SEVERAL SHORT TALKS FEATURE KIWANIS MEET

Officers Will Be Elected for Ensuing Year at Next Meeting of the Club Dec. 11

The Kiwanis Club had a very interesting session in their meeting of last night, which was featured with short talks on subjects that are receiving considerable thought and attention at this time.

Mr. J. B. Kittrell appeared before the club for the purpose of soliciting its aid in putting over a Greenville's part in the Boys Scout work. At his suggestion president Charlie Laughinghouse appointed a committee of twenty members who with a like number from the Rotary Club and also the Woman's Club are to form teams for the purpose of soliciting the citizenship of the city on next Wednesday to raise funds for the maintenance of the work in this community.

Mr. R. G. Fitzgerald, superintendent of Public Instruction in the county made an interesting talk on the present day conditions that now exist among the schools of the county, and presented figures showing Pitt county's failure as compared with other counties in its advancement along educational lines. These figures further prove that while agriculturally our county ranks third among all others of the State, in providing the proper schools and teachers for our childhood we are in thirtieth place.

Mr. M. L. Wright spoke very briefly on the Community Chest for Greenville and related experiences of other towns and cities which has proven the more satisfactory way of raising funds for various purposes. The establishment of a Community Chest means a pooling of all funds created for charitable or other like causes and the same to be distributed according to the need.

At the next meeting of the Club on December 11th officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

HINDENBERG SIGNS BILL RATIFYING THE SECURITY PACT

Germany Writes Peace Treaties of Locarno On Her Statute Books and Hopes for Era of Good Will

Berlin, Nov. 28.—(AP)—President Von Hindenburg today signed the bill passed by the Reichstag late yesterday ratifying the security pact and arbitration treaty negotiated at Locarno.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Germany has written the peace treaties of Locarno on her statute books and now rests her hopes and anticipations for an era of good will so far as her relations with the western neighbors is concerned.

Chancellor Luther and Foreign Secretary Stresemann will depart for London tomorrow to be present and with the representatives of the other interested countries officially sign the documents. The adoption of the Locarno bill 291 to 174 in the Reichstag late yesterday was due to the widespread conviction that economic expediency made ratification indispensable. The enactment of the bill will enable Germany to enter the League of Nations.

MASKED GUNMEN VISIT ROAD HOUSE SHOOT TWO MEN

Killers Challenged Their Victims Before Firing; Great Mystery Surrounds Shooting

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Two mysterious masked gunmen stalked into a road house half a mile from here last night and shot two men as they sat listening to a radio concert. R. A. Davis, farmer, was instantly killed. William Bauer, also a farmer, was shot through the abdomen and was not expected to live. The killers challenged their intended victims before firing.

"Davis, we want you," calmly announced the taller of the two men and then fired from the hip. "Bauer, you are next," said the other gunman as he fired. The gunmen then backed out of the house and escaped in an automobile.

Mystery was added to the case by the fact that apparently Bauer and Davis were strangers. Bauer declared today he had never seen Davis until last night when he met him in the road house. Robbery was not attempted.

Says This Generation Below Grandfathers in Social Amenities

Lexington, Va., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Are courtesy of speech and refinement of etiquette lost arts? Are we sinking slowly to a crass, blunt people?

We are below the level of our grandfathers in these social amenities, Dr. E. F. Shannon, author, and head of the English department of Washington and Lee University, today told students in a lecture on Old English.

