

Greenville Rotarians Celebrate Their Sixteenth Anniversary With Interesting Program

Number of Appropriate Addresses Feature Evening's Activities. $165. Raised For Starving Chinese. Success of Rotary Has Been Matter of General Interest in Every Section of the Country.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club last night the club appropriately celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of the organization of Rotary. All the members were present with the exception of five, who were out of town, and the occasion proved of unusual interest.

The usual excellent supper preceded the exercise, and after this had been fully enjoyed by members and guests, Chairman Paul Clodfelter called the body to order and the regular routine business was quickly disposed of. A feature of the business was a collection for the Chinese Relief Fund, the club in the true spirit of helpfulness contributing $165 including the individual subscription of two visitors Drs. Laughinghouse and Dawson.

A report from Sam Phillips stated that the paraphernalia for the club gymnasium has been installed and was now complete. This gymnasium is the best that could be procured, being the equal character of those found in the leading universities of the country. This is to be used fully by both the boy and girl scouts, as well as by the Rotarians themselves, under capable directors, and it will doubtless prove of inestimable physical value to all who take advantage of it.

At the conclusion of the business the meeting was turned over to J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the program committee, who after a few appropriate words introduced Hayward Dall, who spoke as follows:

"PROGRAM OF ROTARY"

Fellow Rotarians:

Sixteen years ago there lived in the city of Chicago an attorney by the name of Paul P. Harris whose circle of friends and acquaintances was very limited, as is the case with most men living in a large city. Feeling that he was not getting the most out of life, and filled with the desire to make more friends, it occurred to him that he would talk to several of his acquaintances.

On Feb. 23rd, 1905 was held the first meeting—an informal group. There were three other present besides Harris all in different lines of business—one being a coal dealer, one a mining operator, and another a tailor.

From this time on these men continued to meet from office to office, giving them an opportunity to learn something of the other fellows business which proved to be educational and interesting.

As this time went on, they found more men that were also anxious to increase the number of friends, and in this way the informal meetings soon grew into an organization with a definite purpose—that of promoting a closer friendship among business men. The name "Rotary Club" was suggested by Harris as suitable for the new organization, which name occurred to him because they had been holding their meetings in "Rotation" at the different places of business of the members. Today "Rotary" is a word that stands for better business practices—and lofty ideals in business and professional intercourse.

The new club quickly increased in size—soon there were about 50 members and evening meetings were being held regularly. In 1908, just three years later, a sister club was organized in San Francisco. Other clubs then followed rapidly, such as Oakland, Seattle and Los Angeles. While these were not organized as a result of any effort to extend the organization—they were a result of the seed sown by the first few men inspired by the Rotary idea. In 1910 a joint resolution was adopted by all of the 16 clubs then in existence—that a National Guard of Commissioners be appointed to call and arrange the details of a convention. This convention was held in Chicago in August of that year, and the National Association of Rotary clubs was formed. At this, "Rotary's" first convention there were about 40 delegates present. One of the delegates at this convention predicted that in 80 years the world would see a thousand Rotary clubs. His prediction bids fair to happen in 12 years instead of 80, for there is today 800 clubs with over 65,000 members.

As stated before, each one of the first four members of the original club in Chicago, followed a different calling. The membership of the original club was maintained on this basis no two men in the club representing the same business or profession. In holding to this plan during the expansion of Rotary the value of this idea has been proven. Other organizations may have thousands of members, while the Rotary clubs has only a few. But, in this apparent weakness in numbers lies much the real strength of Rotary.

A limited membership plan is representing of the community, and at the same time it is impossible for the membership to become so large as to make it difficult for the promotion of acquaintances and intimate friendship among all the members. United action by the club is much easier than with a large, cumbersome membership.

A club composed of one member representing each business or profession gives the best opportunity for the consideration and discussion of all public questions, and matters pertaining to various trades and professions.

It is impossible for one profession to become numerically strong enough in the club to dominate it. The one membership plan provides a basis to maintain regular attendance and active participation or the surrender of membership to someone else in the same line of business.

