(By International News)

Washington, Feb. 20.—The United States faces an era of prosperity of longer duration than the country has ever known, Governor Harding of the Federal reserve board, told congress in an annual report containing a diagnosis of business conditions.

Linked with the review of finances was a short statement showing the country has about reached the end of deflation which has decreased loans of Federal reserve banks to a billion, five hundred million dollars.

JAPANESE PLAY GIVEN BY PUPILS AT THE COLLEGE

Interesting Play Presented by Advanced Class of Students Last Night

The advanced college class of East Carolina Teachers college last night presented a charming Japanese play "The Flower of Yedo," in honor of the Pitt County Alumnae association, Miss Virginia Pigford was the poet Kami, who was tested by the lady of his heart and poems, Sainara, whose part was taken by Miss Lois Haskins. Her friends Sazhima and Djourou who are disguised as Musume and Tziphoon, Misses Gertrude Chamberlain and Orene Hollowell, assist her with the test. Misses Chamberlain and Haskins were dainty and charming Japanese maidens.

Miss Chamberlain played the part of the charmer testing his loyalty in a delightful manner. It will be remembered that Miss Chamberlain starred in the senior play two years ago, then captivating her audience, as she did last night.

Miss Haskins was a charming Japanese maiden. Miss Hollowell acted well the part of the pretended late lover.

Miss Ruby Evans who is attending Atlantic Christian college spent the week-end with her mother.

DEATH OF NEGRO WOMAN INVESTIGATED BY CORONER

Acting Coroner F. A. Edmundson Saturday afternoon conducted an inquiry into the death of Mary Bullock, colored woman who died in a mysterious way at her home across the river from this city last week. The investigation resulted in a verdict that the woman came to her death from natural disease. It was thought by some that she died from drinking poisoned well water, but that was definitely set aside by facts in the inquiry.

COUNTY BOYS AT STATE UNIVERSITY ENJOY A SMOKER

Dink James Delivers Opening Address Before Fourteen Classmates at University

(By ROY CORBETT) Chapel Hill, Feb. 20.—"One of the greatest needs of Pitt county is the education of its children, and the boys who are at the university should direct their courses while here, not with the idea of becoming intellectual pillars, but with the idea of being of service to Pitt county when we go back there," said Dink James one of the members of the Pitt County club at a smoker held in the club room of the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The boys assembled in the club room at nine o'clock and after the speech of Dink James who was called on for a short talk by the president, brief discussions of various topics were enthusiastically entered into by the members of the club, Dr. W. S. Bernard, formerly from Pitt county, was to be the speaker for the afternoon, but was unable to fill the engagement, so the boys had to do all the speaking.

As the time was passing away the president suggested that the "cats" be brought in. There were two kinds of sandwiches, fruit, ice cream and cake, and plenty of smokes.

This was the first get together meeting of this quarter, and although some of the boys were out of town, the smoker was thoroughly enjoyed by the fourteen lucky ones who were there.

COLORED MAN OF PACTOLUS SECTION IS KILLED BY BOY

Harvey Little, Age 32, Shot and Killed in Altercation With Robert Redding

CORONER'S INQUEST RESULTS IN DIRECT MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Inquest Conducted With Much Difficulty Because of Absence of Any Witnesses

Robert Redding, 14 years old colored boy of the Pactolus community, is under $500 bond today for his appearance at the next criminal term of superior court on a charge of killing Harvey Little, colored man of the same community. The killing occurred Saturday afternoon about 6:30 o'clock. Redding is said to have fired one time with a .32 calibre revolver, the ball passing through Little's head above the eye, producing instant death.

An inquest was conducted by acting coroner, F. A. Edmundson—between 12 and 2 o'clock Saturday night, the jury sometime later returning a verdict of manslaughter. There were no witnesses to the tragedy, and the coroner had much difficulty in completing the case.

The cause of the shooting was not determined at the inquest, but it is generally believed the two men were drunk, and that the shooting resulted from an altercation.

Little was about twenty-two years of age, and had resided in the Pactolus community the most of his life. He was employed as a farm hand, as was his assailant.

The case in all probability will come up for consideration at the next term of criminal court to be held in this city next week.

