Turkey Confident in the Fact That She Still Has Half Million Soldiers in the Reserve Ranks

ATTACKS OF THE ALLIED ARMIES WILL BE DIRECTED TO THE DARDANELLES, IF PEACE NEGOTIATIONS NOW GOING ON FAIL. WHOLESALE WAR THREATENS ALL EUROPE IF BALKAN WAR IS NOT BROUGHT TO A CLOSE AT AN EARLY DATE.

AUSTRIAN FOLLOWERS OF SERBIA'S MOVES

VIENNA, Nov. 23.—The independence of Albania has been proclaimed at Durazzo by Ismail Kemal Bey, leader of the Albanians, according to a report published in the Allegemane Zeitung today.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Nothing has developed within the last twelve hours to show whether the Turks will find the proposed modifications in the terms offered by the Balkan nations sufficient to induce them to agree to an armistice preparatory to a definite peace.

The plenipotentiaries now on their way to Tchatalja on behalf of the allies are reported to be carrying with them fresh terms of peace in a form that may open the door which is still regarded as standing ajar for their reception.

The Ottoman government points out that it still has half a million soldiers to draw from while the Bulgarians have none. The allied Balkan nations however, retort that they are now in a position to march 150,000 troops who have heretofore been engaged elsewhere to swell the besieging force in front of the Turkish lines at Tchatalja.

Should the war continue it is assumed in military circles that an attack will soon be opened on the forts along the Dardanelles, whose fall would permit the Greek fleet to bombard the Turkish capital.

In the meantime a nerve-racking of rumors continues to pour out from Vienna of the mobilization of the Austrian and Russian troops and to these rumors is added one from Prague which says five German armies corps have called up their reservists.

These rumors accord badly with Premier Asquith's statement last night as to the prevailing harmony among the European powers.

Official denials quickly follow each story of the calling up of reservists by the various armies, but the denials fail to dissipate the general anxiety as to the situation.

Turkey Reports Decrease in Cholera Deaths

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 23.—The Turkish government reports a great decrease in the number of deaths from cholera during the past few days, but this is not widely credited among foreign residents of the capital.

Some attempt is certainly being made at least to house the soldiers suffering from the disease. Wooden huts are being erected at the San Stefano cholera camp on the open plain which a few days ago was strewn with dead and dying.

Most of the bodies of the victims have been carried away. The new camp, however, is swarming with dead, dying and suspects.

A train load of stricken soldiers numbering from one to two thousand arrived at the camp today and the belief is expressed that such train loads are brought there daily. It is reported that many of the troops die in the trenches along the Tchatalja lines.

Little use is being made of the foreign members of the Red Crescent Society. They are politely received by the authorities but are not given any duty to perform. Some of the foreign doctors have improvised hospitals and themselves go out and bring in the wounded men from the front. Beside the Mohammedan prejudice against foreigners, the Turkish authorities are anxious to hide from them as far as possible the existing disorganization in the Turkish service and the indifference of those in power to the existence by disease and lack of provisions.

Adrianople Garrison Attacks a Sortie SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 23.—The besieged garrison of Adrianople attempted a general sortie yesterday afternoon, according to dispatches received here. The Turkish troops, however, were thrown back into the fortress, after a battle which lasted throughout the afternoon. They lost heavily.

North Carolina Farmers to Meet in Raleigh Next Month

RALEIGH, Nov. 23.—The annual meeting of the North Carolina Farmers' Union will be held in the city auditorium, December 10, 11 and 12. The committee in charge of all arrangements for the convention has been at work for the past several days arranging all necessary details in regard to the program and the entertainment of delegates, who will attend the convention. It is estimated that more than one thousand farmers will be in the city at this time to attend the convention.

The meeting of the executive committee will probably be held Monday evening, December 9. The other committees will meet Tuesday morning and the opening session of the convention will be held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that Governor Kitchin or his representative will deliver the address of welcome to be followed by a representative of the city and Chamber of Commerce. Dr. H. Q. Alexander, president of the North Carolina division, will respond to the address of welcome.

