COTTON MARKET SHOWS GREATER ACTIVITY HERE

Over 533 Bales Have Been Weighed on the Local Market During the Past Month.

There were 533 bales of cotton weighed on the Greenville market the past month against 217 for the same period for last year, according to an official report made public this morning by O. W. Harrington, weigher.

The increase in the amount of cotton weighed and sold here this season resulted from light sales last season, Mr. Harrington stated. In fact, the farmer last year held a major part of his crop expecting an advance in price. The slump continued and not until this season did the market show any sign of life.

Conditions on the local cotton market are similar to those everywhere, at least in chief cotton producing sections. The farmer paid high prices for labor and couldn't afford to sell his crop at the low prices last year. The prevalence of the boll weevil and subsequent shortage of the crop in many southern states caused even close observers to expect a gradual increase in price, and it was this that caused so much of the cotton to be held.

Most of the crop has been disposed of this season, it is believed, but there is still a great quantity that will be offered for sale in event prices show any greater strength.

FARMERS PLAN TO BUY BUT FERTILIZER IN CO-OPERATIVE WAY

Fertilizer Representatives Quoted Prices at Mass Meeting of Farmers Here Today.

Two hundred or more farmers attended the mass meeting at the court house here this morning and heard co-operative buying of fertilizer discussed by O. F. McCrary, of Washington, farm demonstration agent of this district, and W. B. Pace, farm demonstration agent of Pitt county. Active interest was evinced in the plan for saving the planter money through the co-operative buying plan, and orders were placed for a considerable amount of fertilizer.

The fertilizer concerns represented at the meeting were the Fisheries Products Company by R. S. Newton, of Wilmington; Swift & Company by J. H. Mann, of Washington and the International Agricultural Corporation by J. W. Lewis, of New Bern. Prices for large shipments were quoted the farmers by each of the representatives, and purchases that were not made at the time were deferred until other planters could be given opportunity of joining.

Co-operative buying of fertilizer has received wide attention of growers in all parts of the country, the farmers were told today, and in practically every case the grower has been saved considerable money. The prices for small and large shipments were compared, and the difference convinced everyone that the co-operative plan was advisable.

While at the present time staged on a small scale, it is expected the movement will gain ground rapidly before the next planting season. Representatives of the large fertilizer concerns appeared glad to sell in large shipments, and prices quoted represented a substantial saving to the farmer, it was said by those acquainted with conditions.

Clara Spence Operated On. The many friends of Clara Spence, the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Spence, who was operated on yesterday afternoon for adenoids by Drs. C. J. Ellen and Joseph Dixon, will be glad to know that she was getting along nicely today.

Wouldn't it be awful if some people were as bad as we think they are? Nights are getting so short bootleggers must go to work before dark.

MEDICAL SOCIETY ENTERTAINED HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

County Society Entertained at Christian Church Last Night by Drs. L. C. Skinner and Joe Smith

Members of the Pitt county Medical Society, in regular session here last night were entertained at a delightful luncheon by Drs. L. C. Skinner and Joseph Smith in basement of the Christian church. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Grady Dixon, of Ayden, president, and resulted in discussion of a number of problems of current interest.

The only paper of the evening was read by Dr. K. B. Pace, of Greenville. This dealt with Chronic Nephritis in a comprehensive way, and proved of a most interesting nature.

The society voted to contribute $25 to the memorial fund which is being raised by General Julian S. Carr, of Durham.

Mark Smith, a brother of Dr. Joe Smith, who has been spending some time in Colorado, explained the methods employed in the treatment of tuberculosis in the West. Various methods employed by large sanatoriums in combatting the dread disease was explained in an interesting way and proved of great value to the physicians.

The society will be entertained at the next regular meeting by Dr. Joseph Dixon, of Greenville.

The meeting was one of the most harmonious in some time and featured in much enthusiasm and interest.

SWIFT JUSTICE IS HANDED NEGRO OF ONSLOW COUNTY

Onslow County Negro Gets Fifteen Years in State Prison for Crime Two Years Ago.

New Bern, Mar. 10.—Swift justice was meted out to Will Whitfield, the one-armed Onslow County negro, who was taken to Jacksonville Tuesday morning after being brought back from Brooklyn, N. Y., and arraigned before Judge C. C. Lyon. Whitfield was tried and sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary and brought back through here Tuesday night by Sheriff J. R. Gurganus, under guard of Lieut. Connor Aycock and the detachment of the Raleigh national guard.

