OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

LENT

(By Rev. James E. W. Cook) St. Mark 6:31—"And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile; for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat."

It was at the close of a busy day, a day filled with sad tidings, that Jesus thus invited His disciples to seek rest and seclusion. He had just received the news of the murder of His cousin and friend, John the Baptist; and His heart was filled with genuine sorrow.

There were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat," and crowds are sometimes a menace to the highest interests of the soul. One may be tempted to measure his worth by the numbers that follow him, and to care more for applause than for truth.

"For my part," said Stevenson, "I should try to secure some part of every day for meditation, above all, in the early morning and the open air."

When Pere Didon had been banished to Corsica, Pasteur wrote him: "You will come back with your soul still loftier, your thought more firm, more disengaged from earthly things."

Most of the world's best work has been done by men who prepared for it in some "desert place." Moses alone with God in the Mount; John the Baptist in the wilds of Judea; Jesus in the wilderness for forty days and forty nights; St. Paul in Arabia for two years; Mohammed in his seclusion; John Bunyan in his prison cell—these are but a few examples of a vast host who found strength of purpose and clearness of vision by solitude, by drawing "apart" going." And we, you and I, need the same counter-balance to the restlessness and speed of our modern life. "No leisure so much as to eat," would not be an inaccurate description of many of our busy men and women today. Too many are owned by their business, instead of owning it. Too many are spending their life in order to live. To make a living they sacrifice health, home, and all the finer qualities of heart and mind that make life worth-while.

We need equipoise and balance; and a clearer vision of the right relations between things temporal and things eternal.

So the Church for many ages has provided a season for meditation and prayer which is called LENT.

It begins next Wednesday, known as Ash Wednesday, and ends with Easter; thus lasting forty days, omitting the Sundays. During this period Christians of all denominations are urged to: 1. SELF-EXAMINATION. This is, like commercial stock-taking, a means of determining where we are strong and in what we are weak. Our failings and shortcomings, and the danger of their growing strength, will be revealed to us; and by repentance and prayer we may be led to adjust our course so as to avoid spiritual shipwreck.

2. SELF-DENIAL is also an element in the Lenten observance. During these forty days we are asked to give up those habits and luxuries which, gratifying to the taste, tend to undermine our spiritual strength. We must bring our flesh and its appetites under control, and every thought into subjection to the will of Christ.

3. ALMS-GIVING, OR CHARITABLE WORK, is a third requisite to the proper keeping of Lent. The time saved from amusements, and the money saved by self-denial, should both be given to extend the knowledge of God's love as revealed in Christ Jesus.

If anyone will thus honestly examine himself, deny himself, and give himself in service to others, this Lent will prove to him of inestimable value, physically and spiritually.

In order to accomplish this, let us devote a part of every day to prayer, and to the reading of the Scriptures.

More frequent attendance at the services of the Church, and partaking of the Holy Communion, will prove very helpful.

Jesus says again to us this Lenten season, "Come yet apart... and rest a while;" not with the rest of inactivity and idleness, but of quickened spiritual ability and power, which will enable us to off-set the growing materialism of our lives and will produce the only equipoise and balance between body and soul, the material and the spiritual, in which are found lasting peace and joy and rest.

CABLE LETTER London, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania has let it be known that she plans to visit London within the next few weeks, and this has given rise to reports that she will make this journey the occasion for a meeting with her son, Prince Carol, who recently renounced his succession to the throne and his privileges as a member of the Royal family. The Queen has written English friends that she expects to be in London early in the spring and later to go to Brittany to spend a fortnight at her chateau with her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, wife of the former King George of Greece. Prince Carol has many friends in London who are waiting for word which will indicate whether the reunion of mother and son will take place here.

King George who is fond of listening to the radio at odd moments, and Queen Mary, who does crossword puzzles, now and then have a new amusement if they care for it, in watching London's newest system of "merry-go-round" which has been introduced around the Queen Victoria memorial, directly in front of Buckingham palace, to help solve London's traffic problem. Under the new scheme all vehicular traffic approaching the memorial must proceed around it in a clockwise direction until arriving at the point of exit. Half a dozen policemen have been on duty to help drivers get accustomed to the rules, which create a whirling picture of an endless line of motor cars all day long and most of the night. The traffic experts, by the "merry-go-round" hope to eliminate traffic crossings altogether at this important and aristocratic center, where an average of forty cars pass each minute. The stream of machines flowing in graceful curves around the circular base of the memorial is plainly visible from the apartments of their majesties in the palace.