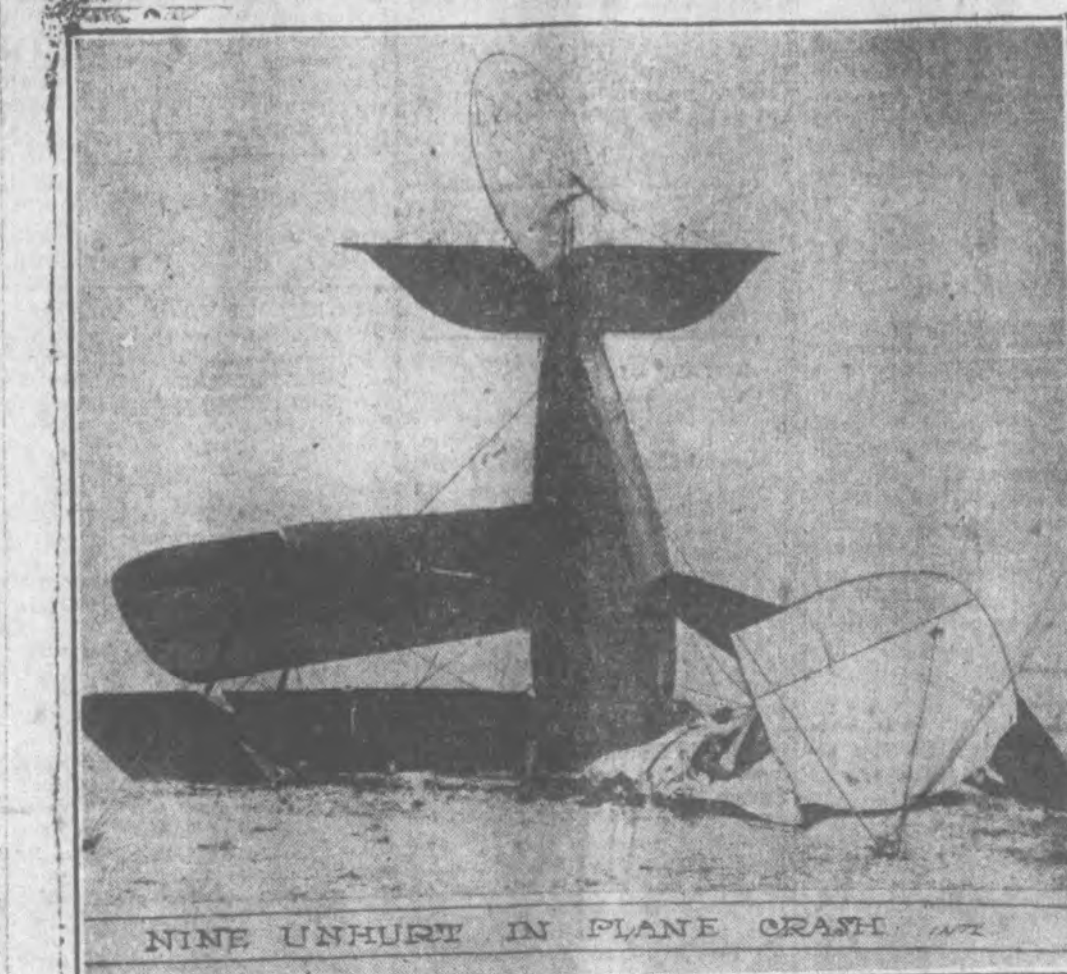

"We have no time now for those finer points of courtesy which our grandfathers took so much delight in," said Dr. Shannon. "We are in too much of a hurry—not only in our manners, but also in our language."

He pointed out that many present day expressions have resulted from shortening to gain time and that slang expressions both economize time and prove easy expression for ideas.

"The French are more polite people than the English or Americans, and it is shown in their language," declared the professor. "Our grandfathers were more formal than is the custom today, and our language is less formal than theirs."

He ascribed the tendency towards a less formal language as a part of a general movement, and said that the whole trend today is toward more freedom in everything. "A man of two generations ago would have been horrified to see a woman go down the street clad in knickers, and yet," he shrugged his shoulders, "we think it is necessary today."

Steele Appeals for Commutation of Death Sentence

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—(AP)—With no possibility of being saved from the electric chair except by executive clemency, Robert Steele, Union county negro, today made his appeal through his attorneys to the pardon commissioner, for commutation of the sentence of death in the electric chair next Friday. Steele was convicted for the murder of Will Kaufman, another negro, last May. Kaufman's wife, evidence introduced at the trial tended to show, was the cause of the quarrel between the two men. The negro's attorneys who appeal to the Supreme Court was unsuccessful argued to the commissioner that there was insufficient evidence of premeditation and that no motive was shown. The negro is said to have had a good character previous to the commission of this crime which he confessed.

No announcement of the commissioner's decision in the case has been made.

THE BOY SCOUTS

On Wednesday, December 2nd, the campaign to raise $3,000 to carry on the work of the Boy Scouts in Greenville District will be started.

When you are asked to contribute, look upon it as the opportunity to make a good investment; for you can get no finer dividends than the satisfaction of knowing that you are building men.

