LOCAL QUEENS ARE SELECTED FOR EXPOSITION

Eastern Carolina Is Getting Ready For Its Annual Event; Two Solid Car Loads Chairs To Be Used For Immense Crowd

Misses Mammie Ruth Fleming, Alice Lee Hooker, Lillian Hooker, Hannah Dixon and Mary Moyer Savage have been chosen as Greenville's queens for the East Carolina Exposition. The queens were selected by a secret committee from the various civic organizations of the city. One of the Pitt county contestants will be given a $500.00 diamond ring.

Great preparations are being made for the Exposition. In order to take care of the immense crowds that will attend the Exposition committee has purchased two solid car loads of chairs to be shipped direct from the factory for this occasion. Chairs will be much more comfortable than benches.

The queen's contest is attracting wide attention. The latest arrival in addition to the local queen is Miss Martha Jenkins of Tarboro. The people of Tarboro are keenly interested in the Exposition and will give their queen their undivided support.

Greenville's location makes it an ideal place for the exposition. All roads leading to this city are paved. Nearly 100,000 people can leave home and be in this city in less than three hours. Taking these advantages into consideration the largest crowds that has ever visited the Exposition will be here.

The decorator is also transforming Gorman's big warehouse into a place of beauty. No efforts are being spared in making it an appropriate place for the Exposition and Fashion Show.

The advertising committee is on the job. The billboards, tobacco barns and other places suitable for advertising matter within 75 miles of Greenville are being used to announce the approaching event. Newspapers, posters and other forms of advertising are being read by thousands of people. Eastern Carolina is getting ready for its annual event.

BRITISH STEAMER LADEN WITH SUGAR REPORTED ON FIRE

Two Fire Boats Sent Out To Rescue Of British Steamer, Taffra, Bound From Cuba To Baltimore.

Baltimore, March 13.—(AP)—Fire in the hold of the British steamer Taffra was extinguished with the aid of the Baltimore fire boats today. The vessel is anchored off quarantine awaiting examination.

Baltimore, March 13.—(AP)—The British steamer Taffra, laden with sugar, and bound from Cuba for Baltimore, was reported on fire near Sandy Point, 20 miles below Baltimore, this morning. Two local fire boats were sent to her assistance and residents of the shore in the vicinity of the boat telephoned that they had gotten alongside the vessel about 9 o'clock. Smoke was pouring from the ship, they said.

The fire boats were sent in response to a wireless message to the Baltimore fire department from the steamer Mystic, outward bound for Savannah and Los Angeles, and it was at first reported that it was the Mystic on fire.

The Taffra is of London, 4,500 tons gross, and carries a crew of 30 men.

The marine observer at North Point reported the Taffra in the lower harbor at 3:30 a. m. She was flying two black balls indicating the craft was under control. A tug was along side but the observer said he could see no signs of fire aboard.

Ticking The Seconds, Much Made of Little. But It Must Be Told. Seconds Make Centuries. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

History is like the face of a watch. Long periods of time covering lives of nations, told in heavy volumes, are the hour hand of the watch.

The minute hand represents individual centuries, and as Schopenhauer said, history's second hand is the newspaper, ticking off, as they fly, days that are seconds in time, and making as much fuss as possible about each second.

"Important news" of today will shrink to microscopic nothingness in the light of history. For instance, the United States yesterday sold, at a premium, five hundred millions of bonds paying only 3 3/4 per cent interest. That fills us with pride. Next week it will be forgotten.

De Vaca resigns from Sinn Fein disgusted because the Ard Fheis ruling "the Irish Republic," wouldn't take his advice.

Wandering deer in great herds actually stop a railroad train in Colorado as bison did in early days. That excites men fond of killing things.

"Drys," getting the worst of prohibition straw ballots, say such ballots have no meaning.

Seven years ago, young J. R. Tucker, of Dartmouth College, owned just one dime and a watch—now his life is insured for a million. That interests many who think that money means happiness. Later Mr. Tucker won't have even the dime, and the worms will have him. But the crowd forgets that.

Russia sells the czar's wines and liquor including brandy 150 years old, given by Napoleon, and sold for $20 a bottle, a great bargain.

