GOOD ROADS ARE MOST IMPORTANT

Meeting Yesterday Should be Beneficial

PROF. STACY ON GOOD ROADS

Nothing in Good Roads is Care is Not Bestowed Upon Them After Their Construction. Benefits to be Derived

The afternoon meeting of farmers Thursday, proved of as much interest as the forenoon session, and had a larger attendance, as many farmers had by that time got away from the tobacco sales. Mr. J. A. Evans, United States department of agriculture assistant in charge of farmers co-operative demonstration work, made a most interesting talk on this work. He said that every farmer ought to be rich and could be rich if he would farm intelligently and use improved methods. There was never a time in the history of the world when farming offered better opportunities and held so many prizes as now, but these prizes come to the man who studies his business and knows it from the soil up. The same duty devoted to farming that is necessary to equip one for any other profession will bring far greater profit, for nothing else pays such good returns as intelligent farming. Take a hundred boys and educate half of them for farmers and half for other professions. Start them out in this world and take stock ten years later, and you will find that the fifty farmers can buy the others ten times over. It pays to know your business and to know how to farm.

At this point Senator R. R. Cotten, president of the county good roads association, took charge of the meeting. Prof. M. H. Stacy, of the chair of civil engineering of the University of North Carolina, spoke on the subject of good roads. He said when a man comes to speak to farmers they usually wanted to know what he had to sell, so he would tell them in the outset that was not his mission, as he was not selling anything. He said he came to discuss in a general way a system of county public highways, and hoped that those wanting better roads would get their heads together and devise means to get them. Better roads can be had in Pitt county without one cent of additional expense over what they are now paying. You pay a road tax and you pay a free labor tax, that is, have to give so many days a year to road work. But there is one other tax that costs more than both of these combined, and you ought to put that tax on the roads instead of on your horses. You measure horsepower by the amount of work a horse can do so many hours a day. The cost is many times more to carry a load over mud road than over a hard surfaced road, and the mud tax is greater than the direct roads.

He then went into a discussion of different kinds of roads and how to construct them. The building of macadam roads are being discontinued because of their expense and the sand clay road is so much cheaper, hence he wanted to talk about this class of road. Where the right kind of sand and the right kind of clay are properly combined it makes an ideal hard surfaced road. For this there should be clean, coarse sand and sticky, plastic clay. The clay binds the sand and holds it firmly together giving a firm body.

Prepare the road bed and put on the layers of sand and clay, thoroughly mix them by harrowing or plowing, leave it there until the next rain, and right then you will see the longest mud hole in the county, and hear almost everybody abusing it.

But wait! It is going through a puddling process and out of this will come the hard surface. Of course the length of time necessary for this depends upon the proportion of clay and sand and if too small a quantity of either has been used a little more may be necessary.

When sand and clay are near the work these sand clay roads can be built at a minimum cost of $250 per mile, the cost increasing in proportion to the quality of the material.

ACCUSING FINGER POINTS TO BECKER

"Bald" Roses' Confession Most Complete

BRAND THE LATE LIEUTENANT

Prisoners are in Constant Receipt of Threats From Men "Higher Up" Who Would Seal Their Mouths

NEW YORK, August 15.—After having been in session today for more than two hours, the grand jury which has been considering the murder of Herman Rosenthal, notified District Attorney Whitman that they did not feel warranted in hanging up further indictments charging murder in the first degree until they had heard more evidence.

vidence, it was expected, will come from Sam Schepps, now on his way from Hot Springs.

New York, Aug. 15.—In the confession of Jack Rose, as prepared by the gambler for District Attorney Whitman and printed this morning with Rose's own spelling and punctuation Rose declares that Becker had decided to kill Rosenthal himself if others had not done the work. After the murder Rose says he met Becker by appointment near the scene of the killing. In his written confession Rose says:

"I opened the conversation by saying My God, Charlie, this is horrible. There will be — to pay. He said what is the matter, don't worry, leave all that to me. I asked hay you seen him and he said yes I saw the squealer—I would like to take my knife out and cut a piece of his tongue out and hang it on the — building as a warning to possible squealers. He said, well I was saved the trouble doing it myself, he said, I became tired waiting for you fellows to get the gang to do it so decided tonight to do it myself.

"I asked him how, well he said when he left Jack Sullivan instructed Otto to drive by Metropole and to slow down without stopping I intended if Rosenthal was there to take out my gun blaze away at him and then tell Otto to keep going but he wasn't there. I said well what about these fellows he said I will take good care of everybody concerned to Webber he said see that these fellows get enough money to get out of town say about a thousand dollars between them which Webber said he would which makes fifteen hundred from Webber".

Threatened with death if they revealed information regarding the 3 men higher up in the gambling graft scandal Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon, two of the associates of Jack Rose, may prove to be recalcitrant witnesses. The prisoners are confronted on the other hand by possible indictments charging them with the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, unless they tell the whole truth. The two prisoners tried to determine today what course to pursue.

Webber and Vallon have been reached and told, according to Vallon's counsel, to throw Lieutenant Becker to the wolves, but to shield the names of the three men now regarded by the state's attorney as directors of the graft system.

