PARSON PHILLIPS GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF SCOUTS OUTING

Pastor of Presbyterian Church Says Boys and Girl Had Real Time at Pamlico Beach

(By Sky-Pilot Sam)

I heard somebody make reference one day to a "one-eyed nigger at a three-ring circus," and while I didn't see the nigger or the circus, I'm sure he had a mighty hard time trying to take it all in, and I'm dead sure of the same thing with reference to this Scout-camp. We all realize the impossibility of taking it all in.

Some took in a great deal more than others. Satch took in more money; Ernestine took in more genuineness; Novella took in more notice from outsiders; Mrs. Foster took in more coffee; Mr. Whichard took in more water; Mr. Rose took in more horse-back rides; Flip Skinner, Claude Gaskins and Mike Mayo took in more fish; Leslie Humber took in more sand-fleas and C. C. pills; Happy Moye took in more sun-burn; Robert, Arthur took in more mail; Zeno Brown took in more molasses; Calvin Gorman took in more bacon and eggs; Maud Johnston, Miriam Shannart, Roger Smith and Norman Winslow took in more sulphur water; somebody took in more friendship, more health and more love for God's great outdoors.

First of all however, was the wonderful spirit of helpful interest which we met on every side in making our preparations for leaving. It was a big problem to find transportation for over one hundred boys and girls to a place miles from any railroad. But the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company presented us with their boat the M. J. Lee. Captain Jack Teel and his crew were eager and ready and did everything possible for the safety and comfort of the boys and girls. This act of kindness on the part of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company will never be forgotten by the Scouts and their friends.

Another big problem was life preservers for every one on the boat. Rortarian Hartley of Washington introduced Sky-Pilot Sam to Mr. Zoelias of that city and although he is a mighty busy man and life preservers are expensive and hard to get, he stopped everything and got together for us 100. After he had secured about 80 from his friends, he called up the Pamlico Fertilizer company, and they stripped one of their boats, practically putting her out of commission, in order to let Greenville's boys and girls have a good time.

When we docked at Washington we were met by the Washington Scouts and escorted up town, where sandwiches, lemonade and cake were served us, thus breaking our long trip and cementing the friendship which already exists between our two cities. On every hand the good people of Washington said, "whatever you need, just ask us for it and if we've got it, why it's yours".

The same fine spirit met us in Greenville. In many cases our merchants let the Scouts have things at cost; automobiles and trucks were furnished gladly; the Methodist and Episcopal churches loaned us tents; and we shall never forget that morning when we left the dock at Greenville, Jim Turner's prayer for God's blessings upon us, and the hundreds of hands that waived us a happy farewell.

It was late when the boat reached the mouth of Bath Creek, due to trash in her gasoline, and Captain Jack decided to put into Bath for the night. We know that every Scout's heart was heavy, because we had planned to make camp that afternoon, and the delay meant a day less of camp time. But the good old Scout spirit predominated and without a whine all hands went ashore, not knowing where they were to sleep.

The good people of Bath came to the rescue and not only made sleeping quarters possible, but tried to persuade us to change our plans and make one of the beautiful spots in their neighborhood our camping place. To my mind there were two things on this camp that particularly tested the stuff out of which Greenville's boys and girls are made—one was the boat trip itself, and the other was the experience of unloading the boat at camp. The M. J. Lee could have carried thousands of pounds more with perfect safety, but she could have carried any more people with any comfort at all. A sardine can, packed to capacity, didn't have very much on the M. J. Lee the way her dock was packed with boys and girls, and yet they reached camp after two days and a night under such conditions, with a spirit that was simply superb and an honor to our city. The dock at Pamlico Beach is 500 feet from the shore and the shore had to be reached by walking that 500 feet gang way and then climbing two flights of steep steps. The sun was very hot and it was a real test to see the way those boys unloaded all the baggage, cots, cooking utensils, provisions and tents, carried them down that long walk and then up those steps to the camp site. On account of my bad knee, I could not do a great deal of lifting and climbing steps, so I remained on the bluff and directed the distribution of the stuff, and the fine spirit which our Greenville Scouts manifested, the short time in which everything was put in order, tents erected and play forgotten in the face of a mean, dirty, hot, fatiguing task, has caused me to love our boys forever. They can do anything they set themselves to do, and Germany had better not start another war in the next fifty years, for if she does another Hindenburg line is going to be broken and Tar Heel boys from Pitt are going to break it.

