BONNIE ANDREWS IS AGAIN LODGED IN COUNTY JAIL

Stokes Man, Sentenced to Die Last December, to be Presented to Court in April

PROBABLY FINAL HEARING WILL BE GIVEN IN APRIL

Young Fellow Glad to Get Back to Pitt County Again Even if to the Jail

Bonnie Andrews, young white man of this county who was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Raleigh last December for alleged criminal assault on Estelle Briley, twelve year old school girl of the Stokes community, was returned to the Pitt county jail yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Ernest Dudley. Andrews will be held here until the April term of criminal court when he will be presented for reduction of sentence probably for the last time.

Andrews admitted to Sheriff Dudley that he was glad to reach Pitt county again after long confinement in the death cell at the state penitentiary. He had seen two unfortunates pass down death row to their doom during his stay there, and really felt relief in returning to comfortable quarters in the Pitt county jail where he can sleep soundly without eternally hearing the blood curdling hum of the death motor.

Long imprisonment and anxiety over his fate have not caused Andrews to lose any of his nerve. In fact he appeared in high spirits when he set foot on Pitt county soil yesterday, and seemed to have as much confidence as ever that he would come out all right. The man has proven something of a mystery to officials since the day he sat in court here and heard Judge Lyons pronounce sentence that apparently sent him to his doom with the slightest concern. He went so far as to intimate at the time that he would never pay the penalty, and believed implicitly in what he said even when hours for his execution drew near.

Attorneys for Andrews succeeded in staying sentence, and when the young fellow faces officials of the court here in April it will be simply to determine the number of years which he is to spend in prison. This change in fate was made possible through the presentation of new evidence by M. K. Blount, who has represented Andrews since the day he was appointed by the court. And when he again enters the court room the fear of hearing the awful hum of the electric motor of the death cell at the penitentiary will have been completely set aside.

Arrest and subsequent speedy trial of Andrews created considerable interest in all parts of the county and when he enters the court room again in April curiously will be as great as ever. The young fellow was arrested following report that he had kidnapped the Briley girl from a schoolhouse in the Stokes section and forced her to accompany him to Washington at the point of a gun. Somewhere between the school house and their destination, it was alleged, the crime was committed.

Trial was speedy. Hardly had the young fellow been lodged in jail before he was led into the court room to face his accusers. It was proved the girl went with him to Washington, that criminal assault had been committed, but whether she was forced to do these things against her will or at the point of a gun was never determined.

The case went to the jury, demanding a verdict of guilty, which would send the defendant to his doom, or not guilty, which would mean his freedom. Members of the jury deliberated several hours, but returned and asked the court if the charge could not be reduced from capital punishment to imprisonment. They were informed that guilty or not guilty alone could decide the fate.

These sturdy Pitt county men re-appeared again in a short while and pronounced sentence of guilty, that will send the young fellow to his doom. Judge Lyons immediately read the sentence to the court. Andrews listened, immovable, careless and unconcerned, and a few minutes later walked

RECEIVERS NAMED IN CASE AGAINST WILLARD & SMITH

Three Receivers Appointed to Succeed Creditor's Committee of Concern

BUSINESS WILL BE CONTINUED IN THIS CITY AND ELSEWHERE

Judgment Returned in Alimony Proceedings of Mrs. Francis Bervin

C. L. Ives of New Bern, J. T. Moore, of Charlotte and Judge L. G. Cooper, of Greenville, were appointed receivers of Willard & Smith, Inc., by Judge Frank A. Daniels in the civil term of superior court here yesterday. There was only one other case disposed of during the day, that being the alimony proceedings of Mrs. Francis Bervin against Edward Bervin, judgment for $250 being returned in favor of the plaintiff.

In the action against Willard & Smith Judge Daniels appointed the three receivers to succeed three members of the creditors' committee appointed when receivership proceedings were started several months ago. The business has been conducted under the direction of this committee since the time, and the action of the court resulted from a resignation of one of the members and a desire for a change of creditors.

The appointment of the receiver committee does not mean the concern will suspend business. On the other hand business will be continued as usual and members of the committee will make an effort to liquidate as many outstanding debts as possible.

There are several stores in this part of the state conducted by the concern. Each will remain open as usual, and business will be transacted on the same scale as when the creditors' committee had it.

