TEXAS EVANGELIST SCORES THE DEVIL IN FINE MESSAGE

Dr. Edwards Reveals Old Satan Before Largest Crowd of The Week

BIG DAY PLANNED AT THE MEETING DURING TOMORROW

Meeting to be Brought to Close With Sermon Tomorrow Evening

The largest crowd of the week attended the series of revival services at the Christian church last night and heard Dr. Edwards deliver a particularly interesting and forceful sermon on the subject of "Temptation."

Dr. Edwards' text was taken from the fourth to eighth verses of the fourth chapter of Matthew. He showed that the Master was tempted in all points of life as we are and yet without sin.

He said the devil tempted Jesus through the appetite, pride and personal ambition. The devil can usually tempt us when he tempts mankind, and he is one of these he tries to tempt.

He has been in the business six thousand years and can outwit you if you fight him alone, the evangelist declared. But, thank God, the devil has no chance to win a victory over Jesus Christ.

There are men and women in this city, he declared, who have fought with the devil these many years and are in a losing fight. I am offering you tonight the only friend and one who can save you and give you the victory in the end, and that is Jesus.

Dr. Edwards then closed his timely message with the telling of one or two stories that were very impressive and drove home the wisdom and truth of the message.

One young man responded to the gospel invitation. One of the outstanding features of the meeting is that two thirds of those who have been converted and united with the church are grown young men. A great day is planned at the revival tomorrow. The services will be brought to a close Sunday night by a powerful sermon. A great reception and informal service will be held Monday night.

The evangelist and his company will leave Greenville Tuesday morning for Danville, Va., where they are due to begin a meeting Wednesday night.

AYDEN NEWS.

Two of our townsmen left this week for the Pacific Coast by auto, but they had no schedule to give out as they were going to tarry on the way wherever business justified.

Mr. Ray Stokes and Mr. Jack Blount were the party and Stokes is locally known as "The Sign Fiend" will do the painting to keep down gasoline bills and incidentally keep the hotel proprietors in good humor. Jack promises to sell the work and Ray is to execute. They say they will probably be off all the summer.

Street Work in Progress. Street work is in progress on all the principal streets of our town now and outlying districts have become the most popular thoroughfares on account of traffic being held up on streets that are closed to travel. Progressive always, Ayden is sure to grow faster with the improvement of her streets, and her citizenship look forward with pleasure when the work will be completed.

Farmers Busy. Farmers in our section are taking advantage of the recent rains and transplanting their tobacco, quite a number have made beginning and very little complaint is heard on account of plant shortage.

Primitive Baptist. There will be services at the Universalist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

KIWANIS CLUB IN BUSINESS MEETING HERE LAST NIGHT

Club to Send Large Delegation To Columbia Convention Next Week

MINSTREL TO BE PUT ON BY CLUB AT EARLY DATE, WAS DECIDED

Expert to be in Charge of the Show to be Given in Behalf Of Baseball Club

Members of the Greenville Kiwanis club were in regular business session at the Rotary building last night, and discussed many matters vitally affecting the organization at present time. The meeting was presided over by President J. B. James, who at the outset explained business before the club and got things moving smoothly.

After E. G. Flanagan offered thanks minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The silent boost, a pencil holder attached to a card containing an appropriate poem, was presented by J. B. Harding.

The Columbia convention to be held Thursday and Friday of next week was discussed at length, and it was ascertained that several members would attend. They will leave Greenville Wednesday afternoon.

It was decided the club would put on a minstrel at an early date. The services of an expert director have already been secured, and he will be here in a few days to begin training. Proceeds derived from the show will go to the Greenville baseball club, and it is expected a large attendance will be in evidence.

The attendance prize given by James Ficklen was won by Charlie White, who hung up the best record. Professor H. E. Austin of the Teachers' College only guest present made a brief and interesting response to the introduction and welcome by the club.

The principal feature of the evening was the quartette number, Sweet Adeline, presented by Dr. Charles O'H Laughinghouse, first tenor, J. L. Little, second tenor, H. A. White, baritone and E. G. Flanagan, bass. A solo by Charlie Forbes was also an outstanding feature of the evening.

