JUDGE F. WOOTEEN HOLDS SERVICES AT THE COLLEGE

Vesper Services at Training School Last Night Were Highly Interesting

Judge F. M. Wooten conducted the Y. W. C. A. vesper service at East Carolina Teachers' College Sunday evening. He made a helpful talk, and one long to be remembered on the subject "This I Will Do" from the text "Work out Your own Salvation." He gave apt illustrations showing that the mind and body must work together if one is to work out his own salvation. He must not only know but do things that will lead to this end. When one knows right from wrong he is blessed. The choice is ever before all. All of us have temptations, but Christian influences help one to withstand them. He pointed out that since the birth of Christ, "I will have been our desire to work out our own salvation, and God is working through individuals. They must be obedient to the power to discern between that which is useful and helpful and that which is harmful. "No man," said he, "can live alone. Contact is necessary. We should live this life so that those who follow us can look back and see the benefit we have made possible by working out our own salvation." Just before the talk Miss Cora Holland sang "When the Roses Bloom."

RIVER RECEDING RAPIDLY AFTER REACHING CREST

Tar River is Now Off Its Rampage and Gets Down to Business As Usual

Tar river reached its crest yesterday after being on a rampage the entire week. The water reached a height of between fifteen and sixteen feet, the highest since 1919, according to information made public today by Mr. Clark, of the local weather bureau. The water was falling at the noon hour today, having reached the 11 foot mark. By tomorrow it is believed the river will be almost within its old bounds, although the low grounds will remain flooded several days, or even weeks. So far no bad results of the high water have been reported, and it is believed persons having cattle in the low grounds took advantage of the warning issued by the weather department. In 1920, the river rose 11 6-10 feet in 1921 it went slightly higher, having a depth of 11 9-10. The high water occurred during the month of February each year.

SAYS THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD NOT LEASE THE PLANT TO HENRY FORD

(By International News.) Washington, Feb. 13.—Muscle Shoals, which Henry Ford has offered to lease, must be continued for national preparedness in case of war, said Major Burns of the army ordnance department before the House military committee today. This is necessary whether by private enterprise or government. He impressed the committee with the necessity of taking every precaution as a guarantee of continued manufacture of nitrates at Muscle Shoals. He said the turning over of the project to Ford or any other private enterprise would be a violation of government contracts with the Alabama Power company, the Air Nitrate company and American company.

ASK ALDERMEN TO WIDEN DICKINSON SOON AS POSSIBLE

Petition Circulated Today Asking For Improvement in an Important Street

A petition for widening Dickinson avenue is today being circulated by the chamber of commerce, and Thursday night will be presented the board of aldermen, fully signed. The same petition was presented the board at its last meeting, but failed to contain enough signatures to be acted upon. The town will bear a third of the expense of widening the street and the property owner a third. The street, as planned, will be widened four feet, costing the property owners not over 60 cents a foot. This is one of the most important matters that has been placed before the public in years, and immediate action is necessary if the future of the city is to be guaranteed. It is either widen the street and take care of heavy traffic or make it a one way thoroughfare with only half of the customary traffic.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PAYS TRIBUTE TO FORMER LEADER