The alimony proceedings started here the first of the week by Mrs. Bervin resulted from action of her husband to begin divorce proceedings. The husband was engaged in the show booking business, and they were in New Bern when the misunderstanding between them arose. It is alleged he came to Greenville to beg divorce action, when the wife appeared and asked for alimony. The case required sometime in finally disposing of, as considerable evidence was involved that required sometime in completing.

SOUTHERN ROADS FROM THE NORTH GET REDUCTIONS

Interstate Commerce Commission Grants Introduction of Proportional Rates

(By International News.) Washington, March 29.—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized various roads to introduce proportional rates, representing reductions from Chicago and related points to South Atlantic and Gulf ports on freight destined to the Pacific coast by steamship lines operating through the Panama canal.

The purpose of this measure is to put southern ports on parity with New York. It also gives southern lines an opportunity to secure freight moving on the Pacific railways entirely, with combined rail and water through North Atlantic ports.

For $150,000 a year Will Hays is finding what many people suspected, that there is room for improvement in the movies.—Toledo, Ohio, Daily Blade.

They fled lightly from the court room in custody of the sheriff.

The nature of the new evidence that played such a great part in changing his fate has not been made public at the present time, but will be brought out at the April term of court when final sentence will be pronounced. Until then Andrews will remain here, feeling that a great load has been lifted from his shoulders.

PREACHES STRONG SERMON TO LOCAL BUSINESS PEOPLE

Rev. Lee McB. White Delivered Stirring Appeal in Revival Here Last Night

SPLENDID CROWD IN ATTENDANCE AT EVENING SERMON

Stirring Sermon Also Delivered At Early Morning Services Today

"And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry."

But God said unto him, thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? Luke 12-19-20. These two paragraphs taken from the account of the parable of a certain rich man whose ground brought forth plentifully, was the basis of the sermon preached by Rev. Lee White to the business men of Greenville, on Tuesday evening. The large auditorium was filled with people eager to hear the message which Mr. White had for the leaders of the business world. The Rotarians and Kiwanians attended in a body and occupied the seats on the left and right of the pulpit.

Faith in God, declared Mr. White is the greatest undeveloped resource of today. Man, seeing beyond his own narrow life and self has invented every necessity of today. Mr. White further stated that every invention has come about since the advent of Jesus Christ into the World. Printing type was discovered three thousand years ago, but was never used until the world demanded that the Bible be printed. Land and money are all right in their places, but people today are putting them before God, and God will not be forgotten.

At this point Mr. White quoted statistics showing that when people in the past have forsaken God there has been a business depression. This accounts for the business depression today. The world is going wild over making money and accumulating wealth all for self and withholding at part which belongs to God. "Take heed, and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Every business man who is making his money in order to be a help to humanity will be a success and God has him marked as such, but the man who is busy accumulating earthly goods for his own selfish ends will be a failure and God has marked him as such. At this point Mr. White said that prayer was essential to the success of any people or nation, and he appealed to his hearers to pray. Faith and prayer can accomplish any undertaking. In conclusion Mr. White left these words with his hearers: Matthew 6-19-20: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal."

Services again this evening at 8 o'clock and tomorrow morning. The public is cordially invited to every service.

RUM SMUGGLERS FACE NO STERN ACTION IN STATE OF GEORGIA

Prohibition Officials Declare Situation is Not as Bad as Some Believe

By DOUGLAS G. TINSLEY International News Service Staff Correspondent

Savannah, Ga.—While Federal prohibition agents mature plans for destruction of the liquor running traffic between the Bahama Islands and the Georgia coast, which they claim is going on on a wholesale scale, local authorities, though admitting that the situation is bad, minimize its seriousness and declare that the actual rum running is considerably less than it is said to be.

Reports of smuggler-infested coves and inlets along the Georgia coast, liquor ships plying the waters between Nassau and Savannah territory, mystery vessels anchoring off the coast in the dead hours of the night giving off puzzling lights and signals, and muffled yachts, motorboats and other vessels slipping out of coves empty and returning loaded with choice brands of liquor are greatly exaggerated, they say.

According to Sheriff M. W. Dixon, of Chatham county, a considerable quantity of the "choice" brands of standard liquors reputed to have been run in off the Georgia coast and sold at bottled-in-bond rates, with a "European pedigree," never saw the outside of Chatham county.

According to the sheriff, lots of the much-touted "red" liquor is nothing more than Georgia moonshine, distilled in the swamps and morasses of Chatham county, cleverly colored and bottled in standard bottles, with counterfeit labels, to give it the appearance of having come from "over-seas."