"Napoleon brandy" is sold in the United States for more than that, but it never saw Napoleon or a vineyard, being the product of American stills, plus the juice of American prunes.

F. F. Lucas of the Bell Telephone laboratory, exhibits an ultra violet light microscope magnifying 9,000 times. It makes the end of a needle look like a log of wood, and the edge of a razor blade like a huge cross, cut saw. The microscope is used to study the physical structure of iron, steel and other metals.

Anything that men can imagine they can do. Some day we may look into the atom, and see the electrons moving around the nucleus. It must be a very "slow movie" for the electron planets revolve around their nuclear sun, several billion times in a second.

"Finance companies" in 1925, sold three billion dollars worth of automobiles on "time payment." An automobile is an investment, health, in happiness, time saving and efficiency. To buy it on time is as wise as buying real estate on installments.

But automobile makers will kill the goose that lays the golden eggs if they compete along line of unsound financing instead of competing in better quality, lower manufacturing and distributing costs.

Reckless financing will glut the second hand car market, so that even Europe and Asia will not absorb the surplus at junk prices. Then look out.

Mascagni, famous Italian composer, says, "jazz" is dreadful and the saxophone "makes me positively ill, imitating sounds made by the most repellent animals."

He should remember that human beings having all those "repellent animals" locked up within them, recognize and respond to the saxophone's voice, as to the voice of a relative.

Mascagni writes an opera that is woven around a murder. To real musicians of the future that would seem inexplicably horrible, worse than any saxophone.

The British will probably solve one big problem by buying the rational coal mines, leasing them to operators, under government regulation of wages and profits.

That news will sit badly on some respectable stomachs in the United States. But they also

STATE VISITED BY VARIED BRAND WEATHER TODAY

Snow, Rain And a Cloudy Sky All Reported Throughout State; High Winds Also Experienced.

Charlotte, March 13.—(AP)—North Carolina experienced a varied brand of weather today. Snow, rain and a cloudy sky were all reported. Salisbury at eight o'clock was taking on its second coat of snow within a week, while Hickory reported flurries of snow and heavy clouds. From Winston-Salem came a report of high wind, and then a half inch of snow followed by a rain, with a temperature at 30 degrees. Threatening weather was in sight here after a night of rain with a strong wind blowing, but no snow. High Point reported a half inch of snow on the ground and still snowing.

From Raleigh came the report of one inch of snow on the ground and snow still heavily falling with the temperature at 20 degrees. All Eastern Carolina points reported snow with the exception of Wilmington and of 30 degrees it was snowing in Asheville and Greensboro. Shortly after 11 o'clock it began to snow in Charlotte.

PROHIBITIONISTS CARRY FIGHT TO THE WHITE HOUSE

Newest Development In Controversy Between Wets And Drys; Andrews Expresses Opinion That Capital Is Drier Than Ever Before.

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Prohibitionists took their views to the White House today as the newest development in the controversy between wets and drys. The visit to President Coolidge, arranged by the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League, coincided with a conference at the office of Assistant Secretary Andrews, prohibition situation at Washington.

Secretary Andrews called in the deputy prohibition administrator for the District of Columbia for a report on conditions here. Mr. Andrews denied, however, that the conference was prompted by the recent charge by Senator Blease, democrat, of South Carolina, that local bootleggers are finding a rich harvest in the capitol itself. The assistant secretary is of the opinion that Washington is now drier than ever before.

The Anti-Saloon League, which recently has been prominently meeting each attack on prohibition, has been considerably agitated by the numerous straw votes being taken by newspapers on the proposition of substituting light wines and beer for total prohibition. It was to outline its stand on this development and to verify its prohibition generally that the league's executive committee made the engagement with Mr. Coolidge.

SAY NO ACTION TAKEN CURTAIL YARN OUTPUT

Reports State That Curtailment Will Be Made To "Stabilize The Yarn Market."

Charlotte, March 13.—(AP)—Spinning mill officials here said today that no action had been taken locally in regard to curtailment of production, which is reported from Gaston county and others to "stabilize the yarn market."

