MAKE A MOVE AFTER "MOVIES"

Film Trust Asked is to be Dissolved

CO. SUPPLIED 7000 HOUSES

Bill Filed Against the Motion Pictures Patents Company and the General Film Companies—A Trust

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The federal government attacked the so called moving picture trust in a civil suit filed here today for the dissolution of the Motion Picture Patents Company and the General Film Company.

Ten prominent moving picture film concerns are accused of combining to monopolize the business, even to the extent of increasing or decreasing the number of motion picture theatres interested.

The Motion Picture Patents Company, organized in New Jersey, September, 1908, is the holding company of all the motion picture patents of the defendants.

The General Film Company is alleged to be the agency through which the defendants' films are distributed to exhibitors throughout the country.

Not one of the thousands of exhibitors throughout the United States it is alleged can obtain a motion picture manufactured by any one of the ten defendants manufacturers unless he has received a license from the Patents Company which obligates him to use the films of the alleged combination exclusively.

An exhibitor has to pay $2 a week to the Patents Company it is said on every exhibiting machine owned by him, even including machines sold years before to the exhibitor without any conditions being attached to the sale.

Defendants through the Patents Company, the petition says, were enabled to and did determine whether new motion picture theatres should or should not be opened or closed, although defendants had no proprietary interest in such theatres.

Each of the ten film manufacturing defendants have license agreements with the Patents Company, providing that films shall not fall into the hands of exhibitors who use any but the defendants exhibiting or projecting machines.

The Patents Company agreed with manufacturers of exhibiting machines stipulating that every machine should be sold subject to the condition that it shall be used only for the films of the alleged combination. These agreements, it is said, fixed the selling price of machines.

Southern Train Held Up by Bandit

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16.—Search for the bandit who held up the express messenger on a Southern Railway train last night was abandoned by the local police today and the railroad's secret service men took up the hunt.

The robber who worked alone, got away with nearly $3,000.

PANAMA BILL GETS A JOLT

Asks That Committee's Report be Rejected

BRANDEGEE THE PETITIONER

Brandegee and Root Head Movement to Have Legislation Favoring Trust Owned Vessels Use the Big Ditch

WASHINGTON, August 16.—The conference report on the Panama Canal bill containing the provisions against trust owned ships and granting free tolls to certain American vessels was adopted by the senate today, 48 to 18, after a futile fight against it led by Senator Brandegee, chairman of the Panama Canal committee.

An attempt to prevent Panama Canal legislation at this session of Congress was made today by Senator Brandegee, when he presented the conference report on the bill.

Senator Brandegee urged that the report be rejected, the measure allowed to go over for the session and a committee of the house and senate appointed to thresh out the problems involved. He attacked the bill as finally framed.

I believe the bill now is a violation of our treaty obligations with Great Britain and I cannot vote for it, he said. I ask the senate to reject this report and let the bill go over until next session, when we can give it careful, mature deliberation.

Senator Brandegee condemned the provision to exclude railroad owned ships. He said it would prevent ships owned by railroads now under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission from using the canal and would allow ships owned by foreign railroads to pass through.

Senators Brandegee and Root condemned the Reed amendment to forbid use of the canal by vessels owned or operated or controlled by illegal monopolies. They asserted it would be practically impossible to administer that clause.

Senator Reed defending the provision, declared it provided that any competent Federal court should decide whether a vessel was owned by a violation of the anti trust law.

From Mayor Ross of Ayden

Ayden, N. C., Aug. 15, 1912.
Editor Reflector,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: I notice in yesterday's daily you published a letter written by myself to Mr. Brascoe Bell. This letter was a reply to a letter I received the day before with Mr. Bell's name signed to it and in this letter was a request to consult Mr. Boyd concerning having some liquor shipped here for the promotion of Mr. Bell's candidacy for Register of Deeds. In a few minutes after opening the letter referred to I saw Mr. Boyd on the street and asked him what arrangements Mr. Bell had made with him for the distribution of liquors here in the primary. Mr. Boyd replied that Mr. Bell had asked him (Boyd) if liquors would help at this point. Mr. Boyd advises me his reply to Mr. Bell was that the harm that whiskey would do would over balance the good and Mr. Bell also admits this to be the only arrangements made or in other words about the conversation that took place between himself and Mr. Boyd. I take this method to inform the people of Pitt county that Mr. W. J. Boyd would not engage in any dirty politics. Mr. Boyd spends six days to the week selling meat for W. S. Forbes and Company and six days to the week advocating the candidacy of Gov. Kitchin for the United States senate.