Members Last Night Held Memorial Services in Memory of Miss Dora Kendall

SEVERAL SPEAKERS PAY FINE TRIBUTES TO THE LIFE OF THE DECEASED

Members of Methodist and Baptist Churches Also Take Part in Memorial Services

The Epworth league of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church last night held memorial services in memory of Miss Dora Kendall, a former leader of the Epworth league, who died February 5th, at Scarritt's Bible Training school, Kansas City, Missouri, where she was preparing herself for greater service in church work. In the absence of Miss Lil Wilson, who was to have led the service, Mrs. W. E. Hooker had charge. The program was opened with a favorite song of the deceased, "O Master, as I Walk With Thee," the Junior class song of Scarritt's Bible Training school. Mrs. Hooker spoke on what Miss Kendall meant to the church and the league which she served so faithfully while in Greenville. Mr. R. T. Burnette, in whose home Miss Kendall spent the greater portion of her time while in Greenville, then spoke of the pleasure and privilege his family had derived from having such a splendid character as Miss Kendall in their home. He paid a splendid tribute to her life of service and said the church had indeed lost a great worker. Rev. V. P. Scoville, although not speaking Miss Kendall personally, spoke of what a great influence Miss Kendall had had upon the church and her friends. He learned this, he said, by hearing others speak of her, and the great work she did for the church and community. Mrs. Milton White read a beautiful poem by James Whitcomb Riley, in which the death of a friend was portrayed in a touching way. She read another poem, which was read to her in her recent sorrow. Miss Mavis Lee Oakley, one of the leaders of the Epworth league, made a short talk on what the life of Miss Kendall meant to the league, and what an inspiration her life would be to all the members in the future. Mr. K. W. Cobb spoke of the influence of her life to the church and the high esteem in which she was held by stewards of the church. Miss Laura Foley, president of the Epworth league, read a letter from Scarritt's, which appears elsewhere in this paper. Mrs. Hooker, in closing the exercises, spoke of the esteem and honor in which she was held by members of the church and what the influence of her life had had upon the church. The exercises were attended by a large number of friends of the deceased from out of town and two of her sisters, Mrs. H. G. Crisp and Mrs. John Eakes. The B. Y. P. U. of the Memorial Baptist church attended in a body.

GREENVILLE DROPS SPLENDID CONTEST TO FREMONT CLUB

Fremont Won Saturday Night's Game Here by the Score of 31 to 15

The fast basketball aggregation from Fremont defeated the Greenville high school quintet at Forbes & Morton's warehouse in this city Saturday night by the score of 31 to 15. The game without a doubt was one of the best staged here this season, as both clubs played an exceptionally fast class of ball and deserved great credit. Fremont, however, has played baseball "since Heck was a pup," and were able to display superior knowledge and skill in every frame. Greenville played an exceptionally fine game, but couldn't keep pace with the visitors in the last half, although the showing in the first half looked like the score would be mighty close. It was Fremont's second victory over the locals, the first having been won by a much larger score. Williams, playing right forward for Greenville, was the outstanding star, making three field goals. Zeno Brown also featured, making five fouls. Yelverton featured largely for the visitors, with eight field goals and one foul. Lane also played an exceptionally fine game for the visitors, making four field goals and two fouls. The line-up of both teams follows: Fremont—Lane, f.; Yelverton, rf.; Hooks, c.; Deese, lg.; Cobb, rg. Greenville—Zeno Brown, lf.; R. Williams, rf.; Capt. Barber, lg.; Foley, rg. Referee: Kennedy; time keepers, Evans and Braxton; scorers, Norman and Moore. A double header will be played here next Friday night when the girls and boys of the high school play New Bern. The game is expected to be one of the most stubbornly contested of the season. New Bern has an enviable record, and will fight hard to defeat Greenville.

There were 18,909 bales ginned for the same period last year.