A record trial was given Whitfield by Judge Lyon's court. Evidence of witnesses was complete and the negro was promptly convicted of assault and robbery of Mr. Ed Smith, merchant and postmaster of Mairnes over two years ago. The prosecution showed that Whitfield had assaulted the white man and while he lay unconscious robbed him of money.

Whitfield was arrested in Brooklyn and brought to New Bern and spent the night under guard, Tuesday morning taken to Jacksonville and that night found him en route to Raleigh where he will begin his fifteen year sentence at once. Lieut. Aycock stated that there had been no evidence of violence at any time during the time he had been with the negro.

MOUNTAIN FALLS DOWN AND RUINS FARM LAND

Wayne, W. Va.—A mountain has fallen down in Grant district, Wayne County.

The rocky peak and cliff weighing thousands of tons went directly over a country road and, filling up a bed of a twelve-pole creek, has caused a flood.

The creek, dammed up by the debris, has overflowed a large number of lowland farms and is causing much damage. Farmers have used hundreds of pounds of dynamite in an effort to blast away the dam, but so far have been unsuccessful.

DANIELS TO SPEAK AT MASS MEETING HERE MARCH 7TH

Former Secretary of the Navy to Address Mass Meeting on Importance of Living at Home

Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, former secretary of the navy, will be a guest of the Pitt county post of the American Legion here on the night of March 17, according to an announcement made today by the post officials.

According to an announcement from Secretary Smith of the Pitt County Chamber of Commerce, Hon. Josephus Daniels will address a mass meeting at the court house on Friday, March 17th. This announcement will be received with interest all over Pitt county, and no doubt there will be a record crowd to hear Mr. Daniels.

The invitation was extended Mr. Daniels the first of the week, but on account of his many pressing engagements he was unable to say definitely until this morning. Mr. Daniels will speak on the importance of living at home during 1922, which subject the Pitt County Chamber of Commerce, through its diversification committee, hope to carry to every township in the county during the week of March 20-24.

Every Pitt county citizen and especially the farmers and business men should make their plans now to attend this meeting. The speaker is known favorably, not only in Pitt county, but throughout North Carolina and the United States. As secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels made a record that speaks for itself—a record of which we are justly proud.

POOL VIOLATORS ARE FACING LAW SUITS

Lexington, Ky., March 10.—Prosecution of growers who have sold tobacco belonging to the Burley Growers Cooperative Association and of warehousemen who have allowed or induced growers to sell such tobacco will be begun in a few days, it was announced here at the conclusion of a meeting of the board of directors.

The field service department; under the direction of Joseph Passonneau, has been investigating alleged cases of violation of contracts, and will present the data to Aaron Spirid, general counsel for the association. One of the first prosecutions will be that of a prominent farmer in the central warehouse district who sold a large crop of tobacco in the name of his wife.

SPLENDID SERMON HEARD AT REVIVAL HERE LAST NIGHT

Dr. Matthias Delivered a Powerful Sermon to Members of Presbyterian Church.

"If the righteous are saved with difficulty, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" This was the text of the greatest sermon which has yet been heard in the Special Services at the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Matthias began by explaining certain words so often misunderstood in the text, and then in language and with logic that will never be forgotten by those who heard him, he showed some of the difficulties which confronted God as He faced the problem of saving a lost world from sin. The Law had to be satisfied. Obedience had to be paid; Penalty had to be met; a Being had to be created who could meet at the same time every Divine and every human claim in connection with an Atonement; man had to be brought into contact with that Atonement; and then kept by its power in spite of the Kingdom of Evil.

His illustrations were powerful and made his hearers feel that they were in the presence of the greatest problem in the universe. His closing words were a mighty appeal to men to analyze their own plan of salvation and compare it with that of God. "If your plan is better than God's, hold on to it and take it with you to the great Judgment Bar; but if it isn't, discard it now while you have a chance and lay hold of the Plan which is as perfect as the God who has wrought it."

Practically every seat in the church was filled, and there were a number present from Farmville and other out of town points. The service begins tonight promptly at 7:45 P. M. You had better come soon enough to get a seat. Bring a friend with you.

