Banner Silk Records Minimum Twenty-One Degrees Below Zero

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Few people in North Carolina, perhaps, realize that there are points in this state where the temperature drops far below zero...

And just over in Tennessee, at Mountain City, a minimum of 32 below zero has been recorded.

These low temperatures are pointed out in a publication on the western part of North Carolina and East Tennessee issued by the United States Weather Bureau...

Forty peaks it is pointed out in this publication, in Western North Carolina and East Tennessee rise to an altitude of more than 6,000 feet above sea level...

Discussing the mountainous section of Western North Carolina and East Tennessee, the publication says that "no section of equal area east of the Rock Mountains presents a topography more characteristically mountainous than East Tennessee and the mountain section of North Carolina."

The most marked effect of the altitude it continues, "in the section under discussion is shown in the temperature records, the law of decrease of temperature with increase of elevation being illustrated by the following examples:

"At Mountain City, Tenn., elevation 2,486 feet, the annual mean temperature is 52 degrees, while at Clarksville, Tenn., elevation 500 feet (altitude same as Mountain City) the annual mean is 58 degrees...

Some of the low record temperatures of North Carolina points are given as follows: Asheville, 6 below zero; Andrews, 4 below zero; Banner Elk, 21 below; Brevard, 12 below; Calowhee, 11 below; Hendersonville, 9 below; Highlands, 1 below; Jefferson, 20 below; and Waynesville, 12 below.

At Banner Elk, where the record low temperature was recorded, so far as points discussed in the publication are concerned, there was a killing frost on June 17, in 1917.

Otto Wood Makes 2nd Sensational Escape State Penitentiary

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The State Prison authorities this afternoon had been unable to learn anything as to the whereabouts of Otto Wood, prisoner serving a term for murder, who escaped under sensational circumstances. The prison authorities had sent out a number of guard to aid in the search for Wood whose sentence was 22 1-2 to 30 years for the murder of a Greensboro pawnbroker.

Wood escaped yesterday by hiding in a piece of pipe culvert made in the prison yard for the State Highway Commission. The pipe was loaded on a box car and sometime later after the prisoner escaped his suit of stripes was found near the railroad yard, and the door of the box car in which the pipe had been placed was broken open.

Governor McLean has offered a reward of $200 and the prison $50 for the recapture of Wood who has escaped once before since the beginning of his prison term.

His first escape was in 1924 and he was recaptured after two days. At that time he got away in a prison auto, abandoned it held up a truck on the Durham road and later abandoned it, held up a motorist, tied him to a tree and took his car.

SHIPMAN APPEALS FOR THANKSGIVING OFFERING ORPHANS

Asks for Annual Contribution for the 23 Affiliated Orphanages of N. C. Association

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Speaking in behalf of thousands of motherless and fatherless children of North Carolina, M. L. Shipman, chairman of the publicity committee of North Carolina Orphanage Association, today appealed for the annual Thanksgiving contributions for the 23 affiliated orphanages of the association.

It has been customary at the Thanksgiving season, Mr. Shipman pointed out, for the association to ask the men and women of North Carolina to contribute one day's income to the orphan homes in the state. The request says that the contribution should be sent direct to the orphanage to which the contributor wishes to make the donation. Mr. Shipman said there were thousands of orphans in the state totally dependent upon the generosity of the citizens of North Carolina.

Texas Capital Awaits Report of Grand Jury Probe State Dept.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 25.—(AP)—An expected report from the Travis County grand jury which has been investigating conditions of the state department for the past two months held the center of attention at the state capital today. The grand jury yesterday questioned the ousted chairman of the State Highway Commission and it was indicated the report would be given out today.

Official circles also looked with interest to Governor Ferguson for some indication as to the action he will take regarding the special session of the legislature that is now declared inevitable. She has failed to act on the petition and subsequent ultimatum signed by the legislators who demand a special session to look into condition of the state department. Yesterday the governor refused to see the representative who called to deliver the ultimatum in person and the document was delivered to other secretary.

