PITT COUNTY BOARD OF HEALTH HOLDS SPLENDID MEETING

Dr. C. L. Outland, Health Officer, Makes Gratifying Report; Board Discusses Many Timely Matters

The Pitt County Board of Health met in regular session on Monday, August 3rd. The meeting was called to order by Secretary D. M. Clark, and Mr. Fitzgerald being appointed temporary chairman. The following motions were considered.

Dr. W. I. Wootter reported for the committee to obtain garages for cars of the Health Department. Dr. Wootter reported that since this committee was appointed the county authorities had required individuals using cars to purchase same according to the state plan, which of course made it unnecessary to arrange for garages.

Dr. Outland, the Health Officer, reported that since January 1, 1925, 3102 school children had been treated for dental defects. Also that since January 1, 1925 only 28 cases of typhoid fever had been reported in Pitt county, and that these were scattered over a wide area with no epidemic indicated. He also reported that the town of Greenville had adopted the Milk Ordinance recommended by the State Board of Health requiring the grading of milk, etc., and that the grading process is now in action so far as the dairies supplying milk to Greenville are concerned. The board instructed Dr. Outland to write to all doctors practicing in Greenville, requesting cooperation in the use of Grade A Milk so as to make the ordinance more effective.

Dr. Outland further reported that examination by him and the State Laboratory of Hygiene reveals pollution of the wash tanks used by the soft drink stands in the county, and that in no instance was sterilization either by boiling water or sal soda methods being used. That laboratory examination disclosed the presence of bacteria in large quantities in this water, and that among these bacteria were coli bacilli and other infecting organisms.

Following this report the board discussed the advisability of reinstating the ordinance which was passed in 1920, relative to the use of individual drinking cups at all places in the county where soft drinks were dispensed. After a thorough discussion it was decided by the board that it would be best to give the dispensers of soft drinks a hearing relative to the reinstatement of said ordinance, which was repealed in 1921. The board voted to have another meeting on Tuesday, August 11th, at three P. M., to which meeting all concerned will be invited. If there is any reason why the health of the general public should not be protected, by an ordinance enforcing the use of sanitary drinking cups then will be the time to present such reasons to the Board of Health.

The Board of Health directed the Health Officer to give a report of this meeting to the county papers and to notify all dispensers of soft drinks of the coming meeting and give them an opportunity to attend said meeting.

D. M. CLARK, Secretary Board of Health.

Famous Old Manuscript Found

Leningrad. — An old manuscript discovered in the archives of the Leningrad library is claimed by the Academy of Science to be the original manuscript of the famous Oriental tales "A Thousand and One Nights." As early as the 13th century it was believed that this manuscript had been destroyed. This rare find has now been incorporated in the Russian National Museum of Moscow.

Army Division Mobilizes Quickly. Camp Lewis, Wash. — The third army division here can mobilize and be ready to entrain in one hour and 45 minutes. This was determined recently in a test mobilization ordered by Major General William H. Johnston, camp commander. The mobilization plan was kept secret until the orders were issued. Every unit in camp packed up and was at the railroad station within the time stated.

WIDELY KNOWN SOUTHERN WRITER CRITICALLY ILL

John T. Graves is in an Extremely Critical Condition; Hope for Recovery Virtually Abandoned

Washington, Aug. 5.—John T. Graves, widely known southern writer, was in an extremely critical condition at his home here today and members of his family virtually had abandoned hope for his recovery. Mr. Graves has been ill for some time, his general condition being complicated by hardening of the arteries. The turn for the worse came a day or two ago and members of his family were summoned. Last night it was believed that the end was near, but today he rallied slightly.

EMINENT PSYCHO-ANALYST, CO-WORKERS OF FREUD, DIES

Vienna.—Dr. Joseph Breuer, one of the most widely noted of psychoanalysts, died recently at the age of 83. As early as 1882 he was credited with curing with the aid of hypnosis a pronounced case of hysteria in a woman. It was this epoch making cure which is said to have led Dr. Sigmund Freud, 14 years younger than Dr. Breuer, to build up a psycho-analytic system of his own. Subsequently, both scientists collaborated in setting down their experiences on this subject in a book called "The Psychic Mechanism of Hysterical Problems," published in 1893, and in a later publication, "Hysteria."

Dr. Breuer did not entirely approve of the theories which Freud continued to advance and soon gave up further analytical research work, but his personal relations with Freud continued unmarried.

