NEGRO BOY HIT IN HEAD BY BATSMAN GAME SATURDAY

William Whichard Suffers Depressed Fracture of Skull Necessitating an Operation

William Whichard colored boy about nine years of age, is confined in the Skinner-Smith Emergency hospital in this city in a precarious condition suffering from injuries received when hit in the head with a baseball bat during the course of a baseball game between colored men Saturday afternoon about six o'clock.

The young fellow was rushed to the hospital immediately where an examination of injuries showed that he had suffered a depressed fracture of the skull, which necessitated immediate operation. A portion of the skull about the size of a dollar had been shattered completely and was resting on the brain producing pressure symptoms of convulsions which made the operation an unusually delicate one.

Physicians at the hospital entertained slight hope for recovery Saturday afternoon, but reports this morning stated the boy is doing as nicely as could be expected and has a fair chance of recovery.

HEAVY BALLOTING MARKS FIRST MEET COUNTY CHAMBER

Judges of Election to Begin Count Promptly at Seventy-three O'clock Tuesday

Heavy balloting marked the first day of the chamber of commerce elections. Polls close Tuesday night at 7. It is expected that practically every one will have voted by that time.

Expressions of approval of the method used by the chamber of commerce in this election are being heard on every side. The advantages of direct nomination and direct election—each member expressing his full and free choice in secret ballot—are pointed to as being model methods of election.

Another feature being commended is that of the arrangement of the directorate—half elected each year. In order to start this, the present election calls for the election of half for two years. In all future elections, however, the voting will be for a period of two years. In this way half the board will retire each year.

ENGLAND TRYING FOR SUPREMACY ENGLISH CENTERS

America's First Place in Shipping in Greece is Desired by British

Athens, June 12.—America's commercial supremacy in Greece is threatened by England. Figures just compiled by Will L. Lowrie of Elgin, Ill., American consul-general to Greece, show that during the first eight months of 1920 Great Britain's exports to Greece were valued at 10 percent more than the exports of the United States.

England also leads America in imports from Greece. American imports for the year fell off more than $5,000,000.

The most notable decrease was in tobacco leaf, the 1920 shipments to the United States amounting to only $10,802,003, compared with $22,681,873 in 1919.

Greece is the principal tobacco center of Europe and the great island of Macedonia produce some of the finest leaf in the world.

SHRINERS IN FULL POSSESSION MANY PARTS DES MOINES

Opening of Imperial Council Attracts Large Crowds to the City

Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—Shriners of North America took possession of Des Moines today in advance of the opening of the sessions of the Imperial Council, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. The first sessions of the council will be held Tuesday.

The first special train to arrive brought a delegation of 300 from Murat temple, Indianapolis, Ind. A special train bearing Imperial Potentate Ellis Lewis Garretson and his party from Afiri temple, Tacoma, Wash., another special train of eleven coaches from Salama temple, Newark, New Jersey, and the special from Alee temple at Savannah, Ga., were other early arrivals.

Especially heavy delegations are coming from the west and from the south. More than 6,000 members of uniformed Shrine organizations will be in line of march for the parades of Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to thousands of members of marching clubs.

Tomorrow afternoon six hundred automobile loads of Shriners will make the trip to Ames, Ia., to make an inspection of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. One of the arrivals today was J. S. McChandless of Honolulu, Hawaii, Imperial Deputy Rabbah of the order, who will be elevated to the office of imperial potentate at San Francisco next year. He is a representative of Aloha temple, Honolulu.

The council will take action upon the establishment of a great Shrine hospital for crippled children, the construction of which was decided upon at the last imperial council meeting, held at Portland, Ore., last year. The committee in charge of arrangements decided in favor of St. Louis, Mo., as the site of the hospital, but a movement has developed favoring the support of institutions scattered all over the United States rather than the maintenance of one great institution. A number of cities are applicants for new temples and have large delegations on hand.

SPLENDID CROWDS GO TO CHAUTAUQUA FEATURES IN CITY

Dr. Bohn Delivers Splendid Discourse on Unity of All Denominations of the Country

Much interest has been created by the Swarthmore chautauqua which opened for a week engagement in this city last Friday night, and as a result attendance has been everything that could be desired. The union services last night was marked by a splendid lecture by Dr. Bohn, who used as his subject the unity of all denominations of this country. He declared it would be an impossibility to ever get all churches united as one distinct denomination as proposed by numbers of leading church workers of the nation, but that all churches should pull together in harmony, recognizing that they are bound for the same goal with the same object in view.

The lecture was a masterly exposition of facts connected with movements in the interest of christianizing the world, and presented in a forceful way the need of more concerted action on the part of every denomination. Ministers and leading church members should work with a view of creating a spirit of harmony and cohesion for in this way alone can the word of God reach all the people as it should. He urged eternal vigilance along all lines of Christian endeavor and more determined effort by Sunday Schools which is the foundation of all church activity.

