Conditions may be slightly depressed now, but the man that bucks the line hard is bound to come out a winner in the long run.

Henry Ford has informed congress that he is willing to do any way to get possession of Muscle Shoals, and if they decide against him the public may rest assured that favoritism played a large part in the negotiations. It is generally believed that Mr. Ford is the man for the place. Southern people are confident of it, and are willing to co-operate in every way possible. If congress fails to do as the people desire, then the greatest that Muscle Shoals will ever be able to do will mean nothing to them.

The venereal clinic recently established by the county health department is proving highly successful, according to members of the department, and by proper co-operation the public can make it even a greater success. This disease has gained alarming proportions in this country, and only the most drastic measures can bring about the desired improvement. Pitt county is fortunate in having the clinic and its people should co-operate in making it a greater success.

Coal miners should make an effort to reach an amicable agreement before strike orders become effective, as they cannot possibly derive any benefit from action that will certainly result in a severe tie-up of industry. The time for strikes in this country has passed, and it is the duty of every laboring man to do his part in averting disorders destructive to general business. It would be better for the miners to lose the increase in wages than to bring about a strike of long duration, as they wouldn't miss the extra money, whereas the loss through the strike is inconceivable at this time.

The boll weevil isn't to be given any quarter in Pitt county if the farm department has its way about it. A moving picture machine has been purchased for the purpose of instructing the farmer how to fight the weevil, and if they will abide by it an effective battle may be waged against the pest. These pictures were taken in sections where the boll weevil has already played havoc, and present the various ways to fight him. The farmer should make an effort to co-operate with the farm department in every way possible, as in this way they will be able of accomplishing greater results.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING.

Greenville extended a cordial welcome to members of Group One, North Carolina Bankers, who met in annual session in this city yesterday. This organization is composed of some of the most leading bankers of the state, and the optimism expressed in their addresses should have much to do with conditions existing in this part of the state in the future.

The sentiment of the banker has much to do with the community in which he resides, as he is supposed to have a clear conception of financial conditions, whether they apply to local or national conditions. His word is taken as something of an index to conditions, and what he has to say goes a long way with the majority of people, it matters not what class they may represent.

Group One, of North Carolina bankers, has an influential business man and leader as its president, and the fact that it is a progressive organization is not surprising in the least. W. E. Stubbs, of Belhaven, is well known as a conservative banker throughout the state, and his address yesterday rounded a keynote to the progress of finances in the state. With the support of officers as equally efficient the organization should become even of greater influence in the days to come.

Greenville is always glad to extend the glad hand to such progressive men and leaders of finance, as they generally leave behind them a spirit of optimism that is bound to reflect great good in days to come. This is the second meeting of the organization here, and it is hoped they left with the same high opinion of the town and its people gained in the first convention.

PROSPERITY JUST OVER THE HILL.

America will be as prosperous as you as an individual help to make it. There can be no complete restoration of prosperity until the world's stores of working capital has been re-established. The nation has no wealth other than that owned by its citizens. Saving is not an end in itself. It is of permanent value to the individual and to the nation only when it is followed by the investment of the sums saved in useful and productive enterprises.

Out in Gloucester, Ohio, the other day a patron of the post office purchased four of the New Issue $1,000 Treasury Savings Certificates. Postmaster A. J. Price, of Gloucester, in reporting the sale, said: "Inclosed draft for $3,200, which represents the savings of a patron of this office for the past 22 years. He brought the money to the post office and in the conversation that ensued I was informed that he had been keeping this money in his home and carrying it on his person during all these years."

Within the next five years this investment will yield the Ohio man interest to the amount of $800. Every dollar that you may have hoarded is only serving to retard prosperity. The time has come for the mobilization of the idle dollars of the United States. These slacker dollars will start the wheels of industry moving, and will provide work for the Nation's great army of idle men.

New capital must be provided before the country can enter upon a new era of prosperity. This capital can be provided for the revival of industry only through the savings of the people.

It is high time to banish financial hysteria and industrial anemia from this broad land. We have the richest country on the face of the earth; the nation's finances are sound and its credit is the best in the world. It is the patriotic duty of every good American to get back of the government's Unified Savings program and make the movement a success.

Through the co-ordination of Postal Savings and Treasury Savings activities the government has provided a safe, attractive, and profitable means of providing employment for your savings. Postal Savings Stamps may be purchased for 10 cents each. Ten of these can be converted into an interest-bearing Postal Savings account. Treasury Savings Stamps noninterest bearing, are offered in $1 denominations. Twenty of these can be exchanged for a $25 (maturity value) Treasury Savings Certificate.

USE WEEVIL POISON EARLY.