Women are now being received and entertained in the Carlton Club, heretofore the stronghold of male clubdom. Princess Beatrice, aunt of King George and mother of the Queen of Spain, was the first to avail herself of the new facilities, as the guest of the Earl of Kintore. Lord Dudley's house at No. 7, Carlton gardens has been leased and converted into an annex for the reception of members' wives and other women relatives and friends. The annex is connected by a specially constructed corridor with the main club rooms on the other side of the gardens. London's quaint old streets and alleys are surviving with difficulty in an age that demands wider and straighter streets for motor traffic. Frying Pan Alley, Bloody Bridge and Black Dog Alley have been gone for years. Porridge Pot Row and Greenletence Alley now have followed them into history. Labor-in-vain Alley and Naked Boy Court also are gone but Petticoat Lane and Seven Dials remain.

Also there are Bleeding Heart Yard, Hanging Sword Alley, Adam and Eve court, Houndsditch, Pope's Head Alley and Pickle Herring street, as well as other intriguing by-paths to excite the interest of perambulating Americans who, guidebooks in hand, are to be found nosing about the nooks and crannies of London in increasing numbers at the approach of spring. Paris, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Paris just now is having an annual poignant reminder of the great war and of her thousands of maimed veterans. "Priority cards" which entitle the holder to a seat and priority of entrance in all Paris public conveyances must be renewed annually during the first weeks of February. Signs are now posted in all the subways, busses and tram cars warning the war-mutilated men that they must present themselves at the prefecture of police with photographs and pension cards to receive new cards. Blinded veterans, who are allowed to ride free in all public conveyances, have a special day set aside for them so they will not be crowded.

Prince Carol of Rumania is said to be the mysterious personage for whom a villa near Nice on the road to Monte Carlo is being repaired and made ready to receive occupants. This villa was owned and occupied some years before the war by a Tasha with 14 legitimate wives. The gossip along the Riviera is that Premier Mussolini has caused a hint to be conveyed to the former heir to the throne of Rumania that it would be appreciated by the Italian government if he would not take up a permanent residence in Milan. Never before has cost of living risen so high in France as along the Riviera this winter. The shopkeepers, hotel men and restaurant owners have found a very effective remedy against the depreciation of the franc by adopting the dollar and pound as bases of their prices. A chauffeur will not start his her son, Prince ardi, who recently drove of half a mile or so comes to forty or fifty francs. Once modest hotels now demand nothing less than 100 francs per day (about $4) for the simplest sort of a room. Ham or bacon and eggs may be had for 20 francs, about 25 cents for each egg.

PAINS ALL OVER Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand. Weatherly, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship. "Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength. "I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness." Ask your druggist. NC-165

LOYAL DAUGHTERS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Clifton Edwards proved a charming hostess when she entertained the members of her Sunday School class of the Christian Church at her home Thursday evening.

After a short devotional led by Mrs. W. P. Blanks, the roll was called and minutes of the last business meeting read. The president, Mrs. W. H. Bradsher, then asked for discussion of some of the class problems. It was decided to add one hundred dollars to the class budget to be applied on the parsonage fund. Also, a suggestion that we ask for the privilege of entertaining the college girls of the class met with the hearty approval of all.

Pay followed business, and after many fun-provoking contests and stunts, Mrs. Edwards served tempting refreshments. In keeping with the Valentine spirit, hearts, arrows and cupids added beauty to the occasion.

The Bachelor's Honeymoon Pleases Large Audiences

"A Bachelor's Honeymoon," a musical comedy, was presented in White's Theatre yesterday, mannee and night, to large and appreciative audiences. The big musical success, the cast of which was local talent, was given under the auspices of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion, and proved most enjoyable.

The play under the direction of Mr. Victor B. Hayes, of the National Producing company was one of the most enjoyable of the home talent shows ever presented here. Each member of the cast played their part in a commendable manner and each deserves their part of praise.

The costumes were beautiful and the choruses and dances were rendered in a most delightful manner.