The singing led by E. E. Williams was greatly enjoyed. Everyone joined in the singing in a spirited way, and sang probably as they never sang before.

Nearly every member bought one or more tickets to the chamber of commerce banquet to be given next Tuesday night. The meeting was probably the most harmonious in many weeks, and fully enjoyed by those in attendance.

ADA JONES COMING TO GREENVILLE SOON

There will be a woman at the High School on Wednesday night in whom everyone will be interested; a woman who probably sang songs to more English speaking people than any other woman in the world. The visitor is to be Ada Jones in person with her own high class supporting company. Whether Ada Jones' impersonation be that of a darky maid, a 'fresh' sales lady, a cowboy girl, a country damsel, Mrs. Flanagan or an Irish Colleen, a bowery tough girl, a newsboy or a grandmother, it is a perfect one of its kind. To all phonograph lovers this is a rare treat to hear and see Ada Jones and her own company. Miss Jones comes here under the auspices of the Rotary Club and boy scouts.

NEW BERN WINS SECOND CONTEST FROM GREENVILLE

High School Club Won From Locals Yesterday by the Score of 11 to 5

The New Bern high school came back at Greenville in old time form at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon and won the second game of the season by the score of 11 to 5. The game was hotly contested at times, but the inability of Greenville to handle the ball and hit opportunely was largely responsible for their defeat.

The New Bern club has seen greater service in high school ball than the locals who embarked for the first time this year. Their long service worked to a great advantage at every stage of the game, and stood out prominently both in the field and at the bat. Greenville fought stubbornly, but inability to handle the ball with greater precision and accuracy was mainly responsible for their undoing.

Zeno Brown pitched a remarkably good game, but was wild and ineffective at times. Satterthwaite, who also appeared on the mound for Greenville apparently had a day off also, and absolutely failed to curb the batting spirit of the visitors at critical stages. Greenville again showed great weakness in base running, and might have been able to increase their score if more care had been used.

Bob Forbes featured for Greenville with the stick, securing a triple at a time when hits were few and far between. The entire New Bern team featured in the run getting, hitting freely particularly with men on bases.

This was the second time Greenville and New Bern have clashed this season, the first game being won by New Bern by the score of 5 to 2. The locals in the first game exhibited superior form both at the bat and in the field, and were due to win the second game. They got a bad start, however, and the old streak of lean luck followed them throughout the remainder of the game.

COMMUNITY SING AT AYDEN DRAWS SPLENDID CROWD

Judge F. M. Wooten Was the Principal Speaker at Affair Last Night

The first community sing in Ayden was held last night in the high school auditorium. June Rose conducted the sing from beginning to end, and as this was the first ever held in Ayden many came with great expectation and were not disappointed.

Judge F. M. Wooten introduced by Mr. G. A. Johnson, made a much appreciated address, stressing the difference between personal liberty and social responsibility. He spoke of the survey made in Ayden by the Red Cross of the good which could be accomplished by the determination of all citizens in a community working together for their community interests—there such an unpolitical organization as the Red Cross not only for civic sanitation and beautification, but for community pride in affording proper recreation for their young people. That the ills which existed were partially our fault no matter who got the blame—that there should be a getting away from personal selfishness and now combined corporation as a community.

The Ayden quartet composed of R. F. Pittman, leader, G. W. Prescott, Lloyd and Roy Turnage gave three delightful selections and were encored many times. Mrs. R. F. Pittman played the accompaniments for the quartet and Mrs. Settle for the community songs.

Mr. Rose delighted the audience with a negro sermon. All of the songs led were from the community Service Inc. Song Books except old

COLLEGE SENIORS SCORE GREAT HIT IN ANNUAL PLAY

Presentation of Merchant Gentleman Greatly Enjoyed Last Night

HIGH WATER MARK IS ESTABLISHED BY EXCELLENCE OF PLAY

Young Women Played Their Parts With Credit to Themselves and School

Never has there been a more pleasing, entertaining high class performance of a play given at East Carolina Teachers College than "The Merchant Gentleman," which was presented by the Senior class last night. It was a great success, and the audience showed appreciation from the very beginning by their ready response with laughter and applause. The great lines of Moliere, that wonderful French dramatist, were put across by the actors, with such clearness and precision that the audience could not fail to catch them, and the acting was of a high order throughout the play. The beautiful dances and the comic apprentice dance, the singing, and the interspersed music added charm and beauty to the play. Never once did it lag, yet the curtain went down only once.

