NEW BERN TAKES THIRD STRAIGHT GAME FROM GREENVILLE SCORE 7-2

Bears Again Prove Too Much for the Boll Weevils, Taking Advantage of Errors and Inability Hit and Winning Easily. Greenville Started Out in Splendid Form But Repeated Errors

Well, the suspense of the past three days is over. We have met the enemy, and we are undeniably theirs. Monday morning consensus of opinion had it that Greenville would give New Bern something to think about in the way of baseball, but after three attempts they failed and John Ivey Smith's crew left yesterday afternoon for Washington where they are hopeful of adding three more games to their already long string of victories. They beat us yesterday by the score of 7 to 2.

When the two clubs came together at the fair grounds Monday afternoon for the first clash of the season they were acknowledged the strongest and most formidable aggregations of the Eastern Carolina league. New Bern gained its recognition by taking three straight games from Kinston while Greenville came in for honors by taking two successive victories from Washington, as many games as could be crowded into the last two days of the week.

John Ivey Smith himself felt very uncertain as to the outcome of his sojourn to the Boll Weevil's camping grounds, but after the first clash Monday afternoon in which both clubs exhibited a certain amount of strength demanding mutual respect, he really expected the next two games would feature a brand of ball seldom witnessed in this section of the State. And they did. But not exactly the kind expected. In the beginning the Bears took the Weevils in tow and the first intimation that hundreds of spectators had that Greenville was really going to be defeated came when Stringfield made three bobbles in rapid succession enabling the visitors to send six runners around to the checking station, thereby gaining a lead which was impossible to overcome. Quite naturally this was a very discouraging turn of the table, but optimistic Greenville supporters attributed it all to a streak of hard luck, believing implicitly in ability of the Weevils to take the final game of the series.

Well, everything went along smoothly through the night. The boys gathered around in little knots on the sidewalk and at soda fountains to talk the situation over. The majority continued to attribute John Ivey's good fortune to luck and Greenville's to hard luck. Yesterday morning came and still prevailing sentiment had it that Greenville had about the best club of the two, and that we had been playing in a streak of real old hard luck. Some designated as pessimistic, quite naturally disputed this, contending that we were simply outclassed.

However, the majority couldn't believe anything of the kind, and absolutely refused to listen to any such propaganda until they got out to the ball park and saw the game finished. Well, in the third inning when Stringfield lined the old apple out for three bases with two men on, the whole crowd went absolutely distracted and really didn't desire to recover their senses until John Ivey's crew worked around to the fourth inning and increased their total to three runs.

This change in the situation produced momentary depression. But there were hundreds still sanguine to the core and remained so until the disastrous seventh frame when mortal hope was blasted by the visitors sending four other runners around to the checking station. Pandemonium reigned supreme. But in the course of a few moments recovery became possible and the minds of the optimistic left the game entirely and traveled towards Kinston where today the locals will try to redeem that which they lost to New Bern.

There are many keenly disappointed but much wiser people in the city today. But they aren't the kind to give up. They mean to back the boys until they show conclusively that they can't produce winning ball, then of course there won't be any use trying to capture the pennant. The game in Kinston will tell the tale and if there is anything on earth to the Boll Weevils vils Greenville people, who have proven staunch supporters are going to expect it to be exhibited against Manager Jim White's crew before it is too late.

New Bern sent a runner romping across the rubber in the first frame when Huffstetter went to second on McLean's sacrifice; Shirley doubled, scoring Huffstetter. The disastrous work continued in the fourth frame. R. Morris singled; Duncanson sacrificed Morris going to second; F. Morris bunted to pitcher who fumbled and made wild throw to first, Morris scoring; Johnson hit to second, who threw wild to first, F. Morris scoring. The seventh really proved the undoing of the locals. Huffstetter singled, ball passing through center fielder, the runner reaching third; Shirley was given base on balls; Wilson bunted safely; R. Morris doubled scoring all three runners; Duncanson bunted, scoring Morris.

In the third frame Greenville showed signs of having a notion of winning the game. Hatchford singled, McLean later doubling with one man down; Stringfield tripled, scoring all runners, later dying on third.

MASONS ELECT OFFICERS
AT THEIR ANNUAL MEETING
The Greenville Masons of lodge No. 284 held their annual meeting this morning and elected the following officers: L. R. Whitehead, worshipful master; S. G. Wilkerson, senior warden; J. J. Gilbert, junior warden; W. B. Wilson, treasurer; R. Williams, secretary. There are a few other officers to be appointed before installation to be held the first Monday night in July, in which the Sharon lodge will join.

DIAMOND DUST

Hard luck can no longer be held responsible for Greenville's defeat. In fact, it seems the Boll Weevils are prying their own disaster by inconsistent fielding.

Anyhow, John Ivey Smith came over here and did exactly what he said he was going to do. He walked away with three straights after getting credit for the same number in Kinston.