Nobody Knows How Cold It Gets On Mount Mitchell

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—How cold does it get on top of Mount Mitchell, highest point in Eastern America, in the winter time?

Nobody knows. The weather bureau has never been able to persuade anyone to stay on top of the mountain through the winter to take the readings, it has been learned from the Central Weather Bureau here.

But already this fall, the temperature has dropped to 10 degrees above zero. This was on October 20, Three days earlier, on October 17, to illustrate the variety of climate in North Carolina—the maximum in this state was 95. This reading was at Goldsboro. A difference of 85 degrees within the limits of the same state and in a space of three days!

For the past two years, the weather bureau has received part-time reports from an observer on Mitchell, 6,711 feet above sea level. The reports from an observer on Mitchell, 6,711 feet above sea level. The reports are made to Lee A. Denson, in charge of the Central Weather Bureau in Raleigh, who explained the reason why a minimum temperature on top of the peak had never been recorded—the inability of the bureau to persuade anyone to spend a winter on the icy peak of the mountain.

CRISIS IN FRANCE DUE TO PAINLEVE BECOMING COMPLEX

Prospects of Doumer Forming New Cabinet Seem Far From Bright and Solution of Matter Seems Far Away as Ever

Paris, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator Paul Doumer today advised President Doumergue that he was unable to form a cabinet, the President later summoned former Premier Herriot, leader of the Radical party and President of the Chamber of Deputies, to the palace.

Paris, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The crisis due to the resignation of the Cabinet of Premier Painleve because the House of Deputies refused to accept the premier's financial plan grows more and more complex and the solution seemed today as far away as ever.

Aristide Briand yesterday failed in an attempt to form a new ministry and the prospects of Senator Paul Doumer who later was requested by President Doumergue to take up the task, seemed far from bright. M. Doumer hoped to be able to give a final answer to the president tonight as to whether he will be able to gather together a suitable ministry.

M. Doumer, for various reasons, is not a pleasing candidate to the radicals and their supporters, although it is not withheld would not be of a nature warranting reliance in a vote in the lower house of Parliament.

A new factor has been added to the already confused situation by the rapid evolution of the Socialists who last week held to principles of non-participation in a Bourgeois government but now after a long deliberation have announced that they will not only participate but will form a government taking the principal part, provide a program and accept the collaboration of the radicals in the minor roles. The Socialists' announcement has proven by no means to the case of the radicals and their opposition to M. Doumer has lessened noticeably. However many radicals prefer and administration combination other than that led by Doumer and would even prefer a combination without the Socialists since the latter are considered to have excluded themselves from any future majority by their exorbitant demands. The radicals are meeting during the day to determine what will be their attitude under the new developments in the situation.

Duke held at Duke University, paid tribute to Mr. Duke's memory for his material contributions to the state's growth and development and to what Mr. Duke did for the soul of North Carolina as expressed in his Young Men and Women.

KING OF AMERICAN GYPSIES IN SEARCH NEW GYPSY QUEEN

Frank Gastov Goes to Europe to Find Princess to Make His Queen

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Frank Caslov, King of American Gypsies, is on his way to Europe to find Gypsy princess to make his queen. Early today his weeping followers at the steamship pier caused consternation to a special detail of secret service men who were escorting the Italian Debt Commission to the S. S. Mauretania.

Count Colpi and his party were escorted by a special guard because of anti-fascists when the commission arrived here to negotiate the war debt.

Wails, screams and cries greeted the party upon its arrival at the pier but the Italian Mission soon learned that the followers of Caslov, whose wife died a year ago, were giving him a farewell party as he set forth to find a new Gypsy Queen. The Gypsy law, it was explained, requires that he must have a consort of royal blood and he is going to Venice to find one. The tribesmen said they came from all parts of the United States and Canada to bid farewell to their king. The King's brothers leaped against the wall while they lamented his departure and weeping and wailing was on in full force among the 50 or more Gypsies when the Italian Mission arrived. When the king mounted the gang plank his followers attempted to rush the ship but were pushed back by members of the ship's crew.