"The liquor running situation about Savannah is bad enough," he said, "just as it is in every Southern port and northern, too, for that matter, but to say that Savannah is any worse than other port towns in this respect is nothing but a wilful, malicious lie. Lots of people who pay big prices for what they think is choice European liquor are getting nothing but the common moonshine variety."

MYSTERY MAN IS NOW INVOLVED IN GREENE MURDER

Wright Rouse, Aged Negro, Confesses Regarding The Fourth Person in Case

SOLICITOR DAVIS TO BEGIN HUNTING FOR MISSING MAN

Accurate Description Given By Old Negro To Be Of Inestimable Aid

Raleigh, March 29.—Amended confession made by Wright Rouse, tenant of the death house at the State Prison awaiting execution for the murder of Will Whitley, a well known white farmer in Greene county, may add another name to the list of actors and write another chapter in the 'black tragedy' that has revolved around the infatuation of Whitley's wife for another man, and has resulted in life terms in prison for Mrs. Whitley and Will Hayes.

To Solicitor Jesse H. Davis, Rouse declared yesterday that he was called from the scene of his crime by a man other than Tom Hays in whose hire he was when he shot Whitley as he lay asleep at his tobacco barn last July. A full description of the fourth man in the tragedy was given Mr. Davis by the old negro, but he did not then, and does not now know his name.

Back to Greene county Mr. Davis went last night to endeavor to fit the description given by the old negro to the man who may have been an accessory to the crime. Who he is, or where he is to be found, Mr. Davis does not know with certainty, but so clear was the old negro's description that he feels that further arrests and another trial are more than likely.

How the old negro got 12 miles back home after he had killed Whitley was not given serious consideration when the initial investigation of the murder was held. Then the officials were concerned with unravelling the tangled skein of events that led to the employment of Rouse to kill Whitley and clear the way for marriage for Mrs. Whitley and Tom Hays, both of whom are now serving life sentences in the State Prison for being accessories to the murder.

According to the story told yesterday Rouse never saw Hays again after the murder. Hays went, according to agreement, for the old negro on the night of the killing, and will bring him near the place where Whitley attended his barn. After the killing, Hays was to wait for the old negro and take him home again. Rouse made his way to the appointed trysting place on the road after he had shot his man.

ALABAMA PEOPLE URGE H. FORD TO CHANGE HIS OFFER

Committee Believes Change Will Make His Bid Better Than All the Rest.

(By International News.) Sheffield, March 29.—Officers of the Alabama Muscle Shoals association today telegraphed Henry Ford to urge him to revise his offer so as to eliminate the Gorgas plant from his offer following intimations by the House and Senate committee members that if he would do so his chance of getting the property would be materially improved. It is believed by many that Ford will be considered as favored bidder, and when the committee completes its three day inspection this afternoon the public in all probability will receive more definite information concerning the deal. The plant has been thoroughly investigated, and completion of the trip today will see all information in hands of the investigating committee.

IRISH GOVERNMENT PLANS TO PREVENT VIOLENT DISORDER

Effort to Overthrow Government to be Watched by Provisions Forces

DISCHARGE PARTIES SYMPATHETIC TO THE REBELLING FACTIONS

First Session of Peace Parley Ends Without Any Decision Being Reached

(By International News.) Dublin, March 29.—With all Ireland an armed camp and hostile factions ready to fly at their throats the Irish provisional government has redoubled its precautions to prevent any attempt to overthrow. Men known to be sympathetic to the rebel factions are being dismissed from the Republican army, and every effort is being made to preserve order.

The first session of the Irish peace parley, which aimed directly at pacification of the Ulster, ended early this afternoon without an agreement being reached. The second conference, which is expected to have a quieting effect on the country is expected later in the day.

CONGRESS INSISTS NAVY DEPARTMENT MUST CUT FORCES

Navy Department Also Threatens to Strip to Atlantic Seaboard in Such Case

(By International News.) Washington, March 29.—Threats by the Navy Department to strip the Atlantic seaboard of ships and stations and concentrate them on the Pacific coast if congress goes ahead with its plans to cut the navy personnel to 65,000 failed to jar the determination of House leaders today that the navy must come down.

