FEDERAL ECONOMY STRONGLY URGED COOLIDGE SPEECH

Appeals for Better and More Sympathetic Understanding by Government and by the Business Men

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Interpreting his attitude toward business, President Coolidge in an address tonight at the annual banquet of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, appealed for a better and more sympathetic understanding by the government of the commercial world's problems and by business men of the affairs of government.

During his speech the President reiterated his belief that there must be continued effort toward government economy and efficiency with resulting tax reduction; expressed the view that no permanent stabilization of European finances and currency can be accomplished without a definite adjustment of the debts owed by various nations abroad to the United States, and advocated anew American adhesion to the World Court protocol.

Declaring that the American forefathers were wise in making Washington the political center of the nation, leaving New York to develop as the business metropolis, Mr. Coolidge said that this arrangement, however, had resulted in one important disadvantage—"the possibility that otherwise business and government might have had a better understanding of each other and been less likely to develop mutual misapprehensions and suspicions."

"If a contest could be held to determine how much those who are really prominent in our government life know about business and how much those who are really prominent in our business life know about government," continued the President, "it is my firm conviction that the prize would be awarded to those who are in government life. This is as it ought to be, for those who have the greater authority ought to have the greater knowledge."

QUEEN ALEXANDRIA DIED TODAY FROM HEART TROUBLE

One of Most Popular Rulers That British Dominion Has Ever Known Dies at the Age of 81 Years

Sandringham, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Queen Dowager Alexandra, widow of Edward VII, died here today of heart trouble.

The Dowager Empress was one of the most popular rulers the British dominion has ever had. Born in Denmark where she was a Royal Princess, the Dowager met Edward VII, the Prince of Wales at Steyer, Bavaria. It was on September 14, 1861, one year after the meeting that they were married. She was seventeen years of age at the time.

The marriage of the Dowager has always been considered as having its effect upon European history during the half century which followed it. The hatred of the Danish Royal household for the Hohenzollerns because of the Prussian aggressions in Schleswig Holstein is regarded by some as an important factor in causing the break between Germany and Great Britain.

This Woman Proves Marriage No Hinder. Securing Education

Durham, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Marriage is no hindrance to the securing of an education, nor of attaining high scholastic records, if the case of Mrs. Evelyn Hall Turner, senior at Duke University, can be taken as an example.

Mrs. Turner was recently initiated into the Phi Beta Kappa national scholarship fraternity, and headed the list of 10 initiates who made the highest grades at Duke University during the past three years.

The craft, about the size of an average ocean liner, was towed into the breakwater, where it lies a total loss. A photographer in a seaplane made this picture.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS FOR SCOUT WORK BE STARTED SOON

Representative of National Organization of Boy Scouts Addresses Citizens at Court House Last Night

Quite an enthusiastic group of citizens heard the address of Mr. H. C. Hunter, of Macon, Ga., Regional Scout Executive, at the court house here last night. The meeting held under the auspices of the local Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs was for the purpose of bringing to the attention of the public just what the Boy Scout movement means to a community and to lay plans for the future carrying on of this great work in this section.

Mr. Hunter, who represents the national organization of Boy Scouts, explained fully the work that is being accomplished throughout the country and set forth the great possibilities here. His address was supplemented by short talks by various citizens who are sold on the Boy Scouts idea and are putting their shoulders to the wheel to help carry on the work locally.

At the conclusion of the addresses the matter of funds to complete the work the present year and to carry on the work for another year was discussed and it was found that Greenville's quota of the funds needed will be $3,000. A committee consisting of Messrs. J. B. Kittrell, W. E. Hooker, J. B. James, W. J. Whitchard and Dr. C. L. Outland was appointed to work out plans for the drive for funds which will be staged early after Thanksgiving. All the civic organizations in the city including the women's organizations will be urged to lend assistance in putting on this campaign for funds and there is no doubt that Greenville will go over the top in its donations.

For tonight, in a local theatre, the mayor of Greensboro, E. B. Jeffress, publicly presented little Miss Helen Carter Talman, 10 years old, with a "Certificate of Recognition," awarded by the Carolina Motor Club for the little girl's action last June.