The Boy Scout movement develops independence and leadership among the boys, which will stand them in good stead as they grow older. They find themselves joined together in a world-wide brotherhood. Every manly and generous quality is developed in properly-conducted games and drills. Brought into close contact with nature, in camps and on long hikes, they are developed physically and mentally. They are encouraged to read clean books, and are taught how to meet almost any emergency that may confront men. The Scout motto is, "Be Prepared," and one of their slogans is, "Do a good turn every day."

All this goes to the development of character—the sort of character that will not fail to maintain the supremacy of our nation among the nations of the world.

It is very fine for us to sing:

"God give us men! A time like this demands, Great hearts, strong minds, true faith, and willing hands, Men whom the lust of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and a will, Men who have honor, men who will not lie."

But it is a finer thing to grow these men from the boys whom God has given us, and to help every movement that aims to develop them. Invest next Wednesday, in the Boys of Greenville, and your investment will return you a thousand fold.

Broad Survey of Cut-Over Lands to Be Conducted N. C.

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—(AP)—North Carolina is one of the states chosen by the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture in which to conduct a broad survey of cut-over lands, it is stated in a Department of Agriculture statement just received here.

The survey will be conducted in Alabama, North Carolina, and Virginia, and later in Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, and South Carolina. The survey is expected to give valuable information on the growth of the southern pines, and the extent to which cut-over lands are "coming back," it is stated.

When the southern lumberman cuts his forest land clean, says the Department, instead of taking only the cream of the timber crop, he has a far-reaching effect on the next generation's lumber supply, observations of the Southern Forest Experiment Station of the forest service tend to show, R. D. Forbes, director of the station, says clean cutting of the forest has left the land in much poorer shape, because of the lack of good seed trees, than did the lighter cuttings of the early days.

This is apparent over wide areas, but even clearer is the evidence that where fire has run through the cut-over land any advantage that light cutting has over heavy cutting is obliterated. Save for a few fire-protected spots, much of south Mississippi is reported to be devoid of the extensive forest growth because of the annual fire and close cutting of timber. Eastern Texas, on the contrary, has profited, it is reported, from a steady campaign against fires, and in many sections now has growing on cut-over lands a second crop of timber that will soon be marketable.

CHILDLESS WIVES WILL NO LONGER BE GIVEN ALIMONY

Chicago Judge Declares "There Is No Reason for Alimony in Such Cases in Age of Equal Rights"

Chicago, Nov. 28.—(AP)—No longer will plaintive petitioners who tell of a short and unhappy married life in which there were no children, be given alimony by Superior Court Judge Harry Lewis. He has no aid for what he calls the professional alimony diggers. "There is no reason for alimony in such cases in this age of equal rights," he said.

Judge Lewis hears about half the divorce petitions filed in Cook county. "Why a healthy and childless woman should receive alimony from a divorced husband is beyond my comprehension," he said. "If he wants to marry again he is forced to consider the burden of payments to his first wife yet she is free to re-marry when she wishes. The alimony automatically stops then but if she so desires she may remain single and force her former husband to support her until old age."

ROMANCE OF YOUTH CULMINATES HAPPY MARRIAGE TODAY

Judge A. M. Stack, State's Well Known Jurist, Marries Mrs. M. B. Brittain, His First Love

Winston-Salem, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A romance of youth dating back many years during which each passed for a time out of the others life, then years of happy marriage with others ultimately beclouded by the death of life partners culminated here this morning in the marriage of one of the state's well-known jurists and his first love.

Peking, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The homes of seven government officials were wrecked tonight by a mob of 1,300 said to have included the red element adherent of the People's Party, students and Fuzhans. The attack upon the homes of the officials followed an unsuccessful attempt by the rioters to stage an anti-government parade.

How Fast Do Pine Needles Fall?

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—How fast do pine needles fall? That question the Lake States Forest Experiment Station is attempting to answer. It is making observations in Minnesota forests of jack pine, Norway pine, and aspen to determine just how slowly or rapidly the leaf litter of the forest floor accumulates.

During the next few years, the annual leaf litter will be measured and analyzed by these forests service expert of the United States Department of Agriculture on a half dozen tracts. In intensive plots, some 1200 feet square, covered with tightly-fastened burlap, chemically treated against attacks of rodents or dampness, nature will be required to lay brand new carpets for the foresters' inspection.

Trees of various ages will contribute to the experiment going on beneath them, from open-growing jack pine 30 years old to densely crowded Norway pine 300 years old, or more. Next spring, and again just before snow flies next fall, the "carpets" will be "taken up" to be weighed, and chemically analyzed.