The business and professional man is given a better understanding of other business and professions; thus, lifting him out of the narrow rut of his own business, and giving him suggestions an information obtainable in no other way.

At the convention in Duluth in 1912, the "International Association of Rotary clubs" into existence, taking the place of the "National Association". At this convention applications for memberships were received from the Rotary clubs of Winnipeg and London, England.

By this time there were in existence 50 clubs with an approximate membership of 4500. In nine years from then up until the present time, Rotary has grown by leaps and bounds. Today there are over 800 clubs and over 65,000 Rotarians.

From the insignificant beginning of four men in one city 16 years ago to today the Rotary idea circles the globe, and most every foreign country has learned the great value of its Rotary clubs.

Every one of the 800 or more Rotary clubs in the world is a "going" organization in every sense of the word. Not a single club ever failed to carry the message of unselfishness to its community.

The efficiency of any organization depends upon the percentage of at-

GREEN STOCKINGS TO BE PRESENTED IN CITY MARCH 4

Popular Attraction to Be Played at Training School by Local Talent of Raleigh

The Raleigh Community Players are sparing no effort to make a great success of their play Green Stockings which will be presented at the Academy of Music in Raleigh on Thursday evening, and at the Training School in Greenville on next Monday evening March 7. The reports in the News and Observer of the progress of the play are enthusiastic. People just from Raleigh who have talked with those who have seen the rehearsals and know just what the Players are going to give, bring flattering reports of the play. It is a charming play, with a fine cast who are doing excellent work is the verdict.

The Raleigh papers have something interesting about it every day.

Attention is called to the attractive posters have been placed in the windows and the handbills that are being distributed.

Tomorrow will appear a brief sketch of the play so that the public can have some idea of the plot.

The Lanier Society will do all it can to make a success of the performance in Greenville, and the town will help them to show the Raleigh visitors what they can do.

tendance on the part of the members. Rotary clubs maintain a higher percentage of attendance at their meetings than any other organization made up of business and professional men.

You are all familiar with the achievements of the Greenville Rotary club, and I feel that we can be justly proud of our record. While just a little over a year old we have accomplished things that a short while back looked almost impossible. However, we must not content ourselves with the past, but continue to live up to the standards of Rotary.

Rotary is more than a name. It is a spirit and a life. A Rotary club is more than an organization. It is an associated vision and effort; it is cooperative, not competitive, service. It transmutes kindly desires into helpful deeds, and turns dreams into accomplished facts. It is a training school in unselfishness, where personal gain is subordinate to public good. Rotary values men for what they are more than for what they have, and for what they can be, more than for what they are. Rotary welcomes a vision of need, and views service as a privilege to be sought, not as a burden to be avoided.

Rotary never sidesteps a responsibility or "passes the buck" to the other fellow. To the Rotarian life is an investment that must yield dividends that are better than dollars and that are not measured in terms of commerce. To the Rotarian, community prosperity is more than personal profit. He never "knocks" a good thing, nor praises a bad thing. His city is the best in the country, and his country the best in the world. He is an all-wool, yard-wide American, Canadian, (Continued on Page Four)

SINN FEIN PARTY HOLDS 1,000 MEN IN DUBLIN PRISON

Few of the Prisoners Are Much Sought Members of Republican Army. It Is Declared

Dublin, Mar. 1.—Of the 1,000 prisoners confined in internment camps in Ireland the vast majority, according to spokesmen of the Sinn Fein, are non-combatants, many middle-aged and some quite elderly. Few, it is asserted, are the much sought members of the Irish Republican army.

The prisoners include men in every walk of life only a limited number of whom, it is said, took an active part in the republican movement. Among them are many whose principal offense, it is stated, was the interest they displayed in the Gaelic League, an organization which for many has sought to revive the Irish language.

A statement regarding the death of the two prisoners, Joseph Torney and Patrick Sloane, at Ballykillar camp, county down recently has been given out by the Sinn Fein publicity bureau here. It says that the official report that the two men were shot for disobeying the orders of a sentry was incorrect, that the sentry fired without provocation while the men were standing at a point which by official notification to the prisoners was not out of bounds.

