AYDEN MERCHANTS DISCUSS MATTERS OF MUCH INTEREST

Interesting Talks Concerning Town and County Considered at Meeting

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD ROADS DISCUSSED BY DOCTOR GRADY DIXON

Members Entered into Discussions in Way Predicting Great Things for City

The Retail Merchants Association of Ayden was in regular session Tuesday night and discussed many problems vitally affecting the organization at the present time.

Perhaps the most interesting and instructive talk of the evening was made by J. H. Coward, leading business men of the town who was sometime ago elected a member of the Co-operative Merchants' Association of North Carolina.

Good roads and what they will mean to the future prosperity of Pitt county was discussed in an exceptionally forceful way by Dr. Grady Dixon, practicing physician of Ayden.

The meeting was probably one of the most interesting in many months and issues vitally affecting both the town and county were discussed at considerable length.

GERM INOCULATION OF FARM SEED IS APPROVED LOCALLY

Dr. Joseph Smith Presents Certain Facts Gained From Actual Experiment

The following article pertaining to Germ Inoculation of Farm Seed written by Dr. Joseph Smith of this city will be of interest to growers in all parts of the county, as it gives result of actual experiment and not general observation.

To the farmers of Pitt county, I wish to take this opportunity of recommending the use of germ inoculation of the leguminous crops. The way and wherefore I will not attempt to explain but it is the results which I wish to relate from my experience with cow peas inoculated last year.

Upon three acres of land I prepared to make a hay crop. Sowed my cow peas, inoculated with nitrogen, but on account of dry weather there were very little grass and vines and I did not advise mowing for hay.

This experience has convinced me and I think all who saw my peas that the lack of germ inoculation in the soil is the reason why we do not make peas as in days of old when farming was not done so extensively and scientifically.

REVIVAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED AGAIN LAST NIGHT

Splendid Crowd Heard Dr. Edwards in Most Forceful Sermon of Series

The series of revival services which have been in progress at the Eighth street Christian church the past two weeks continue to receive more than general interest, and last night was no exception.

Dr. Edwards based his sermon on the eighth verse, thirteenth chapter of Hebrews, which says that "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever," and used as his subject "The Permanence of Jesus."

The services in all probability will be brought to a close Sunday night. The final days are expected to see even greater interest in evidence, and more determination of the members of the congregation to make the revival the success it should be.

NAVY BILL PASSES HOUSE FOLLOWING STUBBORN CONTEST

Measure Fixing The Navy's Strength at 86,000 Gets Unexpected Support

BILL CARRIES OVER $18,000,000 MORE THAN IS ASKED AT FIRST

Measure Will not go to the Senate Where Another Battle Is Expected

Washington, April 20.—By the margin of 71 votes, the House tonight broke away from its own leadership, stood behind the President and passed the 1923 naval appropriation bill with an amendment fixing the enlisted personnel at 86,000.

The vote on the McArthur-Yare amendment, the big point in dispute, and which increased the man force from 67,000 as provided in the bill, 221 to 148, with two members answering present. Ninety Republicans voted against the 86,000 amendment while 48 Democrats supported it.

A Yare handclap or two greeted the announcement by the speaker. The galleries half deserted. There was no attempt at a demonstration.

As amended, the measure carries a total of $251,269,000, or about $18,000,000 more than the total fixed by the appropriations committee which framed it. It goes now to the Senate, with the charge by Chairman Kelly, of the naval appropriations subcommittee, that many millions will be added and which the House would have been asked to add had not the Big Navy Men changed front at the last.

As compared with the 1922 bill, means who voted against the amendment, 173 Republicans voted for it while 16 others voted against it.

As against the 48 Democrats who voted for the amendment, 173 Democrats voted against it, while 16 others were paired against it.