TWO WHITE WOMEN ATTACKED BY WHITE MAN AND NEGROES

One Woman Dies After Being Attacked and Beaten by Two Negroes, While Another Is in Serious Condition

Asheboro, Aug. 5.—Posses early today were searching for an unidentified white man and a negro wanted for two attacks on white women alleged to have taken place near here and near Pinehurst last Monday. One negro was carried to Raleigh early today charged with complicity in one of the crimes.

One group of armed men scoured the woods several miles south of here searching for a white man alleged to have attacked a 16 year old girl, while another group led by blood hounds followed the trail of the negro. The young white girl had gone to gather vegetables when she was accosted by the man. After the crime was committed the man fled through the woods and the girl returned to her home and reported the occurrence. She is in a serious condition.

Severely beaten by two negroes after being attacked, the white woman died within a short while. News of this attack spread rapidly to Moore county, bringing armed men to the scene of the occurrence within an hour.

Rates on Peanuts Held by Commission Unreasonably High

Washington, Aug. 5.—Rates on peanuts moving from southern territory to Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland and other northern cities were held today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to be unreasonably high. Railroads were ordered to bring about a reduction by October 30th by decreasing the amount included in the rate for the hauls, north of Cincinnati.

Will Combat Every Question Raised on Appeal Scopes' Case

Battle Creek, Michigan, Aug. 5.—Governor Austin Peay, of Tennessee, in a statement here today announced that the state of Tennessee will employ counsel from this time forward and combat every question that can be raised on appeal of the Scopes case.

"What effect the evolution trial at Dayton will have in the long run is for the future to tell," the Governor said. "Surely it will cause a more wide spread investigation of the whole theory of evolution that will go a long way toward clarifying the atmosphere."

"The reckless teaching of a subject which has been carried on until now and going on uncorrected and undigested, has been steadily making agnostics and unbelievers among our youth in shocking numbers. Ours, from the beginning, has been a Christian nation, and its doom is sealed and its descent toward oblivion well begun, whenever we embrace infidelity and agnosticism as a belief."

"The people of Tennessee," Governor Peay said, "know that evolution is, and in the very nature of things, must always remain a speculation and a theory. They believe that the Bible is the revealed and inspired word of the creation of all things and are unwilling for their children to be taught the contrary."

Maryland Penitentiary Visited by Fire Today

Baltimore, Aug. 5.—All town fire fighting apparatus and a heavy police guard were rushed to the Maryland Penitentiary here shortly after noon today to fight a three alarm fire which broke out in the prison shops. The fire started in the furniture factory to the rear of the prison dormitory. From within the walls came word that all was disorder among the prisoners and that guards were ready to halt by gun fire any attempt of prisoners to take advantage of the emergency.

STRIKE ANTHRACITE MINERS SEPT. FIRST APPEARS CERTAIN

Negotiations for Working Contract to Replace One Expiring Aug. 31, Broken Off Last Night

Atlantic City, New Jersey, Aug. 5.—Suspension of work on September 1 by 153,000 anthracite miners in the Pennsylvania field appears certain unless an outside influence, federal or state, brings together the United Mine Workers and Anthracite Coal operators.

Negotiations for a working contract to replace the one expiring August 31, were broken off here last night. The conference voted to adjourn subject to call by either side through chairman.

The miners said their grievance was the announced refusal of the operators to entertain any wage damage on the part of the men which would boost production cost of hard coal so much as a cent. Miners said this was the key to the operator's position and that they found it automatically barred any chance of agreement.

William W. Englis, chairman of the operators section of the joint scale sub-committee, charged on the other hand that John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers had gone into the conference with his mind made up to break negotiations.

English Channel Remains Unconquered Today By a Woman

Calais, Paris, Aug. 5.—The English channel remains unconquered today by a woman. The icy water, which has mastered so many swimmers, last night baited Mademoiselle Jane Sion, of France when within one and one quarter miles of her goal on the English Coast.

Mademoiselle Sion was in the water 13 hours and 30 minutes. She made a gallant effort and came closer to success than any woman who ever tried to negotiate the treacherous 21 miles of the channel from France to England. Miss Lillian Harrison, of Argentina, who a fortnight ago made her third unsuccessful attempt to swim the channel, was also compelled to leave the water because of the cold, when five miles from her goal.