The committee will probably recommend acceptance or rejection of the Ford offer before congress this week. Representatives of the Alabama Power Company are yet to appear on the counter offer, it was said.

REV. C. H. BASCOM DELIVERS SERMON TO LOCAL PYTHIANS

Pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church Speaks on Subject of "Christian Manhood"

Rev. C. H. Bascom delivered a splendid sermon to members of the local Pythian lodge at St. Paul's Episcopal church in this city last night. The minister spoke on the subject of "Elements of Christian Manhood," his text being taken from Micah 6:8, "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

Before the sermon Mr. Herbert Waldrop spoke of the anniversary of the Pythians, celebrated by the services, giving the following declarations of Pythian principles, recently adopted by the supreme Knights of Pythians:

Pythian Knighthood had its conception in the exemplification of the best of true friendship existing between Damon and Pythias.

Friendship, or mutual confidence, being the strongest bond of union between man and man, and only existing where honor has an abiding place, is adopted as a foundation principle.

As the ideal knight of olden time was the personification of all the higher and nobler attributes of man's nature, the candidate for knighthood had to prove himself worthy of acceptance by those who valued friendship, bravery, honor, justice and loyalty.

The order of Knights of Pythias—founded in friendship, charity and benevolence, which it proclaims as its cardinal principles—strives to gather into one mighty fraternity worthy men who appreciate the true meaning of friendship; who are cautious in word and act; who love truth, who are brave in defending right; whose honor is unimpaired; whose sense of justice will prevent, to the best of their ability, a personal act or word injurious to the worthy; whose loyalty to principle, to family, to friend, to their country and to the constituted authority under which they enjoy citizenship is undoubted; and who, at all times, are prepared to do unto others as they would that others should do unto them.

"My friends, it is a pleasure for me to extend to you a most cordial and hearty welcome to this House of God, and in the participation in the joys and privileges of our common worship," said Mr. Bascom in the beginning of his sermon. "I am most naturally inclined to say that I wish that such a goodly portion of men might fill our churches every Sunday morning and thereby the manliness and solidarity and power of our Holy Faith, be duly emphasized in the face of the present day spirit of religious indifference. Church attendance is but one of the signs—an outward sign of a man Christian character and his absence from divine worship on the Lord's day is not always a sure indication that his heart is not right, or that his life and conduct are at variance with the fundamental principles of the Christian religion but his continuous absence therefrom is certainly an indication that his habits are well formed in other directions."

In discussing the duties of the people to the church, Mr. Bascom said in part:

"He that loveth his life shall save it" is an axiom written large on the pages of human history. Self-abnegation and thought for others is the basic principle and starting point of religion and social law. Men are inherently and preeminently religious and social beings. We are by nature, born in the relationship of brothers, for in the soul we bear the Image of a Common Creator. God, Human Life, therefore, from its inception is destined to play its part in the worlds social activities. We are ordained of God to determine the character and highest destiny of that filial relationship. In His wisdom, God was pleased to create and mould us from a common clay—but He also saw fit to inhabit that mortal and material frame with natures and dispositions as varied and opposite as the particle of what it is composed. No two beings in this world are alike in every particular, but in every human heart there is that delicate chord of sympathy which will vibrate at the touch of sorrow or distress in the hearts of

LOCAL ROTARIANS CELEBRATE THEIR ANNIVERSARY HERE

President Winslow Writes Letter to Mayor Clark, Assuring Him of Club's Support

February 20, 1922. The Hon. D. M. Clark, Mayor, City of Greenville, Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: Rotarians in twenty three nations of the world are celebrating this week the seventeenth anniversary of the founding of our organization. We are enjoying our birthday party and that is the reason we are reversing the conventional order of things and writing you a letter today.

Whatever achievements marks the history of the past seventeen years is due entirely to, and its ultimate worth is measured by, the manner in which we have lived up to our creed that "He Profits Most Who Serves Best."

We wish to extend, through you, to the community and the organization which you have the honor of representing, our most cordial greetings. We think of no more fitting way of celebrating our birthday than that of sending to you a most formal and official assurance of the Rotary club of Greenville that its members, as citizens of this community, have a very keen interest in the welfare of the city.

We wish to reiterate something of which you already may be aware: this Rotary club very earnestly—but at the same time with a broad and happy smile on its face—wishes to make to you its annual renewal of a pledge which has been implied in many of its previous actions.

