BEGINS FOREST FIRE PROTECTION IN PITT COUNTY

Mr. S. M. Jones, Bethel, Appointed County Warden; County to Be Divided Into Districts

With the signing of an agreement by the Commissioners of Pitt County to co-operate with the State in forest fire protection, the work of organizing the county has begun. Mr. S. M. Jones of Bethel, has been appointed county warden and will have charge of all forest fire prevention and extinction work in the county.

It is planned to divide the county into districts, roughly comprising a township in each district—except such large townships as Chocowinity, Contentment, Greenville and Swift Creek—where two districts will possibly be made in each township. In each of these districts a warden will be appointed to have charge of fire prevention and suppression work under the title of District Warden. There will also be appointed in each district a deputy forest warden, whose duty it will be to extinguish any forest fire reported or seen by him, and to have a crew of men who will be available at all times to assist him in the work.

When one pauses to think that there are nearly 255,000 acres, or 63 per cent of the land area of Pitt County, in forests and farm woodlots it can be realized what a task is involved to guard each and every acre against fire. Past records show that the enormous damage done each year to the forests of this county by fire is directly due to carelessness on the part of some of its citizens. It is a sad state of affairs to think that our greatest natural resource, the forests, is being devastated by our own people at our very doors and little effort is done on their part to prevent it.

It is with these facts at hand that steps must be taken to cut down and abolish this huge annual loss. Regardless of how perfect the organization about to be made will function, or how much money will be expended to make this loss as negligible as possible, it is up to the individuals who are the causes of forest fire. If every man, woman and child would adopt the familiar slogan, "Be careful with fire in the woods," and would exercise this slogan, they would do their part in preserving for Pitt county the backbone of its wealth—the forests.

NO ELABORATE PLAN WOULD BE NECESSARY FOR POWER LEAGUE

(By Lucy Cherry Crisp) There is in the modern business world a certain rigid test which must be successfully met by every new plan or project of movement before it may hope for consideration and support from those whose consideration and support are valuable, and this test is summed up in the oft-heard question: "Is the thing practical; will it work?" The plan for a League of Towns for supplying electric power for Eastern Carolina has nothing to fear from such a test—for there is an abundance of existing evidence to prove that such a League is a practical, economical, workable plan. Forty men from seven towns in Eastern Carolina met around a luncheon table in Wilson on January 14th and talked of the League of Towns. They were men who knew the things whereof they spoke, for the gathering was composed of Mayors, power plant officials, town aldermen and commissioners, and other interested citizens. They discussed very frankly the situation and the danger which Eastern Carolina faces, for it is common talk in business circles that Eastern Carolina will in the next few years be a stage for a great drama of agricultural and industrial development. It is also commonly known among business men—and certainly nobody blames them—that several big power companies are seeking a foothold in Eastern Carolina that they may control and take advantage of this development when it comes. But the leaders of constructive thought in the section of discussion feel very strongly that the towns of Eastern Carolina, by forming themselves into a friendly mutual benefit league, can efficiently cope with any situation that may arise, furnish power for any development whatever, and in the doing of this, keep the advantage and benefit of such development in the place where they rightly belong, in Eastern Carolina.

TODAY

AL To The Rock File. A Long Alphabet. Nelly and Oe. A Detroit Solomons. ARTHUR BRISBANE

Congressman Summers, earnest "dry" Republican from Washington, knows how to fix everything. He would put senators, diplomats, rich and poor violators of the prohibition law, "at work on the same rock file."

Messrs. Ochs, of the New York Times, and Noyes, of the Washington Post, and Dr. Barham, of the Los Angeles Herald, who find it hard enough to digest weak milk and seltzer, will be startled by this news.

Mr. Yen, Chinese gentleman, formerly at Ya'e and Princeton, heads a movement to educate all Chinese, and starts as he must, with an effort to simplify the Chinese alphabet. The best he hopes for is to cut down the number of characters to one thousand—to be REALLY educated in China, you must know at least five thousand different characters with which to write.