There are a number of interesting features of program for the remainder of the week. Tonight a play entitled "Nothing But The Truth" will be presented by an excellent cast, and its assured all owners of season tickets will be in attendance as well as numbers of single admissions. The guarantors have done everything possible to make the ticket sale measure up to expectations and while they failed in the beginning an offering, last night of about one hundred dollars relieved the situation considerably.

The Chautauqua management is making every effort to co-operate with the public and to render every service for development of the community, and it is very necessary that attendance be as large as possible if the true mission of the attraction is accomplished. Every part of the program is of a high class and should be of interest to every man, woman and child of the city.

SERIES OF ROBBERIES REPORTED TO POLICE

A series of robberies have been reported to the police since Saturday night, but the only places where the thieves met with any noted success was at the Thomas store at the end of the river bridge where they got away with about two hundred dollars worth of automobile tires. The Chere Cola Bottling Company was entered sometime between Saturday night and Sunday morning, but nothing is reported missing. The money drawers were rifled, but fortunately they had been emptied by the management at the close of business hours Saturday. The home of Jarvis Harding was entered within the last 24 hours but the thieves evidently were hunting something to eat as nothing has been found missing except that. The police, so far have been unable to make any arrests, but it is expected these will follow later.

Secretary of War Weeks declares we cannot disarm while other countries are increasing their strength. That's so, but if we would join the league of nations and show that we really desire peace the other nations might feel more like engaging in disarmament.

Germany has purchased 300,000 bales of cotton during the last three months as against 40,000 for the same months last year. The only hope for the American cotton grower is increased foreign demand, but it is hardly probable that such buyers as Germany will bring them much money. However, if Germany stops wrangling and gets down to work she may be able to become a desirable customer.

Washington, North Carolina, certainly thinks something of Congressman John H. Small, no doubt about that. The tribute paid him through a reception during the week was a most deserving one. He has accomplished much interest of the State and there are many other towns beside Washington proud of his record made at the nation's capital.

The opening of the Eastern Carolina league means that there will be something to drive away troubles during the hot summer months. The sport is exactly what the American people need to keep them in a cheerful and optimistic frame of mind, and any town that invests in the game is not doing unwisely. Greenville people should make an effort to relieve any financial stringency of the club this season, for in this way a much better brand of ball is guaranteed.

It's difficult to argue the truth to the American laborer during the present period of deflation, but the time is coming when they will be glad to listen to sane argument. They hate like the mischief to have their wages cut and make all kinds of threats concerning what they will do, but when it is considered that there are millions of men out of employment in America one can see how they feel. Strikes are no longer in order, and the man with a job ought to hold it.

Senator Gilbert Hitchcock of Nebraska, held up Wilson ideals in a recent address before students of Trinity college, showing beyond doubt that the illustrious ex-president is everything which the public first gave him credit of being. There are many critics severe and harsh in denunciation of the president's activity during the war, but when it is remembered what a huge task confronted him in living up to expectations no one can truthfully say he did not accomplish the mission in a way deserving of commendation of the American people. Critics may harp as much as they like, but when they get down to the truth the Democratic administration and its chief was one of the greatest in history of the country.

The fact that 707 children between five and sixteen years of age committed suicide last year presents an entirely new problem for consideration of the American people. There is considerable talk about conditions prevailing in other countries, but if we get down to brass tacks and nails the United States affords plenty of work for reformers and people desirous of giving money. There are many serious situations confronting the nation at this time and unless they are taken in hand immediately there is slight guarantee concerning success of the future. Child suicide is getting to a mighty fine point and probably will help in swamping the country to its real responsibility.

JUDGE CONNOR AND BOOZE

Judge Henry G. Connor has been commended for declaring that prison or road sentences should follow convictions of the prohibition laws. That he deserves praise goes without saying.

The whiskey traffic is gradually assuming dangerous proportions in all parts of the State and the sooner severe action is taken the better off everyone ought to be. In this immediate section a mighty inferior kind of whiskey is produced, and the sooner the traffic is reduced the less danger the public stands of being poisoned by the beverage. There are hundreds that will drink the vile liquid regardless of consequence, and the only wonder is that a greater number has not been killed.

The time for determined action has come and it is to be hoped the courts will pay strict attention to that class of people appearing on charges of connection with the traffic.

FELT LIKE SHE'D GIVE ANYTHING TO FIND RELIEF

Virginia Woman Says Tanlac Has Built Her Up Just Wonderfully

"I have often seen the time during the past two years that I just felt like I would give anything in the world to be strong like I am now since taking Tanlac," declared Mrs. W. O. Barrow of 34 Pelham avenue, Schoolfield, Va. "I don't believe anybody could suffer indigestion any worse than I did and live through it all. The last two years were just one unbroken period of misery and lots of times I went without eating a bite rather than suffer for the pains and distress I knew would follow. I had pains and cramps that were almost unbearable and at times I just ached all over. Even my shoulders hurt so bad I could not raise my hands up to put a shawl around me. I would become so dizzy and fainty sometimes I couldn't stand up and I often had sinking spells.

