

CITY CHAUTAUQUA ENDS SUCCESSFUL ENGAGEMENT HERE

Swarthmore Attraction Brought to Conclusion Last Night With Program by Dunbar Hussars

Greenville Chautauqua presented its concluding feature of the week's program last night. The Dunbar Hussars, featuring in band music, solos and instrumental accompaniments, proved decidedly one of the most pleasing attractions of the entire program, being constantly applauded and encored in many instances.

The Chautauqua will come again next year. This fact was assured early yesterday afternoon when the guarantor canvassing committee made its rounds among business men, beginning early yesterday morning. Quite naturally they found some of the old guarantors who were ready to drop out, but there were others right ready to take their place, believing that Chautauqua is one of the most elevating forms of amusement coming at any time throughout the year. Fifty guarantors are necessary to make the contract operative, therefore, the committee found it decidedly easy in concluding its work.

The program this year was upon the same high plane as that of last season. There were as usual a number of inspirational lectures dealing with national and international conditions. These contained considerable information and gave Greenville an opportunity of gaining knowledge of economic conditions which have produced such profound seriousness in this country, especially among leading financiers whose enormous loans cannot be repaid and necessarily produces a great scarcity of money in the United States.

The Dunbar Hussars well entertained the large crowd last night. In fact, the musical program was of such a high, yet simple standard, that not a single person left the tent without appreciating the many numbers on the program. The musicians were trained by the famous Chicago musician Dunbar and retain his name because they travel around as his representative. Dunbar himself made an extensive tour of the country in early stages of his career, but found his services in such demand that he settled down and began training young musicians for professional life.

The band numbers were especially good, containing several difficult renditions which did credit to the teacher. There were, however, also many popular pieces familiar to everyone and it was these which received such unrestrained applause on all sides. The solos were also above the average, while those with instrumental accompaniment received special favor.

The Junior Chautauqua was well organized yesterday morning and officers were appointed for Junior Chautauqua town in which the children exhibited considerable interest in every way. The officers will work hard until Chautauqua time comes again and then things will be revived.

AYDEN MERCHANTS PERFECT SPLENDID CITY ORGANIZATION

Meeting Yesterday Resulted in Election of Officers for Immediate Activity

A delegation of people from Greenville went to Ayden for the purpose of getting the Ayden people organized so they could have, and be more friendly with one another in business and social matters. All the merchants were very much in favor of organization it did not take long for them to elect the different committees. As they have been for some time where an individual can not accomplish the things needed in a community.

The Greenville people were R. L. Crow, C. D. Tunstall, J. Key Prown, L. G. Congleton, Mrs. I. F. Lee, Ella R. Renner and Mr. A. A. Joseph of Goldsboro. The move was made and seconded that it should be a permanent organization and to affiliate with the State merchants association. The officers elected at this meeting are: President: Dr. W. M. McKinney Vice president: C. R. Turnage Secretary-treasurer: J. H. Coward. They are to have a meeting Friday June 17th at 10:30 o'clock to elect a secretary.

Ayden certainly is taking an interest as the new secretary is to go to the annual convention to be held at Greensboro next week.

The 19th, June 21 to 24 annual convention is to be the biggest and best ever held. Mr. J. Paul Leonard of Statesville, secretary of the North Carolina merchants association, has announced a tentative program for the annual meeting of the association which is to be held at the O. Henry hotel. A number of speakers of wide reputation are on the program, among whom are Andres Burkart, Cincinnati, president national association of retail clothiers; Fred Harris, New York, representative of national dry goods association; C. F. Nesbitt, Washington, D. C.; former superintendent of insurance for the district of Columbia.

GREENVILLE BOY HIGHLY HONORED IN VIRGINIA COLLEGE

Edward Harris Takes Highest Honor in Taking Washington and Lee Scholarship

The information comes with especial pleasure to his host of friends here at home that Mr. Edward Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Harris, took the highest honor of any under-graduate at the recent commencement of Washington and Lee University, which institution he has been attending the last two years. Of the nine endowed scholarships in this university, four are restricted to Virginia, so that only five are open to competition among the students of other states. Of these five Mr. Harris won the Bradford scholarship, which is considered the highest in the school.