To Pull Credit Tighter. Washington, Mar. 10.—The Harding administration has decided to pull the strings of the world's credit a bit tighter in hope of compelling European nations to balance their budgets, decrease military establishments, and get back those sound economic theories without which American officials believe there can be no return to world normalcy. This is the underlying motive, treasury officials admitted, for a renewed appeal to American banking interests to consult with the government before undertaking large banking transactions with foreign countries.

SHE COULDN'T WORK BUT COULD SELL WHISKEY

Danville Girl is Forced Into the Business Through Illness of Mother.

Danville, March 9.—A pathetic case in which a young girl dependent over her mother being ill and she, herself, being unable to find employment, resorted to selling whiskey in order to earn some money came to light in the police court here.

The case reached the authorities through the critical illness at the hospital of a young man, who, it is said was suffering from the effects of drinking moonshine whiskey. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed and a 30-day sentence given the girl, but the jail sentence was suspended.

TRAINING SCHOOL TEACHERS ATTEND ORMOND'S FUNERAL

President Robert H. Wright Tells Student Body of Great Loss in Death of Trustee

President Wright, Prof. H. E. Austin and Miss Jenkins went to Kinston yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of Hon. Y. T. Ormond, as representatives of the East Carolina Teachers College. President Wright was one of the pall bearers and made a talk at the services, paying beautiful tributes to the man whom he has been so intimately associated with throughout the whole time he has been president of the college.

Mr. Ormond has always been enthusiastically and actively interested in East Carolina Teachers College. As a member of the Board of Trustees, of the executive committee and since Gov. Jarvis' death was chairman, and as chairman of the Building committee, he has worked in season and out of season for the welfare of the school, and always gave his time, energy and thought cheerfully and gladly for the school. As President Wright said of him: "He was not one to give up the old just for the sake of the new, but when he was convinced that the new was best he did not hesitate to discard the old. Evidence of this spirit was shown when he presented to the Board the motion to change the name of the school, giving so clearly his reasons that the members of the board were convinced that it should be done, and the name was changed without much discussion."

"He believed in the purposes of the school and caught the idea that the purpose was the same, but the opportunity for service had been afforded, therefore the name should be made to fit the situation. He had the spirit of the true progressive."

While the college has lost one of its best friends it will always have his spirit and influence.

President Wright spoke to the students at the College yesterday morning, calling attention to the work Mr. Ormond had done for the school and paying tribute to him. In his remarks at the funeral he spoke of the great service Mr. Ormond had rendered the State by serving the school as he served it. He spoke especially of his fidelity, not only to business, but to his church, his State and to any cause for which he worked. Honest, not only in work and deeds, but honesty of thought, he gave as the keynote to his character. He classed him as one of the great loved ones of earth.

Rev. C. L. Ragsdale, his pastor, spoke of his love and service for his church, and his place in the community.

The funeral service was simple and impressive, the music triumphant and the beautiful floral offerings were many. He was buried in Maplewood Cemetery in Kinston.

Mr. Ormond was a lay leader in the Methodist church for the North Carolina Conference. He was a Mason and a Physician. He was a member of the Kinston Bar. The lawyers paid deference to him yesterday by closing offices and suspending work during funeral hour.

Two witnesses in the Arbuckle case have been indicted for perjury. They couldn't get "Fatty" now they are trying to get those who failed to turn their backs on him in a moment when friends were needed the worst.

The Republican administration started out with the honest intention of reducing taxation, but if they have accomplished anything we haven't yet seen it. The party has made a miserable failure of improving conditions, and if they aren't able to do better in the future a change will be very appropriate next election.

Thousands of acres in cotton have been laid bare by the boll weevil this season, and the farmer that expects the pest to show partiality where he is concerned will be the worst fooled person in the world. The weevil is no respecter of persons, and the farmer should get the fact firmly fixed in mind before it is too late.

Henderson, North Carolina, has a movement under foot to establish a Y. M. C. A. Henderson, like many other live towns of its size has seen the great good to be derived from such organizations, and no doubt means to co-operate in every way possible. Greenville should promote a similar movement, as it is large enough to have such an organization. Other towns of the same population have and there is no reason on earth why we shouldn't.