AYDEN TO INSTALL WHITE WAY SYSTEM AT AN EARLY DATE

Splendid System to Extend on Both Sides of Street for Seven Blocks

That business men of Ayden haven't any idea of yielding to the present period of depression is indicated in an announcement made yesterday afternoon that a modern white way system would be installed on seven principal business streets in the near future. This is one of the most ambitious programs announced by any town in the State the size of Ayden, and shows that Pitt county people are going forward by leaps and bounds, despite the boll weevil, low priced tobacco and other unfavorable things.

The white way system will be modern in every respect, and will extend on both sides of the street for a distance of seven blocks. It will be similar, in many respects, to the system to be installed by Greenville in the near future, and will almost be as extensive. It was not stated how many lights would be placed on each block, but it is probable this will be determined as soon as a complete survey is made of the system.

White way systems in two Pitt county towns will be one of the greatest boons the people could ask for. Better lighted streets not only are a great help to traffic and shoppers at night, but set aside the probability of great waves of lawlessness. The movement is a commendable one and each town is to be congratulated upon the investment.

Only things most amateur gardeners raise are hops. Only thing most amateur gardeners raise is hops.

President Harding is evidently more adept at playing golf than the bonus or tariff. And he probably likes it better.

By signing the secret treaty with Russia, German showed the allies that she is as tricky as ever. Dealing squarely with such a country is a thing of the past and the Genoa conference might as well consider the fact seriously before proceeding any further.

Ayden may not have the population of Greenville, but they've certainly got us stepping in the way of improvements. The Ayden white way will cover more blocks than ours. Still, there are some who claim white ways are not essential and that Greenville could have delayed establishment a while longer.

Greenville business men are looking forward to good business this year, and just as surely as the believe it things will pan out as expected. The frame of mind of the public and the business element largely determines the trend of business anyway and it is to the individual benefit of every man to boot things along and not admit times even seem hard.

President Harding has warned the senate has some means of raising the bonus will have to be decided on within the next several days, but did not mention any particular way of doing it. The problem seems to be a greater one than Republican members are capable of handling, and if they can't do any more than they have so far it might be advisable to turn things over to the Democrats. They certainly will be able to do more than administration leaders.

The political pot is boiling furiously in North Carolina at the present time and from all indications the next election will be one of the most interesting in years. The strength of women voters is something to consider and the way some politicians are winning them over is amusing indeed. The man not considering the strength of the woman vote will have another guess coming election day. Their strength will increase with each election and when their full voting force is displayed office seekers will cater to them more than ever.

The annual meeting of the chamber of commerce to be held next Tuesday should be largely attended, as considerable interest is always centered around this event. In fact, the chamber's activity is generally given publicity at the time and those not acquainted with what it has been doing will have an opportunity of getting some inside facts. Chambers of commerce are indispensable assets to every thriving community and getting along without them is not to be considered. Pitt county has a particularly live organization and it is to the interest of each community to support its activity as much as possible. The institutions should become stronger with each succeeding year, and it is up to the public to decide exactly what this strength shall be.

The Greenville fire department should organize more completely when the new truck arrives, as they will have something then worthy of attention. While the department is composed entirely of volunteer men, they should do their duty by the city as long as they remain with the company. A city this size can't afford a paid department and it is to every man's interest to support a more efficient company for his own individual protection. Fires may happen at any moment and the extent of the damage in many instances will be largely determined by efficiency of the department. Let's all pull together and support the men in such way that they will be inspired to have one of the best departments in the country. Encouragement and appreciation of their work will do wonders. So get together and show the boys we are with them to the limit of our resources.

WATCH NORTH CAROLINA GROW

North Carolina, with a population of over 2,559,000 people, has nearly doubled in population in 40 years, but according to statistics compiled in the Blue Book of Southern Progress, published by the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore, the Old North State has made a much greater progress in material advancement. The capital invested in manufacturers in the state is over $669,000,000, or three times what it was ten years ago, and nearly ten times that of 20 years ago. The value of her manufactured products is now about ten times the value of state's manufactured products in 1900. North Carolina now has about 1,000,000 more cotton spindles than the entire South had 20 years ago, the increase in 20 years in the state being over 350 per cent.

