

ROAD SENTENCES AGAIN FEATURE IN MONDAY'S COURT

Numbers of Defendants Drew Long Sentences in the County Court Here Yesterday

JULIUS PAGE DRAWS TOTAL OF THREE YEARS ON THREE CHARGES

Jesse Mayo Also Suffers Severely on Three Separate and Distinct Charges

Yesterday's session of county court was one of the busiest in many weeks, as a result adjournment was delayed until long after the noon hour. Road sentences again played an important part and three defendants received sentences ranging from three months to three years.

Julius Page, colored man of this city, possibly received the heaviest penalty of the entire docket, drawing a total of two years eleven months and thirty days on three separate and distinct charges. Page was given a preliminary hearing in a magistrate's court here last week, found guilty and bound over to county court. He was charged with selling whiskey, carrying a concealed weapon and assault with deadly weapon.

Page drew thirty days on the first count, eleven months in the second and two years in jail, to be worked on the county road as found advisable by the commissioners, in the third. The defendant appealed to superior court.

Jesse Mayo suffered as severely as Page, being indicted on three separate counts, and drawing a total of three years. In the first charge, disturbing religious worship, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of cost. In assault with deadly weapon he received two years, and in carrying a concealed weapon he drew a total of twelve months. He appealed to superior court.

Ralph Roberts, recently indicted on a charge of transporting and selling illicit whiskey, was sentenced to six months on the county roads. Notice of an appeal to superior court was filed by attorneys of the defendant.

Fred Forbes, colored, charged with a minor offense, was sentenced to three months on the roads.

Christ Lawler, Christopher Columbus, Harry Toler, Bill Hill, recently indicted on a charge of gambling, were released on payment of fines, Lawler paying $30 and one-fourth cost and the remainder $20 each and a fourth of the cost involved.

Verdicts of not guilty were returned by the court in several other minor issues coming up during the afternoon session, and when adjournment became possible the docket had been virtually cleared of every case of recent date. Judge Cooper again went after defendants "with blood in his eyes" and complete enforcement of the law was in evidence during the entire session.

BRILLIANT THROG PRESENT WHEN PRINCESS MARY TAKES WEDDING VOWS AT WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Royal Bride's Wedding Is Solemnized in Historic Old Westminister Abbey

London, Feb. 28. — Admired all pomp and ceremony of old world royalty Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, was married to Viscount Lascelles, heir to Earl of Lockwood, in the Westminister Abbey.

It was the first marriage to take place in a reigning royal family in nearly twenty-nine years and the social event was almost unprecedented in splendor, brilliance and impressiveness.

The ceremony occurred at noon in the presence of the most varied assemblage that ever attended a royal wedding. All members of the family were present except the prince of Wales, who is in India.

Contrary to custom foreign royalties were not invited. The Rt. Rev. Randall Thomas Davison, archbishop of Canterbury officiated.

About twenty-five hundred guests were present. The weather was propitious for the great event, although during the morning hours a storm brewed in the heavens and threatened to mar the day. The clouds cleared rapidly, however, and spring like breezes soon held sway.

By EDNA HUBER CHURCH International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 28.—A royal bride, a princess, but above all a picturesque example of England's stalwart womanhood—this was Mary, daughter of King George and Queen Mary, as she slowly passed through the nave to the high altar of Westminister Abbey today to take the marriage vow as wife of Henry George Charles, Viscount Lascelles.

Tall and straight, as were her Saxon forebears, fair haired, cheeks auburn with the wholesome fragrance of Britain's womanhood, Princess Mary, the royal bride, appeared a striking credit to her sex. Not because of any flower-like beauty, not because of her marvelous wedding gown of brocade, did Princess Mary seem an inspiring bride, but because of the very atmosphere of strong, courageous womanhood, that womanhood that has stood for noble strength down through the ages.

(By International News.)

The company will not be interested in nitrate plants or what might be produced by such plants, Martin said. He said they were compelled to make bids under contract of the government.

If the bid is accepted the company will proceed at once towards the completion of Wilson dam, which will result in an increase of power possibilities for Alabama, Georgia and other states which have presented strong resistance.

An ultimate appeal will be made to the courts in event the Ford bid is accepted by congress, he declared. The public attitude towards various bids is expected to be shown at a mass meeting to be held at Montgomery. All contestants will be represented, it was stated.

ROTARIANS PLAN TO ATTEND CONVENTION AT WINSTON SALEM

Local Club Decides to Again Be Represented One Hundred Percent Strong

TENNESSEE MAN GUEST OF CLUB IN MEETING DURING LAST NIGHT

Mr. Henry Brown Addresses Rotarians on What Clubs Are Accomplishing Everywhere

Reports of committees, disposition of regular business and an interesting talk by Mr. Henry Brown, Rotarian of Greenville, Tennessee, only guest of the evening, featured the regular meeting and supper of the Rotary club at their beautiful home on Fifth street last night.