The white way to be established in Greenville has aroused interest in surrounding towns, and from all indications Greenville isn't going to be the only place in this immediate locality to boast of such a system. Kinston and Rocky Mount are already considering plans for improving light systems, and from the spirit behind the movements they will get them. This section of the state is much more prosperous than others that have had white ways for years, and we are glad interest has been created in the matter.

Ayden is going to hold a community sing. This is good news. Nothing has a tendency of producing a closer spirit of co-operation among the people than these public gatherings. Ayden is destined to derive great benefit from the experiment. It is hoped this sing will inspire other communities to do likewise. The benefit will be very plain in a mighty short time.

The campaign to clean Russia is a worthy one, no doubt, but cleaning up that county is another matter entirely.

Sweet potato storage warehouses have been discussed considerably in Pitt county this year, but nothing definite has been done in the way of erection. This is an important matter. Preservation of the crop should be the first thought of the grower as it matters not how much he may produce he can't expect to make anything with usual losses. This county alone is subject to thousands of dollars loss yearly because of improper preservation of the crop, and unless storage houses are erected conditions aren't expected to improve.

Hog raising should be encouraged in Pitt county this year because of condition of the cotton and tobacco markets. Meat and foodstuffs are always in demand and everything the American farmer can produce in this line will be purchased at prices in production. Europe is in the midst of the worst famine in history, and if the American planter should exactly double production he couldn't supply foreign demand. So long as the two main crops are selling for low prices the farmer should turn his attention to what the world demands. If he does this he may rest assured of experiencing prosperity in spite of the severe money shortage.

Republican and Democratic political machines of the state are getting fireworks in readiness for the approaching election. However, there's little worry about the outcome of the campaign in this section of the state, although Republican hosts in the western section are of sufficient strength to cause the Democrats some anxiety. The present administration has made a miserable failure in a natural way, and unless something out of the ordinary happens this influence will have a far-reaching effect on elections of every state. Democrats are stronger today probably than ever before because of the failure of Republicans to make good, and this is going to be very apparent in the national election.

The proposal to buy additional fire fighting equipment in Greenville deserves to be favorably considered, as the day will come when the inadequacy of the present equipment will be plainly evident. The town is large enough to afford another truck. In fact the valuable property in tobacco town should have greater protection than at the present afforded. Think of the large manufacturing enterprises and warehouses located in that section and the distance of the fire department. This section of town could be equipped with a fire station at no great outlay of money, and it is up to the city authorities to take measures looking to better protection. Property owners ought to get busy and urge immediate action as millions of dollars worth of property may be destroyed any day when a small amount of money invested in fire fighting equipment might prevent it.

SPRIT OF REVOLT NOT IN ENGLAND WRITER ASSERTS

Million Unemployed in London, but No Move is Made to Unset Government.

(By International News)
London.—The spirit of revolution is not in England.
This is the conclusion that must be drawn after watching the unemployed and their investments in England's greatest city. With the number of unemployed well above the million mark, with the streets of London literally lined with mendicants and beggars, and dissatisfaction with Government rampant, there has been every opportunity for the spirit of revolt-tion to crop out in England, but it has failed to do so.

There have scattered incidents when the majesty of the law was frowned upon. City aldermen have been locked up in their chambers by the unemployed, there have been a few riots and a few minor disturbances, but the period of depression which has held Britain in its grasp during the Winter has not given rise to any indications of a well-defined movement to upset the Government.
There are communistic and extremist organizations in London as there are in every big city. There are those who urge of force. There are those inflammatory speeches in Hyde Park. There is an occasional waving of the red flag.
Despite all this England goes on in its stolid calmness. The spirit of revolution is not in the English people.
Watching a monster demonstration of unemployed, marching in hundreds through Fleet street and along the Thames Embankment one is impressed with the quiet order of the throngs. Here are people to be pitied, but not to be feared. They pass along in even files, under a liberal escort of police, without jeers or sneers at the officers of the law. They are not tattered and torn. They are clean and orderly, though some in the ranks show the apparent signs of lack of nourishment.

The banners they carry are loud in their protest and recall the war service rendered by the working man. There is an occasional red flag, and a few scattered marchers wear red neckties and red jumpers, but their song is not the "Internationale." It is one of the rollicking, melodious tunes of the marching songs of war days.

