CONGRESS LOWERS SIZE OF U. S. ARMY TO 175,000 MEN

Both Houses Pass Almost Similar Resolution Providing for Proposed Reduction.

TO CUT OUT ACCEPTING ENLISTMENTS UNTIL THE MINIMUM IS REACHED

Resolutions Do Not Prevent Acceptances of Re-enlistments—Against Advice of Baker.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Congress voted today to limit the size of the regular army to 175,000 enlisted men.

The Senate by a vote of 41 to 33 set aside its decision of last week to reduce the army to 150,000 men and then with out a record vote adopted the original joint resolution of Senator New, Republican, Indiana, directing the Secretary of War to stop recruiting until the army is cut to 175,000 men.

The house ten minutes later adopted a joint resolution sponsored by Chairman Kahn, of its Military Affairs Committee, also directing the Secretary of War to cease enlistments until there are not more than 175,000 enlisted men in the regular establishment. The house vote was 285 to 4, only Representative Bee, Texas, Blackmon, Alabama, and Coady, Maryland, Democrats, and Cramton, Michigan, Republican, standing out against the resolution.

The resolutions adopted by the two houses are almost identical in their provisions, each providing that the 175,000 limit shall not prevent the re-enlistment of men who have served one or more enlistments in the military service. The language of the two measures, however, differs somewhat and either the senate or the house will send its resolution to conference for rearrangement. Action by the joint conference committee of the two houses is expected to be taken speedily and the resultant measure sent to the President.

The action of the two houses was taken against the recommendations of war department heads and General Pershing. Secretary Baker in appearing before the Senate Military Affairs Committee advised against an army of less than 250,000 men after the "present necessity of economy had been relieved." General Pershing told the same committee that an army of 200,000 men constituted a safety margin.

The vote in the senate showed that several senators who last week went on record as favoring an army of 150,000 had changed about placing their support behind the 175,000 figure. No reason for the change was announced, but some senators said privately that they believed President Wilson would sign a resolution placing the future army at 175,000 men, but would not approve a smaller number.

There was no party division in the senate on the question and the final votes were taken after an all day battle over the question of army size. This debate was enlivened by a clash between Senators Phelan, Democrat, California, and Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, over the question of Japanese aggression. Senator Phelan urged stronger garrisoning of Pacific posts and Senator Williams declared that Japan had "neither power nor desire to fight this country over what may be done in California," regarding Japanese questions.

Ovington E. Weller is the Republican senator-elect from Maryland. He is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and served as chairman of the Maryland state roads commission for several years.

KANSAS INDIANS END CELEBRATION OF THE NEW YEAR

Many White People Attend Celebration of Pottawatomie Tribe at Reservation.

Mayetta, Kan., Jan. 18.—The Pottawatomie Indians recently finished a two days' dance and feast in honor of the New Year. It was a celebration which every Indian on the reservation, a mile from here, attended, and many white guests were present, for the Pottawatomie feasts are famous for their quality and excellence. Barbecued beef is one of the favorite dishes.

The reservation is twenty-one miles from Topeka, the capital of Kansas, and contains about eleven square miles of land. Approximately five hundred Indians are living there and the land is farmed. The white man's civilization has flowed around the little reservation and left it, a relic of pioneer days in Kansas. Much of the white man's civilization has, of course, been absorbed by the Pottawatomies; they all speak English, and motor cars are commonplace among the red men.

"I can remember," Mat Septa, a young Pottawatomie, said, "when the dancers and medicine men used to prophesy at our dances of how the white men would one day ride in carriages without horses, and fly through the air like birds. We used to think that was very wonderful, but we have seen it happen. Our dancers also told of how there would be a great war among the white men, in which they would cross the sea to kill one another. That was the European war. I was in France eighteen months myself with the Eighty-ninth division. A great experience. You know what I liked about the army, you always had friends and were not lonesome. But I was glad to come home.

"Our people live softer than they used to. When I was a little boy, often they used to take us down to the bank of the creek on winter mornings, and break the ice and make us jump in. That was to make us hard and strong. They don't do that any more with our boys.

"Our prophets tell of another great war that will come among the white men, and after that, they say, there will be no more war. They tell us that the white man's heart will be changed then, and that much of the land that once belonged to the Indian will be given back to him. I do not know. It is not god for my people to have too much money in their pockets, for they spend it swiftly."