Bishop Strange in Two Masterful Sermons at Episcopal Church

The Rt. Rev. Robert Strange, Bishop of East Carolina visited Greenville yesterday and was a guest at the handsome new rectory.

At both morning and evening services of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Bishop Strange preached to large congregations, his presence attracting members of other churches. To pass a few words of comment upon his two masterful sermons is rather beyond our scope. His fame as a preacher, the inspiration and feeling of kindness, love and faith which his words carry are all Bishop Strange's by a divine gift developed in a perfect Christian mind. His influence upon a congregation is not entirely without magnetism, yet the kind of attraction emanated from those we are bound to love because of the love they express for us. A wonderful preacher of the Gospel of love, obedience and faith in the Master and the Redeemer, Bishop Strange stands out as the ideal carrier of a message that brings contentment, peace and well wish towards fellowmen and fellow women. His voice finds an echo in the hearts of his listeners because the chord it strikes stands for whatever is best in them. It revives whatever feelings may lay dormant under the pressure of the struggle for life. It brings to mind that after all there is but one way to live, and that is to live a Christian life, performing the duties imposed by the Maker, cheerfully helping those whose burdens seem heavy to us and having implicit faith in the outcome.

Bishop Strange preached a sermon in the colored Episcopal church in the afternoon.

WRECKER'S TRIAL CALLED A FARSE

Paper Hints at the Steel Trust's Power

HAND BEHIND PROSECUTION

Iron Workers Magazine Prints Some Scathing Accusations Against The Prosecuting Attorney

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 23.—Jackets on District Attorney Charles W. Miller and on the government's prosecution of the "dynamite conspiracy" case, as published in the Ironworkers' Union magazine since the trial began, were read by Mr. Miller before the jury today.

The magazine is the official organ of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, of which most of the forty-five defendants, accused of complicity are officials.

In one article as read to the jury the government's prosecution is referred to as follows:

"On the sixth of October these forty-five defendants walked into court and pleaded 'not guilty' to the charges of the steel trust. Then began the farce trial, the trial in which money, prestige, power and the prosecutor of obscurity, a trial in which the steel trust masquerades as the government.

"The still court room awesome with polished marble and rich mahogany, oppressive with stilted formality, breathing with hidden hatreds, the voice of the district attorney thunders the vast indignation, the scorn of capital for labor. Listening to that icy voice sit the forty-five men, just like you and me, but hideous monsters of crime to the district attorney, whose white angel life shines out in radiant virtue against the sinister background of these conspirators."

Reference to the McNamara brothers' plea of guilty at Los Angeles, as read in evidence from the magazine, was:

The pleas of 'guilty' quickly followed the arrest. In the hands of an all-powerful enemy, with courts and jurors committed against them with traitors as friends and friends as traitors, a trial was impossible. The two McNamaras stood bravely before the world and said: 'Yes, we are warriors. We fought as seemed to us best. We fought force with force, power with power. Maybe we used the wrong weapon. History will tell, but we heard the cry, the anguishing cry of men and women ground in steel yards above the voice of caution. We stand ready to take the consequences of our act without a whimper, without an appeal to sympathy.

"Silently they entered the grim penitentiary, misunderstood by their fellows, execrated by the public.

"But two victims were not enough for the steel lords. The organization itself must be disrupted. Goaded on with a desire for vengeance, they stretched forth cruel hands for more distinguished victims.

"Give us Gompers!' they cried. 'Give us Darrow!'

"Armies of detectives in the pay of the Erectors Association rush eagerly up to the witness stand to testify against the workers. The question of open and closed shop is often on the lips of the vaunting district attorney, whose drum like tones seem to say as it questions the accommodating witness: 'Lo, I am the kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever, Amen.'