Four Electrically Operated Stills Found Cave Under Garage

New York, Aug. 5.—The drive to dry up New York by nabbing the big fish and letting the small fry off with fines has uncovered a subterranean distillery valued at $100,000. Fifty barrels of denatured alcohol, 5,000 gallons of grain alcohol, five expensive automobiles used for delivery purposes and a blue book of customers containing the names of many prominent men and women. Smashing their way through wooden and concrete walls, police and prohibition agents yesterday were confronted by four 200 gallon electrically operated stills in a cave under a garage. Unable to shut off the current, they watched the stills with a compiled daily capacity of 12,000 gallons continuing operation until the power company men found the switch board.

World War Hero Loses by Half Mile in Attempt Swim Channel

London, Aug. 5.—Lieutenant Colonel Bernard C. Freyberg, world war hero, lost by a scant half mile his attempt today to swim the English Channel. After battling the treacherous tides and current of the channel for approximately 17 hours during which at one time he was only 600 yards from the English Coast, he abandoned the attempt and was taken aboard a tug.

GERMANY WOULD BE SLAVE IN PAN-EUROPE, SAYS EDITOR

Berlin.—Propaganda for a United States of Europe, started and headed by Count Coudenhove-Calergi, has aroused the ire of the conservative newspaper Taegliche Rundschau, which says in such a union Germany would be accorded the position of a slave.

The ultimate object of four great world powers; Pan-Europe, Great Britain, America and Asia, with English as the universal language, is regarded as a myth and the newspaper adds, "Any Frenchman will merely smile disdainfully at the suggestion that henceforth he is to carry on all negotiations in English."

The Rundschau asks, "Where is that authority in Europe today to fuse the nations together? We Germans, though powerless, absolutely refuse as the sons of Bismarck to become part and parcel of a Gaulish hegemony." The idea that France would agree to a condition of equality with a powerless opponent, is derided by the newspaper.

ORDERS REVISION RATES CLASSIFIED FREIGHT SHIPMENT

New Scale of Rate to Govern Classified Freight Shipments Into and Out of South Created

Washington, Aug. 5.—A revision of all rates on classified freight shipments in territories constituting the south eastern quarter of the United States was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the basis for the rearrangement of schedules was laid down. A new scale of rate to govern classified shipments into and out of the south was created.

Railroads were required to revise their schedules in accordance with the terms of the commission provisions before January 1, next.

The revision of the Southern class rates as ordered resulted from an investigation which the commission has had in progress for the past 18 months. The purpose of the new schedule is to iron out unjustified rate differences throughout the territory and incidental increases and reductions in the rates will be accomplished in various parts of the state. The main guidance approved by the commission for railroads to follow in reconstructing their class schedules was a distance scale. Under it rates on a class one shipment moving a distance of five miles must become 30 cents per 100 pounds, the total decreasing with each drop in classification until class twelve shipments, moving five miles will take a rate of 5 cents. The amount thereafter will rise in proportion to distance of movement and class of freight until a class one shipment over a distance of 1500 miles will take a charge of $2.88 per 100 pounds while a class 12 shipment over the same distance will take a rate of 50 cents.

Infestation of Cotton By Boll Weevil Higher Now Than Last Year

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—Infestation of cotton fields by the boll weevil now averages much higher than at any time last year and is much heavier in southern and eastern counties of the state, growing progressively lighter in the western cotton area, Franklin Sherman, of the State Division of Entomology, announced today.

Mr. Sherman reported that a number of county agents and the 20 special boll weevil experts employed through the summer by the Agricultural Extension Service of the State College had furnished the information on which he based his findings.

"The heavier infestation of the insect is met with a favorable attitude of mind toward dusting," Mr. Sherman said. "There is more than four times as much dusting being done as in any previous year, and much of it is carried out under improved conditions. Cultured methods and conditions have averaged good. Cotton is making excellent growth after fruiting heavily. Of the direct methods of boll weevil control, there is no doubt but that the standard dust method is now uppermost in the minds of the best farmers."

Mr. Sherman's deductions were drawn from his own field trip and examinations, from reports received from Dr. R. W. Leiby, who has been in the field almost constantly during the summer, from Bruce Mabe, extension entomologist, who spends his entire time in the fields and from county agents and extension specialists.

For the eastern section, it appears that infestation has greatly increased during the past two weeks. Mr. Sherman reported. Heavier infestation is found on rank cotton on black land. During the week ending July 30, one eastern observer reported that on early every farm there was one field with infestation as high as ten per cent. Ten to 25 percent was very common and in some cases this ran as high as 50 per cent. The hot, dry weather was having some deterrent effect, however.