A rather peculiar situation has developed which promises disappointment to many cotton farmers who wish to poison the weevil this year if some steps are not taken to remedy it. For the past several years various machine manufacturers have been taking up the production of cotton dusting machinery and have turned out limited numbers for the trade which developed. However, they have always been confronted with the fact that many farmers would defer purchasing dusting materials in some vain hope that the weevils were not to be abundant until so late that it was impossible to secure deliveries in time for best results. During the past several months we have been canvassing the results the farmers secured last year, and find too frequent repetition of a statement to the effect that the machines were delayed in shipment and did not reach them until a few days or a few weeks later than the time they were really needed, and consequently poisoning became more expensive and less successful. It is now quite obvious that the spring of 1922 is going to see an abnormally heavy emergence of weevils, and while this may be somewhat offset by summer weather conditions, there is no excuse for delay in securing equipment if you are going to poison the weevils this year. Furthermore, the manufacturers have no means of anticipating just what the demand is going to be and naturally do not feel justified in building a large number of machines on a gamble. The consequence is that machine production will probably more or less keep pace with visible business and there is little prospect of a surplus of machines being prepared and thus placed at the last moment. Our advice is decide now whether or not you are going to prepare to poison, and if you decide to do so, immediately make arrangements for your supply of dusting materials. The price of the various machines has already been announced for the year. The various one-man machines are all between $100 and $125, while the two-man machines practically all range between $250 and $300. These prices are fairly reasonable in proportion to the present value of cotton, and there is little likelihood of reduction. Certainly no sufficient probability to warrant delaying the purchase of equipment.

Considering all features of the situation we feel that we cannot too strongly urge either the purchase of material now or the decision to not attempt poisoning this year.

The disastrous end of the Roman dirigible airship which wrecked at Norfolk with great toll of life, is another indication that this type of ship is not sufficiently perfect for so many people to risk their lives in at such a high altitude. The wreck of the first one in Hull, England, was featured by great toll of life, and should have been a lesson against carrying such large numbers of human beings. It is true that every person takes certain risk in making a trip on any kind of air vessel, but this is no excuse for such large numbers going at one time. The airplane has never resulted in such great loss of life at one time, because they are not capable of carrying so many passengers. It is to be hoped this incident will be a lesson to those inclined to risk their lives when there is no reason for it.

The Pitt county chamber of commerce is an organization which every town in the county should support. It is a medium supposed to represent all of them. Many improvements may come through this source and if the people pull together they can accomplish great things.

Further economic improvement in Europe is reported. It will improve still more if people will get down to work and stop so much fighting and disorder.

BETHEL NEWS

(By Special Correspondence)

Bethel, Feb. 22.—Owing to the shortage of the school funds it has been announced that the school term will be cut at least one month. The teachers of the school came here for a full nine months term and to be cut off in this way will necessarily inconvenience many of them. It has been the aim and effort of the teachers and community to make the school measure up to the standard of the credited State high schools. With the shortening of the term it makes it next to impossible for the teachers to successfully complete the required work for the term. Again the average parent can't understand why this condition exists at this time and will naturally protest against high taxes even though he is told that the forty cent school tax levy, though it should all be collected in the county, would barely be sufficient to pay the teachers salary for the required number of months. When you consider the percent of the tax that is delinquent you will see that the school board is put in an embarrassing position.

The management of the school has made a record for the county and probably the State, in the expense of transportation of children for the year. The lowest record of cost was nineteen twentieths of a cent per day per pupil for one truck for an entire month. The cost for the whole term to date has been about one and a quarter cents per day per pupil. This record is made possible by the dependable drivers that operate the three Reo trucks that bring in the outlying districts.

"The Land of Promise," a melodrama in two acts, will be rendered by local talent in the school auditorium Friday night, February 24th. The plot is gripping and affords many contrasts with present day conditions. The cast is well balanced and will afford a treat in song and laughter.

Mrs. M. O. Blount, who is spending the winter at a health resort in Florida, writes that she is improving rapidly.

Rev. J. P. Harris, pastor of the Baptist church, has announced that on Sunday morning, February 26, he will preach a special sermon to farmers. All farmers and their families are especially invited to be present for this service from the entire community.

Mrs. Whitehurst Dies

Bethel, Feb. 22.—Mrs. R. Robert Whitehurst, who has been in bad health for several years died at her home here last night about nine thirty. Mrs. Whitehurst was forty six years old. At an early age she professed Christ and joined the Methodist church. The funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church here this afternoon by her pastor, Rev. J. S. Green of Parmele, who was assisted by Rev. W. E. Trotman, pastor of the local church. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her going. Her only boy, a deaf mute who is in school at Morganton could not reach here for the funeral service. She was laid to rest in the family burying ground near Leons. The pallbearers were S. M. Jones, J. T. Carson, S. Lewis, J. B. Corey, F. L. Blount, J. L. Nobles.

Election of Officers Feature Final Session of Bankers

Teachers College for their courtesy. A committee was appointed to consider the matter of a central bank and make report of their investigation at next meeting.

The Banquet

The closing feature of the session was the banquet in the beautiful dining hall of East Carolina Teachers College, at which the bankers, guests and ladies numbered fully a hundred and fifty. Before seating, with Pro. J. H. Rose leading, all sang "America" and Rev. C. H. Bascom, of the Episcopal church, made the invocation.

In the midst of a most delightful menu, as can be served only by the ladies of the college, music was rendered by Edmonds orchestra. After enjoying the feast to the utmost, Mr. F. C. Harding, as toastmaster, took charge. He just had things his own way, and without previous warning called on whom he would, assigning no subject but leaving the one called out to talk about what he pleased. The first to rise was C. T. Gardner, of Grifton, who told a good story that fitted his case. H. A. White was full of reminiscences and told of some of Greenville's "has beens" and what is here now. W. E. Stubbs, of Belhaven, came right out and got a good one when called out and got a big share of applause. Dr. J. D. Biggs was absent when first called, and while a little tardy coming in, the toastmaster landed on him and he just bubbled right out with the good times coming when the farmers increase the turnip patch, the collard patch, the potato patch and live at home.