One of the most pleasant experiences was the reception of visitors from Greenville. It not only gave us a chance to let them see how a hundred boys and girls could live in camp, but it proved to us that the folks back home were interested in the things which the great Scout movement has for its members.

I do not say that Greenville is the only place which can do it, but I do say that no city anywhere can send 100 of its boys and girls to a camp under such conditions and set the record which we made, or the splendid commendation which our Scouts received from everyone who saw them. I was in Belhaven one morning after more than half of our camp had paid the town a visit and one of the leading merchants there said to me, "I have never seen a finer-looking, better behaved or more courteous crowd of children in my life. Generally when such a crowd hits a town every body wants to take to cover, but it certainly wasn't so in your case." And similar expressions greeted us everywhere.

Another experience which shows the value of the Scout movement occurred on the last morning I was at camp. We had a very rigid inspection of all cots, mess-kits and tents, and it took the four of us who made the inspection, a long time to select the best dressed patrol, the best arranged tent; and the cots were so well made up and orderly, that we had to announce that we could render no decision on the cots at all. A few mornings before some of the best tents had been publicly announced as the worst in camp.

A unique feature of the camp was the store. It was stocked with cold drinks, candy and fruit, sold at cost to the boys and girls, and ably handled by D. S. Smith, Calvin Gorman and their assistants. It was a most popular resort.

Every evening after supper we gathered about the camp fire for songs, speeches, recitations and stunts. These occasions were very delightful, and the people who lived along the shore, got a great deal of pleasure from them. Almost every evening some one would call for the triple quartette, composed of Bill Whedbee, Edwin Wilkerson and Jim Fleming to present "their knock-kneed, bow-legged, consumptive Mary Ann". These men always presented this young lady in a most attractive manner.

Of course there were some disagreeable things to contend with. There were plenty of sand fleas and mosquitoes, but the iodine bottle, like the widow's cruse of oil, never seemed to give us. There was that wonderful make one of the beautiful spots in their neighborhood our camping place. To my mind there were two things on this camp that particularly tested

SILVER COINAGE RESUMED BY MINTS TO REFILL VAULTS

Manufacture of Silver Dollars Starts Again After a Lapse of Seven Years

Washington, June 19.—Coinage of silver dollars has been resumed by the mint after a lapse of seven years and the work of replacing the two hundred and seventy-nine million standard dollars taken from the treasury during the war to sell to Great Britain has been begun.

Since late in March treasury officials said tonight, approximately twenty million silver dollars have been coined. In the same period corresponding amount of silver certificates were issued and Federal reserve notes and treasury certificates securing them, retired. This process, officials said, would probably continue for the next five years until the treasury's reserve of silver dollars is back to its pre-war basis.

The mint, officials explained, ceased coining silver dollars in 1914 when the supply of metal purchased under the coinage act was exhausted. Further authority to make the dollars was not forthcoming until 1918, when congress passed the Pittman act to enable the sale of melted dollars to England for the relief of the silver famine in India.

Under the terms of the act, Director of the Mint Baker sold to England two hundred and seventy-nine million dollars, amounting to two hundred and eight million pieces of silver at $1.01 1/2 an ounce plus the market price of the copper content in the dollar. The 1 1/2 cent, Mr. Baker explained, paid for the cost of melting and transportation and the cost of recoining.

BUSINESS BLOCK BURNS IN MISSISSIPPI TOWN

Pasadena, Miss., June 19.—A large section of the business center of Pasadena was destroyed by fire today. Estimates place the loss to property and stocks as high as a quarter of a million dollars.

The fire was the second disastrous blaze here within four months. It originated in the Anthony Cassanova bakery. Numerous small shops and several smaller residences also were burned. The fire was reported under control at 6 o'clock.