Two Negroes Arrested For Attacking Women

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two negroes are under arrest here today charged with attacking white women after the reappearance of the "strangler" a crafty individual whose swift and sudden attacks on lone and unescorted women during the last few weeks has caused the death of three and created terror.

One prisoner gave his name as Ed Jackson. He was arrested a few minutes after a woman encountered a strange man in her house, fought him off, screamed "negro" from her doorstep and fell in a faint. The other suspect William Davis is held without bail charged with attacking a semi-invalid a few minutes after she had alighted from a street car. Both the men denied the attacks upon the women. Both women bore marks upon their necks where they had been checked by their attackers.

Large Crowds Expected for Gridiron Classic at Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, Nov. 25.—(AP)—When the Tar Heels of Carolina and the Cavaliers of Virginia meet on Emerson Field here tomorrow in the annual renewal of their gridiron classic, a colorful throng will be on hand.

State officials of North Carolina will be led by Governor Angus W. McLean and it is certain that practically every member of North Carolina's official family will be on hand. Governor McLean will be the guest of Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University.

Governor E. Lee Trinkle will not be present at the game, though Governor McLean invited him to be his guest. The Executive of Virginia had previously accepted an invitation to appear at a football game in Richmond. It is expected however that a number of Virginia officials, will be on hand to see the Cavaliers give battle to the Tar Heels.

Special trains will operate tonight from all sections of North Carolina to Chapel Hill and one or two also will come down from Virginia more than 15,000 persons saw the scoreless tie of the game played here two years ago and it is expected that as great a throng will witness tomorrow's game. For North Carolina it is the greatest football game each season and always draws a greater crowd than any other.

Situation of Coal Strike Negotiations Appear Unchanged

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Despite activities of various interests to bring about a resumption of the wage negotiations between representatives of the anthracite miners and operators the situation on the surface appeared unchanged today. There were some however who held the belief that a way would soon be found that would bring the two sides together and that the end of the long suspension was in sight. The more pessimistic on the other hand could see no significance in the recent moves of the leading operators and union officials and entertained no hope for settlement through the efforts of outside interests.

THANKSGIVING
 Inasmuch as we have small time to spare in this busy age for twilight hours, it is good to set aside a day wherein to take stock of the intangibles of life. The spirit of the day emphasizes the weal and not the woe of the year's march, but that is as it should be, for in the United States blessings have the habit of outnumbering misfortunes.

To few people is granted such a single upward curve of enrichment, not only in material things, but in the added values of spiritual development. It has become part of the national religion to afford the enlightenment of education to every person within its borders; and one result is that the material prosperity won by work is used forthright to purchase leisure in forms increasingly worthy.

Thanks may be offered up for the preservation, through so much that is changing, of the permanent ideals of the nation. It is no small miracle that this people, drawn from so many quarters of the globe, with so many and varied backgrounds, should find unanimity of purpose and aspiration in American ideals. It is of no small significance that this nation, representing within itself the memories of every other, should be able to enunciate clearly and convincingly the larger truths by which men seek to live. It is not unimportant that American citizenship is a living thing, an ever-articulate voice, a constant governing force, expressing its needs and ambitions with the conviction that its wish is will.

An American needs nothing other to inspire his Thanksgiving than the consciousness of his own splendid liberty. The world dies for lack of it. History is the chronicle of the quest for it. For this, tomorrow and every day is Thanksgiving.

AMERICAN CHEMISTS SEEK THE NEW PHILOSOPHER'S STONES

New York, Nov. 23.—Working in their laboratories, American chemists today are devoting their wizardry to an unheralded search for new Philosopher's Stones—even seeking for that precious knowledge that will enable them to transmute the potential wealth now locked in Nature's cupboards into actual resources for American housewives and American industry.

Between the housewife and the captain of industry and the area of the earth are these virtually unknown elements, driving into infinity and on in a ceaseless search for new secrets, new elements and new products.