John Coolidge "Listens In" As the President Delivers An Address

Plymouth, Vt., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Cheered by an exchange of messages with his son, the president, Colonel John C. Coolidge passed the sixth day of his illness with better spirits than at any time since he was stricken. Although so fatigued that he suffered several slight heart attacks while listening by radio last night to the address of the president at New York City, the Colonel retired in a cheerful frame of mind after dispatching a message of congratulations.

GRANITE BOULDER ERECTED MEMORY BENJAMIN MAY

Unveiled by Four Great-Great Grand Daughters of Major; Presented by Larry Moore While Mrs. Gregory Places Wreath At Its Base

Farmville, Nov. 20.—North Carolina came into possession of a bit of ground and a great granite boulder with a bronze tablet upon it yesterday and in exchange for them it accorded worthy recognition to one of the sturdy citizens of a long time ago who helped to hold steady the helm of government in the transition period between the decline of the power of the crown and the rise of the American republic, and then went to fight the new hand's battles.

The bit of ground is a small parkway beside the road that leads west. The boulder and tablet commemorate the life and service of Major Benjamin May. A century and a half ago he was the first citizen of this section, a man of sound judgment and good counsel, a brave officer in the armies of the struggling colonies. And until today the grave wherein he has slept for more than a century was unmarked in a cedar-shaded grave yard not far from the road.

But today was a great day for the memory of the Major, when his unnumbered descendants, through the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented this simple memorial to the people of the State he helped to establish, and it was accepted by the State Historical Commission. He at last came into his own, not as a romantic hero and statesman, but as a man who performed the vastly more trying service of doing simple things well and holding his people together, through a demoralizing epoch.

And what a day his descendants made of it. A great company of them were here for the ceremonies of dedication. Among them Benjamin May, IV, bringing with him the memory of his great-grandfather and his son, Benjamin May, V, and his grandson, Benjamin May, VI. They have lived here, on the very lands granted by the King of England to their illustrious forbear, through the generations, until now there are six generations of them.

CAPT. PAUL FOLEY EXONERATED BY COURT OF INQUIRY

Requests That Court Be Discharged From Further Duties Because of Discrimination

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The court held that Captain Foley, its former Judge Advocate, was not guilty of seeking to cause false testimony to be offered before the court, or of seeking by "improper means to influence" the widow of the Shenandoah's Commander.

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Captain Paul Foley was exonerated today by the Shenandoah Naval Court of Inquiry over Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne's charge that he sought to sway her testimony. Just as the decision in the case of Captain Foley was being handed down, Judge Advocate Leonard received formally the protest of counsel for Mrs. Lansdowne asking dismissal of the court because it had barred her attorneys from taking part in the inquiry. The protest had been filed with Secretary Wilbur and was forwarded to him by Major Leonard.

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—While the Shenandoah Naval Court of Inquiry was deciding today the guilt or innocence of its former Advocate, Captain Paul Foley, Secretary Wilbur of the Navy had before him a formal request of counsel for Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne that the court be discharged from further duties because of the manner in which it conducted the inquiry into her charge against that officer.

The primary complaint of Mrs. Lansdowne's counsel, Joseph E. Davies, was that Mrs. Lansdowne upon her appearance on the witness stand had been denied counsel, while Captain Paul Foley had been permitted to have counsel to cross-examine all witnesses called to support her charge that he had sought to sway her testimony.

Moreover Mr. Davies argued that the court was without authority to investigate the charges and that "a hostile Judge Advocate, Major Henry Leonard, was the judge of the propriety of his own questions," and that he was, while "seeking to impeach her testimony, absolutely controlling the character which will question all other witnesses." The primary question which the Shenandoah Court had before it was whether it should render an immediate decision in Captain Foley's case or reserve judgement until its final findings in the whole Shenandoah inquiry.

Good Work of Negro High Schools Now Attracting Attention

Raleigh, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The good work being done in accredited negro high schools in North Carolina is beginning to attract attention in all parts of the country, according to W. A. Robinson, state supervisor of negro high schools.