The report of the committee having in charge was of a particularly interesting nature, showing that Greenville will be well represented at the conference which promises to be one of the greatest yet held by the organization. The committee reported that all members were enthused at the prospect of attending the convention, and that the outlook was favorable for a one hundred percent attendance.

The club at the conference last year carried away attendance honors, and it is the purpose of the committee to win the same recognition this year, it was stated last night. With Greenville having the only Rotary building in the world and Farmville being the smallest town with a club, it is naturally to expect Pitt county to gain great prominence at the convention. The committee in all probability will complete its canvass this week and be able to report success at the next meeting, it was said.

The talk of Mr. Brown, who is a wide-awake and alert Rotarian, was inspirational, and showed the local club what is being done in Tennessee. He lauded Greenville for the spirited way they have gone into the work before them and predicted great success in the future. He talked interestingly of activities of the club as a national organization, showing that it is gaining strength in every community where organizations now exist.

Considerable time was consumed in the disposition of the regular routine business, but this was interspersed with merriment that prevented monotony from creeping in and making a bad night of what was the outset promised to be one of the best meetings of the year.

NEW POSTMASTER TO BEGIN DUTIES HERE TOMORROW

H. R. Munford is to Succeed D. J. Whichard at the Close of Today's Business

A change in postmasters at Greenville takes place with the close of the month. Postmaster D. J. Whichard retiring tonight and Mr. H. R. Munford, the new appointee taking charge tomorrow morning. Inspector L. T. Yarbrough is here to make the transfer.

Mr. Whichard took charge of the office as postmaster, succeeding Mr. R. C. Flanagan on June 9th, 1913, making his incumbency lack nine days of being eight years and nine months. He retires from the office today with the satisfaction of having been faithful to his duties and bearing the good will of the many patrons whom he has served.

Some features of Mr. Whichard's administration of the postoffice will be of interest to our readers and are mentioned here. Since he took charge in 1913 the business of the office has far more than doubled, both in receipts and the volume of mail handled. At the completion of his first year city delivery was established with three city carriers and the putting up of street letter boxes. There have been several extensions on rural routes (Continued on page 3)

AYDEN TO CLASH WITH GREENVILLE IN GAME TONIGHT

Final Game of the Season to Be Played at Forbes & Morton's Warehouse Tonight

What in all probability will be the final basketball game of the current season will be played at Forbes & Morton's warehouse in this city tonight when Greenville and Ayden clash for the first time this season. Both clubs are in excellent condition for the game following a season that has been unusually strenuous and the public may rest assured of seeing something well worth their time.

Coach Duncan stated this morning that the local club was never in better conditions than at the present time, and should be able to win over Ayden decidedly easier than more formidable organizations such as the boys have been up against from time to time during the year. The club engaged in strenuous practice last night, and when the training period comes to an end every member of the club will be in tip-top shape for the hardest battle of the season.

The Ayden club is no weakling by any means, and if Greenville wins, as they certainly intend doing, a decidedly fast class of ball will be necessary. Ayden has been pitted against several formidable organizations this season, and it is said each member of the club is well seasoned and fully able to put up the fastest game of the year.

Fans are urged to attend this game in large numbers, as it in all probability will be the last of the season unless present plans are changed. The high school athletic club has a place for every cent derived from these games, and people who attend may be assured of spending their money in an excellent cause.

IMPORTANT MEETING TO BE HELD AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TODAY

An important meeting of the diversification committee of the Pitt county chamber of commerce was held at the chamber of commerce rooms this afternoon at four o'clock, at which numbers of matters in which the farmer is vitally interested were taken up for consideration. The committee is making an effort to improve conditions of the farmer, and it is probable the meeting will result in a number of plans for the community's benefit.

GREENVILLE NEWS SUSPENDS BUSINESS WITH ISSUE TODAY

Morning Paper Retires From Business After Eventful Career Lasting Four Years

ADVERTISING CONTRACTS TO BE FILLED BY DAILY REFLECTOR IN FUTURE

Subscription List to Also Be Taken Over By Afternoon Contemporary During the Day

The Greenville News, published by John A. Park of Raleigh discontinued publication as a daily newspaper with this morning's edition, according to an announcement made public this morning.

The Daily Reflector will immediately take over advertising and subscription contracts of the Daily News, according to an agreement between owners of the two papers, but other obligations of the company will be assumed by the management of the News.

The News began publication here in the summer of 1917 under the ownership and management of James L. Mayo, published of the Washington Daily News also at the time. Mr. Mayo retained active management of the concern until about two years ago when he sold out to Mr. Park.