GREENVILLE QUOTA IS OVERSUBSCRIBED IN JEWISH RELIEF

Campaign Headquarters This Morning Reported Slightly Over $1,000 Collected

CHURCHES RESPOND TO THE CALL FOR AID IN A SPLENDID MANNER

Only One Town Outside of Greenville Heard From Up to the Noon Hour Today

Greenville has done the big thing by the Jewish relief campaign as reports received from campaign headquarters today showed that the $1,000 apportionment has already been oversubscribed with prospects of the sum being greatly increased when all localities have been heard from. The total amount reported at the noon hour today exceeded $1,000.36, with contributions of only one church, the Methodist, which gave over $70. It will be impossible to definitely determine the exact amount collected at the various churches yesterday until late this afternoon. Dr. A. M. Schultz, chairman of the campaign, said this morning, but it is hoped tomorrow morning everything will be in readiness for a complete report. Only one town outside of Greenville has been heard from up to the present time, but it is believed the remainder will report before nightfall. Stokes sent in slightly over $40, and if others do that good the campaign will be a greater success than even the most optimistic anticipated. Dr. Schultz was elated at the splendid showing the city has made, and this morning, instructed the papers to express his sincere thanks to the community for the hearty spirit of co-operation exhibited. The committee have done fine work also, he said, and it had not been for the interest and fearless spirit of its members such success would not have been possible. Contributions received Saturday afternoon were from the following: A. E. Hogwood, $1; Felix Labaka, $5; R. L. Humber, $1; Mrs. Lucy Nobles, $1; Mrs. Jesse Speight, $1. Stokes Contribution: Dr. T. G. Baanight, $11; W. S. Overton, $2; Gilbert Peal, $1; H. D. Gurganus, $1; E. B. Parker, 50c; J. S. Perkins, $5; L. R. Whitchard, $1; A. M. Woolard, $4.25; Frank Gurganus, 25c; W. G. Stokes, $12. Methodist Church: Cash in plate $45.56; J. K. Brown and wife, $5; Mrs. Hortense Moya, $5; D. D. Overton, $5; Mrs. J. G. Waldrop, $3; Mr. M. H. Quinerly, $2; Mrs. Milton White, $1; J. S. Norman, $1; Mrs. Ada Cherry, $1; Miss Eloise Ellington, $1; Mrs. V. P. Scoville, $2; W. G. Norman, 10c. Before going to press the following contributions of churches were reported: St. Paul's church $40.50; Memorial Baptist church, $29.50.

TWO DEFENDANTS DRAW ROAD TERMS IN COUNTY COURT

Hearing of Two Larceny Charges Constituted Docket of the Court This Morning

One of the lightest dockets in many weeks faced Judge Louis G. Cooper in this morning's session of county court, and work was completed long before the usual hour. Asked why the docket is so small these days, Clerk J. F. Harrington said violators of the law are alarmed at the way the court is dealing out long road sentences, and are making an effort to stay out of trouble as long as possible. Solomon Adams, colored man charged with larceny, was sentenced to six months in jail, to be assigned to work on the county roads, as advised by county commissioners. Leon Harvey, who appeared on a charge of larceny also, drew a total of six months on the roads.

The rot will have to be gotten out of Ireland before economic conference will be a dying proposition.

The slogan of North Carolina this year should be "more crops." This should be much better if the farmer raises his own meat and foodstuff.

The government apparently is afraid to refuse Italy's invitation to attend the Genoa conference. This is strange indeed, and causes many to believe there's a nigger in the woodpile somewhere, overworking himself.

More intensive cultivation of tobacco and cotton crops will be absolutely necessary this year, and the farmer that fails to observe the warning will be the one to come out loser in the end.

Farmers should be gratified at the action of the county in purchasing a moving picture machine with which to combat ravages of the boll weevil. This is one of the most effective ways to fight the pest, and the farmer that takes advantage of the information presented by the pictures will derive great benefit.

It is generally believed the courthouse lawn and streets should be improved, and the commissioners should take note of the fact and reconsider their recent decision not to make the improvement.

Greenville people responded liberally to the Jewish relief campaign and have reason to be proud of the splendid showing which they made. The cause is one of the greatest the American people have had an opportunity of subscribing to, and it is gratifying indeed that Pitt county should have contributed so liberally.

That fellow in Orlando, Fla., who let someone fleece him out of six thousand dollars cash despite pleadings of his banker, deserved his fate. A man that invests his money contrary to the sound advice of his banker isn't capable of handling that much money and should lose it and be forced to go to work again.

The house shortage is acute in North Carolina as other states, and the necessity for more extensive building operations was never greater. The shortage should be supplied by homes owned by the laboring man himself.

Senator Miller thinks Ford should be required to control fertilizer produced at Muscle Shoals until it reaches the farmer. That's a mighty fine suggestion and should result in an enormous saving to the farmer.

Bethel has gone to work on the proposal to establish a potato storage warehouse for its farmers, and from all indications it is to be the first locality to derive any benefit from the venture.

Greenville Kiwanians last week paid glowing tribute to the late Professor Claude Wayland Wilson, and expressed the high esteem in which he was held. Mr. Wilson was for many years one of the prominent figures in the religious, educational and social life of the community, and his loss is keenly felt by all organizations of which he was a member.

A BAD PREDICAMENT.

The average small farmer who constitutes the vast majority of the 6,000,000 tillers of the soil in this country is not so hard hit as the calamity cry going the rounds would lead the rest of the people to think, in the opinion of some of the big dealers in farm properties.