Fast and important as this work by American chemists has been, few realize the actual magnitude of the progress of the art in this country. It was a new day for American brains, a day in which Europe, the birthplace and for centuries the home of scientific research, had been preeminent. But American wizardry triumphed once more.

The American Chemical Society has outlined a few of the important developments of scientific research in this country during the last few decades. Some to the savants themselves, the names of the chemists who made these discoveries are generally unknown.

For example, Bakelite, that hard synthetic resin used in cigarette holders, radio dials, radiator caps or timing gears of the automobile. Discovery of this important material came only after years of systematic organic chemical research in a field in which many scientists had labored long and unsuccessfully.

The modern production of Furfural, a tremendously important organic chemical in industry, is another brilliant page in American chemical achievements. Experimenting with oat hulls, a by-product in the preparation of breakfast cereal, with a view to utilizing the hulls as fuel, the savants accidentally stumbled upon a secret that chemically treated oat hulls give large quantities of furfural at a low cost, with the result it is today with scientific production, the cheapest aldehyde available.

No less important was research into the potential commercial utilization of skimmed milk, an investigation that resulted in Casel plastic material. Prepared by coagulation from skimmed milk, casel today is used in the manufacture of fountain pens, automatic pencils and buttons, instead of the hitherto unchallenged rubber and bone materials. In liquid form it is used as a glue.

With the development of the tungsten filament, metallic tantalum, a relatively rare metal, appeared commercially. Industry had little use for it. But metallurgists came to its aid and, after years of experimentation, produced the metal in this country at a comparatively low production cost. It now is used in the construction of battery chargers and devices for delivering direct current to the plates of radio tubes directly from the lamp socket. To a limited extent, Tantalum also is used in the manufacture of certain surgical instruments.

Using the largest diffraction grating in the world, American scientists, by separating chlorine into isotopes, have produced a heavy chlorine of different atomic weight from the original element, a feat which resulted in the first weighable and visible material ever produced with an atomic weight different from the ordinary element. This step was the first actual separation of an element into different elements and engendered a radical organization of the theory of primary elements.

Chief among the accomplishments in the field of chemical warfare have been the laying of falling smoke screens from airplanes by discharging the smoke-producing material through motor exhausts, the Stokes mortar shell, the explosion of which generates a heavy pall of smoke for land screening; a distinctly American tear gas called "C. N." (chloroacetophenone); the "C. E." hand grenade and cartridges which use this gas, and the McBride gas gun, a weapon that discharges a lachrymal gas into the faces of advancing troops.

Originally a military weapon, "tear gas" nevertheless has found important application in peace time. Police have found it an effective instrument.

Other important discoveries made by American chemists during the last decade include:

Utilization as food values of the principal protein products of blood drawn from slaughtered animals, previously regarded as waste products available only for conversion into glue or fertilizer. Blood albumin and haemoglobin are the principal products.

Pyrex, the heat-resisting, low-expansion glass, now used in arc lamps, battery jars, flasks, breakers and test tubes used in laboratories, radio insulators, evaporating and chafing dishes and other cooking utensils.

Chromium plating, the sheathing of other metals with a layer of chromium plating by an electro-chemical process. This process has enabled the use of other metals in industry whose susceptibility to rust made their use impossible until plated with rust-resisting chromium.

Heat-treatment of nickel-iron alloys a process which resulted in a revolutionary change in the operation of submarine cables.

Ethylene, a chemical used in the coloration to mature yellow of ripened, but green fruit. Fruit—oranges or lemons—that are ripe for the market but are still green can be brought to yellow tint by this treatment. It has saved agriculturists millions of dollars.

Vat dyes, in the production of which American chemists have challenged the hitherto acknowledged superiority of German chemists.

Oh, Boy! It's Really Simple!

UNDERSTAND A CAT, BUSINESS AND STRATEGY, THAT.

HOW COME I ASK YOU DID YOU STICK UP A BANK? YOU EARN THE SAME AS I DO BUT YOU PUT ON LOTS OF SHAM.

