GREENVILLE WINS OPENING GAME OF THE EASTERN CAROLINA LEAGUE FROM WASHINGTON BY SCORE 11-4

Heavy Stick Work and Brilliant Fielding of Visitors Turns Tide of Victory in Their Favor in Early Stages of the Contest. Washington Fielded Brilliantly But Couldn't Hold Greenville

In a game featured by heavy hitting and sensational fielding Greenville yesterday afternoon won the opening game of the Eastern Carolina league from Washington, at Washington, by the score of 11 to 4. The contest was without a doubt one of the best seen in this section of the State in many a day, and although the score was rather large, this however, failed to detract from interest of the game which was featured by a continuous round of heavy stick work, fast base running and at times erratic but brilliant fielding.

Both Washington and Greenville people turned out as they probably never turned out before. The large attendance was principally the result of postponement of the game the day before and a general desire of ardent supporters to see the two clubs match their strength.

That everyone got everything coming to them goes without saying. Washington people treated the visitors royally. In the grandstand and all along down the crowded base lines a sentiment prevailed that was pleasing indeed and marks the beginning of what promises to be a strong friendship between the two towns throughout the entire season.

The hand in the grandstand was away fiercely in the first part of the game, but apparently favored no side particularly, and played as much for Greenville's brilliant showing as it did when the Washington fielders pulled down long drives in a way that would have done credit to the big leagues. Everyone and everything seemed to be in excellent spirit, and the fact that Washington people seem to make it a special business to make everything pleasant for the visitors helped the contest to pass off probably more pleasantly than any game which Greenville has ever before participated in.

To go into details concerning the affray would take up several columns, but in a brief way principal facts may be so compiled as to give everyone a pretty good idea as to how things went. First, however, it might be well to dwell upon the splendid way "Lefty" McLain hurled for Greenville. This youngster worked like a veteran in every frame, and while he got in pretty hot water one or two times, like a hard working bull weevil he managed to swim through to safety, leaving the Washington runners uncomfortably near the checking station, but not near enough to gain favor with the guy keeping the scoreboard.

"Lefty" was opposed by Chandler until the middle of the third inning when he was relieved by Ludwig, who fared little better. Ludwig, however, hurled the old apple determinedly, and many a time held the visitors hitless when hits would have been responsible for many other runners passing over the rubber. The whole credit for the game, however, can't be attributed to "Lefty" for the infield and outfield too cut up in a way that drew wild cheering from the grandstand.

Jeanette, captain and center fielder of the Washington club, putted down a number of long drives during the game, but his most brilliant work came in the second frame when he made a running one handed catch of Fogleman's drive clean out of his territory. This work was repeated later by Fogleman himself in several instances, who made two catches of long drives that seemed almost impossible. Stringfield, Massey and Woods and Adams on third also came in for fielding honors. They handled the old pill like they had been used to it an entire lifetime, and hit—goodness, boy, how they pounded that old apple.

Greenville did its damaging work in the first, third, sixth, seventh and ninth innings. In the first Stringfield lined the second ball pitched to center field for two bases later scoring on a beautiful sacrifice by the

UNIQUE WHISKEY OUTFIT FALLS INTO HANDS OFFICERS

Still of Only One Gallon Capacity Captured by Deputy Sheriffs During Yesterday Afternoon

One of the smallest and most unique whiskey stills captured in this part of the country since prohibition went into effect was captured by Deputy Sheriffs Williams and Wooten between Galloway's Cross Roads and Black Jack yesterday afternoon. The officers went out with the expectation of getting something really worthy of consideration, but when lo, and behold, they discovered that the still was of a one gallon capacity they nearly fainted away to be hauled bodily from the large swamp into which they were forced to penetrate to make the capture.

The still was constructed out of an ordinary one gallon kerosene can with a wooden doubling keg. It was mounted on a little brick furnace which was sufficiently large to furnish enough heat to distill the small supply of whiskey more quickly than under ordinary circumstances. The oil can was turned up side down and fitted nicely into the place left in the brick for it. In top of the can a hole had been punched through which the liquid was poured.

The can seemed to be rather old and well worn while the brick also indicated that the little still had been in operation for many months. Just why the operators should have found it advisable to penetrate so deeply into the swamp to carry on such a small traffic is inconceivable for it is certain operation even in a congested district would have never been discovered unless it was called to the attention of officers by someone acquainted with its location.