Reports here are to the effect that a number of yarn mills at Gastonia plan to suspend operations from noon today to the beginning of work Tuesday morning. Textile men here declared that the Gastonia mills are acting independently and that the curtailment is being made to avoid the danger of shut-downs later. Announcement also comes from Rutherfordton that the Spinale, Grace and Cleghorn mills are not operating Fridays and Saturdays of each week.

Edward Scripp Died Last Night From Apoplexy

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Edward Scripps, retired founder of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, is dead on his yacht, the Ohio, in Monrovia Bay, Liberia, according to the cablegram received by Roy W. Howard, of the Scripps-Howard newspaper here today.

Apoplexy caused Mr. Scripps' death, which occurred last night. Before sailing he had given orders that if he died on the trip his body should be buried at sea.

Concrete Ship, War Bubble, Makes Good

San Francisco, March 13.—Alluded to as "it" by seafaring men rather than "she" as is befitting any worthy seagoing craft of steel or wood, the concrete ship McKittrick is doing daily duty in the bay of San Francisco that belies the derision of shipping circles.

Although the war was over before the McKittrick took the ways, under the coldly official designation of concrete Tanker No. 1 the ship was nevertheless a creature of the great conflict. Its genesis was the need of the nation to build boats faster than the enemy's submarines could sink them.

Private builders working under the critical eye of the government laid down three concrete vessels of 7,500 tons. The first of these, the Faith, was at the outset pronounced a success for it made the trial trip in first class fashion. But under more severe conditions it developed a condemning unwieldiness. Similarly the other two proved failures but profiting by the experience, the government had the tanker built.

A lighter mixture was used and improvements were effected in the steel reinforcing. Triple expansion engines of 1,500 horsepower were installed. The tanker went to Mexico on its test, and, returning with a load of oil, weathered a tremendous storm in the Caribbean sea. The commanding officer declared it as seaworthy as any ship he had ever handled; but the war was over. There was now a plentiful supply of steel and timber. The boat which had cost about a half million to build was about to be sold by the shipping board for $15,000.

George D. Zeh, traffic manager of the Associated Oil company, thought the tanker was worth more than this to his company. He was deaf to the ridicule of his associates and negotiated the purchase.

She has kept a record of the tanker's performance and the "stone boat" about which he has been joshed, has paid for itself several times. It has never lost time because of storm or needed repairs and, although capable of only eight knots an hour, it plods its way across and around the bay, day after day, transporting 20,000 barrels of oil at a time.

"I don't suppose there will ever be another concrete boat built," Zeh said. "There is no longer any need for them, but this one is far from being the dud it has been called."

Planning For Unique Exhibit At Exposition

Raleigh, March 13.—Plans are being perfected for a unique exhibit by the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association at the Eastern Carolina Exposition to be held in Greenville in April. The exhibit will be educational in character, a demonstration of the importance of the use of proper types of cotton seed and the relative value of the several types. A full bale of cotton of different grades and staple will be shown and the grading and classing will be demonstrated at the booth.

In this work the association will cooperate with Dr. R. V. Winters, the seed specialist of the state, and it is the hope of the management that the exhibit will bring home to the cotton farmers the dangers of poor seed and the profit in properly selected seed of the proper types.

Thinks Briand Will Find Way Settle Matter

Paris, March 13.—(AP)—French opinion refuses to believe the Geneva situation altogether hopeless. It feels that Premier Briand's great diplomatic powers stimulated by the danger of seeing the master work he started at Locarno destroyed, in the end will find a compromise.

Foreign Minister Vandervelde, of Belgium, was quoted today as saying:

"Previously Germany had only three-fourths of the assembly with her. Today she has nine-tenths against her."

Accepts House Modification Shoals Resolution

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—The senate today accepted the house modification to the Muscle Shoals resolution.

Immediate afterward Vice President Dawes appointed Chairman Norris, of the senate agricultural committee, Senator Heflin, democrat, of Alabama, and Senator Sackett, republican, of Kentucky, to represent the senate, on the joint congressional committee that is authorized to negotiate a lease for Muscle Shoals and report back to congress. Senator Norris promptly declined to serve on the ground that a senator favorable to the leasing of Muscle Shoals should represent the senate. Senator Deneen, republican, of Illinois, was selected to succeed Senator Norris.