It is the one-crop farmer who is doing most of the wincing these experts say. They put their money in high-priced land and depended on grain, cotton, tobacco or live stock. They have been up against it pretty hard; but the small farmer with his diversified crops is getting along pretty well.

The notion that the whole farming population of the United States is down in the dumps because the big one-crop growers have voiced their complaints so emphatically is characterized by E. A. Strout, President of the Strout Farm Agency, Inc., as "a false impression."

"What is undoubtedly true of a certain class of farmers has been made to appear as true of all engaged in farming," said Mr. Strout. "The average small farmer is pretty well off when compared with men in almost any other industry in the country today. There are a good many families in the cities and industrial towns whose wages have given them a mighty scant living in the past year."

"As compared with them the farmer producing diversified crops which is true of the majority, is in a pretty comfortable position."

"The high cost of labor cuts a very small figure where he is concerned, for only 7 per cent of all the farms in this country employ hired labor."

"On the average dairy farm there are from eight to twelve cows and practically all the work is done by members of the owner's family. A good deal of the feed for the stock is produced on the farm and, in addition to the dairy products, he generally has eggs, poultry, etc., that can be sold as readily in the local markets as can milk, cream and butter."

"I know of one farm in Orange County, New York which keeps ten cows and 1500 hens which produced an income of $1000 in December and the year of 19 years did practically the same work. That farm had a good balance on the right side of the ledger every month last year."

"The price of the land is a big factor in the farmer's economic problem. Many men operating on high-priced land have suffered a setback. Many a small farmer growing sweet corn on land that cost him $35 to $50 an acre is earning more per acre on his low-priced land than is the one-crop corn farmer in Iowa on his $300 land."

"There's more than one side to this farm proposition and it is not all pessimism. There are a lot of optimists among the millions of farmers, but you are not hearing much from them just now. The other fellow has the stage."

The country still has a number of get rich quick stock sellers ready to fleece the poor man out of every cent he has, so everyone should be on their guard and discourage the operations of such people as much as possible. State laws have caused the fake stock selling to fall off greatly the present year, and the future should see even a more favorable change. Many people are today suffering the results of purchasing worthless stock during the inflation period, and are glad the state has taken action in their interest.

The irreconcilables should feel better now they have the consolation of knowing the party has credit of establishing world peace — and throwing thousands of men out of employment.

DORA MARIE KENDALL

"Precious in the Sight of the Lord is the Death of His Saints."

On Sunday morning, February 5th, at 6:24 a. m. at Scarritt Bible and Training School, Kansas City, Missouri, the life of Dora Marie Kendall passed from this world to her Heavenly Home.

She was taken ill on Sunday, January 29th, and by the following Tuesday influenza-pneumonia had developed. Her loved ones were notified of her illness and two capable nurses and doctors ministered unto her wants. She seemed to realize from the beginning of her illness that her time on earth was short, and she sent loving greetings to her friends and loved ones at her conscious moments. She died doing what had been her life-long desire, preparing herself for greater service in the kingdom of her God.

Her life at Scarritt was one of utmost unselfishness. She was always doing something to brighten the lives of those with whom she came in contact. Her cheery voice and winning smile won for her the love of all who knew her. Her sweet Christian influence and the memory of her life linger in the building as the fragrance of the rose lingers after the blossom has passed. At three o'clock on Sunday afternoon, the Memorial service was held in the Chapel where she so often had worshipped. The beautiful white casket was covered with white lilies, so symbolic of her life, from her Junior Class and pink rose-buds from the Senior class and carnations from friends. The service was conducted by President Cunningham and Dr. Duncan, her Sociology teacher and a minister of God, read the burial service from the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians, Dev. W. C. Bewley, pastor of the Olive Street Methodist church of the city, where she had so actively assisted in the Sunday school, prayed a prayer of commemoration, asking God's blessing on her class of small boys and her loved ones and friends in their bereavement. The people of the church, where her life had meant so much, were in deep sorrow when they heard of Dora's death and knew that her sunshiny smile would never again greet them. After the prayer, the students sang that beautiful hymn, "Angels of Jesus, Angels of Light" and their voices were husky and their eyes wet with tears, for their hearts were sad over the passing of their little class-mate and friend. Miss Gibson, principal emerita of Scarritt, whose lovely character was ever an inspiration to Dora, then gave a sketch of her beautiful life and spoke words of comfort to her sister, Mrs. Crisp, whose heart was so torn in sorrow. She pictured Dora's first Sunday in Heaven and her joy at being with her God and maker over there. She said that the Scarritt girls would never forget her active Christian life and were the richer for having known her here. Miss Lucy Bouldin, a close friend of Dora sang "Face to Face" which song Dora greatly loved. The pall-bearers, who bore her body out of the Chapel, were three roommates, Misses Betty