The pledge: We stand ready to cooperate to the very best of our ability, and in the most practical and effective way known to business men, with every other organization in this city in helping to make this the best town in the best State in the best nation in the world.

COUNTY PEOPLE GIVE LIBERALLY TO RELIEF DRIVE

Jewish Relief Campaign Closed Saturday With Forwarding of Funds to State Headquarters

The Jewish relief campaign was brought to a conclusion in this city Saturday afternoon when Dr. Alfred Schultz, county chairman mailed state campaign headquarters a check for over $1300. The check did not include contributions from Farmville and Ayden, which swelled the entire county fund to approximately $1600, or $600 over the county apportionment.

Dr. Schultz Saturday afternoon received contributions amounting to $60.65 from J. H. Brooks, chairman of the committee at Grimesland. This swelled the funds to no little extent and reflected great credit on the thrifty, enterprising spirit of Grimesland people. It is expected other amounts will be sent in by belated subscribers, and though they will be late, Dr. Schultz will be glad to receive them.

The campaign has been even a greater success than at first anticipated, and Dr. Schultz Saturday afternoon expressed appreciation of the splendid services rendered by committees in all parts of the county. The way they rallied to the call for aid was wonderful, he declared, and speaks in glowing terms of the splendid sentiment prevailing for the suffering millions in eastern Europe.

The Grifton fund was subscribed by the following: Methodist church, $10; G. A. Clark, 50c; W. W. Proctor, $10; R. M. Elks $1; J. H. Brooks, $5; V. A. Jackson, $1; Fred W. CIVIL SESSION OF SUPERIOR COURT OPENS HERE TODAY

MANY UNIMPORTANT ACTIONS TO BE HEARD DURING THIS WEEK

It is Expected Work Will Continue With Only Slight Interruption Each Day

The regular February term of Pitt county superior court for the trial of civil cases convened in this city today with Judge E. H. Cramer of Southport, presiding. The docket, as usual, is congested beyond hope of relief within the next several months, but the calendar contains only twenty odd cases which will probably be disposed of during the present term.

Today will be consumed by an examination of the entire civil docket, and it is probable this will result in the clearing off of numbers of actions which have been hanging over from term to term several months. The call of all cases was ordered by Judge Cramer with hope of relieving the congestion as much as possible.

No important actions are involved in the calendar for the present week, and it is expected work will continue with only ordinary interruptions from time to time.

The docket contains the following cases:

It is said that J. C. Overton, negro head waiter at a hotel in Pennsylvania, was commended as register of deeds of the United States treasury. If there's any chance of appointing him, President Harding will certainly do it, not because of any particular qualification, but his racial superiority.

The coming of the boll weevil makes it imperative for cotton and tobacco growers of Pitt county to deal more extensively in cattle raising and the production of food crops in the future. These things are absolutely essential; something consumed by millions of people daily, and of which the market isn't overstocked. Therefore, the importance of more attention to them while things are going good.

The Reflector has been forced to increase its advertising rates because of the enormous expense incurred in giving our patrons the present splendid service. Some may contend that the time for cutting rates has come, but this is without foundation or justice. Our expenses are greater at this time than ever before, because we have put in enough equipment to give the public a paper that is a credit to the town, even though we say it. We hope conditions will become so that rates may be decreased in the future, but this is merely problematical, as our subscription list is of such great proportions that even the paper used to print on involves considerable money weekly. We are doing our best to give our readers something worthy of the county which we have served so faithfully for years, and by proper co-operation will be able to do so better than ever.

GREAT MONEY CROP.

Some real progress has been made by a few enthusiasts in having curing and storage houses built in the Southeastern States in which to save the delicious, sugary Nancy Hall and Porto Rico sweet potatoes, for the late winter and early spring markets.

Sweet potato storage is no longer an experiment, it is a decided success. It not only saves most of the potatoes processed, but improves the eating quality of the potatoes, and they can be kept for several months longer than can these potatoes placed in earthen banks for keeping; and after removal from the storage house they can be transported in good condition for long distances, if necessary. Some experimental shipments have been successfully made to London, England and to Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.