District Attorney Whitman is letting the two prisoners decide themselves what altitude they will take. Their indictments depend largely upon the testimony they give. Rose insists that he will go through the case to the end and that pressure or threats will not swerve him from telling the secrets of the gambling and police system.

Charles Ross is Again Given "Time"

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 15.—Gov. Kitchin today reprieved for the third time the death sentence upon John Ross, convicted of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon, in Cleveland county. Ross's sentence probably will be commuted to life imprisonment.

Women Figured Largely In The Progressive Convention

Photos by American Press Association.

AMONG the many features which made the National Progressive convention unlike any other political gathering was the large share taken in the proceedings by women. The Republican and Democratic conventions had women delegates, but not so many, and in the unofficial participation of women the second Chicago convention outdid the first. Miss Jane Addams, who is easily first among American women social workers, seconded the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt, and to the influence of the women delegates and spectators was probably due much of the almost religious enthusiasm which characterized the gathering. The lower of the two illustrations shows Colonel Roosevelt acknowledging the greeting of his partisans as he was driven in an automobile to his Chicago hotel; the other shows (in the order named, from left to right) Mrs. Charles D. Blaney, California delegate; Mrs. H. M. Wilmarth of Illinois and Miss Addams.

President Taft Returns Seven Year Bill With a Veto Message

Will Not Abolish the Commerce Court

CONGRESSMEN'S SALARY HELD

By His Latest Veto Taft Has Held His Own Salary. President's Message Strong and in Condemning Measures

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Taft today returned to the House with a veto message the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill because of its amendments to abolish the Commerce Court and limit the tenure of office of civil service employes to seven years.

The cabinet read and approved the President's message early today.

The president's veto is sure to extend this session of congress.

Some members of the House believe the bill can be passed over his disapproval as were the wool and steel tariff bills. None of the leaders, however, think that would be possible in the Senate.

One effect of Mr. Taft's veto of the bill today is to hold up his own pay, that of every member of congress, every federal judge and every employe of the United States courts. Some leaders have proposed a plan of passing a resolution to extend all last years appropriations to December and adjourn congress without passing the bill.

Mr. Taft's message was strong in its condemnation of the way congress had attached special legislation to annual appropriation bills. The president wrote that he approved any system of promoting efficiency in the civil service and favored a civil pension system but he could not approve any legislation to turn out of office employes who had given their best years to the government.

The president defended the commerce court vigorously and wrote that opposition to it came from those that

CARD FROM MR. MOORE
Had Rather be Defeated Than Secure Votes with Liquor

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 16.
Editor Reflector: I was glad to see in yesterday's paper the piece from Mr. A. G. Cox. He wrote my feelings exactly in regard to using whiskey in an election. I am glad he wrote it and hope the people of Pitt county will see it and abide by it. I have been asked for money to buy whiskey to influence my election, but have positively refused to furnish any money for that purpose and hope the various other candidates will do the same. I want to see a sober, fair and honest election.

For me, I had rather go down in defeat than to know that I had done something to deprive men of their reasons to gain their votes.
Very respectfully,
T. R. MOORE.

Endorsement for Mr. Bell

A report is now being circulated that Brascoe Bell has employed men in various townships to handle whiskey at the primary Saturday for the purpose of gaining votes. This report, in our minds, is untrue and is being circulated for the purpose of damaging Mr. Bell at the primary. We know Mr. Bell put up an honest and fair fight four years ago and did not use any whiskey in the primary. We endorse Brascoe Bell as a man with a high character with the ability to fill the office he is aspiring.

SHOOTING SCRAPE IS BEING AIRD

Vanceboro Postmaster Bound Over to Court

NEW BERN, Aug. 15.—The sensational shooting of Ben R. Warren by Postmaster J. F. Edwards, which occurred at Vanceboro several days ago, was aired yesterday when the two principals in the affair were given a preliminary hearing before Mayor T. S. Jackson at that place. The warrant charged the defendant with an affray with deadly weapons and later hearing the evidence Major Jackson bound them over to the net term of Craven county court. Edwards being required to furnish bond for his appearance in the sum of $500 and Warren being required to put a bond of $100 for his appearance. This affair has doubtless caused more excitement in that section than anything which has occurred there in many years. Both the principals in the near tragedy are prominent men in that section and each has a host of friends. For some time there has been blood between them and this finally culminated in the shooting. At first it was thought that Mr. Warren's injuries might prove fatal, but he is rapidly recovering.

Could Not Stay Away All the Time

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 15.—Tom Jacobs and Alton Frederick, trusted inmates of the county jail, broke out, went to the coal chute section, got on a big spree and returned to the jail in time for breakfast. No one knew that the men had broken jail till they showed up at the station and asked that they be locked up again, and even then one of the police officers who did not know them tried to run them out of the jail yard, thinking they were loafers; and were up to some mischief. They told him that they wanted to be locked up, but the officers did not believe them and did drive them out of the jail yard. Then they started to the home of the jailer, and were recognized by some of the officers before they had gone a block.