The navy bill is going through as planned, it was asserted by Representative Pat Kelley, chairman of the appropriations sub-committee, and it will leave Secretary Denby free to place the navy wherever he wants Whitley attended his barn. After the killing, Hays was to wait for the old negro and take him home again. Rouse made his way to the appointed trysting place on the road after he had shot his man.

"That is an administrative matter which our committee has nothing to do," he said. "We have drafted the appropriation bill with a view to the best interests of the navy and it will turn out to be the best that was ever given the navy."

Kelley declined to express an opinion as to the wisdom of sending the entire navy to the Pacific ocean, although he stated that the navy could be maintained more economically on the Pacific than on the Atlantic.

"Fuel oil is much cheaper on the Pacific and most of the navy ships have been converted into oil burners," he said. "With the fleet on the Pacific there would be less transportation cost than if the fleet was half on the Atlantic and half on the Pacific. There are sufficient naval bases on the Pacific for the fleet. The navy yards at Mare Island, San Francisco and at Bremerton, Seattle, will take care of the larger ships while the base at San Diego, Los Angeles will accommodate the smaller vessels."

Kelley admitted there might be a protest from the Atlantic naval centers.

Wednesday, March 29th, 1922

North Carolina has the largest towel factory in the world. Which is one of the reasons why there are so many clean people.

Henry Ford decreased the number of hours of a day's work at his plant and opened up way for employing an additional twenty thousand men. If every great industry should do the same the unemployment situation wouldn't be near so bad.

The senate is determined to further oppress the country by adding a sales tax. The Old Guard is lined up with this end in view and if they are defeated the country will have sound-minded Democrats to thank for it.

The period of delation may be worrying the average business man more than he likes to admit. But by sticking to the job twelve hours a day conditions may be better than supposed. Hard work will work wonders, and this will be easily learned by the man who tries it.

The Republican party made some mighty fine promises during campaign days, but we have heard little of its members recently, except in opposition to some necessary measure. The way the votes are going to be casted next election is something to contemplate.

Mr. Kahn proposes a commission to dispose of Muscle Shoals. That may be favorable so far as Mr. Kahn himself is concerned, but what of the public. It seems congress is large enough to perform such a task without so much ceremony.

Henry Ford has increased his force twenty percent. This will relieve the unemployment situation to no little extent. The country needs more men of the Ford type. He believes in doing the right thing by the nation, and in relieving unemployment is doing it too.

The proposal to increase the fire equipment of this city should receive favorable consideration of everyone. It is an issue in which the entire city is vitally concerned and demands attention. Our present equipment is far too inadequate to take care of a large fire, and unless the aldermen get busy and make the improvements the town is liable to suffer.

The high cost of living is gradually decreasing at the present time, according to information made public yesterday by the department of commerce. This fact will be noted with genuine interest everywhere. If the government would only get behind some of the large manufacturers and their mediums conditions might be even better.

Those railroad men in Georgia who acceded to the request of their employers and returned to work unquestionably did the right thing. It is very seldom any good is accomplished by strikes, and often the workmen has to suffer consequences of his folly. A man earning a living wage will fare much better than the one without any work. This has been proven in past years, and is the same today.

Not very many people know that North Carolina has more cotton mills than any state in the Union. The industry means millions and millions of dollars to the state annually. Production of the staple is also conducted on a large scale, and much of it is consumed by our own mills. The industry has developed considerably in the past few years. Operatives are paid better wages, and mill towns as a rule are provided with better conveniences. Mill owners have realized the necessity of protecting the health of their workmen, and in many large manufacturing centers the homes are provided with modern conveniences. With continued expansion of the business the life of the laborer will become more useful and profitable.

ARE THEY REDUCING?

Tobacco manufacturers from time to time have announced slight reductions in the price of their products, but haven't yet done enough for the consumer to be affected. Retailers still contend prices are such that no reduction can be made, and when considering the slight margin of profit afforded they are perfectly justified in maintaining the war-time prices.

When large concerns get so they can't do without such large dividends and their employees can get along without the bonuses, then, and not until then, may the consumer expect the desired relief. The situation is something to think about and the farmer has perfect right to rebel against low prices such as markets have been offering for the past two seasons. If the manufacturer is determined to keep prices at the top of the ladder, then the farmer should get his part.

If, on the other hand, he is willing to do the right thing, the farmer and everybody else will be satisfied. What we want is fairness in exchange, and when we get that we are going to settle down and try to realize we have at last come into our own. Until then, however, we expect to continue to hammer at the gougers and remind them the war is over and the country is trying to get back to peace basis.