Express Belief MacReady Has Made Record

Dayton, O., March 13.—(AP)—Belief that Lieutenant J. A. McReady had established a world altitude record in a flight over the post this morning, was expressed by officials following his landing at 12:43 o'clock. The instrument on his plane indicated an altitude of 39,000 feet. Celebration is expected to raise that figure to 41,000 feet. The record held by M. Calliz, French ace, is 39,586 feet.

Dayton, O., March 13.—Lieutenant John A. McReady took off at 9:35 o'clock this morning from McCook field in his attempt to regain the world altitude record.

Rural Credits Principal Issue In S. Dakota

Pierre, S. D., March 13.—(AP)—In the first primary election in the nation this spring, republicans of South Dakota will choose on Tuesday, March 23, either Senator Peter Norbeck or George J. Blandford, Sioux Falls attorney, as their candidate for United States senator.

The winner of this contest will meet State Senator O. J. Gundersen, republican democrat and Howard Platt, Langford, farm labor, in the general election next fall. Gundersen and Platt have no opposition in the primary.

Senator Norbeck was endorsed by his party at its December proposal meeting, an adjunct of the South Dakota primary law. By force of circumstances, his campaign will be based on state issues, principal of which will be a defense of the state rural credit system which was inaugurated during his former term as governor.

Dawforth, who filed independently after he failed to win proposal meeting favor, has made rural credit the chief issue of his campaign, but he also is the leader of that group of republicans which considers engaging in private enterprise of any kind not a proper function of a state.

Rural credits and the state's system of making loans to farmer from money derived through sale of bonds is termed have been in South Dakota politics for years.

Mangum Terrace Be Filmed And Used As Model

Raleigh, March 13.—(AP)—The Mangum terrace, a product of Wake county ingenuity, is to be used as a model by the United States department of agriculture in a film to be placed at the disposal of schools and extension agents throughout the country. It has been learned at the state department of agriculture by F. C. Bartell, associate drainage engineer.

"Wake county," said Mr. Bartell, "is the home of the Mangum terrace. During the past week two moving picture photographers from the United States department of agriculture at Washington have been here completing a film which will be released shortly."

"The Mangum terrace is recognized as a standard for farm use. It has many unique features. It has a broad base and is graded so as to allow a slow flow of water that will prevent washing and allow no land to be lost to cultivation."

"The film," said Mr. Bartell, "will consist of two and a half or three reels and will be standardized for use in the teaching of up to date drainage methods."

Attempt To Rob Store Here Fails

An attempt to rob Quinn-Miller's store was frustrated early this morning when Officers Nobles and Wooten appeared on the scene and the negro who was attempting to enter the store made his escape.

The back windows had been broken out, and everything was ready for the robbery. The negro went to the front of the store to see if the coast was clear, and was seen by the officers who began investigating affairs. The store had not been entered.

Development At Geneva & Great Shock To Many

London, March 13.—(AP)—Developments at Geneva have given a shock to those here who had built hopes on a new era of international peace and security arising from the meeting of the League of Nations assembly to elect Germany to membership. April government and liberal papers fiercely denounce Sir Austin Chamberlain, accusing him of supporting French intrigue. The Daily News says it will be a public scandal if Austria's attitude in Geneva does not end his official career.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

"The Mirage—and the Pool."

Isaiah 35: 7:—"The parched ground shall become a pool."

That is a fine promise.

You remember last summer when, after a prolonged season of drought, the blessed rain came and the dry ground became a pool, and the flowers that were wilting and withering revived again, and became full of beauty and fragrance.

But that refreshing picture was not what the prophet saw. The Revised Version gives us a more correct translation, and a rather different idea—"The mirage shall become a pool."

The reference is, of course, to that tantalizing experience that so often baffles travelers through the desert. One very common form the mirage takes is that of a great brimming, shimmering lake, in a lovely green oasis, fringed with palm trees.

The parched, weary traveler has a vision of water, cool and abundant. His lagging steps are quickened. Very soon he will reach it, and his dry and blistered throat will be refreshed.

But alas! At every step he takes the vision recedes; until at last comes the painful realization that there is nothing there but the hot burning sands.