The strains of the orchestra beginning to play at 8:30 made it seem like a real theatre. The orchestra composed of thirteen musicians, added very greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. Their playing and the piano numbers by Misses Mead and Bertolet, made the waits seem all too short.

They certainly kept up the standard set by previous classes. Never did a group of amateur actors enjoy a play more. They threw themselves into the play and acted with abandon and ease worthy of a professional. Their enjoyment of the play imparted itself to the audience.

Moliere's lines full of rare wit and satire were so well handled by the actors that none of the lines were lost. The enunciation of those who took part in the play was excellent and the words could be heard distinctly in any part of the house.

This class is very grateful to the merchants of the town who so generously advertised in the program. This was made as attractive as possible in booklet form.

Those who had charge of the tickets were the class treasurer, Miss Lorene Early, and Misses Mary Brock and Irene Parker.

The class owes especial thanks to those who played in the orchestra. Miss Bass was the conductor and leading violinist and Miss Morgan was at the piano. The musicians were Misses Hennie Long, Mary Moye Savage, Pennie Moore, Jeannett Wedmore, Ruth Swinney, Jan'e Hall, Mrs. Savage, and Messrs Rives, Brooks and Davis and Robert Moye.

A number of the Alumnae came from a distance for the play and were entertained in the college.

The college as well as the class has abundant reason for feeling proud of one of the finest performances ever given in Greenville.

At the evening hour Dr. Edwards subject will be "The Closed Door" and Mr. Pollock will sing "Some One's Last Call." Mrs. J. B. James will preside at the organ.

SPLENDID CROWD ATTENDS SUNDAY SCHOOL OF CITY

Methodists Had Large Attendance Last Sunday and Splendid Program

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Sunday school had a wonderful attendance and program last Sunday.

There were actually present when the count was made 569. Standing room was at a premium again. The music was a feature of the service last Sunday. First there was special music by the regular Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Marvin Blount. Then a group of girls from the college rendered an Easter anthem. The congregational singing was good also. The attendance in the various classes was nothing short of remarkable. There were five or more classes with every one present and on time. There were a large number of classes that had every member present but one.

The adult classes showed up to fine advantage. The Baraca class whose president is Mr. Herbert Waldrop, and whose teacher is Prof. R. H. Wright had another record attendance of over ninety men. This class of men is remarkable in that it holds its member, is always securing new ones, and is always about the business of God both on Sunday and in the week. Last Sunday afternoon the class went out in a body to the Joyner Sunday school. A Sunday previously they went out to the Ballards Cross Roads Sunday school. The other mens class taught by Mr. Bert James, and presided over by Mr. Bob Starr had an attendance of forty.

This is another class of men that can always be counted upon for their share of the work. The Junior Philathea whose teacher is Mrs. W. E. Hooker had an attendance of nearly fifty. This is one of the greatest classes of girls that any Sunday school has ever gotten together, and they are always on the job. Mrs. Herring teaches Philathea No. 1 and the number of women that attend her class every Sunday is proof positive of the great work being done there. The beginners class under the instruction of Mrs. Wiley Brown had 39 present out of an enrollment of 40.

Tomorrow morning the Sunday school will devote a part of its program to the remembrance of its most loyal member who recently died, namely, Mr. G. E. Harris. The school is finding it hard to do his work because he did so much. There will be good music again, and an enthusiastic spirit of good fellowship and worship of the Lord will pervade the services. Time 9:45 till 10:45 and no more.

LOCAL MEN SPEAKERS TO VOCATIONAL CLASSES

The vocational guidance courses being run in the Farmville and Ayden high schools by the Junior Red Cross were fortunate in having two splendid talks yesterday morning.

K. T. Futrell, public welfare officer, in Pitt county, explained the extensive field of his work in North Carolina. He especially stressed the fact that public welfare was to eliminate causes of present existing evils rather than to alleviate those already here. He stressed the necessity of any boy or girl interested in this work to take it up, but to remember that social work of the present time, though new, is approaching a science which one must be well prepared for to begin.