Quarrel in Which Father Was Mixed Up

"FIRED WITHOUT AIMING"

As a Result of the Affray Two Persons are Dead and Two Critically Wounded in the Hospital. Never Used Gun Before

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 15.—The condition of Mike Perna and Chas. Perna, 18 and 20 years old respectively, who were shot last night by ten year old Rudolph DeWaters when Nicholas Battigliere and his wife Mariana Battigliere met death in front of their home on Third street, Lafayette Park Annex as a result of a family row was said to be improved today and they will recover. Dr. Israel Brown, who is attending the patients at the St. Vincents Hospital where they were carried immediately after the shooting, said today that Mike was shot through the groin, while Charles' wound was in the leg and thigh. He said he feared no serious results.

The bodies of Nicholas Battigliere and his wife, Marina, are at the funeral apartments of H. D. Oliver, where they were carried early this morning to be prepared for burial. It is not known when the funerals will occur. The double inquest will be held by Coroner Carmine of Norfolk county, next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, after which a time will be set for the preliminary hearing of the charge against Rudolph DeWaters. Judge Thomas H. Wilcox has been retained to defend the youthful prisoner.

Henry DeWaters, father of Rudolph DeWaters, in whose defense, it is claimed, his son used the 32 calibre, Iver-Johnson revolver, with such deadly effect, was shot twice in the left arm by one of the Perna boys. These wounds were not serious though and he was out early this morning arranging for bail for his son and securing an attorney to represent him when the cases come to trial.

The ten year old Rudolph Dewaters had never fired a pistol before in his life, except last Christmas, when he says he fired five or six blank cartridges.

"You know—shots without lead in 'em," as Rudolph put it.

"I just fired into the bunch, without aiming at anybody," said the hand-aiming at anybody, in telling of the squared jawed boy in telling of the tragedy. The old man Battigliere, fired at papa and then dropped his gun and started beating papa. Mike Perna picked up the gun and fired the shot through papa's shoulder. I ran into the house for our gun and when I got back they were all on top of papa in the street. I was that close to 'm—indicating a distance of five or six feet—and I knew I would not hit papa. I thought they were killing him.

Rudolph is a well made, athletic looking boy with dark eyes and intelligent face. When he talked to reporters at the county jail this morning he was not a bit nervous or frightened or seemingly regretful. He wore knee trousers, white waist and a brown cloth hat, which he tilted back as he talked.

Asked what the trouble started about, he said:

"There are some fig trees that belong to Mr. Phillips, the man papa bought his lots from. Mr. Phillips lives in Norfolk and the figs are free to the children of the neighborhood. The Pernas didn't want my little brothers to get any. Well, my two little brothers were at the fig bushes yesterday and the Pernas didn't bother them cause it was day time, but when dark came they came and caught my brother Edward, 13 years old and two of my smaller brothers and gave them a beating. They were about to beat my mother with the baby in her arms, but she fainted and they left her alone.

"Papa came home before the trouble quieted down and he was asking us what was the matter when the two Battiglieres and the two Pernas came after us."

At the home of the DeWaters family this morning Mrs. DeWaters, the mother of a five days old baby and six children discussed the shooting

DOES HEALTH WORK PAY?

These are days of great health movements. We hear lots about war against the White Plague, crusades against this disease and campaigns against that disease. But of what real value is all this commotion? Is anybody being benefitted? Is the average life being lengthened? Just how many lives are being saved annually in our own state, in our own country? And after all, is it all worth while? There is just one way to settle such questions and that is by means of vital statistics. When North Carolina registers all her births and deaths we will be able to determine the severity or fatality of each particular disease in every county, town and community. Then the public will have some definite check on the work of the state board of health, as well as every other health officer in the state. Then if the state board of health does not pay dividends in lives saved, why a state board of health? Then if health officer B can prevent more deaths than health officer A according to the statistics, B may expect to hold his job and perhaps get his salary raised. Nothing definite therefore, can be accomplished in health work until we get something to work from—a basis to start from—and that basis is state wide vital statistics.

A FAITHFUL CONGRESSMAN

Congressman John H. Small has again shown his interest in the welfare of the people of Pitt county. In fact he thinks nothing is too good for the people if his district and he is always looking out for things to benefit them. It was through his efforts that the meeting was held here Thursday and the able speakers secured to make addresses on agricultural topics and good roads. Every farmer who heard these addresses went home benefitted. One Pitt countyman speaking to us about Congressman Small's interest in his people, said he had occasion to visit an adjoining district last week and a citizen over there remarked to him, "I wish we had a congressman like yours in the first district. Ours is purely an agricultural district, but we rarely ever have anything in our district, while you people in the first are getting good things frequently." It pays to have a good congressman and keep him. The first district is fortunate in having that kind.

SICK BABIES

The first thing to do when the baby gets sick is to stop feeding it. Probably the milk is bad, anyhow. But whether it be good or bad, it will disagree with a sick baby. In place of milk the baby should take clean water from a clean bottle or a clean cup. If the trouble keeps up, there are milk substitutes which can be given until it is safe to give milk again. The physician or nurse will demonstrate how these are made.