County officers have captured many curious looking whiskey distilling affairs, but without a doubt this one is the most unusual ever before reported in this particular part of the State. Just how the officers got wind of its whereabouts cannot be divulged to the public, but it is safe to say their information came from some person who evidently was dissatisfied with the still's capacity and desired something of a larger size.

The still will be placed with many others in the confiscated cell at the county jail, where the public will be able to see it on display by request of any of the county officials. It may be included with that captured sometime ago which is to be sent to the national museum, but this is not assured at the present time, for it is probable the officers may desire to keep it for exhibition purposes in showing the proportions which the traffic has assumed in this territory.

WASHINGTON FANS SHOW COURTESY TO VISITING PEOPLE

Splendid Spirit in Prevalence at Game Yesterday; Band Serenades Greenville People

Scores of Greenville people attended the opening of the Eastern Carolina league in Washington yesterday, and were gratified at the splendid reception given by the Washington people. The courtesy towards the visitors of hundreds of people in the grandstand and lined up along the bleachers has been a matter of considerable comment, and there is a sentiment prevailing today that will see the same spirit duly reciprocated when Washington people visit Greenville.

These towns apparently realize that they are to be thrown to themselves in the great struggle for the pennant this season, and the fans in Washington showed in the opening yesterday that they appreciate good ball and don't mean to let the selfish spirit creep in which demoralized the league last year. Greenville people feel mighty good over the reception which they received and every man and woman is going to make it his and her duty to see that Washington people are treated royally when they come here.

The same spirit, of course, will be shown towards all clubs, that is if they desire it, and it should be the part of all Greenville people to see to it that they make it their business to make things pleasant throughout the entire season. It matters not who wins or how the wind blows.

The generous spirit of the Washington citizens was shown in the way they did the brass band which blazed way so fleetly at the ball park. After the game was conceded to Greenville members of the band left for town, and gathered in front of the Louise hotel where they serenaded the visitors who crowded around the drug store and hotel in large numbers after the contest was over. Negotiations are now under way for securing a band for the opening game here Monday, and if this proves successful the occasion will be lived up considerably more than under ordinary conditions.

The elimination of small towns this season is largely responsible for the splendid sentiment prevailing among all clubs, and unless nothing happens the entire season will be everything that could be desired. It should be the purpose of people in all towns to follow in the pathway blazed by Washington yesterday for in this way alone can the game be made exactly what it should be.

KINSTONIANS GO DOWN IN DEFEAT TO NEW BERNIANS

Combat Proves to Be Splendid and the Game Lacked the Usual Features

Kinston, June 11.—Playing to a crowd estimated at more than three thousand people, on the Ghent Park diamond at New Bern yesterday, Kinston went down in defeat to the New Bern nine to the score of 12 to 2, this game marking the opening of the Eastern Carolina league 1921 season.

The Kinston-New Bern combat proved to be slow game and lacked those features which go to arouse the usual enthusiasm and pep generally exhibited in the grand stand and bleachers. Lewien, pitching for the New Bernians was hit hard by the local nine, striking out only four men, but allowing only four hits, and was saved only by the sensational fielding which backed him up. Hines, who did the twirling for the Kinstonians allowed 10 hits and struck out 4 men, though he received fair support from the field.

BUSINESS HOUSES REQUESTED TO CLOSE MONDAY AT 3 O'CLOCK FOR FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON

Practically All Cities of the League Have Decided to Close Stores and Business Houses at Three O'clock as Special Courtesy to Ball Club. Best Exhibition of the Year is Anticipated

SPECIAL REPORTS TO BE FURNISHED BY THE REFLECTOR

The Reflector has made arrangements for furnishing complete reports of all games of the Eastern Carolina league. These reports will be received over a special wire connecting all ball parks, enabling each town to receive detailed description of the game. This special service has been made possible by arrangement with the telephone company, by the Horne Drug company and the Reflector, and is the first time in history of the city that such preparations have been made for handling baseball reports. Each of the two companies will necessarily be compelled to go to an enormous expense to furnish this special service, and it is hoped the public will be sufficiently appreciative to contribute as much as possible in financial way. A large bulletin board will be erected in front of the Reflector office and at the ball park on which tabulated score of every game will be given at frequent intervals.