Bass, Eva Phillips and Mabel Jiston, her two nurses and school-friends, Misses Edna Pothoff and Mary McCann and a chum, Miss Grace Urie.

"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a Crown of Life." —Scarritt's Bible Training School. Scarritt's Bible Training school was established about thirty years ago and Miss Kendall's death was the second one to take place at the school.

TEACHERS FIND FLAWS IN TWELVE HISTORY BOOKS

San Urged Put on Text Books Until Alleged 'Unamerican' Bias is Removed

(By International News.)

New York.—Twelve of the 14 American history text books listed for use in the city's schools have been found objectionable by superintendents and teachers who investigated them because they contained references in disparagement of American heroes or in extenuation of British policies.

The committee has asked Superintendent William I. Ettinger to suggest to the board of Education that the books be modified before any more are requisitioned.

The following were the books which the committee found to contain objectionable passages.

"History of the American People," by Willis Mason West," published by Allen & Bacon in 1818. "A History of the United States for School," by McLaughlin and Van Tyne, published by D. Appleton & Co., in 1919.

WRIGLEY SEES THE WAY TO PROSPERITY

Declares Nation Has Been on "Business Drunk," But Points Way to Sobriety

By WILLIAM WRIGLEY, JR.

Copyright, 1922, by the International News Service.

William Wrigley, Jr., multimillionaire chewing gum manufacturer, owner of Catalina Island and proprietor of the Chicago Cubs, of the National League, and Los Angeles, of the Pacific Coast League, was asked two questions by the International News Service. These were: 1. Are better times in sight for the United States? 2. How can the average individual help in restoring prosperity?

Mr. Wrigley, who pays experts in every part of the country to keep him reliably informed on the business situation, sounded an optimistic note in his reply, which follows here-with. "The good old American dollar is coming back," he says Here is his statement:

Chicago, Feb. 11.—My large investments necessarily compel me to keep close tab on the country's economic situation and I am glad to say I am in a business getting better in the East and that this condition is spreading to the Middle West by degrees.

From all that I can learn the good old American dollar is coming back into its own. People from one end of the nation to the other are getting around to the idea that the only basis for real prosperity is an honest day's work for a fair day's wage.

The United States considered as a whole, has been on a "business drunk" for the last five years. Prices, up to recently, were out of all sense and proportion for the value received. Some fellows fell into a habit of charging three times what a thing was worth and when some poor devil paid they asked wanted to kick them more.

The high value of our dollar has kept the foreign trade of the United States from expanding. However, I am selling more chewing gum in Europe as each month goes by and I believe other American products will show a like gain in foreign favor.

What's Beneath the Pretty Surface of Your Shoes?

Which is almost as much of a puzzle as what may be in a pretty woman's mind.

A month or two ago an Englishman visiting this country proclaimed he KNEW WOMEN. He is the only one we ever knew who even remotely believed so. We have to be pleased with their beauty and discover the rest.

Nor are there many who know what lies beneath the beautiful surface of a shoe—and sometimes appearances lie something awful. The only safe way is to choose your spring shoes from a merchant who says that if any imperfection appears, he will cheerfully make good.

The style shown here is one of the favorites for this spring. But this is just one of a dozen others we are showing now.