He recently sent out a general letter to the larger negro colleges of the country, inviting them to offer scholarships in the standard negro high schools of the state, and he says that the returns were most gratifying.

At Howard University, the committee on scholarships voted to award a scholarship each to the high school departments of the State Normal School at Fayetteville; the North Carolina College for Negroes, Durham; and to Joseph K. Bricks, Jr., College, Bricks. At their request, the supervisor named two other negro high schools for scholarships, these two being the Columbian Heights High School, Winston-Salem, and the Second Ward High School, Charlotte. These five scholarships are for one year each, and are worth $99 to the student.

In this connection, the state negro high school supervisor pointed out that in a recently announced list of honor students at Howard, the name of Asa Spaulding, graduate of the high school department of the North Carolina College at Durham was included.

Other colleges outside the state which have scholarships available to graduates of negro high schools in this state include: Atlanta University; Morehouse College, Clark University, and Talladega College. Other colleges have written that they are considering similar awards.

Lack of parking space on our streets is not only proof of Greenville's large population as indicated by the recent census but also brings about the belief that the majority ride.

Fire destroys an average of 618 American homes every day. Most of the fires are caused by gross negligence and ignorance.

From a building standpoint Greenville is far from asleep. Close to thirty stores and business houses have been built during the year or now under construction in addition to an even greater number of residences.

The best advice to the auto driver is "Watch your step on it."

FOR BETTER CITIZENS

The decision reached last night by a group of local citizens that the Boy Scout work in this section will be carried on another year indicates that Greenville and the community are interested in the future citizens and will leave nothing undone that will aid the boys and girls to become better citizens.

Rapid progress has been made in scouting in this section since the organization of the Pamlico Council and the citizens of Greenville realize that in the present day of fast living and innumerable temptations growing boys must receive attention from the grown-ups and must be given the proper training if they are to grow into the right kind of men.

In order to carry on the work for another year it will be necessary for Greenville to raise at least three thousand dollars but when the purpose for which this money is to be used is considered no doubt the citizens will realize that the giving of proper training to the citizens of tomorrow is an investment in the future. Greenville has never yet fallen down in its undertakings and we feel sure that the citizens will respond willingly to this call for funds to insure the future of our city, state and nation.

THE HAIRY BADGE OF MASCULINITY

Speaking at Fayetteville, N. C., Bishop Collins Denny, of the Methodist Church urged men to wear mustaches, as the sole remaining means of impressing their gender on a feminized world. Women, he says, have usurped all of men's ancient and honorable prerogatives; they cut their hair, wear knickers, vote and smoke cigars. They should be shown their place by some overt token which they cannot appropriate to their own uses. The best of such tokens, he thinks, is the mustache. We are in favor of this, and we go it one better. We are in favor of beards, cut in ornate designs and trained into elaborate waves. By growing beards we may be able to regain possession of our barber shops, which women have also taken away from us. The barber who would spurn the chance for a haircut or a shave might very well think twice before he kept waiting the candidate for an expensive marcel or permanent wave.—N. Y. World.

Van Doren to Lecture at State University

Chapel Hill, Nov. 20.—Dr. Carl Van Doren, literary editor of the Century Magazine, eminent lecturer, and professor of English at Columbia University, will discuss the modern American youth in a lecture here Friday night under the auspices of the University Lecture Committee, of which Dr. James F. Royster is chairman. Dr. Van Doren's subject will be "The Pioneers and the New Youth."

The North Carolina Library Association, which will be meeting here at the time, will hold no session that night, that its members may hear Dr. Van Doren. Dr. Van Doren occupies a prominent position in the making of present day literature and his opinions are highly respected. He is said to be one of the ablest men in the country to discuss the problems of the modern American youth.

His lecture will discuss the origins of the restless movements at present noticeable everywhere among the American youth. He traces it back to the unrest caused by the war to the venturesome spirit of the pioneers who are forever leaving the settled districts of the country for regions yet unexplored. Now that such regions no longer exist among the borders of the United States, the outlet which the pioneers had does not exist either.