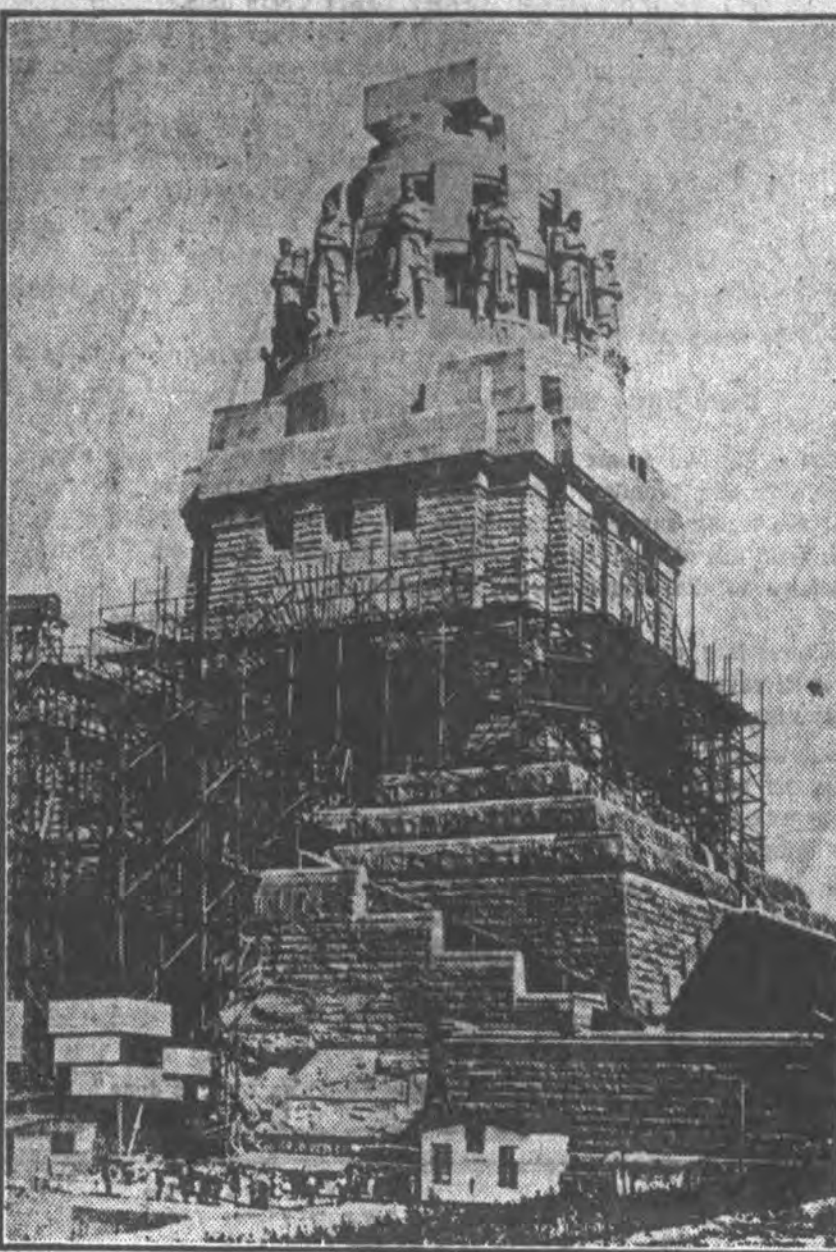

Very respectfully,
S. S. ROSS.

Huge Monument That Will Mark Leipzig Battlefield

THE bloodiest battle of history will be commemorated by the German government next year at Leipzig, Germany. Here the allied armies of Russia, Austria and Prussia for the four days, Oct. 16-19, 1813, contended with the forces of Napoleon, who was at last forced to retreat to the Rhine with only 90,000 of the 150,000 men with whom he began the battle. The allies, who numbered 300,000, lost 51,000 men. A huge battle monument is in process of erection not far from the spot from which Napoleon directed the engagement. Bruno Schmitz is the architect. His work, which is now approaching completion, will be dedicated on the centennial anniversary of the battle, and, although the program is not yet announced in detail, it may be safely assumed that the dedication will be attended with the military pomp and ceremony befitting so memorable an occasion. The cost of the monument will be about $1,500,000.

