she, desires. Or in the case of children the parents have the right to make this choice, as we certainly are entitled to the inalienable right when it comes to the selection of our medical school as we are in selecting our religion. And should this department of health be established it would without doubt be run absolutely by physicians of the allopathic school and they would have, of course, the medical laws so framed as to make it impossible for you to employ a method of treatment that did not correspond with their views.

money could be saved to the counties of the state and the present method of wasting funds on poorly constructed roads could be obviated, by the inaugurating of such a system of state aid. During the 1911 the state spent in direct taxes and labor a sum equivalent to over $2,000,000 in the construction of only about 1,100 miles of surfaced road and the so-called maintenance of her dirt roads. It is also estimated that during that year the present mileage of bad roads cost the citizens of the state something like $12,000,000. It is to do away with the present inadequate methods of road administration and construction that some form of state aid is being earnestly advocated, for it is believed that a state highway engineer in county work would insure to the county the proper location of its roads and expenditure of its funds regardless of petty local politics and influence.

(3.) State Security for County Bonds for Road Work. This is a subject which has been much discussed in the conventions of the North Carolina Good Roads Association, and at a meeting held in Winston-Salem a year ago, a very valuable paper on this subject was read by Mr. P. D. Gold, Jr. The idea is that the state which only pays 4 percent on its bonds, should stand security for the county, which must pay 5 percent, and thus save 1 percent, which, at the end of forty years, would return the bonds without any additional cost to the county or state.

(4.) Uniform County Road Legislation. There is a great diversity in the county road laws which we have on our statute books, and while, owing to the wide variations in the topography of the different sections of our state, it may be necessary to vary some provisions in county legislation, still there are certain underlying principles which should be embodied in the road law of each county, and it is believed, that if these principles were incorporated in each county road law, it would lead to a more uniform and efficient system of road construction through out the state. Considerable attention will be given to the discussion of this subject.

Other subjects which will be discussed are:

- (5.) Federal Aid for Good Roads.
(6.) Rural Carriers and Public Roads.
(7.) Revision of Automobile Laws in Regard to Increased Tax on Automobiles, and Providing that all the funds thus raised shall be used on the Roads.
(8.) Enforcement of Automobile

Speed Law.

(9.) Tar and Asphalt Binders.

(10.) Location and Drainage of Public Roads.

(11.) Use of State Convicts in Public Road Construction.

(12.) Use of Farm Automobile Trucks.

All of these questions will be taken up in considerable detail, and it is believed that through this general discussion of these points by men who expect to be members of the next General Assembly, and by citizens at large in the state—farmers, business men, automobilists, professional men, etc.—that conclusions will be arrived at which will make for the great advancement of this cause in North Carolina.

BRAINS

THEIR brain is a neat mechanical contrivance with which people absorb misinformation. With most people it is located in the head where it keeps up a loud buzzing and prevents the owner from hearing any thing but his own voice. The brain is composed of small cells which secrete currents of air and undigested opinions, forming a pleasing medley which are ejected into a conversation at a high rate of speed. After a plain, crude brain has been run through the High school and a college curriculum, it becomes so muscular that it can tackle the dead languages without a can opener. Some brains are geared higher than others and do not need to be primed with the comic supplement or lubricated with 49 cent fiction. The largest brain ever produced in this country was the one worn by the late Dan'l Webster, who always had to sit for his hats. Whenever Dan'l wanted to use his brains for any purpose he would take off his hat and allow his thoughts to flow in a northwesterly direction in the form of a sixteen-hour discourse upon that sacred instrument, the constitution. The brain of T. Roosevelt is not as large as Dan'l Webster's, but it is more porous and exudes some of the shortest and most absurd words in the English language. The college brain is an expensive variety which is sharpened to a high pitch of culture by coming in contact with the home plate and the 100 yard dash, after which it is turned loose on the business world at $5,000 per year. The legal brain is one which will guarantee to acquit anybody who has not confessed in the presence of a notary public and is a very profitable style to cultivate. So many people are cultivating the legal headpiece that convictions are becoming fewer and farther between than strawberries in a hotel shortcake. A person is said to have a brain storm when his mind revolves rapidly on its axis and collides violently with the established order. Some brains are like an Arizona river an inch deep and a mile wide at the mouth, but these are not effective except in political purposes.

the city with new and sufficient fire-fighting equipment, and a paid fire department. The time had arrived when the city should no longer depend upon the old system and the old equipment to do the work of fighting fires. The system has done good work in the past and the firemen have been faithful and the city owes them a debt of gratitude. The demand now however, upon the fire department are the demands of a city and it is to meet those demands with city equipment and methods. A modern paid fire department with the best fire-fighting apparatus, is to the answer to modern demands and the city is to be congratulated.—Raleigh Times.