June Rose couldn't resist the opportunity here to ring in "Sweet Caroline," and everybody sang that old favorite with real pep. Kramer, of Elizabeth City, next heard the calling voice, and a good circus story was so joyously received that he had to tell another. J. W. Holmes of Farmville, wanted to argue that he was mis-called, but he delivered the goods and said the bankers will have money bye and bye. H. M. Jones, of Elizabeth City, piled them on so fast that the roars of laughter kept interrupting him.

Woman had her say at the banquet, too, and when Mrs. R. R. Cotton arose in response to the toastmaster's call the applause was so prolonged that it was some moments before she could speak. And the men must take it from us that she excelled them all. Rose had another song up his sleeve and made the assembly stand while "Carolina" rang throughout the hall.

Dr. R. H. Wright, president of the Teachers College, had the closing word. He said this occasion can never be repeated, when we assemble on the second day of the second month of the twenty-second year of the century. He told of George Washington stopping here more than a century ago, and referring to it in his notes said "I took dinner in Greenville, a dirty little town on Tar river." He contrasted this with the beautiful Greenville today and the change that has come since the visit of the father of his country. His chief interest being education of boys and girls, he felt his hearers expected him say something along this line and he told some of the accomplishments of the college with the 7,000 pupils enrolled since its doors first opened in 1907. He concluded with a description of the great possibilities of eastern North Carolina.

The bankers attending this meeting will have cause to remember their visit to Greenville, and the home folks will remember with pleasure their coming to be our guests.

The following address dealing with "War Finance Corporations" was delivered at the morning session by Charles E. Taylor, Jr., president of the Wilmington Savings & Trust Company, of Wilmington, N. C.:

I appreciate very highly the opportunity of meeting you fellow bankers here today and the privilege of saying a few words to you concerning loans available from the War Finance Corporation for agricultural purposes. I say "a few words" advisedly for this is a day of few words with us bankers. In fact I believe you will agree that the word most used by us, if not the most popular one, for the past year or more has been the word NO. The necessity of constantly having to decline well secured loans from our customers seems to me to make it all important that our borrowing banks should clearly understand and appreciate the facilities offered by the War Finance Corporation in the interest of agriculture. I am convinced that there is either a lack of understanding of the terms under which government funds may be secured by banks, or else a woeful lack of appreciation of agricultural conditions as I view them today.

In the first place, I want to tell you why I feel that our banks should provide themselves with government funds at this time, and will then explain the procedure.

It was not unnatural that all agricultural products should share in deflation. The decline in values of cotton, tobacco, corn, wheat, livestock, etc. was precipitated and disagreeable, but was not out of line with similar decline in market values of other staple commodities such as steel, copper, silks, wool, etc. However, through lack of capital and organized holding and selling agencies, the farmer has not been able to liquidate his indebtedness as in many other lines, with the result that banks in agricultural sections of the country have a carry-over covering a period of more than two years, while the general condition of such banks is less liquid than for many years past. It has been the rule, rather than the exception, that the smaller banks who deal directly with, and "carry" the their indebtedness to correspondents during the fall and winter, as usual, while a great many banks are so extended that they have had to practically discontinue making loans and the farmer is at this time unprovided with money with which to make a new crop. To add to the difficulties of the situation, the advent of boll weevil raises the problem as to what the farmer can plant safely and profitably. Even if you happen not to be in a cotton section, do not think for a moment that the boll weevil is not one of your troubles. Any thoughtful banker or farmer knows that if cotton planting be entirely discontinued and tobacco is turned to as the money crop, there will almost immediately be an over-production and recalcitrant decline in price. It will be a long time, I believe, before we erect any monuments to Mr. Boll Weevil in North Carolina, as was the case in

17th ANNIVERSARY OF ROTARY'S BIRTH

Origin of Rotary

Seventeen years ago, Paul P. Harris, an attorney in the City of Chicago, was tormented with an unmitigated obsession to achieve something of benefit to humanity. The lonesomeness of the large city, the dull routine of business, and the earnest desire to enlarge his circle of acquaintances spurred him into decisive action. He invited three friends to his office—a coal dealer, a mining operator, and a merchant tailor—to whom he deliberately elucidated his idea of forming a club, a unique club that would be wholly different from any other existing organization; a club that would promulgate the spirit of service, make business men better business men, develop a wide acquaintanceship, and afford its members an opportunity to serve society.

This meeting occurred on February 22, 1905, and was the actual arrival of baby Rotary in a world that received her with open arms. Members consisted of one man from each business or profession, who met in rotation at their places of business to discuss various questions that might arise from time to time, and to offer suggestions concerning the welfare of the community. In order to strengthen fellowship, it was unanimously agreed that each member should call the other by his first nickname.

