EAMONN DEVALERA AND FOLLOWERS REFUSE ACCEPT ANGLO-IRISH PEACE TREATY IN FIRST STATEMENT ISSUED SINCE ELECTION OF THE PRESIDENT

Former President of Republic Declares Treaty is Not Stepping Stone, But Barrier to Progress

SAYS CONTRACT WILL BIND IRELAND SOLEMNLY TO THE PRINCIPALS OF BRITISH

Says Irish Should Not Bend Knees to British Authority; Defends Interests of Nation in Past

(Copyright by International News) Dublin, Jan. 16.—Eamonn DeValera, former president of the Irish republic, has refused to accept the Anglo-Irish peace treaty because he believes it is not a stepping stone, but a barrier to complete independence for Ireland.

DeValera made this statement today in the first authorized interview given out since the opening of the Irish peace negotiations.

"If the treaty should be completed and Irish act resulting from it is accepted by Ireland it may be certainly maintained that a solemn and binding contract has been entered into voluntarily by the Irish people, and Britain will seek to hold us to the contract, he declared.

"In Irish history there is not a single instance where Irish people voluntarily bending their knees to British authority. Ireland's natural empire is perfect. There never was a spiritual surrender and there never will be."

WATCHMAN KILLED AT WASHINGTON BY UNKNOWN PARTIES

Ell Neal Shot Through Arm and Beat Into Unconsciousness by Unknown Assailant

(Special to Reflector). Washington, N. C., Jan. 16.—Ell Neal, colored watchman at the Waters Lumber Company mill, died at a late hour Saturday night of injuries inflicted by unknown persons a short time after the watchman had gone to work. So far authorities have been unable to obtain any definite information regarding the murder, but have arrested another negro by the name of Benjamin Gray, who it is believed, knows more of the incident than he likes to tell.

When found by persons who rushed to him after hearing the report of a revolver, neighbors found him lying on the ground in an unconscious condition. A bullet had penetrated his arm, and his head showed signs of having been hit with some heavy instrument. He was attacked about seven o'clock, and died at his home about eleven o'clock without regaining consciousness.

Fourteen dollars in cash was found in pockets of the dead man, and authorities no longer entertain any idea that robbery was the motive of his assailants. It is believed, however, a woman is at the bottom of the case, and that the assailant killed Neal as a result of jealousy over the woman's affections.

COTTON GROWERS ELECT DELEGATES FOR CONVENTION

Two Hundred Growers Met Here Today; Elected Delegates to Convention in New Bern

THIRTEEN TOWNSHIPS TO BE WELL REPRESENTED AT BOLL WEEVIL MEETING

Conference Will Discuss Plans Looking to Campaign Against the Boll Weevil

About two hundred cotton growers of Pitt county met at the court house in this city today and elected delegates to attend the convention to be held at New Bern Wednesday, January 18th. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic held here in some time and featured in discussions dealing with the fight to be waged against the boll weevil during the coming planting season.

In election of delegates to attend the convention the following were chosen: L. E. Turnage, Ayden; R. E. Willoughby, Beaver Dam; J. T. Hodges, Belvoir; J. H. Keel, Carolina R. L. Little, Chicod; John T. Thorne, Farmville; E. J. Peadar, Falkland; L. L. Eagles, Fountain; J. S. Pittman, Swift Creek; W. O. Speight, Winterville; Ira Moore, Patauga; G. H. Harris, Greenville; S. M. Jones, Bethel; John R. Spier, Ayden.

The New Bern meeting will be devoted almost entirely to a discussion of plans for combating the boll weevil which is scheduled to reach this section of the country during the coming planting season. Plans looking to permanent organization of the North Carolina Cotton Growers association will be taken up, and from all indications the meeting will be one of the most helpful in many months.

Pitt county farmers are large cotton producers, and intensely interested in the fight against the boll weevil. The New Bern delegates will go prepared to represent the county in every way possible, and good results are expected.

Rumor Has it That Automobile Magazine Will Buy System if Muscle Shoals is Purchased

RUMOR ORIGINATED FROM NEW YORK STOCK CENTER TO RELIEVE STAGNATION

Many Think Rumor Was Circulated to Bring About Revival of Stock of the Company

(By International News). Durham, Jan. 16.—Rumors today, although without tangible foundation, were to the effect that Henry Ford may negotiate the purchase of the Seaboard Air Line railway if his offer for the purchase of Muscle Shoals is accepted by the government. It is believed the report emanated from the New York stock exchange as a ruse to create interest in Seaboard stock which has been in a stagnated condition several months.

