DISCUSSES PLACING INSURGENTS LAST COMMITTEE LISTS

Democrats Assert G. O. P. Leaders Punishing Insurgents for Standing for Principal of Abe Lincoln

Washington, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The tax reduction bill was put aside for a while in the House today while that body discussed the action of the Republican majority in placing the insurgents at the bottom of the committee lists.

Representative Garrett, the Democrat leader asserted the Republican leaders were punishing some of the insurgents for standing for the principal of Abraham Lincoln.

When the Democratic leader declared he would offer no comfort to the punished Republicans, Representative Frear, of Wisconsin, one of the insurgents, hastened to declare the group "would be able to take care of itself in the future."

Mr. Garrett asserted the amendment to the rules regulating discharge of committees from considering legislation, a vote which was made a test of party regularity, in reality was framed to block a vote on a resolution proposing tariff revision.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader, replied the majority had organized the House "to assure that the majority could direct the work for which it was held responsible."

Representative Tineber, Republican of Kansas, said it was "excuse enough to amend the discharge rule if Democrats intended to take advantage of it in following action to cut the tariff rate."

Mr. Tineber then added that the insurgents "left us in the time of our needs in election."

"We have not placed these men in key positions where party policies are determined," he said, "that would be an injustice to the people of the country who placed the Republicans in power."

THANKS FOR THIS HISSING MUSSOLINI BRITAIN NEED NOT WORRY THE JEWS AT SEA

ARTHUR BRISBANE

A special invitation committee will report to the House of Representatives that the national aviation situation is alarming. It will say that this nation does not realize the importance of air power, that we need to spend money and get action.

The nation will be grateful for that report, even if it should be overruled finally by decisions of the "big butter and egg men" that are chosen to run aviation for the United States.

To know that you are in danger is at least the beginning of wisdom.

Mussolini's name was hissed by a crowd in New York that doubtless meant well. But New York is a long way from Italy, and the New York crowd was a long way from understanding Mussolini's problems, and Italy's.

When the war ended Italy had her choice of imitating Russia or submitting to Mussolini's strong hand. Under his direction Italy has kept her men at work, her women and children fed. Italy has retained the respect of other European nations and has known how to enforce her rights. And under Mussolini the Italian life is worth more than French franc.

As the French franc continues to fall, many in France demand the establishment of a dictatorship on the Mussolini plan. You will read of that in this morning's dispatches.

The French have a proverb: "Great evils require great remedies." Many remedies might be more dangerous than Mussolini.

Mussolini, undisturbed by criticism and attempts at murder, goes ahead with his plans. He means to declare Italy an empire, reviving the old Roman empire, Garibaldi made Victor Emmanuel's father king, Mussolini would make his king emperor, following in the steps of Disraeli, the man of Asiatic ancestry, who made Victoria Empress of India. If you start with momentum you can go a long way.

The able Mr. Garvin solemnly answers George Harvey's statement that England is on her last legs, about to plunge into the gulf.

Britain would be better off, says Garvin, if she didn't have to pay so many millions to America every year, while Britain's debtors pay her nothing. This means $400,000,000 to the bad for England.

Mr. Garvin ought to take George Harvey for a trip around the British Empire to look at her land, minerals, people, free and not free, all over the world, and especially get him to consider how easily the British brand of statesmanship puts the so-called statesmen of the United States into a deep hole. Such a trip would restore Harvey's cheerfulness about Britain's future.

You can't down intelligence and courage. The British have both.

Speaking of intelligence and courage, the Irish Free State intends to send a flying machine from Ireland, across the ocean to the United States. More power to the plane.

Too bad St. Patrick can't see that ship start out. Once he stood on the west coast of Ireland "beyond which no man is." He was interested in miracles, performed many of them himself. But it never occurred to him that some day an Irishman would fly from that point "where no man is," three thousand miles across the ocean, to another point where many successful and useful Irishmen are.