The traveler realizes that he has been deceived and cheated and fooled. Readers of the life of David Livingstone will remember how he had such experiences in the deserts of Africa.

Now Isaiah says: "The mirage shall become a pool"—Of course his immediate reference is to the experience that would baffle the returning exiles on their homeward way. That is the primary meaning of his words. But we may give them a wider and more personal application.

We are all travelers, whether we will or not.

If we commit ourselves to God, taking Him as our guide, then for us, in far more wonderful ways than for the Hebrew exiles of old, the great promises of the prophet shall be fulfilled.

The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for us, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. The thing that mocks and cheats us is only a phantom and a semblance at the best; and it shall become a refreshing pool at which we may quench our thirst.

1. The Quest for Satisfaction.

How much of human experience, without God, is just this eager following after what promises satisfaction, but brings disappointment. So much is promised; so little given. Some men imagine they can find satisfaction in following the baser impulses of their own hearts. But the gratification of the passions and lusts of life is only a mirage that cheats them.

Others think they can find it in material goods and accumulated riches. But these, in themselves, do not satisfy.

Yet others have sought satisfaction in fame, in distinction, in knowledge and culture, or in the ties of tender affection and home relationships.

These may be notable, or even noble, aims, but, apart from God, they are only alluring and disappointing mirages. Thousands of human biographies prove that God, not in cruelty but in love, forbids all these things to yield satisfaction to us as long as we refuse to acknowledge Him. But countless men and women can testify that it is gloriously true that with Him the mirage may become a pool.

2. The Quest For Salvation.

Deep down in the consciousness of men everywhere is this sense of the need for salvation. It may be overlaid, forgotten, put aside—but it is there. Sometimes a man tries to obtain it by careful observation of certain laws, rites and ceremonies.

Then there is the man—perhaps the most common of all—who thinks salvation is to be obtained by simply doing his best. "After all, what more can I do?" he says.

Yet the years go past, and somehow or other that man knows he is not nearer salvation. Like Tom Hood, he cries—"And now it gives me little joy

To know I'm further off from heaven Than when I was a boy."

Yet we know how gloriously in this Quest for Satisfaction the mirage may become a pool, and the thirst of the soul is quenched.

Not by legal observance, or penance, or trying to do one's best, but by the acceptance of Christ's invitation is sin pardoned and salvation found. The word of Jesus is still true:—"If any man thirst, let him come unto ME and drink." All others will only mock and deceive. Let him turn to ME.