More definite information concerning the matter, however, will be given out at a later date, in event Ford really should be contemplating the purchase.

FREMONT DEFEATS GREENVILLE BOYS IN THIRD CONTEST

Seasoned High School Club of Fremont Won Over Greenville Saturday Night

LOCALS HANDICAPPED BY INABILITY OF PRINCIPAL MEN TO APPEAR IN GAME

Coach Duncan Confident Club Will Win Over Washington Here Next Friday Night

The Greenville high school basketball team went down in their second defeat of the season Saturday night at Fremont when the high school club of that place defeated them by the score of 52 to 8. The game was fast and snappy at times despite the one-sided score, and Greenville several times rallied as if to overcome the definite lead piled up by their opponents in early stages of the game.

The Greenville club was greatly crippled because of the inability of two or three principal players to appear in the game, but the substitutes put up a good fight and really deserved more points. The game was the thirteenth the Fremont club had participated in during the season, and the players were more experienced in every department of the game. They showed decidedly more knowledge of principal plays netting points in their favor and worked hard and determinedly from the first to end of the game.

The two successive defeats have not discouraged the locals, Coach Duncan stated this morning, and after a week filed with strenuous practice, they will go up against Washington next Friday night at Forbes and Morton's warehouse determined to win. Washington has made a remarkable record during the season, but it is believed they are about equally matched with the local club, and won't find scoring quite so easy.

Captain Duncan is confident his boys will make a better showing as the season continues. His material is probably better than any other season in history of the school, and should develop rapidly against the more experienced players tackled during the season.

The game with Washington is looked forward to with great interest, and it is probable one of the largest attendances of the season will witness it. Parents are urged to support the athletic club as much as possible, as it creates a spirit to battle more stubbornly for honors.

TEACHER COLLEGE TO RAISE MONEY TO BUY PORTRAIT

Students Plan Have Enough Funds to Purchase Picture of J. F. Fleming by Commencement

The two literary societies of East Carolina Teachers College are working to raise the money required for placing the portrait of Mr. J. L. Fleming on the walls of the institution by commencement. The first of the two entertainments for the cause will be given next Monday evening, when the great pianist Ezerman will give a piano recital. This will be the contribution from the Edgar Allan Poe Literary Society. The literary societies of the college have always brought to the town only the highest type of entertainment, something that has either been musical dramatic or literary value. While the proceeds from the recital will go towards a worthy and popular cause, the real contribution will be giving the public the opportunity of hearing a great musician.

Old Mumford Warehouse, Half Million Pounds Tobacco and Three Negro Houses Burned

FIREMAN GREATLY HAMPERED BY SHORTAGE OF HYDRANTS AND STRONG WIND AND COLD

J. N. Gorman Suffers Heavy Loss Through Destruction of Large Quantity of Tobacco

One of the most disastrous fires that has visited Greenville in a number of years swept through the lower end of tobacco town late Saturday afternoon, totally consuming between five and six thousand pounds of tobacco, the old Mumford warehouse No. 2 and stable building together with three negro dwellings, entailing loss conservatively estimated in the neighborhood of $150,000, partially covered by insurances. The origin of the fire so far has not been determined, but when discovered about five-thirty o'clock, flames completely enveloped the center of the building. The fire spread with such great rapidity that firemen had great difficulty in preventing it from completely wiping out a nearby colored residential section. The flames were fanned by a strong wind and completely enveloped the mammoth warehouse building before firemen were able to render effective aid. That the fire had been burning for some time when first discovered, is generally believed by members of the fire department and those interested in the loss.

There were approximately six hundred hogsheads of various grades tobacco on storage in the warehouse, but it is not believed the loss on this approximate over $75,000 or $80,000. The loss on the warehouse building and stables, all of which were constructed of wood, is estimated at about $40,000.

So far as ascertained, J. N. Gorman was possibly the heaviest individual loser in the number of pounds of tobacco destroyed. About 260 hogsheads, weighing about 275,000, (Continued on page 2)

Henry Ford may not gain possession of Muscle Shoals, but he will be there trying when others have given up in desperation.

Hayes may find that the movie interests are not as prompt in paying accounts as Uncle Sam. That's about the only disadvantage about his change of positions.