The next step, after stopping the food is to empty the child's intestines of all fermenting, decomposing food. The parent is justified in going as far in this line as the use of oil by the mouth and of simple enemata by injection. If relief does not come when these have acted, the mother is not justified in going further. She should get help from a physician or nurse. Caring for a sick baby is so largely doing and showing, as contrasted with telling, a nurse is needed more than would usually be the case.

HEALTH OR TUBERCULOSIS?

Tuberculosis is largely a personal matter. You can let your physical vitality drop to such a low ebb that the wonder is that many more of us do not get the disease, or we can obey the laws of health and build up such a vigorous constitution, with enormous reserve energy, that is takes Father Time himself to bring us down. Why tuberculosis? When a man once gets physically down and out and knows what it means to merely drag around from morning till night, he can not enjoy life. He can not do his work well and he is a burden to himself, his family, and associates. He would be wise to take a little time off and attend to himself to lead the simple life, cut out that which is bringing him down, and to get back his health and vitality and be a man again, rather than fill an early consumptive's grave.

The Reflector does not hesitate to say that the best talk we ever heard on the question of good roads was that made here Thursday afternoon by Prof. Stacy of the state university. He was heard with much interest and the frequent applause showed that what he said met the approval of the audience. He gave the people of Pitt county something to think about, and if his speech does not awaken an interest that will bring good results we shall be much surprised.

As a rule, lying on the side is the best position for sleeping. Which side is a matter of indifference, unless a meal has been taken within two or three hours, in which case the right side is preferable.

After Thursday evening's shower the weather is not so warm, and after tomorrow's primary possibly local politics will cool down somewhat.

All the medicines in creation are not worth a farthing to a man who is constantly and habitually violating the laws of his own nature.

One may purify the blood more in a single day by breathing pure air than by taking sassafras or any other blood purifier a year.

New Yorkers got up the nerve to hold a mass meeting and denounce the police force. There is yet hope of reform in Gotham.

Do you want to hold your job? Well, look after your health. When your health is gone your job is gone.

President Taft is learning that congress is bigger than his veto.

Got your back yard cleaned? Looks better, don't it?

Congratulations to:

James Wilson, secretary of agriculture of the United States, 77 years old today.

Charles S. Mellen, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, 61 years old today.

Charles D. Carter, representative in Congress of the fourth Oklahoma district, 44 years old today.

Press Comment

The reduction of approximately 2,500,000 acres in the cotton area, as given out in the government reports, is a gratifying demonstration that cotton farmers can and will control the output, if they are properly advised and thoroughly organized. The instant effects upon prices, which were already well sustained, is convincing evidence of the wisdom of the reduction. With a condition of about 80 per cent, it will be phenomenal if the yield per acre this year equals that of last year. With average seasons from now until October the yield will not exceed 13,000,000 bales; with ideal seasons it cannot exceed 15,000,000. A 15,000,000-bale crop judiciously marketed will bring at least 12 cents; a 13,000,000-bale crop ought to bring 15 cents. It seems reasonably assured, therefore, that the cotton crop this year will bring profitable prices.—Charlotte Chronicle.

D. J. Whicahrd of the Greenville Reflector, is fifty years old and has seen thirty-five years in harness. Years of effective newspaper service that has done great good to his community should be a matter of great gratification to him when he now looks back on years well spent and telling work for "Our Greenville, Yours if you come."—Rocky Mount Telegram.

The bloom that now envelops Oyster Bay is due to the refusal of good and true Roosevelt men in various States to sacrifice the local offices to the cause. They are willing to steal regular Republican electors and nothing would please them better than to get all the Taft votes for their State, district and county tickets, but in fighting for the Lord they have no idea of surrendering anything to anybody. The "Middle of the road" march of the Michigan Bull moose men may be magnificent but it is not war as the average progressive elsewhere defines it. He is for subtler strategy. Selfishness of this kind is naturally very shocking to the Connel. He has had every honor and emolument that politics has to bestow but he is perfectly willing to strip his followers of all their possessions in that line of all few more for himself. It is not the obstinacy of his friends that grieves him. It is their greed and their ingratitude.—New York World.

Working under the slogan: "We Will Win With Wilson," the Columbia (S. C.) State has already raised a fund of $631.50, of which that paper contributed $500, perhaps the largest single contribution so far made in the South. Let the good work go on. This is the people's fight and the people must get into the fray.—Rocky Mount Telegram.

An Incident Recalled.

At the Democratic State convention in Greensboro, in 1896 of 1898, a gentleman named Ward was boda-ciously-hustled off the rostrum by Ed Keesler, of Charlotte, and Baldy Boyden, of Salisbury. It was along about 1 o'clock at night and he had been making a rampant speech in which he was denouncing Grover Cleveland as an arch traitor, which was more than the convention could stand. The Observer "just happens" to remember the incident, and it wonders if the Mr. Ward of the Greensboro convention, and the Mr. Ward who is now stumping in the State sawing the air against Senator Simmons, is one and the same man, and if so is he as good a Democrat now as he was then?—Charlotte Observer.

ALSTON GRIMES.