WIFE OF LINDSAY TELLS STORY OF HER PRIVATIONS

ironing and scrubbing," Mrs. Lindsay said. "We lived very quietly and never spent much money, nor did we entertain lavishly. I only bought one dress last year."
Dr. K. Arvid Enlid, indicted with Lindsay for grand larceny, lived in the Lindsay home for nearly eight years, Mrs. Lindsay said, during which time she did his washing, ironing and mending as well as her husband's.

She said she never met any of the society women Lindsay and Dr. Enlid knew and are accused of robbing through fake stock transactions. Mr. Murphy declined to discuss his talk with Mrs. Lindsay further than to say she had convinced him she had nothing to do with Lindsay's alleged crimes.

Henry Goldstein, her counsel, told of her interview with Mr. Murphy. "Mrs. Lindsay still has implicit faith in her husband," he said, "and that if given an opportunity to make good he will do so."

She told Mr. Murphy that she now is absolutely destitute, that she hasn't any money, jewelry or furs. What little she had she gave to Mr. Lindsay years ago and the proceeds were used for living expenses.

"Her friends have generously rallied to her assistance, and offered her a home as long as she desires. "She was very much surprised when informed that a lady whom she knew had given money to Mr. Lindsay, and felt keenly aggrieved when she realized that this friend had been imposed upon."

Mrs. Lindsay has turned over to Mr. Murphy the keys to the pretentious home Lindsay maintained at South Nyack, so that he may make a search for valuables, Mr. Goldstein added. She already had agreed to have the house sold to help make good money lost by women through Lindsay's operations.

LOWER PRICES IN BATTERY BUSINESS.

The Greenville Storage Battery Co., who represents Willard Storage Batteries here, announces a new price reduction, effective December 15th. "This is but another adjustment of prices to the changing cost of raw materials," says Mr. J. Knott Proctor, manager of the Company, "and not a change in the standards of quality for which the Willard Battery has been noted. Nor is the quality of service that goes with that battery to suffer any change whatever. We believe that a battery's reputation depends largely upon the care it receives, and we expect to continue to help our customers take care of the batteries they buy from us." adv

FARM "BLOC" LEADS FIGHT TO REDUCE RATES

Takes Stand That Railway Charges Go Down to Bring About Sure Relief.

(By International News)
Washington.—The "Agricultural Bloc" is staging a big fight in Congress for a reduction and readjustment of freight rates on farm products.
Senators Capper, of Kansas, and McNary, of Oregon, are among the "Bloc" leaders, who are insisting that freight rates must come down before the agricultural interests can be given any permanent relief from economic distress from which they are suffering.

Freight rates are ruining the farmers, according to Senator LaFollette, another Republican member of the "Bloc." He cited as an example a recent estimate that the freight rates involved in a farm wagon purchase at Barron, Wisconsin, in 1914 were $17.40. The Esch-Cummins law has forced this up to $89.64, he said.

Representative Moore, of Virginia, had another instance of exorbitant freight rates called to his attention by a farmer who raises registered Holsteins at Orange, Virginia, only about seventy-five miles from the national capital. He shipped a milk-fed calf to Washington. It cost him $20 worth of milk to raise the calf, for which he was paid by a commission merchant at the rate of five cents a pound, or $11.95. Out of this he had to pay sixty cents commission; freight, $5.58; express charges, $1.54. When he finished he found himself "in pocket" exactly 1.23.

"Business conditions cannot improve until the farmers can sell their products at a profit," said Senator Harris, of Georgia, a Democratic member of the "Bloc." "Those who criticize the Agricultural Bloc for trying to aid the farmers are usually ready to support any legislation suggested to help the railroads. I have no prejudice against the railroads. The country's prosperity depends upon them. They should be encouraged, but they should not be helped at the expense of the farmers, as was done when Congress passed the Esch-Cummins law and thereby authorized rates guaranteeing the railroads 6 per cent dividends when farmers and business men were losing money. I voted against that bill."

"The Agricultural Bloc is not seeking to discriminate against the railroads or any other interests. We have banded together, not to get legislative favors, but legislative justice, Western and Middle-Western Republicans have united with Southern Democrats to die West and South are afforded relief from conditions which have resulted from their being discriminated against for the benefits of the East.
