SUNDAY PROVES EVENTFUL DAY IN COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL

Dr. George Miller of Washington, Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon Before Class Sunday Morning

The sermon before the graduating class at the Training school yesterday morning was one of great power and inspiration, one of the best ever preached at a commencement at the Training school. It was full of wisdom that has been acquired from a life full of rich experiences and was sprinkled with much sane practical advice. The theme was the call to mankind for a life of service, of giving to others all one is capable of giving. The text was from Romans 1:14, "I am debtor both to the Greek and the Barbarian."

Dr. George A. Miller, the preacher, has been pastor of the Ninth Street Christian church, Washington city, for fourteen and a half years, and is one of the leading ministers in his denomination. Those who were so fortunate as to hear him yesterday can well understand why he has a wide reputation as a preacher.

The entire school led by the senior class entered the assembly hall of the Training school Sunday morning at eleven o'clock exactly, singing as a processional hymn "Lord Thy Glory Fills the Heavens". After a prayer by Dr. James B. Turner the anthem, "List the Cherubic Host," from Gaul's "Holy City" was sung, with the glee club singing parts and the school joining in. After the Scripture lesson the anthem "Inflammatum," from "Stabat Mater" was sung.

Dr. Miller reviewed the life of Paul, showing that after a life of hardships and sacrifices, having given up wealth, position and honor, instead of thinking that the world owed him something for all this, he then uttered the words of the text and considered himself debtor to the world. There are two ways of entering the world: one is that the world owes me everything; the other is that I owe the world all that I have that mankind needs. The former idea led to the principle of the divine right of kings, and has given the world all the tyrants from Nero to the Kaiser. Many people today feel that the life, them, and it is not theirs to owe anything. They look on the church as a kind of insurance; they go to services to get, not in the true idea of services. These people are like the devil fish, one of the most horrid things ever created, reaching out and bringing in whatever their tentacles can get hold of. These people treat the church like the dog treats his kennel, merely as a place in which to sleep.

"I owe myself to the world," is the guiding principle of the other type of person, and that is the principle that is the basis of all democracy. Whatever I am capable of doing that I owe, and as I become more capable the more I owe. Here Dr. Miller spoke directly to the young ladies, telling them that they owe far more than when they entered the school, as they came here in order to gain more. The idea of the text was not original with Paul, it came from the great Teacher of life.

The guiding principle of life should be power used for others. In answer to the question "What is power?" he gave this: "Anything that gives you power to use for others." It may be wealth is power when used for others. When you ask if having made it, is it not yours, the answer should be it is yours but not to use selfishly. If by brain or brawn you have made anything yours, it is yours, but to use. You have a right to the results of your labor, but not for self alone. Dr. Miller said that if he were a socialist he did not know it, but there are as many kinds as there are individuals, so it may be in some kind, but that he did not believe in an equal division and then to start over. He remarked by the way that if the division were made tomorrow morning by Saturday night some would be rich in a Pullman, while others would be standing

GREAT INTEREST IS CENTERED AROUND MARKETING ISSUE

W. B. Pace Reports Remarkable Progress and Interest in Various Sections of the County

According to reports of W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent of Pitt county, the co-operative marketing association is meeting with much greater interest in territories which have been worked from time to time during the past several months, and indications at the present time point to a successful termination of efforts in this direction.

One of the most favorable points in interest of the association, Mr. Pace believes is the fact that practically all leading cotton and tobacco growers in each locality are in favor of the movement and believe it to be exactly what the farmer has needed for many past years. They realize that the old plan of carrying products to the market and dumping them out to receive whatever the buyer happens to be offering is no longer practicable.

Conditions have changed considerably within the past several months as the last marketing season proved, and unless the farmer takes advantage of these transmutations there is really no hope on earth of the situation improving. There is no argument against co-operative marketing, leading men assert. It supplants the old dumping plan by organized methods such as used by the largest manufacturers of the world, and opens up a definite way by which everyone concerned will be directly benefitted.

"Where is the association going to get the money to carry on this work?" is the question most people ask. Mr. Pace says. And in reply he merely says it will be supported as all large corporations having something needed all over the world and in demand at all times. There's no worry about financing the organization. That has been assured, and the sooner Pitt county farmers sign the five year contract and get themselves right the sooner they will be in position to receive the great benefits to be derived from the new method.