W. B. Pace explained the opportunities for boys and girls who are interested in the extension work now so extensively carried on in every state in the union. Mr. Pace convincingly proved that the earth after all was the beginning of "all means of production," that our agricultural efforts was the scale which necessarily balanced the rest of the world. Mr. Pace showed the large field in this work and explained the field open to girls as Home Demonstrators as well as to the boys in becoming county farm converts.

The cost of living in Vienna is now about 40,000 times that of the 1914.

YOUNG NEGRO IS FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER HERE

Ernest Carney is Released After Hearing in Criminal Court Here Yesterday

Ernest Carney, colored man of this county, was found not guilty of the murder of Wiley Williams in the closing session of criminal court here yesterday afternoon. Only a short time was consumed in consideration, the jury returning a verdict shortly after receiving the case.

A true bill was returned against Carney in the May term of superior court last year, and the case had been pending consideration since that time.

Carney and Williams, according to evidence produced, were sitting on the porch together at the former's home when the shooting is said to have occurred. Carney was cleaning a gun, which accidentally fired, killing his companion almost instantly.

Court will be in session again next week, and several other cases will be disposed of. The most important issue to be taken during the week is that against Bonnie Andrews, young white man of Stokes, sentenced to life in the electric chair last year for alleged criminal assault on Estelle Briley, 12 year old school girl of this section.

NEGRO ROBS CAFE AND IS LANDED IN JAIL HOUR LATER

Elias King Gets the Cash But Winds up Behind the Bars Of City Jail

Greenville had its first trouble from robbers last night when a negro by the name of Elias King entered the Garris cafe on Fifth street and rifled the cash register for approximately nineteen dollars cash. Entrance to the building was made from rear windows, which the negro unlocked while hanging around the place during the day. He is in the county jail today awaiting preliminary hearing in county court.

The robbery is said to have occurred about eleven o'clock. At twelve King was in the custody of Chief Lester Jones for no other reason than being a suspicious character and having too much money in his possession. This morning the department was notified of the robbery and suspicion centered so strongly around King that he preferred outright confession to a more complete probe by city officials.

He told the officers how he hung around the cafe during the day and unlocked the windows when the proprietor was looking after other customers. The robbery is the first occurring here in many months, and had it not been for the vigilance of the police department King in all probability would still be at liberty with his cash haul.

RAILWAY STRIKE IN UNITED STATES AGAIN MENACING

Tieup of Six Hundred Thousand Men Loomed Largely Early Today

Chicago, April 22.—The menace of a railway strike involving six hundred thousand members and railways employees of the American Federation of Labor loomed large today as officials began sending out strike ballots.

The chief grievance to be considered by the men, officials said, is the alleged violation by the railroads on the ruling of having workmen in outside shops.

AUCTION SYSTEM DECLARED BETTER FOR THE GROWER

Prominent Man Thinks State Will Remain Independent Of Co-operatives

TOBACCO GROWERS CAN'T BE FOOLED BY NEW MEASURES

Old System of Marketing Still Considered Necessary to Industry

By W. EARLY BASS.

Written for Tobacco Board of Trade. In an issue under date of April 11 there was a statement in the Raleigh News and Observer made by J. C. Stone, president of the Burley Co-operative Marketing Association of Kentucky, in which he says the association has handled more than 100 million pounds of tobacco the past season at a total cost to the farmer of 40 cents per hundred.

The growers and tobacco men generally throughout North Carolina are desirous of knowing just what items of expense are included in this total cost of 40 cents per hundred. Does Mr. Stone mean that this figure includes interest on six million dollars worth of warehouse property the association has agreed to buy or lease? Does he include shrinkage and redrying cost of the 35 million pounds the association has advertised for sale in the various tobacco journals throughout the country? Has he included the salaries of the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, directors, graders, managers, and their assistants? Has he included the cost of office space, such as bookkeepers, stenographers, collectors and other office help that is required to keep track of an enormous amount of business? Has he included the printing, advertising, stationery, postage, office equipment and rent? Has he included the salary of an expert press agent and his assistants? Has he included the weekly pay-roll of a hundred or more receiving plants which the association has under operation? Has he included license, taxes, insurance, lights, etc.? Last but not least, we want to know if he overlooked the fees or salary of Aaron Sapiro, the world famous co-operative marketing expert who claims to have built the association to such wonderful success in Kentucky?