Kinston has been handling Washington roughly of late. The Sailors started off like they meant business, but fortunately or unfortunately as one likes, their ability to handle the willow at opportune moments proved their undoing.

The Boll Weevils really meant to give the Bears a merry entertainment while here, but they were kept up such late hours at night that they were unable to look after the ball as under ordinary conditions. This is just where John Ivey Smith's crew shone the brightest. They perpetuated old Ben Franklin's custom of "Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, peppy and wise", and were prepared to handle affairs of the diamond as they should. If they keep up the same habits throughout the season it is quite natural to suppose they will have an easy time capturing the pennant. Certainly opposition won't be very great if it continues to be of the same brand furnished by Greenville and Kinston.

Stringfield was responsible for the Bears' advantage in Tuesday's game, and yesterday Wood unfortunately made two costly bobbles at second. This gave John Ivey's crew exactly what they had been waiting for, and that they took advantage of the situation goes without saying.

If Kinston intends to be a persistent contender for the pennant, then she had better begin while Greenville is having a vacation. It is hoped Manager Smith's Weevils will be able to recover before coming in contact with Jim White's crew, because they played enough havoc this week to last them the remainder of the season.

Sammy Carson says he means to set Kinston afire this week, or at least cause Manager Jim White's crew to move more hurriedly than during any other part of the season. Sammy generally knows what he's talking about so his statement may be considered reliable.

Stringfield and Wood have had their days off, so it is about time for Mugsy to celebrate over on the first corner. Mugsy has been handling the old apple in a gratifying way since the opening game, and it is to be hoped he will get by without any costly bobbles. At least, we hope he will defer his vacation until after we meet Kinston and add another two or three games to our string.

McLaine hurled a superb brand of ball against New Bern in the final game of the series yesterday, but poor support as usual proved costly.

Anyhow, Saxe Barnes says he figures on making the Bears hunt their hole before the season is over. Three stinging defeats in succession got away with the versatile captain of the Weevils and he means to redeem the fair name of his aggregation the first time this becomes possible.

It was thought Washington would make a creditable showing against Kinston, but from yesterday's results it seems they must be pursued by the same streak of hard luck which has gripped Greenville.

Howsoever, it all comes in a lifetime. It may be luck or it may be poor baseball, as anyone likes. But New Bern beat us three straights and that's all there is to it.

NEW PRESIDENT
NORFOLK SOUTHERN
New York, June 16.—George R. Loyall, ex-director of operations of the Southern railway has been elected president of the Norfolk Southern railway.

REFLECTOR PREPARED TO FURNISH MINUTE REPORTS OF CONTESTS

The Reflector has provided excellent arrangements for receiving reports of baseball games in the Eastern Carolina league this summer, and it is hoped the public will be appreciative enough to send in their subscriptions and in that way help us bear the enormous expense of the venture.

A telephone has been placed in the grandstand at the ball park which is connected with all other parks in every town, therefore, it is easily seen that we are prepared to receive inning reports and, in fact, minute details of all exhibitions.

Both the park and office phones will be loaded with long distance messages, therefore anyone desiring to receive reports of the game by telephone are requested to call 50, the Horne Drug Co., and make their inquiries.

This splendid service has been made possible through co-operation of the Horne Drug Co., which bears its proportionate part of the enormous financial expenditures necessarily created by minute long distance connections with the other towns.

If there is anyone desiring to contribute to those funds, either apply to the office or any member of the drug company. We are endeavoring to give the same class of service enjoyed by newspaper readers in cities many times as large as Greenville, and it is certain the public ought not to be slow in co-operating in every financial way possible.

If you can't attend any games this summer, call 50 at any time and receive complete information on all games in progress throughout the entire league.

GRIFTON PEOPLE ENJOY PICNIC AT AMUZU PARK HERE

Methodist Sunday School Comes Over With Plenty of Fried Chicken and Has Good Time

The Methodist Sunday school at Grifton came up to Greenville yesterday and enjoyed a picnic at Amuzu park which is rapidly developing into one of the greatest pleasure resorts in this part of the State. For the past several weeks Sunday school classes and many other kinds of organizations and societies have had days of recreation at Greenville and Pitt county's pleasure spot, and there is every indication the remainder of the summer months will see the park used nearly every day for something of the kind.

The park management has been making every effort possible to provide those features so necessary to a general good time for everyone and as a consequence facilities are really above the average. The bathing, boating and fishing facilities are all that could be desired or demanded by the most exact. There are also a number of other recreational features affording wholesome amusement and entertainment for children, who so far have found the grounds to be the best place to have a general good time of any other place in the city or county.