TWO CAMP BRAGG SOLDIERS ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

Fayetteville, June 19.—Theo. Golden and James Terry, two young soldiers who are being held in Cumberland county jail in default of bond for their appearance at the next term of criminal court here on the charge of stealing the Buick automobile belonging to Attorney W. Carl Downing, made their escape yesterday afternoon from the jail, but were captured later.

Somebody would have to scrape potatoes, tote water, cart away tin cans and garbage, but before we left everything was running like a well-oiled machine, and K. P. is now a thing of the past.

We tried to spend our Sunday as God's day. We had Sunday school at 10 o'clock, a preaching service at 11, and the afternoon was spent quietly, some taking a walk up the beach, others sleeping, others gathering in little groups for conversation, and some writing letters home. Good Scouts do not forget to look upward and recognize the source of every good thing, and the Greenville Scouts remember with pleasure and profit, the Sundays they have spent together at camp.

In closing, I would like to express on behalf of Mr. Rose, our Scoutmaster and those who were associated with him in the conduct of this camp, our sincere appreciation of every kindness shown us and thank the parents for giving us the privilege of being boys and girls again with the finest scout troop in America. And we wish to say to the boys and girls themselves, that we appreciate their friendship and loyalty and stand ready at all times to go the limit in their behalf.

WRIGHT ADDRESSES PUPILS OF SUMMER SCHOOL SUNDAY

President of Training School Tells Students of Things Required of Them

President Wright addressed the summer school students at the first Y. W. C. A. service held during the summer term. He strongly emphasized the importance of lining up on the right side during the present world crisis of transition through which we are passing. He declared we have been feasting to a point of indecency, but there is less of craziness in North Carolina than perhaps anywhere else and yet we are not free from it. The world war, he stated, "was organized for the purpose of insurrection, and on a basis of faith in no one person or thing."

Mr. Wright repeatedly stressed the fact that the closing of the war is demanding an organization of the forces of good and evil. Lines of demarcation are being drawn and there is greater necessity for square dealing, and a vivid consciousness of our obligations than ever before in our history. As a remedy for the present crisis he suggested a closer walk with the Master and a real love for humanity.

This talk was a real inspiration to the summer students. They do not have the opportunity to hear President Wright frequently and come under his influence daily as the students through out the regular terms do.

Miss Aileen Jones sang a solo, "Prepare Thyself."

The Young Women's Christian Association for the summer has been organized and will continue the same activities as during the regular term. Miss Sara Smith of the class of '21, graduating in August, is president. On Friday evening at the twilight hour they conducted story-telling on the campus, and on Saturday evening had charge of the social gathering.

A delightful "get-together" party was held at the Training school on Saturday evening for the purpose of bringing the students together socially so they could get acquainted. The Young Women's Christian Association had charge, with the college group of students taking the lead.

All were requested to wear their names pinned on so that introductions were unnecessary. At twilight the students met in front of the west dormitory and formed into a line for the grand march. Here was held a relay race. The game "Jolly as a Miller" was played.

After this a stage was improvised and the students seated on the grass. The twenty odd alumnae composing the college group were in the chairs on the stage. They gave a negro minstrel program. Miss Pattie Dowell had charge, and lined out the hymns. Miss Minnie Hollowell was the leading comedian.

Punch was served in the hall of the administration building, after which an excellent moving picture was shown.

SHELMERDINE MAN SHOTS ASSAILANT WHO VIGIOUSLY ATTACKED HIM FROM AMBUSH ALONG LONELY PART OF ROAD

John Taylor Fires on Unknown Assailant Inflicting Probably Fatal Injuries After Being Hit Over Head With Large Lightwood Knot; Attack Believed Result of Apprehension Moonshiners

John Taylor, prosperous white farmer residing in the Shelmerdine section of this county shot and probably fatally injured an unknown assailant who attacked him from ambush Saturday evening while passing along the public road from a nearby church to his home in company with a minister and his wife. Taylor was rushed home immediately by the party with him and while they were gone it is believed the assailant was picked up by someone driving a horse and buggy which had been stationed in a woods only a short distance from the scene of the assault.