Sinn Fein commandant of the prisoners reports have been fired on by sentries without cause, and that he himself narrowly escaped a sentry's bullet while walking on the road near the spot where Torney and Sloane were killed.

UNITED STATES TO BUY AIRSHIP FROM ITALIAN BUILDERS

Large Airplane Capable of Carrying One Hundred Passengers to Be Received Soon

Washington, Mar. 1.—The army will have an airship capable of carrying 100 passengers in addition to the crew when the great Italian Semi-rigid dirigible "Roma" recently purchased, arrives. An air service detachment is en route to Italy, to deflate the big bag and bring it home on ship board.

The "Roma", driven by twelve cylinder engines developing an aggregate of 2,400 horse power has a lifting capacity of 61,000 pounds. She can carry nearly 19 tons through the air in addition to herself and her crew at an estimated maximum speed of 80 miles an hour. The big gas bag, holding 1,200,000 cubic feet of gas, is longer than all but the most modern war craft 410 feet, and is 82 feet wide while bag and car tower to a height of 86 feet six inches.

With filled gasoline tanks the ship has a full speed radius of 5,000 miles and a full speed radius of 310 miles and at cruising speed could go 800 miles without landing.

The "Roma" was constructed under personal supervision of Signor Uselli whose name has been applied to aircraft of that particular type. She was designed for commercial uses originally, but sold to the U. S. for $200,000. It would cost $1,250,000 to duplicate her, expert figure.

DECLARES ASCENT OF MOUNT EVEREST IS IMPRACTICABLE

Well-Known Mountain Climber Says Francis Younghusband Has Perilous Trip Before Him

Geneva, Mar. 1.—The ascent of Mt. Everest which is to be undertaken next year by an expedition headed by Sir Francis Younghusband, is impracticable for many years at least, in the opinion of Henry F. Montagnier, of Terre Haute, Ind., a well known mountain climber. Mr. Montagnier has made many ascents in the Himalays, the Rockies and the European Alps, and has attained the highest altitudes. He is now at Champéry, Switzerland.

His opinion of the difficulty of ascending the highest peak in the world is shared by some other international expert Alpine climbers but there are others among them who disagree with him.

I should have no hesitation in predicting that Everest will certainly not be conquered by the first party that makes he attempt, said Mr. Montagnier. In my opinion it will take years each party profiting by the experience acquired by its predecessors and each gaining a thousand or more feet on the previous record.

One thing is certain, and that is that the conquest of the highest peak in the world will be far in the way the most terrific test of endurance human being has ever undergone. The journey to the North or South poles, as far as physical effort and normal courage are concerned, would be mere child's play compared with the ascent of a mountain more than 29,000 feet high.

Whether it is possible for man to attain an altitude of 29,140 feet on the earth's surface without the aid of an airplane is a question which, to my mind, can only be solved by actual experience. The highest altitude yet attained is about 24,600, feet.

PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE WITH REMUS STORIES

Dr. B. W. Spillman In-Interesting Account of Joel Harris at Training School Last Night

Dr. B. W. Spillman held a large audience at the Training School last evening with his charming account of the life of Joel Chandler Harris interspersed with Uncle Remus stories.

Joel Chandler Harris is the only man in the literary world who has taken a lowly negro and made him more famous than the author, and has made a timid rabbit better known than himself is the tribute that he paid the creator of the Uncle Remus stories. Harris said that he never composed a story but merely told what old negroes had told him. Dr. Spillman says that he himself had heard old negroes tell most of the stories that are famous in Remus.

Dr. Spillman aroused the sympathy and understanding of his audience for the big hearted, timid, stammering man who could write so wonderfully and yet who shrank from meeting people and lived in solitude. He never told one of his stories to any one not even to his own children.

The children in the audience chuckled with delight as Dr. Spillman told stories of Brer Rabbit, Benjamin Rame, Judge Far, and the other creatures, and the old folk joined in. Everybody wanted just one more when he closed.

Thousands know Uncle Remus who never heard of Joel Chandler Harris, said Dr. Spillman, and it was his privilege to tell the story of the man and interpret his character and work, and he did it well.