The Grifton crowd went into the picnic in a way that assured everyone a pleasurable trip. They had enough fried chicken and other kind of eats to feed an army of pleasure seekers, and the way they attacked it showed beyond question that people in that part of the country believe in eating and having something appetizing. Many indulged in bathing and boating and also fishing, and the day passed away so quickly that everyone regretted it beyond measure.

The committee in charge of picnics was composed of Mrs. Bessie Pat-

STATE CONVENTION MACCABEES CLOSES AFTER A BUSY DAY

Delegates From Various Parts of State Attended; State Officers Elected and Installed

The State convention of Maccabees which convened in this city yesterday morning with the Greenville team came to a conclusion last night after a day of most intense activity. The morning and afternoon sessions were filled with a considerable amount of business resulting in plans which will be instrumental in rapid growth and development of the organization within the next several months. The visitors were entertained royally and as a climax to the day's work were given a sight seeing trip by automobile over the city as well as taking in the all game at the fair grounds between New Bern and Greenville.

The following State officers were elected and installed for the ensuing year. Commander: A. Bilbro, Greenville; lieutenant commander, L. M. McKenzie, Lumberton; captain, T. T. Moore, Greenville; record keeper, D. Galloway, Hamlet; sergeant, O. F. Richardson, Lexington; master at arms, F. G. Britt, Lumberton; sentinel, Felix Labaki, Greenville; picket, H. T. Hux, Greenville; first master of guards, W. D. Shea, Rockingham; second master of guards, E. M. Hurley, Rockingham. Installation ceremonies were conducted by District Deputy J. F. Stokes of Greenville.

The following were appointed a committee to select the next meeting place for the convention which is to be held sometime next June: D. C. Galloway, L. M. McKenzie and T. I. Moore.

The final session was concluded last night with initiation and a general business session. Practically every member in attendance was pleased with the hospitality of Greenville and declared it to be one of the best places they have visited in many a day. In fact, Mayor D. M. Clark delivered the address of welcome at the opening session, turning over the keys of the city at the time. Officers here did everything possible to make the occasion long to be remembered, and expressions of pleasure assured them that they succeeded beyond question.

CITY CHAMBER TO INSTITUTE SERIES OF MEETINGS SOON

Plans Now Under Way for Increasing Interest in Activity of the Organization

Announcement was made this morning at the chamber of commerce office that the Pitt county organization would institute a series of meetings shortly which topics of pressing public interest would be discussed and action on them formulated. They will be known as forum meetings. All the members will be invited to each meeting. Programs will be arranged by a committee.

Since the new board of directors now being balloted for will not be organized until the middle of next week it has been decided to appoint a temporary committee to arrange the first of the series of forum meetings. Dr. C. J. Ellen is now giving consideration to the personnel of this committee. It will arrange the first meeting, and after that retire in favor of the permanent forum committee that will be confirmed by the directorate to be elected next Monday.

A wealth of subjects have been revealed in the series of group meetings held last week on which many of the members are anxious to have the chamber initiate action immediately. All the data secured in the group meetings will be placed before the forum committee so that they can arrange the most timely programs.

It was explained, in making the an-

BOHEMIAN GIRL GAINS FAVOR AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Attraction to Come to a Close Tonight With Numbers of Interesting Features

The largest crowd of the week turned out to Chautauqua yesterday afternoon and last night, and it is quite probable that the closing program tonight will be featured by a capacity attendance. The program for both occasions was very appropriate and received a large measure of applause. This afternoon the Junior Chautauqua will come in for a good deal of attention and tonight the attraction will be brought to a conclusion by an elaborate program by the Dunbar Hussars.

Mayor Clark last night made a short talk between acts, urging continued support for the Chautauqua. He said he believed it the duty of every enterprising citizen to become a guarantor of Chautauqua because it brings to the city a class of entertainment worthy of consideration. He didn't call for guarantors at the time, but asked that the committee to canvass every business house today for guarantors receive earnest consideration and the signature of every appreciative man and woman.

The program yesterday afternoon consisted entirely of a lecture by Dr. Jesse Holmes, who dealt mainly with conditions prevailing in various parts of the world, particularly in war stricken areas at this time suffering as a consequence of the great strife. The Sinn Fein problem was presented in a masterly way, showing the great havoc which has been wrought throughout Ireland by factional divisions such as represented by the party. The Sinn Feiners, he declared, have little regard for law and order and have only intensified the accentuated situation which the country has faced for many months.

Leaving the Sinn Feiners the speaker dwelled briefly on the Silesian problem, showing what that territory is up against in its great effort to reach reconstruction. He explained the situation in a masterly way, giving a comprehensive survey of governmental activities and those of the armies which have been in continued battle for sometime.

Turning from this problem Dr. Holmes discussed the tariff question now before the American people. He explained various reasons for the tariff and that it was an effort to protect American manufacturers. He also laid out the opposition created by the issue among Democrats, and that it was principally through Republican effort that it proved successful in the final vote.