Patent mothers that have taught the 26 letters of our alphabet to little boys and girls, will predict that universal education in China will proceed slowly.

Look at your Chinese laundry tickets and you will see what stands between China and universal education.

Mr. Ethelbert Stewart, who gathers labor statistics for the government, demands "petting parks" in public spaces for working men and women.

If Solomon looks down and watches Detroit he learned something last Wednesday.

Mrs. Goosen, foster mother and Mrs. Prabyia, real mother of four-year-old Mabel Irene, wanted the child. Judge Brennan could not pretend to cut the child in two and get information that way, but had what seemed a better idea.

The reporters are not convinced. They say emotion is sometimes not shown on the face, although a child's real mother might be, too much in earnest to display the proper wave of affection, or the adopted mother might have been "tipped off," to "register love" the right way.

Everybody remembers the noble lady of ancient days, condemned to undergo the ordeal of walking on red hot plowshares. Her friend, the good bishop had the metal painted bright red, instead of heating it, and the lady walked barefoot through the ordeal in triumph.

Because Mr. Burbank is a "scientist," therefore wise, good people are disturbed that he should: "see no proof whatever of the soul's immortality, nothing to indicate that when we die we go to anywhere except into the ground."

CARDINAL MERCIER DIES TODAY AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS

Heroic Figure of the World War Loses Battle Against Decline Following Operation December 29

Brussels, Belg., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Cardinal Mercier, one of the heroic figures of the world war, died today at three o'clock in the afternoon at the age of 71, losing his long battle against the decline that set in after an operation on December 29th.

Cardinal Mercier was stricken with influenza December 19th. The news of his illness became known when he was unable to attend the ceremony at which Queen Elizabeth received the golden rose sent her by Pope Pius in honor of her 25th wedding anniversary. Shortly after it was announced that the prelate would have to undergo an operation. His ailment was explained officially as "persistent dyspepsia making nutrition insufficient for the active life the Cardinal wishes to pursue."

He was operated upon December 29th and stood the ordeal well. During the days immediately following the operation the Cardinal seemed to improve and his complete recovery was predicted by those in attendance upon him. Suddenly on January 6 it became known that the condition of the venerable church man had taken a turn for the worse. It was with difficulty that he was able to sustain food and he began to weaken, but his robust constitution and faith aided him to withstand the ravages of his ailment to the surprise of his physicians.

During his illness prayers were said for his recovery in all churches and the heads of almost all the nations of the civilized world anxiously inquired about his condition.

Ambassador Phillips, of the United States, was a frequent caller at the hospital. When the sudden turn for the worse came the Cardinal fully realized that the end was near at hand. "My stomach has failed me. There is nothing more the doctors can do," the prelate said to a priest at the bedside. The holy sacrament was administered.

Today extremeunction was administered to the prelate as it was when the end was only a short time away. As the Cardinal sank back on his pillows after receiving the final blessing of the church, he nodded to those about him as if to say good bye. Then he gradually grew weaker and sank into a coma and death came shortly thereafter.

Desire Mercier, Cardinal of Malines, Prince of the Church and "Apostle of Peace," was one of the most striking figures brought prominently before the world by the most ruthless war of all times. Little known outside of Yvelin circles or beyond the borders of Belgium prior to 1914, this modest, unassuming prelate was as famous before the world on Armistice Day as were the royal heads of belligerent states or the illustrious generals who led the Allied armies to triumph.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

"The Shell or the Pearl?"

2 Peter 3:11—"Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness?"

When St. Peter wrote these words, and the verses that follow, very few of his contemporaries would agree with him. The science of his day did not believe that the material world would ever be "dissolved"...

But modern Science seems to be coming round to the Apostle's point of view. Some of our scientists even venture to predict how the dissolution of our earth is going to be brought about. They tell us that the earth carries in her very bosom the elements of her own destruction...

We are not concerned with these theories. We mention them simply to show that the Apostle's assertion, "All these things shall be dissolved," cannot be thrown aside as unscientific.