Membership in the Chicago Rotary Club increased very rapidly and just three years after its inception, the second Rotary Club was organized in San Francisco. The worthy movement spread along the Pacific Coast, crossed the continent, and crept north and south on the Atlantic Coast. At the close of the year 1910, sixteen clubs had been organized in the United States.

The initial Convention of Rotary Clubs was held in Chicago in 1910. The "National Association" was formed at this Convention. But, two years later, at the Duluth Convention in 1912, Rotary evolved from a national organization to an international organization.

Rotary has grown more rapidly since 1912 than during the first seven years. Today there are more than one thousand Rotary Clubs in the world with approximately eighty thousand members. Although the greater number are in the United States, the land of its birth, there are now Rotary Clubs in Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Great Britain, Spain, France, Ireland, Cuba, South America, South Africa, the Republic of Panama, Japan, China, India, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippine Islands and many other countries. Inquiries have been received from Holland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, the Falkland Islands and British East Africa, which clearly manifest the far-reaching fame of Rotary.

ROTARY

"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

Rotary Achievements

WHATEVER achievement marks the history of the past seventeen years of Rotary activity is due entirely to, and its ultimate worth is marked by, the manner in which each individual club has lived up to the creed that "HE PROFITS MOST WHO SERVES BEST".

The real achievement of Rotary lies in the way this spirit of service is reflected in the community in which a club has been established. Its activities are varied and numerous and are usually confined to those things which no other organization is formed to accomplish, although some of its greatest achievements, and necessarily its least known activities, have been in promoting work for and with other organizations along the lines which these other organizations are given public recognition of accomplishment. Thus during the great war, Rotarians, nominated by International Headquarters or the local club, at the request of government departments of war work organizations like the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., etc., formed the nucleus ground about which were built many most active and efficient local organizations.

Taking the achievements of all Rotary Clubs in the eastern and western hemispheres, they touch every phase of community life.

Twenty-five thousand boys and girls who had quit school were influenced to return last September through the activity of 114 Rotary Clubs in the "back-to-school" movement which began with the Blackwell, Oklahoma, Rotary Club three years ago. That is just one of the phases of what is termed Boys Work—one of the several special agencies through which practically every club in the international organization has been active.

The principal branches of Boys Work, in addition to the Boy Scout Movement, are: Providing or organizing the community to provide boys' camps, playgrounds and swimming pools; providing surgical treatment for crippled children; giving boys vocational counsel; big brothing under privileged and delinquent boys; establishing dental clinics, etc.

Literally millions of dollars have been expended in boys work activities initiated or pushed to a successful issue by Rotary Clubs and by Rotary Clubs in association with other organizations. For instance, in Buffalo, New York, the sum $500,000 was raised for a high school stadium; in Minneapolis a transportation line for crippled children was established so these children could go to school and the Minnesota legislature acknowledged Rotary as the author and vigorous proponent of its legislation providing for adequate schools for such children. These are but two specific instances of thousands of actual undertakings. Even an approximation of the amount of money involved would be a wild guess, but the monetary value pales to insignificance in comparison with the community service rendered in the development of these activities.

But Boys Work, as stated before, is only one of the many achievements. Second to none in Rotary activities comes community service. Rotary Clubs in many cities have been instrumental in arousing a civic pride and consciousness that has resulted in the preparation and adoption of city-beautiful plans; erection of club houses for soldiers and community settlement houses; the providing of night schools for aliens, and their instruction in the fundamentals of Americanism. Better public highways, "get-together" meetings of farmers and business men, community singing, employment of visiting nurses, safety-first campaigns; in fact, a complete list of the various activities of Rotary Clubs would include nearly every phase of man's endeavor toward making his city, his state, and his country a better place in which to live.

There are innumerable instances where Rotary Clubs have been called upon for service in times of great stress. Probably the most striking example was at the time of the influenza epidemic in the United States and Canada, when many clubs were suddenly called upon to make surveys of hospital facilities, organize available local resources for fighting the epidemic, and securing nurses from less-afflicted communities.

Governing Body of Rotary

The International Association of Rotary Clubs, embracing more than 1 thousand individual Rotary Clubs functions through a Board of Directors which is elected each year at the annual Convention. The directors of the Association are a president, three vice-presidents, and a fifth member who is the outgoing president and who remains as one of the directors for a year after the expiration of his term as president.

The headquarters or central office of the International Association is located in Chicago, and departments are organized here for rendering efficient and individual service to all Rotary Clubs. Constant contact is maintained with district governors and committees as well as with each individual Rotary Club through its officials.

"The Rotarian," a large magazine devoted to Rotary, is published every month. Verbatim proceedings of the International Convention are printed each year in book form. The fact that more than one million copies of reports, bulletins and publications are printed annually will suggest a fair idea of the enormous amount of work handled at the central office of the Association.

Objects of Rotary

To encourage and foster:

High ethical standards in business and professions.

The ideal of SERVICE as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

The active interest of every Rotarian in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of his community.

The development of a broad acquaintanceship as an opportunity for service as well as an aid to success.

The interchange of ideas and of business methods as a means of increasing the efficiency and usefulness of Rotarians.

The recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations and the dignifying of the occupation of each Rotarian as affording him an opportunity to serve society.