SMALLEST VOLUME OF FAMOUS BOOKS TO BE SOLD

London, June 5.—A further portion of the world famous Yates-Thompson manuscripts is to be sold here at the end of June.

Fifty-eight of the collection of 100 manuscripts have already been disposed of for £130,325 and, by the time the whole collection has been sold, probably over £250,000 will have been realized.

The most interesting specimen to be sold is the smallest manuscript in the collection, dated 1530. It is in a costly little golden case decorated with white enamel and pink stones, like garnets, and is arranged to hang from a chain. It is the Credo or "profession" of the Emperor Charles V. of Rome.

PATIENT CIRCLE OF KING'S DAUGHTERS TO MEET

TOLL OF LIFE AND PROPERTY REACHES INTO THE MILLIONS

Reports of Flood Disaster in Pueblo District Continue to Tell of Loss of Life

Pueblo, June 6.—An accurate estimate of loss of life and property from floods stricken central Colorado is impossible. Morgues were overflowing today and a relief station is being established to assist hospitals to relieve six thousand homeless. Red Cross estimates a hundred bodies found. The governor's secretary said five hundred are being treated in hospitals. Food is being rationed. Floods of lesser magnitude are reported in course on Arkansas river. Laramie is partly inundated. Scores of lives believed to be lost. Several blocks of residential section of Denver were inundated when the Platte river broke its banks. Food supplies at Pueblo are said only sufficient for three days. Railway lines washed out, and roads impassable make situation menacing. Federal and State governments are rushing aid.

Topeka, June 6.—First wave of the Arkansas river flood is sweeping from Colorado upon Kansas. Men on horse back are patrolling the river west of Syracuse warning people to flee. The town of Amity is reported to have been washed away when the dam broke, with possible loss of life. Farmers are driving livestock to the hills.

COUNTY CHAMBER TO DEVELOP LAST PLANS THIS WEEK

Final Efforts in Organization Work to Be Considered by Committees During Week

Pitt County's Chamber of Commerce will develop this week its plan of activities for the first year. This announcement was made this morning at the Chamber of Commerce office. An elaborate plan has been adopted by the leaders of the movement that insures a workable democratic program and links up the interest of each member to it.

The plan is one that has been used by the American City Bureau in all the Chambers of Commerce it is serving, and insures a sound working program. It calls for the holding of a series of small informal meetings of the members at which time each member submits ideas as to the activities of the organization. They are discussed informally by the members of the groups. Each member's suggestion is recorded on a specially provided form. Groups do not outline policies, or constitute permanent bodies of the chamber. They are used merely to insure informality in the discussion and freedom of expression that it is difficult to obtain in large mass meetings. After the series of meetings are held—each member is invited out to one meeting—the mass of suggestions is studied and they are then arranged in order of the interest they attract. The most frequently offered suggestion is regarded as the important thing for the organization to take up first.

By these means, officials of the chamber indicated, the activities of the organization for the coming year would be outlined. The first step in the movement has been accomplished with the appointment of chairman for the meeting of each group. Dr. C. J. Ellen, the president, with the other directors named the following to serve: W. L. Best, J. H. Blount, P. L. Clod-

Arrival of Well Known College Figures in Greenville Arouses Hope of Active and Creditable Participation From the Outset

INSPIRING SCENES MARK SERVICES AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Beautiful Services Conducted by Young Women's Christian Association Yesterday

The Sunday evening service was one of the most appropriate and beautiful services ever held by the Young Women's Christian Association. The singing was beautiful. The school marched in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," after which the congregation sang, "Come Thou Almighty King." Miss Elfy Holloway played a piano solo. Misses Nelle Pappendick and Josie Dorsett sang a duet, "Love Divine," Miss Helen Watson played a solo "To thine Spring." After the scripture lesson, which was the reading of Jacob's Dream and prayer by Rev. Leland W. Smith, Miss Virginia Rhea sang "Trust Ye in the Lord." At the close of the service Miss Leone Johnson sang "Abide With Me."