"Every time I think of how much I suffered I can't help feeling thankful for this wonderful Tanlac that has restored my health so perfectly. I am

THE DOT RED CROSS

By Clifford Leon Sherman

It was Bob. Of course it was. As Mildred said later it could not possibly have been anybody else. She and Bob just held on to each other in silence and the rest of the world was simply blotted out. Words were entirely unnecessary. Mildred's nurse friend settled herself comfortably to wait until they should come back to earth again. Finally she whispered that somebody was coming. Then she spoke loudly but they paid no attention and probably under the circumstances they would not have heard an approaching

GREENVILLE BOLL WEEVILS WIN SECOND GAME OF SEASON FROM WASHINGTON BY SCORE OF 5 TO 4

Washington Forced to Use Three Hurlers in Effort to Curb Battering Spirit of Visitors. Jeanette and Fogleman in Centerfield Again Prove Stars of the Day by Sensational Fielding

By taking the second game of the series from Washington Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4 the Greenville Boll Weevils placed themselves in position proved a determined contestant for the pennant against the strong New Bern aggregation which comes to this city for a three games series today. New Bern defeated Kinston three times in succession and proved beyond doubt that it is the strongest club in the league, with the exception of the Boll Weevils who promise to stage a splendid exhibition in the first contest between the two clubs at the fair grounds here this afternoon.

The game in Washington Saturday was by no means different from that of the day before when the score was considerably larger. It featured principally in hard hitting and sensational fielding, and probably would have been more in Washington's favor had fielding been of a higher class. Both clubs showed greater strength than in the first contest of the season, with the exception of the hard hitting Boll Weevils who failed to use the willow quite so freely.

The sailors played as determinedly as ever, but were unable to handle the ball without having seven errors chalked up against them. While these were of a damaging nature in many respects, they occurred at times when they were of little significance, failing to yield the visitors any decided advantage. Greenville on the other hand had four errors credited against them, and in particularly every instance they gave the sailors an advantage which they were quick in accepting. The most damaging occurred in the first inning when Stringfield failed to handle the horsehide in his usual quick and effective way, affording Washington a splendid opening for scoring which was readily taken advantage of, resulting in two counters.

The sailors placed Chandler on the mound, but he was relieved in the first inning by Stephens who also was relieved in the seventh by Beard. The last hurler pitched effectively, but apparently didn't have anything on Stephens. Greenville landed the sphere in every direction anyhow, so efforts to curb the tide of victory proved futile indeed, although it is true fast fielding worked wonders and checked the tide of victory more than any other single feature. Jeanette, the sailors' captain, again featured in fielding honors of the day, making a long running one handed catch in one or two instances, and touching the ball just enough to make an error out of a long drive by Massey which appeared to be easily good for three bases.

Jones started out on the mound for Greenville and pitched a wonderfully effective game, although there were numbers of times when he got himself in hot water, pulling through only by splendid fielding on the part of his team mates. There were, however, two or three innings when the youngster failed to let the sailors even have a look in on the game, but at other times they succeeded in bunting hits barely enough to get two runners over the rubber. This occurred in the first, third and sixth frames, but after that time everything worked smoothly. He yielded only five hits throughout the entire game, which was exceptionally good compared against the eight which the Boll Weevils succeeded in getting off Washington's three artists.

There were no sensational features connected with the contest as compared with the first game of the day. In fact, the exhibition was considerably slower, though the score would not indicate such. No one seems to be able to tell where the slowness came in, but it was there, and regardless of splendid fielding at times it continued to play a prominent part throughout every inning.

Greenville started things moving rapidly in the very first inning when Stringfield pounded the old apple out for one base, later going to second on Wood's sacrifice. Massey lined the sphere out to center field, which Jeanette reached just in time to make it two managers started to figuring out their material at an early date, and by picking the best men of the club last year and those of Scotland Neck they have succeeded in placing a lineup in the field worthy of Virginia league consideration. They mean to have a high class of ball this year and if the public will co-operate as it should Greenville will make a showing every one will be proud of.

About the strongest and most formidable position of the Boll Weevils is behind the bat. There's Sammy Carson and Lyle who are about the best in the entire league. Sammy was signed up by the big leagues many months ago, but when they called for him this year to farm out with some of the southern leagues he flatly refused to do so. This youngster believes he will be appreciated more in his home territory, and he's right about it, too. Sammy plays a fast, consistent game and elicits the old pill in a way that constantly draws approval from the grandstand. Lyle caught a splendid game in the opener with Washington Friday, and is setting just the kind of pace appealing to the better side of his mate, Sammy Carson.