Wilson for President

Wilson Campaign Fund
A number of newspapers have started a Wilson Marshall fund. The plan is a good one for a great deal of money is required to conduct a campaign for the presidency, and the Democratic candidates are not men of wealth. Heretofore there have been several ways of raising campaign funds. Many corporations have been willing to contribute, for a consideration, and then it has hitherto been considered a very good plan to nominate a man for the vice-presidency who could help out with respect to the finances. Both Governor Wilson and the spirit of the campaign forbid the acceptance of corporation money. Therefore the Democratic people, if they have any desire to rule, should be willing to pay a little something for the privilege.
This paper urged both the necessity and the neiment propriety, of a pre-convention campaign fund for Governor Wilson, at a period when he really needed the money, but there was no great response. After talking with Governor Wilson and some of his friends a representative of the News ascertained that the Wilson campaign was virtually abandoned in some of the states because of an utter lack of funds to open headquarters and do other necessary work. Nothing succeeds, however, like success, and now that Governor Wilson has been successful in securing the nomination and since the chances greatly favor his election, a Wilson campaign fund should go off of its own momentum.
We were of course not unmindful at the time of the difficulty that would attend to the effort to start a campaign fund for a man, the character of whose campaign was but imperfectly understood, and whose chances for securing the nomination were involved in doubt.

.... In The Cool of the Evening....
In the cool of the evening, when the low sweet whispers waken,
When the laborers turn them homeward, and the weary have their will,
When the censers of the roses o'er the forest aisles are shaken,
It is but the wind that cometh o'er the far green hill?

For they say 'tis but the summer winds that wander through the heather,
Rustle all the meadow grass and bend the dewy fern;
They say 'tis but the winds that bow the reeds in prayer together,
And fill the shaken pools with fire along the shadowy burn.

In the beauty of the twilight, in the garden that He loveth,
They have veiled His lovely vesture with the darkness of a name!
Through His garden, through His garden, it is but the wind that moveth,
No more! But oh, the miracle, the miracle is the same.

In the cool of the evening, when the sky is an old story,
Slowly dying, but remembered, aye, and love with passion still.
Hush! . . . the fringes of His garment in the fading golden glory,
Softly rustling as He cometh o'er the far green hill.

—COME—

Street Car Men Strike in Boston

BOSTON, July 23.—Having gained what they look upon as a technical victory before the state board of conciliation and arbitration the striking trolley men of the Boston-Elevated Railway Company today presented their alleged grievances to the grand jury at the invitation of District Attorney Joseph C. P. Pelletier.

The district attorney also summoned before the grand jury the president of the Elevated Company, General William A. Bancroft and two of the directors, James M. Prendergast and James L. Richards.

The evidence was sought in connection with the institution of charges of coercion and perjury made against some of the road's division superintendents.

In its report issued last night the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration held that the strikers were justified in believing that the discharge of more than 200 of their fellows was due to the activity of the men in connection with the forming of a union. The division superintendents in their testimony before the board denied that the charges were because of union activity.

Mr. Pelletier says that the grand jury hearing was held under a statute which prohibits the coering of any employe from joining a labor union. The investigation is expected to continue for several days.

Our Citizens Demand

Fully Complied With.—A Greenville Resident Furnished It.

There are a few items which appear in this paper more important to Greenville people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Greenville and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. E. G. Worthington, Washington street, Greenville, N. C., says: "I have been so greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills that I am glad to recommend them. My back ached nearly all the time and I could not rest well. The kidney secretions caused me annoyance and it was plain to see that I was suffering from kidney trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got from the John L. Wooden Drug Company, relieved my aches and pains and improved my condition greatly. I cannot praise this remedy too strongly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Five members of the Appleton W-I. League team are batting for .300 or better.