The value of the mineral products of the state in 1920 was $7,500,000, nearly double that of 1910, and over five times that of 1900.

Last year North Carolina's farm crops were valued at $262,880,000 which is twice the value of her farm crop; ten years ago and over three and one-half times the value of the farm crops of the state 20 years ago.

With national bank resources of over $188,000,000 North Carolina's national bank resources nearly equal those of the entire South in 1880, and her total bank deposits are larger by $126,000,000 than the entire bank deposits of the South in 1880.

North Carolina is now spending on public schools over $12,000,000 which is nearly 13 times the expenditures on public education in the state 20 years ago, and about equal to the public school expenditures of the entire South in 1880.

The assessed value of taxable property in North Carolina in 1920 was $3,139,000,000, which is over five times the 1910 value, and over ten times the assessed value of taxable property of the state 20 years ago.

WILL PAY TO WAIT AWHILE.

The Times has been conducting an open forum on the question of Co-operative marketing, and proposes to continue to do so in order to enable our people to use their own judgment and arrive at their own conclusion. We believe they are sensible folks and that if the Times gives them the information that they will be able to decide for themselves much more than we are able to do for them.

We have been endeavoring to give them the information both as to the situation in Kentucky in the Burley district and also in this state, which is a part of the Tri-State organization composed of Virginia, North and South Carolina.

Time and time again the editor of the Times has been asked to give his opinion on the subject and we have been studying the question carefully and trying to look at it from all its angles that we might come to a correct conclusion. The truth of the matter is, Co-operative marketing of tobacco is an untried experiment, and new even to its promoters. No man can say how it will work out in advance of a test. The organization is new and inexperienced, and the entire system is untried as far as tobacco is concerned. Co-operative marketing may have worked all right in the fruit growing section of California, and the co-operative marketing of tobacco may work all right here, but there is all the difference in the world in marketing fruit and tobacco. There are so many different grades, the territory covered is so much greater, the tobacco must be put up in different ways for the use of the manufacturer, that it presents almost insuperable difficulties, that stem to us cannot be overcome until a harmonious organization has been effected, and both the managers and their help have learned from experience how to handle it.

Another thing is the matter of production. Every farmer knows that a small crop of anything always brings more than a large crop. Yet the farmer will continue to plant a large crop which carries over a surplus, and this breaks the price. Is there any assurance that the members of co-operative marketing will reduce the acreage? With all the pleading that newspapers of the state and the mass meetings have given, the farmers have gone right on planting until they have broken the price down to the bottom and fixed themselves so they could not, secure credit enough to make a crop, and then from sheer necessity they cut the acreage.

The contract which places their tobacco crop and its disposition absolutely in the hands of the officials of Co-operative marketing does not lay any stress on the main factor in the control of the price, that of production. It does not say to the farmer unless you plant for so many pounds of tobacco you will pile up each year so much tobacco that the surplus will break the Co-operative marketing company to finance and carry it, and later when the loans are called on this surplus it will knock the very bottom out of the market, and destroy the organization. This question of acreage should have been the most important feature of the contract, but it is not even touched upon.

Again it is proposed to advance a certain percentage of the tobacco when it is delivered, the balance remaining in trust until it can be sold. Out of this must come the charges for overhead expenses, the price of the warehouses purchased, and the rental and interest charges for carrying the tobacco. How much it will take of the balance of the tobacco to get the organization on its feet we are not prepared to say, but it should be considerable.

On account of the uncertainty as to its success and the evident cost of effecting an organization and securing the receiving plants and re-drying houses it would seem to be a safer plan for those who have not signed up to wait until the association is an established fact and is a going concern.

The coming fall and winter will demonstrate whether it can be successfully handled, and our farmers who have not signed will have no difficulty in getting into the organization if they so desire at that time. -Wilson Times.

Mr. McFarland's States Wilson Position on Co-operative Marketing and Incidents Answered Dr. Joyner's and Others' Articles.