The Siberian situation was also fully defined during the discussion, and any doubt concerning the plight of the people in that territory was fully set aside.

The attraction for the night entertainment was one of the best seen here during the entire week, featuring the "Bohemian Girl," an operatic play of unusual merit. Miss Madeline Bosse, who played the part of Queen of the Gypsies showed splendid vigor and training and held attention of the large audience from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

Miss Katherine Richardson, in her interpretation of Arline, won repeated applause, playing her part in an interesting way. The play contained a number of interesting situations and proved highly pleasing in every sense of the word.

The crowning attraction of the program for tonight will be the Dunbar Hussars, who were trained by the famous Moffitt himself in Chicago.

Organization of the Junior Chautauqua has just been perfected, the following officers being elected: Elizabeth Austin, mayor of Junior Town; Katherine Clayton, clerk of Junior Town; James Skinner, Withers Harvey and Charles Whedbee, Town commissioners.

Characters for the Junior pageant are as follows: Speakers: Sue, Elizabeth Norman; Gertrude, Elizabeth

The administration figured for an economy program but instead of getting it they got a period of deflation that has played havoc with business. It might be to their advantage to figure again. Certainly results could be no worse.

The Senate is about equally divided as to how far it should go in investigating the Newberry case. If we see the matter in the right light, it has gone so far that the public wishes the issue would be dropped for all time, giving problems.

Idea is on a mighty high and commendable plane and the town that misses having them every year is not doing by its people as it should. This is a great period of development along educational lines and the public should lend its support to all things tending to further this end.

The war on organized labor in Germany won't be very successful because the laboring class of people who have been so fortunate as to pull together through the great strife in that part of the world is in position to command respect and whatever it desires. Conditions are changing throughout the world and abnormality is producing many surprises. But it is consoling to know that the working man stands a chance of getting everything coming to him, that's all there is to it.

It is gratifying to note that automobile associations in Philadelphia are agitating an anti-speed campaign. This is very commendable and no doubt will be adopted in other cities providing it proves successful in the Quaker city. The automobile menace is becoming of serious proportions in all parts of the country and the sooner some definite action is taken to prevent speeding the sooner the country will be in position to look out after other press-

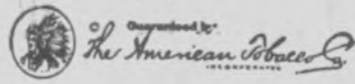

The Chautauqua is proving a source of much benefit to Greenville people who were so fortunate as to purchase season tickets at the outset and prepared themselves to enjoy the attraction at greatly reduced rates. The Swarthmore association has made arrangements to have the highest class entertainers obtainable this year, and the productions which so far have been presented here show they have been very successful. The Chautauqua

The fact that Statesville has voted $150,000 in bonds for improvement of its public schools causes one to believe school systems throughout the entire state are going to be much superior to the past. Quite a number of towns have already voted similar bond issues, and it is perfectly natural that others will feel like being left behind in this great period of educational expansion. It seems to be a mighty hard time for bond issues, but advocates argue that education is of first consideration regardless of conditions, therefore, it is not surprising that practically all important towns are getting busy along this particular line.

The housing problem is one of the most serious the public has to grapple with at the present time, but in the course of a few months with the general decline in cost of building and price of lumber, it is to be expected that many homes will be seen in the course of construction. The country has suffered from high rents since the war, but extortion cannot exist always, and the public may rest assured that relief is not so very far away at the greatest.

REDUCE ACREAGE

The tobacco and cotton farmers who were wise enough to reduce acreage this year will be the ones to receive benefit of better prices when they become in evidence. It has been known from the beginning that another heavy crop would be disastrous, and it is assured hundreds of farmers have listened to advice and reduced acreage as advised. There are others, however, who figured on gaining advantage of the fellow who cut acreage.

But instead of reaping a rich harvest they will reap disaster or possibly ruination. There's absolutely no demand for either cotton or tobacco and the sooner the planter gets this fact indelibly impressed on his mind the quicker he will be in position to recover from deplorable conditions of the past.

Efforts to regulate cotton exchanges of the country are very commendable in every sense of the word, but that doesn't mean that it will ever be accomplished. Cotton has probably been gambled on more than any other staple produced in this country and it is certain the country will be a mighty long time in controlling the activity of speculators.

announcement of this new feature of the chamber of commerce activity, that at each meeting of the members forum only one topic would be discussed. This would be decided upon by the committee in charge of the arrangements and that the leaders of the discussion would be selected in advance of the meeting. Following the presentation of the subject by the leaders of the evening there would be an open discussion from the floor. The entire meeting would be informal. In this way opinions of the members on subjects being considered by the directors would be obtained. Definite action on the part of the members at the meeting which would commit the entire organization is not contemplated. This executive authority, it was explained, will be centered entirely in the directors. Announcement of the committee is assured by President Ellen within a few days.
