

REVIVAL SERVICES CONTINUE ATTRACT LARGE CROWDS

Last Night's Sermon On the "Elder Son," One of Most Interesting and Inspiring of Series

Another large audience was present at last night's revival services in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church and heard Rev. E. L. Hillman preach a strong sermon on "The Elder Son." Mr. Hillman took his text from the 15th chapter of St. Luke. Mr. Coston again delighted the large audience with a solo, "Nothing Between Me and My Saviour."

Mr. Hillman declared that something about the Elder Son is akin to many of us. The return of the prodigal son was beautifully portrayed, and the speaker told of the elder brother's point of view, and declared that the elder son was the more contemptible. The unforgiveness, the anger, the obstinacy of the elder brother were pictured. To be forgiven of sins we must be forgiving, sympathize with a brother in his weakness. The speaker declared that we will never be a power if we don't have forgiveness. The narrowest, the poorest specimen of a Christian life is on that goes with the unforgiving spirit. God is willing and ready at all times to lift us out of sin.

The sermon was inspiring and greatly enjoyed.

This morning's sermon at 10 o'clock was a lesson on exhortation to humility through example of Christ. A special invitation was extended in behalf of the young people, who were urged to attend the services. The parents were also urged to encourage their children in finding opportunity to attend the services.

The theme of the morning's discussion was "Greatness in Service." Seeking reputation for reputation's sake is little worth to us, declared the speaker. The world is looking for the person who can be of greatest service and usefulness.

Jesus never got into any exclusive group. He didn't make any great big-do about coming from God. The thing that gets hold of us today is the fact that Jesus is so great in his humiliation. Egotism is excluded from the life of Jesus. Jesus was acquainted with the same problems and perplexities that we are acquainted with in this life. Jesus had so much of God in Him that He could wait for folks to find him out. Let's get in touch with the folks about us and help to serve. Any person in our town can live a selfish life, declared Mr. Hillman, it takes greatness to live unselfish lives.

Mr. Coston sang a solo, "The Greatest of All." He is an effective and earnest singer. His gospel in song is an inspiring feature of the services.

All Christian people in town are requested to pray for the meeting. All churches are extended a special invitation to attend and take part in the services.

MEDICAL SOCIETY IN SPLENDID MEET HERE LAST NIGHT

Session Featured by Talks by Drs. Outland and Thompson; Largely Attended

Drs. J. C. Greene and C. J. Ellen were hosts to the Pitt County Medical Society at the home of Mrs. W. H. Long, on Thursday evening. The meeting was largely attended and was very enjoyable.

After a short business session in which many matters of importance were discussed, Dr. Outland in a most interesting manner, told of the clinic for crippled children which will be held here on May 20th. Dr. O. L. Miller, surgeon of the State Orthopaedic Hospital, will be here to examine the children. Doctors from seven adjoining counties have been invited to attend the clinic.

Dr. Malcolm Thompson gave a short talk on "Surgical Diseases of the Abdomen." His talk was very instructive and helpful. The ladies of the Episcopal church served a tempting supper.

The June meeting will be held in this city, with Drs. Outland and Wooten, hosts.

The following members attended last night's meet: Drs. Skinner, Frizzelle, Dickinson, Basnight, Elen, Johnston, Dawson, Nobles, Schultz, G. Dixon, Thompson, Garrington, Smith, Williams, Greene, Laughinghouse Pace, Outland, Jones, Hooker and Morrill.

Local Tobacco Market Attracts Wide Attention

That the Greenville Tobacco Market is attracting wide attention is shown in the following articles published in the Richmond Times-Dispatch:

"Greenville, N. C., is preparing for the biggest tobacco year in its history after again standing as the second largest market in the world for bright tobacco, declared K. W. Cobb, secretary and treasurer of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, who was in Richmond yesterday. Situated in Pitt county, the largest producer of bright tobacco, according to Mr. Cobb, practically every auction company is preparing for a record year in 1926.

"More than 46,000,000 pounds of $26.02, bringing a total of $1,202,400, at an average price of $26.02, bringing a total of more than $12,000,000. Sales in 1926, when there will be eight floors in operation against six in 1925, and when there will be so be four sets of buyers, are expected to reach 65,000,000 pounds with a normal crop. The crop up to this time is declared by Mr. Cobb to be about three weeks late. Setting is going forward slowly because of the dry weather.