This is the second scholarship Mr. Harris has taken at Washington and Lee, as he won a department scholarship, French, on his first year there. He was regarded as the brightest student in the home schools, and his graduation from Greenville High School was with first honor.

The high rank that students take at Washington and Lee is also worthy of note here. The university has 700 students, of whom about 20, or a little under four per cent are from North Carolina, and of the five endowed scholarships open to the whole student body two were won by North Carolina boys. Not only Greenville but the entire state has cause to feel proud that our boys are capable of making such records.

DIAMOND DUST

Well, John Ivey Smith's Bears succeeded in taking three consecutive victories from us but that's more than Kinston can possibly do now. That game yesterday in which Saxe Barnes blanked the Robbings by the score of 1 to 0 lifted us that much higher above the cellar, so it is natural to suppose that the games today and tomorrow are going to be worth seeing. Greenville can't afford to drop a single one of them to Kinston for the Bears produced such havoc that three victories are necessary to place us on the road to permanent recovery.

One run, six hits and one error shows that Greenville is rapidly recovering from the state of lethargy exhibited against New Bern. The boys found out that more pep is necessary to keep pace with the rapid stride set by the New Bern crowd, so everyone may rest assured of seeing an entirely different brand of ball during the remainder of the season.

Mark Webb deserves the best Greenville has to offer. If it hadn't been for the big boy's destructive work with the willow no telling what would have happened. He pounded the old apple at the right time, getting the only run of the game.

Baseball is a curious kind of game anyway. If we had been pitted against that New Bern crowd yesterday instead of Kinston Webb's home run would have landed on the foul line. It is admitted the Bears have a mighty strong team, but it must also be acknowledged that they are the luckiest bunch of fellows ever before playing ball in this neck o' the woods.

They say that Guy Smith's Boll Weevils played like big leaguers yesterday and it is natural to expect that a mob will leave here for Jim White's camping grounds today. If the boys keep the pace set yesterday, well every thing is all right, that's all there is to it.

The way Washington started out against the Bears yesterday seemed to indicate victory regardless of John Ivey Smith's lucky streak. And if that disastrous seventh inning could have been omitted everything would be all

ASKS CHAMBER TO HELP COMPILE CITY STATISTICS

Director of Census Bureau Want Definite Record of Housing Situation

Local chamber of commerce officials have been appealed to by W. H. M. Steuart, director of the Federal Census Bureau to help in obtaining statistics from Greenville on the subject of housing encumbrances. In his letter to H. J. Smith, secretary of the Pitt county chamber, Mr. Steuart points out that some months ago a circular was mailed to the citizens of Greenville asking for this information but that only a few replies were received. The information is requested in the interest of the public good. It is not compulsory. Figures that are submitted to the government officials are not divulged, and are used only by the census director's office.

The information that is requested on the form sent from Washington is as follows:

1. Street and number of home
2. Market value January 1, 1920.
3. Amount of encumbrance January 1, 1920
4. Amount of this encumbrance when existing loan was made
5. Annual rate of interest actually being paid January 1, 1920.

Assurances are outlined in the form indicating that the information will be counted as strictly confidential and that it will not be supplied to any county, city, state or national agency for purpose of taxation. It will be used solely to compile statistics that will be issued only in averages.

Secretary Smith has assured Director Steuart that he will be glad to offer the co-operation of the chamber and will assist local householders in compiling their statistics, and in procuring the proper government form.

LABOR FEDERATION THROWS ASIDE IDEA OF ONE BIG UNION

Denver, Col., June 16.—The American Federation of Labor today unanimously repudiated the one big union idea.

Without discussion the first annual convention of the Federation sustained the action of its committee on organization in non-concurring on a resolution calling for one body of workers through amalgamations, federations and protective agreements.