Much more progress has been made in saving sweet potatoes than in marketing those saved, as most of the agencies interested in marketing the potatoes have somewhat naturally looked to the great market centers of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for a market. But those densely populated places and those cities and towns in the surrounding country are well supplied with dry potatoes, known as the Jersey variety, which are largely grown in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia Eastern Shore Virginia and extreme northeast North Carolina.

In the cities mentioned above, the Carolinas and the other Southern States producing the moist varieties of sweet potatoes, will for some years to come, have great difficulty in even getting a chance to compete with the present popular Jersey potato, (Popular with the dealer who has his connections already formed and also with these consumers who are unfamiliar with a better potato) but, eventually, the Nancy Hall and Porto Rico will not only gain favor, but will, I believe, capture these markets, as quality will tell in the long run.

In the meantime, what are we going to do? Are we going to stop the building of storage houses which are saving a fearful economic waste? Are we going to let those potatoes already stored rot in the houses as we have permitted the crop for years to rot in earthen banks? Does the south need new money crops to fill the gap, due to losses caused by the cotton on boll weevil?

I know we are going to continue building houses, and I believe we can find a market for all storage-house potatoes in Southern cities, towns and hamlets, and in the great western country now only partially supplied with sweet potatoes. By keeping potatoes on the local markets almost every month in the year we should be able to double the consumption of this splendid, staple article of food.

When the present condition of this new industry brought to the attention of Chambers of Commerce and boards of trade in the cities and towns, and to the attention of bankers and storekeepers in those places not having business organizations, I feel that the produce dealers and grocers will be called into conference in each community, and that Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs will lend their valuable aid, not only by eating and talking sweet potatoes, but in seeing that dealers in their towns keep them on sale as long as they can be had. And last, but by no means least, the Home Economic Divisions in the several States and Women's Clubs can largely contribute to the accomplishment so much needed and so much to be desired, the making of a money crop out of the Southern Sweet Potato.

The crop is valued on the farms in the southern states, according to U. S. department of agriculture figures for 1921, at seventy-four million dollars, but this means little, for 60 per cent or more of this crop-value rots in earthen banks. Some art of the crop is saved by feeding to livestock, but most of it is lost after being made and harvested. Only a small part of the crop actually reaches the market and brings wealth to the farms for later circulation in all avenues of trade.

We can correct this, and we can make this delicious southern product a money-crop, if you will help. Put your back under the load, and let's go.

Pitt county people who were taken a back set by the rumor that Pitt county would not have a fair this year should have no fear, as we are assured of having one on a larger scale than ever. Promoters of the attraction say it is their purpose of making it better than ever, and that they will do so is assured. The fair can be made one of the greatest in the country if the public will co-operate properly. This desired co-operation can be brought about in various ways, but the most effective must come through agricultural and industrial leaders, who owe it to themselves and the county to make their exhibits measure up to the greatness of the community. If you haven't made preparations for placing something on exhibition; get busy and do so at once while you have plenty time and nothing to worry you.

There are numbers of people opposed to Henry Ford's purchase of Muscle Shoals, but they are not the kind with interest of the south at heart. In fact, one can look over the names of these opponents and readily see that they represent northern interests and would willingly sacrifice anything for their own personal benefit. Mr. Ford, we believe, and the majority of southern people believe, has the south's development at heart, and what he proposes to make out of Muscle Shoals is directly for their benefit. If he isn't given the contract for this property, then the public may rest assured that some ulterior motive actuated the investigating committee to decide against him. We trust, however, this will not be the case, as on this decision rests the future prosperity of this territory.

The movement on foot to establish a union depot in Greenville should be pushed as vigorously as possible, as it is something we are badly in need of if the city is to keep pace with other developments. There are many towns the size of Greenville with such stations, and there is no reason on earth why we should be without one, especially when the poor accommodations which we have been forced to endure so long are taken under consideration. It is hoped the committee will continue to boost the issue until it becomes an actuality.

Pitt county planters should not forget the importance of reducing acreage this year as this is one of the most important matters connected with the planting season. It is a well known fact that conditions will become much more accentuated if acreage is not curtailed and the farmer would be very unwise indeed to disregard the warnings issued by persons well acquainted with the situation. This applies to both cotton and tobacco growers. They are likewise affected, and those who fail to reduce need not expect to enjoy the same prosperity of the man that does.