This is My Birthday

Sir Joseph Pope

Sir Joseph Pope, Under Secretary for External Affairs of Canada, was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I., August 16, 1854. His education was received at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown. After being engaged in the banking business for eight years he entered the Civil Service of Canada in 1878. For ten years he was private secretary to Sir John Macdonald and in later years wrote a biography of that statesman. He was appointed Under Secretary of State in 1898 and when the State Department was divided some years later and a Department of External Affairs was created he became Under Secretary of the new department. Sir Joseph was attached to the staff of the British agent on the Behring-Sea arbitration at Paris in 1893. Later he was one of the representatives of the Canadian Government at the proceedings of the Joint High Commission which met in Quebec and Washington in 1898-90 and was associate secretary to the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal in 1903.

THE TWO GREAT THINGS TO DO.

There are two great things to do. One is to set up the rule of justice and of right in such matters as the tariff, the regulation of the trusts and the prevention of monopoly the adaptation of our banking and currency laws to the varied uses to which our people must put them, the treatment of those who do the daily labor in our factories and mines and throughout all our great industrial and commercial undertakings and the political life of the people of the Philippines, for whom we hold governmental power in trust, for their service not our own. The other, the additional duty is the great task of protecting our people and our resources and of keeping open to the whole people the doors of opportunity through which they must, generation by generation, pass if they are to make conquest of their fortunes in health, in freedom, in peace and in contentment. In the performance of this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation and of development, questions of forests and water powers and mines and waterways, of the building of an adequate merchant marine and the opening of every highway and facility and the setting up of every safeguard needed by a great industrious, expanding nation.—From Woodrow Wilson's Speech Accepting the Democratic Nomination.

LOUIS D. BRANDEIS, BOSTON:

"Governor Wilson's speech of acceptance is the utterance of a twentieth century statesman; with keen perception he recognizes the evils from which the people are suffering and the dangers which threaten our welfare; with broad vision he points the way by which those evils may be removed and the dangers averted; he proves his understanding alike of business and of social needs and that he is a Democrat in fact, as well as in name, and his courage is undoubted. Progressive Americans have in him a worthy leader."

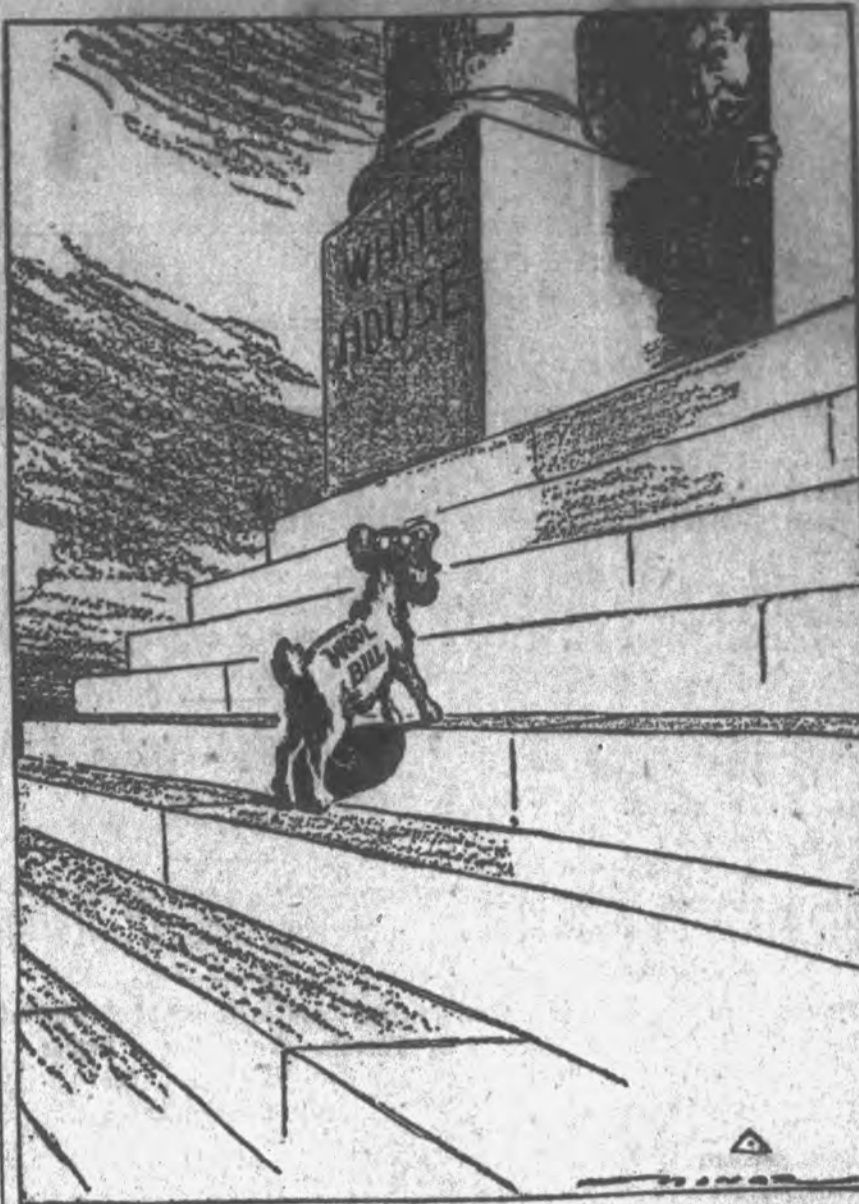

Kate Edwards May Be Freed

READING, Pa., Aug. 16.—Freedom is believed to be in sight for Mrs. Kate Edwards, the most remarkable woman prisoner in the United States. For eleven years the woman has been confined in the Berks county jail under sentence of death. Once a gallows was erected where she could see it from her window. Then came a reprieve, which reached the jail while a minister was administering the last rites to the condemned woman. Since that time three governors of Pennsylvania have declined to sign the death warrant and now her case is to be brought before the board of pardons with the probable result, it is believed, that she will be given her freedom.