President Wright commended in the highest terms the work of the Young Women's Christian Association, and announced that now there were eight young women absent from commencement because they are attending the conference of workers at Blue Ridge.

Rev. R. C. Craven, preached an excellent sermon that was peculiarly appropriate both for the band of Christian workers in the school and for the young women starting out on their life work. It was remarkable how the sermons of the day fitted into and supplemented each other, bringing out different phases of the same general theme and yet in no way repeating or covering exactly the same ground. The evening sermon was a strong plea for bringing God into life, not limiting Him to certain places or periods, but extending our idea of God to cover all places and periods. The God of the battle of Jericho was at the battle of Waterloo, the battle of the Marne and the breaking of the Hindenburg line.

He first drew the picture of Jacob's starting out from home, going into the world to face its problems, and finding the answer at Bethel in his dream, the text he gave as this: "Surely this is the house of God, the very gate of heaven. Surely God is in this place and I knew it not." Jacob had always thought of God as associated with a particular place and ceremony and peculiar form of worship. Then follows the rededication of Jacob. The practical application brought home the thought that we are excluding God from the home, the school and the factory and the place of business, from the places which are not formally dedicated, such as churches, cemeteries, etc. We should have a holy day but should not exclude God from the other days. We should have holy professions to which men are called, but are the other profession and business not callings also, is the pertinent question he asked. Men of the ministry are called to high standards of living and character, and that is as it should be, but should not all men be called to the same high standards.

God is not only the God of earthquakes and storms and upheavals in nature, but is the God of the breeze and of sunsets, just so He not with man only in the great crises of history, but is in the everyday affairs of life. He is in the quietude of home, with the woman going about her household affairs as much as he was with Moses on Mt. Sinai receiving the holy law. "Partial exclusion of God is one

Intensive practice for Greenville's participation in the Eastern Carolina league will begin this afternoon with a line-up easily recognized as the equal if not better than any other club of the entire league. Players have been rather slow in arriving on account of closing of the various colleges of the country, but now that the majority of men are here Manager Guy Smith purposes to put them through three days of hard training prior to the opening game to be played in Washington Thursday afternoon.

Followers of the sport last year are rejoicing in the fact that a number of men comprising the best club will compose the Greenville club this year. In fact, the arrival of such noted college figures as Saxe Barnes, Stringfield, Dick Gurley, former A. & E. catcher who played with Scotland Neck in the championship series last year, Woods, former Scotland Neck second baseman and Mug Massey, has produced a sensation that promises to lend more than usual impetus to the opening games, and give Greenville an opportunity of making a creditable showing right at the outset.

Other players so far reported are: Lyfe, Belzie, McClain, Jones, Pool, Ratchford, Lefwich, Kittrell and Fogelman. There are two holders who are expected to arrive this afternoon, and when practice begins Manager Smith hopes to have adequate material to pick his regular men without being troubled with such annoying features after the season really opens. Massey and one or two other men have been in Greenville several days and to say that they have been putting in plenty of work on the diamond would be expressing the matter in a mild kind of way. Of interest also is the announcement that the club will be headed by Saxe Barnes who has headed the Wake Forest club through a number of successful seasons and who also contributed so largely to the splendid showing by Greenville last year. Barnes is making us nervous about the material he has ready for battle, but he does claim to have a personnel that any captain would be glad to put before the public in a much faster class ball than rated in this league.

Reports of activities in other towns have caused considerable anxiety to enthusiasts here who have been in the dark concerning Manager Smith's plans, but the appearance on the streets of well known figures has revived both hope and enthusiasm in an unmistakable and contagious manner, and it is certainly probable the opening game at Washington will be attended by almost as many people from Greenville as Washington. The attendance record is going to play a big part in every town, according to the managers, and while it is expected New Bern may take a definite lead in the beginning it is however, believed that Kinston, Washington and Greenville won't be far behind after the season gets under full sway.

Manager Smith hopes to have a much higher class ball this year than last, and players will be impressed with this fact at the outset. Every effort will be put forward to set aside the probability of promiscuous gambling such as was in evidence early last year, and if this is accomplished as expected, it is generally conceded that the game will be much cleaner and each player better prepared to fill every requirement. The public will play a big part in determining this feature and it is hoped co-operation will be evident before the practice gets in way.