The prospect of another season of good baseball is very inviting to Greenville people, and it is hoped promoters will get busy in time to get together a strong team before the season opens. While we have been fortunate in securing mighty good players in past years, it is certain we could have gotten better had we started in time, so it is very necessary to begin early if we expect to be one of the prominent contenders, for the pennant. Summer months without baseball would drag away too slow, and those looking for wholesome amusement should get busy and boost our entrance into the Eastern Carolina league in time. Get together, boys, and let's win that old rag the coming season.

With approach of spring house-keepers should be prepared to guard against the fly. This little creature is a menace to every home, and unless properly guarded against will carry filth and disease into hundreds of homes which otherwise would enjoy perfect health. The county health department had an appropriate poem in Saturday's edition of this paper dealing with the fly, and it contained more truth than poetry. If you haven't made preparations against the pest, do so now before it's too late.

Greenville has set a fast pace for other towns of its size by deciding to install the white way system. Rocky Mount and Washington have decided to do likewise, and have asked for information relative to the cost of the Greenville system. This shows what other progressive places think of what we have done, and is evidence enough that the white way is a desirable acquisition.

Rev. C. H. Bascom Delivers

Sermon to Local Pythians
 His fellows. This spirit of sympathy flows through the life of us all. The human soul, therefore, must find its highest good and its greatest happiness—not in the loneliness of its own selfish existence—but in the companionship and association of its kindred and fellow beings. There have been times in the history of the human family when this spirit of filial affection has been submerged in bloody conflicts. Times when great ideas and impulses that have agitated the minds of communities have reported ultimately to the battle-field and the issues of these mortal combats have largely determined the progress of religions, the effect of governments, and the direction and extent of civilization. Yet, there have been and are other great ideas, and human forces that find expression in systems of sacrifice for less violent than that of vicious warfare. The pre-Christian period of world's history, afford many examples of heroic self-sacrifice of men who fought and died for the betterment of the conditions of the times in which they lived. Each period of wave in history has produced its individual star in the person of some great man whose deeds of valor or whose power of intellect gave to that particular epoch its distinctive character. The name of Zoroaster Venerable in the antiquities of primitive philosophy, is honored as the first teacher of the divine principles of charity and benevolence. His teaching was a prototype of Christianity for He taught a faith in a supreme Being, made that faith obligatory on all his followers.

Solon, one of the wise men of Greece, and its celebrated law-giver made for his country and its history a name that is carved eternally in the hearts of her loyal sons. Pythagoras, breathed a new spirit into the life of ancient philosophy which was destined to widen and deepen the scope of human knowledge, and cultivate the fine qualities in the sphere of social activities.

Orpheus-Palto and Heroditus all stand for great and lasting monuments towards higher things in the progress of human thought. These men were great not alone for what they were, in and of themselves, but for what they accomplished in giving to the world, the fruits of their ardent toils and researches. Their life and labor bear witness to the truth that individual self sacrifice is the law of universal progress.

It was impossible for imperialism to hold a permanent sway over the world of nations. The spirit of sympathy in the hearts of the oppressed resulted in mutual effort to relieve the public burden and to help one another bear it. Secret societies were formed for mutual protection and helpfulness and the arts and sciences and the principles of Architecture were carefully and studiously taught thereby creating in themselves aggressive agents of a higher and better civilization. The desire to help one another is the spirit that prompted the organization of secret societies. No one will ever be able to estimate the valuable service such organizations have rendered during the great wars of history.

There is one thing however which we should all remember in our personal understanding of the principles of our fraternity, and that is the one basis upon which those principles rest—namely, your religion—is a man's belief in God and that belief exemplified in his daily life and conduct. You were all asked the same question—at the threshold of your initiation. "Do you believe in God?" you were told that the Word of God, the Bible should be the rule and guide of your Faith and conduct. You were admonished to be true and just in all your dealings. To bear no malice nor hatred in your heart—you solemnly obligated yourself to live to the best of your ability, according to these high and noble principles. Can you not see clearly that they are all based upon your individual relationship and responsibility to God, and that relationship and responsibility constitute your personal religion. It is true that in our social intercourse in the precincts of the lodge no prejudices are permitted to enter—but if there is one danger more than another which is bound to eventually disintegrate the strength and stability of all our fraternal institutions, it is the loss of our personal religion. Our life is not complete my friends until that part of our nature which reflects God's image and keeps open the portals of the soul where God and Love may shine in upon it. The words of the prophet furnish the simplest and yet the most profound formula for any man's daily conduct. "What doth the Lord require of Thee, but to do justly and to love Mercy and to walk humbly with thy God." A commentary on such principles is not necessary. The one thing needful to apply them strictly in all our dealings. It is not in the doing of a few great things that the greatest of a man's real character consists, but in the faithful and constant performance of the many little and simple things of the daily life.