The retirement of Postmaster General Hays will cause regret among colored applicants who have been waiting at the pie counter since campaign days.

The proposed union depot for Greenville should be hosted by every organization in town. We have endured the old way long enough, and a growing town size of Greenville is deserving of better depot facilities.

France no doubt will find that petty politicians can't fill the job made vacant by the resignation of Premier Briand. It's a pity such great men have to retire from public life because of unfair criticisms, but it all comes in a lifetime, and Briand will be living happily when his enemies have gone to the bad.

Citizens of Greenville and Pitt county should respond liberally to the Woodrow Wilson foundation movement. Wilson was the greatest president the county has ever had, and his ideals should be perpetuated in a way the present generation and those to come won't soon forget.

The boll weevil caused great damage in other parts of the country, but North Carolina is going to be prepared for him as far as this is possible. Elaborate programs are already under way, and in event they work out as expected the pest won't be able to work any great damage.

Northern interests are in favor of the Fordney tariff measure, of course, but the southerner has a cause to oppose it. The enactment of such a measure will be one of the greatest wrongs the administration could work against the people.

The American legion is exerting every effort to prevent undesirable foreign elements from getting into this country, and the campaign promises to be filled with great success. The country will experience much greater prosperity with immigration bars up, and the longer they remain so the longer prosperity will continue.

The Republican party quite naturally believes the disarmament conference will take the place of the league of nations, but they will have a hard time making Democrats think the same way about it. The league is as indispensable to world peace as government is to every nation, and when the fact is realized and ideals of the organization accepted by all nations the dove of peace may then become an actuality.

The board of aldermen did the right thing in establishing a school zone and enacting legislation requiring all vehicles to run at a certain speed while within the school boundaries. Human life has been in jeopardy heretofore, but this legislation should have a tendency of protecting the lives of even small tots attending primary schools.

The majority of people in the south favor Henry Ford's proposal for purchasing Muscle Shoals because they are confident he will be able to convert it into a paying proposition if anybody can. The giant industries already built up by the manufacturer are proof of his ability of developing industry, and if there's anything to the government property Ford will bring it out in a mighty short while.

The tobacco growers should not forget that it is very imperative to reduce acreage this year. The cut this season no doubt should be even more radical than last year. The market demands good tobacco, but inferior grades are without any demand whatever. Surplus acreage should be planted in foodstuffs. When this is done, more time will be given to the cultivation of tobacco, no northern food stuff will have to be purchased, and the farmer will find things entirely different.

The Reflector is making every effort to give its readers the kind of paper they would like to have, and if the proper co-operation is given us the future is very bright indeed. No industry can flourish as it should unless the public does its part, and this is so with a newspaper as all other enterprises. By keeping us informed regarding local happenings our readers will be insuring themselves of a better paper as well as facilitating the work of our writers. If you know anything, let us know it also, as in this way we will be able of giving the city a paper its people may justly be proud of.

FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH LOWER END TOBACCO DISTRICT
and valued at approximately $50,000 was suffered by this firm. This tobacco had already been sold and was to have been delivered this week. It was insured for $42,000.

Johnston and Foxhall lost 150 hogsheads of tobacco, the purchase price of which amounted to about $15,000. W. H. Dail had about 50 hogsheads valued at about $12,000. The burned building, which was recently designated as Johnston's warehouse No. 2, together with stables, were worth about $40,000, it was stated by the owners Saturday night. They were partially covered by insurance.

E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Co. are reported to have had about 50 hogsheads of leaf tobacco on storage for other parties.

Two tenant houses on King's row, Famicco avenue, which were completely destroyed, and another partially wrecked, were the property of Mrs. L. I. Moore, of New Bern. The loss on these buildings amounts to about $1200, partially covered by insurance.

It was feared the flames would spread to the mammoth plant of the Imperial Tobacco Company, situated across the railroad tracks, about one hundred yards from the burning warehouse, and the plant of the Texas Oil Company was also endangered, but by the use of every available method of firefighting the flames were confined to the warehouse and negro homes in close proximity to it. A quantity of gasoline stored in a building adjoining the warehouse by the Texas Company was removed, although several barrels were burned.

The fire was the most disastrous that has visited this city in years, and coming shortly before nightfall, the brilliant flames illuminated practically the entire section of town and attracted attention from hundreds of people who were on the scene a short time later.