Red Banks Negro Dies From Injuries Inflicted While Entering White Man's Home

Edmond Wooten Died at County Jail This Morning After Being Shot on Entering Home of Oscar Edwards

Edmond Wooten, colored man of the Red Banks territory, died at the county jail in this city today from injuries received when shot by Oscar Edwards, white man of the same district, late yesterday afternoon. Henry Vines, an other colored man, who, it is alleged, entered the Edwards home while in an intoxicated condition, is being held pending investigation of the affair which is considered one of the most unfortunate occurring in years.

Wooten and Vines were brought to Greenville by Sheriff Dudley last night, the former in a dying condition at the time. Medical aid was given immediately, but the bullet had penetrated directly through the head producing injuries which physicians declared to be fatal. Edwards used a thirty-two revolver and fired only one time but with results that caused the other drunken negro to immediately realize the seriousness of the situation and flee to other sections of the neighborhood where he was later taken in custody by the sheriff.

According to facts brought out in the investigation of the county coroner conducted at the jail this morning, Edwards shot in protection of his home and family. From all information available, it seems that the two negroes headed directly for the Edwards home immediately after "tanking" themselves excessively with monkey rum. Mr. Edwards was not at home when they arrived, and Mrs. Edwards and several children fled into the yard when the negroes entered the house.

It was while the mother and children were screaming and crying at the top of their voices that Mr. Edwards appeared. He demanded the negroes to leave the premises immediately, and not receiving an answer with the exception of abusive remarks, he hurried into the house, and in possession of a pistol and again told the negroes to move on. For some unknown reason they failed to obey and threatened to attack Edwards, whereupon he fired, the ball piercing Wooten's head, producing unconsciousness almost instantly.

From all facts available at the investigation it could not be learned just why the negroes should have picked out Mr. Edwards' home as they did. Apparently they had no other motive than to plunder and scare Mrs. Edwards and the children, and really intended leaving before anything serious happened. Both negroes were employed as farm laborers in the immediate neighborhood and were not known as rowdies, although they frequently imbibed in intoxicants.

Much speculation prevails as to what will be done with Vines, but it is quite probable he will be held in the county jail here until a preliminary hearing can be held to determine the extent of his crime. The body of the dead man was removed from the jail this afternoon and interred in a burying ground in the Red Banks community.

WAR COST LIMITS TAX REVISION

Of every dollar of national expenditure 77.3 cents goes for purposes of war, according to the National Bank of Commerce in New York, which points out that any constructive program looking to a remedy of the present tax situation must take this fact constantly into consideration.

"This condition is not a new one," the bank says in the June issue of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. "Each war in which this country has been involved has left us a heritage of increased expense. Not only has the direct military burden been permanently increased, but there have been additional outlays on account of war debt for penalties, and for administrative purposes growing out of the experience and results of the war.

"The scale on which military operations were conducted during the most recent conflict was so great that the percentage of the revenue devoted to war purposes has enormously increased. In the five fiscal years just prior to the outbreak of the European war less than half of our governmental expenditures, on an average, pertained to the military establishment. This condition prevailed until we entered the war in 1917. In 1919, when the peak of war cost was reached, these expenses were more than twenty times as those for purely civil purposes."

The bank cites official Treasury reports to show that from 1910 to 1914 the average annual expenditure for war purposes was $436,320,000 or 45.6 per cent of the total. This figure increased to $869,568,000 in 1917, to $8,653,132,000 in 1918 and to $15,028,010,000 in 1919, then dropped to $5,071,740,000 in 1920. Even with all doubtful futures in both 1919 and 1920 exceeded governments, excluded, war expenditure 77 per cent of the entire amount expended.

"Through analysis of the cost of the different functions of government is requisite to an adequate understanding of our present economic position. Governmental economy and a national budget, and also of the wider question of international disarmament, the bank adds.

AUSTRALIAN TARIFF

Export trade of the United States with Australia does not appear to be facing extinction in spite of Australia's high protective tariff of 1920, under which preference is given to the United Kingdom, the National Bank of Commerce in New York says in the June number of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. However, if this tariff is not revised it will probably cause a change in the variety of goods which can be marketed in Australia, the bank believes.