The acting showed that those participating had had splendid training, during the short time, given to getting up the play.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL FOR YOUNG LADIES FEDERATION

The Young Ladies' Federation was entertained at a social Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Wade Holmes. The hostesses were Mrs. John McKeithan and Mrs. Holmes.

Scripture was read by Miss Lill Wilson, our superintendent, after which we had prayer.

The meeting was then given over to the program committee, composed of Misses Heiene Higgs, Jessie Bullock, Mesdames John Clark and E. T. Forbes. In a hand-shaking contest, Mrs. G. O. Moore proved to be "the whole cheese." In the next contest Mrs. Bill Rush lived up to her name by "rushing" around and securing the largest number of addresses and was also the lucky one in a Valentine of words contest.

Amid much laughter, a heart relay race was run by Mrs. Rush, Mrs. John Clark, Miss Lill Wilson, and Mrs. McKeithan. Mrs. Clark, being the winner, made a very excellent speech and received the prize. The hostesses then served delicious hot tea and sandwiches.

Haysville High Defeat Oriental

Maysville High School basketball team won a one-sided contest against the Oriental team last night in Kinston, by the overwhelming score of 40 to 15.

The game started off as though it were a slow motion contest, but in the later periods, the game speeded up and the victors presented a fast working quintet, which would be a credit to any high school.

The Greenville quint meets Maysville, at Kinston, Tuesday night, for the second championship game of the season. The locals will face one of the strongest teams of the season, and it is hoped that a large crowd of Greenville supporters will be on hand to help their team win.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

By B. H. K. Reynolds
INS Staff Correspondent
London, Feb. 13.—The Archbishop of York has taken the lead in a campaign to secure the enactment of a law to suppress the details of divorce cases in the newspapers.

Discussing the proposed law, the Archbishop said that thanks were due to the press "for their exclusion of matter that is really indecent."

"I think they take the greatest possible care," he added "but that is not the evil. The evil is the accumulation of unsavory details. Supporters of the press restrictions declare that the publication of the details of sensational divorce cases and other news involving sex irregularities is damaging to British reputation among foreigners, because it advertises the country's worst vices and depravities."

English boys and girls of the future will, it seems, have their vocations in life decided, not by the fact that their father was a plumber or their mother a dressmaker, but by their natural aptitudes determined by psychological tests.

The National Institute of Industrial Psychology, in conjunction with the State school authorities, are carrying out a number of experiments on poorer school children to deal with the ever-growing problem of their employment when they leave school.

Interesting examples of the tests that are made were furnished by F. W. Lane, secretary of the Institute, in an interview.

"The first step," Lane said, "is made when an official, having examined the child's school report, interviews him and asks him unobtrusively what are his hobbies and interests. When some idea has been gleaned regarding his abilities tests of various natures are put to him. These tests are thought out by experts, and generally reveal to us the child's abilities."

That the almost lost craft of the forester is being brought in vigorous life again is the belief of the British Forestry Commission, whose headquarters are at Broadley, Worcestershire. And, in addition to the actual craft being regained, they point to the creation of a new and permanent woodland population.

A further big selection of books from the famous Pritwell Court library, owned by S. R. Christie-Miller, is to be auctioned at Sotheby's, the well known London auctioneers, from March 15 to 18 and from March 22 to 24. Big prices are again expected to be realized, inasmuch as sales of the library to date have realized over two and a half million dollars. This further sale is expected to bring the total realized to $3,000,000, thus easily eclipsing the $2,000,000 record, previously held by the sale of the Hoe library in the United States. Many American collectors and their agents are expected.

Suggestions that the Government should insist on the construction of deep, bomb-proof chambers, roofed with steel and reinforced concrete below every important commercial building erected to provide refuges for civilians during the time of war is made by Henry W. Nevinson, one-time famous as a war correspondent, in the Architects Journal.

Nevinson avers it is to architects that the world will have to look for its chief protection against invading aircraft and the horrors of poison gas during the next war.

poet in war, silly flatterer in peace, fires off 27 cannon shots in honor of Mussolini's threat to whip Germany.