Facts reaching this city concerning the incident are meager, but indicate Mr. Taylor had a very narrow escape. The party had attended services at a church a mile or so down the road and was in close proximity to Taylor's home when the assault occurred. The road at this particular spot is lined by a dense growth of vegetation on both sides and the party was taken completely by surprise.

The unknown person, supposed to have been a white man, sprang from the bushes and hit Mr. Taylor over the head with a large lightwood knot before he had time to defend himself. The minister and his wife were momentarily stunned by the lightning-like rapidity of the attack and before they had time to recover, Taylor pulled a gun from his pocket and fired at the fleeing figure of the assailant who rapidly disappeared into the bushes, but fell before he could get out of sight.

The minister, whose name could not be ascertained this morning, was so concerned by Mr. Taylor's condition that he picked him bodily from the ground and rushed to his home only a few yards away, where it was found that he had nearly lapsed into unconsciousness. However, he quickly regained his senses and rushed back to the scene of the encounter to see how badly the man was injured and also to ascertain his identity.

They expected to find him lying in the bushes writhing in agony, but instead he had been taken up and removed by someone driving a horse and buggy. They endeavored to track them, but to no avail as they left as fast as the horse could possibly carry them.

Asked as to why anyone should have reason to attempt his life, Mr. Taylor stated that sometime before he had been instrumental in apprehension of moonshiners in that immediate locality and believed it was a result of that. He did not accuse any particular person of complicity, but it is quite probable apprehension will be made within the next several hours.

TO COLLECT MILLIONS IN DELINQUENT TAXES
Washington, June 19.—Millions of dollars in delinquent taxes and penalties will be collected, the internal revenue bureau estimates, as a result of a nation-wide tax drive ordered to begin in July by Commissioner Blair. "Flying squadrons" are to visit every large city in the country.

Special attention, Mr. Blair said, will be directed to the collection of the excise tax on sales by manufacturers, the transportation tax, the so-called luxury tax, and taxes on jewelry, toilet articles, proprietary medicines, soft drinks and amusements.

County Meeting of Business Men to be Held Here
An "All Pitt County" Gathering is Planned by Open Forum Committee
An "All Pitt County" meeting of the chamber of commerce has been arranged by the Forum committee of the chamber. It will be held Friday night in the court house. The directors who will be elected in the voting that closes at 7 o'clock tonight will be the speakers. They will each speak on "My Idea of a Worth While Pitt County Chamber of Commerce".

The Forum committee unanimously selected this topic because of its particular appropriateness at this time—being the first membership meeting of the county-wide organization for other than a strictly business session. The members of the committee are: R. L. Crow, chairman, J. Key Brown, Dr. Paul Fitzgerald, R. B. Sugg, Ed Batchelor.

All the talks will be brief, members of the committee indicated, because of the large number to be heard from. Each director will be confined to about three minutes each. As one of the members of the committee put it, they will be "short and snappy". Following the addresses by the newly elected directors, there will be informal remarks by any of the members who choose to speak. R. L. Crow, chairman of the forum committee, will preside.

As soon as the election judges and tellers finish their count tonight and announce the 12 directors who will comprise the board for the next year, notices will be sent them telling of their election and announcing the meeting of the board for organization will be held Wednesday afternoon next the 22nd at 4 o'clock in the chamber of commerce offices. At this next meeting they will elect a president and two vice presidents, all from among their own number.

Many expressions of approval are being heard about this method of election of officers and directors.

President Harding doesn't seem to be ready to recall Colonel Harvey. But before his remarks are forgotten the President may wish he had.

The Republicans are having the time of their lives right at this particular time, but in two or three years one will have the opportunity of seeing the Democratic mule smiling off on the same lines.

People may preach hard times all they like, but so long as North Carolina farmers continue to raise plenty of truck, we should worry. The situation is truly serious from a momentary viewpoint, but otherwise, we can't see why there is need of worrying.

An extra session of legislature seems very probable at this time. The state is scared up over the existing panic and wants the legislature to make some arrangements for providing cash. State bankers say they will look after municipalities, but will continue turning down bad checks for the public.

Lenoir, North Carolina, is breaking ground for the erection of a new school building. Lenoir is very fortunate, but not very far ahead of many other towns which have already voted bonds for similar improvements. Education seems to be of first consideration at this time, so it is natural to expect the future to be very bright.