WEST AFRICA IS LATEST SECTION TO SEEK HOME RULE

Number of Reforms Urged in Internal Administration of West African Colonies.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS ADVISED FOR PRINCIPAL TOWNS AND SETTLEMENTS

Removal of Colored Bar in Medical Service Also to be Given Consideration

London, Jan. 18.—West Africa is the latest country to seek home rule. A representative of educated opinion in British West Africa, has arrived here to urge upon the Colonial office a number of reforms in the internal administration of the four West African colonies and protectorates. Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast, Nigeria and the Gambia, says the London Times.

The mission has been sent to this country by the National Congress of British West Africa, and seeks in the first place the creation of a legislative council which will be composed one-half of members chosen by the crown and one-half of members elected by the people, and for a house of assembly which would have complete control of the revenue and expenditure.

As to local government, the mission urges that municipal corporations should be established in each of the principal towns of the colonies.

The judicial system of British West Africa, in particular Nigeria, is criticized by the mission which states that at present "it is the practice to appoint to judicial offices Europeans who have not received any legal training and who are not competent to exercise judicial functions."

Among other suggested reforms they seek: The establishment of a West African university; the removal of the color bar in the West African medical service and the introduction of immigration laws to prevent the influx of undesirable aliens to British West Africa.

President J. C. Ellen Writes Mayor Clark, Expressing Approval of Campaign Recently Completed.

"Hon. Mayor and Board of Aldermen. Gentlemen:—

"The Greenville Chamber of Commerce in its annual meeting held on January 14, 1921, heartily approved your efforts to eradicate the plague of malaria from our midst. We urge that the work be continued until such a time, in your judgment, that our community is entirely safe from this curse.

"We pledge ourselves unreservedly to create public sentiment so that you will not be financially handicapped.

"Yours very truly,
 "C. J. ELLEN, Pres."

BRAZILIAN CHAMBER WANTS BIGGER NAVY

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 18.—The Committee on Naval and Military Affairs of the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies wants a bigger navy. It has called upon the President to present to the next session of congress a program of general staff of the admiralty and to be carried out for a term of years.

The reason given for this proposed increase is that it is necessary because of Brazil's new position in the world as a signatory to the Versailles Treaty and as an effective member of the League of Nations. Another reason ascribed is the necessity of defending a long coast line.

SAYS EMIGRANTS MUST LEAVE ITALY IF THINGS PROSPER

Professor Ugo Ancona Says Country Cannot Recover Until 1,500,000 Emigrants Leave.

FOREIGN CAPITAL NEEDED BADLY AND MUST BE SENT BACK BY THOSE TO LEAVE

Raising Exchange Value of Money Absolutely Imperative to Nation's Development.

Rome, Dec. 30.—Professor Ugo Ancona, former Under-Secretary of Transportation estimates that at least 1,500,000 emigrants must leave Italy within the next two years if the nation is to prosper. He suggests that the government aid emigration by transforming cargo vessels into emigrant ships, because the greatest present obstacle to emigration is the lack of transportation facilities.

The professor proposes that Italian emigration should be conducted in a new and systematic way. He has advocated a plan of collective emigration to include large and complete units of labor, comprising not only laborers, but engineers, experts, managers, and if possible, capitalists, who would all emigrate together to the countries where they are most needed.

He points out that if 1,500,000 emigrants were to leave Italy in the next two years they would send back home something like $1,000,000,000, which would go far toward raising the exchange value of Italian money. This value is now so low that it crushes initiative and prevents immediate regeneration of Italian finances.

DANGER OF CRISIS HAS NOW PASSED IN THE UNITED STATES

Head of Federal Reserve System Urges Need of Credit Facilities in European Nation.

New York, Jan. 17.—Both long term credits and investments in European securities are called for by the present situation to supplement ordinary banking activities in effecting the economic and financial rehabilitation of foreign countries, Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board declared in an address here tonight before a group meeting of the New York State bankers association.

Speaking on "working back to normal," Governor Harding asserted that whatever danger there may have been is past and the bright future is ahead to be attained through hard and intelligent work. Production must continue if the country is to prosper, the Governor said, but surplus production must be disposed of by sale to foreign countries. Under present conditions, he continued, many countries cannot pay for goods in the usual manner and "it is necessary that we should devise new means of financing our foreign trade."