There are some people, however, who accept this forecast of physical dissolution, and can see no further. Their materialism rejects the doctrine of a future life; their future is void of hope and inspiration. So they live, by an unescapable logic, on no higher plane than the pagan philosophers of old...

materialist, looks beyond his material dissolution to a "new Heaven and a new earth, in which dwelleth righteousness"; and finds in the passing away of things around us an argument for holiness of heart and sanctity of life. Thus he stamps the perishable moment of Time with an imperishable and eternal worth.

The great trouble with us today is that we lack moral perspective. We have everything crowded up in the foreground. Take the aims of men today. You will find for most, that they are limited by the HERE and the NOW. The horizon is very closed in. We are deceived by appearances, by what is transient, not permanent. We confound the accidental with the essential; the shell with the pearl. For the most part the material stands too near us; it crowds the avenues of thought; it knocks with clamorous hands at all the doors of sense, until we have come to believe only the things we can see.

Do you remember the demon-like contrivance of the Inquisition known as "the Contracting Room?" The victim was placed in a room in which he seemed to have everything he wanted; books, chairs, couch, pictures, and so on. It seemed as if he was to have a comfortable time. But, bye-and-bye, he noticed that as the attendants left the room, they picked up an article of furniture and took it away. The room was getting emptier, yet it never seemed to be less furnished. And then—and then, it dawned on the victim that the room was getting smaller; that the walls, by some mechanical contrivance, were creeping in. There came a day when the last piece of furniture was taken out of the room, the last book, the last picture, and the man was left to his doom. In came the walls. It was useless to try and beat them back. He might break his hands against them, but in they came, until he was asphyxiated, or was crushed to death.

Look! that is happening today in Greenville—and in all our cities and towns, large or small. The world is creeping in on men! But, listen, you business men and women! You can do what the victim of the Inquisition could not do. You can keep back these encroaching walls. You can keep clear spaces around your souls in which to breathe, spaces in which shining ones may come and go between you and the great Unseen.

And we must do it! I said some do not believe in anything unless they can see it. They believe in solidity. They do not believe in any values that cannot be expressed in terms of earthly currency. We like all things we can measure with a two-foot rule. We like things we can put in the scales and weigh. We like assets that are liquid, as we say, something that can be changed into cash. What are our common phrases? "Small profits, quick returns"; "Cash on Demand"; "Cash is better than Credit"; "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." What does all that mean, except that we are dominated by the tangible and visible order? We must escape its tyranny! And we ought to thank God for those supreme and tragic moments of life when the veil of the visible is rent in twain, and the spiritual makes it appeal to us in voices which demand to be heard; when our individual lives are shaken to their very centre, torn and upheaved, and we are filled with such a distrust of the temporal that we are driven to seek for refuge in the Eternal.

While she was away, the home was decorated and the barbecue dinner prepared. Upon her return, she was overjoyed to find those dearest to her gathered in the living room waiting to give her a happy welcome and to wish for her many happy returns of the day.

After dinner, the honoree was remembered with a large number of beautiful and useful presents.

There will be widespread regret at the sudden death of ex-Judge Harry Whedbee, of Greenville. Judge Whedbee was an honored member of a family long influential in Eastern North Carolina and had long been regarded as one of the ablest members of the bar. As Superior Court judge, he was esteemed as a learned lawyer and able executive.—News and Observer.

CABLE LETTER

London, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Irving Berlin's next song hit should have as a chorus the refrain: "Please say that we are supremely happy," for that seems to be the shy jazz composer and his bride seem to be able to say when they are rived here from their honeymoon.

Like the haunting sentiment of the Berlin ballads of the last year or so, this thought runs through everything the world's most talked of newly-weds told the French, British and American reporters who flocked to meet them at Cherbourg and Southampton.