Thus we change. Italy was Germany's ally, when the big war started. At least Germany thought so. In 1913 Italy's threat to whip Germany would have amused the "al highest," and his boy the Crown Prince, with the "zum tag" proclivities would have been much heated up. Now it is different, and Germany will find a sensible, peaceful way out of the situation. Meanwhile, Mussolini, who knows that a successful dictator must dictate enjoys dictating to Germany, strengthening greatly his hold on power, by so doing.

Germany hurries in the direction of Geneva and the League of Nations, and the former Kaiser recites Aesop's Fables about the donkey that kicked the sick lion. What about us. Nothing as yet. We are only in the World Court, ante room of the League of Nations. Our troubles will come later after we shall have been "sugged" into the League, despite President Coolidge's virtuous contrary resolve.

Col. House in his memoirs tells of Woodrow Wilson suddenly taking an interest in foreign affairs. He, Wilson, had an interesting time. King George met him at the railway station, took him to Buckingham Palace, in spite of all Queen Mary could say about bringing "queer people." Italian workmen took down Garibaldi's picture pulling Wilson's in its place. And it cost this country about one hundred billions, to say nothing of what we lent Europe. Our patriot profifiers got most of it back, that is the bright spot.

GREENVILLE BOY IS SHIP WRECKED

Bourswain's Mate Joseph Libby, who wandered barefooted twelve hours in yesterday's blinding blizzard in search of aid, got credit for saving the lives of his five companions today as the crew of the wrecked C-126 were carried aboard the cutter Mojave at Narragansett Pier.

Frozen so badly they were unable to walk, the men were treated by naval surgeons who awaited them. Their boat was wrecked near the west entrance of Narragansett Bay early yesterday.

The men are Ensign N. S. Fulford, commander of the boat; Boat-swain Joseph Libby, Coxswain Fred U. Theuwill, Motor Machinist Anita Simone, Motor Machinist H. A. Meunick and Cook John H. McQueen.

The C-126, a 75-footer, was caught in the 70-mile blizzard that hit the New England coast. Its compass had gone out of commission. Efforts to steer by dead reckoning in the blinding snowstorm were futile, and the boat was driven ashore at 2:30 a. m. at a deserted spot opposite Whale Rock Light. The pilot house windows were stove in and the boat ice-encrusted.

In the darkness the crew of six went over the side, and finally, through the hammering surf, made their way 100 feet to the beach. All of the others were more or less clothed, but Libby was barefooted. The rocky shore was ice-covered, the ground blanketed with falling snow and a little wind blowing. The men made their way to higher ground and wandered about in search of shelter until daylight. With their wet clothes freezing on them, one by one the men became delirious, until Libby alone retained his senses.

He herded the men together and kept them from lying down to certain death. It was 2 o'clock in the afternoon before he saw in the distance a water tower. Believing it his only chance, Libby left his comrades and stumbled to the tower. It was on the Jencks Estate which, however, is closed for the winter and deserted.

In desperation Libby somehow managed to clamber up the tower in the hope that he might see someone who could help. Waving his arms and shouting, he signaled a gang who were clearing the Boston Neck Road. The men came, broke in the door of the laundry on the estate, started a fire and brought in the other five men. Neighbors were summoned and brought hot coffee and blankets.

It was necessary to summon other gangs to open the road to the pier, where the Mojave had been sent to the rescue. All the men had their hands, feet and other parts of their bodies frozen. They had to be carried by automobile to the pier and then carried aboard the cutter.

LADIES' NIGHT IS OBSERVED BY KIWANIS

at his side. One might think that Jack would not have responded so cheerfully to the exigencies of the occasion which required him to be torn away from the side of his sweetheart for this performance, but Jack is a real sport and if he made as good impression on "her" as he did on the rest of the crowd, he was amply repaid for his inconvenience.

The impersonations rendered by Ralph Deal, Jack King, Charlie Forbes and Bill Bradsher were a scream from start to finish. Mrs. Herbert Austin made a fitting and splendid response to Chairman Marvin Blount's laudatory address of welcome.

Clarence Pou, of Elizabeth City, Lieutenant Governor of the Carolina Kiwanis District, was present and made the principal speech of the evening in which he set forth the traits of character that mark the real Kiwanian and how he weaves the Golden Rule into his business, and goes the second mile on the highway of every-day life.

