COMMERCE BODY TO CONTINUE DRIVE WITH GREAT VIGOR

Canvassing Teams for Chamber of Commerce Plan Most Intensive Drive of Campaign Today

The grand total of memberships in the chamber of commerce campaign as reported at the noon luncheon at the Rotary club was 216. Team workers continued this afternoon to seek more members, and declared that they will go out for a general round up tomorrow morning.

"The invitation to join must be carried to every progressive man in the community," declared R. L. Crow, chairman of the teams committee. The luncheon yesterday was enlivened by the sudden appearance of a group of future leaders in community life in Greenville. They were high school students bent upon appealing to the grown-ups to do all possible for the prosperity and development of Pitt county. One of them made a striking speech of appeal for unity of action in seeking for the better things. All of them joined in reading this oath for the citizens of Pitt county—a translation of the oath of the youth of Athens:

"We will never bring disgrace on this, our country, by an act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the country both alone and with many. We will reverence and obey our country's laws and we will do our best to inculcate a like reverence and respect in those above us who are prone to annul them or set them at naught. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of public duty. Thus in all these ways we will transmit this county, not only less, but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

Dink James, the spokesman, said: Ladies and Gentlemen: You may think that we boys have no interest in the chamber of commerce. That's a mistake. We are more interested in Greenville and Pitt county than in anything else in the world. A lot of us want to stay here to live all of our lives. If this is a hustling, progressive county we will stay.

Now we want the chamber of commerce to make this a hustling, progressive county and we want you to know that we are going to help if you will give us half a chance. We want you to develop the business in the county so that we can have just as good business chance here as if we go to Atlanta or New York. If you will do this we will work just as hard for Pitt county as you ever did—maybe harder.

Just as soon as we come of age you can count on us to build a better Greenville and Pitt county. In fact we'd like to help right now if you'll give us something to do. This morning the teams went at their work of seeking members in the Pitt county chamber of commerce with renewed vigor. Meeting at campaign headquarters at nine o'clock, they quickly formed their plans and started their canvassing. They met at one o'clock at the Rotary club for luncheon and the reporting of their results which are recorded above.

Leaders in the campaign were in different parts of the county this morning and yesterday, presenting facts to residents and helping in the work of the civic spirited citizens who are acting as team workers. Ayden, Winterville, Griffon and Stokes were visited. Other men went to Farmville and to sections of Greenville township that had not been visited. From all reports, the memberships that will be reported from these sections will give the chamber a representative membership.

J. L. Perkins of Stokes was a guest yesterday at the luncheon at the Rotary club. He is optimistic regarding prospects in his home town. "Stokes will undoubtedly report fifteen memberships," said Mr. Perkins. "They believe in the movement down there

COUNTY OFFICERS POUR OUT SEVERAL BARRELS OF BEER

Distillers Make Get-a-Way With Still Before Officers Arrive Upon the Scene at Mill Run

The illicit whiskey traffic of this section was given another scare yesterday when Deputy Sheriff Thad Williams, accompanied by Claude Wooten, succeeded in capturing four barrels of beer on a mill run on the outskirts of this city. The still would have been gotten at the same time, but operators got busy and moved the outfit to some other locality before the officers could get to it.

"There was everything in evidence to show that the still had just been moved to its new location and was being gotten in readiness for operation when the officers arrived. The operators received their warning in a peculiar way, according to the story told by Deputy Williams this morning. They were passing through a large field on the way to the woods where the still was thought to be located when they heard a pistol fire three times in rapid succession. Looking around they saw a colored woman and a boy working a short distance away, and discovered that the pistol had been fired by one of them.

Approaching the couple the officers asked why the pistol had been fired, suspecting that it was a warning for the distillers. The woman replied that she was trying to scare some chickens away. This caused the officers to make an inspection, but they failed to see anything like a chicken in sight. The woman firmly stuck to her statement, however, therefore they were forced to continue their journey.