The declaration presented by J. I. Pauley of the West Virginia State federation of labor, also urged all national and international unions to insert clauses in their working agreements whereby they can render such assistance as is needed by any and all crafts when called upon to do so.

right. As it is New Bern beat 'em to the tune of five to three.

It must be mighty discouraging for Washington to lose such a game as staged against the New Bern boys yesterday. However, the same wind won't blow in the same direction all the time, and when the change comes it's liable to be in the shape of a breeze.

Mark Well fell on the old ball for the entire circuit yesterday, giving the locals the only tally of the game. The hefty lad from Pinetops is just like everyone else. He has lucky and unlucky days, so it is perfectly natural to expect him to hurl a no hit, no run game against some club at no distant date.

Sammy Carson is setting a pace of his own behind the bat in these parts. The Bethel lad deserves every bit of praise he gets. He works hard and consistently all the time and so far hasn't a single hobble or bad play credited against him.

The club standing shows we have won three and lost three. That's not so bad, after all, but still it would be much better to be a little nearer the fast travelling crowd from New Bern, who so far have seven straight to their credit.

Still, it is consoling to know we can beat Kinston. It takes some of the bitterness out of that dose New Bern forced us to swallow.

SUMMER SCHOOL OVERFLOWING AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Registration is Over and Regular Classes Are Meeting Getting Ready for Business

The summer school at the Training school is full to overflowing, with students living in town and a long list tured away. The registration is over and regular classes meeting so that work is going on as if there had been no interruption.

There is a strong faculty, some of them from the regular faculty and some from a distance. Prof. C. W. Wilson is the director. Mr. A. M. M. is the superintendent of Wayne county, has charge of the county summer school, which is run in connection with the State summer school. This is composed of students from non accredited high schools and is for those students who wish to raise their certificates from a provisional certificate to the elementary certificate. The State school is composed of those students who are taking the regular courses in the school and these lead to the special certificates.

The college course is a new and interesting feature of the school and is beginning this term. This gives an opportunity for those who have completed the two years course to continue their work and get college credit towards a degree and thus pass into the highest grade of teachers in the State. About twenty five of the graduates of the school are taking advantage of this opportunity. Some of these are planning to return to the school and complete the full two years ahead.

The regular members of the faculty who are teaching this summer are as follows. Messrs. Austin, Science, and Meadows, English; Misses McKinney, Mathematics; Lewis, drawing; Jenkins, English; Collins, Home Economics; Whiteside, Primary Methods, and McClelland, Model School Critic Teacher, who will also be principal of the school.

Mr. Willis Holiman, superintendent of schools in Martinsville, Indiana, is teaching Education. He has his A. M. degree from the university of Indiana, and has had years of experience in school work. Mr. Charles L. Bane of northern Texas, who is professor of Education in Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio, is teaching Education and history. He is a graduate of the university of Texas and has his A. M. degree from Peabody college for teachers. Mr. Frank C. Ashley, superintendent of schools in Washington, is teaching history. Miss Southall, rural supervisor in Pitt county, is teaching Education. Miss Ella Bradley, teacher in the Gastonia high school, is teaching Mathematics. Miss Ida Pritchett, supervisor of public school music in Nashville, Tenn., a graduate of Peabody college, has charge of public school music and games. Miss Josephine Tillery, supervisor of writing in the Washington schools, is teaching Palmer writing. Miss Leone Reeves is teaching science and has charge of the dining hall. Mrs. Helen Winborne is the piano teacher.

THREE PICNICS AT THE PARK YESTERDAY

Picnic parties were numerous at the park yesterday. Young people galloped all day long and until 11 p. m. last night. Mrs. W. E. Proctor and Mrs. Heber Brooks of Grimesland and Sunday school classes in the Christian church spent the day at the park. Also Miss Ruth Smith and a party of young people from Bel Arthur. Every one seemed to enjoy the day and all joined in the harmless amusements provided for their pleasure. Last night there was a moon light picnic by a number of young people from Greenville. Boating, swinging and eating were the features of the evening.