MINERS STARVE AS WORK IS HALTED

Coal Diggers Are Desolate Because of Idle Mines During the Past Two Years

(By International News.)
Athen, O.—Nurses and other relief workers who have penetrated into the coal mining camps of the hills in the Hocking Valley report literally hundreds of cases of destitution among the families of the coal diggers. Families have been found, scores of them with no food in the cupboard; barefooted children in rags, huddling around wood fires, as they have no fuel coal.

Reports from Columbus indicate that several thousand dollars for relief have been sent into the Hocking district by the union miners' organization, but this has not gone far. Merchants in mining towns have carried the men "on their books" until the danger point was reached and passed long ago. The State Highway department is providing work for several hundred men in the Murray City district, the miners working in three-day shifts. Reports yesterday from Buchtel stated that at least half of the 1,200 people of that village are in need. There has been about six months' work in that district in the past two years.

No mines about Athens are working save those which have received orders for railroad coal, and every mine of this sort is crowded with men as the turns are shared. These mines are working perhaps two or three days a week. The savings of the miners were long since exhausted. Operators report that they have no orders, and many of the mines have been closed, pumping stopped, and water is filling the works.

A railroad tapping the West Virginia coal field to the south extends the full length of the Hocking field, and its tracks are daily filled with loaded coal trains. Production in the Hocking field, however, has dropped to the lowest point in several decades.

EXPORTS IN JANUARY LOWEST IN MONTHS

Washington, Feb. 13.—Exports for the month of January aggregated $279,000,000 and were the lowest since July, according to Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. Imports amounted to $216,000,000.

The Cowless, Sowless, Henless Farm

(By JOHN FIELDS
Editor Oklahoma Farmer)

It is a fact that those who control land and credits largely determine what farmers do. Whatever is the matter with agriculture in the South today, responsibility for most of it, rests with the landowners, bankers, and credit merchants of the South.

A study of reports of conventions and conferences to consider the state of Southern agriculture leads to the conclusion that, hitherto, they have been long on oratory and short on operation. The end to be sought was never better expressed than by Henry W. Grady, when he said:

"When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields, and meat from his own pastures and disturbed by no creditor and enslaved by no debt, shall sit amid his teeming gardens and orchards and vineyards and dairies and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus and selling it in his own time and in his chosen market and not at a master's bidding—getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt but does not restore his freedom—then shall be the breaking of the fulness of our day."

Those sentiments so beautifully expressed are always applauded wherever quoted—and that is all.

Dr. Seaman A. Knapp started the agricultural demonstration work in the South and laid the foundation for its agricultural rejuvenation. Among his Ten Commandments of Agriculture are these:

Increase the farm stock to the extent of utilizing all the waste products and idle lands of the farm.

Produce all the food required for the men and animals on the farm.

On many occasions he reiterated, One of the foundation principles of our work is that the farmer should raise the food for the family and for the farm stock so that his principal cash crop may be all profit.

Those who have been carrying on the agricultural demonstration work in the South have failed to obtain the results for which Dr. Knapp hoped. That cotton farmers generally have not been influenced by agricultural oratory and have not practiced these sound precepts is clearly shown by some recent reports of the Bureau of the Census. The table shows the number of farms in each 100 farms in the cotton states, which raised no calves and which raised no pigs in 1910:

|                | Pct. calfless | Pct. pigless |
|----------------|---------------|--------------|
| North Carolina | 62.8          | 62.9         |
| South Carolina | 63.0          | 62.7         |
| Georgia        | 56.4          | 57.6         |
| Alabama        | 46.2          | 54.1         |
| Mississippi    | 47.9          | 52.5         |
| Louisiana      | 57.6          | 54.7         |
| Texas          | 46.5          | 61.6         |
| Arkansas       | 48.2          | 53.7         |
| Tennessee      | 35.4          | 45.4         |
| Oklahoma       | 35.3          | 56.3         |

Oratory has been ineffective. Demonstration has failed to do the job. The men who have controlled land and credit in the cotton states have to a large extent blocked the earnest work which county agents and home demonstration agents have been doing. Bankers and merchants have put up money for calf clubs, pig clubs, and poultry clubs because it has been fashionable—quite the thing to do so. It gave them good standing in agricultural society. They sought to buy agricultural development and prosperity. Yet in their daily work of passing upon farmers' credits, these same bankers and merchants have continued putting emphasis on cotton and numerous children to pick the cotton without pay.