Belles discovered in Arizona indicate, if genuine, that this planet was discovered by Jewish sailors seven hundred years before Columbus did. It isn't unlikely. Many do not realize that the Semite race in the ancient days was the most daring and enterprising of all seafaring peoples. Hoenclians, Semite, were the first to go out of sight of land, in days when there was no compass, first to sail through the "Pillars of Hercules" out into the Atlantic Ocean on to the Tin Mines of England and to all the wild northwestern region. They brought and sold to Solomon choice building materials for his temple.

In Russia, a young mother killed a baby, that, according to the doctors.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST COLBYS AGREE TO MAKE FINE RECORD A SEPRATION

Eighty Members Added to Church During Ministry of Rev. Leland O'Brian

The following letter to the Biblical Recorder from Rev. Leland O'Brian, telling of the progress of the Immanuel Baptist church during the past six months will be read with interest by the people of this community: Biblical Recorder, Raleigh, N. C., Dear Brother Johnson:

November 30th closed for us a period of six months with the Immanuel Baptist Church of Greenville. During this time there has been added to our membership forty one by baptism and letter and thirty-nine of our splendid college girls, who came up and the watchcare of our church—making a total of eighty received to date.

Dr. W. H. Horton, of New Bern, was with us two weeks during October. He is a great preacher and a greater soul. Fellowship with him was glorious. Several were added during the meeting and they have been coming constantly since his departure. We shall ever love W. H. Horton.

During this period Brother and Sister Roy D. Clark, Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Directors in the Roanoke Association have conducted a Training School for us and also one with the Memorial Saints in which we co-operated. From these schools we have received more than a half hundred diplomas and awards in Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. work. Today we have a great Sunday School and three wide-awake B. Y. P. U.'s.

The coming of Rev. H. F. Jones to Memorial church of Greenville is not only a blessing to Greenville, but will prove a blessing to North Carolina. This great Shepherd came to us from the Port Norfolk Baptist Church, Portsmouth, Va., where he had been greatly beloved pastor for more than ten years. He is now in his third pastorate. Far and wide will we have to search to find a more royal and princely and better qualified spirit than is our brother. It is going to be a blessing and a joy to have his fellowship.

Come to see us when you can and remember that we are doing our best to build up the Master's Kingdom in this neck of the woods. Most cordially, L. R. O'BRIAN.

A born gentleman is one who will not smile until you have gotten to the very end of that he. Little Rock Democrat.

Washington, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The controverted inheritance tax question occupied the battle ground in the House today with the modified rates provided by the tax reduction bill up for approval.

Confident because of their success thus far in warding off every amendment aimed at the bill, managers of the non-partisan measure demanded approval of the schedule proposing a cut in the maximum rate from 40 to 20 percent, which they said was a compromise.

While some forces believed no reduction should be made in the rate, others were ready to ask for repeal of the Federal Levy in accordance with the recommendation of Secretary Mellon. Another fight awaited the body when the provision to increase from 25 to 30 percent the credit to be allowed in settlement of the Federal inheritance tax for amounts paid on similar state taxes came up, opponents holding that it tended to coerce states to enact inheritance taxes equal to the Federal levy.

Letter Written by Weeks Presented Court Martial

Washington, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A letter written by John W. Weeks when he was Secretary of War, describing Colonel William Mitchell as "lawless," unfit for high administrative position, and possessed of a desire of publicity at the expense of other, was presented in evidence today at the Mitchell Court Martial.

Writing to President Coolidge, the then Secretary gave these as his reasons for refusing to recommend that Mitchell be reappointed Chief of the Army Air Services with the rank of Brigadier General. The letter was presented to the court by Major General Dennis E. Nolan, Assistant Chief of the staff and the last prosecution witness in the trial of the air officer on charges resulting in his public attack on government aviation policies. It gave for the first time the War Department's side of the story of Mitchell's transfer from Washington to the Army post in Texas.

General Mitchell's whole course has been so lawless, so contrary to the building up of an efficient organization, so lacking in team work, so indicative of a desire for publicity at the expense of everyone with whom he is associated," wrote Mr. Weeks. "That his actions make him unfit for a high administrative position such as he is now holding."