GREENVILLE ROTARY CLUBHOUSE

SKETCH OF THE ROTARY CLUB OF GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

By Sam. K. Phillips, Sky-Pilot.

Four enthusiastic "fans," at baseball game at Ayden, four restless spirits and what they talked about on that trip, is the way it all started. Paul Clodfelter, banker, J. B. Kittrell, broker, Dave Clark, lawyer and mayor, Alex Blow, insurance this is the quartette who unconsciously started that day as they came from the ball game and told each other they were dissatisfied with their lives, a movement which brought to Greenville, its Rotary Club. When they parted that night, they had agreed on one thing, they needed some kind of an organization to bring them and their fellows in business, together.

Paul had moved to Greenville from Wilson and Paul knew that Wilson had a Rotary Club. He didn't know much about Rotary, but he had picked up a germ scattered by that Wilson "bunch," and all through the night as he lay awake thinking of what had taken place, Rotary kept coming to him as a possible answer.

The next day he proposed to his companions that they get in touch by phone, with Tom Pettus of the Wilson Club, and investigate Rotary more closely. Later in the day, they saw "Buddy" Gorman, warehouseman, "Bill" Hall, seed and feed dealer, and Ernest Willard, general merchant. "Buddy" had a new Haynes which he wanted to try out, and Ernest wanted to go to Wilson anyhow, so these six decided to cut out the "phone and go in person to Wilson. "Red" Clark found it impossible to go on account of his duties as mayor, but he was present anyhow, in the form of a letter which he wrote in his official capacity, introducing his friends, and stating that they were visiting Wilson in the largest interests of the city of Greenville. Paul has that letter now, and thinks so much of it, that he keeps it in his safety-deposit box at the bank, and refuses to let anybody take it away.

In Wilson, they found Tom Pettus, simultaneously Christian and Rotarian, and so full of both that they always radiate from his person. Tom delivered that otry Service at once. He found "Ajax" Edgerton, another pillar of strength and Demosthenes of the Wilson Club, and all hands, together with other ready Servants, went to the Country Club. After a wonderful conference, in which the six were not only thoroughly inoculated, but were made willing disciples and filled with a "pep" that has never yet failed, request for a Charter through the Wilson Club, was made.

The six came home and went to work. Carefully, earnestly, and enthusiastically, they sought to gather about them some charter members, and held their first meeting on Sept. 18th, 1919, with the following charter members:

- Paul Clodfelter, banker.
- J. B. Kittrell, broker.
- Alex Blow, insurance.
- John Gorman, warehouseman.
- David Clark, lawyer.
- Earnest Willard, retail merchant.
- Wm. L. Hall, feed and seed.
- C. J. Ellen, specialist.
- R. L. Crow, shoes.
- W. H. Dail, Jr., automobiles.
- Jacob Gaskins, farmer.
- R. M. Garrett, leaf tobacco.
- T. T. Hollingsworth, hotel.
- Olthos L. Joyner, real estate.
- James L. Mayo, publisher.
- L. A. Stroud, furniture.
- David L. Turnage, fertilizer.
- C. D. Tunstall, ladies' ready to wear.
- S. B. Underwood, county schools.
- Jasper E. Winslow, live stock.
- Burney S. Warren, druggist.
- P. T. Anthony, wholesale Groceries.

At this meeting, Cicero J. Ellen, specialist, was elected president, and A. L. Blow, Jr., was elected secretary and treasurer. These proved to be happy selections, and the splendid pace which they set as the first officers of the club is an ideal which will be hard to surpass.

Inauguration Day was Dec. 18th, 1919, and the charter, number 565 was presented by District Governor, Rogers W. Davis. One cannot but feel, when he seeks an explanation for the history which follows from this point, that the success of Rotary in Greenville, is due to the fact, that its great program came into the breasts of twenty-two men who were hungering and thirsting for what it had, and sought it, not to be merely in style and have a club like other cities, but sought it because they are Rotary were kindred spirits.

The club immediately began activities along the lines approved by the International Headquarters, and today has a membership of thirty.

The spirit of the club has always been of the finest. It began by pledging itself, not to offer any excuses, when the door of service was opened. It believes in every man turning himself loose in the meeting, formality, long-faces, and everything dead or suggestive of the dying, are absolutely tabooed. It is careful in the filling of all classifications. It steps cautiously in the election of its officers and directors, and yet no clique is permitted to dictate. It has well-planned, interesting programs, and believes to a man in singing from start to finish. It keeps right behind its committee and tries to appoint them judiciously. It believes in starting on time and closing at the appointed hour. It emphasizes its attendance record, winning the cup at Greenville, S. C., in 1920 and immediately planning to win it in 1921, at Norfolk. It stresses the little things that go to make life happy for its members, but keeps its eye upon the big things as well.

One of these big things, has been the erection of a Rotary Home, and it developed this way.

One of these big things, has been the erection of a Rotary Home, a handsome $20,000 building, planned, financed, built, dedicated, and conducted by Rotary brains. It happened this way.

One night Ralph Garrett and Sky-Pilot Sam Phillips were talking about building a church, and Ralph said: "We ought to have a Rotary building for our meetings and program in this burg." Sam said, "Well, you have been building a lot of houses, what's in your head?" They talked together and made some pencil sketches, and agreed that if a building was ever erected, it ought to have a Gymnasium on the top floor for the boy's work committee, Sam being chairman of this committee.

