

WINTERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL CLOSED ITS TERM ON FRIDAY

Mr. A. H. White, Delivered Address on "Service". Mr. Tomlinson Also Speaks

Friday morning at eleven o'clock the final exercises of the Winterville schools occurred in the school building. Mr. A. H. White was the speaker of the occasion and he was introduced by the Rev. Bilbro of the Winterville Baptist church. Mr. White took as his subject "Service" and from this subject delivered a very forceful address. He began by examining the present standards of greatness. He showed very effectively that greatness consisted not in the things that man possessed in life and very few were mentioned in history because of their immense possessions. Then he further showed that a warrior did not hold the true elements of the ideal that greatness should convey. Next he examined the statesmen and found that their lives were not the examples that he would like to see followed by those in whom we have a deep interest. Then he took service as the basis of this greatness and from this theme made a stirring appeal for greater service in one's fellowman in life.

After Mr. White's speech, the graduating class of which there were three: Lyman Worthington, Grace Cox and Doris Jackson, were presented their diplomas by the principal, Mr. Quillin.

Following the presentation of the diplomas, Mr. A. G. Cox of the Pitt county board of education presented certificates to those of the seventh grade who had passed the county seventh grade examinations in April. Those who had perfect attendance records were also recognized with certificates for attendance. Likewise those who participated in the reading circle work were rewarded.

After the exercises, the audience then adjourned to the school campus where an old fashioned picnic dinner was served in elegant style. The tables were laden with good things to eat such as are only found in Pitt county. The dinner was said to be one of the best that has occurred in the community in many years and was a fine testimonial to the fine social spirit for which the community is noted.

The large crowd which was present after doing justice to the dinner returned to the school building where Mr. Tomlinson of Wilson very ably presented the so-operative marketing plan of marketing cotton and tobacco. He was given close attention by the friends of the school and all those interested in this plan of marketing farm products and his speech was followed by remarks by several men prominent in agricultural work.

After the speech of Mr. Tomlinson the Winterville and Ayden teams staged a baseball game in which Ayden won by a comfortable margin.

This was the first commencement of the consolidated school at Winterville and it was one that expressed the local spirit that the Winterville community has for the school. The school has been very successful during the past year and its many friends look forward to even greater expansion next year.

GIVES TESTAMENT TO PUPILS FOR LEARNING CATECHISM

The Rev. F. H. Scattergood, Pitt county's evangelist, is giving attractive testaments, beautifully bound with its owners' name printed in gold on the front, to the children throughout the county who learn the catechism. This is a splendid idea on the part of Mr. Scattergood, and will create in the child a desire for better things.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jefferson and children of Fountain spent yesterday in this city.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS OBSERVED IN A MOST APPROPRIATE MANNER BY HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE YESTERDAY

Colonel Sidney Minor Delivers Splendid Address From Court House Steps

RACES, BASEBALL, AND DANCE WERE FEATURES

Splendid Barbecue Dinner Served to Veterans in Forbes & Morton's Tobacco Warehouse

Monday was a day that placed Greenville's opportunity and credit on the highest pinnacle of achievement. The opportunity came in honoring the heroes of our wars in the fitting observances of Memorial Day, and the credit in the splendid planning and successful carrying out of this program. It had been told in advance that the day would be marked with big events, the people came expecting much, and it can be truthfully said their anticipations were fully met. At an early hour in the morning vehicles began pouring into the town from all sections of the county, some even from neighboring counties, and they kept coming until the streets were thronged with thousands of visitors. These parked their cars on streets a little back from the business section and at once began seeking points of advantage from which to view the parade that was to begin the exercises of the day. As the crowds assembled they were enlivened with patriotic and popular airs by the Mehegan boys' band of Kinston that had come to make music for the occasion.

The parade was scheduled to move from the A. C. L. depot at 10 o'clock but owing to a short shower a half hour sooner some delay in formation was caused, and some other slight arrangement of plans made it nearly 11 o'clock when the parade started. While there was just a little impatience over the delay and fears that another shower would come, the parade was worth waiting for, as Pitt county has never seen one that surpassed it in beauty. Because of congestion of some of the streets with parked automobiles, there also had to be some deviation in the course of the parade, but the waiting multitude was advised in advance of the change so that none were disappointed in seeing it. The parade moved from the depot to Five Points, thence on Fifth street to Co-tanch, out this street to Eighth, thence around the court house square where it disbanded.