No, the majority of the tobacco growers and tobacco people in North Carolina have had too much business experience to drink in such a statement. We thoroughly understand his course of defending this statement. He argues to the growers and the public that this enormous expense is absorbed in the price the manufacturers pay the association for their tobacco. Yet has he been able to prove this to the members of the association? The people of North Carolina haven't been furnished with official figures proving that the association members received more for their tobacco than the non-pooled farmer received over the auction floor in Kentucky; in fact, there is no way to determine what the association member has received for his entire crop until all of the 1921 crop of pooled tobacco is sold.

Defense of Auction System. In defense of why a majority of our growers and tobacco men generally in North Carolina oppose the co-operative marketing plan of selling our tobacco: We believe the auction system best for all parties concerned because it has proven its merits over a period of 50 years or more. The growers have prospered under this system from year to year with the exception of a year now and then in which all industries suffered. Tobacco is the greatest industry of our state. There is more money paid the grower for tobacco than any other crop he produces. Our State ranks among the first in the manufacture of tobacco. Revenue paid to the government from the tobacco industry in this State runs into the millions yearly. The industry gives employment to thousands of good citizens from year to year. We are proud of our position in the tobacco world and we are going to try and hold it.

"Russia's need less acute than under ordinary circumstances"—headline. Does it refer to food or peace—which?

While we haven't seen much evidence of an observance of clean-up week in Greenville it is hoped the public will realize the importance of the campaign and get busy and help make it a success. Cleanliness is next to godliness, as the old saying goes, and this applies as much to a town where the individual lives as to the individual himself. Clean towns and cities invariably attract the stranger to a far greater extent than formerly. People are becoming more discerning to day than ever before, and the careless citizen not only creates an unfavorable opinion himself but causes the same to reflect upon his town. If you haven't cleaned up, get busy and do so before the campaign comes to an end.

Pitt county's political pot was boiling furiously at one time, but the co-operative marketing association and other things of greater moment have caused interest to subside somewhat. As a result some of the candidates have dropped out of the race entirely and others may be figuring on doing the same. They have of course expressed thanks to their expected supporters, declaring their faith in victory had they continued the race. By election day the number for each office will be decreased to a much greater extent, and the race will be more exciting possibly than if so many had continued. The money shortage causes some to wish they had a lucrative political office, probably, but those who have dropped out evidently had rather stand on the outside and look on with what they have than to spend much money and then not win. It's a risky proposition, this business of depending on public vote, and those who quit the game can't be blamed very much.

HE SHOULD REMAIN HERE

While the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce hasn't decided where Mr. Bartlett, its Vice-President and manager will be permanently located, it is believed they will decide to let him remain in Greenville. This is the only logical place for him.

The president and other officials of the organization either reside here or in close proximity, and it would reduce expenses considerably by having them all close together.

In fact, when all the officers are near to one another they can discuss issues more frequently, and really give more actual time to matters requiring immediate attention. When officers are far apart they either have to spend much money on telegrams and postage stamps or meet each other by automobile or train. This expense should be eliminated so far as possible during infancy of the organization.

This is a beginning in economy that should be in evidence at all times, and it is hoped it will be considered from a serious viewpoint. Greenville offers as many advantages as any other town, and it is certainly the logical and practical location for an officer who should be constantly in touch with officials residing here.

DEMOCRACY COMING STRONG.

The State Democratic convention assured everybody that our political leaders have great faith in the future, and are planning to gain ascendancy again at the next election. Such faith will really work wonders when the time for action arrives, and no one appreciates it more than those who have seen the results of party faith in other years.

The convention members realized the public is getting impatient with the Republicans who have made vain promises from the day they went into office, and when this flares up into a great flame of discontent as it surely will, the Democrats are destined to go back into power as quick as they went out. Democracy today is recognized as the only hope of lasting peace among all civilization, and it would be a shame on American people if they should continue to ignore its principles when they attempted to preach it to the rest of the world.