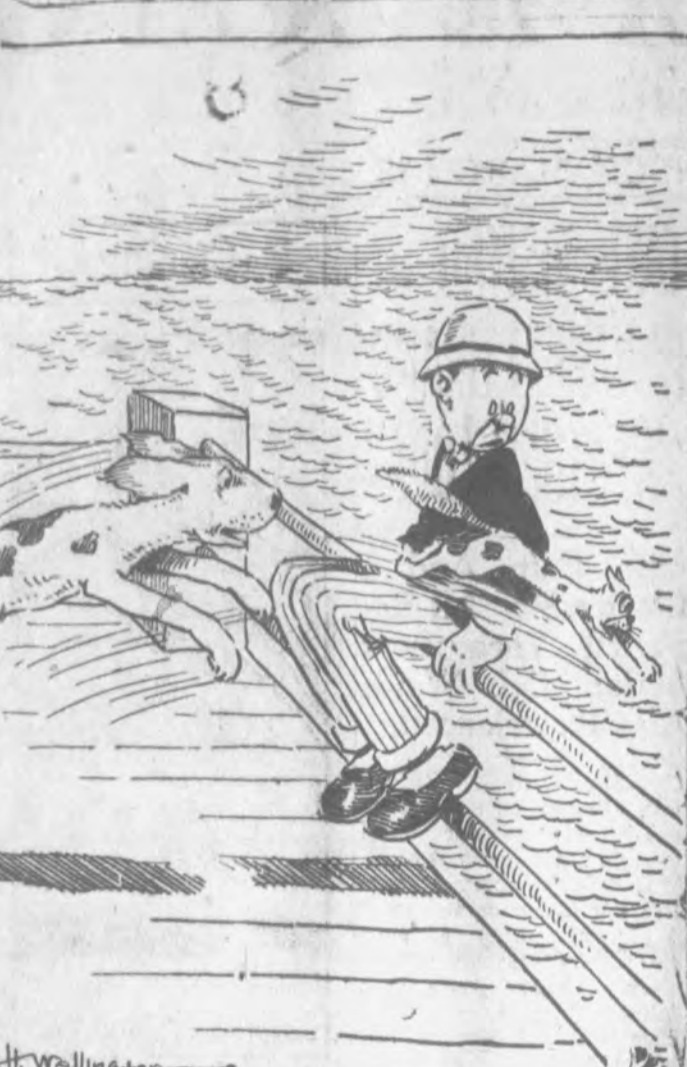

"I came to Jesus, and I drank Of that life giving stream; My thirst was quenched, my soul revived,

And now I live in Him."

3. The Quest for Social Redemption.

Isaiah was thinking, not only of the individual, but of the whole body politic. And men today are follow-

—and the Worst is Yet to Come

H. Wellington

ing mirages with regard to the redemption of society. They have expected too much from the panaceas offered. Secular education, improved environment, corrective legislation, enforced prohibitions—these may allure us, but apart from God they will only cheat and mock us.

4. The Quest for Immortality.

"If a man die, shall he live again?" Oh, how that problem has vexed and baffled the mind of man! Plato wrote a wonderful argument for immortality; but in the presence of a personal bereavement, or when face to face with death, the philosophy of the wisest is but a mirage. We need the assurance of Jesus who "brought life and immortality to light."

In Him this promise, "The mirage shall become a pool"—is most truly realized and fulfilled.

"O, Christ, He is the fountain, The deep sweet well of love The stream on earth I've tasted, More deep I'll drink above"

The east and west Gold Star trail across the state will be completely marked by Memorial Day, according to Mrs. Lou F. McHenry, member of the commission appointed by Governor John Hammill to create a memorial for Iowa's World War victims by placing standards along the highway each bearing the name of a dead hero.

So far, Mrs. McHenry reports, thirteen counties have subscribed their quota along White Way (No. 7) the road designated from east to west and other counties are fast completing their work.

Later markers will be placed along the Jefferson highway, which has been designated as the north and south trail.

EMBEZZLEMENT OF MILLIONS IN RUSSIAN CO-OPERATIVE

Moscow, March 13.—(AP)—Embezzlements amounting to $5,000,000 occurred in the soviet cooperative societies during the last year, said the director of the All-Russian Central Union of Cooperative Organizations. More than 13,000 officials connected with these bodies will be tried.

Similar irregularities are reported in the trade union organizations. Embezzlement of funds, corruption and frauds generally are alarmingly prevalent. Scores of guilty officials already have been sentenced to long terms of imprisonment.

DICK BARTHELMESS REGISTERS NEW HIT

Richard Barthelmess, whose newest production, "Shore Leave," is to show at White Theatre Monday and Tuesday, is one of the few stars who plays an active part in working out his own career.

Although his screen work absorbs a great deal of his time, Barthelmess manages to find opportunities to see all the Broadway plays and to read the leading current books. He selects most of his own motion picture vehicles and plays an active part in developing them for the silver screen.

Barthelmess has lofty aims for himself. His performance of the young sailor in "Shore Leave" is a distinct step in this direction, particularly as it follows such contrasting roles as the dashing young West Pointer of "Classmates," the distraught husband of "New Toys," and the young composer broken on the wheel of life in "Soul-Fire."

Dorothy Mackaill is Dick's leading woman in "Shore Leave."

MOLASSES ON RAILROAD TRACK RUINED SOUTH AFRICAN SCHEDULES

Cape Town, South Africa.—(INS)—When a train from the northeast steamed into Durban 85 minutes late the officials were astonished to learn that the reason for the delay was treacle on the line.

Investigations up the line found this to be true. The treacle was found in a large tank on one of the trucks of a goods train, and from some cause or another the tank leaked and the metals over a considerable distance, became coated with the liquid.

The passenger train, on reaching the affected portion of the line, quickly slowed down, and at a slight gradient came to a standstill altogether. The wheels revolved, but the train did not budge.