OPEN GREEK THEATRES HAVE A REAL RIVAL IN THE CITY OF ILLINOIS

Jacksonville, Ill.—A Greek theatre has been opened in Jacksonville that is described as more perfect in its circular formation and acoustics than many of the open air theatres built by the ancient Greeks. Its walls form a perfect circle. Professors from the Art Institute of Chicago designed it, directed its construction, and so the first performance in it, occasioned by the Jacksonville centennial.

Half a year ago there was a huge round water reservoir where the theatre now stands. When 500 actors had been drawn from all walks of life to play in the Centennial Pageant, the necessity for a large playhouse presented itself. The old reservoir was transformed. The north side of the bowl was partially knocked out to make place for the entrance and stage. Circular seating levels were made of concrete, sufficient to seat 5,000 people. The stage was made on three levels, to accommodate instantaneous changes of scenes without curtains. This is accomplished by turning the light of the stage and shining a bright light in the faces of the audience. The theatre is owned by the city. The 50-piece band which plays in it is the Jacksonville Community Band. The musicians get paid whenever there is any money in the treasury, but when there is no money they play anyhow. Their last concert netted them eight cents each for the performance.

WALL OF CHINA LEGEND TRAGEDY OF PIOUS WIFE

Chinawangtao, Nov. 20.—Where the Peking-Mukden railway pierces the Great Wall of China at Shanhsikwan is a temple erected to the memory of a pious wife whose husband perished in the building of the structure. Chih Huang-fu, the emperor who united all China, came to the throne in 246 B. C. It was Chih who built the Great Wall to keep the country together. A woman from the south, so the legend runs, brought cotton-wadded clothes for her husband, who had been impressed by the emperor to help build the wall. She was told that her husband had died, and that she could not have his body because it had been thrown between the brick facings of the wall and crushed there under tons of rubble and earth. The woman persuaded a comrade of her husband to show her the stretch of wall where the body of her husband lay. Three days and three nights thereafter she walked up and down that length, until the compassion of the divines was excited by her laments, and that part of the wall collapsed. The scandal came to the ears of the emperor, who recognized, beneath his tyranny, that the conduct of the woman had been most orthodox. To regularize the matter, he directed that she be admitted to civil household. First, however, he granted her prayer that she be permitted to select the bones of her husband for more deliberate burial. The woman gathered up her husband's bone and walked to the end of the wall, before the guards could stop her, she cast the bones into the sea and herself after them. The image of the pious wife, in imperial robe, stands in the temple near the spot, while the breach in the wall is now perpetual.

FLASHY WINTER SPORT CARD GREETINGS FLORIDA RESORTERS

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 20.—Florida, paragon of beach estate traders and resort of the Southland, will have one of its greatest sporting seasons this winter and next spring.

Every hamlet and city from Key West on the extreme south and Fort Myers on the southwest, to Jacksonville on the north and Pensacola on the extreme northwest, have arranged to participate in the program.

The feature event will be the Miami running horse race meeting. The Miami Jockey club, with more than $400,000 in purse prizes offered, gets underway January 21 and closes on March 13. Indications are that again this year the track will attract America's foremost turfmen.

Three winter baseball circuits are planned, one to be a fast major and high minor league player loop on the east coast; another to be a six club circuit and the third an exclusive Lake County affair.

Football claims a leading role in the early winter sport drama. Two major college games have been scheduled, one between Washington and Lee and the University of Florida, to be played in Jacksonville on Thanksgiving Day and the other a dedicatory affair for the Coral Cables Stadium at Miami on December 5, between Rollins College of Winter Park, Fla., and Oglethorpe University, Atlanta.

Golf tournaments of national interest will be played, the events probably following the usual cycle as to sites—St. Petersburg, to Bellairre (Clear Water), to Tampa, to Miami, to Palm Beach, to Daytona, to St. Augustine.

A feature of features is the probability of a match between Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones.

Jones, with Tommie Armour, another amateur, will play two picked professionals on the Coral Cables course near Miami in January.