"Continuance of trade with Europe is vital, Governor Harding declared and the maintenance of "trade relationships of other countries with Europe" is scarcely less important.

"Otherwise there will be a constant tendency," the Governor explained, "toward the accumulation here of goods, principally raw materials, from those countries which have been in the habit of selling to Europe but which, on account of Europe's inability to pay and their own inability to extend credit, are shipping to the United States in order to sell for cash."

MRS. STEIDLEY TO ASSIST CHILDREN OF CITY SCHOOLS

Raleigh Woman to Conduct Three Weeks' Campaign to Deal With Present-Day Problems.

Mrs. Mary Steidley, of Raleigh, who conducted the Bible study class during the McLendon meeting in this city, has returned to Greenville for the purpose of helping children of the Greenville schools deal with the problems confronting them. This feature of her work will take place during the morning hours and the early afternoon hours. The ministers of Greenville, on learning of Mrs. Steidley's coming, secured her services in the late afternoon and evening for assisting women's clubs and conducting Bible study classes and holding conferences with the business women.

Mrs. Steidley needs no introduction to the people of Greenville as she made numbers of friends while here with Evangelist Baxter McLendon. She is one of the best read women in the State along business, educational and religious lines and has been declared by the Methodist conference to be the strongest woman in the State.

Her schedule is as follows:

Wednesday and Friday afternoons she will talk to women's clubs.

Thursday nights, beginning at 7:30 o'clock she will conduct a community Bible study and prayer meeting in the Methodist church.

Monday, Tuesday and Friday nights, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, in the Evans street school, there will be a conference hour for business women.

During the morning and the early afternoon, every day in the week, Mrs. Steidley will be at the high school building for a conference with boys and girls of the town and community. Her work will cover a period of at least three weeks, if not more, and while in Greenville she becomes a teacher and makes her home in the Vines house with other teachers of city schools.

LITTLE SENTIMENT TO ENLARGE HOUSE SEEN IN CONGRESS

Leaders Declare Measure to Increase Size of Lower House Will Be Beaten Decisively.

SHARP FIGHT EXPECTED WHEN ISSUE COMES UP FOR FINAL CONSIDERATION

Republican Steering Committee Reported Almost Solid Against the Measure Today.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Lines were sharply drawn tonight for a fight tomorrow to defeat the re-apportionment bill which would increase the membership of the House of Representatives from 435 to 485.

After a final check-up, leaders announced that the measure as reported would be voted down decisively and that a substitute plan, holding seats to the present total would be adopted by a big majority.

There seemed little sentiment for a large House. Members from state which would lose representation under the shifting of twelve seats from eleven to eight states, declared they would vote against adding forty-eight representatives at a cost of approximately $1,500,000 a year when there is a crying demand from all quarters for governmental economy.

As mapped out today the program, under which the bill will be called up tomorrow, provides for five hours of debate. While there was some objection to so much oratory, it was agreed to permit members to express their views at length, and then by a roll-call vote let the country know that the House is big enough as it stands.

The Republican steering committee was reported solidly against the increase, not as a committee, but as individuals. Southern Democrats, it was said, were expected to oppose the lowering of total as a body, as the shifting of seats would leave their present number intact.

KINSTON READY TO GET IN TO BASEBALL LEAGUE

Kinston, Jan. 17.—Local fans have resumed their agitation for professional baseball this year, with apparently increasing chances for realizing their desire. They propose a six-town association in mid-eastern Carolina with a little longer playing season than was had by the Eastern Carolina league last year. Goldsboro, 26 miles from this city; New Bern, 35 miles farther east; Washington, approximately 35 miles from New Bern; Greenville, an hour's ride from Washington; and Tarboro a short distance by rail or automobile from either Goldsboro, Kinston, Washington or Greenville, are other towns suggested.

Greenville is the only town of the circuit that hasn't yet reported what will be done. People interested in sport for the summer months should get busy immediately and get in line. The proposed six-town association would be an improvement over last year, as larger places are to participate, and it is up to local fans to get busy immediately and make preparations for the summer.