Ralph took these ideas and worked on them, and at a meeting which was held at the Episcopal Rectory, where supper was served that night by the ladies of the Episcopal church, he presented his plans for a building. A general discussion followed; after which he was instructed to have plans made for a building to be called a Rotary Home, where suppers could be held, the members could gather for fellowship and work, and the boys work committee could carry out their plans.

At a later meeting in the new but then unoccupied store of John Horne and Co., Ralph presented his plans, specifications and estimates. The club decided to build. Ralph Garrett, Jasper Winslow and Haywood Dail were appointed a building committee, with instructions to proceed.

Then Alex Blow, insurance man, arose and presented the plan, by which the building arose and was completed. Each member was to take an equal share of building and loan stock which he promised to mature for the club. Each new member received was to be received on the same basis, which would ultimately lessen the burden on those starting the movement. Bonds were also issued at 6 per cent in order to secure additional funds, and ultimately pay for the entire project.

No building committee ever worked harder or more faithfully, and today, what so far as we know, is the first exclusively Rotary Home in the world, stands on a beautiful site opposite the East Carolina Training College. Come to see us, if you don't believe it.

Jasper Winslow gave a lot for the site, which was used in connection with the generous offer of a citizen, Mr. Frank Johnston, of a lot and $1,000 in cash, for the selection of the present site.

The boys work committee, Phillips, Winslow, Garrett, Joyner, Rose and Chester, proposed that the club adopt the world-wide Boy and Girl Scout Movement, as the basis of their work. This was done, and these boys and girls are meeting every week, in a gymnasium equipped with the latest and best apparatus, where under Rotary leadership, they are being taught to develop themselves, physically, mentally, spiritually, and socially.

Greenville Rotary now has the vision of an athletic field in connection with this gymnasium where a fulltime physical director shall be in charge, and to which not only the children of Greenville shall have access, but to which at least once a year, every public school in the county shall come with its teams, for a great field meet. We believe that this is sure to come, for the members of the Greenville club are 100 per cent for our boys and girls work.

Miss Dorothy Norman Entertains.

On Wednesday evening at her home on Evans street, Miss Dorothy Norman delightfully entertained with a rook party complimentary to Miss Gladys Bagwell, bride-elect. The library in which the tables were arranged was beautifully decorated with the national colors, and potted plants. The table covers were red, white and blue and the markers were miniature hatchets. Miss Josephine Skinner making the top score was presented a pretty rhinestone comb while the honoree was presented a pair of silk hose. The favors were flags, hatchets and miniature logs filled with salted nuts.

Many interesting progressions were enjoyed and as the favors were so attractive, quite a good bit of interest centered around the games.

The hostess served a sweet salad course in a style which also suggested the birthday of George Washington.

Miss Bagwell has been the honoree at several parties within the past few weeks and the one last evening was thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Washington Better. The many friends of Mr. Clement Washington, who has been confined with paralysis, will be glad to learn that he has been thoroughly discouraged and his condition has greatly improved.

Bridge Club. Mrs. J. E. Gorman was hostess to her bridge club on Wednesday afternoon complimentary to Miss Gladys Bagwell, bride-elect. The library, drawing room and reception hall were beautifully decorated with the national colors. The tables were marked with hatchets and all the favors were suggestive of George Washington's birthday. The table prizes Loly Pops were won by Mrs. W. T. Bryan, Misses Hannah Dixon and Gladys Bagwell. Mrs. Bryan also made the top score and was presented a set of bridge numbers. The honoree was presented a beautiful pair of pillow cases. A salad course, decorated with flags, was served by the hostess.

SHERIFF DUDLEY ENTERTAINS JUDGE CRAMMER AT DINNER. Sheriff E. R. Dudley was host at a dinner party in honor of Judge E. H. Cramer of Southport and J. F. Harrington, clerk of superior court shortly after court adjourned at noon yesterday. The dinner was enjoyed by several other officials of the court.

Woodmen Have Enjoyable Meeting Greenville camp. Modern Woodmen of America held their regular monthly business social meeting last night with a good attendance present to enjoy the repast provided by the entertainment committee. The camp has set aside one night in each month for this purpose.

COUNTY TO DEMONSTRATE NEW MOVING PICTURE MACHINE HERE TONIGHT

A demonstration of the motion picture machine purchased by the county with which to fight the boll weevil and improve living conditions of the farmer will be given in the court room at the court house tonight at 7:30 o'clock. W. B. Pace, demonstration of the county farm department announced this morning. While pictures to be used in the regular county campaign have not been received, Mr. Pace has made arrangements with the state department for having two or three good reels of pictures for the demonstration tonight.

The public is urged to attend and get an idea of what the farm department is going to be able to do with assistance of the splendid machine. The pictures are presented in the screen in an unusually clear and steady way and will certainly appeal to anyone that likes to see good motion pictures.