Again this morning he told stories to the students of the Training School at the morning assembly hour.

Every penny taken in last night goes to the Pitt County fund for the Chinese Famine Relief Fund.

SOUTHERN EUROPE HARD HIT BY LACK OF TRAIN SERVICE

Freight Car to Remove Food Supplies Brings About Distressing Situation in Many Sections

London, March 1.—Lack of locomotives and freight cars to transport food and other supplies is one of the worst features of the distressing situation which prevails in Eastern Southern Europe, says M. Hotovec, the Czecho-Slovak Minister for Foreign Trade, who has been visiting in London.

The minister said that there were tens of thousands of freight cars in those parts of Europe which were in need of repairs but could not be restored to use because of the lack of necessary material and technical experts to do the work.

He asserted that the peace treaty had laid down the proposition that the Reparations Committee would distribute all railway rolling stock and locomotives which had belonged to Austria Hungary and those which were surrendered by Germany, but that virtually nothing had been done in this direction, although more than three years had elapsed since the treaty. M. Hotovec declared that this was the cause of non-development of trade and the consequent food prices in Central Europe.

Czechoslovakia, he said, had been supplying coal and sugar to Austria conveyed on her own railway cars. They had, however, never been returned. There were at present 8,000 such cars in Austria which Czechoslovakia could not get back. There were also about 1,000 each in Yugoslavia and 1,000 each in Jugoslavia and Rumania. Czechoslovakia had purchased 100,000 tons of grain and flour in Rumania and Jugoslavia but was unable to obtain delivery.

SPECIAL PRAYER SERVICE

On account of repairs now going on there will be no service in the Memorial Baptist Church Wednesday evening, but instead services will be held in five homes in different parts of the city. The members of the church and their friends and the public are cordially invited to attend any one of these meetings. In addition to the hostesses two leaders and a committee of arrangements have been appointed for each home.

These special prayer services are designed to be a special preparation for the revival meeting to begin March 20. The subject for each meeting is prayer. Announcements will be made later for next Wednesday evening.

RAILROAD SITUATION

The railroad situation is involved in a maze of complications almost as desperate a state of international relations. There are so many powers to be consulted, so much speech making to be done, so much antagonism to be overcome, and such division of authority that the proceedings are interminable. The railroad companies are trying to get in position where they will be able to exercise some effective authority in the operation of their lines.

Their charges are fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and wage rates are fixed by the railroad board. The new scale of charges was designed to provide net earnings of approximately 5-1-2 or 6 percent upon the value of railroad property, but a great many of the roads are not making operating expenses, and the public is protesting that the rates are greater than the business of the country can bear.

It would seem to be clear that operating costs must be reduced and the railroad officials have been exerting themselves to that end. They have cut down the number of employes by 280,000 since September, 1920, which is something more than the increase during Federal Administration. That is about all they have authority to do under the agreement by which they are for the most part without the approval of the railroad board. They are trying to get away from the system of unified rules and wage rates covering the whole country, which is a legacy of government administration, so that each company may deal direct with its own employes. Without ability to do this, the officials of the individual roads feel that they have little to do in the management of operations. They want to get back to piece work wherever that is practical, and as illustrating what they the railroad president says that he of the railroad of the shops has fallen off one third, and that not only will this involve a corresponding increase of the force to do work but that if his company is to do the work in its own shops it will have to add about 50 per cent to their size, equipment and the capital investments.

The Erie road undertook to put into force a reduction of wages for common labor, to bring into line, but the railroad board intervened and prevented it from going into effect.

The executive of the leading roads have not as yet submitted any request for wage reduction applying to the four brotherhoods of firemen. They have disclaimed the purpose of doing so at present, as they wish to concentrate first upon the effort to accomplish economies by increased efficiency. The issue has been raised, however, by one of the smaller roads, which claim not earning operating expenses and can not bring its expenses within the required limits without reducing wages.