The Secretary said he wrote the letter "with great regrets because he is a gallant officer with an excellent war record," but, he added, "his record since the war has been such that he has forfeited the good opinion of those who are familiar with the acts and his desire to promote the best interest of National defense."

Attempting Render Service to Those in the Pecan Industry

Raleigh, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The State Department of Agriculture, through H. H. Curran, forester for the department, is attempting to render service to those engaged in the pecan industry in North Carolina. It was stated at the department today. Forester Curran points out that the "growing of young pecan trees for transplanting is a highly specialized industry." He also calls attention to the fact that now is the time to plant pecan trees. There are two methods of propagation, he says, root-grafting and budding. Root-grafting is done by barring off the soil from the small trees, cutting them off five to six inches under the ground, inserting a scion, pulling the soil back in place, and leaving the tip of the scion with the bud exposed. Budding is done by removing from the little tree a patch of bark about an inch long and half an inch wide, six to twelve inches above the ground, replacing this with a patch of bark the same size, in the center of which is a bud of the variety desired. It is important that the buds be taken from thrifty, bearing trees. The Department has received numerous inquiries about pecans. These are turned over to Forester Curran, who is co-operating with the North Carolina Pecan Growers Society in furnishing information and aiding those interested in the industry.

"Demands" McLean Discharge Trustees University of N. C.

Raleigh, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A "demand" was made on Governor McLean recently that he discharge all the present members of the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina, and appoint new members. The Executive's correspondent basing his demand upon the ground that evolution is taught at the University. The incident was mentioned casually by the Governor, who chuckled in discussing it. Evident, he said, his correspondent, whose name was not divulged did not know that the Governor lacked such authority. The Governor cannot even fill a vacancy on the board, the General Assembly reserving that right to itself, he said. This in one of the few boards in the state, the Governor pointed out, in regard to which the Governor has no appointing powers. He can even fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court of the state, but he can not fill a vacancy on the board of trustees of the University.

THE END OF THE CENTURY CLUB MEETS

The End of the Century Club was delightfully entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Hortense Moyer and Mrs. C. A. Bowen, at the home of Mrs. Moyer on Evans St. Mrs. Fleming the president, presided. A short business session was held. The club authorized a gift to the soldiers at Oteen to be given through The American Legion Auxiliary, and has also given a magazine subscription to the Public Library.

The program for the afternoon was a most interesting one. Mr. Robert Humber spoke to the club about Oxford University, of its origin and growth, its customs, requirements and of its general influence upon English Literature. After Mr. Humber's most enjoyable address, the members of the club asked many questions of the speaker informally. Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Bowen served delicious refreshments suggestive of the approaching holiday season.

"LOST WORLD" IS SUPER-THRILLER

Amusement, surprise, disbelief in one's own eyes—these are some of the emotions aroused by "The Lost World," which opened at White's Theatre Monday.

The picture makers have long promised "something really new—a second 'Birth of a Nation'—a photoplay that will start a new chapter in film history."

"The Lost World" comes nearest to living up to these promises of any picture we have seen in a long time.

School text books say that the last of the dinosaurs became extinct at least 10,000,000 years ago. Yet on the picture screen these fearsome creatures of the Reptilian Age actually come to life—with a reality that makes one tremble for the safety of Bessie Love, Lewis Stone, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Hughes and the other film adventurers who find the huge creatures still alive in an unexplored area of South America.

The amazement that these reptiles instill is equalled only by the curiosity as to how First National and Waterson R. Rothacker, the producers, were able to do it. This picture might be described as the one photoplay of universal appeal. Every class of movie patron will find a spectacular thrill in it. Again today.

Dr. Neltzer, one of a million learned Germans, says that German public opinion is in favor of 13 in favor of the lives of idiotic children. If such murders were made legal, it would be a shame! downward step for civilization. But it will not be made legal for long, in Germany, Russia, or anywhere else.