TAFT MAY TURN DOWN PENSION OFFER

HINTS IT MIGHT BE IN THE WAY SHOULD HE TRY TO SUCCEED PRESIDENT WILSON

ANYWAY, HE HAS PLENTY OF IT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President Taft, it is learned on excellent authority, will defer for some time any statement as to whether he will accept the $25,000 a year pension for former presidents proposed by Andrew Carnegie.

It was stated that the President will probably decline to accept any pension, although he will say nothing about his attitude at this time on account of his great friendship for Andrew Carnegie.

One reason why the president would not be inclined to accept a pension is that he may be a candidate for President four years from now, in which case he would not be willing to be under obligations to anyone, particularly Carnegie and the Steel interest.

He Saved $100,000.

Another reason given for his possible refusal is that he has saved considerable money while president. It is known that he has property in Cincinnati worth between $50,000 and $100,000. Assuming that gossip here to the effect that the president has saved $100,000 or more while occupying the executive mansion be true, this would leave him in possession of a fortune of nearly a quarter of a million.

Besides, the President's brother, C. P. Taft, is extremely wealthy, and the Taft family pride would be a strong factor in controlling the President's decision. Chas. P. Taft told the Clapp committee in the Senate, investigating campaign funds, that he gave large sums to nominate his brother, in order that the latter might be free from entangling obligations.

It is certain that if the President is to be guided by his brother's wishes, he will refuse.

At the same time the President would not like to set an unpleasant precedent by declining. It is believed that he will endorse Carnegie's plan, while declining the offer as far as concerns himself.

Plan Afoot in Greensboro to Build a Jail Hos

GREENSBORO, Nov. 23.—The city commissioners have begun work on a city prison hospital, the structure being made necessary by the large percentage of negroes on the city street gang who are physically unfit for work. Of a squad of about 30, examination has shown that fully half are physically unfit for work as a result of the ravages of disease. It was on these representations that the commissioners determined to build at once a hospital camp, where all negroes now on the force will be detained until able to do good work.

Under a special provision of the charter the city works all prisoners from the city court on the streets of the town. Police officers, however, have been told to let it get out among the negroes that the city was not running a sanitarium and that all time spent in the hospital would be made up in labor on the streets.

Nine-Story Fall Fails to Kill, Man Suffers Finger Fracture

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Grover Nielson structural iron worker, employed on a building in course of construction, plunged nine stories through an elevator shaft last night and aside from a severe shaking up the only injury he suffered was a broken little finger.

Nielson was walking on an iron beam of the skeleton frame work when he mistook a shadow for a solid footing and fell. He landed on a pile of sand.

BIG RICHMOND FIRE DESTROYS PAPER PLANT

FUSE EXPLOSION STARTS FLAME WHICH HELPED BY FAN SOON CONSUME THE BUILDING

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $100,000

RICHMOND, Va., November 22.—Fire of unique origin consumed all but the shell and machinery of the Union Envelope Company plant here this morning, causing a damage estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000.

The fuse of an electric motor blew out exploding the motor and firing paper stock. The motor was used to run a fan which drove hot air through wide flues to heat the building; and through these flues the flames spread to all floors at once.

Twenty-five girls working upstairs fled down the fire escapes, but lost all their belongings left in the cloak room.

Department of Agriculture is Keeping Up Seven Test Farms

RALEIGH, Nov. 23.—It is learned from Secretary Elias Carr, of the State Department of Agriculture, that the department now has seven test farms, for making studies of crops, fertilizers, climatic conditions, soils, etc., these being in Edgecombe, Pender, Iredell, Buncombe, Transylvania, Granville and Washington counties, and on these farms peanuts, truck, grasses, grains, apples, tobacco, etc., are being studied. The newest of the farms is in the blacklands in Washington county where the soil almost as black as ink, is many feet in depth and wonderfully rich, though less is known about it than of any other soil in the state.