The answer of the Brotherhoods is that wages are not related to finances, and that is problem should be laid before the Interstate Commerce Commission (presumably for authority to make another raise of rates) instead of the board. The Brotherhood spokesman said that it had never been suggested that the pay of employes should be dependent upon the earning of the road

"Shop Where They Chop"

"Where the chips are thickest,
Buying should be Heaviest" ---From Leslie's

"It is time to call off the buyer's strike. We heartily endorse the "buy now" slogan adopted by chambers of commerce throughout the country. By resuming the purchases of necessities the consumer will be rendering a patriotic service in bringing about the reopening of idle factories and restoring general prosperity to the country. The Chamber of Commerce of Winston-Salem, N. C. in an interesting advertisement for the stimulation of buying says that prices went up a step at a time and they can't come down the bannister. If you wait for the bottom to drop out neither you nor the other fellow may be able to buy then. Prices have fallen a bit, but the drop has not been uniform. It has not affected all lines in the same proportion, nor have all merchants accepted losses in the same degree. Leslie's urges its readers to buy today, but to look around and patronize only those merchants who are giving the public the greatest advantages in price cuts. In other words, shop where they chop. Where the chips are thickest, the buying should be heaviest".

With all due modesty, we think this editorial has stores like this organization in mind--We think the "Chips" are specially thick 'round here, and to judge by recent conditions, we believe the public agrees with us.

Local Rotarians Celebrate Rotary's Sixteenth Birthday

or what his nationality. He works hard, plays square, and gives with a smile. He has an eye for a neighbor need, a hand trained to help, a foot used to paths of helpfulness and mercy and a heart of true men, good women and little children.

Rotary may not be a religion, but it has woven into the fabric of its helpful activity that without which even religion would be a failure—Faith, Hope and Love.

THE ROTARIAN SLOGAN

Chairman Paul, Fellow nuts and visitors:

Rotary is the transmission wheel through which the forces of loyalty and progress latent in every community, are made effective aids to every worthy purpose.

This is a most excellent definition of Rotary, and it behoves every one of us to keep it 100 per cent in minds that we may catch and keep the vision Rotary purposes to give the world. Service above self, Visualizing facts of life, conditions in which people live, conditions under which the wrong of the world is being done.

Facts that grip the imagination and stir the heart will be taken hold of by the forces of loyalty and progress and developed to the credit and glory of our community. These forces Rotary will not permit to remain latent, that is if we all catch the vision. He profits most who serves best, and I might add most.

To accomplish these things we must read and learn of Rotary and its code of ethics. Study to know ourselves approved that we may become leaders prepared for service above self, responsive to the needs of the community

Ready to do the work and promote the high ideals that make us a 100 per cent club, worthy to be known as Rotarians. The purpose of good reading, says John Marley is to bring sunshine into the heart and drive moonshine from the head.

With our slogan and code of ethics before us for study, we all should have a heart full of sunshine and a head full of determination to serve the community in a way that sunshine will make our pathway and selfishness be unknown—then will we profit most, and the world perchance will catch the vision of the Nazarene that service above self makes the least of us greatest.

Following these splendid talks were a few timely remarks by various members and visitors. Guests at this meeting were J. K. Wooten, James Picklin, Dr. Laughinghouse, J. S. Tunstall, Dr. W. W. Dawson and G. T. Gardner.

Reservations were made by the members present for the district convention in Norfolk April 12 to 14. All are going.

It was announced that the next regular meeting on March 14th will be the club housewarming in celebration of the opening of its home.

It can be said here that out of the 800 clubs in existence the Greenville Rotary club is the only one there that owns its own club home, and those who have had the pleasure of being entertained there are impressed with its beauty and ideal equipment.

The meeting arranged for the near future are on Monday night, March 21 which will be ladies night, Monday night 28th, boys night, and Monday night April 4th teachers night.

At the conclusion of last night's meeting an hour was spent in the gymnasium where under the direction of parson Phillips the nuts pulled off some real stunts to the great merriment of the onlookers. Claude Gaskins, John Hassell, Jasper Winslow, Bob Crow and Paul Clodfelter were star actors. It was a fine meeting from start to finish and gave further emphasis of what Rotary is doing for Greenville.