"The eight floors will in 1926 offer eight acres of space for sales. J. N. Gorman and Sons, formerly of Richmond, are building a new warehouse. Additions are being built by four other firms. New redvane units are being added by E. B. Ficklen and Company and Person and Garrett W. C. Thomas and Company are making improvements. General improvements are being made by all of the firms."

John T. King Died Last Night

Bridgeport, Conn., May 14.—(AP)—John T. King, long a leading figure in Republican National politics, is dead. Death came late last night after a four day illness of pneumonia.

King for a long time was Republican National Committeeman. His name was mentioned in the oil leasing acquaintanceship with many of those involved and at his death he was under indictment in New York with Harry M. Daugherty. Attorney General under Harding, and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, during the Harding administration. These indictments grew out of an investigation of the transfer of $7,000,000 of funds from the Government to a Swiss Corporation.

Conference of M. E. Church Adjourns in Uproar

Memphis, Tenn., May 14.—(AP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church adjourned in an uproar here today after an hour and a half debate on the adoption of proposed constitution, during which delegates divided along strictly unification and anti-unification lines while discussing a clause giving laymen the power to call for a separate vote in annual conference.

Just before this question had come up, conference had a heated debate on the phrase of "The Holy Catholic Church" in the creed. The question came up in the reading of the second article of the proposed constitution which was the special order of the day.

M. A. Childers, of San Antonio, Texas, moved to strike out the phrase and substitute "Universal Church of God." Dr. W. A. Christian moved to mark the phrase "Holy Catholic" with a star and an added footnote explaining that the phrase did not mean the Roman Catholic Church.

Dr. Christian's motion prevailed when the vote was taken.

Just before the vote on this change had been taken, Dr. J. A. Anderson, of Forest City, Arkansas, moved to strike out all of the articles which included statements of faith, creed, and rules and substitute the sentence "our doctrinal standards," which consist of the 25 articles of faith of Wesley's sermons and Wesley's notes on the New Testament.

Dr. Anderson spoke on his motion amid questions and heckling. He declared that the church was imitating the parishes who outlined their creed in minute details.

The motion was laid on the table without further debate.

Memphis, Tenn., May 14.—(AP)—Consideration of constitution for the Government of the Methodist Episcopal Church probably the most serious subject confronting the general conference of the church, was to begin after the conference came to order this morning. A special committee of 25, appointed by the bishops yesterday, working until late last night, prepared the report. Three drafts of the constitution were in the hands of the committee last night.

RADIO STATIONS TRYING LOCATE THE NORGE TODAY

Great Anxiety Caused by Delay of the Dirigible in Arriving at Nome in Its Polar Flight From Spitzbergen

Seattle, Wash., May 14.—(AP)—Groping in the icy vastness of the Arctic "blind spot" a dozen Pacific Coast radio stations today are trying to locate the dirigible Norge which is many hours overdue in Nome in its polar flight from Spitzbergen. What has happened to Captain Roald Amundsen and his seventeen companions aboard the airship was a question many were eagerly asking, but which no one in the North West was able to answer.

It is known that Amundsen passed over the North Pole at 7 p. m. Tuesday, Eastern Standard Time. It was reported that the dirigible was cited over Point Barrow on the Arctic Coast of Alaska at 1:30 a. m. yesterday.

Five times Wednesday night and once yesterday morning the United States Navy's powerful radio station at St. Paul's Island, Alaska, reported hearing messages from the Norge. The last time was at 2:29 a. m. yesterday.

Since that hour there has been nothing but silence and speculation. Was the Norge forced to land? Is it cruising around in the Arctic on a tour of exploration? Has it been blown far off its course and is it wondering a derelict over the same territory with which there is no communication?

Those knowing Amundsen are only slightly fearful of the worst today. They recall a previous adventure of his into the Arctic some years ago when he discovered the North West passage and dropped from sight for more than two years. Then one day a bearded unkempt musher appeared at the lonely Government telegraph station at Eagle City, Alaska, and filed a long cablegram to the Norwegian Government. The operator declined to send it as he had instructions to send no collect messages from parties he did not know. He just messaged his chief at Seattle that a "crazy man" had tried to get him to send a long cablegram half way around the world and that he had a good laugh over it.