Meanwhile, blocks of soil from the different locations, cut 12 inches square, with the layers of leaf litter untouched, are being painstakingly inventoried and analyzed. For comparison later with the records of the leaf fall.

SAYS FERGUSON ADMITTED BEING GOVERNOR TEXAS

While Mrs. Ferguson Was Elected Governor Opinion is That Her Husband is the Ruling Power

Austin, Texas, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The question of who is governor of Texas and why has been given a thorough airing in statements appearing today centering about the proposed special session of the legislature. Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the House of Representatives, declared yesterday to Texas newspaper men that Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in her executive acts proceeded upon the order and advice of her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson.

Correspondents of New York papers, however, got a closer slant on the question when they had traveled 2,000 miles for an interview from which all Texas reporters had been barred. Dispatches said that James E. Ferguson, who received them in place of his wife admitted being the real governor of Texas. The dispatches say the former governor, whose administration ended in impeachment, admitted he is the ruling power. Ferguson is reported as having attacked the earlier intimation of Speaker Satterwhite that the legislature would not be reluctant in handling impeachment proceedings because the governor is a woman. Ferguson charged that Satterwhite is moved by political ambition and would not let a woman or consideration for a woman stand in his way.

After he had ministered to the wants of the visiting reporters Mr. Ferguson talked to local newspaper men telling them that "men with political bees in their bonnets are responsible for the special session agitation."

The former governor reviewed his recent charges and admitted to bring their whisperings to the grand jury and rounded out his statement with the avowal that Attorney General Moody and Speaker Satterwhite have their eyes on the governor's chair. He declined to say what the governor will do about the special session demand, neither would he say what action he would take regarding offering for re-election.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Travis County grand jury which has investigated the state's affairs for two months passed "such matters as have appeared impractical for final disposition at this time" for consideration of the next grand jury. The grand jury submitted its report at noon this being the last day of its term.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

New Testament Names for Christians. (II) "THE FAITHFUL"

"And to the faithful in Christ Jesus." Ephesians 1:1.

This word "faithful" was the dearest word to the Christian heart during all the heroic ages of the Church.

If a stranger met a stranger on the highways of Rome, and saw that stranger make the sign of a cross, he hurried to him and whispered in his ear, "Art thou of the faithful?"

The Christian man and woman of the early ages lived by faith in the most real sense of the words. The whole order of their life was based on an implicit belief in Jesus Christ.

The devotions of the forty-seven Romans to their lord, the devotion of a Highland clan to his chief, the devotion of the Old Guard to Napoleon, these are all splendid examples of what love and loyalty can do with the human heart and human life.

When St. Polycarp was brought before the Governor Creed to Faith, and from Faith and commanded to deny Faithfulness, Christ, he answered, "Eighty No man could wish for a and six years have I served Him and He has done me no harm. Why should I deny Him today?" and he went out of the Governor into the presence of death as calmly as he would go to his morning meal.

Faithfulness is the root of faith, and faith is the source of creed. Faithfulness is the heart's love and devotion.

The Christian creed grew up naturally out of the Christian faith. As the disciples went up and down the world, they whispered in their souls all that Jesus had done for them.

These songs were the great distinguishing mark of the Christian. Longfellow says: "Paul and Silas in their prison, Sang of Christ the Lord arisen."

All the information that Piny could give to his master, the Emperor Trajan, concerning the Christians was, "that they met early in the morning to sing songs to one Christ as God, and bound themselves by a solemn compact to do no evil."

Three hundred years later men of subtle minds had arisen who were not content with the simplicity of the Gospels, but must needs define exactly the Lord's nature and the inter-relations of the Godhead.

Even until now, organized bodies of Christians bow down to their definitions as an African bushman bows down to his fetish. And men and women who ought to live in holy concord, are separated from each other by obsolete words and worn-out phrases.

We need to-day to return to the intimate and personal love and loyalty to our Lord which characterized the early Christians. If we love Him and follow Him, if we are faithful to Him, that faithfulness will soon become faith, that faith a creed or confession. It seems

And all this was done so impossible to re-unite Christians and so sweetly for the tend on the basis of a most part, that the very persecutors were won by the faith the lost unity, we must go back and devotion of the Christian, to the to the point where unity was lost. We must go from brought before the Governor Creed to Faith, and from Faith and commanded to deny Faithfulness.