Drs. Outland and Viola Attend Milk Confab

Dr. C. L. Outland and Dr. Alex Viola spent yesterday in Raleigh, attending a milk inspectors conference, held under the direction of the State Board of Health. Drs. Outland and Viola report a very successful meeting. They state further that milk as supplied in Greenville checks up with the best supplied in the state for the same grade and methods of producing. Out of the number of towns and counties in the state with the Standard Milk Ordinance as adopted here, Greenville was one of the first to put it on and announce the grades. The public should know that when they are using Grade A Milk, produced under sanitary arrangements and handled in the same way, that it is a clean and safe milk, as shown by tests done in various parts of the country. You can buy Grade A milk in Greenville at the same price of any other kind. Be sure your dairyman leaves you Grade A.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

By HARRY BLOOMBERG, I. N. S. Correspondent Philadelphia, Dec. 14.

Music is the great changer of characters, a remodeler of morals, and leads one to try to better oneself even if behind the grim walls of prison for a great length of time.

This was indicated by Dr. H. Ernst Hartman, who has a class in harmony and theory of music, the only one of its kind in the prisons of the United States. The class is composed of fifteen convicts, among them two "lifers" in the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania in this city.

These fifteen unique students of harmony are part of the 200 men, of the 1,400 in the prison who are spending much of their time in studying in the various music groups, that Dr. Hartman pointed out to visitors at the prison recently. The "Music School" is called "synagogue." It was organized by Albert Hoxie, who is director of music in the "synagogue," and sponsored by the Rotary Club. The groups include orchestra, brass band, string band, chorus, piano class and harmony class.

Dr. Hartman, who was showing visitors the Music "College," declared that fifty of these students of music are receiving highly specialized musical training. Competent instruction is given those in the handling of the instrument they wish to play.

In a small room, hardly large enough, are fifteen men arguing over notes on a piece of white paper. One of the group tries it out on the piano, more argument, some of the notes are changed, a "student" hums the tune. Changes again, and perhaps, hours afterwards, a new song is born among these odd students of harmony. These men breathe the "very spirit of art for art's sake," commented the music teacher, pointing to the men who had just noticed their visitors. Dr. Hartman said the harmony school is the latest development in the musical programme of the prison. It is more than justifying itself, he said.

"My harmony students are making the most remarkable strides. They simply amaze me," commented their enthusiastic teacher, "and I am used to teaching pupils harmony and theory. They are way ahead of any class of musical students, with considerable training behind them, than I have taught any place else.

It is most inspiring to me as a music teacher to help them. Although

I give them lessons only once a week I find work in their note books which shows that they spend many hours daily in going ahead themselves. Remarkable!"

There is also a special band class, under the direction of one of the prisoners, an intelligent young man, according to Dr. Hartman, "up" for a long term, who received his first musical training at the "synagogue" and "graduated." He is given charge of the beginners for the band, to train so they will feed into the regular band which has a state-wide reputation, via radio and otherwise.

Special instructors in trumpet, saxophones, piano and voice, some paid by the prison Welfare Board, some volunteer, also journey to the prison once or twice a week to train specially clever musicians in their various instruments.

Director Hoxie, discussing rehabilitation plans for his pupils, declared that he does not expect all of the men, taking up music, to become highly trained musicians. "However," he continued, "we noticed some of the men, who never touched an instrument before they came here, making such rapid strides that we felt that something should be done about it.

"So special instructors have been engaged for them, and everything done for them so they could study their music in spare time. The scheme is too young to show any definite results as yet. But the outlook is more than promising."

Seeking for something to entertain her guests at dinner, Mrs. Irving remembered an Egyptian wizard she had met in Brussels, who could do the most extraordinary things with hats and rabbits. The wizard was telegraphed for, and he arrived in time for the dinner, where he was hailed as an interesting departure from the usual stereotyped after-dinner entertainers. Since then the wizard has been in great demand and no big society function here is complete without him.

Essential Diamond Facts

To be considered in the purchase of a Stone

First you must have absolute confidence in the Jeweler with whom you deal. Then you should purchase from a firm that is morally and financially able to give you a square deal. To be able to do this the head of the Diamond Department must know diamonds as to quality, cut, color and value.