The professional golf league, formed last year, may have another schedule of games. Last season, Leo Diegel and Gene Sarazen, playing for the Hollywood club, won the title.

Already under way is the Central Florida Amateur Golf league in which teams representing Daytona, Eustis, Deland and Sanford are playing.

The Miami Riviera trophy has been offered by George E. Merrick in an attractive golf championship tournament of Florida, to be played on the Coral Cables course. Invitational professional tournaments there, with prizes aggregating $5,000 are planned.

The attraction for professional golf stars is the "winter championships of America," to be played in St. Augustine on March 18-20. The Winter Golf championship of Florida will be played there on March 23-27, while the East Coast Women's Golf Championships will be an "Ancient City" event, March 9-13. Prior to those tournaments will be the select St. Augustine championships, January 19-23 and the tenth annual golf tournament on February 16-20.

Tennis will be featured at Miami Palm Beach and Jacksonville. An invitation has been extended by the Coral Cables Club to William Tilden II, to make his headquarters at Miami this winter. The French flash, La Coste, also has been asked to come.

"Sjuared circle" contests that will likely attract boxers of national prominence have been booked at Jacksonville, Orlando, Palm Beach, Miami, and Tampa, particularly at the latter two places. Boxing, however, is officially banned in this state, a statute being in effect against such contests.

Entering the lists comes the National Open Winter Lawn Bowling tournament, which gets under way at St. Petersburg on January 25. Like meetings will be held at Orlando and other cities.

The winter horse-shoe pitching center, which has been gradually shifting from the east to the west coast, is at St. Petersburg this winter, where the national tourney will take place, Lake Worth, Tampa, Lakeland, Orlando and Daytona also have these contests scheduled.

At St. Petersburg, the National Roque Championships are scheduled for either February or March.

The swimming and diving competition will center in the West Palm Beach-Miami sector and in the St. Petersburg-Tampa area.

At Coral Cables, state championships for both men and women will be run off in the Venetian Pool. A bill has been made for the men's and women's national swimming championships there.

St. Augustine offers a meet on February 8-13, which will attract the women swimmers of America.

Speed boat races are slated off Miami and Palm Beach at Hollywood and in Tampa Bay off St. Petersburg and Tampa. Island speed boat races will be held on Lake Dora.

The horse show will be sponsored again by the Coral Cables Riding Academy at Miami during February. Greyhound racing is featured at St. Petersburg, Miami and Sarasota, polo and jai alai (Spanish quash) are Miami Beach feature offerings. The polo season gets under way early in January.

Early spring will see the major portion of the Big League squad and a number of higher major league clubs trekking to the "Land of Flowers" for their annual training season. Clubs will train at Orlando, Sanford, Lakeland, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Tarpon Springs, Sarasota, Bradenton, Ft. Myers, Clearwater and possibly at Arcadia, Bartow, Lake Wales, Ocala and Deland.

Playmakers to Dedicate New Theatre Next Week

Chapel Hill, Nov. 20.—The first state theatre in the country to be devoted to the development of native drama will be dedicated here next week by the Carolina Playmakers. The exercises will cover a four-day period, and on each night the Playmakers will present a special performance for which they have been rehearsing all the fall. The exercises begin Monday night and extend through Thanksgiving night.

Out of town people may reserve seats for any performance at $1 each by forwarding the amount to the Playmakers here.

President Chase of the University and Director Frederick H. Koch of the Playmakers will deliver short addresses at the opening performance. Notable playwrights, critics and other have been invited to be guests of honor at one or more of the performances. Among the invited are Augustus Thomas, formerly head of the Producing Managers' Association; George Pierce Baker, professor of dramatics at Yale; Walter Pritchard Eaton, eminent critic, and Frederick Keppel, president of the Carnegie Foundation which provided the equipment for the new theatre.