(Wilson Times)

To the Editor:

...off my hat to Dr. Joyner... of the Tobacco Growers... and salute him for... in substance, that Wilson... are among the wisest of all... people, for have they not secured... according to what Dr. Joyner says in... his article in the News and Observer... of the 15th. "A Majority of All... the Best Tobacco Buyers" and by... inference, the Best Bankers, the Best... Merchants and the Best Business Men... in general. Hurrah for Dr. Joyner... But, having gotten these things and... refusing to part with them, the doctor... says we are "Very Selfish." How so... very selfish Dr. Joyner? Would any... sane business man expect any good... farmer who had labored long and in... ceasingly to bring his farm up to a... high state of cultivation, allow any... man, regardless of who he was and... this man not even a farmer to come... to him and say, "You step out, I am... going to step in, take your farm, take... it for five years, run it to suit myself... and make you more money than you... have ever made in your life." But... when it came to a matter of pure... business and not "hot air" all the men... even agreed to pay was 6 or 8 per... cent interest. What assurance what... ever did the owner have that at the... end of five years his property would... not be returned back to him in a... broken run down condition. He had... only the word of probably a stranger... Trades are not made that way. And... for the reason that the Warehousemen... of Wilson do not propose to let any... body take their property in the man... ner described as in the instance of the... farmer above illustrated, Dr. Joyner... call them "Very Selfish" and further... charges that they have made worth... less many thousands of dollars worth... of property in other towns. Wilson... Has Never By any Act or Deed or in... Any Manner Destroyed or Aided in... Destroying Any Tobacco Market Any... where. In that great era of prosper... ity that existed shortly after the... war, many little tobacco markets as... well as many other industries were... started, which afterwards became fail... ures. In some towns many people... thought that all they needed to do... was build up a Tobacco Market was to... build a Tobacco Warehouse. They did... not seek the advice of the Tobacco... people of well established markets and... if they sought their advice and were... told of the struggles that it took in... building up a market, they went back... home thinking the advice given was actuated... by selfishness.

When Wilson started in 1890 to... make a Tobacco Market it started out... with Tobacco Men in charge. It did... not employ foreign lawyers, skilled in... drawing contracts to entrap, and poli... ticians boasting of their millions, and... appealing to the sentiments and pas... sions of the farmers. It sent its men... out among the farmers to mingle with... them and to show them how to grow... and how to cure the tobacco that has... made North Carolina famous as a... great flue-cured tobacco State. It... sought to induce Manufacturers and... Dealers in tobacco, both large and... small and every man interested in... the purchasing of tobacco at home and... abroad, to locate their representatives... here and to build plants and steam... jels here. Were these Tobacco War... housemen selfish because they induced... Tobacco Companies to invest millions... of dollars in plants and machinery... and to acquire Real Estate in Wilson... instead of elsewhere. They started... the Wilson Market under the Auction... system where every man who wanted... any Tobacco, be he large or small, has... an opportunity to attend these sales... and thought then and think now that... this is a better system than the plac... ing of a product in the hands of any... one person or corporation or associa... tion with absolute control, be he or... them ever so honest. The State of... North Carolina fixed and still fixes... the charge that these Warehousemen... receive. If the Wilson Warehousemen... and the other Warehousemen of the... large markets have made any money... out of selling tobacco at Auction, and... they have made money and deserved... to make money, it has been because... of the volume of business done. Wil... son Warehousemen have no apology... to make to Dr. Joyner or to any per... son firm or association (the latter... term a "polite name" for a corpora... tion) for having sought out as Dr... Joyner says.