WILSON MAKES A SPEECH GUM MAKES A GOOD START

TRULY IMPROMPTU ADDRESS GIVEN BY NEW JERSEY EXECUTIVE AT GLOUCESTER

WITH O. L. JOYNER IN CHARGE NEWLY EQUIPPED HOUSE TOPS WITH HIGHEST AVERAGE

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR HIS SPEECHES

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 16.—Maine political leaders, it was learned today, are urging Governor Wilson to make a few speeches in their state before the gubernatorial election.

Governor Wilson's engagements are in the hands of the campaign committee and are rapidly filling for the early part of September. A week ago there was said to be little chance that the Governor would campaign in Maine before the gubernatorial election on September 9, but today some prospect was held that he might, as the requests from Maine are numerous. The Governor did not comment on what he would do about the Maine campaign.

Governor Wilson told the newspaper men today that he was puzzled about the requests for advance copies of his speeches. He confessed two days ago he dictated a speech for delivery at the farmers celebration at Gloucester, N. J., yesterday, but that when he saw the copy he tore it up. The governor spoke extemporaneously at Gloucester and his speech was taken by his own stenographer and distributed without being read or revised by the governor.

Elizabeth City Factory is Burned

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Aug. 16.—The plant of the Southern Roller Stave and Heading Company, located about five miles from this city, was completely destroyed by fire last night, the firemen being unable to check the spread of the flames because of an accident at the pumping station, one of the big pumps becoming disabled.

Six loaded freight cars, standing on a Norfolk Southern siding were also consumed by the flames. The property loss is estimated at about $30,000 with partial insurance.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE

Quite one of the features of the present Greenville tobacco season is the "coming back" in an active way of one of the best known tobacco men in Eastern North Carolina. For several weeks previous to the opening of the market building activities were in evidence at the Gum warehouse. No expense was spared to fit this warehouse in a manner that would put it abreast of the progressive things and the result was that when the market opened on the 15th farmers and the many friends of Mr. Joyner were welcomed to one of the best warehouses in this part of the state.

Improvements were not confined to the warehouse itself. Extensive additions were made wherever the need of the market pointed them out to the enterprising manager of the New Gum. The comfort of the farmer and the animals he has to use to haul his tobacco into town, was always kept in mind. New box stalls were added, the old ones put into first class condition and everything generally put ship-shape.

From figures furnished Reflector representative and published in yesterday's issue the fact came to the surface that the New Gum had made a decided step toward the popularity it deserves. These figures showed the Joyner house had led the market in average. This fact was a source of pleasure to Mr. Joyner, who in it saw the appreciation of his effects to make the Greenville market one of the leading tobacco centers in the world.

In a half page advertisement today you will see the sales he made for farmers whose names are given, and the figures speak for themselves.

Ship Christened by Mrs. Borden

GANGSTERS WRITE "BRIDGIE" In Brilliant Speech Denounces 3rd Party

LEFTY LOUIS AND GYP THE BLOOD DROP BRIDGIE A POST CARD FROM MASS. TOWN

ANOTHER CLUE FOR DETECTIVES

NEW YORK Aug. 16.—District Attorney Whitman today hopefully awaited word from Methuen, Mass., regarding Harry Horowitz, known as Gyp the Blood, and Louis Rosenzweig, alias Lefty Louie, the two much wanted gunmen in the Rosenthal murder case. Four detectives are searching Methuen for the gunmen, who sent a telltale postcard to Bridgie Webber.

Webber received the postcard yesterday enclosed in an envelope. The gambler tore up the envelope. The card read: Dear Pal—Do the best you can. We are alright.

Your Pals,
L. and G.

The imprisoned gambler showed the card to his counsel, Max Steuer, saying that he was convinced that it was Lefty Louie's writing. Mr. Steuer informed the states attorney and the prisoners keepers combed the cell for the bits of torn envelope, which after much trouble was reconstructed from pieces. The envelope showed that it had been mailed from Methuen, Mass., Wednesday night.