NEW LEGISLATURE IS PROGRESSIVE

Anti-Trust Legislation to Receive Attention

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Many Veterans Will Occupy Their Places in The New North Carolina Legislature in Raleigh

RALEIGH, Nov. 23.—It is understood that there are already in process of preparation a number of bills to be introduced in the approaching legislature and campaigns being planned for their enactment into law, that will give the 1913 session a distinctly "progressive" atmosphere; at least as to measures proposed if not bills actually passed.

A distinct advance in anti-trust legislation is being hinted at, a complete revision of the state election law, a general primary law for all parties, blanket commission form of government and initiative and referendum laws for cities to be optionally adopted, the application of the Torrens system of land titles and a variety of other departments.

Indications are that Hon. E. J. Justice, former speaker, who is returned from Guilford, will espouse a considerable amount of progressive legislation and that his course in the legislature will have a specific bearing on the United States senatorship contest that will be on two years hence when Senator Overman's terms expires and he will be standing for renomination and election.

It is believed that Mr. Justice will be in the race and that legislation he undertakes or accomplishes will be factors in that contest. It is understood that he will not consider the speakership of the House this time at all, preferring to lead on the floor.

Among some of the strong and experienced men in the senate of 1913, will be found H. W. Stubbs, of Martin, who has had considerable legislative experience; Walter E. Daniel, of Halifax, who lacked only a few votes of being nominated for lieutenant governor before the state Democratic convention at Raleigh the past summer; A. D. Ward, of New Bern and A. D. Watts, of Iredell, sponsors of the first liquor legislation that was put into effect in the state and which eventually led to North Carolina voting state-wide prohibition by an overwhelming majority; Marsden Bellamy, of Wilmington, one of the leading Democrats of the Cape Fear section; Victor S. Bryant, from Durham; J. L. Scott, Jr., of Graham, long a member of the Board of Agriculture and one whom the farmers can depend upon to look after their interests; W. L. Parsons, of Rockingham, who presided at the memorable Democratic convention held in Charlotte in 1908, that nominated Kitchin for governor; James P. Cook, all round public-spirited citizen of Cabarrus; E. B. Jones of Forsyth and W. B. Council, of Hickory.

As Result of Early Morning Affray Negro May Die

About one o'clock this morning a row in which knives were brought into play with serious result to one of the contending parties, took place in the house of Emma Seltzer. All the parties connected with the cutting affray are of the colored variety.

A dispute arising from the ownership of a five dollar note led to words between Frank James and Jim Hanrahan. From words to knives thrusts was an easy matter the weapons being handy. Jim Hanrahan proved to be the most dexterous with the carver, and before any interference could be brought into play with any degree of success James had been stabbed repeatedly. His wounds are of such a nature that he is not expected to live.

Both men are under care of the local police authorities.

Christmas just one month from today.

THE WIND DOES NOT RULE YOUR DESTINY

"There be three things which are too wonderful for me; yea, four which I know not:

"The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea, and the way of a man with a maid."

At sunset a long train of cars waited on a bridge as a sailing ship passed through the draw.

The ship sailed up the river toward the cold Winter sun; another ship sailed passed it going in the opposite direction.

Only one wind was blowing. Yet, of these two ships and the lessor which wind, moved by the same power, one sailed east and one went west.

It may be of use to you in your career to think for a few minutes about these two ships and the lesson which they teach—especially to young men.

The man who has sailed, in his life's journey, toward failure and disaster looks always with envy, sometimes with hatred, and very often with an intense sensation of injustice, at the man who passes him going in exactly the opposite direction.

Yet the forces that move men bound toward success are exactly the same as those that move other men to failure, humiliation and defeat.

It is all a question of the way in which you use the forces within you—just as on shipboard it is all a question of the use of the common wind which blows.

Two ships pass, each with its sails filled out by the same wind. The difference in direction is accounted for by the handling of the rudder and the adjustment of the sails.