Mrs. C. E. Bradley, formerly resident of Lakeland, Fla., is visiting Mrs. W. H. Norris in Dickinson avenue and expects to visit her daughter in Goldsboro before she returns home.

Washington, June 16.—By a vote of 27 to 34 the Senate today rejected the packer regulation bill recommended by its agriculture committee and then adjourned until tomorrow with the regulatory bill recently passed by the House as a new measure submitted by Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, pending before it.

Defeat of the agriculture committee bill threw the packer regulation forces into momentary confusion.

CRITICISE HOSPITAL IN PROVINCES FOR FORMER SOLDIERS

National Tuberculosis Hospital is Also Commended for Its Activity

New York, June 16.—Conditions in the government hospitals for the care of tuberculous soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses were both commended and criticised in today's session of the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association here. The comments both favorable and otherwise were made in a report presented by two of the five physicians selected by the surgeon-general of the United States public health service to visit and inspect the hospitals for tuberculous service men.

It is drawn up by Dr. J. J. Palmer of Springfield, Ill., and Dr. Henry W. Hoagland of La Jolla, Cal. The physicians reported that they were surprised to find that the institutions were so efficiently conducted in the face of difficulties and obstacles that had to be overcome. They commended the attitude of the surgeon general in seeking to improve the service and readiness to act upon constructive criticism.

The chief criticisms of the government hospitals made by the two physicians were:

Shortage of medical personnel, especially trained in the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis.

Shortage of specially trained nurses and the lowering of the morale through the social relationship of nurses and other female employes with patients.

Lack of discipline indicated in the prevalence of gambling, use of tobacco, the abuse of leaves and furloughs and the participation of patients in harmful diversions and amusements.

The assignment of the more competent members of the medical staff to wards for terminal and advanced patients with less efficient medical service in the wards occupied by the doubtful cases and by patients awaiting discharge.

The physicians pointed out that there was great difficulty in recruiting medical staffs for tuberculosis sanatoria because of the neglect of tuberculosis by medical schools in the past and because of the greatly increased demand for physicians with tuberculous training.

On the whole the physicians stated that they believed that the United States public health service was entitled to general commendation for the degree of efficiency attained under the conditions prevailing in the establishment of these institutions.

During the next 20 years, the physicians stated, but two great medical problems will remain as the aftermath of the war. One of these is that of dealing with mental and nervous cases and the other is the tuberculous problem.

They arrested that the peak of the incidence of tuberculosis resulting from the war has not been reached nor will it be for a number of years to come.

They predicted that if the Federal government met the problem of the tuberculous soldier efficiently and at the same time utilized its opportunities for the benefit of the civil population there would come, as an indirect result of the war, an awakening to the importance and magnitude of the tuberculous problem which will prove of tremendous and lasting benefit to the nation.

Washington, June 16.—By a vote of 27 to 34 the Senate today rejected the packer regulation bill recommended by its agriculture committee and then adjourned until tomorrow with the regulatory bill recently passed by the House as a new measure submitted by Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, pending before it.

Defeat of the agriculture committee bill threw the packer regulation forces into momentary confusion.

The Federal Trade commission is of not the strike situation in West Virginia in this country. That may be so, but the way the public sees it there's not enough business stirring to even be organized.

The Senate is debating whether or not the strike situation in West Virginia should be investigated. Considering recent inquiries it's about as important as others which resulted in absolutely nothing.

Some people say the Democratic party passed out with the Harding landslide last fall. That may be so but the mule continues to "be-haw" out on the side lines, just the same.

A man said yesterday that he didn't like the name of the Greenville baseball club. That being the case we reckon we will have to change it. But it does seem the Boll Weevil has got 'em.

The Irish question is gaining considerable interest throughout this country. The home rule problem when we recall what a small place lem has produced much strife and speculation and the earlier it is settled the better people all through this country will feel about it.