Mrs. Edwards and a negro named Gleason were arrested for the murder of the woman's husband. The negro was a paramour of the woman and the husband declared he would kill her. In fear of her life, Mrs. Edwards killed her husband one night and threw his body into a well. On a second trial Gleason was acquitted, but the woman was convicted and sentenced to be hanged.

Mrs. Edwards came to prison viciously to the last degree, a drunkard, unkempt, desperate and untractable. She was like a wild beast. Good women and patient ministers worked years to perform her. Today the woman possesses a very fair education is an adept at needle work, extremely neat in her personal appearance and deeply religious in her nature.

Editorial of Human Interest

Don't Waste Time.

Those three words should be in the mind of every man every day. They should be repeated over in every pulpit, in every newspaper, in every public school, in every family group. Only one thing we have—time. In time we live and do our work. And time we waste like spendthrifts forgetting its value and our small supply. Often we have talked to our readers about waste of time. Often in future we shall talk about it. We wish that it might be possible to find words that would put into the mind of every young man and old man, into the thought of every woman and child, the lesson that is taught in these three words. Waste time is a great desert, its presiding genius is a silent, cold, heartless sphinx of death. On the sand of that desert of waste and time are scattered the bones of failures and the footsteps that led nowhere.

Don't waste your time. Don't waste it in idleness; don't waste it in regretting the time already wasted; don't waste it in dissipation; don't waste it in resolutions a thousand times repeated never to be carried out.

Don't waste your time. USE IT. Sleep and work, rest and think.

Save part of the time of yesterday by saving part of the money earned yesterday. Money earned in days past is the TIME of days past.

Save the time of to-morrow by planning to use it carefully, thoroughly and systematically.

The best of us have already wasted time enough for the creation of a dozen reputations, for the doing of ten times as much work as we ever shall do.

Time is wasted that devotes itself to THOUGHT of time wasted.

Don't waste time. Remember that however much time you may have wasted already, you have TIME ENOUGH LEFT if you will use it.

The old man has no excuse for mourning the chances that are gone forever. NO CHANCES are lost FOREVER WHILE LIFE AND TIME REMAIN.

You have seen the rising sun and the setting sun.

They look different to you, but the difference is in your imagination.

The rising sun is the sun of youth and the setting sun is the sun of age. One is like the other. The rising sun, light to the earth and beauty to the light to the earth and beauty to the clouds. And no man can tell the difference between a photograph of the sun that is rising and the sun that is setting if the paintings of the two less sphinx of death. On the sand are accurate.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

THE CANNING SEASON

THE canning season is an annual epidemic which disrupts the peace and quiet of the American homes and drives acrimonious husbands to the diary lunch.

It is a short season, seldom extending over six months in any direction. While it is on, married men are hunted from pillar to post & obliged to consort with impromptu cooking and the bleak visage of the cold boiled ham.

The home canner begins its nefarious operations as soon as frost is out of the ground, landing first on the defenseless form of the shy pie plant and wedged into a tall glass jar. This makes a fine long distance dessert, and can be served ten years later without discomfort to anybody except the guests.

It is a very simple manner to can strawberries. All that is necessary is to pick, bathe, husk and overheat the berries, then crowd them into a jar in proximity to one another with a potato masher. It is even easier to can the bifurcated peach, which opens up like a suit case.

The canned cherry is atrocious article and is not recommended by anybody except the denat union, which likes nothing better than to have some patient bite down on a cherry pit and break off a new crown. The lowest depths of depravity in canned goods is the pickled gooseberry, a nervous preparation which runs one leg through the jar and then explodes with gratifying success.

Canned goods are sold mainly to Arctic explorers, who resort to them only when the supply of Esquimaux dogs have been exhausted. The man who can see any beauty in the northern lights after luxuriating for six weeks on the canned baked bean has a poet's soul and a proof reader's appetite.

The canned cherry is a treacherous cadent thought and decayed language. Owing to the number of people who never can tell whether the English language should be written forward or backward, it is a busy place.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
To the Democrats of Pitt County:
Being a candidate for the State Senate I wish to announce my views or position on certain matters and things affecting the people.
As a general rule I do not think a candidate for either branch of the legislature need to write a platform or have a platform written and adopted by the state convention. But there are some exceptions to the rule and there seems to be an exception in Pitt County this year in regard to certain local matters and for that reason I am making this statement.
I am opposed to and would oppose any act extending the stock law or adopting the stock law in any part of Pitt county, without first submitting the same to the vote of the people affected thereby.
I am opposed to and would oppose any act authorizing the issue of bonds for any purpose, unless the act provided for the submitting of the same to the vote of the people affected thereby, whether it be for county, town or township.
I am for Governor Kitchin for the United States senate and I have never hesitated to say so. But if I am nominated and elected to the senate, I shall unhesitatingly vote for the candidate receiving a majority of the votes cast in the senatorial primary.
The people are supreme and should rule. I believe in equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and I believe ample and sufficient laws should be enacted to enforce said doctrine.
Respectfully,
JULIUS BROWN.

