South Carolina Governor Starts Little Private Balkan Fight-Fest at Conference in Richmond

HIS PICTURESQUE LANGUAGE CALLS FOR REPROVAL FROM BROTHER GOVERNORS. BLEASE DENIES ASSEMBLY AND THOSE PRESENT HE WILL BE "RUNNING" WHEN THEY HAVE TAKEN A BACK SEAT

RESOLUTION PASSED AGAINST HIM BY 14 to 4

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 6.—A sweeping resolution condemning mob violence and repudiating recent remarks of Governor Blease, of South Carolina, in support of lynch law, was adopted today by a vote of 14 to 4

Governor Blease, defending himself snapped his fingers in the faces of the other governors and declared that he cared not one whit what the conference did or left undone.

"Four times this morning has my life been threatened for my utterances," declared Governor Blease.

"I was quoted yesterday as saying 'To hell with the constitution'. I say now to all the governors of all the states and to all the people of the United States what I said then."

The conference hall was thrown into an uproar.

Governors of Alabama, Wyoming, Missouri, New York, Maryland and Wisconsin denounced the South Carolinian in strong terms for his utterances. Governors of North Carolina, Arkansas, Connecticut and Idaho voted against the resolution.

"I hold in my hand," said Governor Blease, rising to defend himself, "the fourth letter threatening my life, which I have received this morning. It was handed me just now by some one I did not know and it was addressed me in the care of the Governor of Virginia."

"I know nothing of the letter, sir," retorted Governor Mann, of Virginia. "I never heard of it before. I didn't receive it; I know nothing of its contents."

"It doesn't matter," continued Governor Blease, "I speak nobody's opinion but my own. The newspaper headlines have misrepresented me. When I spoke yesterday about the marriage of Jack Johnson in Chicago, I did not say he would be lunched in South Carolina; I did say that the laws of my state forbade the marriage and I did say that I did not know, if the marriage had been performed in South Carolina, whether the law protecting him would have been possible of enforcement or not.

"Now, what I want to say to you is this: I don't give one whit whether you adopt this resolution or not. You may expel me, for all I care. On the 21st day of next January I will begin my second term as governor. On the 4th of March, 1915, if God spares me, I will be sworn in as a member of the United States Senate.

"I snap my fingers at your resolutions, for all the resolutions and all the motions you may act upon will not avail to keep me out.

"Long after many of you gentlemen here today are resting in the retired shades of private life, I will be reaping the rewards of public service; long after you good governors are no longer governors, the white women of South Carolina will pray for me with their arms around their girls and will rise from their knees to kiss their husbands and beg them to go to the ballot box and vote for Blease to protect them from their daily terror."

A faint round of applause rippled over the conference hall, succeeded by a storm of hisses. A dozen governors, thinking that the South Carolinian had concluded, clamored for recognition, but he stood erect, shoulders back, master of the floor and smiled at the turmoil.

"What care I for your hisses?" he shouted, shaking his clenched fist at the chairman and turning to face his colleagues.

"Hiss if you must, only snakes and geese hiss."

Again his voice was drowned in the storm. When the vigorous rapping of the chairman had brought order he continued:

"You are making yourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the nation, why do you have to declare against mob law? They ought to know you back in your homes. They ought to meet you each one at the railroad station with a brass band and say, 'Governor, we're glad you didn't endorse the utterances of that South Carolinian.' "When I said I never would order out the militia to protect the black brute who laid his desecrating hand upon a white woman I spoke the truth. I say it now again. That is my position, gentlemen and if you don't agree with me, in the words of the great Virginian, 'Go to it!'

Governor Blease was the solitary champion of his own opinion. The four governors who voted against the adoption of the resolution declared emphatically that they opposed mob violence, they voted in the negative they said because they thought they would exceed the rights of the conference and violate the courtesy due a colleague should they vote to reprimand him.

On the final ballot Governor Blease did not vote. After the result had been announced he arose and said:

"I did not vote, gentlemen, because it makes no difference to me, one way or the other, what this conference thinks or does."

In Memory of Gallaudet

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—A 30,000 parish building for deaf mutes, in connection with St. Ann's Church in West 148th Street, was dedicated this afternoon with interesting exercises. The building was erected as a memorial in honor of the late Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, who was rector of St. Ann's Church when he began his work among the deaf mutes of this city in 1854. He was the son of Dr. Thomas N. Gallaudet, founder of the first institution for deaf mutes in America, in Washington, D. C.

Eligible to Retirement

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—Tomorrow Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes will have completed a period of ten years' service on the supreme bench and will thus become eligible to retirement in accordance with the law. Justice Holmes is the senior member of the highest tribunal in point of age, being seventy-two years old, but he is still hale and vigorous and not likely to retire for some time yet. Should he elect to withdraw from the court, however, any time before March 4, next, President Taft would be assured of one supreme court appointment.