Former Secretary of the Navy Daniels seems to have "fired" Governor Cameron Morison by recent statements printed in the columns of his paper. That's very unwise at this particular time and shows Mr. Daniels is not exactly the kind of statesman people gave him credit of being.

Some statesmen are optimistic enough to see some hope for Russia. That's very natural indeed as even the worst of them are capable of being redeemed sometime or other. Russia, however, is in a position that no other country envies, and ought to try all the harder to get back to normal by the time the date.

Pitt county leads in the production of bright leaf tobacco. That is to say, she produces a sufficient amount to attract envy of other sections with soil too barren to even produce grass, and we all know that's some bad land. Our growers mean to do their share of growing food crops in the next several months so long as tobacco prices remain low, therefore one need not worry about starving.

So long as Pitt county farmers continue to make plenty of food crops, the Boll Weevil. The price for cotton and tobacco at this time is too low to justify anyone planting normal acreage, so the only thing to be done with surplus acreage is to place it in food crops, such as demanded by people in town who have suffered for want of them during the past several months. Pitt county farmers are extremely industrious, so it is reasonable to expect that the future is safe in every sense of the word.

Sixty-one counties in North Carolina have reduced property values in accordance with recent proposals by dissatisfied taxpayers. That's exactly as it should be for the tax problem has been the greatest menace American people had before them in many a day. The trouble at this time is that we're being out-eviled by other countries and find ourselves forced to tax and stint in a decidedly displeasing way. People have gained experience during the past several months which they will be long in forgetting.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

The farmer who was wise enough to plant food crops this year will be in a position to keep the bear away from the door regardless of which way the wind blows. It's been authoritatively stated that the world market is congested with both tobacco and cotton, and it would be very unwise indeed for the planter to anticipate growing anything for which there is no demand. There are going to be numbers fooled by fluctuating prices this season, and if they happen to be the ones that planted normal crops they deserve to lose until it hurts. Supply and demand are two things depending on one another, and anyone is very unwise indeed to overplant when demand is below normal.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

"And the Pied Piper of Hamelin Town played a pretty tune and all the children followed him to the land of music and beauty. And Hamelin Town was dead, because there wasn't a child left, except the little lame boy who couldn't follow."

"The Mayor and his people had refused to pay the piper his price for his services and this was the result of their bargain."

It's just as apt to happen to your very town or city, if you make a bad bargain with your Central Station and Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound don't give it its just deserts. Enter prising business men will naturally follow the lead to the town where electric power is flourishing and playing a promising tune, because any community to be prosperous and attract new business must have something definite to offer.

Supporting your electric light and power company is supporting your own business, for where would your business be today without the electric power that makes it possible for you to make use of all the electrical appliances and devices you have—giving uninterrupted services for twenty-four hours of every day, if necessary. You are a link in a chain of one of the leading industries of the world today. Are you going to let that chain break for want of proper co-operation? How much are you willing to do to foster goodwill in the public mind?

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost, you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire youthful and attractive appearance, busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

MONEY COULD NOT BUY GOOD IT DID SAYS PRELLAMAN

This is What West Virginia Farmer Says of the Results He Obtained From Taking Tanlac

"There isn't a man on my farm or at the saw mill that can do more work than I can now, for Tanlac has put me in tip-top shape," said T. N. Prellaman of Troutville, Va., well known farmer and saw mill owner.

"I suffered from indigestion and rheumatism and my appetite got in such a condition that I had a craving for something to eat all the time, but nothing satisfied me. Everything I ate gave me indigestion and caused me to bloat until it nearly shut off my breath. The pains and cramps in my stomach were almost unbearable, and I was so nervous I could never get a good night's sleep. I got up mornings with a gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach, and I was in such distress I couldn't take any interest in my business. Rheumatism in my legs, shoulders and neck hurt me so bad I couldn't even swing an ax and I began to think I would have to give up my business altogether.