John Burroughs wrote: "Where the cow is, there is Arcadia; so far as her influence prevails there is contentment, humility and sweet homely life." All of us join in campaigns to induce city children to drink more milk, but we give no thought to the fact that more than one-third of the children living on the cotton farms of the South do not know what milk tastes like—they haven't tasted it since they were weaned. Instead of being sustained and strengthened by a drink of nutritious milk when weary with chopping cotton, they are juiced up with a dose of chill tonic and told to hop to it.

Here are the plain facts of the business:

If every farmer in the cotton states had, in 1920 and 1921, fed and milked one cow; bred and fed one sow and fattened and killed and cured the meat from her litter; and made full use of what two dozen hens, assisted by a rooster, would have produced, things would be very different now.

If bankers and merchants had not have at least one cow, one sow, two dozen hens and a rooster, and a rental contract under which the landowner provided suitable shelter for livestock and permitted the production of food on a share-crop basis, few landowners, cotton farmers, bankers, and merchants would be in trouble now. Having gotten into a variety of difficulties through financing cotton farmers upon what has been proved conclusively to be the reverse of a money-making basis, isn't it time to insist that they put their farming on a living-making basis first before raising any cotton?

I am sure that the time to do this is now. You can't buy your way out of the present situation. You must work your way out. As a starter, when any farmer comes to you for credit and confesses that he hasn't a cow, a sow, and a flock of hens, you should register amazement, astonishment, surprise, apprehension, dismay, solicitude and consternation; get red in the face and pound the table at the very thought that any farmer who has neglected to supply himself with this minimum of family-feeding livestock should think that he can get from you credit on which to make a cotton crop.

Then calm down and talk it over with him and try to get him started as cheaply as possible, with livestock which may be purchased locally, impressing him with the fact that regular feeding and care are as important as breeding in getting profitable returns. A cow, a sow, two dozen hens and a rooster, properly cared for, will produce more food before next fall than their present cost will buy. If you have customers or tenants who must be fed until they make a crop with which to pay interest on the old notes and accounts you can't feed them more cheaply than by putting them in the way of feeding themselves with the products of livestock which should be on every farm.

Farming should first of all be based on plans which make of it a living, making cinch instead of merely a money-making chance. Those who control credits in agricultural communities can not escape responsibility for the disaster which inevitably comes from unsound farm practices.

GREAT SUM IS PAID FOR SOLDIER RELIEF

In Past Year $489,000,000 Spent to Assist One Million Men Disabled in the War

(By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Feb. 8.—The sum of $489,000,000 was spent in the past year by the United States government in the care of its former service men, according to an announcement by the Veterans' Bureau.

This vast amount was expended on approximately 1,000,000 veterans who served America during the world war either on foreign or on home soil.

Not only did the government, in its rehabilitation program, pay its veterans insurance but also placed them in hospitals, universities or trade schools, or furnished them when the opportunity for practical experience in scores of occupation. In addition to the educational facilities Uncle Sam provided for his wounded ex-service men; he also paid them a "living wage" during the period of rehabilitation.

According to director of veterans' bureau, Forbes, the government in the last year provided vocational training for 104,000 veterans, had 598,797 insurance holders on its roll, which, incidentally, equals the number of beneficiaries of the largest insurance company in the world; had 28,000 soldiers patients in government institutions and hospitals and handled over 245,000 claims of ex-service men.

Want Disabled Satisfied.

A "clean-up" campaign, designed to reach every disabled veteran in the country who was not satisfied with a disability rating, to reach those whose claims were pending and to establish contact with those disabled veterans who, although entitled to compensation, had not made application for it, was one of the first undertakings of the Veterans' Bureau. More than 85,000 claims were handled as a result of this campaign, the Bureau states, and less than 3,000 of these claims remain pending adjudication.

The first government-owned vocational training school was established during the year at Chillicothe, Ohio, where ex-service men are being taught trades and some forms of agriculture. This school, it is explained, is still in the experimental stage, but if it proved a success similar schools will be established throughout the country, according to the bureau.

Mariners May be Trained.