Even the big Cockney lackey who guarded their suite in a London hotel caught the spirit of the Berlin-Jackay romance. For the first few days he was beset by callers of all kinds—reporters, song-writers, theatrical agents and movie-to men—but whenever proposals were made about interviewing the tuneful Irving and his bride, the gold-braided dignitary was sure it will be "impossible, sir."

"He can assure you sir," he also ended, "that they're supremely 'appy'."

The radio has brought the British public closer to the royal family. For the first time in history a lady-in-waiting to Queen Mary has appeared before the microphone and been heard by millions of listeners. The speaker was Lady Bertha Dawkins, an active charity worker, who issued an appeal in behalf of a home for gentlemen. Speeches of the kind, Prince of Wales and the Duke of York have been broadcast from time to time, but Queen Mary's voice has never yet been heard on the radio, although there is a possibility that it may be in the near future. Both the king and queen are radio enthusiasts and have thrown wireless sets and in their houses in the country.

Miss Gertrude Richards, 79 years old, is challenging the pedestrian record of Edward Payson Weston, the veteran American walker. She recently completed a walking tour of 1,644 miles through Scotland and England. Bad weather has checked Miss Richards' tour, but she will resume it next spring. When she sold her country home in 1923 she took up walking to amuse herself.

"I started at Land's End and set out for York at the beginning of my tour, but I went by highways and by-ways and not by the main roads," Miss Richards said. "I went to the South Cornish coast, Exeter, Bath, Gloucester, Warwick, Rugby, Oakham, Lincoln and Doncaster, studying flora and fauna. In 1924 I went to Iwerness by way of Edinburgh and this summer I reached John O'Grat's putting in 184 days of actual walking."

Miss Richards always lunched on cheese and biscuits while on her tour and had her other meals in inns. She said she never experienced the slightest loneliness and always knitted or embroidered while she was resting by the roadside at lunch-time.

CONFESSES SNIPING

Richard Rogahn (right), 30, of Racine, Wis., confessed to firing on passing trains, wounding two passengers, revealing a life of fourteen years of crime that included one never solved murder, attacks upon women and girls while he held their escorts at bay, holdups and the killing of blooded cattle and dogs.

last broken through the barriers of his rigid social calendar and obtained two private luncheon dates a week for himself, with no questions to be asked or admissions given by his official social advisors.

Twice a week now he repairs to his old bachelor apartment in the Avenue Wagram. There the president has retained his lease on the little bachelor flat he occupied during the many years he sat in the chamber and senate. The flat is on the sixth floor, quite high for Paris apartment houses, and there is no elevator. Yet about noon, twice a week, the chief of state makes the climb all alone, to meet a few intimate friends and offer them a simple lunch in memory of the days when he was merely "Doumergue" or "Gaston" and not "Monsieur le president."

The president takes a good two hours and more for these luncheons, sitting over the coffee, cigars and cigars as long as his official schedule will allow him. Then, with a sigh of regret, he descends the six flights of stairs and climbs sedately into a waiting limousine to be whisked back again to his round of official ceremonies.

All night sittings of the chamber of deputies, which have become quite usual in recent months, are "ham and cheese" nights to the chamber attendants. As soon as it is known that a session is to go on, the refreshment manager sends out for extra provisions, and between eight and nine in the evening get baskets of bread, butter, ham and white wine, and above all, ham and cheese. make their appearance. Hungry deputies wash down dry speeches with beer, coffee or chocolate in the newspapermen's buffet and fortify themselves with great sandwiches of ham and cheese.

There used to be a restaurant in the chamber, but the proprietor lost so much money that he finally gave it up.

The Paris press has been generous with tributes to the memory of Sergel Yessinin, the young Russian poet who was the husband of Isadora Duncan and who committed suicide in Moscow recently. Yessinin was long one of the most familiar figures in Paris, where his death is regarded as the tragic ending of a career which, but for the ruin wrought by drink and drugs might have been a brilliant one. He is characterized as one who might have been the Russian Virgil and written Slav "Georgics" had his life been turned into different channels.