LEARNING A GREAT TRUTH.

Schools of the state last week had an opportunity of debating on the league of nations. The young debaters amassed a wealth of knowledge about this important institution that should serve them well in the future.

Every American should be given an opportunity of becoming more fully acquainted with the league of nations, the ideal of President Wilson. If they were more intelligently informed the Republican party would never be permitted to cast its shade as they have done. These young high school students gained valuable knowledge in the debates, and it is hoped they will let it serve them in the days to come when the question again forges to the forefront, as it certainly will.

With the league of nations functioning such things as peace conferences and limitation of armaments would not be necessary only as a medium for reduction of expenses. But the government never realized this fact when Mr. Wilson asked acceptance of the league principles. Republican opposition defeated it when the world was on the brink of a great peace, and the nation has been forced to spend millions of dollars in a futile attempt to gain what the league in reality already embraces.

Some may call Woodrow Wilson a dreamer and idealist, but he gave to the world in the league of nations the only means for a permanent and lasting peace. The real greatness of the issue will be unfolded as events of coming years become history.

The proposal to improve the Greenville fire department should receive favorable consideration of the board of aldermen. It is an issue in which everyone is intensely interested because they realize how really inadequate the present department is. The city is subject to appalling losses through a large conflagration at any moment. The single hose truck and apparatuses could no more handle a large fire than a bucket brigade. The fact is something to consider for a town this size, and it is hoped the aldermen will realize the importance of the situation and provide the necessary equipment.

When some of the large enterprises of the country stop yielding such large dividends and bonuses to employees the high cost of living will take a still greater tumble. The trouble is too many manufacturers are trying to maintain war prices and are not going to do the right thing until the consumer strikes as he did some time ago. The products that still sell for war prices should be abandoned as much as possible by the consumer until prices are reduced. Then, and not until then, will desired relief be in evidence.

The Greenville fire department is probably the most inadequate and incomplete in the state considering the size of the town. In case of a conflagration of any size it would be impossible to cope with the flames. The single truck and other apparatuses would be as nothing against the fire demon, and unless we prepare for eventualities while we have the opportunity enormous losses cannot be prevented. No one can tell when a large fire is to take place. It may occur at any moment, and unless prepared we cannot expect to be able to cope with the situation. The aldermen at the present time are considering the purchase of additional equipment. The public should take advantage of the opportunity and urge immediate purchase. By proper backing the proposition can be put across, and it is hoped everyone will get busy and do their part.

Mine owners show by their action that they desire the mine to be closed by the impending strike of workmen. The result will be exactly what they want—shortage of coal, increased demand and higher prices. The strike means less for the miners, increased profit for the operators, and more misery for the public. The miners at the present time $1.97 out of the $10.41 cents the people pay for every ton of coal mined. So it can be easily seen why the operators desire to force the issue even though the strike is inevitable.

North Carolina leads the world in the manufacture of tobacco and consumes one fourth of that produced in the United States. The state manufactures more cigarettes than any other in the world, and pays one fourth of the total tobacco tax of the nation. One city of the state, Winston-Salem, manufactures more tobacco than any city in the world. Greenville is the second largest bright leaf tobacco market in the world and the county produces the finest grades. This is a record which reformers claim not to be proud of but when considering dollars and cents involved, most anyone can see that this industry alone represents several million dollars annually.

Depository nearly caused a panic in front of a Chicago bank because it was rumored that the institution was in an unsound condition. The circulation of such reports should be discouraged as much as possible. They cannot possibly do the country any good, and in the long run will cause the public to lose confidence even in the soundest and safest of banks. The bank is the right place for money, and the man or woman who withdraws savings because of fear that the bank will fail will certainly suffer result of their action. The country is full of thieves and get rich quick stock promoters who are always ready to take advantage of the unsuspecting. The public isn't liable to fall so quickly for such schemes when money is in the bank drawing interest, and for this reason it should be kept there where one time out of several thousand it may be lost by the institution failing.

The miners would have the undivided sympathy of the country if they were less automatic. They have the strength to force their issue, but it is shameful to use it when the country is in such shape. The public will not tolerate the profiteering of the coal operators, and sooner or later they will have to reduce the price of coal. If the miners strike they place the country more at the mercy of the operators, who will plead high price of operation and an extreme shortage. Prices will soar upwards despite the protesting public and things will be much worse of than at present. The situation is truly serious and the miners should do what they can to help the sympathetic public.