The woods were penetrated only a short distance before the still's location was discovered, showing beyond doubt that the operators had taken the still to some other place immediately after the pistol was fired. They didn't have time to carry the beer with them, however, so Deputy Williams poured this out and put them to the trouble of getting more in readiness before whiskey could be made. County officers are launching a strenuous campaign against the whiskey making element at this time, and if they receive the co-operation of the people in every community much good will be accomplished. It is a mighty hard matter to bring about apprehension of traffic members if everyone remains quiet and indifferent, therefore, it is necessary for everyone to help. The traffic has been gaining greater proportions for several months, and unless some definite action is taken its demoralizing influence will be felt in many of the best homes of the county.

"BABY DAY" TO BE OBSERVED AT WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

Friday, May 13th, will be known as baby day at the Woman's Exchange in the Reflector building. Every article on display will be for the baby, and the hours will be from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Everyone visiting the exchange on that day will be given an opportunity to vote for their favorite baby under two years of age and at five o'clock a prize will be given to the baby receiving the most votes.

The exchange has a beautiful line of baby caps, rompers, and other articles necessary for the baby. Don't fail to attend the baby day sale.

and we want to do all we can to make this organization a success". Mr. Perkins signed up yesterday. The residents of Greenville who joined the chamber yesterday, bringing the total at the noon luncheon to exactly two hundred, were: J. R. Abeyonnis, C. H. Achbell, Louis Curry, J. O. Dural, J. J. Gilbert, C. S. Graves, Greenville Ice and Coal Co., Greenville Publishing Co., A. N. Hatem, D. N. Hagem, E. B. Higgs, J. W. Higgs, James Long, J. L. Little, J. H. ADVOCATES GREAT COOPERATION FOR RETAIL BUSINESS

F. E. Kemper of Atlanta Tells Convention of Grocers at Cincinnati the What Country Needs

Cincinnati, O., May 12.—Greater co-operation between the wholesale and the retail grocers of the country was advocated here today by F. E. Kemper of Atlanta, Ga., vice president of the National Retail Grocers association before the annual meeting of the Southern Whole Grocers association.

"I am sure there ought to be the greatest cooperation between the wholesaler and the retailer," said Mr. Kemper. "I am frank in stating that I believe our destinies are so closely bound together that we cannot adopt any other plan other than to work hand in hand."

"Immediately upon the declaration of war, business in America was stagnated for a time. Shortly after that, we all underwent a most frantic and supposedly a most prosperous period. Most of us were so engrossed in the petty details of our affairs that we grew careless and neglectful of the fundamental ideas surrounding our individual business and as a result during the past year of depression we have been undergoing some new experiences and reaping the fruits of discord created during the extravagant period.

POLISH WOMEN IN STRONG OPPOSITION LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Leading Women in Vilna District Take Up Cudgels Against Organization Functioning in Europe

Vilna, May 12.—The Polish women of Vilna have taken up cudgels against the league of nations. They shouldered arms last summer and fought Bolshevik soldiers in defense of the city and they assert they will fight again if the league should attempt to send an international army to police the disputed territory in event of a upheavement.

Vilna, at present, is occupied by General Lucien Zeligowski and some 20,000 Polish soldiers, while representatives of Poland and Lithuania, with the league of nations as mediator, have been conferring with the view to determining the fate of the Vilna district, which is called Central Lithuania by General Zeligowski and his adherents.

The league's military commission of endeavoring to settle the controversy control, which since last fall has been between Poland and Lithuania, until recently made its headquarters in Vilna. The control commission has never been popular in Vilna. By a recent decision denying women right of franchising the commission came into greater disfavor than ever.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILE RECOVERED YESTERDAY

The Ford automobile belonging to J. T. Ross of Washington, which was stolen while parked at the Proctor hotel night before last, was recovered by city authorities yesterday at B. C. Flemmings store, a short distance from this city. It is believed the machine was taken by two white boys who became scared and left it before the cops had time of apprehending them.

SOCIAL FEATURES TO BE PRESENTED AT ART EXHIBITS

Many Interesting Features Planned for Entertainment at Model School This Evening

At the model school tonight at 8 o'clock there will be exceedingly interesting social features going on in each room for all those who come to see the pictures in the art exhibit going on at the school. The pictures are on exhibit from three o'clock throughout all the afternoon and evening, and will be on exhibit again tomorrow in both afternoon and evening.