The railroad companies have found that the higher they put their rates the less business they get. Not only the railroads have learned this lesson during the past several months, but thousands of business men at the head of even small industries have been impressed with the general desire of the people to see things go back to normal. Inflation may be all right in its place, but deflation is in order there.

Cam Morrison seems to be at outs with Josephus Daniels, who has become something of a conspicuous writer since leaving the navy department. The governor is a man firm in convictions and fair to his enemies, so Josephus should go slowly in anything he happens to have against the former Charlotte man.

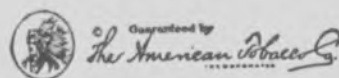

The State authorities in South Carolina have succeeded in reducing typhoid fever from forty to sixty percent. This is an appreciable decrease and deserves to be considered in other territories where the record is not quite so good. North Carolina fortunately has made a splendid fight against malaria and typhoid, too, for the past few years and it today is in position to successfully combat the sickness. Even isolated districts are well protected, therefore, it is easily seen what county departments of health have been doing.

Preparations are being made for immediate construction of about 482 miles of hard surfaced roads in North Carolina. Times may be hard, as people like to remind us every time we try to collect an account, but it is gratifying to note there is to be no let up in road work. North Carolina's progress has been retarded considerably by deplorable road systems, and in the course of a few years things ought to improve to the satisfaction of everyone. Roads are essential to every territory and especially to those sections developing into great agricultural regions.

Cigarette

No cigarette has the same delicious flavor as Lucky Strike. Because Lucky Strike is the toasted cigarette.

Money may be tight, but when education is mentioned even the stingy are ready to release enormous sums. This is a favorable turn in affairs and predicts progress in the near future, regardless of present deplorable conditions in the financial field.

NOTICE

Sale of Valuable Lands

By virtue of the power of sale contained in the deed of trust, executed to the undersigned on the 18th day of October, 1919, by J. W. Vincent, recorded in book D-12, page 88 of the Pitt county registry, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash at the court house door on the 1st day of July, 1921, at 12 o'clock, noon, the following described property:

Moonlight Sail

(Reported for the Reflector)

What is rarer than a day in June? You are right—a moonlight night. Friday night was perfect specimen of the one the poet sings about and more than thirty of the young persons of the town took full advantage of it. Boarding the sturdy gas launch Anne Fair at 8 o'clock the merry throng went whirling it up for a dozen miles down the Tar, eating, drinking, singing, mooning.

The management made it clearly known before the start that it would not be responsible for any hearts that might be smashed during the evening. It was perfect, too, as even Alfred Schultz, who could not find his girl for the occasion and acted as beau galant for the entire party, confessed. There was no excuse for giving the sail. The boys got the bug and the girls spurred the men to dive things,

So we might think that it was in honor of the girls who are back from school and those who were in town during the winter.

As if moon-light is not enough to tear a man's heart, the girls elicited the matter by bringing along boxes of sandwiches and things. The boys had a strong hunch this would be the case and stored aboard ice cream and lemonade.

Of course, the corners were immediately seized by such couples as Charlie White and Ernestine Forbes, and Dr. Pace and Madeline Higgs. David Moore thinks the Training school the finest in the State and showed Miss Winborne that it is in the right town. Eddie Webb couldn't decide whether he wanted his feet in the water or out, but Hennie Long promised to rescue him should he tumble in. Jack Brown and Ethel Pittman were too busy seeing about the feed to see the dark things that were going on, but Closs Hearne and Lella Higgs generously came to their aid. To get off some of his surplus energy, June Rose couldn't resist climbing around the sides, up and over the boat, even though his partner, Miss Southall, held her breath in suspense at times.

Not all went along smoothly. W. A. Darden found it difficult to keep up with Helen Brown and spent a good part of the evening looking for her. When he was not on the bow-rip of the boat bothering his brother Irving and Frances Whedbee, Ed Williams was trying to prevent Novella Moye from putting ice down the backs of her friend, enemies.