The Boston Red Sox have won eight of the twelve games played with the Tigers.

Bob Bescher of the Cincinnati Reds is the leading run-getter and base-stealer in the National League.

The Mountain States League has disbanded. The blow-up of the Huntington team put the organization on the rocks.

The White Sox scouts have gathered quite a bunch of minor leaguers for Jimmy Callahan to try out this fall.

The Salem team, which has been leading the O & P League, was recently transferred to Fairmount, in West Virginia.

After winning 16 straight games the New York Giants lost seven of the first nine games played on their western trip.

The great work of the Chicago Cubs of late has caused the New York fans to sit up and rubber in the direction of the stock yards.

Charlie Dooln believes that his team will go higher in the National League race and has picked out second place for the Quakers.

Manager Griffin of the Richmond team, and Manager Busch, of the Petersburg team, are tied for the batting honors in the Virginia League.

After Aug. 20 the number of players carried by teams in the National League can be increased from 25 to 35.

It took Ray Collins a couple of months to get into condition, but since hitting his stride he has done wonderful work for the Boston Red Sox.

Pitching must be the middle name of the Brown family. The Saint Louis Browns, the Chicago Cubs, the Boston Braves and the Athletics all have a pitcher named Brown.

Larry LeJune of the Grand Rapids team, has made sixteen home runs so far this season. He was tried out by Brooklyn last season and sent back to the Central League.

The chances are a number of major league clubs would like to have Harry Krause now that the former Philadelphia star is pitching championship ball for Toledo.

Manager Charlie Carr, of the Kansas City team, and Claude Rossman, of the Minneapolis Millers, are running neck and neck for the batting hours in the American Association.

The Sherman club in the Texas and Oklahoma league has signed a big Indian pitcher by the name of Tincup, who is said to be a wonderful pitcher. Tincup and pitcher is a soothing combination.

Nearly a quarter of a century ago Jesse Burkett was one of the leading batters of the National League, and today the same Jesse is the leading swatsmith of his Worcester team.

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN'S BIGGEST EXPLOIT

BLOT from memory eight years of wonderful feilding, erase from the records the most remarkable batting feats recorded in the National league in the last decade, expunge from the pages of baseball history many marvelous plays that made the name of Hans Wagner a household word. Leave one day, Oct. 11, 1909, to be exact, and that would be sufficient to give the Flying Dutchman a fame that would never fade from the annals of America's leading pastime.

That was the red letter day of a remarkable career on the diamond. It was the biggest day in a life brimfull of action and thrilling exploits. It was the day the great Honus won a game almost single-handed, saved a pennant for Pittsburgh in the closest world's series ever played and gave the baseball world the greatest exhibition of batting, feilding and base running ever seen in a game for the highest honors.

Few baseball series have stirred fandom to higher pitches of enthusiasm or cast loyal rooters down to deeper depths of gloom than the classic of 1909. Detroit had won the pennant in the American league in a canter and Pittsburgh has taken the flag in the National with little opposition. The clubs seemed the class of the big leagues without a single cloud to darken their titles.

In the post-season struggle the league champions seemed about evenly matched. Pittsburgh, with Babe Adams on the slab, won the opening game. Detroit, with Wild Bill Donovan at his best, was unconquerable in the second contest, Howard Camnitz, the pirate pitcher, being driven to cover under a constant rain of blows that evaded the honora.

With the series a tie, the teams rattled into Detroit for the third game. Had Jennings been able to coach his men to victory that fatal day, Detroit would have won the world's pennant.

But in the path of the jungleband loomed Wagner, arch executioner of Jennings' hopes. The Dutchman was everywhere in that game. Every move of this great player brought a thrill to the Pittsburgh fans they will never forget. He raced about the infield, gathered in six sizzling ground balls from the bats of Cobb, Crawford and their companions without an error, stole four bases and drove out four hits in five trips to the plate.

Coming to bat for the fifth time in the ninth inning Wagner smashed the ball to the outfield for his fourth hit and stole his fourth base, completing a wonderful performance, winning a game almost unaided, saving a world's pennant and giving Pittsburgh its lone flag in a post-season clash for the game's most coveted trophy.