One of his last poems has just been published here showing how bitterly he was disillusioned when he returned to his native land from Paris: "I no longer understand the language of my own people, I have become a stranger in my own country—I who once was ever dawdling out what friends were, I and the people. No one here has any further need of my poetry and in truth no one here has any further need of me."

Berlin, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Blood tests to identify descendants of those who crossed the Atlantic in the Mayflower or to expose fake survivors of the Light Brigade will soon be possible if experiments of Dr. E. O. Manoloff, Russian blood specialist, are extended, this scientist claims.

The adage, "blood will tell," is literally true, Dr. Manoloff says. Though his experiments have been limited to Europeans, he asserts that by blood analysis he can tell a Chinese from a Japanese, a German from a Pole. Out of 1,362 Russians and Jews, whose ancestry has been traced, Dr. Manoloff said that his tests enabled him to distinguish between the two races with 88 per cent accuracy.

At a clinic attended by five distinguished savants who took samples of blood from 202 persons of various races and nationalities, Dr. Manoloff, without seeing the persons, diagnosed correctly the nationalities and race of 181, an error of only 7.5 per cent. His analysis are based on color solutions cresyl violet, he says, disappears entirely in a few drops of Jewish blood. It retains its color, however, in Russian blood.

NO EXTENSIONS FOR INCOME TAX RETURNS

Heretofore taxpayers have been urged to file their income tax returns early. The filing of returns this year is delayed, pending the enactment of the new revenue act now before the Senate, which, if it is passed the House, contains changes in regard to rates and other features. However, there is nothing to prevent a taxpayer at this time from closing his books and computing his net income. Such computations will not be affected by any provisions of the new act. The actual preparation of the return itself, in a majority of cases, but a few minutes. Therefore, it is advised that all figures and data be assembled, pending receipt of blanks by taxpayers. When released, blanks will be sent to taxpayers and also may be obtained at the office of the U. S. Collector at Raleigh, North Carolina.

Forms 1099 and 1096 used for making information returns; also Partnership Returns, Form 1065, are now available at the office of the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue and branch offices. Such returns are required of persons "in whatever capacity acting" who make a single person during the year 1925 a payment of $1,000 or more, or to a married person a payment of $2,500 or more. Such payments include salaries, rent, interest, or other fixed or determinable gains, profits and income."

While no extensions may be granted for filing Information Returns, you may make application, before filing date of March 15th, direct to the U. S. Collector at Raleigh, North Carolina, for an extension to file Income Tax Returns, provided you give good and sufficient reasons for such extension.

MACMILLAN ATTENDS RALLY

Twenty-five per cent increase in membership was recorded when 1,000 boys entered the ranks of the Boston Council at its recent jamboree. James J. Storrow, President of the Boy Scouts of America, Channing H. Cox, and Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer were among the guests.

MacMillan, who himself is an honorary member of the scout organization, spoke to the assembly of the romance of discovery. He advised the boys to read stories of arctic expeditions, stating that they would stand a little straighter and feel a little broader and have a deep sense of appreciation for the sufferings and sacrifice made by such men as Captain Scott and Admiral Peary.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 7, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous."

"My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth."

"I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better."

"I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine."

MIAMI

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM J. W. FERRELL

This is a direct message to my friends in North Carolina and Virginia. I have felt so keenly that my friends "back home" were not awake to the greatest investment opportunity ever offered in this country and I want to have a heart to heart talk about conditions here in Miami.

Investigation of a most searching character was made before entering the real estate field in Florida. So optimistic were the reports that reached me that I was unusually careful in my research, and I want to express as my honest belief that Miami today offers an opportunity to invest money in properties that are absolutely safe and sound, and with an opportunity for a future profit, greater than anywhere else in America.

After organizing the J. W. Ferrell Corporation, we obtained the exclusive selling rights for all the Hassell-Dupree properties. This was done also only after an investigation of the most searching kind, and I can unhesitatingly say that anything offered to the public by the Hassell-Dupree Company can be absolutely depended upon in every particular.