Says Prisoners Given Temporary Paroles Comply Conditions

Raleigh, Nov. 20. (AP)—Although prisoners paroled on merit sometime violate the conditions of their paroles, and are required to return to complete their sentences, no prisoner given a temporary parole to visit a seriously ill relative or to attend a relative's funeral has yet failed to comply with the conditions of the parole. Pardon Commissioner H. Hoyle Sink said today, in discussing his experience as pardon commissioner since last April 1. The ordinary parole is usually granted on recommendation of citizens and friends, and, as a rule, must be won by excellent conduct as a prisoner. Yet prisoners paroled thus, under the supervision of a county welfare officer, sometimes fails to live up to his responsibilities as a paroled prisoner, and must return to complete his sentence.

But Governor McLean, on the recommendations of the pardon commissioner, has, as a rule been rather lenient in granting temporary paroles, when the mother or wife or some other close relative of a prisoner becomes seriously ill, or when he wished to attend the funeral of a close relative. And these paroles are granted without recommendations as a rule, other than those of physicians concerning the condition of the relative; they are frequently granted without bond—prisoners often cannot put up bond, said the pardon commissioner; and the prisoners go home without supervision.

They are paroled, said Mr. Sink, on their honor, and the paroles are granted as a matter of mercy to the prisoner and his relatives. Yet the prisoners always return to the prison. Since Mr. Sink has been in office some 15 or 20 have been granted such temporary paroles.

Whether the prisoners feel gratitude to being allowed to go home in a time of anxiety or sorrow, and return with a feeling of gratitude; or whether being put upon their honor or responsible for the fact that these temporarily paroled prisoners always return to their sentences, Mr. Sink does not say. That they always return, however, he said, has had a tendency to make Governor McLean lenient in granting such paroles however, he says. And he and the governor are gratified that failure to return have not made it more difficult for a prisoner to secure a parole to visit a critically ill mother or wife, or other relative.

A peculiar feature about these temporary paroles, said Mr. Sink, is the fact that there have been more requests for temporary paroles on account of illness or death during the past three or four weeks than during the entire time since Mr. Sink went into office, last April, previous to a month ago.

AMERICANS SEEKING PEDIGRESS BRING OUT OXFORD SKELETONS

Oxford, Eng.—American pedigree hunters have invaded the Oxford libraries. The scions of forgotten ancestors residents in almost every one of the United States have asked the university librarian to bridge some vast gulf in their patronymics.

A large percentage of the inquirers are coming from states in the middle west and the Pacific coast. It is considered fortunate for the genealogists and the College of Herald that ancestor worship has found a home across the water, for its popularity is fast waning here. Historical research shows that many of the great men of the past were scoundrels, rogues and rascals, for whom complete oblivion was the most kindly fate. Even the peerage is not without its closeted skeletons.

Continually Solving Your Problems

Good Housekeeping Institute is continually solving problems for homemakers. Read in the November issue of Good Housekeeping, "Can It Be Dry Cleaned?"

Below is a quotation from it.

" * * * Interested as the Institute is in dry cleaning and stain removal by safe methods at home, we realize that no home has the facilities for this work that a good dry cleaner offers. FARMERS APPEAL

By O. L. JOYNER

THE GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET

Under the pressure that has been placed on the market during the past three weeks prices have eased off on grades from twenty-five to sixty dollars. The lower grades and the best grades do not appear to have suffered much if any decline. It has really been remarkable that the decline has not been more pronounced, for the block has lasted longer and in greater volume, probably than ever before in the history of the market. No one can foretell the quantity of tobacco that will be brought to the market during the next few days, but at this time (Thursday night), everything seems to indicate that the heavy offerings are about over for some time at least. The question has been often asked during the past few days if the decline is permanent or if it is due to the heavy offerings of tobacco, of course this also cannot be accurately assumed, but as an opinion I believe the decline is due almost entirely to the unusual amount of tobacco thrown on the market, and a large percent of it damaged or in a damaging condition. Buyers cannot reasonably be expected to pay standard prices for tobacco when it is in such condition as to damage in short time if not re-dried at once, especially when the market is crowded daily beyond the capacity of the factories to properly handle it. This condition has prevailed almost continuously for three weeks past on all the large markets, where the factories are located in eastern North Carolina. The slight decline in prices, therefore, is a most natural consequence of the condition of the markets, and is not at all indicative of a lower market. There is no good reason why tobacco should not be just as high or higher after the congestion is over as it has been at any time this season.

out, on any disputed question concerning the battles of the war.