"While the principal of reciprocal tariff preference to British countries has been recognized for years by the Commonwealth of Australia, the tariff of 1920 has given it a wider application than ever before," says Commerce Monthly. "Australia is determined to become a manufacturing country and to this end has adopted the most strongly protective tariff in the history of the Commonwealth. Extensive natural resources and the development of agricultural and pastoral industries have made the country an exporter of raw materials. It is now urged, however, that these valuable products be manufactured at home. Industrial development in Australia involves heavy costs both for plant installation and for permanent wage standards and it is in order to make possible the sale of high cost domestic manufactures that the extremely high tariff wall is considered necessary.

"Australia for the Australians" is a popular slogan throughout the Commonwealth today, expressing the purpose of the country to be no longer a dumping ground for the over-production of other countries. Development of manufactures is the liveliest issue before the country and is urged on the grounds of giving employment to its citizens and keeping money within the country. Actually, however, increased immigration will be needed to supply the labor required for many of these projects and the strict immigration policy makes it difficult to recruit labor as rapidly as it is required."

The United States is the largest exporter to Australia after the United Kingdom. Although full results of the operation of the new tariff are not yet evident, American exports to Australia showed a trend upward until last January, when their value declined, the bank says.

of the rankest heretics can come to man. Have we a right to separate the sacred from the secular, shutting God out from the secular. Should we think of God as distinct from nature, rather than seeing nature as the systematic working out of God's plans? A peach seed taking time to develop into a tree and produce fruit is really no less marvelous than one that would send forth the blossoms in a few moments.

In explaining Jacob's dream Mr. Craven said that Jacob was a mentally aspiring man, whose day dreams were of eminence and of domination, and it was only natural that in his dream should be of the same kind, and he should dream of being a ruler. He learned from the dream great lessons that are just as great for us today. "He who would mount highest should come down and abase himself to service to human beings," was the lesson gained from the ascending and descending angels. "Privilege is ever the measure of obligation." In presenting this thought Mr. Craven spoke directly to the young women before him. As they go home, they go with greater obligations and responsibilities. He used Queen Esther to illustrate the idea that when great honors and gifts are bestowed upon people great returns are demanded of them.

God has a plan for every one, but whether or not the plan works out depends on the person. If you are going out to teach see in every child's face an angel's face, even in those of vicious ones, then you are doing God's work. He pleaded with the young women to let God have His way. He paid a great tribute to the teacher, especially to the teacher in the rural school. It is yours to build a better environment for these. Don't shrink from the task, but with a will and loyal enthusiasm, never shrinking, never shrinking, go forward and God will go with you, were his closing words.

by with a bandanna trunk with a pin lock on their shoulders watching the procession go by.

Music he gave as power, if you have it to bless others and not for self alone. He referred to the music such as he had heard that carrying as a blessing. Any talent not used, dies. The blind fish in the Mammoth Cave are examples of this.

Knowledge is power, knowledge of all kinds. An educated man should be a blessing to his community. He spoke of the idea he once had of education when he thought it meant a putting in, but after he studied Latin he found it meant, out, duco, to lead, therefore it meant a leading out, and not putting in. He said that he had often heard of self made men but had never seen one who was really self made, but he had always been led out by some one. He spoke of the debt here one owes to teachers who give themselves unstintingly in order to lead out their pupils to wider fields. No person makes himself, and yet he is not made unless he wants to be led out.

The young women have come to this school in order to have life more abundantly. All education, all life means making the horizons larger and one can get this only from ascending. Education means life more abundant to higher places.

Education means life more abundant to higher places. Education means life more abundant to higher places. Education means life more abundant to higher places. Education means life more abundant to higher places.

The educated man, he said had no right to shut himself off from others, to stand on a pedestal. There should be no aristocracy of learning as there is an aristocracy of nobility in Europe. Education is power as it is used for others.

Go forth with faith in Jesus Christ and with faith in mankind. He expressed great pleasure at seeing a stack of Bibles that were to be presented to the graduating class, and said that he would tell it everywhere that North Carolina was a State that sent her daughters out with a Bible as guide.