Miss McFadyen, the principal, and the teachers have provided special social entertainment for those who come this evening and will entertain the guests for half an hour, 8 to 8:30 before they examine the pictures. Those who do not care for this can go directly to the rooms in which the pictures are exhibited.

The price of admission is twenty-five cents. If any one cares to come to see the pictures a second time, he can pay thirty-five cents and for the ten cents extra be admitted the second time.

Many of the school children saw the pictures yesterday and many others today, the teachers accompanying the classes and explaining the pictures. Miss Martin is taking the high school students and Miss Lewis is taking classes of Training school students to the exhibit for the sake of picture study. The pictures are excellent reproductions of the masterpieces of art. This is a rare opportunity to see these copies of the great picture.

LEADERS TRYING TO HARMONIZE IN ULSTER IRELAND

Efforts on Foot to Find Basis for Harmonizing Divergent Opinions in Southern Territories

Dublin, May 12.—Efforts are being made to find a basis on which the divergent interests of Ulster and Southern Ireland may be harmonized.

Impetus has been given this movement, which is regarded as an essential preliminary to any negotiations between the government and Sinn Fein, by the Irish Dominion league whose executive committee is engaged in sounding the sentiment of both sections with a view to reporting its findings to the British government.

It is understood there have been sufficient modifications of the views of the politicians as well as the members of both Ulster and the Southern countries to inspire confidence that their conflicting aspirations can be reconciled.

The chief difficulty in the path of peace, it is believed, is to discover a common ground for discussion between the government and Daily Eireann. The refusal of the Daily to announce its minimum terms has given setback to the attempt to bring the government and Sinn Fein together.

TWO DEEDS TRANSFER FILED SINCE TUESDAY

The following deeds of transfer have been filed in the office of the register of deeds for registration since reports of Tuesday afternoon: T. R. Moore and wife to B. F. Tyson, consideration $1700; J. L. Horton, commissioner to W. A. Lewis, consideration $365.

DR. JOYNER HERE TO PROMOTE LATE MARKETING PLAN

Former Superintendent of Public Instruction in State Heartily in Favor of New Movement

Dr. J. Y. Joyner of LaGrange, president of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers association and also chairman of the co-operative marketing association, passed through Greenville this morning enroute to Farmville where today he will confer with prominent business men and farmers of that section regarding the possibility of the marketing association for this immediate territory. Dr. Joyner was accompanied to Farmville by W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent of Pitt county, who will assist him in acquainting the district with the marketing principles which are being carried into every county of the State at the present time.

Dr. Joyner expressed himself as greatly pleased with progress made by campaign committees in various parts of the State, and said that in the course of a few months the marketing association will be functioning as one of the most definite mediums the American planter has ever known. The plan is the most practical, he declared, because it eliminates the old careless "dumping plan" of the past when the farmer went to the market and asked "What'll you give, and what'll you take?" accepting anything which the market happened to be offering at the time.

The co-operative marketing association, he said, entirely eliminates all of the old time methods of handling and marketing products. It first gains control of the crop, houses and grades it and then names a price proportionate to the cost of production, a price which will get the farmer a legitimate profit for what he produces. The organization is enabled to do this because it controls the greater part of the crop and has efficient cotton and tobacco men to handle the product after it has been turned over to the association.

It will be an easy matter to finance the organization simply because it will be in touch and have control over 50 percent of the crop produced throughout the entire State. It will be conducted upon the same principles of other large organizations. Take the Standard Oil company for instance. The products will be handled practically upon the same principle. It will control the products and be in position through its many agencies to supply exactly what the world is in need of at the time. Speculation will be eliminated completely, and the association will reap the benefits which have been going into so many other channels and directions in the past.

This kind of marketing, Dr. Joyner continued, will place greater profits in the pockets of the farmer, for it sets aside the possibility of any participation in sales except through the association and its representatives. The old way of carrying the product to market and asking "What'll you give?" will be completely set aside, and when the farmer goes to buy the old "What'll you take?" interrogation will be succeeded by increased confidence in natural adjustment of prices for all products.