At such times he was an expert in finding an excuse for quietly retiring, leaving his guests to settle the question among themselves. But on farm topics he was always alert and interested, and would talk for hours on the subject most intelligently and interestingly, having been raised on the farm and descended from generations of farmers. I was always an interested listener. One evening after describing in minute detail the battle of Plymouth, and its recapture from the Federal troops and his march over land from Plymouth to Kinston where he fought the battle of Kinston, he dismissed the subject entirely and remarked: "Gentlemen, the territory from Plymouth to Kinston, North Carolina is the finest agricultural region I have ever seen," and then reflecting a moment continued, "taking as a whole all the section of Eastern North Carolina, has unlimited, and unequalled climatic and soil conditions, and all that is needed to make it what nature intended it to be, the greatest agricultural region in the United States is more people and more intelligence to develop the natural resources of that great section." He mentioned the fact that one county in Eastern North Carolina could be made to produce enough corn to supply the state, while its great plateau of the finest bright tobacco lands had not hardly begun to develop, and the cotton, peanut, truck, and fruit possibilities had never been touched.

In conclusion he said with force and meaning, "If I were a young man today I would go to Eastern North Carolina and engage in farming."

THE COTTON DOLLAR.

A year or more ago when the farm price of cotton was considerably higher than it is today an interesting research by the United States Department of Agriculture into the distribution of the consumer's dollar paid for cotton sheeting presented some facts that should command the attention of the grower. The Department found that the consumer's dollar paid for cotton sheeting was distributed as follows:

Cotton grower	19.8
Exchange trader	3.1
Freight to mill	1.3
Cloth manufacturer	39.8
Jobber and retailer	35.5

It is observed that both the manufacturer, and the jobber and the retailer, received nearly twice the amount of the dollar that was paid to the grower. That was at a time when the price to the grower was much higher than today, and when the general impression was that the price of raw cotton was high.

Farmer's Share too Small. Commenting on the above facts Cotton News says: "These are illuminating figures in these days of boll weevil ravages and high cost of production on the farm. It would seem that the producers of the primary wealth of the nation should receive a larger share of the consumer's dollar. The sturdy yeomen who are engaged in the titanic fight each year against adverse seasons and unprecedented insect depredations, to the end that the civilized world may be fittingly clothed, are entitled to a larger measure of prosperity than they have been receiving.

Striking Contrasts.

The position enjoyed by industries in general today is in striking contrast to that held by agriculture. On the one hand we find railway and industrial stocks selling at peak prices, and daily advancing. Industrial dividends are highly satisfactory to their owners. Almost daily new records are established by the stock exchange, both in aggregate sales and in the high average level of prices paid for stocks.

On the other hand we find the prices of farm products highly unsatisfactory. Tobacco prices are low. Cotton has steadily gone down and is now below the actual cost of production. The American Country Life Association only last week spent several days discussing the general plight of the American farmer. Prosperity appears to be one-sided, unbalanced. The farmer's net income is extremely small.

Six Carolina Players End Careers On Thanksgiving.

Chapel Hill, Nov. 20.—The Carolina Virginia game here Thanksgiving will mark the passing from the gridiron of five and possibly six Tar Heel veterans. The backfield will lose four and the line one or two.

The backfield men who will be playing their last year are Emmett Underwood, Carolina's triple threat back Billy Devin, "Rabbit" Bonner and George Sparrow. From this season's crack line the Fetters will lose Captain Herman McIver and possibly George Robinson.

The last member of the famous Tar Heel team of 1922 will pass from the football stage when Captain McIver and George Sparrow finish their careers. McIver was a tackle and Sparrow was a reserve quarterback on that "4-4-4" team that played its way to a South Atlantic title, and turned back the Yale Bulldogs with an 18 to 0 victory. McIver has played the most consistent football year in year out of any player ever seen in many seasons and Sparrow has written several brilliant achievements of the Tar Heel's record during his four years.