If we have faith in our own great government then it's up to us to make it truly democratic. To this end the masses must insist on an entire Democratic administration, the only kind capable of causing the nation to live up to its true greatness among other countries.

GETTING 'EM IN A HOLE.

Arrangement of the Republican party by certain Democrats doesn't seem to be any too strong or out of the way. To tell the truth the Republicans have made a miserable failure out of virtually every issue considered, and are now trying to cover up their mistakes as best they can. It's mighty easy to stand on the outside and advise others how to do, but when it comes to doing it—that's another matter entirely, as many have learned.

The Democrats really accomplished many wonderful results during the greatest war the world has ever known. If they could have continued conditions now would be much better. The Republican saw their opportunity to take advantage of the country at a time when everybody was restless and didn't know what they wanted, and by vain promises won their way into office. But they are finding things entirely different these days. The things which looked so easy require more brains and endurance than the party can give them, and failure is staring them in the face at every turn.

Another election day is coming by and by, and the landslide that gave the G. O. P.'s victory is going to fall on the other side. The public is realizing its mistake each succeeding day. And that old saying that you can fool the folks some of the time but not all the time is gradually coming into being.

While the games were in progress the guests enjoyed candies which were found on each table. These also carried out the prevailing color scheme.

Mrs. J. L. Hassell and Mrs. Loula Fleming making the highest scores were presented with glass baskets filled with candies. Mrs. Frank Wilson was presented with a cut glass and silver perfume bottle.

The hostess assisted by Misses Mary Warren and Dorothy Norman served an ice course and salted nuts. This also carried out the color scheme.

James-Davis.
 A wedding of much interest occurred at St. Timothy's Episcopal church yesterday evening at 7 o'clock when Miss Mary Stuart Davis, youngest daughter of Mr. and Thomas A. Davis, became the bride of Mr. Larry Moore James of Greenville, North Carolina.

Handsome decorations of palms, ferns and Easter lilies formed a lovely setting for the bridal party. Immediately before the ceremony Mrs. David M. Carter of Washington, an aunt of the bride, accompanied by Mrs. E. F. Guilford at the organ, sang "Entreat Me To Leave Thee" and "O Perfect Love." The ushers, Mrs. Sam Telfair Davis and Mr. Richard W. King of Greenville, were followed by Miss Ada James, sister of the groom, gowned in changeable blue taffeta with silver accessories and silver laurel wreath in her hair and carrying a bouquet of variegated sweet peas. Mr. Julian Jordan White of Greenville and Mr. Elliott Stevens of Warsaw preceded Miss Hannah Dixon of Greenville wearing a gown of sunset changeable taffeta with silver accessories and carrying sweet peas.

Mr. Charles O. Laughinghouse of Greenville and Mr. Frank Hooker of Kingston were followed by Miss Josephine Skinner of Greenville wearing a green changeable taffeta with silver accessories and carrying variegated sweet peas. Little Misses Susan and Martha Grimes of Salisbury, twin cousins of the bride, entered next. They wore dainty frocks of pink taffeta and carried baskets of sweet peas. The only sister of the bride, Mrs. Marvin Snyder of Salisbury, matron of honor, immediately preceded the bride. She wore a gown of changeable orchid satin with large orchid plumed hat and carried Russell roses.

The bride beautiful in her handsome wedding gown heavily embroidered in pearls entered the church with her father, Mr. Thomas Atkinson Davis, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom who was accompanied by his brother, Mr. Charles James of Greenville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Morrison Bethes, Archdeacon of this diocese and was followed by a small reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

The bride is a girl of exceptional charm and beauty, and the ceremony in St. Timothy's church was of peculiarly tender interest to her because of the fact that her grand father, Mr. Thomas C. Davis was senior warden of St. Timothy's for nearly half a century. She is also a grand daughter of Dr. James C. Cordon and a great neice of Gov. Daniel G. Fowle of North Carolina. The bridegroom is a son of Col. and Mrs. F. G. James of Greenville, banker and lawyer, and Mrs. James has important business interests in Greenville where the young couple will make their home after a delightful automobile trip.