Efforts are now on foot to have all city stores and business houses to close at three o'clock Monday so everyone may be able to take in the first game of the Eastern Carolina league to be played in this city this season between Greenville and New Bern, the two clubs now acknowledged to be the strongest and most formidable of the league.

It is argued that business men should show this much courtesy to management of the club, for the success of the season this year as last is largely dependent upon attendance. It is generally conceded that New Bern and Kinston will afford the largest crowds throughout the season, but Washington and Greenville are going to make especial effort to swell their attendance as much as possible so they will be in position to saw wood and not be troubled by financial worries.

The game Monday promises to be one of the hardest fought of the entire season, because it is to determine the strength of Greenville and New Bern. The New Bern club has conceded that it had the best players from the beginning of the baseball controversy, and in the game here Monday is going to be a matter of either play ball like the dickens or taking a sound thrashing at the hands of the club which yesterday proved its superiority over the strong Washington aggregation.

This fact deserves the earnest consideration of business men, and it is hoped it will have sufficient weight to justify one and all in closing their place of business promptly at three o'clock so clerks, office boys, truck drivers and every person composing the laboring class may have the opportunity of seeing a game in which everyone should be deeply interested.

Practically all other towns comprising the league have already decided to close at the above hour and Greenville should not be considered lacking in this respect. The courtesy is due the ball club, and every merchant should live up to what is expected of him by the public and the ball club.

That everyone got everything coming to them goes without saying. Washington people treated the visitors royally. In the grandstand and all along down the crowded base lines a sentiment prevailed that was pleasing indeed and marks the beginning of what promises to be a strong friendship between the two towns throughout the entire season.

The band in the grandstand played away fiercely in the first part of the game, but apparently favored no side particularly, and played as much for Greenville's brilliant showing as it did when the Washington fielders pulled down long drives in a way that would have done credit to the big leagues. Everyone and everything seemed to be in excellent spirit, and the fact that Washington people seem to make it a special business to make everything pleasant for the visitors helped the contest to pass off probably more pleasantly than any game which Greenville has ever before participated in.

To go into details concerning the affair would take up several columns, but in a brief way principal facts may be so compiled as to give everyone a pretty good idea as to how things went. First, however, it might be well to dwell upon the splendid way "Lefty" McLain hurled for Greenville. This youngster worked like a veteran in every frame, and while he got in pretty hot water one or two times, like a hard working bull weevil he managed to swim through to safety, leaving the Washington runners uncomfortably near the checking station, but not near enough to gain favor with the guy keeping the scoreboard.

"Lefty" was opposed by Chandler until the middle of the third inning when he was relieved by Ludwig, who fared little better. Ludwig, however, hurled the old apple determinedly, and many a time held the visitors hitless when hits would have been responsible for many other runners passing over the rubber. The whole credit for the game, however, can't be attributed to "Lefty" for the infield and outfield too cut up in a way that drew wild cheering from the grandstand.

Jeanette, captain and center fielder of the Washington club, pulled down a number of long drives during the game, but his most brilliant work came in the second frame when he made a running one handed catch of Fogleman's drive clean out of his territory. This work was repeated later by Fogleman himself in several instances, who made two catches of long drives that seemed almost impossible. Stringfield, Massey and Woods and Adams on third also came in for fielding honors. They handled the old pill like they had been used to it an entire lifetime, and hit—goodness, boy, how they pounded that old apple.

Greenville did its damaging work in the first, third, sixth, seventh and ninth innings. In the first Stringfield lined the second ball pitched to center field for two bases later scoring on a beautiful sacrifice by the inimitable first baseman, "Mug" Massey. In the third stage McLain landed safely on first on account of an error at short. Stringfield again pounded the old pill out for two bases, scoring McLain and later passing over the rubber himself when Washington unfortunately let two errors creep in all at the same time. Wood then langed the ball out safely. At this particular period Chandler was relieved by Ludwig, but instead of curbing the batting spirit as expected he yielded up a hit to Adams in the sixth after Fogleman had been given a free pass to first. McLain pounded the pill to center field, whereupon Adams romped in to the checking station.

In the seventh they again started some disastrous work with the willow. Wood landed safely at first on an error of his drive to short. Massey lined a fielder's choice to second, both he and Wood getting safe as a result of Wood's fast base running. Ratchford hitting for Morton lined the ball to short, all runners advancing; Fogleman hit to short and on a series of errors and wild throws, both runners scored. Adams later hit to center field, scoring Fogleman.