Robinson may return from his one year under the Fetters brothers, but it is doubtful, for he is anxious to enter the practice of law. It is thought not return he will leave behind a record, a record of his own making, a record of his own making, an all-Southern berth.

The passing of "Rabbit" Bonner, speed king of the Tar Heel backfield will close one of the most storm-careers in the history of Carolina athletics. The sports writers write of that intangible something that some athletes have called "heart." It is color that makes a star player great in the eyes of the fans and the "Hall of Fame" has color. Coming from the 1924 North Carolina team, Anson, Bonner sprang to fame on the football field at the start, and when he took up football seriously his phenomenal speed made him feared by the opposition in every game. He has played brilliantly in this season when he was not nursing injuries.

Devin, Bonner and Emmett Underwood made their debut on Carolina's varsity together in the 1923 campaign. Both have played consistently during the past three seasons, but it was not until this year that Underwood broke into the ranks of stardom. Devin has been handicapped this season by an attack of blood poisoning that kept him in the hospital for several weeks. Both men are extremely responsible to the

COPY OF WASHINGTON'S COLLEGE DEGREE ADDED TO COLLECTION

Lexington, Va. — A photograph copy of the college degree received by George Washington has been added to the collection of relics of founders of Washington and Lee University here.

Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president, said that as far as can be learned the only degree ever conferred upon Washington was LL.B., by Washington College, Maryland.

The copy of the diploma was donated by a New York attorney. The original is in the Library of Congress at Washington. Washington was prominently connected with the early history of the institution now known as Washington and Lee University, having endowed it and officially authorized it to use his name.

GENERAL HOKE'S OPINION OF THE AGRICULTURAL POSSIBILITIES OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA.

A few years ago the writer spent a week or ten days at Lincoln Litch Springs, in the home of General Robt. F. Hoke, one of the Nation's Noblemen, near Lincolnton, North Carolina.

The recollection of the pleasant evenings spent in listening to this quiet and retiring gentleman tell in his own modest way about some of the important and tragic events connected with the battles of the Civil War will always be an inspiring memory. General Hoke, it seemed to me, was the embodiment in its broadest and best sense, of the often misused and misapplied word "Gentleman." He could be induced to talk on no subject that would involve the possibility of criticism, on his part, of General Lee who he expressed himself as believing was the greatest of all military leaders. He enjoyed agricultural topics and never seemed tired or listless when the subject of farming was under discussion, as he sometimes did especially when any of his guests were over zealous, in trying to drown him

FEDERAL ECONOMY STRONGLY URGED IN COLLIDGE ADDRESS

(Continued from page 1) or by American bankers when the money advanced is used for maintenance of great armies and navies. "Loans," he contended, when used "in ways that are not productive, like the maintenance of great military establishments or to meet municipal expenditures which should either be eliminated by government economy or supplied by taxation, do not appear to serve a useful purpose and ought to be discouraged."

"Our bankers," he continued, "have a great deal of responsibility in relation to the soundness of these loans when they undertake to invest the savings of our country abroad. I should regret very much to see our possession of resources which are available to meet needs in other countries be the cause of any sentiment of envy or unfriendliness toward us."

Near the end of his prepared address the President touched on the World Court issue with this statement:

"With our already enormous and constantly increasing interests abroad, there are constantly accumulating reasons why we should signify our adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice. Mindful of our determination to avoid all interference in the political affairs, which do not concern us, of other nations, I can think of no more reassuring action than the declaration of America that it will wholeheartedly join with others in the support of the tribunal for the administration of international justice which have created."

"I can conceive of nothing that we could do, which involves assuming so few obligations on our part, that would be likely to prove of so much value to the world. Beyond its practical effect, which might be somewhat small, it would have a sentimental effect, which would be tremendous. It would be public notice that the enormous influences of our country were to be cast upon the side of the enlightening processes of civilization. It would be the beginning of a new world spirit."