PRESTON WRIGHT TO ATTEND EDUCATIONAL MEETING AT CHICAGO

President Robert H. Wright left this morning for Chicago to attend the meeting of the Superintendents' Division of the National Education Association which meets from Feb. 27 to March 2. He is State Director of the N. E. A. for North Carolina and is a member of several departments and of important committees, therefore it was necessary for him to go ahead of the meeting. East Carolina Teachers College has a national reputation and this is partly due to the fact that its president has always kept in touch with the national movements in education and has had the vision to see the big things as well as the problems close by home.

TENNESSEE DAIRYMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF HANDLING WHISKEY

Jackson, Tenn., Feb. 23.—Frank Beard, wealthy dairymen of this city, was arrested today following seizure of his milk wagon, which officers claim, contained two cans of milk and three cans of contraband whiskey. In a later raid on his farm, officers claim to have found two 85 gallon stills.

COTTON GROWERS MEET IN NEW ORLEANS TODAY

New Orleans, Feb. 23.—Representatives of twelve cotton states opened a conference here today seeking a remedy for the financial condition of cotton farmer at call of the North Carolina legislature. Reduced acreage in 1922 and methods for fighting the boll weevil will be among the first to receive consideration, it was stated. Other measures to increase the monetary return of the planter will be discussed at length during the meeting, it was stated by those well acquainted with conditions at the conference.

Election of Officers Feature Final Session of Bankers

(Continued from page 2) farmer, have been unable to wipe out one county in Mississippi because the farmer was forced to discontinue cotton planting, on account of boll weevil and learn crop diversification, which proved his salvation. Right to his home as result of a stroke of now, in many sections, the farmer is paralyzed, will be glad to learn that he has been thoroughly discouraged and his condition has greatly improved.

endeavor and young men are leaving the farms in droves, hopeful of finding employment of some kind in the towns and cities. Hardly a day passes that we do not have in Wilmington applications from such men for "any kind of a job that will keep me going,"—as they express it. It is time, gentlemen, for us to inform ourselves regarding crop diversification and to be able to intelligently help educate the farmer how to plant and rotate his crops, it is up to you bankers,—you and me—to function as a modern, organized Moses to lead the farmers out of bondage. It is a common saying (and a true one, I believe) that a bank is no better than its loans. It is equally true, I think, that the business of a bank is no better than that of the community in which a bank lives and does business. Merely from a selfish standpoint, it pays us to work continuously, energetically, and enthusiastically for the betterment of all conditions affecting our business. Applying the idea to individuals, I am reminded of one of Herbert Spencer's remarks: "The man, who, expending his energies wholly on private affairs, refuses to take part in public affairs, pluming himself on his wisdom in minding only his own business, is blind to the fact that his own business is made possible only by the prosperity of all."

Money for the crop is the first essential. And there is no reason why a solvent bank cannot procure all, or at least the greater part, of its requirements from the War Finance Corporation. Other states have provided themselves liberally, Iowa having taken upwards of $20,000,000; South Carolina more than $10,000,000; while North Carolina (fourth state in the Union in value of agricultural products, has applied for less than $5,000,000 of the total of $175,000,000, loaned. Even if your loans are "uncomplainingly" carried by your correspondent banks, it will relieve them and open the way for additional credits to you, should you reduce your indebtedness to such banks through loans from the War Finance Corporation. As to procedure, it is only necessary to be able to show that you have on hand at time of your application agricultural loans equal to amount of loan applied for. As collateral, the government will accept practically anything that you are handling, or can handle, through your correspondent banks. Even real estate mortgages are acceptable in an amount equal to the excess of margin required over amount of loan. In a moment I shall take sufficient of your time to run over briefly with you, page by page, the form of application in the hope of disabusing the minds of any of you of the possible impression that there is a lot of "red tape" to be united before granting of loan. Any banker who is competent to make out the periodical reports of his bank to N. C. Corporation Commission will have no difficulty in complying with requirements of the War Finance Corporation.

As to interest rates 5 per cent is charged on loans running not longer than six months, while 6 per cent is the rate on longer term obligations. It is expected that all loans will be repaid within one year, though provision has been made for extensions to July 1st, 1924, where agricultural conditions seem to warrant. All negotiations and information concerning a bank or its customers are held in strict confidence and not even your competitor will know that you have applied should you prefer to keep the matter quiet, instead of boasting about it as many banks do. In fact, it is a boost to public confidence for it to be known that a bank is sufficiently good to be able to get a loan from the government.

The wisdom of the government in providing live stock and agricultural credit relief, through banks, has been more than vindicated. It has been made possible for farmers to hold their crops over a period of time and conduct marketing and liquidation in a quiet, orderly manner, whereas continuous dumping, through forced liquidation, would undoubtedly have resulted in lower prices and widespread distress and failures. Too much cannot be said to the credit of Mr. A. W. McLean, of Lumberton, who is a member of the board of directors of War Finance Corporation. It was he who conceived the idea of government assistance, fathered the measure, and has given unsparingly of his time, helped counsel, and best efforts in the hope of affording relief where needed. Probably no other one factor has so greatly contributed toward the improvement in values of agricultural commodities as the fact that the government has assisted generously, through extension of loans, in distressed sections of the country.