"THE BEST BUYERS AND BROUGHT THEM HERE" It was a duty, as the Warehousemen felt it, that they owed to their patrons to give them these Best Buyers and plenty of them, so that no man could pass upon the value of any one pile of tobacco. Is it any wonder then that Wilson became One of The Great Marketing Centers For Eastern North Carolina. The methods used by Wilson Warehousemen in seeking trade have been void of any semblance of "false pretense." They have never asked even the humblest farmer to sign any agreement, the nature of which was to take away, whether he knew it or not, the rights vouchsafed them by the Constitution of United States. They have never asked him to sign any instrument by which he lost his identity and by which his property rights went from him without his control, into the hands of a "nebulous thing which has no capital." They have never thought that the farmers of North Carolina, needed any Guardians to be appointed for them from this State or from any other State. The farmers of the eleven counties from which Wilson draws its trade, or rather its biggest volume of trade, seem evidently pleased with Wilson's method of doing business for a recent canvass of acreage in the above mentioned counties, as given out by the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade shows that not quite sixteen (16) per cent had been "signed up" by the Co-operative Association notwithstanding that the farmers had been told by solicitors of the association "That the Markets would not sell at Auction." "That all the Warehousemen had joined their pool," that "All of their neighbors had signed" and all such assurances, merely untrue in their effort to secure by such means what they could not by fair. This percentage and these statements come from the men who make up and constitute the personnel of the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade and I believe the people of North Carolina will believe them just as quickly as they will anybody, anywhere. Will the Co-operative people deny that divers and sundry "tricks" like the above were used in order to secure signatures? Will they release any honorable farmer who upon his oath will say that his signature to their contract was secured in the manner as stated above?

Now again as to the contracts these people offer the Warehousemen. I suppose such a fair association would feed every man out of the same kind of a spoon, or do they have different kind of spoons for different people? The contract I saw was a very one-sided one. In fact it had only one side to it. It might suit the fellow who had a "white elephant" on his hands and the thing struck me was, an association who had taken over many of these "white elephants" and the keepers who went with them and when the final analysis was made and a pay roll of interest had to be met on these "White Elephants," their keepers paid, their high priced foreign and domestic lawyers, executives and a general pay roll amount, and the most available assets that the pool had on hand to settle these things was a lot of tobacco turned over to it by the farmers upon which the farmer had received fifty per cent of a value assessed upon the basis of its auction price, when the tobacco of said farmer was finally all sold would it be like the case of Mr. Andrew Timberlake of Cross Roads, Va., a member of the pool, whose gross sales were $20,97, grading, insurance, etc., $30.35, leaving a net of $39.62 which said net was applied as payment on a note.

Will Some One Please Tell Us: (1) What per cent of the Kentucky crop delivered to the pool has been sold? What percent of the tobacco now in the hands of the association is common tobacco. (2) When will the association sell the tobacco that is still in their hands and when will they pay the farmer in full for his 1921 crop of Burley Tobacco? (3) What per cent of the value fixed on the Kentucky Tobacco did the association advance the farmer and when will the farmer know what it cost him to sell his 1921 crop of tobacco?

These are some of the questions we want the Co-operative association people to answer. Now as to the charge that Dr. Joyner insinuates that the bankers and merchants in the rural districts are making that the farmers are spending their money received for tobacco in Wilson and depositing the money received for their tobacco in Wilson while we will admit that we have some splendid banking institutions and some mighty fine mercantile establishments in Wilson, yet some of our neighboring towns have equally as attractive banking facilities and equally as attractive merchants and it would be a reflection upon the intelligence to say the people of our little sister town Elm City, who has never had a tobacco warehouse to say that their farmers are so easily enticed by Wilson that when they go there with tobacco they leave all their money there. But, if for the sake purely of argument, they left it in Wilson, which they do not do, these people of our neighboring towns would prefer it being left there instead of being sent to Richmond and if Co-operative Marketing is a success, the financial centre will be Richmond. Instead of as it now is Wilson, Kinston, Greenville, Rocky Mount and Farmville for Eastern North Carolina.

In one of North Carolina's big State papers yesterday, appears the following: "Chas. H. Ireland denounces the indifference of the majority of North Carolina shippers to the freight rate situation. It is a mystery, he says. The North Carolina Traffic association is constantly hampered for lack of funds, but, up in Richmond the other night, they raised $10,000 to fight us. Moved by Mr. Ireland's eloquence, three citizens immediately put in $100 for the association." Think of it, $10,000 at one shot out of the box from Richmond to fight to hold their freight rates and only $100 from one of North Carolina's cities.