Both of these gentlemen are former North Carolinians. They are known to many of you. Their success has been founded on their ability to give service of a most unusual character. They have paid large profits to their clients. No Hassell-Dupree investor has ever lost a dollar.

On February 4th, the Hassell-Dupree Company will offer, through J. W. Ferrell, Inc., University Park No. 2. In my opinion, University Park will offer the greatest investment opportunity of any property which I have ever handled.

In the immediate vicinity of University Park, millions of dollars are being spent in great developments of all kinds. The great University of Miami will open its doors next Fall to the public with an endowment of $15,000,000.00.

University Park adjoins the very heart of the Riviera or University Section of Coral Gables. University Park is in close proximity to the ten million dollar Miami-Biltmore Hotel and Golf Course located in Coral Gables. University Park is in the very heart of the section of Greater Miami that is certainly destined to be the South's Greatest Educational and Social center. Lots across the street from University Park have sold rapidly for prices which are higher than prices at which University Park will be offered. Lots in University Park will be sold for around $5,000.00. The terms will be one-third cash, the balance in five semi-annual installments; or, one-fourth cash, balance quarterly.

The people from the north and the middle west have been and are taking millions of dollars in profits from investments made in this Magic City, and I have felt keenly the fact that so very few North Carolinians and Virginians have made investments here.

University Park will be sold rapidly to local people when it is formally placed on the market. It is my wish and my desire that this property be sold mostly to people "back home" because I am absolutely convinced about the future of University Park and can unhesitatingly recommend the purchase of these lots. I believe the purchasers will reap a handsome profit.

To those that are unable to come to Miami, if you will wire Dr. Hassell, Mr. Dupree or me that you wish to make a reservation in University Park, we will use our best judgment in making you a fine selection and we will do our utmost to represent you to your best advantage.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

By CHARLES A. SMITH, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent. London, Jan. 23.—A romantic story of a painter's rise from poverty to fame lies behind the wonderful success achieved by Orlando Greenwood, an hitherto unknown painter, during an exhibition of his works here.

A former mill-hand from the Lancashire district of England, Greenwood has tasted fame almost overnight, for although he had unsuccessfully tried in every way possible to sell his pictures previous to the exhibition, within two hours after its opening more than half his paintings were sold.

During the two weeks' run of his show, he sold thirty pictures at an aggregate sale price of $7,500, and he has since received commissions to paint many well-known English personages.

Greenwood has received his rise to fame with characteristic Lancashire unconcern, however.

"Fame ruins a serious painter," Greenwood said. "I want only enough money to be able to live quietly and indulge my taste for beautiful things."

Greenwood revealed that he uses some unique Chinese porcelain and ivory figures as his models for the unusual still-life studies which have attracted the attention of the London critics. Until two years ago he was unable to afford a professional model for his portrait studies, and so was forced to paint himself over and over again, the method being to paint from his own reflection seen in a system of mirrors.

A new stage in the race for supremacy between the steam turbine and the Diesel motor for ship propulsion has been reached with the announcement that a number of prominent British shipping engineers, wishing to show their faith in the superior economical efficiency of steam for driving high-speed ships, have set out to prove their case by building an experimental vessel.

At the instance Sir Charles Parsons, of turbine fame, and other engineers, Messrs. Denny Brothers, of Dumbarton, are about to begin work on this new vessel, particulars of which are being carefully guarded.

It is known that she will be equipped with super high-pressure turbines of an entirely new type, working under an enormous head of steam. The boilers of the ship are designed for a pressure of at least 500 pounds to the square inch, but some reports put the real figure at 600 pounds to the square inch, which is more than double that hitherto used in marine boilers.

The discovery in Persia of what must be one of the oldest castles in the world is reported by Professor Ernst Herzfeld, the famous German expert and authority on Babylonia.

Herzfeld recently arrived here after a prolonged tour of the East, and the castle is one of his biggest discoveries.