RAYON FABRIC SURPASSES SILK IN AMERICAN SALES

New York. — The silk worm, after losing its secret, is giving way to the competition of man's science and machinery.

Rayon, an artificial textile fabric closely resembling silk in appearance, is used in the manufacture of hosiery, which consumes one-fifth of the domestic production, and of ribbon, cotton and woolen goods.

Count Hilarie de Chardonnet was the first to produce a rayon and he called it artificial silk when he introduced the fabric at the Paris Exposition in 1884.

Imitating this artificially, he produced a vegetable fibre which organically resembled cotton more than silk. Improvements were made in the process until cellulose, the material constituting the cell walls of plants, could be manufactured into rayon on a large scale.

Many processes are used, but in all some type of cellulose is reduced to a jelly-like mass and pumped through glass nozzles in which there are fine capillary tubes so small as to be invisible to the naked eye.

The silk like sheen which rayon imparts to cotton fabric when woven into it within the past few months has resulted in a large demand for the cotton mills of the south and has greatly stimulated the sale of cotton goods throughout the country.

Rayon also is used for covering telephone wires and electromagnets, trimming and heading tire fabrics, fofol's hair, artificial flowers, shoe laces, suspenders, garter linings and in knit goods.

In a statement issued by the Babson Statistical organization, it was estimated that the domestic production of rayon was approximately 39,000,000 pounds in 1924, as compared with 8,000,000 pounds in 1920 and 2,450,000 in 1914.

This year's output will approximate 7,000,000 pounds. One hundred and forty million pounds was the total of the world's production last year, with the United States leading all other countries.

The competition between silk and rayon is reflected in prices. In 1922 raw silk dropped from $18 a pound to $5, while rayon on the unbleached 15 denier grade was cut from $6.50 a pound to $2.

DIVORCE BROKERAGE BECOMES POPULAR PARIS PROFESSION

Paris.—Marriage brokerage has been almost entirely displaced by divorce brokerage as a profitable profession in Paris.

American fathers and mothers are extremely reluctant to provide the dot necessary to pay the marriage broker's fees. But wealthy husbands and wives who want their freedom are willing to pay liberally for fast action.

The brokers work on the steamers coming over from New York and haunt the fashionable hotels along the Champs Elysees and the Rue di Rivoli.

Negotiations are carried on at tea dances and at the merry dinner lunches at Ciro's and the Perroquet, which wealthy Americans frequent. The methods are very similar to those of the American ambulance chaser. Divorce brokers make the acquaintance of all Americans on the Paris-bound boats who look unhappy.

"Oh, yes, it was that wonderful lawyer, Mr. who turned the trick. He is so clever and has never failed to get speedy results. And he is such a gentleman and so discreet."

PREHISTORIC FLAPPERS ALSO CONCEALED THEIR EARS

Tucson, Ariz. — Prehistoric flappers who lived in Mexico about 10,000 years ago used the same care in concealing their ears that the flappers of today.

The sheiks of that period were more worried about their waist line than they were about their hair measurement. These are two prehistoric fashion notes discovered by Dean Byron Cummings, professor of archeology at the University of Arizona, in his excavations in the pyramid of Cuicuilco, 11 miles south of Mexico City.

The flappers of the ancient day instead of concealing their ears used the now prevalent barrage of hair as ed large disc-like ear plugs made of an American variety of jade. The sheiks of that time corded their thick hair to give themselves a handy legend of feet that apparently was all the rage nobler title than "Faithful in Christ Jesus."

THE ROUND TABLE CLUB

Mrs. R. L. Smith was hostess to the Round Table Club on Nov. 24th. The spacious home, with its antique furnishings, was a fitting setting for this Thanksgiving meeting, one of the most delightful of the fall program.

The welcome accorded each guest by the hostess, created at once that feeling of friendliness and harmony so characteristic of the meetings of the Round Table Club.

With the President, Mrs. Herting, in the chair, matters of business were discussed and readily disposed of. The treasurer submitted a tentative budget and the referee on pronunciation made her report.

A trip through Scotland and Ireland was the subject for the afternoon. Mrs. J. E. Nobles' paper on Scotland showed a careful study and a wise selection of material on this wonderful country. The spell of Scotland was felt by all.

"The Emerald Isle, a journey through it," was given by Miss Hand as a travelogue.