As stated, the financial headquarters of the Co-operative association has been moved to Richmond. I am a North Carolinian. I have been one for over thirty years and if I did not know a leaf of tobacco from a gullen stalk, I would want to keep the centres of the bright leaf tobacco belt in North Carolina and in those sections of North Carolina which have fought so hard to build up their markets and in building up their markets have caused every section adjacent to them to blossom like a rose. Compare, if you will, the valuation of town property and of farm property in the year 1889, the year before the tobacco markets started and in the year 1921. Compare the value of school property in these sections in 1889 and in 1921. Did tobacco and its culture have anything to do with the change in valuations?

The people of Wilson have never begrudged any neighboring town its prosperity. We do not envy Raleigh, Greensboro, Charlotte or Wilmington because they have the biggest daily newspapers in the state. We have one in Wilson of which we are justly proud. We do not envy Greensboro because it has become the home of the largest life insurance companies and the largest fire insurance companies in the state. We do not envy Durham because it has become the seat of the greatest Hosiery manufacturing industry in the state, nor do we envy Winston-Salem because it has become one of the greatest plug tobacco, cigarette and smoking tobacco manufacturing towns in the world. We had some tobacco manufactures in Wilson, but they were not, all of them successful. We did not "cuss out" Winston-Salem and Durham for their non-success. We just didn't know how to manufacture tobacco so as to compete with the well established firms.

All honor to Wilson, Kinston, Rocky Mount, Greenville and Farmville for having become the centers of the bright leaf tobacco belts of eastern North Carolina. We believe that the farmers of North Carolina prefer them to remain as their centres from what Dr. Joyner says, they must have secured the best tobacco buyers. We believe this to be decidedly a better plan than for the farmers to place their marketing in the hands of foreign lawyers and unwise politicians with the financial centre even in such a beautiful and historic city as Richmond, the city with such "taking" ways. PORTABLE RADIO "A" BATTERY MOST DESIRABLE.
 The "A" battery on any radio set must above all other things, supply current at a uniform voltage rate in order to avoid the need for continual readjustment of the filament rheostat. Second only to this, however, comes light weight and portability.
 Practically all storage batteries being designed for radio purposes are made as light as is consistent with high capacity and efficiency. Some of the smaller "A" batteries are being equipped with removable heavy steel bail-handles which make carrying from place to place very easy.

 The Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland have recognized the demand for light weight and convenient handles in the new All-Rubber Radio "A" Battery, which is now ready for distribution. The smallest of these, having a twenty amperehour capacity weighs but twenty-five pounds. The fifty ampere hour size weighs thirty-five pounds and the larger sizes are in proportion.

 Aside from the handle on these batteries and their much smaller size and compact construction, they very closely resemble the All-Rubber starting battery that the Willard Company introduced to the motorist last fall.

They Have Selected Threaded Rubber

Why did the makers of the cars listed below select Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation?

First— because many years of actual service on thousands of cars have proved that Threaded Rubber Insulation outlasts the battery plates and consequently adds to battery value and car value.

Second— because they know that every piece of Threaded Rubber Insulation is exactly like every other piece—an assurance of uniformity impossible with ordinary insulation.

Third— because they know that rubber is the most satisfactory insulating material, and that Threaded Rubber Insulation is the most practical form for starting and lighting batteries.

Threaded Rubber Insulation outlasts the plates. Does not carbonize, puncture, crack or warp. No expense for re-insulation. These facts are so well established by years of active use, that the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery is used as standard equipment by the builders of 174 American cars and trucks.

The successful combination of rubber and threads in Threaded Rubber Insulation—found only in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery—is the why of its more miles of uninterrupted service per dollar.