District Attorney Whitman telephoned to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty who at once sent four detectives to Methuen. There were reports today that Horowitz has relatives in Methuen.

A reward of $5,000 has been offered by District Attorney Whitman for the capture of the two gunmen. The money will be paid for the fugitives, dead or alive.

Nat. Goodwin at the Point of Death

Thrown From Power Lunch Against Rocks

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 16.—The condition of Nat C. Goodwin, the actor, who was injured yesterday at Rocky Point, was reported as serious today at St. Catherine's Hospital.

Goodwin was thrown on the rocks when his boat was caught in the breakers. It was said last night that his injuries were of a minor nature.

Paralysis of the lower limbs has developed, according to Dr. Oscar Anderson, indicating an injury to the spine. The muscles of the left side also are affected.

Negress Dies in the Electric Chair

Virginia Christian Pays Penalty For Murder

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 16.—Virginia Christian, colored, the first female to be put to death in the electric chair in Virginia was executed in the penitentiary at 7:25 a. m. today, Governor Mann having refused to yield to the entreaties for clemency of a representative of Chicago people interest in the young woman's case.

Virginia was convicted of the deliberate and atrociously cruel strangling and robbery of her employer, Mrs. Ida Virginia Belote, in Hampton, Va., March 13, 1912. She was convicted April 10th and was several times reprieved at the request of her spiritual advisers.

She made no confession and walked to the chair unaided.

MARRIED ONE DAY—WANTS A DIVORCE

Sandusky, Ohio, August 16.—Lenora Meese, wedded yesterday, today instituted suit for divorce. She alleges that her husband, Fred Meese, whom she married at Put-in-Bay, struck her on the way home from church where the ceremony was performed and this morning threw her clothes in to the street.

WILL KEEP UP FIGHT TILL END

Important speech by Wisconsin senator a picturesque and eloquent outburst of fluent oratory.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—In a picturesque spontaneous outburst during debate on the president's wool tariff veto in the senate, Senator LaFollette today attacked the new Progressive party and swore new allegiance to progressive Republicanism.

The "original insurgent," quivering with emotion, with clinched hands and strained faces, poured out a floor of impassioned oratory that kept the floor and galleries of the senate rapt and silent. Senator LaFollette assured his associates that he intended to keep up the fight in the Republican party to make that party really progressive and to keep on until the last bell rings and the curtain falls.

After reviewing briefly the trust record of Colonel Roosevelt Senator LaFollette declared that the former President was not the man to find the way out now.

He declared that when the Republican party, through its progressive associates had reached a point where it would respond to the purposes for which it was born an attempt is made at Chicago to divert it.

Senator Stone asked Mr. LaFollette whether he meant the nomination of President Taft or the nomination of ex-President Roosevelt.

I am awfully surprised, began Senator LaFollette, that I left the senator from Missouri in doubt. I hope I did not leave doubt in the mind of any one else.

He continued:
On the day that Theodore Roosevelt was made president of the United States there were 149 trusts and combinations in the United States. When he turned this government over to President Taft there were 10,020 plants in combinations. When he became president these trusts which had an aggregation of $3,000,000 and when he left the presidency they had an aggregate capitalization of $30,000,000,000 and more than 70 per cent of it was water.

Their power has gone on growing and spreading.

I don't believe that the man who was president for seven years while the greatest growth occurred at the very time of all times in the history of the Serman anti-trust law it could have been made political in bettering trust combination.

I don't think the man who was president then is the kind to find the way out now.

Then turning to Senator Stone, Senator LaFollette inquired:

Does that answer the senator from Missouri?

That does fairly well, responded Senator Stone dryly, amid the laughter of the senate.

After declaring that none of the trusts were his friends Senator LaFollette said:

So I have no George W. Perkins and no Munsey supporting me. It is a lone, practically single handed fight I have been waging for 25 years, and I am going to keep on until the bell rings and the curtain falls.

Senator LaFollette's outburst came without warning to the senate. He arose to make an analysis on the wool bill, but he had spoken scarcely a dozen words when the break came.

He expressed the belief that the redemption of representative government in this country will be accomplished by the Republican party.