"I saw so much about Tanlac that I started taking it, and six bottles have fixed me up as fine as I could want to be. I eat good and hearty, never have a sign of indigestion, and am in the very best of health. As I said, I can do as much work as any hand on the place, and money couldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Greenville, by Greenville Drug Co.

GREENVILLE WINS FIRST EXHIBITION FROM JIM WHITE'S KINSTON ROBBINS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON SCORE 1 TO 0

Saxe Barnes' Crowd Stage First Errorless Exhibition of Season, in Which Mark Webb Proves Shining Star in Driving Old Apple for Entire Circuit. Kinston Had Only One Error

Say what you please, it must be admitted we made a splendid showing against Jim White's Robbins on their own camping grounds. It may have been hard luck on Kinston's part, or it may be a change in luck for Greenville, but getting down to brass tacks it was a case of too much Mark Webb and his willow in the fifth inning when he connected with the old apple for the entire circuit. This gave Greenville one lone tally, but it was enough to win the game, to the tune of 1 to 0, and that's assuredly everything any one could have desired under the circumstances.

The exhibition was the best, not one of the best, staged on any diamond since opening of the league, and lifted Greenville a safe distance above the cellar. Both clubs fielded superbly, Kinston making one error and Greenville none. They handled the sphere probably more rapidly and with more vim and vigor than seen by the hundreds of fans in many a day. Kinston didn't know exactly what to expect after New Bern found the Boll Weevils such easy prey, and prepared for eventualities, but not for the kind Mark Webb succeeded in producing in the seventh frame when he pounded the horsehide for safe trip around the circuit.

Perhaps there were not quite so many brilliant features connected with the game as seen in similar affairs of the season, but it must be admitted that they produced a brand of ball entirely different from any so far recorded by sport writers. In fact the affray was converted into a veritable pitcher's duel from the very first frame in which Saxe Barnes, Greenville's pitching ace, found himself pitted against Ollinger, acknowledged to be about the best Manager Jim White has been able to obtain this season.

The two hurlers battled the nine consecutive innings in masterly fashion, Barnes allowing only three well scattered bingles against six by Ollinger, only one of which produced results. Neither gained any decided advantage. It was nip and tuck, see saw and see saw until the final frame when both sides were retired without even so much as threatening the home circuit. Barnes may have had it on his opponent the slightest extent, but the comparison isn't worthy of note. One happened to be on the side that was fortunate enough to get the home run while the other saw his supporters retired repeatedly without the slightest chance of getting a hit when a hit would have resulted in runs.

The victory placed Greenville in position to make a more determined showing for the pennant, if such should be mentioned this early in the season. And, too, it helped considerably toward lifting them above the cellar which they seemed to be bound for regardless of other clubs dropping games at the same alarming rate. Kinston didn't feel confident of winning from the Boll Weevils. To tell the truth, they were rather nervous. But like good sports they have proved to be, they did their best and won the admiration of hundreds of supporters by a brand of ball commendable indeed.

The two clubs are scheduled for two more game this week. It has not been announced who will do the mound work for either club, but the closeness of yesterday's affair assures everyone of seeing something fully worth seeing. It is realized in both camps that the time to fight has come if they intend to make any appreciable showing for the pennant, and it is a safe go that Friday and Saturday will witness a couple of games equally as good if not superior to that staged yesterday afternoon.

While very naturally some may say this will be impossible. But when it is remembered there is such a thing as errorless ball it cannot be argued that it is impossible for an improvement. In fact, there seems to be adequate room for bettering things in many ways. Neither club handled the willow dangerously, therefore, what would be more perfectly natural than to see the game today or tomorrow concerted into regular slugfest with each club see sawing for hours. It's a great old game the boys are playing and before the week is over it is reasonable to believe the old apple will be handled in a much different way. Webb proved decidedly the star of yesterday's affair, that's all there is to it, but one can never tell as there may be one or two others destined to enjoy the same notoriety before the final game of the series is played.