Anti-Militarist Move in Tokio Expected to Result in Getting Troops Out

By JAMES M'CLAIN,
(By International News.)

Tokio, Japan.—With religious ceremonies still being held for the late Prince Yamagata, Genro leader and for more than a quarter of a century the strongest figure in Japan, government officials and political parties who had been cringing in silence for fear of incurring his displeasure now are taking a stand against militarism. A campaign is under way for the removal of Japanese troops from Siberia.

The most serious clash so far between the rest of the government and the faction at the war office is over the Siberian question. Many cabinet ministers have for some time favored withdrawal of the Japanese forces, and the Washington conference, probably through developments that are unknown, has served to increase this desire. It is known that the army is the only opposition left in the government to almost instant withdrawal, and there is a growing feeling in government circles that pressure now being applied will force the war office to give in.

The militarists claim that withdrawal will leave Japanese nationals and their interests unprotected—that the time has not come for the forces to leave. It is safe to say, however, that withdrawal will come sooner than most persons have had hope to expect.

A division and a half remain in the maritime province, and one of the greatest reasons for objecting to their return to Japan is the impetus that such will give the growing demands for a reduction of land forces. Here again the militarists are trying to stave off attack from all quarters. The Kokuminto, second opposition party in the House of Representatives, demands that the period of conscription be cut from two to one year and that the number of divisions be cut in half. This would result in cutting the army about in half, according to the plan, and will save approximately $25,000,000 annually.

The government party, the Seiyukai, also asks a cut in the standing army, but only by about 100,000 or so. General Yamashita agrees to a slight reduction. He desires a cut of about 50,000, but would consent to a little more provided all funds thus saved would go toward buying war equipment—modern guns and other materials needed. Under no consideration will be sanctioned a reduction in the army budget.

GREAT UNSOLVED MYSTERY OF NATION IS WHO PROFITS IN MEAT INDUSTRY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington.—Get out pencil and paper and have a try at solving the most puzzling puzzle extant.

It is a puzzle which affects every man, woman and child in these United States, whether they live on farms or in cities, in New York or in California, in bungalows or in mansions. It is more engrossing than the age of Ann, the length of a piece of string, or who killed Joseph Elwell and William Desmond Taylor. It is the great unsolved mystery of the present.

It is this: "Who gets the big rake-off on a pound of meat on its journey from the farm to the table?"

The characters in this Cock Robin mystery speak:

"Not I!" says the farmer, pointing to his mortgaged farm, his overdue notes and his long hours of toil.

"Not I!" weeps Packer.

"Not I!" weeps the big packing plant, pointing to its traditional argument that it makes only two cents on the dollar.

"Not I!" cries the retailer, and cites in corroboration the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Not I!" sobs the railroad, pointing out that the government had to guarantee it 6 per cent so it could continue to operate.

"Well, certainly not I!" yells the ultimate consumer, pointing to his pay check, almost stretched out of recognizable form by the pulling and hauling of the butcher, the baker, the landlord and the gas man.

The United States Government has recently been trying to solve the puzzle. It set the department of agriculture, which probably contains more experts of various kinds than any other single agency of government, on the trail. But the experts haven't caught up with their quarry as yet.

The inquiry covered such cities as New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Birmingham, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Baltimore, Memphis, Indianapolis, Hartford and Raleigh, N. C.

FIRE LOSS AT BUFFALO NEARLY MILLION DOLLARS

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 28.—Fire caused more than half million dollars damage in the wholesale district at the Elk Street Market today. The Becker-Prentiss Company was the heaviest loser, its stock of groceries valued at $400,000 being burned or ruined by water. D. E. Knowlton, owner of the building, estimated his loss at about $100,000. Several other firms reported slight damages.

The Elk Street Market is the center of supply for fruits and farm produce. Water from forty-two lines of hose from fire engines and two fire trucks flooded the street for blocks, causing suspension of traffic.

PRESENTS WAY TO INCREASE YIELDS IN PITT COUNTY

Soil Specialist of Improvement Committee Trying to Aid The Farmers

In this time of stress when all farmers are trying to work out of a depression, it is essential that farming as a business should be looked upon from a business basis.

It is necessary to diversify, for diversification always has been a paying proposition even before the boll weevil came and especially so in relation to the production of home supplies.