Send Them to Bed With a Kiss
Omothers, so weary, discouraged, Worn out with the cares of the day, You often grow cross and impatient, Complain of the noise and the play; For the day brings so many vexations, So many things going amiss, But mothers, whatever may vex you, Send the children to bed with a kiss!
The dear little feet wander often, Perhaps from the pathway of right, The dear little hands find new mischief To try you from morning till night; But you think of the desolate mothers Who'd give all the world for your bliss, And, as thanks for your infinite blessings, Send the children to bed with a kiss!
For some day their noise will not vex you, The silence will hurt you far more; You will long for their sweet childish voices, For a sweet childish face at the door; And to press a child's face to your bosom, You'd give all the world for just this!
For the comfort it will bring you in sorrow, Send the children to bed with a kiss!
—From "Heart Throbs."

ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER

Marital Jealousy—Is it Love or Selfishness?—Apt to be the Latter, Cousin Phebe Thinks.

I have often wondered if any woman has rightly defined "jealousy" and its significance as far as its influence on real love is concerned. Some views with funny little whimsical smiles, apparently approve their husband's jealousy of really small and unconsidered trifles. They seem to think that this show of selfishness—this being all that jealousy really is—a true demonstration of the love their husbands bear them.

Of course there are wives and wives—likewise husbands and husbands. But I believe the most comfortable of either sex are they who, while loving sincerely, are not prone to regard every look, every smile, every outside attention something prompting the performance of the Othello Act.

To my perhaps somewhat prosaic line of thought, Othello appears as a great big sudburn (to be polite) man, who didn't wait to know, but just went and did an asinine thing. That sort of thing works up well on the stage, but it is unpardonable in the eyes of any one of sane judgment.

I don't suppose any woman wants to feel that her husband is so sure of her that he can comfortably go to sleep while she is out riding or dallying in a dark corner of the porch, with a youngster and much handsomer man.

On the other hand, no woman wishes to see that her husband couldn't completely trust her with the same fascinating junior.

Now where will we strike the happy medium? Does the woman once married give up all right to attention?

If she receives attention from a man not her husband, does she necessarily engulf herself in a embroilment, stirred by the jealousy of the one she sincerely has promised to love, honor and obey?

I don't blame a woman a bit, who after, say ten years of wedding life, finding her husband taking her very as a matter of course just calmly and deliberately lets him see he charm for another man. Its the very medicine he needs: to take up his behavior for the net ten years.

After the second decade, he probably has acquired enough sense to appreciate his wife. If he is jealous then, it will be in all probability with reason. The wife twenty years married finds her husband "a fixed habit" She isn't going to run off with another man—in fact another man isn't likely to want her then—or she isn't going to do anything that will menace the enjoyment of middle aged conjugal companionship.

Jealously, like the measles, is a disease of youth. Here I am at the end, still wondering whether it indicates excessive love, or merely excessive selfishness. I am disposed to consider the later the more satisfactory answer.

Cousin Phebe.

Styles For The Fall

A style of coat which is expected to meet with favor again this fall is the mackinaw. Mackinaws are being brought out in plaids, stripes and handsome novelty fabrics. Some are made with hood; others without. Nearly all the 36 in. chest long. They will prove excellent for women who are interested in outdoor sports. These garments should also meet with success in the misses' department, as they are youthful and especially adapted to slim figures.

A fair volume of business continues to be done in the regular Dutch collars in dainty materials, and the Dutch idea is being used as a basis for many of the season's leading successes. Many attractive numbers shown are a combination of the Dutch collar with fancy bows, tabs, divided jabots, Vandyke pleatings, vests, etc. An effective style now on display consists of a Dutch collar and vest of white scalloped pique, a flat back satin bow and five back stain-covered buttons extending down the front. Another number combines a Dutch collar with a vest, a Vandyke pleating of white lawn and crystal buttons.

A notable feature of many of the best suits now being shown is the use of the belt in the back section. Occasionally the belt extends around to the front section as well. Leather and silk are both used. The modified cutaway coat continues to be the favored style. Single revers are seen to some extent. Military, Robespierre and small fancy sailor collars are being used very extensively. The extremely large collar almost entirely eliminated.

German Coffee Cake

German coffee cake makes an excellent bread. Use one cupful of milk one tablespoonful of butter, one half a teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar, half of the rind of a lemon, one third of a yeast cake and sufficient flour to make a very thick batter. When light, beat hard, turn into a shallow, well greased pan; let rise gain. Cover the top with one third of a cupful of sugar, rubbed together with one tablespoonful of powdered cinnamon and two tablespoonfuls of flour and bake in a quick oven. It should be served hot with butter.