With Miss Blount of Bethel

BETHEL, N. C., Aug. 16.—The young people of Bethel were entertained most delightfully by Miss Velma Blount at her home on Thursday evening. Fruit punch was served at the door. A feature of the evening was the much enjoyed music by Miss Ruth Carson and Mr. Daire McWhorter. Progressive conversation was the chief amusement of the evening. Afterwards, delicious refreshments were served to the guests. They departed voting Miss Blount a charming hostess.

MONEY WASTED IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Homer J. Trice, of Chicago, a road expert is credited with the statement that $22,000,000 has been wasted on the roads of Illinois in the last fourteen years, during which period the state expended $60,000,000 in road improvements so that 37 1-2 per cent was expended with no permanent benefit.

Speaking before the ways and means committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, Mr. Trice said further:

A state or a community will appropriate thousands of dollars for building beautiful roads and then lose sight of the fact that an appropriation should be made to keep them from going to the bad. Thousands of miles of road are ruined within a few months because it is not oiled. Proof of this can be seen around a great many cities.

Near New York there are roads which were constructed at approximately the same time, some oiled and others not. Those which were systematically treated with the dust layer are in good condition, whereas those which were sprinkled with water have filled up with holes and have had all the top dressing scratched off.

Automobiles do very little damage to a road that is oiled, for the reason that such surface as they tear up is too heavy to be blown into adjacent fields by the wind. If torn up it falls to the road surface again and is rolled down, whereas the fine dust from a watered road will be blown a great distance. Mr. Trice is strong for building good roads either of macadam or else surfacing them with Portland cement and concrete pavements which are quite popular. He, like many others, agrees that radical changes are necessary in present highway building methods, in order that the transportation of agricultural products can be more evenly distributed. Smaller mileage of permanent roadway which will last a long time is preferred to a larger mileage of roadway constantly in need of repairing.

The south has no interest in the highways of Illinois, but it has immense interest in the conclusions this engineer has reached and in the reasons he adduces for them. Road building is in the experimental stage everywhere. Those pioneers the Romans built roads, wherever their military operations extended. Some of those roads exist today. They may be found in some remote districts in the north of England. They are easily recognizable by their straightness of direction uphill or downhill, their narrowness and the peculiar fact that they were paved with waterworn cobble stones. They are wholly unsuited to wheeled traffic, uncomfortable to walk on and are wholly superseded for traffic by modern highways.

The dirt road was the road of the south. Undrained, it was a delight in summer and quagmire in the remaining eight months of the year.

It has been said that there are three essentials to a road, first drainage, then drainage and lastly some more drainage. This might be amended by saying, first, a correct location, second, a well drained and properly built roadbed and lastly, subsequent and continued attention to the surface. The roads of the south are too large a subject to deal with in a short notice. The model road is that whereon the largest load can be transported, with the least expenditure and in the shortest possible distance to its destination.

The government pension bill at present reaches one hundred and sixty million dollars. If this vast amount went to worthy recipients there would be some semblance of excuse for it being so large. There is more fraud in connection with pensions than any other department of the government.

The days of the masked train robber are not yet relegated to the past. A night or so ago one entered and express car on the Southern railroad near Asheville and robbed the messenger of three thousand dollars.

Former Governor Montague defeated Congressman Mann for the nomination for Congress in the Richmond district of Virginia.

The Pittsboro Record has just begun its thirty-fifth year. It was founded by its present editor, Maj. H. A. London and is the only change it has undergone is to keep growing better.

After the rains that come along now and in the fall a liberal use of the split log drag would help the high ways for winter.

The Chicago district attorney is going to start suit against the butter trust. He should make it hot enough to melt it.

After today some candidates will find that they are not altogether so prominent as they felt themselves yesterday.

We hope Pitt county will draw no disgrace out of the primary today.

This is My Birthday

Robert F. Broussard

Robert F. Broussard, who has been elected United States senator to succeed Senator John R. Thornton of Louisiana, was born near New Iberia, La., August 17, 1864 and was educated at Georgetown University. For several years he was connected with the customs service at New Orleans. In 1889 he returned to New Iberia and began the practice of law. He first attracted public attention by the prominent part he took in the agitation which resulted in abolishing the notorious Louisiana State Lottery. After serving five years as district attorney Mr. Broussard was elected to Congress in 1897. He is still the representative of the Third Louisiana district and will not take his seat in the senate until 1915.