Some of the observers and field men reported that parasites were at work on the weevils in some eastern counties and where dusting was done there have been outbreaks of the leaf aphid.

only twenty-seven were being murdered in London, although London is nearly three times as large. But see how differently the two cities handled the murderers. London did not have a single unsolved murder, the Commissioner of Police reported. In seventeen cases sixteen persons were arrested, one of them for two murders. Of these, nine were hanged, four were found insane at the time of the murder, one was acquitted because he acted in self-defense, one died awaiting trial and one is yet to be dealt with. In the other ten cases the murderers committed suicide while awaiting trial, a fact which speaks eloquently of their idea of their chances for escape.

And Chicago? The figures for 1923 are not available, but Richard Washburn Child has cited the figures for 1921, which are typical. In that year there were 190 murders. For these, 225 defendants were brought to trial. Out of the 225, three-fourths went scot free. Only six paid with their lives, and one-fifth went to the penitentiary.

It would be absurd to hold Chicago up to derision for its murders. It may lead the rest of the country, but not by much. Conditions in Chicago are conditions in New York or any other American city. What are we going to do about it? Are we going to argue and theorize about it while the guns bang day and night? Or are we going to be practical, go to London, where success has been attained, find out what to do, and do it?—N. Y. World.

HAD YOUR LITTLE MURDER TO-DAY?

Consider the significance of the dispatch from Chicago which told about murders. The murder-rate there for the current year is a little more than one a day. Last year there were 347 murders, the year before that 270, and so on. The rate in proportion to population is thirteen times that of Canada and twenty-eight times that of London.

This, however, is only part of the story. There is the other side—what happens after the murder is committed. While 270 persons were being murdered in Chicago during 1923,

Prospects Good for First Class Displays Gaston County Fair

Gastonia, Aug. 4. — Despite severely hot, dry weather, prospects are good for a first class field crops display at the Gaston county fair, to be held in October, it was announced here today by Fred M. Allen, executive secretary.

"The small grain exhibits," said Mr. Allen, "will surpass all previous displays of the kind. The local wheat crop was unusually good in many sections of Gaston county this season, even though lack of sufficient rains in April and May retarded it somewhat.

"Splendid exhibits in wheat, rye and oats already have been brought in and stored from numerous farms over this section, in sufficient quantities to insure the largest show yet for this department.

"A new grain for Gaston county not previously entered at the fair will be barley. Five sheaves of this, raised in Cherryville township, have already been entered by one grower.

"Owing to deprivations by rats, weasels, and other pests, it is all but impossible for a farmer to keep a sheaf of grain intact until fair time. For this reason, such exhibits are being stored. A specially arranged place where they will be safe from pests is being used.

BULGARIAN OFFICIAL GOT ACTIVE PROOF OF ROBBER BAND'S WORK

Vratsa, Bulgaria. — Minister of Justice Boboshevski recently visited the Vratsa district to assure residents that their complaints of the activities of bandits were unjustified. Summer visitors had been kept away from the district, it was alleged, by reports that the district was overrun with bandits.

Returning to Sofia the minister of justice and his party were attacked by a band headed by Ivan Atanasoff, a former school teacher. The militia went to the aid of the official party, seriously wounded Atanasoff and killed the members of his band.

WHITE'S "GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE" WEDNESDAY ONE DAY

FLORENCE VIDOR IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE"

What are the "Grounds for Divorce?" This question seems to be tearing our modern civilization to pieces. Each day the papers blaze forth in headlines all about the "So-and-so's Sensational Divorce Suit."

Consider for a moment the case of the Sorbiers. Maurice Sorbier, a highly successful French attorney, married Alice. She was beautiful. He was handsome and rich. What more could a newly married couple wish for? Nothing until it happened.

Their first wedding anniversary finds him wrapped up in his latest case, never for a moment giving a thought to the theatre party his wife has so carefully planned for the occasion.

A misunderstanding develops into a small size riot and ends up in a divorce. Alice marries again; Maurice is mixed up in an affair with a French actress, his latest client; the girl finds her new husband worse than the first and has Maurice help her obtain a divorce, and they are remarried.

Great stuff for a movie, what. And what a laughing matter Paramount has made of it! Florence Vidor, Matt Moore and Louise Fazenda, screen comedienne, are featured in the leading roles of the production, written for the screen by Violet Clark from Ernest Vajda's Broadway stage success of the same name, which in turn was adapted by Guy Bolton.