Immediately after Mr. Park purchased the plant he placed a Mr. Finch in charge. Mr. Finch about six months later was succeeded by John A. Arthur of Washington, who was at the time editor of the News. Earl T. Hedrick sometime later leased the plant from Mr. Park and placed Charles Brown, former city editor of the Wilmington Star, as editor, succeeding Mr. Arthur who accepted a position with the Washington Daily News. It was during this change that the News changed from an afternoon to morning paper.

Mr. Hedrick conducted the business several months, but conditions were so depressed at the time that the proposition proved a losing one, and he turned the plant back to Mr. Park. Mr. Brown left at the same time of Mr. Hedrick, being succeeded as editor by John H. Hayden, a former member of the staff of the Wilmington Star.

Several weeks ago Joseph Fisher, who had been employed as circulation manager during Mr. Arthur's administration, was made manager of the plant which position he held until suspension of publication this morning.

The life of the News, like most all active daily papers, has been eventful and troubled at times, but it succeeded in making many friends who will regret to learn that it has been discontinued.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PRESBYTERIAN DEACONS PLANNED

Conference of Deacons of Church to Be Held Here Thursday Afternoon and Night

The annual conference of the Presbyterian elders and deacons of Pitt and Edgecombe counties, will be held on Thursday afternoon and evening of this week at the Tarboro Presbyterian church, and the officers of the local church in Greenville are planning to go 100 per cent strong. This conference which started in Greenville, four years ago, has steadily grown in favor and power, until it has attracted attention all over the Southern Presbyterian church, and been the means of organizing others like it, in other parts of the South. It brings together the official boards of all the churches in adjoining counties, and enables them to understand each other's problems, and standardize their work, at the same time stimulating fellowship and efficiency. Several visiting speakers will be present, who are experts in the line of work which will be presented. About 75 laymen of this progressive church will attend the meeting in Tarboro on Thursday.

The bonus measure didn't appeal to members of the Republican party at first but when it became evident some of the boys might eventually lose their jobs for turning a deaf ear to the plea they changed their minds in a mighty big hurry.

It is gratifying to note the way Judge Louis G. Cooper is enforcing the law in county court, as in this way alone can the county ever expect to experience any appreciable reduction in the great wave of crime that caused our court dockets to become congested beyond hope of relief in the next several months.

Kinston, New Bern, Farmville and Washington have already signified their intention of participating in the league this year and unless we get busy and act promptly chances are that we will be excluded.

Pitt county people will be glad to learn that Mr. N. G. Bartlett, of Dublin, Ga., has accepted the position of manager of the Eastern Carolina chamber of commerce as he is a man that at once inspires the confidence of those who may come in contact with him.

Greenville people should be proud of their white way as this is the only town in the state of its size with the same kind of system. There are other cities, of course, with what they call white ways, but so far as we know Greenville is the only town of its size in Eastern North Carolina that can really boast of an up-to-date and modern equipment.

ARE WE TO HAVE BASEBALL?

The opening of spring brings up the question as to whether Greenville is to have a baseball team and if we are to participate in the Eastern Carolina league.

Summer without baseball is something the ordinary run of people don't like to take into consideration and the best thing to do is to get busy and see if funds can't be raised.

Although we made a splendid showing last year, we would have been able to accomplish even more had we started earlier.

Conditions are different this year, however, as the people are acquainted with players for miles and miles around, and unless we get busy and sign up our men immediately we won't stand the slightest chance of making a showing.

Pitt county farmers are the most prosperous and versatile to be found anywhere, but it is quite evident many are going to make the greatest mistake of their lives this season by over planting in tobacco and cotton.

The tobacco market has been hopelessly glutted since the inflation of the year before last, and the chances for relief at an early date are very slim indeed.

BATTERY PRICES AGAIN ADJUSTED.

Greenville Storage Battery Co. who handles Willard Battery, announce another drop in the prices of that make of battery, effective December 15th. "This is another readjustment to the drop in raw materials and production costs which has been taking place steadily in practically all lines of manufacturing," says Mr. Proctor. "But it must be borne in mind at the same time, that price is not the important factor in Willard Batteries. This factory builds a product to a quality ideal and stick to their goal regardless of competition because they sincerely believe that high quality in a storage battery means true economy in the long run."

marked improvement in that part of the service. The erection of the handsome government building came early in his administration and the change from leased quarters to the new building was made in March, 1915. Twice since the occupancy of the government building the treasury department has been induced to make changes in the lobby for the addition of more boxes to meet the growing need, the number of boxes being increased from 324 to 608.