Over on the shady side of the boat Roy Hearne and Marguerite Higgs talked in low tones, frequently oblivious of the presence of others. Howard Hooker and Douglas Arthur entered a general denial, even though the gas did run out in a dark spot when they were on the way home. When conversation began to run low, Cleveland Hardee would tell Argent Quinerly a joke that would start a laugh—perhaps a song. J. J. McKinna and Madeline Brown discussed the rainbow around the moon, among other things, while Edward Harris and Elizabeth Higgs swapped yarns about the glories of school and college.

When in doubt about a chaperone, look up Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rogers. They are newly-weds; hence they see and hear nothing.

If there was any joy, ecstasy, or heart-burn, blame it on the arch-conspirators, Jack Brown and Closs Hearne. They turned the trick, aided and abetted by the rest of the gang.

Dance tomorrow night, Amuzu park. Edmonds orchestra. Everybody welcome.

LAZY BREEDERS OF MOSQUITOES, FLEAS AND FLIES

By J. Richard Allen

The way some homes are kept they are as whitened supulchers, filled with very unwholesome collections. The ceilings, walls and floors are not clean and shabby and badly kept carpets, rugs, curtains and spreads are veritable wildernesses of germs and insects. Ancient feather beds with leaks are quite common and fleas of the lazy, dirty cats or the mites of poultry are notable features of the family resting place. Bath rooms and closets are a hissing and a reproach and flies and chimneys are left open to bring back into the rooms all spring and summer the sickening fumes of coal smoke and soot, or defective gas fixtures are left loose enough to keep up the odor and make the place an unpleasing or even dangerous place to stay.

The kitchen is rarely a place to be proud of and is often an impressive school of disorder, indolence and uncleanness. However, this particular lecture relates mainly to the back yard. When it comes to producing record crops of mosquitoes and flies the unkept back yard is certainly the last word. It has the stable with its seething dump of filth, the carload of discarded cans, bottles and other receptacles too numerous to classify, all holding just about enough stale water to hatch mosquitoes or sufficient garbage to grow sour odorous and poisonous in the summer sun. When it comes to the shabby homekeepers in many of our towns and cities, about the only their own fleas, mosquitoes, flies and family supplies they raise at home are bad odors. To keep a home attractive, a front and clean, comfortable and safe within requires great and continuous care. It can only be done staying with it. It means industry, intelligence and devotion. It means self respect and pride, and it means even more than these. It means care and love for others. People devoted wholly to themselves, to their own appetites and pleasures are not apt to be very good housekeepers. Their minds are on something else.

The realms of vanity are vast, and those who revel therein do not have any time to devote to the back yard. Any neglected back yard will grow dangerous—dangerous for not only those who neglect it, but for their neighbors for blocks around.

KINSTON ROBBINS WIN FIRST GAME FROM THE WEEVILS

Padgett Holds Greenville Club to Six Safeties and Wins Second Victory

Kinston, June 20.—Kinston's Robbins took the measure of the Boll Weevils in the final game of the series at the fair grounds park yesterday, and save for an unfortunate incident in the ninth inning would have blanked the Greenvilleans. Padgett, the Furman university boy, won his second game in three starts, having held the heavy-hitting visitors to three measly bingles until the ninth, when three hit in rapid succession would still have availed them nothing save for a thrown ball hitting Kittrell, after that player had hit in front of the plate and was making it for first. The ball struck Kittrell in the back of the head, knocking him flat and allowed Ratchford who was parked on third, to race home with Greenville's only score.

On the play referred to above, the side was retired, Cobb throwing a man out at second and White doubling a runner out at the plate, which was not necessary.

Kinston started early and made hits count. They also took advantage of all discrepancies of the visitors and at the end of the third inning score was 3 to 0. Another tally was added in the sixth and this was all. Despite the fact that both teams bobbed three times, the game was full of sensational fielding. Big Red Parron plucked himself a three-bagger in the eighth, while Turnbull pecked off singles. The Michigan boy performed well in left.

The usual crowd was on hand to see the contest, which proved, everybody agreed, to be one of the best of the season.

Adams relieved McLain in the box or Greenville in the seventh. Lyle taking Carson's place behind the bat. Webb of Greenville was sent in to pinch hit and played center in Fogleman's place. Kittrell relieved Adams in right.