In the ninth Leftwich lined one out for two bases, later scoring on a long drive by Ratchford. Fogleman hit, scoring Ratchford. Right at this particular juncture Adams, not being satisfied with the slaughter, jealously strolled up to the rubber and cracked the old pill over right field fence for the entire circuit.

Washington made things mighty uncomfortable in the second frame when two runners were sent over the rubber. After two men were down Robbins hit to third base, where the pill was fumbled by Poole, the runner getting safe at second; Rowland singled to center field scoring Robbins; Chandler hit to center field for an additional hit to bases scoring Rowland. In the seventh frame further destructive work was started when Rowland was hit by pitcher and went to first, Chandler hit safely; Jeanette was given a free pass to first; Jacobs hit scoring Rowland and Chandler.

CONGESTED LIVING CONDITIONS CAUSES MANY SUICIDES

Divorces Also Given as Reason For Alarming Increase of Crime in America

New York, June 11.—Divorces, congested living conditions, and enactment of the Eighteenth amendment are given as probable causes for the alarming increases in the number of suicides in 1920, according to reports received by officers of the Save-a-Life League with offices in this city. Dr. E. L. Hoffman, statistician of the organization, estimates the number at not less than 12,000. Of these reported cases 707 were children, he said, the boys averaging 15 years, the girls 10.

Rev. Henry Warren, president of the league, also declares that restrictions in sale of narcotic drugs helped to swell the total of unfortunates who died by their own hands.

Dr. Warren cites many trivial causes as the impelling force for suicide. One man was distressed because his new suit did not have enough buttons on the sleeve of the coat. Another man rebelled at eating a lemon pie his wife had constructed out of turnips and glucose. A youth killed himself because he was asked to eat ham and eggs for supper. A woman became morbid because her husband refused to partake of her clam chowder. A couple disputed over whether the bedroom window should be opened an inch or not less than two feet at night. The wife's argument prevailed, and the man killed himself.

Those dispatches from New York telling of high money rates haven't the right ring at all. However, that's not what the people are troubling about now. The real worry is getting the money to fuss about.

The trend is lower in the cotton market and higher in the money market, according to mentors of both situations. That being the case we would certainly like to see the South favored a bit, that's all there is to it.

Leading scientists say the spots on the sun will increase the amount of sunshine. That being the case, it's to be hoped the spots will stay there indefinitely. At least long enough to convince us that there's going to be some summer weather.

Railroad employees are considering proposals for a strike. If they know what's best they will continue to say wood and say nothing. Conditions are entirely different from what they used to be, and the unemployment situation indicates that there are plenty of men waiting to step in the other fellow's job.

Cotton is and always will be one of the chief crops of the south. But if prices were to improve in the near future it will be of little interest to the farmer. No one wants to produce anything for which there is no inducement in the way of price, and the sooner conditions improve along this line the better off the entire country ought to be.

Farmers that take advantage of the co-operative marketing association will be the ones to realize the great things in store for the future. There is no argument against the new method. It supplants the old dumping method by a practical system of exchange, and certainly will benefit all parties concerned. Pitt county farmers so far have responded to the call for organization.

Advocates of economy are preparing to begin an intensive campaign at the present time. The movement might have been appropriate several years ago, but right at this time there's no use of reaching economy when there is nothing to economize for. The money stringency has produced a situation that means economy from beginning to end. The promoters might wait until the Republican administration creates more money, and then implore the reckless to save some of the slush fund.

The fact that there were more people killed in the United States by automobile than during a certain period of the war brings out the seriousness of the automobile menace in a forceful way. Carper's Weekly says in nineteen months of the war the country lost exactly 70,000 men. In the last nineteen months it lost 91,000 by automobile. The comparison is startling indeed, and shows the need of more stringent regulations regarding the driving of cars. The country seems to have gone completely crazy over riding at a fast rate of speed, but when people begin to realize the imminent danger of being thrown into eternity through some unexpected accident it is safe to say they will calm down and listen to common sense talk regarding traffic ordinances.

THE SOUTH AND 'MONK'

The South maintained a long lead in the manufacture of contraband liquor for the month of April, according to a report made public by the revenue department yesterday.