Bishop McConnell

Rev. Dr. Francis J. McConnell, one of the new bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, was born near Triway, Ohio, August 18, 1871. He graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1894 and from the Boston School of Theology three years later. After entering the Methodist ministry he filled arduous pastorates in Massachusetts and in Brooklyn until 1909 when he was elected president of De Pauw University at Greencastle, Ind. He still held the college presidency when elected bishop at the General Conference last May. Bishop McConnell has the distinction of being the youngest bishop that the M. E. church has had in nearly a century.

Editorial of Human Interest

Don't Waste Time

The rising sun seems to us full of hope, life and promise. The clouds that the rising sun paint and illumines seem full of beauty and freshness unknown to the clouds of the later day.

The setting sun seems tired, the farewell rays seem different from the early rays that tell of the coming day.

But the difference is in our minds. In the morning we are fresh, full of ambition and hope, and our eyes see things in one way.

In the evening we are tired, some illustrations have gone and the tired eyes see different colors and different lights.

Actually, sunset and sunrise are the same.

And actually, the beginning and the end of life are the same as regards power and possibility, if we can only see things as they are, not be discouraged, and not be deceived by the hours and the years that have passed. Your time in the day is as good as ever it was.

The sun's light as the sun goes down is as bright as the light when the sun comes up.

What you would do with your hours forty years ago, you can do in those hours now, if you will.

Don't waste time. If all your life is ahead of you, plan to see it all, and begin at the present hour.

If half of your life is gone, plan to make the remaining half as useful as the whole life would have been with out the determination, the incentive and the knowledge of age.

You know when you are wasting time. You can stop the waste if you begin now to save and use your real possession.

Time slips through your fingers like sand through the fingers of a child on the seashore. Each grain of sand is an hour, and each handful is a year.

What others have done you can do if you will. Time enough is still ahead of you. The last days are as good as the first if you refuse to believe in any difference.

Whether your sun is rising or setting, use the hours of light and opportunity that remain.

Soon the night, the darkness and the cold will come. All the sand of time will have run through your fingers, and your chance in this life will be ended.

"Work for the night is coming, when man's work is done."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann

THE HUMAN WILL

THE human will is a small, portable mechanical contrivance which enables a man to say no when he has had enough for all practical purposes.

There are two kinds of will—stout and flabby. There is also the kind which is always going around the corner to take a drink just when somebody would like to use it.

There are several ways of cultivating the will, the neatest of which is to strike it twice in the back of the head with a good resolution and sit on it in a determined tone of voice.

When a will has been treated in this manner for a few times in succession, it will not attempt to drag the owner out of bed for a mild eye opener in the form of three fingers in a large tin tub.

A stout will is one which never has to be massaged by inserting a home tobacco cure in the coffee.

A flabby will is a popular variety which has to back up against electric bitters and the cubed cigarette in order to let go.

After a will has become halter broke and doesn't have to be driven with kicking straps, nobody will have to ask the owner where he stands on anything from a mule petition to women's rights.

One of the finest specimens of case hardened wills ever produced in this country is owned by "Bob" La Follette, who has been using it to annoy and disconcert some of our costliest citizens.

If it were not for the human will and the Australian ballot, the plain people of the country would have about as much to say as a deaf mute with an impediment in his speech.

The man who invented the word "can't" was a lineal descendant of the extracted jellyfish and had his will extracted before he got into long points.

If there was more will and less wind in congress, the ultimate consumer would stand almost as much show as the pork barrel.

The best kind of will power does not have to be propped up with horrible examples of death bed scenes but stands erect on its own feet and meets all comers.

Don'ts For The Men

Never refer to your evening coat as a swallowtail or dress coat. Today it is known, and known only, as the tall coat.

Be sure to remember that the plain black cloth waistcoat for evening wear is an unknown quantity and by the way "vest" is a word that is no longer in the smartly dressed man's vocabulary. It is an obsolete term.

Don't speak of the coat for informal evening occasions as the Tuxedo. If you do you brand yourself as well as your clothes as hopelessly out of date. The Tuxedo is now referred to as the dinner jacket.

Of course you would never commit the error of wearing a black waistcoat and a turndown collar with the tall coat.

Neither are you apt to be so hopelessly ignorant of things fashionable as to wear a white tie and a shaped one with your dinner jacket.—Woman's Home Companion.