The fire department responded heroically to the great task of controlling the flames, fanned by the stiff wind, but experienced great difficulty because of the shortage of hydrants. The building was located quite a distance from hydrants, and the firemen were forced to run long lines of hose before being able to cope with the situation at all. Even then their work was made almost ineffective in saving buildings that had already caught, but the water was played on other buildings which prevented the great masses of sparks, doubly accentuated by clouds of smoke that reared up towards the heavens in volcanic fashion from doing greater damage. Hundreds of people gathered at a distance from the conflagration and watched the flames as they spread from the warehouse to nearby colored residences. The massive warehouse, 256x160 feet was reduced to nothing less in a considerably shorter time than expected, and as it burned to the ground the wind subsided somewhat and enabled the firemen to control the flames which threatened to completely wreck many homes along King's row.

The fire happened so quickly that many families fearful their homes would be destroyed also, dragged house furnishings into the streets. The bitter cold weather caused many to endure great hardship and suffering before the homes could be placed in order again during the night.

Among the crowds that thronged to the scene of the conflagration could be seen a long line of young women from the Training College, who were also attracted by the mountain of smoke and flames which reared high into the clouds for an hour or so. The embers were still glowing over the ruins yesterday when hundreds of curious people from other sections of the county visited Greenville to witness the extent of the ruin.

First reports stated that tobacco town had suffered a million dollar loss and it is probable these had much to do with the crowds coming from other sections Saturday night and yesterday.

TIMELY SERMON BY REV. LELAND W. SMITH "HOW TO ENJOY SUNDAY"

Sunday morning Rev. Leland W. Smith, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, gave his congregation a very timely sermon on the Sabbath day. His subject was "How to Enjoy Sunday," and the text Mark 2:27 "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath."

Disregard of the Sabbath day, said Mr. Smith by way of introduction, tends to weaken the body and has much to do with the mental capacity. We could not get along without the Sabbath, for by the observance of the day our physical, moral and spiritual lives are largely builded. The institution of the Sabbath dates back to creation for we read in the beginning that in six days God created the heaven and the earth and rested the seventh day. If the creator should require one day out of seven for rest, surely man is no less in need of it. The observance of the day was enjoined in the laws (see the fourth commandment) given by him while being cut into planks are estimated to have been laying there about a century.

life on earth was characterized by a proper observance of the Sabbath. Mr. Smith gave these suggestions for a real enjoyment of Sunday:

Prepare for Sunday by staying at home Saturday night getting acquainted with your family and retire early. Get up early Sunday morning and help to do the necessary work around the home, so that those upon whom the burden of domestic duties fall may have the opportunity of attending the house of worship and participating in the enjoyment of the day. Late sleepers Sunday mornings are a hindrance to others, whether they live at home or in boarding houses.

Make your plans to attend Bible services, but do not think a part of school and church. Your spiritual life must be built up, and the best place for this is in God's house.

Do not expect your wife to rush home from church and give you a big Sunday dinner. Be content with enough to keep out of jail. Everyone such meals on Sunday as the wife is helped by honest labor and faithful preparation in advance, so as to let her share in the enjoyment of the day.

Keep some inspiring books on hand for reading Sunday afternoon. The Sunday paper has nothing of an inspiring nature and should be done away with.

Write one or more letters to friends or absent loved ones. Such writing is not violation of the Sabbath but going to the office and writing business letters on Sunday is contrary to God's law.

Ask some who are not Christians to accept Christ. Nothing can bring greater joy than to lead a soul to Christ.

Get all you can out of the church services, but do not think a part of this must be criticizing the choir or the preacher.

Close the day with a song and a prayer. Thank God that you are strong enough to work and good enough to keep out of jail. Everyone such meals on Sunday as the wife is helped by honest labor and faithful preparation in advance, so as to let her share in the enjoyment of the day.

Follow these suggestions, he concluded, and you will know what it is to appreciate and enjoy Sunday.

SHIRT-SLEEVE DINER

CAUSED HOT DISPUTE

Vienna.—Is it permissible for a man to sit in his shirt-sleeves in a cafe? That is the question before a Viennese judge.

An architect of unconventional habits sat in the restaurant garden of the Elsvogel in a tussore silk suit, but the sun burned fiercely on him and he took off his coat, disclosing a pale blue silk shirt.

Two other guests—possibly envious because their shirts were not silken—objected, and the proprietor requested the architect to put on his coat. He refused.

The envious ones and the host then proceeded to ridicule the architect until his temperature had risen to the point of calling in the police.