DRESSES OF GRADUATING CLASS WERE ON EXHIBIT

The white dresses which the members of the graduating class at the Training school will wear for their graduation exercises on Tuesday morning and the dresses which they will wear at the class day exercises on Wednesday were in the sewing exhibit at the Training school Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. The seniors are required to make these dresses in the last term of their senior year.

The display was very attractive indeed. The dresses were placed around the room effectively. There were a number of other dresses on display also. The room was decorated with cut flowers and plants. Miss Collins, the teacher of domestic art deserves much credit for the excellent work done by the class.

DEED AND CREED

I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day.
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely show the way.
The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear,
Fine council is confusing, but example's always clear.
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds,
For to see good put in action is what everybody needs.
You can learn to do it if you'll let me see it, done;
I can watch your hands in action, but your tongue too fast may run,
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true,
But I'd rather get my lessons by observing what you do;
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give,
But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live.

Rogers—Cook

Tarboro, June 4.—The marriage of Miss Mary Cook and Mr. W. H. Rogers was solemnized at Calvary Episcopal church at 9 o'clock Wednesday.

Mrs. George E. Pennington presided at the organ and Mr. George Pennington played the violin. The full vested choir entered, singing the processional, and later as the vows were taken, an anthem was sung, with solo parts by Mrs. Bertram E. Brown and Mrs. John and Mrs. John R. Pender. At the first tones of Mendelssohn's wedding march the wedding party entered, preceded by the ushers, Messrs. D. H. Clark and J. A. Roberts, followed by the bridegroom, Misses Katherine Rogers, sister of the groom, and Nancy Jordaa of Norfolk, took their position in the chancel and behind them stood the bridesmaids, Messrs. W. T. Whitaker, of Raleigh and H. V. M. Vreeland of Charlotte. The maid of honor, Miss Mattie Taylor, next entered. Little Miss Martha Ashburn Simmons, the flower bearer, daintily dressed in rose pink taffeta carrying a large basket of sweet peas, preceded the bride, who entered with her father and was met at the chancel steps by the groom and his best man, Mr. William C. Bowen of Raleigh.

The bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of white Duchess satin, trimmings of lace and pearls, with court train. Her bouquet was brides roses and valley lilies. Rev. Bertam E. Brown performed the first part of the full Episcopal service at the steps to the chancel and the vows were taken kneeling the whole time the service was being read. After the wedding a public reception was given by the parents of the bride at their residence on St. Patrick St.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were motored over to Rocky Mount where they took the midnight train north, where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will be at home in Greenville, N. C.

BOY SCOUTS ARE HAVING BIG TIME ON CAMPING TRIP

Notes From Log Book Afford Plenty of Information Concerning Activities of Scouts

June 2.—The good boat M. J. Lee left the landing at Greenville promptly at eight-thirty with one hundred and ten on board. Just before casting off Rev. Jim Turner invoked God's blessings upon the expedition. The boat was turned around and soon was headed down stream. All was well till Red Banks was reached. There we found only about two feet of water. The stern stuck in the sand. However, after twenty minutes, with the aid of The Riverview of Washington we were able to get across. The next thing to happen was the losing of one of the life boats with Mr. J. R. Whichard in it. The boat was tied to the side of the boat, and Mr. Whichard was riding in it when the chain broke, and before the boat could be stopped the life boat was a half mile to the rear. Luckily there was an oar in the life boat, and after a while Mr. Whichard was able to catch up. Then at Grimesland there was a raft of logs across the river. One half hour was lost getting them out of the channel. Reached Washington at one fifteen, one hour and thirty minutes late. There we were met by the Boy and Girl Scouts of the town. Paraded up town with them. Halted in front of the Daily News office. Short speech was made by Editor Goerch, in happy vein. Then we were served lunch by the town. May be back to the dock. Sontmaster Rose thanked the boys and girls and folks of the town for their hospitality.