Headed by Mayor D. M. Clark on a mount the parade moved compactly in the following order:

Pitt county chamber of commerce, represented by a large float followed with decorated cars with banners for each township in the county that has members, the cars all being tied together.

Bethel school, a handsome float filled with beautiful girls.

United Daughters of the Confederacy, a float presenting an ideal reproduction of the Winnie Davis monument.

Womans club, float bearing a unique house suggestive of the club building they are planning to give the community.

Red Cross, decorated automobile.

Merchants association, a pretty float filled with prettier girls.

East Carolina Teachers Training school, decorated car occupied by the president and representatives of the school.

Sans Souci, a beautifully decorated car occupied by officers of the club.

Chantawqua, car taking this attraction soon to come.

Rexall store, very attractive car.

High school glee club, pretty float filled with our prettiest girls all singing as they went.

Girl Scouts, two floats, one containing the members in uniform and the other depicting interesting camp scenes.

Rotary club, float occupied by boys of pretty girls dressed to represent pupils.

The Round Table, "In Memoriam".

A tribute to our boys who sleep that touched the heart of all who beheld it. A float of transcendent beauty in white and green, occupied by a score of little girls robed as angels with large clusters of ascension lilies in their hands, a profusion of these lilies also being among the decorations. On the float was a gold star for each son Pitt county lost in the world war, with two large stars for two Greenville boys. It was significant that one of the latter stars was for the son of a member of this club.

Veterans of the Civil war in automobiles.

The Mehegan boys band.

Then came the soldiers of the world war, first the platoon honor guard in uniform carrying rifles, next the naval division, then soldiers in uniform followed by others in civilian dress. There were several hundred soldiers in line.

The Boy Scouts and drum corps. Citizens in automobiles.

As prizes were offered for the best decorated floats and automobiles in the parade, Messrs. R. C. Flanagan, J. C. Gaskins and N. O. Warren of Greenville and Mr. Ira L. Miles of Baltimore, were chosen as judges to make the award. The judges were unanimous in their decisions, the awards being as follows: Best decorated automobile, to the Sans Souci club; best decorated float, to the Round Table club; second best float a tie between the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Womans club, the prize to be divided between them.

Reaching the court house square the soldiers formed around a grave that had been prepared near the Confederate monument. This part of the ceremony was in charge of Chaplain T. G. Vickers of Ayden, who made a brief address and offered prayer. The soldiers then filed by the grave each laying a poppy on it, the honor guard fired three volleys, and as the multitude stood uncovered a bugle sounded the reveille.

Jonathan Overton, one of the Boy Scouts, recited "In Flanders Field".

It was then announced that as the court house would not begin to accommodate the large crowd present the speaking would take place from the Third street entrance of the building. The crowd quickly moved to this point.

Col. Minor's Address

Dr. J. B. Turner, commander of the Pitt county post of the American Legion, fittingly introduced the speaker of the day, Col. Sidney W. Minor, commander of the famous 120th Infantry, 30th division.

Colonel Minor spoke for only one half an hour but his address was splendid and heard by hundreds of people. After expressing his delight at being present on such a glorious occasion, Col. Minor related briefly the great part North Carolina played in the world war. He appealed to the people to take up the great work and carry it on so that the dying of "our brave boys" might not be in vain. He drew another, that of Uncle Sam, how after devastating Belgium and overrunning France, he stood at the gates of Paris, monarch of all he surveyed. While the great audience was watching this picture, the speaker drew another, that of Uncle Sam, how after he had taken insult after insult, he awoke, put on his mighty armor and raised as it were over night, one of the greatest armies ever raised and sent it overseas to defeat the Germans. "Who won the war?" Colonel Minor then asked. Not the marines, sailors or soldiers, they all did a wonderful work, but the people back home working with the soldiers and sailors, all with one big purpose, and thought, won the great world war. Colonel Minor then complimented each regiment stating that each was the best in France. The speaker then referred to the dreams of Woodrow Wilson, stating that President Harding with his broad mind, would in the course of time, follow in the great way traced by Wilson. It is up to the American people to help in this