DIAMOND DUST

Diamond Dust
So long as we manage to take two out of three as we did against Kinston there is no need of worrying. The boys set a decidedly fast pace the latter part of last week, and apparently mean to make things more interesting for the New Bern team.

Much interest is centered around the game in New Bern today. The Boll Weevils concluded the week with a fast class of ball, so it is natural to expect that John Ivey Smith's crew is going to find it more difficult to handle us this time, although it is true they did it with ease in the first series here.

McLain pitched a creditable game against Jim White's Robbins Saturday but it appeared to be their day for winning and that's exactly what they did. Lefty has some puzzling stuff on his balls, and Kinston was mighty fortunate to have on their winning streak at the time.

The first week of the Eastern Carolina league furnished a class of ball difficult to understand. New Bern apparently had unbreakable winning streak for seven consecutive games and then Washington succeeded in beating them. Greenville beat Washington two straights and Kinston repeated the performance. Then the Robbins and Boll Weevils clashed which resulted in the former getting two straights out of three. Fans may say what they please, but luck had something to do with it, and if New Bern doesn't watch things closely Saxe Barnes' crew will certainly walk away with two successive victories.

Jim White got mighty sore over the way Greenville walloped his crew, but it is probable he feels better now that his crowd won the last game of the series.

Greenville happened to have another day off Saturday, which was entirely responsible for Kinston's victory. We can't win all the time, but so long as we continue to get two out of three, we should worry about the outcome of the first half.

Carl Jeanette's Sailors managed to win the first game of the season from the Bears. The honor is a distinct one, and indicates John Ivey Smith has something to think about before finding the pennant flying over the clubhouse in New Bern.

The Greenville infield has redeemed itself. Practically every player showed splendid form against Kinston which was principally responsible for the two straight victories.

That was a bitter dose the Bears forced us to swallow, but we get three more cracks at them this week, and the tale may be entirely different.

Sam Jones and Mark Webb are doing good these days, and if pitted against New Bern it's safe to say they will change the tide of victory.

Leftwich is about one of the safest batters on the Greenville club. The former member of the Scotland Neck Hypheens knocks the old pill when he hits and this has been mainly responsible for a number of Greenville runs.

Massey continues to cover the first sack to perfection. He is a little behind in stick average, but that may come later.

Saxe Barnes may be pitted against the Bears in the opening game today, which is a guarantee of a mighty close score.

Morton wields the old willow in a dangerous manner, and has proved a terror to a number of the best mound artists in the league. He is a former theological seminary student, and the best with the willow we have seen in many a day.

Ratchford seems to be covering the third sack about as good as anyone could ask for. He is also hitting at a rapid clip, therefore, it is safe to say he is a permanency with the Weevil club.

Fogleman covers the center garden like he has been at it all his life. He pulled off a number of sensational catches at Washington, and also did his part with the stick. This is a good indication of even faster ball during the latter part of the season.

VIRGINIA WOMAN SUFFERED SINCE SHE WAS A CHILD

Mrs. King's Troubles Got Worse As She Grew Older, But Finds Relief After Taking Tanlac

"I have suffered from stomach trouble ever since I was a child, and Tanlac is the only thing I ever tried that brought me any real relief," said Mrs. G. D. King, 226 South Washington St., Alexandria, Va.

"As I grew older the trouble got worse and finally I was so wretched I hardly took any interest in life. I suffered all the time with an abnormal craving for food and would eat things I knew would disagree with me, but the gnawing hunger was more than I could stand. I tried medicines and treatments of all sorts, and was finally told there was no hope for me.

"I went on a visit to my father, thinking a change might help me, and while there he advised me to take Tanlac. I certainly bless the day I took his advice, for Tanlac has proved to be just what I needed. The awful craving for food is gone. I have a normal appetite and my digestion is better than it ever was in my life. I feel better in every way. I wish I had it in my power to put a bottle of this grand medicine in the hand of every person who has stomach trouble as I know it would mean bringing health and happiness to them, just as it did me."

Tanlac is sold in Greenville by the Greenville Drug Co.