The chief signal officer in the Seattle cable office heard about it and laughed over the incident with a newspaper man whom he had out to dinner. The newspaper man began to speculate over the incident and offered to pay the toll on the telegram if he could look at it when it came in. It was Amundsen's report to the Norwegian Government that he had threaded his way along the North Coast of America and discovered the North West passage, the short way to China, sought by adventurers for centuries.

Amundsen's acquaintances suggested today the explorer may be preparing to spring another surprise on the world. That he was not satisfied with flying over the last unexplored portions of the globe, but wanted to look it over thoroughly and had turned back to survey it again.

Dogs Now Eligible Etenants

Vienna, May 14.—(AP)—Admission of dogs has brought joy to the hearts of the future tenants of 25,000 model apartments built and owned by Vienna. But a feeling of bitterness remains with others who were on the waiting list, for they had their pets put to death to avoid risk of losing the first apartment that might become vacant.

BEST MUSICIAN BEGINS TO STUDY BEFORE AGE OF 16

London, May 14.—(AP)—A musician cannot be made after the age of fourteen, is the declaration of Dr. John E. Borland, for seventeen years the directing master of a music class of half a million children in the London elementary schools, who has retired.

Dr. Borland said the English really are a musical nation, but children who are naturally musical have so little chance to acquire a real love of music that it is not strange the English do not excel along musical lines.

GRAND LODGE OF I. O. O. F. TO MEET IN FAYETTEVILLE

Will Convene in 83rd Annual Session On Next Tuesday for a Three-Day Session

Fayetteville, May 14.—(AP)—The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of North Carolina, will convene in its eighty-third annual session here next Tuesday afternoon, May 18, for a three-day session.

In addition to several hundred Odd Fellows from all sections of North Carolina, several distinguished visitors are expected from other jurisdictions. Among them are General Ernest W. Bradford, Deputy Grand Sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, Washington, D. C.; H. Dorsey Etchinson, Grand Representative from the Grand Lodge of Maryland; and William T. Galliher, Grand Representative from the District of Columbia.

The first session will occur at 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, when the Grand Lodge degree will be conferred upon new members. The reports of the Grand Lodge officers will be presented at this time, and the various committees for the session will be named.

Grand Master David Goster, of Fayetteville, will preside at the public meeting in the new Cumberland county courthouse on Tuesday night. Mr. Goster will be assisted by Cumberland county Odd Fellows in extending a welcome to the visiting Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

The Rebekah State Assembly, the women's department of the organization, will be in session at the same time.

A feature of the entertainment program will be a trip to Fort Bragg, near Fayetteville. The visitors will be shown over the reservation and an exhibition drill will be staged for their benefit.

An interesting feature of the program is expected to be the fraternal parade at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. All branches of the organization will participate in this colorful event. The members of the Patriarchs Militant organization will appear in full dress uniforms, and this will lend an especial note of beauty and dignity to the pageant, it is said.

John L. Wade, of Fayetteville, chairman of the local parade committee, and John W. Clapp, of Greensboro, Grand Marshal of the Grand Lodge, are working out the details for the parade.

The degree staff from Lettittin Rebekah Lodge No. 3, of Wilmington, will confer the beautiful Rebekah degree in the ball room of a local hotel on Wednesday night, and those attending the Grand Lodge meeting will be privileged to witness this degree work.

The election of officers is expected to occur at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and the business of the session will probably be concluded about noon on Thursday.

Williamsburg, Va., May 14.—(AP)—The sesquicentennial celebration of the first steps toward the Declaration of Independence and the Virginia Bill of Rights will be held here May 15. President Coolidge and other prominent speakers are on the program.

It was in obedience to the resolution written by Patrick Henry, Edmund Pendleton, and Meriwether Smith. It was urged that the Continental Convention dissolve the United Colonies from all allegiance to the British Crown and prepare a plan of confederation.

TODAY

(Copyright 1926)
Sunshine, Cheap Power.
Norway Can Have It.
A Cruel Paragraph.
It's Over, for the Time.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The end of the British strike will make labor and capital, radicalism and conservatism thoughtful. Conservatism learns that labor, united, can tie up a nation. In other words, the machinery CAN stop.

Labor learns that to run a train off the track is spectacular, but doesn't help the train or any of the passengers.

Coal miners wanted fair pay and should have it. Government lacked will to put pressure on mine owners, and the strike has cost the nation, business men and workers enough to pay the miners what they wanted for many years.

American high finance was considerably worried by the British strike, this being an extremely small world, financially. Stocks went up when peace news came, like a toy balloon when the little boy forgets to hold on.