WHOLESALE STORE ENTERED BY THIEF SATURDAY NIGHT AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Store Belonging to Mr. S. E. Gates Entered by Unknown Party About 10 O'clock

Saturday night Mr. S. E. Gates had occasion to leave his wholesale store, corner of Washington and Fifth streets a little sooner than usual and went home about 9 o'clock, leaving his clerk to close up. Something like an hour later Mr. Gates had occasion to go back by the store and as he went in stumbled over a quantity of meat that had been piled near one door. Going to the switch he turned on the lights to make investigation, and as the lights flashed through the store he saw a negro man dash out the door with a ham under one arm and a shoulder under the other. Anticipating that there might be more than one engaged in the robbery Mr. Gates did not go out to pursue the man who ran off, so he made a clean get away with the meat.

An investigation disclosed that the thief had entered the store by breaking a window on the Washington street side of the building through which he had crawled and unfastened the door on that side. He piled the meat near the door, and a large sack lying on it indicated that he intended to make a good sized haul had not Mr. Gates appeared on the scene in time to save the loss of all but two pieces.

DR. HOWARD W. ODUM WILL DELIVER ADDRESS TO GRADUATING CLASS

Dr. Howard W. Odum of the university of North Carolina, will deliver the commencement address in the high school tonight. Prof. E. W. Knight had been announced as speaker for the occasion but he is sending Dr. Odum in his place.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS BE PLAYED THURSDAY

The Methodists and Immorial Baptists baseball teams will cross bats on next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the championship game of the season. All other churches have been eliminated and these two churches are now preparing to see which is the champion. An interesting game is expected and the boys, on both sides, say they are going to put up the hardest fight and best game ever staged on the local diamond.

Both teams are composed of "professional ball men," and the baseball fans of this city have a real treat in store. The line up has not been announced, but will be all right.

great readjustment period to make the dreams of Wilson come true. He appealed to the people to have on their wedding garments and be prepared. The world is looking to America for freedom and America must not fail in its mission. Col. Minor stated that if his coming to Greenville did nothing more than plant a seed in the heart of some man, woman, boy or girl, that would raise them up and carry them to higher ideals, then his coming would not have been in vain. The war is over but reconstruction is here and we have problems which must be solved. Col. Minor brought his speech to a close with the last line of Kipling's Recessional "Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget, lest we forget!"

Dinner

Immediately after the speaking all ex-service men and many others were invited to the Forbes & Morton's warehouse, where a regular Pitt county barbecue dinner was served. Each ex-service man, of three wars, the Civil, Spanish-American and the World war, were given free tickets and each man certainly enjoyed his dinner. It rained on the outside but joy and happiness reigned inside.

Races

From the warehouse the guests of the day were invited to the fair which is scheduled to take place Monday.

REV. WALTER PATTEN AN EDUCATIONAL PAGEANT GIVEN ON LAST EVENING

CONDUCTS SERVICES SUNDAY EVENING

Makes Inspirational Talk on "Gleanings" at the Vesper Services Sunday Evening

Rev. Walter Patten conducted the vesper service at the Training school Sunday evening at 6:30, making an inspiring talk on "Gleanings". He called to mind two great paintings of Millet, "The Angrelees" and "The Gleaners," pictures of peasant life in France, and he then referred to the story of Ruth and her gleanings in the fields.

He then developed the thought very beautifully in relation to life. He said that as a child we gleaned only facts, but these facts grow into ideas and finally into principles, making our lives fuller and richer as we develop.

He then applied the thought to the boys and girls attending colleges and universities, and the gleanings of their work at these places of learning carrying away with them.

He further pointed out that our attitude toward life, toward God and toward humanity determines our outlook on life, and then read a beautiful and fitting poem "The Set of the Sail," illustrating this.

Miss Gorrell played a beautiful violin solo during the service.