He states that the castle, which is a well-preserved ruin near Firuzbad, South Persia, is situated on the summit of a 6,000-foot high mountain, and was formerly the palace of the first Sasanian king, Ardashir, whose Grand Vizier is a famous character in Persian history.

He believes that he is the first modern explorer to set eyes on the castle, the most remarkable feature of which is that, although built in 225 A. D., it is the prototype of the earliest castles of Europe erected 1,000 years later.

"The existence of the castle was absolutely unknown to history before I discovered it," Herzfeld stated in an interview here.

Stop talking about Woman. Talk about Man for a change.

Such is the manifesto of Rose Macaulay, the novelist, who declares she is tired of hearing and reading about women and thinks that the world would be better off if men became a more general subject of conversation and literature.

"Woman is a great and increasing nuisance in this country," says Miss Macaulay. "You read about her everywhere. You are told that she is fickle, that she is faithful, that she is hard, that she is gentle, that she is selfish, that she is unselfish."

"The worst of it is that everybody is talking and writing about women. I have often thought that the historian of the future will get the impression that there was at this time a strange new kind of animal called Woman going about receiving great attention from writers and investigators. He will find this creature mentioned, not as an ordinary part of humankind, but as some queer separate species."

FLOOR SPACE AT EXPOSITION NOW BEING RESERVED

More Applications Received Than for Any Previous Shows at This Stage of the Game

"We are pleased to say that more applications have been received for floor space for our 1926 Exposition, which will be held at Greenville, than for any of the previous shows at the same stage of the game," Secretary Bartlett said this week when asked what progress is being made with the 1926 Exposition and Automobile Show. The dates are April 5th to 9th and the very best program that could be found has been booked for the five big days and nights.

Although no active campaign has been started to sell the floor space, Chairman C. W. Schuff reports orders coming in very rapidly, which indicates that every available foot will be sold. To secure best locations, it is necessary to get in early, because first applications will, of course, be given first consideration. There are 5,000 square feet of space for use this season, and with the program that has been announced the capacity house will be ready when the doors open on the afternoon of April 5th.

Chairman C. B. Rowlett, of the program and hand book committee, is busily at work getting things in shape for that publication to come off the press a full month ahead of the opening date of the exposition. This is the forerunner of the big occasion, and this annual publication is looked forward to with a great deal of interest by the people of Eastern North Carolina. The entire program will be published a month before the opening. "They are all going to hear and see Will Rogers," is the statement that is being heard all over this part of the state. Miss Anna Case, Eastern Carolina's own favorite, will be here the second night, and other big attractions are to be announced later.

The role played by Cardinal Mercier was one of the outstanding features of the World War. Although hailed as the "Apostle of Peace" throughout the civilized world, he demonstrated early in the great struggle that he also was a fighter of the first magnitude when convinced that his cause was imbued with righteousness.

He was in Rome when news arrived that Belgium—his native land—had been stricken to earth by the mighty German advance. Cutting short the formalities which usually attend the departure of a high church dignitary from the Vatican, he hastened back to Brussels, waved aside preliminaries and precedent; exhorted his people to resist the invasion with all the strength and determination at their command; denounced the Germans from the pulpit and palace, and from then on continued as one of the most formidable and dangerous thorns in the side of enemy military authorities who were endeavoring to shape the destinies of conquered Belgium to the best advantage of victorious Berlin.

The famous Pastoral Letter of December, 1914, prepared by Cardinal Mercier and read in every Catholic church in Belgium, has been called one of the most damning indictments of the German invasion ever written. The letter went forth to printer and priest despite every precaution the German authorities could take to suppress it. Spies by the score watched day and night over the prelate and his staff, for the invaders were aware that a letter containing condemnations of the most violent nature was to be read from every Catholic church in the land on New Year's Day, 1915. They were determined to forestall it at all costs, but the letter was read despite their efforts and the wrath of the powerful von Bissing was heaped upon Cardinal Mercier for his defiance.