Plans for the establishment of a nautical school for the training of veterans in the Merchant Marine, for which President Harding has approved the allocation of four Shipping board vessels for the training of the men, are being considered. The school, it is said, will in all probability be established in the near future. The double purpose of having trained ex-service men in a gainful occupation and at the same time having greatly aided the Merchant Marine will have been gained, the bureau points out.

500 MONKEYS USED IN BATTLE AGAINST "FLU"
New York.—Five hundred monkeys, imported as needed from South America and Africa, were used during the last three years in experiments in which the new vaccine against pneumonia was developed, according to Dr. William H. Park, of the Health Department. The monkeys were used as part of a nation-wide campaign of research work on the subject of influenza and pneumonia.

Among other things the experiments showed that the invisible, unidentified organism which causes "flu" can pass through a stone wall. The experiments were conducted principally by the public health service in Washington and by the local health department.

On my first official visit to Nashville I was somewhat fatigued and was escorted to the judge's room, where I proceeded to take a few moments rest before the opening of court. After taking off my coat I stretched out on the overstuffed lounge and soon began to doze, but was quickly aroused by a harsh voice demanding: "Look a-here, young feller, what you doin' all sprawled out on dat lounge; whar yer cum from any how, and don yer cum dis room is 'disively' fer de judge?"

Judge Horton good-naturedly attempted to convince the old soul that he was in his proper place, and replied: "Auntie, I am the judge."

The old woman, with amazement, after dropping her dust-pan and feathers, put her hands on her hips akimbo and looked the judge square in the face and replied: "You're as much uv judge as Ah am de queen of Sheby, and take it from me young feller, if yer doan git 'n move on you and dat mighty quick Ah'll put Sheriff Cornwell on yer."

At this juncture Sheriff Cornwell came along and poured oil on the troubled waters.

PUTS ONE OVER ON JUDGE HORTON

Negro Mammy Custodian of the Judge's Room Had to Be Convinced

(News and Observer.)

Wilson, Feb. 10.—Judge J. Lloyd Horton, North Carolina's youngest judge, after holding his first Wilson court, was asked by one of the oldest residents what he thought of Wilson's temple of justice.

"I wouldn't like to express my opinion, but will say that with the progress Wilson county is making the public is entitled to something better than the old pile of brick and mortar that has long since served its purpose."

Continuing, His Honor said: "Speaking of court houses reminds me of how all old negro mammy put one over on me just before taking my seat on the bench at Nashville last week. Nash county now boasts of one of the most magnificent court houses in eastern Carolina and the negro janitress keeps everything in apple-pie order. There is a special room known as the judge's room where no one but the presiding judge and court officials are allowed to enter. This room is handsomely furnished and the old mammy keeps it as neat as a new pin.

"On my first official visit to Nashville I was somewhat fatigued and was escorted to the judge's room, where I proceeded to take a few moments rest before the opening of court. After taking off my coat I stretched out on the overstuffed lounge and soon began to doze, but was quickly aroused by a harsh voice demanding: "Look a-here, young feller, what you doin' all sprawled out on dat lounge; whar yer cum from any how, and don yer cum dis room is 'disively' fer de judge?"

Judge Horton good-naturedly attempted to convince the old soul that he was in his proper place, and replied: "Auntie, I am the judge."

The old woman, with amazement, after dropping her dust-pan and feathers, put her hands on her hips akimbo and looked the judge square in the face and replied: "You're as much uv judge as Ah am de queen of Sheby, and take it from me young feller, if yer doan git 'n move on you and dat mighty quick Ah'll put Sheriff Cornwell on yer."

At this juncture Sheriff Cornwell came along and poured oil on the troubled waters.

500 MONKEYS USED IN BATTLE AGAINST "FLU"
New York.—Five hundred monkeys, imported as needed from South America and Africa, were used during the last three years in experiments in which the new vaccine against pneumonia was developed, according to Dr. William H. Park, of the Health Department. The monkeys were used as part of a nation-wide campaign of research work on the subject of influenza and pneumonia.

Among other things the experiments showed that the invisible, unidentified organism which causes "flu" can pass through a stone wall. The experiments were conducted principally by the public health service in Washington and by the local health department.