Shoots at Chicken Thief

About 4 o'clock this morning Rev. C. M. Rock, who lives on Greenville Heights, was awakened by his dog barking. Looking out his window he saw a man climbing the fence near his poultry house. Reaching for his gun, Mr. Rock emptied both barrels at the intruder who tumbled off outside the fence. The intruder made no outcry and it is not known if any of the shot took effect.

Mikado Tonight

Tonight at eight o'clock the Literary Societies of the Training School will give their first public presentation of the Japanese opera Mikado. The full dress rehearsal last evening showed everything to be in readiness for this event.

The beautiful Japanese costumes, attractive and appropriate stage setting, graceful dancers witty dialogues, humorous situations, pleasing solos and magnificent chorus work guarantee an evening full of pleasure.

The committee in charge sincerely appreciate the public interest already shown by the large advance sale of seats for Monday night. It assures those who have not yet secured their tickets that every seat shown on the chart and offered for sale gives an unobstructed view of all that occurs upon the stage; that the acoustics of the hall are such that all that is said can easily be heard and that the balcony seats are especially desirable.

To avoid any possible misunderstanding, the committee begs to say that the tickets now on sale at the drug store admit to but one performance and are good only for Monday evening. Those wishing to attend the opera this evening must purchase their tickets at the door.

The opera will be given promptly at eight o'clock and our friends are kindly asked to accommodate themselves to this hour so as not to miss any of the evening's enjoyment or disturb the pleasure of others.

Rivers and Harbors Congress Advises The Creation Of A Public Works Department

MUCH GOOD EXPECTED FROM BATHING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—An annual congressional appropriation of at least fifty million dollars for waterways improvements was recommended in a resolution adopted today at the closing session of the ninth annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Another resolution urged the creation by Congress of a department of public works of which the corps of army engineers would be a part. The waterway congress also passed a resolution congratulating Congress upon its grant of immunity through the recently enacted Panama Canal law from tolls upon ships engaged in our coastwise trade and upon the protection of water-borne commerce afforded by said law against railroad of water lines.

The congress closed later with a reception to the delegates in the East room of the White House by President Taft.

Irishman Lives to be 116 Years Old

DUBLIN, Dec. 6.—Anatomists were much interested in the case of Mickey Smith, who died in the poorhouse at the age of 116 years.

Mickey knew nothing of hygiene or eugenics. He smoked constantly, drank heavily and was married thrice surviving all his wives. He slept much in the open and was not incapacitated for work until three years ago.

Famous Resort at Auction

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Lakewood Hotel at Lakewood, N. J., one of the best known hotels in America, was put up for sale at public auction today as a result of dissolution of partnership. The hotel was built about fifteen years ago by a group of New York capitalists headed by Nathan Straus. More than $1,000,000 was expended on the building and furnishings. It is rumored that the State of New Jersey may acquire the structure for a school or other public institution.

REPUBLICANS WILL RECOGNIZE AT ONCE

G. O. P. Leaders Will Make An Effort To Rehabilitate Party In The Weaker States

IOWA SENATOR WOULD CALL A CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—Under the surface, among the Republican leaders in Congress, plans for the re-organization and revival of the Republican party are being discussed. Nothing less is proposed than the calling in the near future of a Republican national convention with the object of working out in a harmonious way projects for the advancement and rehabilitation of the party. Senator Cummins, of Iowa, has counseled other Republican leaders in the senate and house that this step be taken. The Iowa senator is taking the position that the situation is not one that can be met by any ordinary means but that it requires radical and extraordinary measures. He proposes that the national committee shall call a national convention and that the convention shall take the highly important step of changing the basis of representation, in future conventions; that it shall depart from the plan of letting each state have twice as many delegates as it is entitled to seats in the house and senate and that in the future the basis of representation of a state in the national convention shall be the number of Republican votes cast at the preceding general elections. It is apparent that this would crush the power of the south in Republican councils.

Not the national committee, but a convention itself must take this action, if it is taken. Having done this, Senator Cummins believes the national committee should then make it plain to the country that hereafter delegates chosen under state primary laws will be entitled to seats in the Republican national convention. In other words, the rules of the committee would be ade to fit the primary laws of the states and the doctrine that the rules of the committee are superior to the primary laws of a state would be abolished.

The members in good standing of the fire companies were exempted from poll tax.

The ordinance forbidding the shooting of fireworks in the town, was on motion suspended from 6 o'clock, p. m., on December 24th to 6 o'clock a. m., on Dec. 26th.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—The event of the week of the field of politics will be the national conference of Progressive leaders in Chicago to devise plans for carrying on the work of the party during the next four years. Col. Roosevelt will be among those in attendance at the conference.

A similar national conference of Republican leaders has been called to meet in New York on Saturday, when it is expected that President Taft will be on hand to give his views regarding the future of the party.

Monday is the day set by the subcommittee of the House committee on banking and currency for resuming the taking of testimony in the money trust investigation. J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, George W. Perkins and other eminent financial leaders have been summoned to testify.