Left Washington at 2:45. Lost Mr. Whichard's life boat again just after passing through the railroad draw. Soon recovered it. Dick Williams lost his hat. Did not recover it. Engine stopped on us at 4 o'clock. Water in the carburetor. Got started again at five thirty. It was found out that Pamlico Beach could not be made before dark and not knowing the landing place it was decided to put into Bath for the night. Entered the mouth of Bath creek at seven o'clock. Landed at Bath at sun down. People were very generous and hospitable. The Girl Scouts slept in the Men Men's hall, the down stars of which is used for the jail. The boys camped right on the boat and on the open ground adjacent to the dock. Supper was cooked and eaten and so to bed. The weather turned very cold about 4 o'clock next morning. Left Bath at 8. Most of the scouts took a look at the old church before leaving. Reached Pamlico Beach at 11. Hot as blazes. Pier is 500 feet long. All supplies had to be carried from the ship to the shore by hand with the exception of things carried ashore in row boats. Dinner was served at 2 o'clock. Camp was in order by four, tents up and everything in order. The first swim was taken at 4. Supper was eaten at 7:30 and after supper big camp fire was built. Songs and stories till 9 and so to bed.

June 4.—Trip was taken over to Belhaven, fifteen miles away up the Pamlico river. Most everybody went. The others went fishing. Belhaven was found to be hospitable town. Saw the tall girl that played such good basket ball last year. The folks left at camp put in a good days fishing. Mike Mayo caught thirty. Zeno Brown caught 37. Whichard caught 75. Flip Skinner caught 70, and others caught smaller numbers. Plenty of fish for supper that night. Everybody is happy.

py. Nobody sick. Everybody eating everything in sight. Morale, one hundred percent.

Other League Clubs Ready

Reports of activities based on articles are to the effect that everything is in readiness for opening of the season next Thursday afternoon. A telephone message from Washington this morning stated that players are arriving daily and that practice will begin in real earnest during the afternoon. The club will be headed by Carl Jeanette, who was with the club last year, and a creditable showing is expected. Kinston and New Bern have a slight advantage over Washington and Greenville because of the early arrival of their players and advanced preparations. However, it is expected that all clubs will have had plenty of training by the opening date and as a consequence something out of the ordinary is anticipated.

FIRE CHIEF COMPLETES LONG TERM OF SERVICE

Cleveland, Ohio, June 5.—With the rounding out of 52 years of continuous service on June first, friends of Fire Chief George A. Wallace claimed he is the oldest fireman in the world in warm weather a cooler spell comes.

point of service. Chief Wallace has been at the head of Cleveland's fire department for more than twenty years. Never in that long career has he had a demerit mark. Wallace, 73 years old, joined the department in 1869. He carries himself like he were a man of 40. When he joined the department there were 85 members, 78 of whom are now dead. He has seen the hand apparatus of volunteer firemen give way to the fire horse and has seen the horse replaced by motor apparatus, the local department being completely motorized.

SAYS HE NEVER FELT AS GOOD IN HIS LIFE BEFORE

Saunders After Taking Tania Eats, Sleeps and Works Better Than In Years

"Tania fixed me up over a year ago and made such a good job of it I've felt fine and dandy ever since," said R. L. Saunders, a baker in the employ of the Federal Systems Bakeries. His home is 20 South Spruce St., Richmond, Va.

"I tried everything I ever heard of, even took an outdoor job trying to get relief, but nothing did me a bit of good till I got hold of Tania and that suited my case exactly, and finally I got to where even a whiff of food being cooked nauseated me. I actually hated the sight of food and had to force myself to eat enough to keep going. I got so nervous and worried I dreaded to see night come and in the mornings I felt all fagged out and unfit for work.

"Tania sure made a big change in me. It soon had me eating better, sleeping better and working better than I had in years. I gained eleven pounds in weight, too. I never had better health in my life than I have in the past year and I'll go the limit for the medicine that did it. Tania is a world beater.

THE DOT RED CROSS

By Clifford Leon Sherman

Our heroine was brought up so beautifully that she didn't know there were any rough things in life. She was carefully shielded if ever a little girl was. And her manners were certainly perfection. She knew exactly what to do and when to do it. She had a French teacher and a dancing teacher and I don't know what. And she didn't have to do anything for herself. Why, you may not believe it, but, when she used to go to the class in deportment twice every week a maid went with her just to carry her.