When reports were sent up from Washington about that ninth inning home run last Friday Greenville enthusiasts didn't know much about the fellow Adams responsible for the run, but they made arrangements to get acquainted the next day, you can bet your hat on that. Adams says he did not mean to knock the old pill so far, but it happened to be the kind he can't help hitting, therefore, it is easily understood why the horsehide was lost over Washington's right field fence, which, by the way, has been moved back about eighteen feet since last Fourth of July when nearly every man on the club found it easy to send one sailing over the fence.

Washington treated Greenville people royally during the opening game, and evidenced the fact that they like the Boll Weevils despite the destructive work which they pulled off in both games. This is a mighty commendable spirit, and the sailors may rest assured of receiving similar treatment when they come here. That is, courteous treatment, as we can't tell so much how the game will go right at this time.

John Ivey Smith, who is well known in this city, heads the New Bern team as manager this year. He says he means to show Greenville how to play ball. But, that is hardly necessary for the Boll Weevils exhibited strength in the opening games with Washington which will assuredly give the Bears plenty of entertainment. There's nothing like getting plenty of practical experience, and before the loquacious John Ivey completes the three game series here he may be ready to change opinion concerning the unbeatable qualities of his club.

Fogleman, the little short fellow that plays center field for Greenville has shown something commendable in sensational catches and hard hitting, and promises to produce something even better before everything is over.

Captain Saxe Barnes' nephew Jones, seems to be in position to hurl some mighty good ball for the Boll Weevils this year. He showed splendid stuff against the Washington crew in Saturday's exhibition, allowing only five hits which were kept well scattered. The youngster is considerably more promising than last year and in all probability has found a permanent position on Manager Guy's pitching staff.

Captain Barnes hasn't said much about what he expects to do on the mound against New Bern today, but if he happens to be in form the Bears are going to have a rather difficult time locating his twisters. Saxe hurled Wake Forest to victory in many a warm contest and everyone knows that school had a base ball club to be reckoned with this season and last, too, for that matter. Barnes is one of those kind of fellows who says little but, gracious, Maranda, how the old boy does saw wood when he has something to saw with.

Woods and Stringfield are fielding at a fast clip these days, and Mug Massey and Adams are finding it a pleasure trying to keep pace with them. The Boll Weevils have an infield any club would be proud of, and the hitting proclivities seem to be on par with those of the field. This bespeaks success for Greenville and some terrible misfortune for other clubs comprising the league.

Leftwich, former Scotland Neck left fielder, has started some mighty brilliant work for Greenville, and covers his territory in a style that seldom fails to draw unrestrained approval from the grandstand. He handles the old willow in a convincing way and promises to be the means of many a Greenville run this season.

DIAMOND DUST

Fans who were in doubt concerning the strength of the Greenville Boll Weevils are apparently convinced now that they are about as destructive as anyone could ask for. In fact the way they cut up in Washington in the opening games of the league Friday and Saturday shows beyond doubt that New Bern has something to think about in the opening game here today. The Bears made it three straight against the Kinston Bees, but that doesn't mean they are going to find things so easy in this city. Captain Barnes' hard working, heavy hitting Boll Weevils mean business, and when the pinch comes it will be found that they have something the people should be proud of.

The Greenville club looks mighty familiar this year. In fact with Captain Barnes strolling around keeping the boys in good spirits, Stringfield on short and Massey covering the first sitions in the infield and outfield, too, some of last year's games. The Boll Weevils have a number of acquisitions in the infield and outfield, too. The way they showed up against the Washington aggregation convinces even the pessimistic that Greenville stands a mighty fine showing of capturing that little piece of rag the boys call a pennant, although they were unable to do it last year.

"Mug" Massey, the Boll Weevil's infielder's first baseman, says he and Jeanette, captain of the Washington team, are mighty good friends, but won't be much longer if the fast fielding Sailor again robs him of a clout for three bases as he did in Saturday's game. Massey banged the old pill unmercifully in both games, but somehow the fast fielding sailors managed to travel as fast as the ball and made catches that were sensational in every sense of the word. Greenville would have piled up a much better score had it not been for this fact, particularly in Friday's game.

Washington people say Stringfield is the best short stop in the entire league. This opinion exists principally among the feminine class, and it also vouched for by numbers of men who saw their hopes crushed when the little fellow eluded the old pill, but for a single nearly every trip to the rubber. String is to be reckoned with, no doubt about that, and if he maintains the pace he has started the rest of the team is going to find it very difficult to stay with him.

Manager Guy Smith and Assistant Manager Tom Hollingsworth are making no bones about their material but they are confident enough to believe New Bern will have to play ball if they win the game this afternoon. The