"Fatty Arbuckle's famous smile has been chiefly conspicuous by its absence since he was accused of causing the death of Virginia Rappe. He recuperated quickly and revived the smile as shown here when the jury acquitted him. You can't miss "Fatty" in the center. U. S. SHIP SUBSIDY WORRIES ENGLAND AND OTHER NATIONS

Sir Mackay Edgar is Bitter in Attack on Purposes of American Step

International News Service Staff. Correspondent. London. America's proposed shipping subsidy is causing no little worry in British shipping circles. Guarded comment on the proposed subsidy, declaring it to be a mistaken policy, has been made in several of the London newspapers, but it remained for the Saturday Review, owned by Sir Edward Mackay Edgar, to come out with a bitter attack upon the proposed subsidy. Sir Edward is concerned with large British shipping interests. "Now perhaps the eyes of the blind will be opened to the real attitude of America with regard to this country," said the Saturday Review. "Our readers will remember that we gave the first news some weeks ago of a proposed subsidy for American shipping, but we refrained from comment until the rumor should have been confirmed. Now the confirmation has come, and it is worse even than we expected. President Harding has not been long in determining what America is to do with the money to be saved on her navy. Shipping and ship-building are to be subsidized to the tune of some $32,000,000 annually.

Naval Reserve Created. "A merchant marine naval reserve" is to be created; preferential rail rates are to be given to goods carried on American vessels, and 50 per cent of American immigrants are to be compelled to travel in American ships. This reactionary policy is the first outcome of the gush at Washington which we so profoundly mistrusted from the first. It is a direct declaration of war against England.

Not all of the British press is as bitter on the subject as the Saturday Review, but it is generally admitted in shipping circles that the subject of the subsidy adds gloom to an already cloudy outlook.

The United States Immigration bill has already made inroads into British shipping, for the limitation of immigration has steadily cut down the receipts from third-class passenger fares and steps have been taken to protest this matter.

HARDING WARNS SENATE TO FIND DIRECT MEANS OF FINANCING BONUS

Washington, April 19.—President Harding served notice on the senate that means must be found for financing the bonus or veto the bill. The senate was notified through Senator Watson of Indiana following conference early this morning. Senator Watson suggested two ways out of the tangle of the bonus situation. First, a revenue raising provision providing the bonus money be attached to a rider of the tariff bill. Final action on the measure has been delayed until the end of June when it is estimated four billion dollars will be needed.

PRESIDENT HARDING TO SUPPORT RECLAMATION OF ARID SWAMP LANDS

Washington, April 19.—President Harding today assured a delegation of Western senators that the McNary reclamation bill, involving expenditures of the three hundred and fifty million dollars for reclaiming arid swamp lands of southern and western states has his full support.

Dizziness Impairs Mental Capacity (Thursday Health Talk No. 17) (By J. B. Ball D. C.) Without in any sense losing his mental ability to think and exercise judgment, the victim of dizziness and impaired eliminative functions is mentally incapacitated. He has a brain but he cannot use it. He suffers a loss of time. He suffers a period of genuine misery. Dizziness may have any one of a number of causes, but the most common cause is due to an inactive liver. Bowel wastes are retained. The victim feels dull and feverish and on rising everything is black for an instant and there is dizziness.

UNCLE BEN SAYS: "To be told the truth about the state of your health, Navy, don't hurt unless it ought to." The dizziness otherwise known as vertigo, is not so commonly suffered. Victims of vertigo are in danger of falling whenever they attempt to walk. Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik) spinal adjustments remove the cause of dizziness, whether it be due to retained wastes, or is the result of vertigo. Dizziness was After Effect of the "Flu" "After a very severe attack of influenza in 1918 I suffered severely with dizziness. After trying many methods without relief I turned to chiropractic. (Ki-ro-prak-tik). After the second adjustment there was a change for the better. After others I became entirely well. It is now three years since I have taken any adjustments and these three years have been spent under a heavy mental strain. I am a Methodist preacher serving a charge of seven churches." —Rev. J. C. Williams, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1313H.