She held the interest of her hearers by her choice diction and careful selection of subject matter. She reviewed the legendary, historical, social and religious life of the people. The Irish humor, and other national characteristics, were delineated.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess invited the guests into the dining room. Amid the soft lights of shaded candles the table presented a beautiful scene; the centre piece was a charmingly grouped arrangement of tropical fruit and nuts. Mrs. W. L. Hall poured coffee. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Key Brown served an appetizing Thanksgiving luncheon.

Mrs. Travis Booker was also a guest of the club.

so seen together at White's Monday when this quintette of stars will ensemble "Kiss Me Again," the latest picture from the directorial genius of Ernst Lubitsch.

This unusual grouping of five stellar names in one production—particularly as they constitute the entire cast—sets a high standard for the quality of the picture, but when Mr. Lubitsch chose the story he was going to direct for Warner Bros., he was given "carte blanche" in the matter of players. The result was Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, Clara Bow, John Roche and Willard Louis.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DETERMINE NICKNAMES FOR GRID STARS

Iowa City, Ia.—Out here in Iowa, where the corn grows tall and the wheat begins, and where the University of Iowa usually has a first class football squad, the followers of the team love to bestow colorful nicknames on their heroes.

Nick Kutsch, the flashy halfback and a holy terror to Iowa's opponents is known as "The Flying Dutchman," "Cowboy Nick." He gained the first sobriquet because of his fierce running when tearing through the line, and he naturally had to be a cowboy when he came from the stockyards district of Sioux City.

"THE GORILLA"

Local playgoers will have an opportunity at the White's Theatre Friday night, Dec. 4th, of seeing for the first time here, "The Gorilla," which scored a sensational success in New York, Chicago, Boston and London.

It is a satirical mystery by Ralph Spence, who has contributed many hits to the "Follies" and other notable productions.

"The Gorilla" is a combination of everything that has ever gone into a mystery play—shooting, secret panel, prowling gorillas, dangling skeletons, hidden stairways, trap doors, and what not. Its outstanding characters are Mr. Mulligan and Mr. Garrity, whose ludicrous bawling is a source of constant laughter.

The presenting company is a capable one and the serious manner in which the members act their roles is a source of unrestrained merriment. It was the seriousness which characterizes their work that made the New York and Chicago audience roar with laughter. Starting in an eerie manner, the play works along legitimate lines until the two detectives appear and from that on it grows every minute funnier and more shockingly mysterious and melodramatic. With that for tension, the laughs become shouts, because most of them are developed under the most amazing conditions.

One does not have to exercise his brain matter to follow the plot of this play, but according to its New York and Chicago record, it is productive of perfect irresponsible fun. The play is produced by Donald Getzlaher and directed by Walter F. Scott. The same scenic equipment and effects which characterized the original production will be seen here. Among those who will enact the important roles are: Sid Williams, Edwin Foreberg, Ellen Crowe, Victor Browne, William Balfour, Tom Burton, Clyde Wilson, Be-tram Hill, Jack F. Ayers, James Kelo and Bernard Crancy. Seats go on sale next Wednesday morning.

ROSENKAVALLER PROVES TO BE WINNING HORSE FOR STRAUS

Rosenkavaller is a winning horse for Richard Strauss, the composer.

Attending one of the Sunday races in Kellau, Strauss was so greatly amused in learning one of the entries was named after his opera that he placed ten shillings on him.

"You are simply throwing your money away," his friend remonstrated. "He's a rank outsider."

But Rosenkavaller won the race at 5 to 1 and Strauss pocketed 50c shillings.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was an historical talk by Mr. Andrew Joyner, of Raleigh, a Tyson descendant. He presented the results of his four or five years' study of the Colonial Records in regard to the Tyson and allied families. He discovered that the original records were contained in the original province of Hyde. His talk was most interesting to all, and especially to the aspiring candidates for the Daughters of the American Revolution and for the Colonial Dames. His opinion was that the Tysons and Mayors were of English and not Scotch origin.

The principal address was made by Hon. Frank M. Wooten, of Greenville, who spoke on the subject "A Good Name is Rather to Be Chosen Than Great Riches;" Time of Meeting Changed.

GERMAN HOT DOGS AGAIN CAPTURE GAY PARIS CAFES

Paris.—Frankfurter, sauerkraut and pilsener on the one hand and peace conferences on the other seemingly are unrelated, but they are in France.

For a long time Paris tried to get along with Strasburg sausages. They were on the menu cards as Strasburgers, but the public would have none of them. Then the real Frankfurt hot dogs were imported under various names to disguise their German origin.