Dr. Joyner's visit is received with more than general interest in this section of the State as he has been prominently connected in many important state institutions and movements for the past years and what he has to say along any subject carries with it more than ordinary weight and influence. As head of the State educational system for many years he created considerable confidence in every home and community, therefore his advocacy of the co-operative marketing association is received with great interest and among every person interested in the movement.

NEW BERN READY TO PARTICIPATE IN THE LOCAL LEAGUE

Information From That Place Says Fans Have Decided to Accept Berth With Other Towns

The Reflector was reliably informed this morning that New Bern has decided to become a member of the Eastern Carolina baseball league, and plans to make a canvass of the city within the next several hours to determine the amount of money its people are willing to invest in the project. This decision eliminates all uncertainty regarding the possibility of the league as Kinston, Washington and Greenville have already expressed themselves, and the next several days no doubt will see the organization become an actuality.

The news will be received with more than ordinary interest in this city, because it was one time thought the formation of a league was impossible as result of the much complained of hard times existing throughout this section of the State. Greenville means to place a formidable club in the field. This club will be composed almost entirely of the young college men who contributed so largely to the entertainment of fans last year, and it is expected the management will make no effort to secure the service of men with questionable records.

It is generally conceded that it will be very necessary to have contracts more binding this season in order that every player may understand when he signs up that the club will not tolerate anything but the cleanest kind of game, and that they must keep themselves in good trim throughout the entire season. Experience has proven that players cannot dissipate until early hours of the morning and expect to deliver the goods on the diamond, and for that reason it has been found necessary to impress this fact upon the mind of every player to be signed up by every club in the entire league.

Reports from Kinston and Washington are to the effect that enthusiasts are very anxious for the formation of definite plans and the opening of the season at the earliest possible date. Last year the league was rather late in getting started off, but it is hoped this will be avoided this season. The league will be in better shape financially than last year, because it is composed of much larger towns and backed by persons ready and willing to subscribe liberally if the kind of baseball desired is pulled off at the outset.

It has not been intimated when the season will open, but it is generally supposed some definite decision will be reached at a meeting of the club executives to be called at an early date. There are yet many matters to be decided upon before the league will actually function, but one meeting will be sufficient to settle this, therefore, there's no hurry about getting together. The by-laws were considered at a meeting conducted at Kinston several nights ago, but the change in the situation may make it necessary for several reservations or amendments. This feature, however, is of small consideration to other matters, and now that all four clubs say they are ready may see all of them definitely closed.

There will be little change in Greenville this season. Games will be played at the fair grounds as usual, although it was one time sought another ground would be in readiness by opening of the season. Accommodations at the fair grounds have been improved and spectators will have the pleasure of witnessing the game from the large grandstand erected after the season closed last year. The diamond, too, is in much better condition, and for that reason the sport ought to prove even more interesting than ever before.

BETTER COTTON OUTLOOK

Twenty five to one hundred per cent increase in yield is reported by cotton growers who have adopted the new close-spacing system of cotton culture, introduced 8 or 10 years ago by the United States department of agriculture. Reports coming directly to the department and to southern agricultural journals, which have interested themselves in encouraging the new system, show that farmers throughout the cotton regions of the country are rapidly turning to the plan. Increased yield, less labor and expense for the same crop, and a lessening of boll-weevil damage are among the benefits recited in hundreds of letters written by farmers in various parts of the South. Indications are that the system will be adopted far more widely the coming season.

The close-spacing, more commonly known as the single-stalk method of cotton culture, consists primarily in spacing the cotton plants so close in the row—a hoe width apart—that the lower or vegetative branches do not develop, and the growth of the plant goes directly into the upper or fruiting branches, permitting them to begin the development of blossoms and bolls earlier and giving them more nourishment and more light.

The discovery that the cotton plant, in common with coffee, cacao, and a number of other species, produces two different sets of branches was announced by specialists of the department about 1911, and has given direction to a series of useful experiments in cultivation. By taking account of the specialized habits of branching it was found possible to exercise a much more effective control of the development of the plants so as to secure earlier crops, larger yields, and greater protection against injury by the boll weevil.