MRS. BARNES SUMRELL ENTERTAINS S. SCHOOL CLASS AT AMUZU PARK

One of the many features of the day was the picnic party at Amuzu park of Mrs. Barnes Sumrell of Ayden.

Her class in the Christian church Sunday school was there in full force and though the weather was bad, bathing and boating were enjoyed by all. When it comes to real swimmers and high divers Ayden ranks among the best. Amuzu park life saver Ed Moye was on the job, but didn't have a chance.

STOLEN SUIT CASE MAKES SPLENDID DETECTIVE STORY

Constable Hobgood Puts On Thinking Cap and Locates Stolen Suit Case

Constable J. L. Hobgood of Winterville has been doing a little bit of detective work for the past few days, and as a result he, on yesterday, returned to Mr. Ryan Ellis of Winterville, a suit case containing wearing apparel which was stolen from the Winterville depot on May 19th.

Mr. Ellis, a student of Wilson Atlantic Christian college, was returning home from school accompanied by C. Dewitt Spier. After boarding the train he discovered that he had forgotten his overcoat and leaving the suitcase in his friends care, went for the coat. He was detained longer than he counted on and was left, upon reaching Winterville Mr. Spier left the suit case in the waiting room so Mr. Ellis could find same when he arrived. Upon arrival, however, Mr. Ellis found the suit case gone, and a few days later turned the case over to Constable Hobgood.

At first Mr. Hobgood, who never fails to get his man, was baffled, but he says that a spirit appeared to him in the wee small hours of the night and told him where he could find the suit case. He followed the advice of the spirit and found the suit case in the home of B. F. Worthington, a colored man residing in the Winterville section. Nothing had been taken from the suit case but one pair of shoes.

Worthington was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor E. W. Braxton and in default of bond was brought to Greenville and placed in jail to await trial which is scheduled to take place Monday.

Pupils of Evans Street School Presents Educational Pageant "The Light"

"The Light," an educational pageant by Catherine T. Bryce, which was given by the Evans street school on last evening was a great success and thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd present. Hundreds of people were unable to get seats and had to be turned away.

The following is a synopsis of the play:

"The city of Greenville finds it necessary to cut expenses. After looking at every appropriation, he decides that the only place that he can reduce his expenses is the school appropriation. Just as he comes to this solution of his problem and has peacefully fallen asleep like the neighboring cities, Education enters, bearing aloft her light. She finds there is still hope for the City of Greenville and in order to convince him how necessary The Light of Education is, she shows him many glimpses of its growth—from the dark ages until now."

Mr. Tom Ricks represented Greenville and Marie Williams, Education.

The rest of the cast was:

Prologue—The Vision—The First Glimmer—Experience—The Cave dwellers, 3rd A. grade

The Second Glimmer—Tradition—Oriental Women 5th B. Grade

The Third Glimmer—Invention—Indian Scene, 5th A. Grade

The Fourth Glimmer—Training—Greek Maidens 7th A. and 7th B. Grades

The Fifth Glimmer—Discipline—Roman Soldiers, 3rd B. and 4th A. Grades

The Sixth Glimmer—A First Session in Democracy—An example of how learning was kept from the lower class in Old England, 7th A. and 7th B. Grades

The Seventh Glimmer—The Book: 1st picture—the Book closed in the slave of olden times—James Hinson; 2nd picture—Abraham Lincoln—Ed Tyndall

The Eighth Glimmer—Force—A Dame School, 2nd A. and 2nd B. Grades. Teacher—Miss Cannady

The Ninth Glimmer—Training for Democracy—6th Grade of Today, 6th A. Grade. Teacher—Miss Georgia Smith

The Tenth Glimmer—Waning—the Future School unless the proper funds are provided. 1st Grades. Teacher—Miss Morgan

The Eleventh Glimmer—Education's Dream—Entire School System Presented, Pupils from all Grades

Epilogue—Greenville Convinced that Education Should not be Sacrificed. Final—The Star Spangled Banner—by Pupils.

The faculty of the Evans street school is to be congratulated upon the success of the play and each child showed that they had been well trained. The lesson of the play convinced Greenville that Education should not be sacrificed.