It is not in the doing of a few great things that the greatest of a man's real character consists, but in the faithful and constant performance of the many little and simple things of the daily life. GREENVILLE CLUB TO PLAY BELHAVEN TOMORROW NIGHT

In Event They Win New Bern Will Play Final Game of Championship Series Here Friday

The Greenville basketball team will leave tomorrow afternoon for Belhaven where tomorrow night they will play the second game of the championship elimination series with the high school club of that place. This game promises to be one of the hardest fought of the season, Coach Duncan stated this morning, and Greenville people desiring to see the boys at their best are urged to attend in large numbers.

In event Greenville wins from Belhaven they will play the final game with New Bern at Forbes & Morton's warehouse in this city Friday night. Should they not win lovers of the sport will not be disappointed as arrangements have been made with Ayden to play here the same night.

The first game of the championship series was played here Friday night when Greenville won from Washington. The ease with which they won over the Sailors causes Coach Duncan to believe the showing against Belhaven will be particularly good. The real fight, however, will be staged against New Bern. In event we win the second game, and the boys are determined to win if such thing is possible.

The success of the games largely depends on the support given the local club, so it is urged that as many as possible accompany the club on the trip to Belhaven.

Modern Cruises Brave Loneliness For a Year 1000 Miles From Civilization

(By International News) San Francisco.—The fictional tales of the Swiss Family Robinson and Robinson Crusoe have been outdone on a lonely speck in the Pacific ocean 1,000 miles from the nearest civilization.

The story was brought here by Mrs. Idelle Meng, a real Mrs. Robinson Crusoe, when she arrived by steamer from Honolulu to spend some time with relatives in Texas to recuperate from her experiences. It was a year ago that her husband and a former British army officer, purchased a tract of land on Palmyra Island, far off the beaten track course, 1,000 miles south of Honolulu. Together with Mrs. Meng and his partner, Edward Benner, the little party set out for the island to improve a coconut plantation and engage in the copra industry.

The boat that carried them on their long journey left enough provisions to last six months. Then it departed. In another six months a sampan was to come from a neighboring island with replenishing provisions. But it never came. Day after day the little party scanned the horizon for some sign of a sail, their hunger meanwhile getting lower and lower. They found afterward that the relief boat had been wrecked in a storm while attempting to make the island.

Months passed—three of them. Finally word reached Honolulu of the fate of the relief boat, and in true comic-opera style a United States eagle boat under government special orders, put out from Pearl Harbor for a 1,000 mile rescue trip to the south.

SHOULD HUSBY KISS HIS WIFE IN PUBLIC PLACE?

Opinions of Different Women Vary on the Propriety of Such Exhibitions of Affection

(By International News.)

Milwaukee. — Should a husband ever kiss his own wife in public?

Authorities on etiquette and affairs of the heart may have their opinions on this question. Mrs. Jacques H. Goody Mills, Jr., of New York, who pretends to be nothing more than a wife, certainly has hers.

Mrs. Mills, Jr., feels so strongly that a husband should never kiss his wife in public that she has begun suit for divorce, basing her action on the ground that Jacques, her hubby, kissed her right smack on the lips in view of hundreds of persons who were mere strangers.

The kiss was committed on a New York dock, Jacques being on his way to somewhere or other. She makes no criticism of Jacques' style of kissing, but she intimates, does Mrs. Jacques, that it was impolite and vulgar, to say the least, for a mere husband to subject his own devoted wife to the indignity of public osculation.

Place Not Inviting.

She admits there was no shady nook by a moonlight pool, or any of those cushioned daybeds that appear so romantic under the glow of rose-shaded lamps anywhere around the dock—New York docks at least haven't such things.