As to the future, we are getting heartening news from Federal Reserve Bank reports, while the steady rise in exchange markets, the strength in price of grain, live stock and cotton are most significant. Purchasing power of the country is slowly though surely getting back to a normal basis. The improvement in western agricultural conditions is reflected in repayments to the War Finance Corporation, a total of $15,233,000 having been paid from January 1st to February 15th. In our own section the transition period from cotton or tobacco to diversified farming is a critical development and one meriting the closest co-operation between farmer and banker.

IRISH FREE STATE SEEN AS BREAKUP IN BRITISH EMPIRE

British Statesmen Beset on All Sides For More Freedom by States

By DAVID M. CHURCH, London.—The eyes of Great Britain are on Ireland. Ireland's success or failure as a free state may be a determining factor in the disintegration of British rule.

Lloyd George and British statesmen are beset on all sides with demands for greater freedom. The creation of the Irish Free State has given impetus to demands, which if granted would threaten the strength of British rule in almost every quarter of the globe.

India, Britain's most wealthy Far East possession, is in the throes of a precipitant revolution with freedom as the objective, and the Indian problem is undoubtedly the knottiest problem Lloyd George has on his hands with the exception of the final settlement of the Irish question and his domestic political difficulties.

Egypt, a protectorate of Great Britain, is demanding wider liberties, and the Egyptian question is one which is most vexatious, and it is whispered in political circles that this problem has threatened Cabinet rifts.

North Scots Restive. Scotland has at times been mentioned as the source of a possible demand for greater independence, although there is at the present time no indication that the Scottish people will arouse themselves to any serious demands; nevertheless it is rumored that some of those who inhabit the northern half of the main British Isle are growing restive.

In the Rand striking miners have voiced their desire for the creation of a free state. The people of the little Isle of Sark have gone ahead and established a government of their own without consulting either Lloyd George or King George. The population of this tiny isle is not extensive, but the spirit displayed there must be annoying to those statesmen who are striving to maintain British rule.

In South Africa the movement for independence is reported to be growing. Lloyd George is Calm. With his difficulties constantly mounting, Lloyd George faces this new spirit with apparent calmness, for it is but a part and fabric of the political situation which will undoubtedly force him before the people in a general election.

While the spirit of independence grows throughout Great Britain it is rumored that political enemies of the Prime Minister are perhaps encouraging the movement as one method of increasing the burdens of the leader they are seeking to unseat.

Staunch supporters of British rule argue that many of those who are now demanding a greater voice in their government are given the widest liberties their capabilities will permit. In discussion of the subject with American citizens they always point to the Philippines as a fine example of a suppressed people.

FARM DEPARTMENT DEMONSTRATES ITS NEW MOVIE OUTFIT

Machine Recently Purchased Used in Demonstration at Court House Yesterday Afternoon

The moving picture machine to be used in the fight against the boll weevil in this county was received by the farm department yesterday and during the afternoon a demonstration was given in the basement at the court house.

The machine is of a splendid type and operated by power furnished by the automobile of W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent. In other words, while making his rounds of the county Mr. Pace will be enabled to stop at any schoolhouse and show his pictures, regardless of electric light facilities. He will simply drive his Ford up to a window of the building, attach a wire from the moving picture machine to the engine and immediately have all the light necessary.

While pictures to be used in the boll weevil campaign have not arrived, in the demonstration yesterday pictures giving a graphic description of the wonders of the National park in Wyoming were shown and proved highly satisfactory to a number of officials of the court who gathered in the basement to see the machine in action.

Mr. Pace was gratified at the results of the demonstration and believes he will be able to "whip the socks off the boll weevil" during the coming planting season. There will be numbers of pictures to show the farmer, an agent will deal with some particular feature of the farm. After the county has been thoroughly canvassed the machine will be used for a while in an effort to improve the social life of the farming communities. By proper attention the farmer will derive great benefit from the pictures and be able to improve his environment considerably.

CUBS HAVE YOUNG TEAM THIS YEAR

Manager Killifer to Try Out the Youngsters Acquired in the Trading Deals

By LUTHER A. HUSTON International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Chicago.—It will be a youthful ball club that will decorate the Cubs' North Side diamond when the Cubs are at home this season. President Bill Veeck and Manager Bill Killifer make no secret that they are building up and that youth is going to be served in the Bruin camp. Because of this an unusually large flock of rookies are included in the Cubs' retinue.

In the outfield the big noise is expected to be Arnold Startz, for whom eight players and some cash was turned over to the Los Angeles club. Startz will have a hard time living up to the reputation that publicity has built up for him, but if he can hit .300 and field as he did in the Coast league he will be the regular guardian of one of the outposts.

Another Coast leaguer who will probably start the season as an outfield regular is "Hack" Miller, the son of Sebastian, famous in other days as a strong man. "Hack" was with Oakland last year and achieved some repute as a welder of the mace, hitting something like .370 in the long Coast season.

Flack Holds Berth.

Max Flack probably will hold his job as the regular right fielder, and Turner Barber will linger as utility man. Barber can also play first base, so he is handy to have around. Trombly and Sullivan, of last year's outfield, already have been transferred to Los Angeles in the deal for Startz. "Red" Thomas, a Texas youth, who showed considerable speed but not much hitting prowess in the closing games of the last season, also will try for a job in the outer precincts.