BETHEL HIGH SCHOOL PICNIC AT AMUZU PARK

Yesterday was a day long to be remembered by many young people from Bethel. The high school girls came over to celebrate Memorial day, in a nicely decorated float, and was one of the many features of the parade.

After the parade they rode out to Amuzu park to enjoy a beautiful basket picnic. Good eats a plenty, in fact the Amuzu park Major Penno-Jesse after the picnic informed the force that he had enough eats left to feed a platoon. Cake, chicken and ham that could not be raised in Bethel's. The inclement weather caused the party to have early. But the Amuzu park people hope that they will come again soon and often. Mr. W. J. Smith of Bethel was our excellence as host, and responsible for the float. Mr. Hook and Mr. Burdick assisted him in showing the party a good time.

Greenville people appreciate the interest shown by Bethel people in events that are county affairs. In unity there is success.

It has been said that William J. Bryan has traveled 600,000 miles in the twenty five years of his public life.

If anybody else has the same opinion as Ambassador Harvey as to why America entered the world war, he has not let it be known.

The biggest thing the presumptuous Germans have to brag about is what the war will cost them by the time they get through paying.

Gen. Horace Porter, the last survivor of General Grant in the Civil war, died Sunday at the age of 87.

The killing of seven men in an airplane accident Sunday, not one escaping to tell how the disaster occurred, shows that air travel is yet far from perfection to the safe stage.

With all the big things boasted of in European countries, it remains a fact that millions of folks on that side of the water want to pull stakes and ship over to America.

The Washington Post says "the foot that used to rock the cradle now steps on the accelerator at street crossings".

We tax out foreign goods with a high tariff and then let the bars down to foreign labor.

If all the eastern North Carolina oil stories pan out anything some of these days we will all be gushers.

Some speaker has said there will be no reduction in taxation until there is disarmament.

Here at home the local consumer is paying 75 cents for a peck of new crop potatoes, while a news item from Chicago says the price in that city recently dropped to $1.50 per barrel.

As usual Greenville did the right and creditable thing yesterday in the manner in which Memorial day was observed.

Today puts May in the rear and closes out the fifth month of the year.

From the crowd that went out today and the abundant preparation for dinner, the picnic of Memorial Baptist Sunday school at Amman park was all that could be desired.

The Boy and Girl Scouts start out tomorrow on their 100 days' camping trip to Pamlico Beach.

On Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Dickinson avenue, Miss Elizabeth Hardee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hardee, delightfully entertained a large number of her friends in honor of her twenty birthday. The house was decorated with sweet peas and yellow dahlias.

The little hostess, wearing a frock of white organdie with blue ribbons, welcomed the guests upon arrival and showed them to the back hall where they were served delicious punch. From the hall the guests passed into the parlor where they were entertained for quite a while with readings by Misses Eleanor Tyson and Catherine

Smith. Several games such as trying to bite apples suspended from strings, drop handkerchief and other interesting games were enjoyed, after which the little people were invited into the dining room where the birthday cake with its ten candles was arranged in the center of the table. Before departing they were served an ice course. Little Miss Hardee made a charming hostess, and each guest departed declaring they never had a better time. The hostess was the recipient of a large number of pretty presents.

Baseball
After the races a baseball game between Farmville and Greenville took place. The game was interesting from start to finish, the score being 4 to 4 when the game was called after the 11th inning on account of darkness.

The batteries for Farmville were Edwards and Rouse; Greenville, Kirtrell and Style. Both sides put up a hard fight but were unable to break the tie.

Dance at Amuzu Park

The events of the day were brought to a conclusion with a dance at the Amuzu park. The dances at the park are always enjoyable but the one last evening was perhaps the most delightful one ever given. The largest crowd since the opening of the park a year ago was present and dancing was participated in for several hours. The managers of the park are patriotic men, and when planning the dance it was decided that each ex-service man would only be charged half price, both the dancers and spectators.

Some of the boys had girls a plenty, in fact some had four or five strings to their bow, as four girls was the price of admission. The married men had a big time also, and took great interest in the dancing. They were given advantage of the recent ruling of the park that they be allowed to dance on spectators ticket if accompanied by their wives.

Music was furnished by the local orchestra and the event will long be remembered.