An unusually handsome array of presents was on display at the home of the bride's parents, and a large number of guests were present from out of town for the wedding. Among those were, Mrs. David M. Carter of Washington, Mrs. Percy Grimes and daughter, Susan and Martha, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Snyder of Salisbury, Major Sam Telfair and Mr. and Mrs. James Cordon of Raleigh, Col. and Mrs. F. G. James, Mr. and Mrs. Bert James, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, Mrs. Joseph Dixon, Mrs. Georgia James and Misses Ada James, Elizabeth White, Maude Nixon, Hannah Fulford, Frances Whedbee, Lilian Joyner, Josephine Skinner, Mary James Lipscomb and Hannah Dixon of Greenville, and Miss Irene Grimesley of Greensboro, Messrs. Burton James, Bill James, Sidney Davis, Bruce Warren, D. James, Thomas Gorman, James, Charles and Louis Skinner, John and Graham Flanagan of Greenville.—Wilson Times.

AUCTION SYSTEM DECLARED BETTER FOR THE GROWER (Continued from page one) rank we have justly created under the auction system. We believe the manufacturers and buyers of our tobacco prefer the auction system, not because they will buy their tobacco cheaper but because of required equipment already constructed to conform to present auction system, and because they are probably not willing to leave the grading of their tobacco in the hands of people, in the great majority of cases, who are not familiar with their standard requirements in tobacco stocks.

Why is it necessary to tear down a system that has cost millions to perfect? A system that has paid our farmers generously for his tobacco whenever possible? And advocate unnatural forces which we believe could only bring disappointment to the people of our prosperous state.

We are inclined to look upon the manufacturer as our friend and customer, instead of a thief who robs us of our tobacco, and especially do we appreciate the foreign manufacturer, who comes to our very doorstep and buys more than 50 per cent of our production of tobacco. It would be a sad day for us should we awake and find these concerns seeking their requirements elsewhere, yet could we expect more if we offended them? Is there any law prohibiting a concern seeking another market? We do not believe that the majority of growers and tobacco men generally in Eastern North Carolina are asleep enough to believe that the manufacturer is compelled to come here for his raw material in bright tobacco.

We have no monopoly of territory in growing tobacco, like the California section that grows raisins, prunes and various adaptable fruits. It doesn't take for years a great outlay of capital to grow a crop of tobacco like it does a bearing vineyard or orchard in the fruit growing country, and then they have a practically finished product ready to be distributed throughout the country to the consumers in every walk of life, from the street urchin to the millionaire, while our tobacco has to undergo various processes of redrying, aging and manufacturers formulas before the consumer is reached. With all these facts confronting us, we believe a majority of the tobacco growers of North Carolina are going to show their disapproval of the co-operative marketing plan by staying out of the association. We have no criticism for those who honestly see it differently. We have no objection to the state of Kentucky pooling their burley tobacco. Their type is entirely different from ours and will not conflict in grade at all. Our position in regard to production is the reverse of theirs. They claim to have a monopoly of limestone soil which is essential to growing burley tobacco—yet time alone will prove that fact. In the meantime, let us consider and think for ourselves a while before we disrupt and tear down a proven system that has forged our State to the front along the lines of commerce and agriculture, as statistics will show.

We have read and heard with patience the rasping, stinging criticism dealt us by the silver tongued orators, lawyers and officers of the Kentucky Association because we refuse to surrender our property, our business, our life work and our convictions. They say we are stumbling blocks in the path of our State's prosperity and that humiliation and bankruptcy will soon lay us low. That threat might frighten a few into their ranks, but thank God there are scores of others who are standing up for their rights and their honest convictions as to what they believe is right and best for the greatest industry of their State. Therefore, the loyal supporters of the good old auction system are going to stand pat and afford the grower of North Carolina who doesn't think it best to join the Co-operative Marketing Association, ample facilities to sell his crop over the loose leaf auction floors as he has in past years. We are going to try and forget the years of 1917, 1928 and 1919, when our commercial centers, forced valuations brought about by a hellish war, disrupt our industries, upset our commercial centers, forced valuations and created a burning flame of discontent and unrest in the peoples of the world. We are going to study the natural law of supply and demand a little closer, produce our hog and hominty at home and live happily at peace with the world.