Harry Myers plays in support. For Thursday Manager Marous has arranged to bring back at popular prices the screens greatest attraction "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" with the star of stars Lon Chaney, Pat by Huu Miller and Norman Kerry in the cast. Superlatives will make it no bigger and no more interesting; the only tip we can give you is come early so you can be assured a good seat. Those who saw it before will see it again so if you can come out to the special matinee, do so. Matinee at 3:30 and only one show at night 8:39. The last chance to see a classic of the screen. Remember only one day Thursday, August 6, and prices Mat. 10 and 25c; Night 10-25-35

Defies Age by Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

Tells Pitt Drug Company Not To Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin. No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows' feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

CURRENT OPINION

Stock prices are forging steadily ahead, while bond prices are moving horizontally. Thus far the highest record for typical bonds taken as a whole was made May 23rd. Since then no substantial general decline has occurred, and the slight movements have been mostly without significance. Share prices, however, are now responding to a set of influences rather distinct from those which affect the bond market. The chief reasons why we have continued to recommend holding securities in the hope of somewhat higher prices are to be found in the economic situation. This has not yet become bearish, and until it does one may fairly argue that it is more conservative to wait than to begin realising extensively. In modern times a period of prosperity or a bull movement has never terminated other than simultaneously with some sort of boom in the steel industry; and this boom has not yet come to light. It is to be expected unless precedent fails; and this is not likely to occur because any kind of over-expansion would reflect itself in the steel trade. Operating costs have not yet become inflated—although they nearly always do so around the time when the security markets reach their high peak. Nearly all great upward movements of securities terminate during the autumn movement in trade, and this boom has not yet arrived—even though it seems to be on the way.

Brokerage loans are at the equivalent of last March which is about the peak of the year. Some uneasiness has been in evidence on this account but the banks have shown no disposition to curtail operations, so that reactions up to date may be regarded as merely technical. The culmination of the bull market seems far enough away to still present many opportunities for careful buying for a further advance. We favor railroads, gas and electric light and power stocks.

Spots quiet 10 cb. n.d. 2450.
 Julian Cotton Letter.
 New York, Aug. 5.—Liquidation of a long line of cotton which has been expected for some days was the feature of today's session, and the ease with which the market absorbed it can be ascribed to the desire of some local professional operators to either even up or reduce their commitments prior to the bureau report on Saturday.

The weekly weather report was, we think, considered here a stand-off, but it was not as optimistic as the majority had expected.

Opinion here as to what the government may show is highly mixed. It is generally admitted that the loss in Texas has been very severe but whether the crop reporting board will give consideration to the rains that have fallen in Texas or to the breaking of the Oklahoma drought, no one can tell.

Speculation in cotton has been dealt a terrific blow by the Government reports, and traders who ordinarily are willing to stand by and absorb the weight of the first hedging seem indisposed to enter the market in this role at this time so the question arises who will assume this weight around these prices.

The technical condition of the market may be considered improved after today's operations and no change of consequence is expected before Monday's trading.

CHAPTER XIV (Continued)

"Then where the dooce did they drop from?" asked Lord John.

"A question which will, no doubt, be eagerly discussed in every scientific society in Europe and America," the Professor answered. "My own reading of the situation for what it is worth—" he inflated his chest enormously and looked insolently around him at the words—"is that evolution has advanced under the peculiar conditions of this country up to the vertebrate stage, the old types surviving and living on in company with the newer ones. Thus we find such modern creatures as the tapir—an animal with quite a respectable length of pedigree—the great deer, and the ant-eater in the companionship of reptilian forms of Jurassic type. So much is clear. And now come the ape-men and the Indian. What is the scientific mind to think of their presence? I can only account for it by an invasion from outside. It is probable that there existed an anthropoid ape in South America, who in past ages found his way to this place, and that he developed into the creatures we have seen, some of which—here he looked hard at me—"were of an appearance and shape which, if it had been accompanied by corresponding intelligence, would, I do not hesitate to say, have reflected credit upon any living race. As to the Indians I cannot doubt that they are more recent immigrants from below. Under the stress of famine or of conquest they have made their way up here. Faced by ferocious creatures which they had never before seen, they took refuge in the caves which our young friend has described, but they have no doubt had a bitter fight to hold their own against wild beasts, and especially against the ape-men who would regard them as intruders, and wage a merciless war upon them with a cunning which the larger beasts would lack. Hence the fact that their numbers appear to be limited. Well, gentlemen, have I read you the riddle right, or is there any point which you would query?"

Professor Summerlee for once was too depressed to argue, though he shook his head violently as a token of general disagreement. Lord John merely scratched his scanty locks with the remark that he couldn't put up a fight as he wasn't in the same weight or class. For my own part I performed my usual role of bringing things down to a strictly prosaic and practical level by the remark that one of the Indians was missing.