A little village not far from Waterloo-Briane d'Alleud, was the birthplace of Cardinal Mercier in 1851. The family was a distinguished religious one, several other members having received high honors from the Catholic church.

Believing he was destined for a career other than secular, the future Cardinal prepared for the medical profession, and upon his graduation from college studied surgery under Professor Charcot at Paris. Inborn love of the priesthood, however, soon caused him to abandon his medical studies and seek seclusion in a seminary, where he prepared himself to take the cloth.

Modest, humble, seeking no personal honors, the prelate of Belgium spent the declining years of his life as he had spent the years before the war, visiting his priests and congregations, discussing their troubles, consoling them in sorrow, and preaching to them humility in success.

Following the war, in September, 1919, Cardinal Mercier paid a visit to the United States. As his ship docked in New York he was met by General Pershing, who welcomed him in the name of the American government, and throughout his tour of the country he received many honors and degrees. At the time of his departure he said:

"I, under the pressure of years or for other reasons, I have to relinquish my ministry in Belgium I am willing to spend my last days in your country, and will not refuse an opportunity to come here and show that I am worthy to be a true American."

TWO SMALL DRUG STORES DO FOUR MILLIONS IN BUSINESS

Kansas City, Jan. 20.—(AP)—From a small, obscure confectionery store ten years ago, Isaac and M. H. Katz have built a business, unique in its line, which is concluding a $4,000,000 year, and all from two small cut-rate drug stores.

The stores are small as stores go, one being 54 feet by 62 feet and the other slightly larger, but they are crowded daily.

The Katz brothers, in 1917, added a drug department to their small confectionery. Then, in 1918, during the war, the brothers eliminated the tax from the selling price and began to undersell the market. The business grew rapidly, expanding into two stores. Five years ago they began to advertise extensively.

"That is where the real growth began," said Isaac, the elder brother, "almost immediately sales jumped up 50 per cent." Recently Katz ran a 14-page advertisement in a Kansas City newspaper, a record for advertising here.

GIGANTIC CABLE SPAN WILL CARRY NEW POWER TACOMA

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Raising of the longest cable suspension bridge in the world and the enlargement of a lake requiring the burning of two hotels and several farm houses were engineering achievements in the construction of a new unit of Tacoma's municipal power system.

The added power made available will be transmitted over 44 miles of line, part of which spans an arm of Puget Sound. Six cable strands weighing six tons each and capable of withstanding a strain of more than 60,000 pounds, were strung between two towers 311 feet high. The towers are 6,240 feet apart, the span exceeding in length those across the St. Lawrence River. It clears the water by more than 200 feet at the lowest sag.

To augment the generative storage capacity of Lake Cushman, a dam was built in a canyon of the Skykomish river, raising the water level of the lake 160 feet and running it back nine miles. This stores 460,000 acre feet more water.

The new unit will develop 50,000 horsepower at a cost of $4,500,000. A second unit to give 90,000 horsepower and to cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 is planned.

In clearing the land that was to be used for lake bottom the city set two $60,000 fires destroying two rural hostels and ranch buildings on abandoned property.

Tacoma has been in the power business since 1910. Its profits for the current year have been placed at approximately $1,000,000.

MEN BETTER VOTERS THAN WOMEN; RICH USUALLY VOTE

Delaware, O., Jan. 15.—(I.N.S.)—Citizens of foreign parentage are better voters than those of mixed or native parentage. Men are decidedly better voters than women.

Interest in suffrage increases with age up to the group of citizens seventy years of age or over where infirmities contribute to their absence from the polls. Married persons are better voters than unmarried, heads of families having the best voting record of any class.

Such are some of the observations drawn by Professor A. Arneson of the Department of Political Science at Ohio Wesleyan University after a detailed study of a group of 4,400 citizens of voting age.

While 72.9 per cent of the men interviewed were exercising their voting privileges but 51.1 per cent of the women questioned voted.

Although persons between sixty and seventy years of age showed a percentage of 81.7 voting, but 58.1 per cent of those between twenty and thirty years of age voted.