The suppression of the vegetative branches avoids the excessive crowding of large plants and injurious competition between the two kinds of branches. The cultural ideal under the new system is a cotton plant with only the erect, central stalk bearing fruiting branches, but long and vegetative branches of secondary stalks.
The suppression of the vegetative branches is easily accomplished by leaving the young plants close together in the rows. Thinning is deferred until the plants are some 6 to 8 inches high, or even later under conditions of rank growth. If the young plants stand less than 6 inches during these early stage of growth, more of them will not produce many vegetative branches, but will have only the upright central stalk and the horizontal fruiting branches.

The distance between the plants is regulated with reference to local conditions and the habit of growth of different varieties, the range being between 6 and 12 inches. The plants then have a narrow upright form and can be left closer together in the rows. Even with the plants only 3 or 4 inches apart in the rows there may be less injurious crowding than with large many-stalked plants 3 feet apart in the rows. The distance between the rows, usually 3 1/2 feet, can also be varied with reference to local conditions, but crowding the rows together, so that the sun does not reach the ground, is undesirable especially under weevil conditions.

INDIA'S TRADE DEPRESSION RE-ACTS UPON AMERICAN BUSINESS

Demoralized trade conditions prevailing in India are directly reflected in the American situation, the National Bank of Commerce in New York points out in the April number of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. Until India, the largest customer of cotton piece goods, recovers her purchasing power little improvement can be expected in the current depression affiliated industries, the bank says, affecting the American cotton crop and "Notwithstanding the comparative poverty of India's 315,000,000 inhabitants, over 30 per cent of the total output of British cotton textile mills was sold to India prior to the war," according to Commerce Monthly.

"Under normal conditions British mills take about one-fourth of the American cotton crop, so that a reduction in the ability of India to pay for cotton cloth is quickly reflected in lower prices to the cotton planters in the Southern States and a general depression of business in that territory with its attendant characteristics of straitened credit, reducing volume of both wholesale and retail trade, falling off in railway traffic and earnings, unemployment and wage reductions.

"In normal times, the purchasing power of the Indian population is dependent upon the character of the monsoon or rainy season. A favorable monsoon generally insures good crops for the following harvest, with the result that demand for imported manufactured goods is strong. Unfortunately, at the present time, Indian trade is suffering from the combined effects of an indifferent monsoon, a very serious dislocation of trade due to the situation of rupee exchange, and general unfavorable business conditions throughout the world which have seriously curtailed the export market for Indian products and impaired the country's ability to purchase in the international markets.
The disturbances in Russia and the extreme depression in China and Japan have added to the difficulties of Indian exporters.

"In the past, India's international trade balance has been uniformly favorable and has been settled with imports of the precious metals. The country's capacity to absorb silver has long been a matter of remark.
During the twenty months from April 1, 1918, to the end of November, 1919, the Indian government bought the astonishing total of 334,000,000 ounces British standard (.925).

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Fair hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

DICIE HOWELL FORMERLY OF NORTH CAROLINA NOW OF NEW YORK TO SING HERE

On June 6th, at 8.30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Eastern Carolina Teachers Training school Dicie Howell, soprano, formerly of Edgecombe county, North Carolina, now of New York, will appear in a recital under the alumnae association of Pitt county, acting as the finance committee for the alumnae of the E. C. T. T. S. Miss Howell will receive a welcome in Greenville, first on account of being a native North Carolinian, second, she gives the recital for a worthy cause, third, Greenville people always enjoy good music. She possesses the first requisite of a singer, an extremely beautiful voice, which she uses with intelligence and taste. She also has a charming personality.

The Boston Post has the following to say of Miss Howell:

One of the most interesting song recitals given this season was that of Miss Dicie Howell, who recently sang in Jordan Hall. She has an uncommonly fresh and beautiful voice which is well produced and of expressive quality. Miss Howell sang music by many composers, from old Italians to modern American. She was at her best, perhaps, in those songs which insisted most on sustained line, a fine legato, a long and well-shaped phrase. That is saying much. Miss Howell is already a singer who merits the attention of the public and the warm praise of her accomplishments which has already been given."

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Save a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.