Included among other events that are expected to figure more or less prominently in the news of the week will be the Cabinet dinner, ushering in the social season at the White House; the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden, New York; the formal award if the Nobel prizes for 1912; a conference of port authorities of the United States, in New York city; the consecration of Rev. E. LeBlanc as Roman Catholic bishop of St. John, N. B., and the observance of the semi-centennial anniversary of the battle of Fredericksburg, which occurred Dec. 13, 1862.

He urged also the passage of another bill now before Congress designed to raise quickly a volunteer army in case of war.

Two Greenville Boys Pass

The board of examiners of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association, in session in Raleigh this week, had sixty-three applicants for licenses, before them, thirty of whom passed the required examination. Among the successful applicants were two Greenville young men, Messrs. W. L. Barnhill and J. K. Brown.

CONCEDES THAT HIS FIGHT FOR PROTECTION NOW THAT THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN THEIR CHOICE IN NOVEMBER, WOULD BE A WASTE OF TIME. DEFENDS SHERMAN LAW; "NEEDS NO RADICAL CHANGES"

MAKES SEVERAL STRONG RECOMMENDATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Taft will make no further effort to have Congress reduce the tariff.

In a "general" message to Congress submitted today, the president scarcely indicated his intention of leaving further tariff revision to Mr. Wilson and the Congress just elected.

"Now that a new Congress has been elected on a platform of tariff for revenue only rather than a protective tariff and is to revise the tariff on that basis," said the president, "it is needless for me to occupy the time of Congress with arguments or recommendations in favor of a protective tariff."

This message the second submitted by the president since the present session began, will be his last of a general character.

It dealt with every department of the government except the state department, recommended much of the legislation which Mr. Taft previously had urged upon the attention of Congress and took up and discussed at length several subjects comparatively new.

Mr. Taft came out strongly against independence for the Philippine proposed, he said, in a bill now before Congress. He deprecated the new policy of one battleship a year instead of two and indorsed again the scheme of currency reform proposed by the National Monetary Commission.

Conservation was lightly touched, the president recommending the amendment of bills now before Congress so that water power companies which dam navigable rivers will contribute to the improvement of these streams.

He declared that no radical change in the Sherman anti-trust law was needed and praised the Supreme Court for its recently announced changes in rules of equity procedure. In this connection the president asked congress to pass legislation which would allow the supreme court to formulate rules of procedure under the common law in Federal courts and predicted that such action would facilitate justice in those courts and reduce the cost of legislation to the public.

The Panama Canal was dismissed in a few words, the president prophesying its opening in the latter part of 1913. He took occasion, however, to declare that Congress should reward the work of Colonel Goethals by an appointment as Major General with the provision that he become chief of engineers when the term of the present incumbent expires.

He made only a brief reference to the dispute with Great Britain over the Panama Canal act and said when a formal protest was lodged against that act would be taken up by the United States.

The army, the president discussed at some length. He praised the army legislation of the last Congress but said that provision should be made by law so that the nation's foreign regiments may be always maintained upon a war footing; and he urged the passage of the pending militia pay bill, designed to make service in the militia more enticing and showed that the home army will be nothing more than a "skeleton" until Congress provides that it be concentrated in fewer posts than are now maintained.

He urged also the passage of another bill now before Congress designed to raise quickly a volunteer army in case of war.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1912

A Durham correspondent is calling attention to the statement of the banks in that city show deposits five and a quarter million dollars, while the tax books show not quite a hundred and fifty thousand listed for taxation. Much money may escape taxation, but the correspondent in question seems not to have been fair enough to note that taxes are listed at a time of year when money is scarce, while these bank deposits are at a time when money is plentiful.

A very frequently worked fraud is by the young strangers who come around soliciting subscribers for magazines on the claim that they are working their way through college. They usually work from house to house telling their story to the women folk, who are persuaded out of their money and wait in vain for the promised magazine. If people do not want to part with their money for nothing, they should be careful about giving it to strangers.

Charlotte is always doing things in the right direction. The city is now getting in line to adopt the commission form of government.

South Carolina's governor seems to be in a class all by himself.

We certainly hope the coming one will be a sane Christmas.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cooking is a matter which concerns the whole family, and under modern methods and conveniences it is made so attractive the whole family is becoming interested, if not taking part in it.

"These biscuits are delicious; this cake is excellent," says the father. "I made them," says the daughter, and both father and daughter beam with pleasure.

It is a crime, with our modern agencies, helps and facilities, to have soggy biscuit, or wooden cake, or leaden pastry.

Royal Baking Powder has made home baking a success, a pleasure and a profit, and the best cooking today the world over is done with its aid.

The Safest place

for your harvest money is in this bank

Look at these two men. They have been to market their cotton. One put his money in the bank and the other one didn't. They were held up on the way home. The silly fellow who wanted to take his money home had to "deliver" to the robbers. The other was able to "give them the laugh." —His money was in the bank.

Take a lesson from this—put your harvest money in this bank like all other successful farmers. It is the safest place—withdraw it whenever you please.