Mr. Whichard's administration also covered the war period, which was the hardest and most trying that postmasters have ever experienced. By reason of the various war activities many additional duties were placed upon postmasters, they giving much of their time to promoting these as well as having to handle the sales of revenue and war savings stamps in addition to the regular postoffice business. Some idea of the magnitude of this additional work may be had from the fact that through the Greenville postoffice in the year 1918, the first year they were on sale, more than $800,000 worth of war savings and thrift stamps were sold. Another very arduous duty during that period was the inauguration of central accounting offices, by which the Greenville postoffice had to assume the supplying and accounting for the other falling upon the postmaster by reason of losing experienced employees and their business being handled with the having to take on and instruct new central accounting office. The increased work arising from these additional duties had also to be conducted under very trying handicaps. Postal employees not being exempt from the army draft, several of the best men in the office were called out for army service, and others were lost from time to time by reason of their inability to get larger salaries in other employment at that time than were paid in the postoffice. The burden

JOSEPH DRAKE

"When I say that I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Tanlac," said Jos B. Drake, 430 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone to see the hearty way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the lightest kind of diet.

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to drive the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Greenville by the Greenville Drug company and leading druggists everywhere.

DELAY IN ARRIVAL OF RADIO MACHINE

The papers announced yesterday that the Radio Sending Machine is now fully installed in the auditorium at Raleigh for the sending out of the sermons to be delivered by the Texanic preacher, Dr. Geo. W. Truett.
The Memorial Baptist church of this city is making every possible effort to install a radio receiving station so as to give the people of Greenville
an opportunity to hear this wonderfully gifted preacher.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in getting an early delivery
but there is still hope of receiving a machine in time. Some days ago the matter was placed in the hands of Mr. Williams of the water and light commission of this city who is an experienced radio man and he is doing everything in his power to secure a machine.

Brilliant Throng Present
When Princess Takes Vows

the finest raiment of royalty could not make Princess Mary. Her personality, that personality which comes from Mary Queen of Scots, Elizabeth and Victoria, stood out above
all else in the great grey abbey,
swarming with those of royal blood.

Bridal Gown of Becoming Modesty.
The personality of this royal bride is hard of description, and her marvelous brocaded wedding gown likewise. The bridal gown was one of becoming modesty, for the advanced styles of the day were disregarded and the skirts were of modest length and the sleeves were cut with a propriety long since forgotten by the average modiste of today.

No wedding gown ever shone with more beauty than that of today's bride, a gown of brocaded silk, its body tone of oyster white, into which silver threads were interwoven, giving it a silver mist of golss. Woven with deft hands into the silken texture were designs of roses, thistles shamrocks and sprays of may, the flowers of Great Britain.

The gown was, perhaps, a bit more full in the skirt than the gown of today's fashion decree, perhaps not quite as clinging as most. Then its bodice was a court style, a bodice that fitted rather snugly and inclined to points in the back and front.
The train of cloth of silver hung from the shoulders, somewhat after the fashion of a priest's hood. The whole embroidered loveliness was generously trimmed with boniton lace and the veil of this same material was the same worn by Queen Mary and her mother, the Duchess of Teck.

Women Guests Display Loveliness
But the beauty of the marvelous spur gown of the bride was not the only creation of glory in the dimlylighted abbey, for despite the order against court dress, with attendant jewels and the gleaming shoulders of royalty decollete, the women guests displayed their loveliness in morning gowns of rarest beauty. It was a picture of silks and laces and diaphanous materials, delicate colors and white,

with elaborate and exquisite embroideries. There were velvets, satins and brocades, and some Summery
gowns that reminded one of Ascot Day. Beaded work was to be seen on the gowns in the nave, the triforium and the gallery. Many of the frocks crossed the strict borders and were modelled after the fashion of dinner gowns.

It was a truly riotous scene of color, and generously prevailing were the touches of "Mary" blue. Flowers of the most brilliant hues there were in abundance and galaxies of rib-bands of silk interwoven with threads of silver and gold, a decoration dear to the heart of English women. Op-erays and gay plumes were missing from the general picture, for the Queen is known to disapprove of fashions which demand those decorations.

But the women were not the sole contributors to this colorful picture.
The men, heaven bless them, were interesting, amusing and sometimes handsome. Uniforms and uniforms, in sombre hues, glaring scarlets,
dun-like khaki and horizon blues added to the general color scheme and myriads of medals flashed beneath the flickering candelabra.

Call Us Up

There are three things—and only three—that wear out batteries. (1)
Miles of service—(2) Months of service
—(3) Neglect and abuse.

The way to get the most months or
the most miles—or both—is, of course, to get the right battery and then take care of it.

We'll sell you the right one—the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery
—and more than that, we'll help you look after it.

Call us up.
Or better still—come in!