Dandy Cake

Two cups sugar, two thirds cup butter, three cups flour one cup sweet milk, three teaspoons baking powder. Cream Chocolate Filling. One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup sweet milk. Boil five minutes stir constantly; add one teaspoon vanilla stir until cool and thick and spread immediately and quickly cover cake. Have two squares of Baker's chocolate melted and spread over icing.

The sidewalk and street was almost covered with hundreds of dead English sparrows Wednesday morning. They were either drowned in the heavy rain or killed by a flash of lightning. Mr. Nat Wright and family arrived last night to make their home here during the ensuing school year. While Mr. Edgar Sumrell and children were swinging Tuesday night the timber to which the swing was fastened gave way, a heavy piece striking Mr. Sumrell on the head rendering him unconscious. The doctor was summoned and succeeded in bringing him to. Mr. A. B. Garris, on the Gum Swamp road, died Wednesday. He had been sick only a short time. Mr. Garris was a large real estate owner, good farmer and very industrious and raised lots of stock. He leaves two brothers, Messrs. G. B. W. and J. B. Garris, one sister, Mrs. Johnson. His remains were laid to rest near his home Thursday. Rev. C. L. Organ conducted the service. The meeting at the Christian church continues with unabated interest six additions Wednesday night. Evangelist Organ and his Christian wife are at their best and putting their whole life in their soul saving. His sermons are simple, plain, convincing and the way faring man need not err therein. So far 78 have obeyed the preaching of the simple Gospel. We are glad to announce that Mr. Walter Gardner is slowly improving. Dr. McKlaney has moved his bottling plant in the rear of his pharmacy and Mr. Jim Henry Newell will open a grocery where he vacated. Crops in this section are suffering for the lack of rain very much. Cotton held up alright until the last two or three days. It is firing up and shedding its leaves considerably, but it seems to be holding its fruit so far. I don't think Rutabeggars and the fall crop of potatoes can come up until it rains. T. E. L.

STILL AND BEER IS DESTROYED

Chunn's Cove Section Loses Regular Brewery HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., August 15.—One of the largest and best equipped stills ever destroyed in this section was put out of commission in the Chunn's Cove section of Polk county where from 7,000 to 8,000 gallons of beer, ten bushels of meal and five bushels of corn malt were destroyed together with the plant which was of a 240 gallon capacity. The copper still was so large that the officers did not take it away with them after cutting several holes in it. Officers making the raid report that the plant was hot from the previous operation and that the equipment destroyed would represent a loss of about $300. No arrests were made.

Good Roads Most Important

tion to the distance material must be hauled. Any road should be repaired with the same material of which it is made. A hole in a mud road filled with brush and logs only makes the hole worse. Every county that does road work should have a competent engineer in charge and everything be done under his direction. Pitt county should have a road engineer. To have a system of public roads two things are necessary—brains and money. If you had rather pay a mud tax and horse power tax than to pay a money tax, you cannot have good roads. It is better to put your brains together and change this. Mr. Stacy said once while making a speech he was interrupted by a man who said he (Stacy) favored good roads because he owned an automobile. He did not own an automobile and didn't know that he would ever have one, but he had too much brain to "cut off his nose to spite his face". He was not going to deny himself the benefits of good roads just because the automobile owner is also benefitted. I am ready to join hands with any automobile owner or company of them in building a road from the market to my farm and pay for it "every one according to his several ability". That is wise Scripture, every man pay according to his ability and when you get your brains together, lay aside your prejudice and be willing to pay your part according to your ability, you will get a system of good roads. Mr. Stacy then told how the people of his county, Orange, a little county not half as wealthy as Pitt, got together to build roads all over the county. They were already paying a 25 cents road tax and were getting only a little patch of good roads here and there for it. So they decided to borrow 5 cents on each dollar of tax value in the county and have a system of roads that were worth having. They got the money, $250,000, for forty years at 4 1-2 per cent interest. Of course they wanted to give security for the money so they issued bonds (something that some folks hold at their hands in horror at) and they readily sold at par. The county commissioners were asked to levy a tax for three things—first, to create a sinking fund to pay for the borrowed money at maturity; second to pay the interest; third, to provide for keeping up the roads after they are built. To do all these things required a tax levy of only 30 cents, just 5 cents more than we were previously paying for little pieces of road. The people of Orange feel that they made a good bargain in such a transaction. He said he was not going to make a suggestion to the people of Pitt county, as they must get together and act for themselves as they think best, but Pitt county can easily have good roads if she wants them.

with a reported of a newspaper. Two or the boys, Charles 8 years old, and Dominick, one year younger, who were eye witnesses to the entire affair, declared that the trouble was brought on by the Perna boys and that the first shot was fired at Henry DeWaters. oBth are positive that Redolph DeWaters did not shoot until his father had received a bullet wound in his arm and had been knocked down and jumped on by the Battigliere woman and the Perna boys. Neighbors who are trying to keep out of the trouble say that a pistol was taken away from one of the Perna brothers while the fight was going on, that they were unable to state positively the boy who held the weapon did the shooting. Several shots, it was said were fired.