What the force of the wind is to the ship, our varying emotions, passions, ambitions, appetites and aspirations are to us. All of these constitute the power which may be called human force.

This power differs in different individuals, as the wind differs on different days. It may blow from the east or to the west or the north or the south. However it may blow, it can be forced, by proper steering, to send the ship in any direction desired.

It is harder to beat against the wind of course, and many men heard struggles to steer themselves to a good port in the face of an adverse start, a hard beginning, or inclination difficult to overcome.

But in all of us the force exists which can be made to move us in the right direction—the force within us can be made to obey our will, if the will be strong and the hand on the rudder steady. This can be proper for instance:

There is a certain force in human beings called love. This force leads sometimes and happily it leads usually to domesticity, morality, care of children and lifelong devotion, when the force is used properly.

The same human passion leads to murder, suicide, theft, to almost all forms of crime.

There is another passion called ambition.

This human force of ambition, with a Lincoln's conscience to guide it, saves a republic.

The same force guided by Benedict Arnold seeks to betray the nation.

Consider yourself a ship launched on the sea of life under certain conditions—but with the essential condition in your own control.

The wind may be feeble, you may drift for a while or move very slowly—move at least in the right direction.

The wind may blow a gale, and you may feel, as so many do, that you cannot control your emotions and your appetites. But if that comes show at least as much interest in yourself as a sailor does in his ship. Take a sail and fight the storm, instead of going willingly to destruction.

Four things puzzled and impressed the wise man that wrote the nineteenth verse of the thirtieth chapter of Proverbs.

Think today about the third of these:

"The way of a ship in the midst of the sea."

The way of a human being in the midst of life is like that of a ship on the ocean.

Make up your mind that your own way at least shall be controlled by the rudder of conscience, and learn from the passing ships a lesson of use in your own life.

If the government would curtail the mail franking privilege that allows the sending free of speeches, pamphlets and other literature for political purposes, there would be less talk of deficits in the postal department. The sending of such political matter cost the government thousands of dollars during the last campaign.

A petition has been sent The Reflector for signatures memorializing congress to purchase Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson and preserve it as a historical shrine for the people of the nation. Any one wishing to sign this petition can call and do so. There should be many in this section who sign the petition.

Trial in "Night Rider" Case
 OWENSBORO, Ky., Nov. 25.—The case of J. F. VanHoose against A. E. Robinson and eighteen other defendants came up for trial in the Federal court here today. The case is one of the many "night rider" cases pending in the Federal court in Western Kentucky. VanHoose is seeking damages on the ground that he was driven out of Christian county by the alleged threats of the defendants. In a former trial he was awarded a judgment of $2,500.

This is My Birthday

Andrew Carnegie

Andrew Carnegie, one of the most prominent men in the whole world today, was born in Dunfermline, Scotland, Nov. 25, 1835. When he was ten years old his father, a weaver, in moderate circumstances, emigrated to the United States and settled in Pittsburgh where Andrew rose from having charge of a small stationary engine to being the most extensive iron and steel manufacturer in the world. In 1901 he threw his personal interests into the syndicate known as the United States Steel Corporation and he has since devoted much time and money to great humanitarian purposes. A recent estimate places Mr. Carnegie's total benefactions at about $200,000,000. He has donated money for the erection of 2,200 municipal library buildings. A few other notable gifts were $10,000,000 to the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh; $22,000,000 to the Carnegie Hero Fund, Washington; $10,000,000 to Scottish universities; $5,000,000 to the Carnegie Hero Fund; $1,750,000 for the Peace Temple at The Hague, and $15,000,000 for the college professor's pension fund.

for your harvest money is in this bank
 Look at these two men. They have been to market their cotton. One put his money in the bank and the other one didn't. They were held up on the way home. The silly fellow who wanted to take his money home had to "deliver" to the robbers. The other was able to "give them the laugh."