HAVE YOU A SCHEME LIKE BERTIE? OR DOES YOUR GAME GO ON NOW? HOW DO YOU BUY THE GLAD RAGS? HAVE YOU AN UNCLE JOHN?

"GREAT DIVIDE" LEADS CHOSEN BY POPULAR ACCLAIM

Popular acclaim was responsible for placing Alice Terry and Conway Tearle in the roles of Ruth Jordan and Stephen Ghent in "The Great Divide," the Metro-Goldwyn screen version of William Vaughn Moody's famous Arizona romance which comes to White's Theatre on Thanksgiving Day.

Suggestions from the public and from dramatic critics throughout the United States, solicited by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio after film rights to the famous play had been acquired, named Mr. Tearle and Miss Terry the ideal pair for the star parts in "The Great Divide."

Almost every leading man and woman in motion pictures was put forward, but the names of Alice Terry and Conway Tearle led those of the other candidates by a wide margin. Other prominent players in the cast include Wallace Beery, ZaSu Pitts, Huntly Gordon, Allan Forrest, Ford Sterling, William Orlamond and Geo. Cooper. Waldemar Young prepared the adaptation.

Quinn-Miller Co. Announces Opening of Their New Store

Quinn-Miller and Company, Greenville's Live Furniture Dealers, announce the opening of their new store on Albermarle Avenue. The new building which is modern in every respect was built to meet the requirements of the fast growing business of this popular firm, and has already been filled with the very latest styles in furniture.

The large store room 62x80 feet is equipped with a metal ceiling, attractive electric light fixtures, and a beautiful front of plate glass and copper. The display windows show the furniture to a wonderful advantage while the size of the room gives ample space for arranging of same.

This firm which is now operating in a large double store on Dickinson Avenue, is one of the many of the chain of Quinn-Miller stores. For the past several years it has established a prestige which is enjoyed by only a few stores of its size in the state, and by the courtesy accorded its patrons has won an enviable niche in the hearts of the public.

The increasing growth in the business necessitated the building of the new store. Having out grown its present quarters and enjoying a splendid trade, the company found it absolutely necessary to enlarge in order to give their patrons the best of service.

Being affiliated with a chain of stores gives the local firm a stronger buying power and enables them to get high class furniture. By buying in car lots, the company secures better freight rates which enables them to sell the best of furniture at popular prices.

The new store is located near the present quarters which makes it possible for the same managers to look after both.

WHITEFORD-CRITCHER.
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harrison Critcher announce the marriage of their daughter Helen to Mr. J. Charles Whiteford, Jr., on Wednesday, November twenty-fifth, Nineteen hundred and twenty-five, Greenville, North Carolina. At home After Dec. First

Greenville, N. C.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Critcher, on Dickinson Avenue, was the scene of a quiet but beautiful wedding this morning when their daughter, Helen, became the bride of Mr. J. Charles Whiteford, Jr., of Wilmington. The ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and most intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The drawing room in which the improvised altar was arranged was attractively decorated with burning tapers, potted plants and cut flowers. Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley played the wedding music, using Lohengrin's Wedding March as the precessional. Prior to the ceremony Miss Helene Higgs wearing a gown of Wine crepe back satin with hat to match sweetly sang "Because." Their flowers were arm bouquets of Yellow Chrysanthemums. Master C. B. Rowlett, Jr., nephew of the bride, wearing a suit of black satin pants with white crepe de chine blouse, as ring bearer, and Miss Jane Rowlett, niece of the bride wearing a lovely little frock of pink georgette, as flower girl were the bride's only attendants. C. B. Jr., carried the ring in the heart of a large chrysanthemum while Jane carried a basket of chrysanthemums. The bride wearing a tailored gown of blue Mirrolean with grey fur trimmings and grey accessories, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, entered with the groom. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William P. Watkins, the bride's pastor.

Mrs. Whiteford is the pretty and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Critcher of this city. She has always made her home in Greenville and is one of the most popular members of the younger social set. Possessing a charming personality and lovely disposition, she has a host of friends not only in this city but other cities where she has visited.