Diversification, however, is not the whole solution unless the yields of the crops are profitable. It cannot be expected that a farm operator can just diversify and expect to work out of this serious situation. It requires more than that. It requires that the yields shall be sufficiently high to pay costs of production and leave a profit. Low yields are very often the cause of complaint that prices do not pay costs of production.

Cost surveys as conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture as well as the North Carolina College of Agriculture show that with increased yields the cost of production per bushel, or pound of a product decreases and that the profits per acre increase. It is necessary therefore to look well to your yields to determine whether or not they are profitable.

Taking for a basis the average costs of production per acre of the leading crops of the state for 1922, as estimated by Dean C. B. Williams of the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and the average yields of the county as given by the census of 1920, fair approximation can be made as to whether or not the yields are profitable.

The average cost of production as determined by Dean Williams include rent of land, fertilizers, man and horse labor for preparing ground, cultivating, harvesting and marketing or storing the crops.

Fertilizer allowances were as follows:

- Corn and oats, 300 lbs of a 7-3-1-2.
- Cotton, 500 lbs of an 8-2-3.
- Tobacco, 800 lbs of an 8-3-3.
- Peanuts, 400 lbs of land plaster.

Deductions for by-products were made from the total costs. Such deductions included fodder from corn, cotton seed, oats straw, and peanut hay.

After these deductions were made the average net costs of production for the various crops per acre are as follows:

Cotton	$32.15
Corn	19.16
Oats	14.20

Peanuts	30.79
Tobacco	73.06

Cotton.
The average acreage cost of $2.135 for cotton production requires for expenses a yield of 218 lbs of lint with the seed, if cotton sells for 15 cents a pound and cotton seed at $40 a ton. The average yield of Pitt county for 1919 was 356 lbs of lint according to the United States census of 1920.

Corn.
The census reports an average of 2.9 bushels of corn for Pitt county. At the average production cost of $10.16 per acre, the cost per bushel for the county would be 0.804. This cost of production per bushel should be reduced by all methods of increasing the average yield per acre.

Oats
The average yield of oats for Pitt county was 18.2 bushel per acre according to the 1920 census. With the average acreage cost of production at $14.20, the cost per bushel would be 78 cents a bushel.

Peanuts.
The average net cost of producing peanuts as determined by Dean Williams was $0.79 per acre. The average yield of Pitt county for 1919 as reported by the census was 53.8 bushels. Assuming that the average cost of $30.79 to be the average cost under Pitt county conditions, the cost of production per bushel would be 57 cents.

By increasing the yield, the cost per bushel is automatically decreased as in other crops.

Tobacco.
The census of 1920 reports an average yield of 776 lbs of tobacco per acre for Pitt county. With the cost of production as determined by Dean Williams at $73.06 per acre, the cost per pound would be 9.4 cents as against 10.5 cents for the state average. It is well understood, however, that tobacco is a crop of quality rather than one of yield.

MRS. S. K. PHILLIPS ENTERS TAINS ROUND TABLE CLUB

On Tuesday afternoon at her home on Eighth street, Mrs. S. K. Phillips charmingly entertained the Round Table Club.

Despite the rainy afternoon nearly every member was present to enjoy the warm hospitality of the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Holmes and the splendid program which had been prepared.

Under the topic "Education in the South," Mrs. Jesse Mayo read a wonderful paper on "The Progress of Education in North Carolina," in which there were many deep lessons for hearts and consciences of those who heard, and also a befitting pride felt in our state's great strides along educational lines.

Mrs. H. L. Carr's paper on the "Educational Leaders in the South" was very interesting in this, the greater emphasis was placed upon our own North Carolina Leaders and many interesting things she related about them—closing with a beautiful tribute of love and appreciation of Professor C. W. Wilson of Our Greenville's College.

After the literary program, Miss Bertolet of the E. C. T. College delighted us with several beautiful piano selections from Modern Composers.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Goggin, served a beautiful desert course with coffee and cheese, after which piano duets by Miss Bertolet and Mrs. Phillips were enjoyed.

CONFERENCE WILL ANALYZE ILLS OF THE WHOLE WORLD

Convention of Christians To Seek International Cure For All Troubles

By DAVID M. CHURCH, International News Service Staff Correspondent

London. — Another international conference to diagnose the ills of the world and search for a remedy is in the making.

A conference of all the Christians of the world to put the weight of Christianity into a movement to cure the social, political and economic troubles of mankind is being proposed by religious leaders of England who have already taken steps to secure support for the movement from the leading churchmen of America.