This information is anything but pleasing and shows that the recent reduction in prohibition agents is exactly what the State did not need. The eastern part of North Carolina is seriously affected by the report, because it is certain that the majority of stills captured were taken in this immediate territory. The situation is of serious proportions and deserves the consideration of serious minded people. Instead of decreasing prohibition forces, every effort should be forwarded to have them increased. Sheriffs and other officers may do everything in their power to curb the traffic. But this is impossible unless there is some secret forces at work to detect the surreptitious operations of distillers and dispensers of rums. It is hoped the issue will be taken up by the State and something done to better conditions.

Unless some action becomes evident in the near future it is easy to surmise what the future holds in store for even the best communities.

AMERICANS QUIT SHIP BECAUSE OF SEVERE RULINGS

Thirteen Abandon Seafaring on Account of Hard Life on the Quarterdeck

Pago, Pago, American Samoa, June 10.—Lonesomeness and the hard life of the quarterdeck caused thirteen Americans who wanted to our the world seeking adventure, to leave the yacht Wisdom II by the time she reached here recently from Los Angeles, Cal., on a trip of scientific research round the globe.

All America wanted to go, Frederick O'Brien, author, one of the ship's company, said in telling of the requests made before sailing for berths on the boat. There were twenty officers, sailors and moving picture men aboard when the vessel left California. Six left at Tahiti and seven here, leaving what Mr. O'Brien called a workable crew of seven Americans. Six Tahitians were taken aboard as sailors. The Wisdom, commanded by Captain Edwin S. Salisbury of New York and California, arrived here April 11. She left Los Angeles January 19. The Marquesas Islands and points in Tahiti, Bora Bora and Raiatea were visited before the boat arrived here.

Seldom visited places like the New Hebrides, New Guinea and New Caledonia are to be visited by the Wisdom before she heads for the Far East and India.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS TO CONSIDER COURT NATIONAL JUSTICE

This Will be the Most Important Single Problem to be Considered

Geneva, June 10.—The most important single problem that will be considered at the Second Assembly of the League of Nations called for September 5 is the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

The statutes of the court which were adopted by the first assembly have now been signed by 33 states and are in process of ratification by members of the league.

While this is regarded as the most important subject, the provisional program of the meeting which has just been distributed to all governments which are members of the League, consists of 25 items. Among them are amendments to the Covenant, the reduction of armaments, the request of Bolivia for mediation in her dispute with Chili, and the appointment of four non-permanent members of the Council.

Reports will be received from technical organizations of the league such as those dealing with the suppression of the opium traffic, the traffic in women and children, communications and transit, international health, registration of treaties, the economic blockade and the allocation of expenditures of the league.

TWO MEN OF TWO MINDS

By J. Richard Allen

Life is a constant struggle from the cradle to the tomb and unless one is enlisted under the banner of purity and righteousness, unless he is an earnest and zealous soldier of truth, he will not be able to stand when trial test his strength, when battle tries his courage and his armor, when temptation spreads its net, and when crafty hypocrisy digs a pit for his feet. The only means of escape is that given in the advice of the great hero of the cross in His letter to the Ephesians, Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breast plate of righteousness, your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace;
and above all, taking shield of faith where-with ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

Two things this old world needs:
tenderness and cheer. All about us are hearts hungry for sympathy, for kindness. Then everywhere are weary and discouraged ones, needing the uplift of hope to make them brave and strong enough to go forward to meet the future.

We could do nothing better with our life than to consecrate it to a military of tenderness and encouragement.
This is one of heavens paths to happiness for the merciful shall obtain mercy. It is a beautiful thing in the

Juneau, Alaska, June 10—Points more than 500 miles up the Kilyma of northern Siberia, which had not been visited by traders for four years, were reached last summer by a party of American traders, headed by Captain S. K. Gudmundson, master of the trader schooner Polar Bear, according to word received here.

The Bear left Nome, Alaska, June 27, 1920, sailed around the Siberian coast and East Cape into the Arctic and arrived at the mouth of the Kolyma August 4. The schooner was worked up the river 120 miles and anchored while the traders took a small boat 300 miles farther up.

It were still 400 miles from the head of the river, Captain Gudmundson said in writing of his trip to a Juneau friend. We found trading ry good as no boat had visited that vicinity in four years and we soon disposed of our wares and loaded up with goods of the country.

Last winter the Por Bear and its company was frozen in at the mouth of the Kolyma, having failed in an attempt to reach Nome before the ice came. Her cargo of furs and ivory