"He has gone to fetch some water," said Lord Roxton. "We fitted him up with an empty beef tin and he is off."

"To the old camp?" I asked.

"But you've had the escape of your life, young fellow my lad," said Lord Roxton. When I heard your cry and ran forward, and saw your head twisted half-off and your stowwessers kickin' in the air, I thought we were one short. I missed the beast in my flurry, but he dropped you all right and was off like a streak. By George! I lay upon his side, his limbs drawn up, and his head screwed round at a most unnatural angle, so that he seemed to be looking straight over his own shoulder. I gave a cry to warn my friends that something was amiss, and running forwards I stooped over the body. Surely my guardian angel was very near me then, for some instinct of fear, or it may have been some faint rustle of leaves, made me glance upwards. Out of the thick green foliage which hung low over my head, two long muscular arms covered with reddish hair were slowly descending. Another instant and the great stealthy hands would have been round my throat. I sprang backwards, but quick as I was, those hands were quicker still. Through my sudden spring they missed a fatal grip, but one of them caught the back of my neck and the other one my face. I threw my hands up to protect my throat, and the next moment the huge paw had slid down my face and closed over them. I was lifted lightly from the ground, and I felt an intolerable pressure forcing my head back and back until the strain upon the cervical spine was more than I could bear. My senses swam, but I still tore at the hand and forced it out from my chin. Looking up I saw a frightful face with cold inexorable light blue eyes looking down into mine. There was something hypnotic in those terrible eyes. I could struggle no longer. As the creature felt me grow limp in his grasp, two white canines gleamed for a moment at each side of the vile mouth, and the grip tightened still more upon my chin, forcing it always upwards and back. A thin, oval-tinted mist formed before my eyes and little silvery balls tinkled in my ears. Dully and far off I heard the crack of a rifle and was feebly aware of the shock as I was dropped to the earth, where I lay without sense or motion.

I awoke to find myself on my back upon the grass in our fair within the thicket. Someone had brought the water from the brook, and Lord John was sprinkling my head with it, while Challenger and Summerlee were propping me up, with concern in their faces. For a moment I had a glimpse of the human spirits behind their scientific masks. It was really shock, rather than any injury, which had prostrated me. In half-an-hour, in spite of aching head and stiff neck, I was sitting up and ready for anything.

"But you've had the escape of your life, young fellow my lad," said Lord Roxton. When I heard your cry and ran forward, and saw your head twisted half-off and your stowwessers kickin' in the air, I thought we were one short. I missed the beast in my flurry, but he dropped you all right and was off like a streak. By George! I

"No, to the brook. It's among the trees there. It can't be more than a couple of hundred yards. But the beggar is certainly taking his time."

"I'll go and look after him," said I. I picked up my rifle and strolled in the direction of the brook, leaving my friends to lay out the scanty breakfast. It may seem to you rash that even for so short a distance I should quit the shelter of our friendly thicket, but you will remember that we were many miles from Ape-town, that so far as we knew the creatures had not discovered our retreat, and that in any case with a rifle in my hands I had no fear of them. I had not yet learned their cunning or their strength.

I could hear the murmur of our brook somewhere ahead of me, but there was a tangle of trees and brushwood between me and it. I was making my way through this at a point which was just out of sight of my companions, when, under one of the trees, I noticed something red huddled among the bushes. As I approached it, I was shocked to see that it was the dead body of the missing Indian. He wish I had fifty men with rifles. I'd clear out the whole infernal gang of them and leave this country a bit cleaner than we found it."

Quick as I was, those hands were quicker still.

It was clear now that the ape-men had in some way marked us down, and that we were watched on every side. We had not so much to fear from them during the day, but they would be very likely to rush us by night; so the sooner we got away from their neighborhood the better. On three sides of us was absolute forest, and there we might find ourselves in an ambush.

But on the fourth side—that which sloped down in the direction of the lake, there was only low scrub, with scattered trees and occasional open glades. It was, in fact, the route which I had myself taken in my solitary journey, and it led us straight for the Indian caves. This then must for every reason be our road.

One great regret we had, and that was to leave our old camp behind us, not only for the sake of the stores which remained there, but even more because we were losing touch with Zambo, our link with the outside world. However, we had a fair supply of cartridges and all our guns, so, for a time at least, we could look after ourselves and we hoped soon to have a chance of returning and restoring our communications with our negro. He had faithfully promised to stay where he was, and we had not a doubt that he would be as good as his word.