But just the same Jacques should have suppressed his osculatory tendencies for his dear wife's sake. Mrs. Jacques insists.

While waiting for the New York courts to decide the question raised by Mrs. Jacques, Milwaukee women are discussing it.

There's Mrs. Helen Raabe, wife of the Curator of the Layton Art Gallery, who calls Jacques a "new Lock-invar."

"I should think his wife would have been overjoyed," said Mrs. Raabe today, referring to Jacques' now famous dock kiss.

"There is not enough of that affectionate impulsiveness in our American men. The wife in this case certainly did not have grounds for divorce. That woman must be super-sensitive."

Mrs. Benjamin Fuelleman, prominent club woman, agrees with Mrs. Jacques that a dock or anything as public is not the place for a husband to kiss his wife.

"Be Given in Private."

"I think caresses between husband and wife should be given in private with no outsider to desecrate the moment," said Mrs. Fuelleman. "I do not think, however, that one would be justified in seeking a divorce because of a public kiss."

Married people should conform to convention, Mrs. John B. Brisbane, of Milwaukee's West Side Mothers' Club, declared.

"Kisses are too sacred to be given in public," she said. However, I do not believe one should sue for divorce because of a public kiss. It is too trivial a happening to bring such drastic action."

"A public kiss between man and wife is not impolite," Mrs. Arche Tegtmeyer, another well-known club woman, announced emphatically.

"Certainly husband and wife have the right to kiss when and where they please. I should think Mrs. Mills would have been more pleased than anything else. She should be glad her husband cared enough for her to let others see it."

FARM-LABOR BLOCS JOIN THEIR FORCES CONTROL ELECTIONS

Eyes of the Tilters' Army Are on the Conference Being Held at Chicago

By J. BART CAMPBELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington.—The thoughts of a great army of toilers of the farm and the workshop are focused upon a conference at Chicago today of progressive-liberal spokesmen for union labor, agricultural and other organizations bent upon "electing the right kind of men," in this year's congressional elections.

The formation of a "farmer-labor bloc" to conserve the "best interests" of the producer, the working man and the consumer, to bring about "an understanding between all people who are genuinely interested in the public welfare," is the purpose of the conference which was called by some of the foremost leaders of organized labor, it was stated.

William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, and others prominently identified with the so-called "progressive wing" of the American Federation of Labor who are taking an active part in the conference, repudiated the suggestion that they had the formation of a "third party" in mind.

"Boring from Within."

"It is the intention of those participating to launch a movement rather for the purpose of 'boring from within, instead of from without,' both the Republican and Democratic parties in the coming congressional primaries and to get behind congressional candidates of either party who can be depended upon to serve the best interests of the common people' in either the senate or House, they explained.

The defeat of members of the senate and house who are regarded as "of the reactionary forces" is also planned, and a nation-wide "drive" is to be undertaken, it was stated, to seat in both chambers men who "are local friends not only of the farmer and of labor but of the great masses of the people."

"We feel that the reactionary forces and special interests which are now in control of every branch of the government are pursuing a policy which has already wrecked American industry and agriculture, causing widespread bankruptcy and nationwide unemployment, and which, if not arrested, is destined to destroy the fundamental principles of liberty upon which this government was established," said Johnston. "We have invited to the conference men and women from all groups of American life who we feel can best express the hopes and desires of those great masses of American people who are suffering from acute economic and financial distress."

M'CORMICK DECLARES DAUGHTER'S SUITOR MUST BE NATURALIZED

Chicago, Feb. 20.—The Swiss riding master must become an American citizen if he weds Mathilde McCormick, daughter of Harold F. "CO-OP" FARMERS JOIN TO SWAY POLITICIANS

(By International News.)

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 20.—Nebraska farmers will have considerable to say about who's who and why in congressional and local elections of this State next Fall. This was indicated today when more than 200 farmer delegates, representing 8,000 Nebraska members of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., met here for the first of a series of similar gatherings to be held in different cities of the State.

From Lincoln the delegates will go to Omaha, thence to Oxford, and wind up their meetings at Sydney, Neb., February 25. At each of these cities time will be divided between discussions of politics and plans for co-operative marketing of the 1922 harvest.