Prompted by a secret pride in handling these precious gems, Mr. Best, has for a quarter of a century, devoted most of his time to the purchase of diamonds. Every stone that is put in our stock is passed on by him. Endowed with this knowledge and having sufficient capital to buy the naked stone direct from the importer for cash, enables us to mount same in the most modern mountings and give our customers the benefit of his knowledge of the most desired of all gems.

You are invited to make your wishes known. La Superbe Diamond Jubilee all this week.

YOUR BUSINESS

While the power situation in eastern North Carolina is occupying the minds of many varied plans for the bringing into the section of the large power companies are being suggested it is well for citizens of Greenville to take inventory of their holdings before reaching any hasty conclusion that might lead to the letting go of our municipal power plant. At the outset we say unhesitatingly that we do not favor the placing of the citizens of our city into the hands of the power combines so long as power conditions here remain as good as they are at present and have been for the past few years.

For the information of the citizens of Greenville we bring to their attention the fact that the local water and light plant is one of the largest industries in the city and one of the city's largest taxpayers. Last year the light department of the Water and Light Commission, out of its profits paid interest and retired bonds to the extent of $20,480 and spent $21,248 on water extensions giving fire protection to sections of the city that have not had such protection to sections of the city sewer system and made sewer extensions and maintained the fire alarm system. Had the city been purchasing its electric current from the large power companies there would have been no profits with which to pay for the above mentioned improvements and a bond issue or a higher tax rate would have been necessary to raise the needed funds. The local Water and Light plant now has a surplus of current to furnish another city the six of Greenville and a sufficiency to meet the needs of any industries that may choose to locate within our borders and the service being furnished the citizens of this city is unsurpassed by any city in the state regardless of the source of its electric power.

Mr. Citizen, the Greenville Water and Light System is a corporation in which you are a stock holder and as to know just what your holdings are and what your corporation is doing. We urge you to visit your water and light plant at least once a year, more often if possible, study conditions here as compared with those in other cities and upon such knowledge decide whether or not it would be a profitable change for Greenville to junk its holdings and purchase its needed electricity from the power combines.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE DAILY REFLECTOR
THE MAYFLOWER

Washington, D. C.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Congress is not having a monopoly here of putting on shows for the entertainment of the nation. New York theatrical producers have given their city the name of the drama-making center of America. Yet it is becoming more and more of an open secret that Broadway theatregoers seldom see a stage spectacle which has not first been tried out in Washington.

The reason is that managers want to know how the diversified populace of the country will react to a new amusement offering, so they bring it first of all to the National Capital where are gathered people from all over the land. If this city puts its seal of approval on a new play or musical show, it is safe to say the thing will draw well anywhere. But if Washingtonians are unenthusiastic that production is doomed for but a short stay on Broadway. Thus it must be.

Much has been said of the constitutional fact that Vice-President Dawes "has neither voice nor vote" in the Senate, excepting as a tie ballot must be decided by him. The friends of the new presiding officer of that body are unhappy at this situation, while his opponents and critics feel comfortable at the thought that the vigorous campaigner for Senate rules reform may not be able to do more than make speeches outside the Capitol.

But when someone asked General Dawes how he could thus content himself, he smiled happily, jerked his thumb over his shoulder in the direction of the Senate chamber which he had just quitted for the smoking-room and asked, "Can any of 'em out-baccy me?"

Women "Congressmen" do not count to be a novelty—at least, to casual visitors under the great white dome and to newspaper reporters. Every caller in the House galleries wants to get a glimpse of the two feminine members there and this is easily accomplished, for the women Representatives leave their seats for less frequently than do their male counterparts.

And what the brain think on public questions, on private issues, on social problems; how they dress and work and amuse themselves—these details enthrall the writers for the press. Of course, men members of the House show much gallantry in their attitude toward their sisters, whether rough-and-tumble terms will mark masculine oratory directed against bills introduced by the ladies remains to be seen. It is recalled that Miss Alice Robertson, during her term in the House, was able to take care of herself in floor debate. The two new members, however, have thus far not shown feminine determination to talk.