Rt. Rev. William Temple, Bishop of Manchester, is one of the leaders in the movement for a conference to be held in 1924 with a preliminary conference in 1922 in Great Britain and the United States.

"The conference springs from two convictions," Bishop Temple declared, in explaining the movement. The first is that civilization is really in need to discover its own fundamental moral principles. To a great extent the methods that have brought us so far seem unable to carry us any farther or to maintain the progress that has been won by them.

"For example, to some extent at least, industry in the past depended on the stimulus of fear. The worker has protected himself against this fear in a very large measure. Therefore, that stimulus is now inopera-

ive. Either we must find another or discover some method of reviving the old one. But when we come to that choice the other conviction comes in to play, namely, that fundamental Christian belief, quite apart from any of the questions on which the Christian bodies are divided, can supply a due to the solution of all the problems of politics, economics and citizenship.

"There is no intention to form a specific Christian political party. Nothing could be farther from the minds of those inaugurating the conference.

"We are looking for the will of God. We believe that if people of varied experience and common faith will come together, not to convince each other, but chiefly to learn from each other, and with the desire and expectation that God will guide their thoughts, we shall at the end of genuinely know a great deal more of His will, which is another way of saying the truth about the world, than is now known to any group or individual.

"We do not expect to be guided to the formation of an ideal state. We do hope and expect to receive guidance which will direct the next step that have to be taken."

REPAIRING BATTERIES

We Know Batteries!
Repairing batteries may look easy—but it isn't!

To be successful, a repair man has to know just how to handle the plates that hold the active material that keeps life in the battery. He has to know how to take care of the insulators that keep the plates apart. He has to know when it is cheaper for you to buy a new battery than to have the old one repaired.

Bring your battery in to Headquarters—no matter whether it's a Willard or not. We'll tell you what it needs, if anything, how much the cost will be—and whether repairs will pay or not.

How Far Does Radio Music Reach?

According to an executive of one of the companies most extensively interested in the new art of giving entertainment, instruction and news by means of the wireless telephone, one of the commonest of questions is: "Over how great a distance can this music be heard?"

"We all admit" said this experienced radio man, "that there is much we do not know about radio telephony and the distance our concerts travel without becoming inaudible, is one of them."

It is a good deal the same as if you were to stand on the edge of a large and very still pond, and toss a small pebble out into the middle. You could see quite plainly that there was a circle of waves surrounding the spot where the pebble struck. You could also see that at the edges of the pond there were no waves perceptible. But you could not pick out any particular spot and say "On this side there are waves visible, and on the other side they are not visible!"

There is much the same situation in a receiving wireless messages with his important difference—the distance at which messages are audible depends to a great extent on the sensitiveness of the receiving instrument. Because of this fact, a concert entirely inaudible on one receiving set might be very clearly heard by another.

For example, the concerts sent out from Newark, N. J., are quite plainly heard by some radio amateurs in Cleveland, Ohio and not heard at all by others.

While part of the difference is due to the different "hook-ups" used, the degree of amplifications employed, and the sensitiveness of the phones, a great deal of it is in the batteries employed to supply current to the set.

Because of the great importance of the battery in this field, there have been special types of batteries built, which are as different from the ordinary automobile storage battery as the automobile battery is different from one used to supply current for the lighting of Pullman cars. One of these special Radio batteries known as the All-Rubber Battery is the product of the Willard Storage Battery Company. This battery is entirely contained in a one-piece rubber case, which effectively prevents the leakage of current and therefore stops all ground noises. The insulators between the plates are of the well known threaded rubber type, which permit each part of every plate to do an equal portion of the work of supplying current and thereby prevent what is known as "spotting" or the wearing out of one portion while the rest of the plate is in good condition. Because of these improvements and the consequent addition to quiet operation, the hearing range of a radio receiving set is considerably increased.

to chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik) spinal adjustments. The cause is pressure on spinal nerves to the liver and stomach and when this pressure is removed health follows.

Suffered for Ten Years

"For ten years I suffered from dull headaches. For a long time I had very inactive bowels and indigestion. I was nervous a good deal of the time and had a weak back which would bring on a drawing sensation along the spine. At present, after having a course of twelve chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik) spinal adjustments, I can say my physical condition is better. My headaches have left me, and my nerves are in much better condition."