FIVE BANDITS HOLD UP MAIL TRUCK IN CHICAGO AND ESCAPE WITH FUNDS

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Five youthful bandits held up a mail truck at the union station here today and escaped in an automobile with twelve sacks of mail, ten of which contained registered mail. Police say the best information obtainable indicated that pouches contained part of the Federal Reserve Bank money, shipment of which was destined for train leaving for St. Paul at two-thirty o'clock. Postal authorities say the stolen shipment will amount to at least $100,000.

PROSPERITY AHEAD FOR POLAND
 Poland's greatest single industry, textile manufacturing, after struggling along under the severest handicaps since the outbreak of the World War is at last heading toward prosperity, according to reports now reaching the United States.

Before the war the value of the annual production of the Polish textile industry exceeded $200,000,000, of which about $120,000,000 was in cotton goods. During the war the production dropped to almost nothing, as the occupying armies not only stopped active work, but carried much of the equipment of the textile plants. Since the end of hostilities a gradual improvement has been made in the face of all obstacles until the production of cotton textiles is now estimated at 50 per cent. of pre-war output and that of woollens at about 20 per cent.

Dependent entirely on raw materials from foreign nations it took Poland many months to establish credit arrangements for the shipment of wool and cotton from England and the United States. The optimism now expressed in the textile centers of Poland is based on the successful conclusion of negotiations with English wool dealers who have agreed to grant credit for enough wool to keep the more important Polish plants running for eight or nine months, and the progress that is being made in obtaining similar credit from American cotton owners.

The major textile centers of Poland are Lodz, Warsaw and Kalisz, all in Russia Poland. The Lodz district is a huge unit of cotton and woolen mills employing before the war more than 100,000 textile workers. So far as size and technical equipment are concerned the larger mills at Lodz are the best equipped and organized on the continent. In the Lodz district there were in 1915 about 600 establishments, of which 422 were in the Lodz district. In Warsaw there were about 100 mills and in Kalisz, about 63. Bialystok, northeast of Warsaw, and Bielsk in the Teschen region, are two other minor textile producing centers, both being largely confined to woollens.

When the war began, the cotton industry in Poland was employing 1,435,000 spindles, and 28,000 looms; the woolen industry 1,120,330 spindles and 29,550 looms, and the linen and hemp industry 44,800 spindles and 3,900 looms.

At present about 500,000 spindles and 10,000 looms are being used in the cotton industry, while in the woolen industry the figures are approximately 240,000 spindles and 5,000 looms. But little headway has been made in the re-establishment of the linen and hemp industry.

The main problem facing both the cotton and woolen industry in Poland is that of securing an adequate supply of raw materials. In America, Poland faces the problem of financing the purchases of cotton. The proposal which is regarded as having the most promise involves the purchase of cotton on credit secured by mortgages on the mill properties in Poland and guaranteed by combinations of Polish banks and in turn underwritten by the Polish government. The fact that a wide ready market in Poland and in the neighboring states awaits the Polish textile output is another factor aiding the nation in securing credit on raw materials.

THE PASSING OF YOUTH

Memory beckoned me back in a dream,
Back to the freedom of woodland and stream,
Into the land of the mocking bird's theme,

Back where where I once used to roam.
Never a sun sinks away in the west,
Never a moon sees the races at rest,
Never I wake but a void in my breast
Ever is calling me home.

Back to the hearthstone, welcoming warm,
Back to the bliss of a day on the farm,
Back to the mother whose sheltering arm

cradled my tired little head.
Give me the comrades of innocent play;
Rock me to sleep to the whippoorwill's lay;

You who could whisper my darkness away
Kiss me and tuck me in bed.

Strange is the scene that now covers the hill;
Treeless the yard where the weeds grow at will,
Hushed the refrain of the woodpecker's bill,

Bleak is the homestead and cold.
Draped o'er the mantelpiece hangs now a pall,
Gone the wierd shadows that peopled the wall,

Scattered the loved ones who answered my call,
Time has indeed taken toll!

Dare I lament the recession of years?
Nothing is gained by effeminate tears,
Youth in the haze of the past disappears,

Life has no time to be sad.
Mife is the challenge of life to obey,
Mine to move on though my comrades delay;

Mine will be happiness day after day—
Then I awoke and was glad.