This went on for half an hour, when another train came along and

UNCENSORED MOVIES GIVE NEAR EAST DISTORTED IDEA OF THINGS IN AMERICA

Chicago, March 13.—(INS)—Over in Arabia, the land of burning sands, sparse water supplies, camels and flaming sheiks. They like their moving picture shows. Why shouldn't they?

any film which censors will not allow to be shown in this country are served a natural in Arab, in fact, throughout the Near East, according to Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, who has just returned from a long tour of that part of the world. Accordingly, Dr. Wright says the moving pictures are creating a distorted opinion of America.

Most Brides Know Little About Cooking

Chicago, March 13.—(INS)—Less than half of the 1,250,000 brides who set up housekeeping every year in the United States are competent, when they get married, to plan or prepare a meal unaided, according to Miss Meta H. Given, home economist and research work at the University of Chicago.

"If it were not for the culinary advantages at the disposal of brides, a husband's life would not be an easy one," said Miss Given.

"Not considering the modern devices to lighten housework, the principal advantage the present-day bride has over the one of twenty-five years ago lies in the wider variety of food products she can buy.

"In her pantry she stores a score of different kinds of food without fear of their spoiling. So the modern bride, even though she has little or no idea of cooking when she marries, starts her job as well equipped as the bride of a generation ago who knew meal-planning and preparing."

London, March 13.—(INS)—Abolition of the passport evil, one of the greatest hindrances to foreign travel, is to be considered in May at an international conference in Geneva.

It is possible that the nations which take part in the conference, including the United States, will agree to do away with the present laborious system of obtaining passports from Foreign Offices, abolish visas altogether, and authorize the issuance of passports, at a nominal fee, from postoffices and police stations.

The conference is to be held under the auspices of the League of Nations, which has pointed out that public opinion, particularly in economic circles, expects the conference to take a step forward to the abolition, to the widest possible extent, of the passport system and "to mitigate considerably the disadvantages and expense which that system entails for the relations between people, and for international trade facilities."

The Geneva conference will, first of all, consider the best means of hastening the gradual abolition of the passport regime, as, for instance, by reciprocal agreements between various countries—a method which already has produced some results. Should the conference, however, agree to maintain the present system, it will have to decide what facilities the governments are prepared to grant to make the issuance of passports and visas easier.

The conference will also consider the present frontier control of passports and visas and suggest improvements so as to diminish the immense inconvenience which travelers encounter, especially in Europe, in passing from one country to another.

Leave cosmetics alone in the order that has gone out to the thousands of waitresses employed by London's largest chain of restaurants.

"Take care of your hair and cultivate a well-groomed appearance," the girls were told. "Whatever your complexion, let it be natural. There are personal charms you can cultivate; you can keep your head and hair nice and hold yourself well. These things are far more likely to be admired than the made-up face."

The girls were also warned against fancy shoe-buckles, jewels, and large combs of the Spanish type.

The sailing of $25,000,000 in gold is not worth anything—according to the British Admiralty.

Captain Godfrey Unsworth, located the Laurentic for the Admiralty, enabled them to take off its precious cargo, but officials do not regard his services as worthy of any recognition.

Unsworth was a pilot in Irish water, when the Laurentic struck a German mine and sunk in 1917. He rescued the ship's crew, but suffered so much from exposure that he had to be admitted to the Londonberry Hospital.

In the two years he was lying there the Admiralty sent out one expedition after another, to locate the ship. All failed. Then Unsworth insisted on leaving his sick bed to take part in the search.

His knowledge of Irish waters enabled him quickly to discover the wreck and buoy the spot, making possible the recent successful salvage operations.

But the Admiralty regard this feat as all in a day's work so far as Unsworth is concerned, for they have offered him no reward of any kind.

CABLE LETTER

London, March 13.—(AP)—One of England's meanest men makes his living by slipping on banana skins outside fruit shops and then exacting damages from the trades people.

The existence of this gentleman and his skin game was revealed by E. L. Vinden, vice president of the London and Counties Retail Fruiters' and Florists' association.