Aunt Dorothy—How many commandments are there, Johnny? Johnny (glibly)—Ten. Aunt Dorothy—And, now, suppose you were to break one of them? Johnny (tentatively)—Then there'd be nine.—Christian Register.

Pointed Paragraphs

Money that works beats money that talks. One touch of fashion makes a lot of women kin. A man may have a swelled head without having a broad mind. When a woman is singing she isn't talking about her neighbors. Some people are satisfied with the glitter, even if it isn't gold. The angel a man marries is apt to shed her wings a few days later. Why is it that baby is good natured in the morning when grown people are grouchy. It is a great deal easier for the average man to build a castle in the air than it is for him to nail boards on his fence.—Chicago News.

Two Angels.

I dreamed I saw two angels hand in hand, And very like they were and very fair, One wore about his head a golden band; A thorn-weed crowned the other's matted hair.

The one was fair and tall and white of brow; A radiance spirit-smile of wondrous grace

Shed, like an inner alter-lamp, a glow Upon his beautiful uplifted bow,

The other's face, like marble-carved Grief Had placid brows laid whitely o'er with pain,

With lips that never knew a smile's relief, And eyes like violets long drenched in rain.

Then spake the fair, sweet angel and gently said:

Between us—Life and Death—choose thou thy lot,

By him thou lovest best thou shall be led; Choose thou between us, soul, and fear thou not.

I pondered long, O, Life! at last I cried,

Perchance 'twere wiser Death to choose; and yet

My soul with thee were better satisfied;

The angel's radiant face smiled swift regret.

Within his brother's hand he placed my hand.

Thou did'st mistake, he said, in underbreath.

And choosing Life, did'st fail to understand.

He with the thorns is life and I am death.

BENEDICT NUMBER TWO

Another Reflector "Boy" Has Gone And Done It

It may be the weather, with its forcible of little to wear and less to eat, or it may be the old "gag" about love lurking around corners with its bunch of arrows, but the fact is that another one of the Reflector force has to have his breakfast, dinner and supper with the "fairest of her sex". (Funny how they all think theirs is the fairest, isn't it?)

Last evening at about nine o'clock Mr. C. F. Carroll, late of Yorkville, S. C., and later of Greenville, N. C., took unto himself a bride, Miss Eliza Beth R. Plouff of Franklin county, New York. Things were kept pretty dark previous to the ceremony performed by Rev. Dallas Tucker. In fact, it was so dark around the scribes desk that he knew nothing of it till this morning when the groom turned up for work and "gave himself up". But very few friends attended the ceremony which was performed at the Episcopal rectory.

The bride has been here several months with her sister, Mrs. J. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Carroll are making their home for the present at the home of Mr. J. C. West.

FISHING AT BEAUFORT
The fishing here at the present time is better than it has been this season, August and September being the best fishing months for hook and liners. The Inlet Inn, the popular hotel here has many parties as well as other guests. August and September are really the most delightful months of the year at Beaufort and the pleasure seeker is beginning to realize it. The Inlet Inn has had a remarkable season and has many booked for these months. Now is the time to come to Beaufort, the weather is delightful and everything this month tends to make the visitors stay pleasant. The bathing and boating are excellent.

Among the many fishing parties at the Inlet Inn who report large catches we note as follows:

Judge S. F. McConnell, of Carthage owner of the Randolph and Cumberland and R. R. He reports a large catch of trout, mackerel, blue fish and other varieties. He has his family here on their vacation and are greatly enjoying the delight of Beaufort.

Prof. Erlick Smith, of Richmond Va. is here with his family. He caught over a hundred trout yesterday.

Mr. Gaston Hardee, a New York broker who is spending his summer here is quite an expert fisherman and says that Beaufort is the most delightful resort he has ever visited.

Mr. George C. Royall and two sons of Goldsboro, Messrs Kenneth and Clairborne Royall are at the Inn on a fishing trip. They caught one hundred and twenty five this afternoon.

Mr. George R. Fuller of New Bern came down in his automobile from New Bern yesterday bringing with him Mr. H. S. Leete, wife and son of Philadelphia, and they are stopping at the Inlet Inn, they went out fishing this morning and made a catch of two hundred fish.