Since the Locarno conference, however, the masks have been dropped and now Paris is eating Frankfurters and sauerkraut and washing them down with pilsener just as it did before the war.

SOFT DRINKS REPLACING HARD LIQUOR, SAYS DRY OFFICIAL

Chicago.—Hard liquor in the United States is being superseded by ginger ale and other carbonated beverages, in the opinion of Captain R. Q. Merrick, assistant to the prohibition administrator for the Chicago district.

When asked if most of the soft drinks were not being used as "chasers" or diluents for alcoholic beverages, the officer said the sodas were being consumed for their own worth.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1964 Madison Avenue, this city. "In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere. "Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time. "My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. VIENNESE INFLUENCE AGAIN FELT IN ROME NIGHT LIFE Rome.—The influence of Vienna, before the World war a rival of Paris as the capital of European gaiety, again in making itself felt in the night life of Rome. "Vandeville" turns and cabaret performers from France and England gradually are giving way to Austrians. As a result, the soft Viennese German is heard more frequently than French in places where Romans go to amuse themselves.

BACCARAT FAVORED GAME ON EMERALD COAST; BOULE NEXT Dinard.—Baccarat was the favorite game this season on the Emerald Coast of France, with la boule running it a close second. La boule surpassed baccarat at some of the smaller casinos. Gambling at all the resorts—Dinard, Saint-Malo, Parame and Saint Lunaire—netted a profit of 5,251,687 francs. Of this the state receives 1,958,100 francs. The cities in which the casinos are located also receive part of the earnings.

Gambling was slight heavier this year on the Emerald Coast than it was last year, when the earnings of the casinos were 4,030,288 francs.

CABLE LETTER

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Reports from the United States that clothing manufacturers have been using the name of the prince of Wales as well as his coat of arms to advertise their goods are being investigated by the makers of ready-made clothing in England, who plan to raise a protest. It is contended here that some of the advertisements as used in America included even the portrait of the prince under which appeared the wording "by appointment," along with the royal coat of arms. These advertisements, it is claimed, made it appear that the heir to the British throne started on his tour to South Africa and South America last spring wearing a hand-made-down suit made in New York, Pittsburgh or Chicago and the British tailors are up in arms and have assembled great masses of documentary evidence to show that the prince never had a suit made in America in his life.

Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador, and Dr. St. Hamer, the German ambassador, were marked men at the lord mayor's annual dinner recently. Of the 50 or 60 cabinet members, Ambassador, generals, admirals and high municipal officials who sat at the lord mayor's table they were the only two men in ordinary evening clothes. Their plain black small-tailed suits, with decorations and adornments of any sort were in striking contrast to the brilliant uniform of all their fellow diners.

Austin Chamberlain, the British secretary for foreign affairs sat on the right of Dr. St. Hamer and wore a dark uniform heavily braided with gold and with a high collar which looked extremely uncomfortable. Don Alfonso Merry del Val, the Spanish ambassador, sat on the other side of the German ambassador and looked like one of the old oil paintings on the Guild Hall walls in his gold beaded uniform. Trumpeters in their gorgeous capes and hats of medieval times, stood immediately behind Ambassador Houghton and sounded the blasts which silenced the banqueters when the toasts were to be proposed.

The ladies at the dinner were all brilliantly gowned and wore tiaras and court jewels. Their gowns, however, were modern and did not have the historic character of the male uniforms dating back to long before the American and German republics were dreamed.

Paris, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The group of Americans serving in the French foreign legion in Morocco numbering about 40, has recently lost one of its most interesting members, Daniel Cole, of Detroit, a negro, died in a French hospital a few days ago after receiving mortal wound near Taza. Cole was a graduate of the University of Michigan and of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. During the war he worked as an airplane designer in France with the firm of Breguet, and when the war was over after trying vainly to enter the French aviation service he enlisted finally in the foreign legion. Here his devotion to duty earned rapid promotion, he was a corporal in four months and a sergeant in nine—an unusual record in the legion.