Pike County In the Throes of a Diamond Rush

Osyka, Miss., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Pike County was in the throes of a diamond rush today. Osyka, normally, a quiet country village of 800 persons, was the headquarters of thousands of excited men and boys from all parts of Mississippi and Louisiana. By train, automobile, buggy, horseback, mule-back and afoot, the eager diamond hunters surged into Osyka to share in the wealth that they have been lead to believe awaits them.

Reports that John W. Deland, of Chicago, a geologist, had found valuable stones while searching for oil on the property of C. E. Lee, spread rapidly. It also became known that mineral leases had been taken in what were declared to be good prices on most of the two-thousand acre tract of land where the blue white diamonds were reported found.

The leases do not specify diamonds, it is said, but cover all mineral deposits. The contracts provide a royalty of 12 1-2 per cent payable to the owners. For all minerals taken from the property. Several of the precious rocks exhibited by geologists, who made the find, were described as about the size of peas. Mr. Deland was the only geologist here who would reveal his identity. One of the geologists is responsible for the statement that actual operations would be started by the interests holding the leases within fifteen days.

Storm Coke Yards Today in Search of Fuel

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—A riot call for police was sent out today when hundreds of men, women and children, seeking fuel, stormed the coke yards in the consolidated gas company on First Avenue and 110th street. Scores were injured before the police could quell the disturbance.

Hearing that there was to be a sale of coke at the yards, people came from every direction dragging carts and sleds, or pushing baby carriages. The gates to the yard were barred, and soon there were hundreds of men, women and children before them shouting "open the gates."

Officials of the company made futile efforts to persuade the crowd to disperse. Finally with a great surge the mob rushed the gates and crushed them open. A sergeant and six policemen, who arrived on the scene a short time later, finally managed to persuade the people to leave. Many were forced to abandon the fuel they had gathered up. After order had been restored the seekers of fuel were formed into long lines and a bushel of coke sold to each for 30 cents.

Complaints Made American Women Being Mistreated

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Many complaints have been made that American women were mistreated in Tijuana, and President Calles, of Mexico, urges the closing of all objectionable resorts in the border town.

In a telegram last night to Mayor Palacia, of Tijuana, the President urged that all dives of the border town be closed and that a vigorous investigation be pushed into the mistreating of Audrey and Cyde Petete, two American girls who were drugged and attacked at Tijuana. The President's message came on the heels of the charges made by Fred Markley, head of the United States Customs Office in the Tijuana line that he had complaints of mistreatment of American women in the resort town. He also testified at the inquest into the death of Thomas Petete, father of the mistreated girls, who committed suicide after learning of his daughter's predicament. Markley said that Tijuana police, who were supposed to protect visitors have taken American women to hotels and attacked them while the women were under the influence of liquor.

SCHOOL NEWS

A Fresh Start After Examination.
Examinations with their nerve-straining work are over. They have made many of us glad and a few sad, but they will pay us another visit, in which we have a chance to make them leave us glad in passing, instead of sad in failing.

The new school term has just begun. All of us are on the starting line. We have an equal chance and an even start with everybody. Our destiny is in our hands, and it is up to us to make good this term.

The past is gone, and it is not a paying proposition to worry over it. We must now look forward to the coming term and exert our will, and energies to do good work. This is the only way to make a success.

Junior English

The Juniors have been studying a very interesting course in English, a Shakespearean play "King Henry V." This play is taken from the history of our King Henry's war with France. He wanted the French throne, on the grounds of the old Salic laws.

The Salic laws were the ones which ruled France in the time of Henry. There were: (1)—no one could rule the throne if it were inherited through a woman. (2)—no woman was allowed to rule.

They are very different from the ones that rule our country today. We have our own voting system, and can elect women to every office. In the countries where they have monarchy, women are permitted to rule.

The Sophomore's Challenge

On Wednesday morning, a week before examinations, the sophomore class of the Greenville High School, challenged the other grades to a contest for the highest average on examinations, the winner to be given a half holiday. The Juniors and Seniors accepted this challenge immediately, but the Freshmen remained silent.

A little later, a notice was seen on the bulletin board to the effect that the Freshmen, after much consideration, would accept the challenge.

The winning class in this contest has not been definitely decided, but we hope the Juniors have earned the holiday.

In order for the students to be excused from this study period a note must