Mr. Vinden also disclosed that so many damage claims, honest as well as spurious are made against fruit dealers that they have entered into a novel insurance scheme which protects them against claims up to $10,000.

The banana skin lives up to its tradition as a menace to pedestrians, but Mr. Vinden pointed out that orange pips are also famous for upsetting people, while there are real risks in spinach and cabbage and even a tiny bear contains enough sap to cause a hard fall.

The fruiter's insurance covers not only falls, but also protects the dealers in the case of claims arising from ptomaine poisoning and even from suits over the tearing of a woman's dress on an orange or onion box.

Peter Pan has grown up and become a publisher. He is Peter Davies, the foster son of Sir James M. Barrie who inspired the tale that has delighted children the world over for a quarter of a century.

The first book published by Mr. Davies is an artistic reprint of Brillat-Savarin's "The Psychology of Taste."

Peter Davies and his three brothers were adopted by Sir James upon the death of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Davies, who were great friends of the novelist. One of the Davies boys was killed in the war.

Another was drowned while bathing at Oxford. Peter Davies' only surviving brother, Nicholas, recently became engaged to the Honorable Mary Beatrice James, second daughter of Lord and Lady Northbourne.

Gilbert Frankau, the novelist, has drawn a delicate distinction for visiting British literature in the United States. "On my trip to America this spring, I shall speak, not lecture," he said. "What is the difference?" he was asked.

"You lecture for money and you speak when you're asked," replied Mr. Frankau who will go to Hollywood to see how films are produced.

Paris, March 13.—(AP)—Regardless of whether the Briand family has a prime minister or not, it does have the distinction of having provided three "queens" for the mid-lent celebration at Pornichet, in South Brittany, near the spot where Briand was born.

Their majesties of a single day—Yvonne Briand, 17, who was elected the "Mimosa Queen" and her 16 year old twin sisters, Renee and Suzanne, chosen "Violet" and "Comelia" queens—are daughters of a locksmith, a cousin of Aristide Briand.

The Marshal of France over 79 years are in danger of losing their active jobs. The war ministry is considering a measure for the rejuvenation of the whole army staff and in order to make way for younger officers in staff and inspection work it is necessary to get rid of some of the older men.

The measure under consideration would retire Marshals Joffre, Foch, Lyautey and Fayolle.

These marshals, as well as Petain and Franchet d'Esperey, are supposedly in active service. Each of them has some task of inspection to perform and each has his own personal staff. Petain and Franchet d'Esperey, however, are the only ones who have important jobs. The former is designated commander in chief of the army in case of war and the second is designated to command a group of armies.

If the retirement of Joffre, Foch, Lyautey and Franchet is decided upon the whole war council will be revised, as they are ex-officio members so long as they are in active service. Younger officers will be named to succeed them, though it is reported on excellent authority that General Sarrail, who himself reaches the fatal age of 10 in April, will be one of the chosen, even though he can serve only a brief moment. This satisfaction is demanded by political friends as compensation for his recall from the post of high commissioner in Syria.

The wireless is being used for the first time in France for religious propaganda. The Lenten sermons of Father Sampo, the eloquent preacher of Notre Dame cathedral, are being broadcast, while loud speakers vary his words out to the place de Notre Dame for the benefit of those unable to get inside.

Father Sanson is called the most eloquent preacher in the country of France. He succeeded another popular pulpit orator, Father Janvier. His Sunday morning sermons pack the cathedral.

Berlin, March 13.—(AP)—An enterprising American chewing gum salesman was responsible for the presence of an unexpected royal guest at a recent ball given by the American colony of Berlin. Seeing a stranger wandering about the lobby of the hotel, the salesman introduced himself.

"I'm Prince Henry; I'm looking for a party," said the stranger.

Although doubtful about the princely title, the salesman ushered the prince into the American ballroom, unaware that he was anxiously awaited at another ball in the same hotel by a distracted German hostess.

American consular officials recognized the stranger as being Prince Henry of the Netherlands, made feverish efforts toward his entertainment and introduced him to the American Ambassador and Mrs. Schumann. The prince danced with several American girls and evidently enjoyed himself so much that he forgot his other engagement. In fact, he stayed until two o'clock in the morning.