Every since last April, the foreign legion has borne the brunt of Abd-el-Krim's attacks, and did most of the fighting until reinforcements were hurried from France. It was in a minor operation in the "Tazastain spot," as the French call the region around the town of that name, that Cole received his fatal wound, being the only man of his unit hit. When he was buried at Casablanca his American lieutenant, Hamilton, placed flowers on his grave.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Paul Painleve, until this week premier of France, has had his small financial difficulties as well as the major ones that caused the crash of his cabinet. A few days ago in the lobby of a small Paris hotel he presented the spectacle of a literally "broke" French premier and minister of finance trying in vain to find five francs something less than a quarter—with which to buy an artificial poppy in aid of Earl Haig's fund for disabled British soldiers.

M. Painleve was leaving a luncheon in his honor given by the Anglo American press association of Paris when he was asked to buy a poppy. He searched all the pockets of his flowing prince Albert coat and all his vest and trousers pockets for a coin, but without success. Only the timely arrival of his chief secretary who had come to remind the absent-minded premier that he had an important meeting with the chamber's finance committee saved him. The secretary treated his chief to a poppy and the national honor was saved. Embarrassed by this incident M. Painleve made a grab for his overcoat. He got one, but not his own. It belonged to his minister of the budget, M. Bonnet. Finally France's two financial chiefs straightened out their garments and departed but not until the premier, who has no memory for faces, had made the day complete with another instance of his absent-mindedness. He warmly shook hands with an American journalist whom he had challenged to a duel in 1917 on account of the journalist's criticisms of the spring offensive of that year and whom he had engaged in a lively press controversy.

Monte Carlo is threatened with a rival in the nearby Mediterranean. Next spring a new city is to be built outside Valletta, the capital of Malta. Paris has learned, and Premier Ugo Pasquale Mistrud of Malta, is quoted as saying that no expense would be spared to make the new gambling center without an equal in the world. It is reported the Maltese Monte Carlo will have theaters, grounds for various forms of sport, ultra-modern hotels and a sumptuous casino, with roulette and other forms of gambling.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Gas masks are suggested for Berlin traffic policemen, who are suffering from the carbon monoxide fumes from automobile exhausts. Police officials, investigating an epidemic of illness among members of the traffic squad, are convinced that the disease is a form of poisoning produced by continued inhalation of benzole fumes. They doubt whether gas masks would be feasible, however and are groping around for another protective agent. The illness manifests itself by severe headaches. There is a general lack of vitality, akin in some to a state of coma. Cold, damp weather has been eliminated as the cause. Members of the traffic squad have been put on six-hour shifts, a reduction of two hours.

Munich Simplificissimus, a humorous magazine, drew a caricature of Frau Stresemann in connection with the German political situation growing out of the Locarno security pact. The cartoon was captioned: "For goodness sake, Gustav, no crisis now when my receptions are just beginning to become the rage." Frau Stresemann, far from taking offense, bought the original cartoon from the artist and is displaying it at her receptions.

Popular With Foreign Clubs. Seattle.—Rowing shells used by the University of Washington have been ordered by two foreign rowing clubs and the Universities of Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Princeton. George Pocock is the university shell builder with a shop on the school campus. His shells were used when the University of Washington became intercollegiate rowing champion in 1923 and 1924. The first eight oared shell for foreign waters went to the Buenos Aires Club. The Havana Rowing Club ordered a four-oared boat.

PEPPERMINT OIL PRICE SOARS OWING TO ACUTE SHORTAGE

South Bend, Ind.—A pound of peppermint oil now is worth its weight in silver. An acute shortage, resulting from unseasonable frost and heat in May in southern Michigan and northwest Indiana, where 60 percent of the world's supply of peppermint is produced, reduced the crop 70 percent or to approximately 250,000 pounds. Throughout the late summer and early fall peppermint oil has steadily increased in price until it exceeded $17 a pound. The maximum price last year was $4 and four years ago it was $1.25. Gradually the growers are drifting toward a single "pool" through which they would market their oil when the demand price is highest. In several instances, farmers have been known to store their oil in safety deposit boxes to await further market advances. Manufacturers of tooth paste, candies, chewing gum, various toothache remedies and all other products which require peppermint flavoring are interested in the co-operative efforts of the growers. The normal yearly consumption of the oil is 400,000 pounds.

WOULD SAVE TIME AND PRIDE BY DROPPING NAMES STATES

Westerville, O.—Much ink, labor and local pride would be saved, in the opinion of Raymond Phelan, professor of business administration, Otterbein College, if the state designations were dropped on letters to important cities. In a letter, Professor Phelan urges the postoffice department to take under consideration a plan of arbitrarily specifying a list of cities so well known that the state is unnecessary.