The greatest fight in industry was settled, as was to be expected, and as here outlined within very few days, without forcing humiliation on either side. When an artery is cut, it must be tied. No time to argue. And that strike cut a big artery in English prosperity. The loss of blood will be felt for some time.

The dirigible "Norge" passing over the North Pole yesterday, dropped close to the ice, and Amundsen lowered the Norwegian flag, then Ellsworth lowered the stars and stripes, and the Italian Hobbie lowered the Italian flag. The stars and stripes could afford to take second place on this occasion, for that flag had already been to the pole twice, ahead of all others, once with Peary on foot, then with Byrd by aeroplane.

The plucky Amundsen says "any land discovered in the Arctic on this trip will be claimed for Norway." He is welcome to the land, although two United States citizens saw it first. Looking down 2000 feet from his dirigible, he saw ice "cracking and screwing" and saw nothing else.

Some day those far Arctic lands will be warm and fertile, again, as the earth twists her position. That is thousands of years away. If you bought all the land around the pole for two dollars now, you'd sell it for warm weather, you would lose a frightful sum, figuring compound interest. Ten lumps of solid gold, each as big as this earth, wouldn't begin to make up the amount.

The thoughtful Rockefeller family know all about that. Standard Oil sent an expedition inside the Arctic circle, drove a well, proved that oil is there, then came back again. It would cost fifty million dollars to build a pipe line to that well, which wouldn't pay.

Henry Ford plans to "decentralize" big business, establishing small manufacturing plants in rural communities, small towns and villages. People live more cheaply and happily, work can be done more cheaply away from great labor markets where millions are crowded together, says Ford.

The gregarious nature of human beings, like that of prairie dogs, bats, and bees makes them like a crowd. Once they have lived in a great city it is hard to change them.

One thing is certain. Those that employ women in the cloak and suit, shirt waist and underwear lines especially, ought to establish factories on the Pacific Coast. There manufacturers will find a constant supply of workers, steadily increasing, and cheap electric power. The workers would find an all year mild climate, all year sunshine, no need of coal, cheap rents, cheap cost of living. The coast of California alone will some day have ten millions of workers in big and small communities.

It seems cruel to print this paragraph, but it is NEWS. Thousands of gallons of the best Moselle wines are going begging in Germany, lacking a buyer at any price. These light wines, properly mixed with mineral water, are lighter than beer and VERY cooling. You cannot get them, in this country. You cannot get them, in this country. You cannot get them, in this country.

"Weeks are sometimes required to get small parts for the European cars," Joseph said.

The game was a hit and run affair and mowed by frequent errors on both sides. A very slow exhibition of baseball.

Charlotte Woman Falls Ten Stories, She Will Recover

Charlotte, May 14.—(AP)—Physicians today indicated that Mrs. A. A. Barron, who fell ten stories from a window in the Hotel Charlotte yesterday would speedily recover and probably leave the hospital "within two weeks."

The woman, wife of the hotel physician, lost her footing while watering flowers and crashed through the window to the side walk below. She suffered only three fractured ribs, an examination disclosed.

Mrs. Barron never lost consciousness and chatted with her husband a few minutes after the accident.

Bill Creating National Parks Sent to Senate

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate today the bill creating the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia and the Great Smoky National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

The bill was passed without amendment and would authorize the Secretary of the Interior to accept titles to lands purchased by associations formed for that purpose in the three states.

Immediately after passing this bill the House also passed a bill providing for establishment of Mammoth Cave National Park in Kentucky. It now goes to the White House.

CONFERENCES TO BRING ORDER OUT OF CHAOS ARE HELD

Situation Growing Out of General Strike Shows Little Prospect of Betterment Today

London, May 14.—(AP)—The situation growing out of the general strike showed little, if any, material prospect of betterment today. Trade remained badly dislocated and it was everywhere realized that difficult problems of restoration of the nation's normal life would be extremely slow of solution, particularly because of the necessity to thresh out the controversy between the Trade Unions and employers' associations over the re-instatement of the men who quit their jobs when the general strike was called.

Much anxiety prevailed over the resentment which has been injected into the situation by the decision of employers, A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, is authority for the statement that the strike has been converted into a general lock-out through the announced declaration of some of the employers that they will re-employ their old hands only under certain conditions.

Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons has announced his intention of fulfilling all his promises with regard to further negotiations for peace, in the labor situation and also has made a strong appeal for conciliation and the avoidance of vindictiveness.

Several important conferences between those concerned in restoring industrial order out of the chaos were taking place today.

575,799 Bales of Cotton Consumed During April

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton consumed during April totaled 575,799 bales of lint and 61,952 of lintless, as compared with 634,593 of lint and 60,532 of lintless in March this year and 596,541 of lint and 59,253 of lintless in April last year, the census bureau announced today.

USE BULL RING TACTICS IN TEACHING NEW DANCE

London, May 14.—(AP)—West End dancing academies have been turned into bull rings for the purpose of teaching the paso doble.

"Be a torador" is the favorite expression with teachers. "Imagine you are confronted by a mad bull," says the teachers, in an effort to create the atmosphere of the new Spanish dance. "The first movement is a kind of promenade two-step—that's the torador entering the arena. Then a little fast footwork from left to right, as if watching and endeavoring to avoid the charge."

WHOSE VICTORY IN BRITAIN?

Peace in England comes on no terms that the bitter-enders can approve. To please the revolutionaries on the left edge of British labor this general strike would have had to end in overturning something. To please the die-hards on the right edge of British conservatism it would have had to end in a knock-down and drag-out fight which broke the back of trade-unionism in the British Isles forever.

It ends on no such terms. The trade unions explicitly and unreservedly withdraw their orders for a general strike, and so comply with Mr. Baldwin's ultimatum. But the decision to end the strike comes not from a trade union movement beaten into the ground but a trade-union movement which has successfully conducted negotiations outside of the Government, but with the blessings of the Government, upon the original points at issue in the mine dispute.

Who won this strike? Both the Government and the trade unions. Who lost this strike? The men who were going to smash labor and the men who were going to smash capital, whether or not it was necessary to smash England in the bargain.

The essence of the settlement, in its application to the original controversy between miners and mine-owners, come to this: the fundamental problem of reorganizing the coal industry is not to be deferred for consideration to some future date but is to be attacked directly. To this end are addressed the various proposals of the agreement negotiated through the Archbishop of Canterbury and Sir Herbert Samuel of the Royal Coal Commission. Thus it is provided that there is to be no cutting of wages pending assurance that the Coal Commission's reorganization measures have been adopted. Thus it is provided, again, that the Government's coal subsidy be renewed for a "reasonable" period, presumably long enough to cover the time required for reorganization. The net effect of the settlement is to take the problem of reorganization into hand at once, and not sidetrack it for the future—with the only immediate reorganization to be a cut in wages.

Since this was the chief point in the program of the general trade-union movement when it called its sympathetic strike to aid the miners, there is no use pretending—for the sake of drawing a moral which is not there—that on its own chosen issue the trade-union movement did not win. It did win on this issue, and win within these limits what it set out to win: namely, success in forcing reorganization of the coal industry all along the line—something which the miners could not have accomplished by themselves—rather than reorganization some day, maybe, with nothing happen now except a wage-cut to $11 weekly.

The question which arises necessarily is this: has the success which attended labor's use of the general strike in this respect and to this degree established the general strike as a weapon to which labor will now turn constantly in the future? Will labor attempt to wave this weapon over the head of Britain whenever labor wishes mightily to accomplish a specific end?

It would be rash at this distance and with this lack of perspective upon a historic controversy to make sweeping guesses as to what has and has not happened to the mechanics of government and the mechanics of labor in Great Britain. But certainly, this much seems to be true:

First, that the trades-union movement has not won a victory on its own chosen issue of an industrial reorganization without paying a price for that victory; a price so high—in the resentment of a public which found itself tied hand and foot, in the constant invitation to violent men to try their hand at violence, and in the ever-present danger both to public order and to Parliamentary labor leadership—as to warn sober men against the use of such a weapon.

Second, it can be said that the points which labor has won have been won not at the expense of a Government which stood firm on its own principle, but at the expense of an industry which successive Governments themselves have attempted for a decade to reorganize.

Third, it is clear that on his own side and on his own chosen issue Mr. Baldwin has scored just as good a victory as has been won by labor. Mr. Baldwin demanded that labor call off its general strike. Labor has called off its general strike, and surrendered its sword in public to the Government precisely as Mr. Baldwin asked that its sword be surrendered. It is true that this surrender followed certain informal negotiations outside of the Government. But what more could Mr. Baldwin have done to drive home his point? These men reaffirming their faith in Parliamentary government, leading a strike which was losing strength, came to him ready to surrender. Could he have refused to accept surrender because they had been negotiating elsewhere? That is unthinkable. These men met his terms. For a Prime Minister who had never wished this crisis to destroy his adversaries provided it left intact the British state, that was enough. The rest was common sense.