Mr. Whiteford, district salesman for the Purina Feed Company, with this city as his headquarters has during his short stay here won a host of admiring friends. He is an ex-service man and spent several months over seas. Mr. Whiteford is held in high esteem in business circles of this city.

After a bridal tour of several days Mr. and Mrs. Whiteford will return to Greenville, their future home. The following out of town relatives attended the wedding: Mrs. J. C. Whiteford, Sr., and Miss Dorothea

Coming to White's for One Show

"The Gorilla," the sensational New York, Chicago, Boston and London stage success, which will be the attraction at White's Theatre Friday night, Dec. 4th is a screamingly funny travesty on the mystery play craze, by Ralph Spence who has woven together a series of convulsingly amusing incidents. The author has employed all the tricks of the mystery play and parody and travesty run riot through three acts. It is a question if more amusing characters Mr. Mulligan and Mr. Garrity, the detective, whose ridiculous blunders dominate the piece, have ever been seen on the stage before. Their absurd attempts in running down criminals is said to be the epitome of comic art. The cast is an efficient one being comprised of players of distinctive ability, who enact their roles with a seriousness of purpose which makes the production all the funnier.

The animal in question is a master criminal of the type that has made stories possible for a long time. He is due to appear at the Stevens mansion and it is intimated that something terrible will happen. Prior to the coming of the arch criminal a couple of pseudo detectives arrive and complications begin to develop. Surprise after surprise follow and the audience is kept in a ferment of excitement and laughter throughout the performance. The play made New York, Boston, Chicago and London rock with laughter during its long run in each city and lovers of amusement who witness the show at White's Theatre are promised two and a half hours of wholesome fun.

In New Quarters
FRIDAY

We will open the doors of our new store at 10:30 Friday Morning, located just opposite our former place, and because of the fact that delay in shipment of fixtures and other items for its completeness which forces us to move in mid-season the opening will be informal in nature. We realize that should we choose otherwise so late in the season that we could not do justice to ourselves in presenting what some may expect. The purpose of this announcement is to convey to our friends and the general public that we have moved, and to impress upon them that we are carrying on in a bigger and better way; which better qualifies us to give you finer service, built on the same policy as has always been featured by this firm.

We plan merely to move and use this method of extending to YOU a hearty welcome to visit us in our new quarters.

SO YOU MAY KNOW!

OUR STERLING ASSURANCE—Our stores will not tolerate a single word of misrepresentation in any style or form by our sales people, by advertising department, or by any member of our organization. When we quote the original price of any article you may depend upon it absolutely, even though in many cases the reduced price is so low as to seem almost impossible. For years our policy has been—our customers have not received full service until the goods have proven entirely satisfactory in every way.

And remember, we will take back, or exchange your merchandise, or refund your money on any article, that we sell during this sale.

Necessity compels us to stage this unparalleled selling drive for two very good reasons,—First, because we have about $200,000 worth of stock and only need $90,000 worth, second, because we need right smart of money to finance our stores right now.

"EVERY CLOUD HAS A SILVER LINING." WE EXPECT TO ADD AT LEAST TWO THOUSAND NEW CUSTOMERS TO THOSE WHO ALREADY FAVOR US WITH THEIR PATRONAGE, AND RAISE THE NECESSARY MONEY, TO DISCOUNT OUR BILLS THAT WE MAY CONTINUE TO HOLD THE POSITION WE HAVE, IN EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA—THAT OF BEING ABLE TO SELL "THE BEST FOR THE HOME AT THE MOST REASONABLE PRICES."

You are cordially invited—to visit this exhibition of price-cutting, which we assure you will be incomparable in its scope, and you will freely admit this—sale will eclipse anything in the selling of dependable FURNITURE, RUGS, STOVES, HOUSE-FURNISHING yet attempted in North Carolina.

We have never acquired the sale habit, but when it is forced upon us in this manner, we are determined to have a sale that the prices made, will attract new customers to our stores. You will receive the same treatment as if there were no sale. Satisfaction or your money back.