The president has several mementos of his hurried visit to the West, including a cold. Mr. Coolidge admittedly is fond of snappy atmosphere, and considers the rather humid temperature of even December in the National Capital "not so good." But when he leaves town for a less temperate zone, he invariably comes back with "a cold in the head." The President boasts a genuine New England nasal quality of tone, so a slight attack of bronchitis trouble disturbs him not, but he doesn't like to sneeze.

It is hinted that the findings of the Mitchell inquiry will be made known "just fore Christmas." There are those among deeply interested partisans—both for and against the Colgate—who fear the verdict may be lost sight of by the public in the general Santa Claus shuffle. Not even a scandal in aerial affairs of the government can hold people's attention when shop-plays of gifts—sometimes demonstrated by "living models" in order better to attract attention. The moral in this situation is, no doubt, that disputes over important concerns of Uncle Sam shouldn't be waged too near the suzerainty of Mr. Kringle.

In the "marbling" department of the bindery division of the great Government Printing Office is a quiet old man who puts these variegated hues inside the covers and upon the edges of pages of expensive books. Three generations of his family have done this remarkable work, and the G. O. P. employe has been at Uncle Sam's service for 20 years, secretly copying and coloring which rival the peacock tail's rainbowing. Watching him tude toward their sisters, whether rough-and-tumble terms will mark masculine oratory directed against bills introduced by the ladies remains to be seen. It is recalled that Miss Alice Robertson, during her term in the House, was able to take care of herself in floor debate. The two new members, however, have thus far not shown feminine determination to talk.

"It might keep you—de poison!" he cried, dancing about. But the young co-ed was unfrustrated. "You men say that about all cosmetics," she giggled. "Oh I look dead?" And she didn't—It was well nigh a bloom that wouldn't come off.

BONE CRUSHERS REAP RICHES IN MAT CONTESTS

Denver, Dec. 12. (I. N. S.)—While the most of the top flight boxers are idle due to the scarcity of promoters who are willing to risk hanging up prohibitive purses, wrestlers are busily engaged selling their wares all over America and are proving themselves to be good merchants. The mat are did not lack in the sunshine of success in other years as this season, but time brings about a change in everything and the gentle sport of "bone-crushing" is not exempted.

With wrestling moving back into popularity at such a fast clip, for lower of the game are found discuss the "russling" matters in general in most places where fans are wont to assemble to air their views and to offer criticism of a constructive nature and otherwise. One of the biggest questions being argued pro and con probably is: "Who was the most brutal heavyweight wrestling champion?"

Some say Caddock. Though Earl was rather light to give out punishment he did prove to be a mean baby with most any hold he chose to apply.

George Hachenschmidt, the Russian Lion, is the choice of others, Je (Tois) Mondt and his jack-knife scissors and Wagne (Big) Munn with his famous muf-Nelson and croel holds are mentioned in the list, although neither was ever the king-ph of his class.

But a majority of the critics are of the belief that the honor of being the most brutal champion, if one would call it honor, lies between the now departed Frank o'Gich of Iowa and Ed (Strangler) Lewis the present ruler of the heavyweight division.

Gotch did most of his damage on the mat with a toe-hold. On more than one occasion he forced his opponent to resign when he fastened his powerful hands on his feet. But there is no such risk connected with a toe-hold as there is to a headlock—the pet hold of Champion Lewis. It is not an uncommon occurrence for Lewis to render a rival unconscious in defending his title. Such was the case when he wrestled Joe Stretcher last in New York City. Stretcher had to be carried from the ring, taken to a hospital in an ambulance, and there to remain for some weeks.

The harm and suffering that was Stretcher's in his New York bout with the "Strangler" prompted Joe's brother, Tony, to persuade the New York Athletic Commission to bar forever Lewis' headlock in all matches held under their jurisdiction. John Olin, Jim Londos, John Pesek, and other stars are found in the Lewis headlock casualty list.

While Gotch dealt out great misery his record does not show where he ever did the injuries to opponents as has the "Strangler."