Victory? Credit to a nation which never lost its sanity, its courage or its magnanimity under fire.—New York Times.

- That:—TOMORROW is a word too often used in framing an excuse.
- That:—SEEDS never grow until planted.
- That:—DOLLARS do not increase unless they are set to earning interest.
- That:—TO WAIT for the ship to come in may result in a big disappointment.
- That:—PUTTING AWAY a portion of your income as soon as you receive it is the only safe way to keep it.
- That:—POSTPONING starting an account until you have a large sum may result in never having one.
- That:—YOUR SURPLUS will grow faster here than in your pocket.

NIGHT'S REST DISTURBED?

Is Nature's way of telling you "danger is ahead." A healthy bladder does not act at night. Mrs. G. W. Bushong, 1012 S. East St., Bloomington, Ill. says: "Lithiated Buchu tablets relieved me of bladder weakness. Was disturbed twenty to twenty-five times at night. I feel I am well. I tried many treatments, submitted to operation, and much torture. In one week after taking Lithiated Buchu I could notice improvement. I will be glad to tell or write my experience." Lithiated Buchu is not a patent medicine. The formula is on the bottle. It cleanses the bladder as epsom salts do the bowels. The tablets cost 2 cents each at all drug stores. POOR INTERNAL TRADE CAUSE OF BANKRUPTCIES OF CZECH BUSINESS MEN

Prague, May 14.—(INS)—The bankruptcy court is flourishing in Prague as it is in most of the European countries. The official bankruptcies in Czechoslovakia for March numbered 54 as against 40 for February and 41 the month before, while the arrangements for creditors were 242 against 201 for February. The total liabilities, however, amounted to only ten million kronen. The reasons for such proceedings in most cases were given as poor internal trade conditions and the lack of foreign markets which is a general complaint all over Europe.

England's Pedigree Pedlars Busy Fixing for U. S. Tourists

London, May 14.—(INS)—England's "pedigree pedlars" are busily engaged in learning up their line of talk in anticipation of this year's American tourist invasion.

Working on the theory that many Americans will give almost any money to find out whether their ancestors went over with the Mayflower, these "pedigree pedlars" specialize in supplying them with bogus pedigrees of family trees. That many Americans are gullible enough to be caught with this trick is indicated by the fact that each year the pedlars make enough to keep themselves in comfort throughout the winter.

The pedlars generally fasten themselves on to a like looking American and after a great deal of small talk about the Mayflower, the Pilgrim Fathers, and such-like chatter, throw out a hint that they are able to hunt up pedigrees expeditiously and not at too great a cost.

The hint is generally taken, the bait swallowed, and the result is that another American goes home convinced that he has at long last discovered that his ancestors went over with the first migrants, whereas actually he is in possession of a very fictitious tree.

"The usual method adopted by the swindler is to hunt up some ancient family of the same name and supply the pedigree of that family as being that of his client," said an official of the College of Heralds, the official searchers of English records, to I. N. S. "They generally have the names of the leading emigrants who went over with the Mayflower at their finger tips."

"An American can ensure that he will be given authentic pedigree by coming to us and giving us all the facts he can. He will find it cheaper in the long run. It should be pointed out, though, that there are a number of genuine persons who undertake searches for pedigrees whose responsibility is beyond question."

country, but you can get plenty of bootleg fluid containing forty per cent alcohol, much fusel oil and other poison.

One of the best alcohol distillers in the United States tells this true story: "We manufacture alcohol, millions of gallons, denature it by adding poison, sell it for sixty cents a gallon.

"A syndicate of bootleggers offering to buy our entire output for nine dollars a gallon, guaranteeing us against possibility of detection. It was simple, they would have their own man put in our distillery as Government Inspector and he would pour the denaturing poison down the sink.

"Bootleggers buy the sixty cent denatured stuff, redistill it, take out part, not all of the poison, and the public drinks THAT.

Hundreds of thousands of gallons of alcohol which we can export without any poison added go to China, where it is changed into Scotch whiskey and brought back by the bootleggers."
