FIFTEEN ARE KILLED IN TRAIN COLLISION

EVANS DENIED NEW COUNT BY STATE BOARD

Judge Neal Declares Decision of Board Is Unanimous, in Announcement

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—Solicitor W. F. Evans' petition for a recount of the primary vote in Wake County was denied here today by the State Board of Elections. The decision was unanimous, Judge W. H. Neal, Chairman of the Board, said in making the announcement.

Defeated for the Democratic nomination for solicitor in the seventh judicial district by Leon S. Brantford by a margin of 202 votes, Mr. Evans appealed to the Wake County Board of Elections for a recount of the vote in Wake County. His petition was denied by that body and he appealed to the State Board, which heard his petition yesterday.

The Board met for a short time early today, completed its digest of the testimony submitted and then announced its decision.

Another appeal for a recount—that of F. C. Brinson, of Pamlico county, was likewise denied by the Board today.

Mr. Brinson was the unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from Pamlico.

Following announcement of its decisions in the two cases the Board adjourned.

Saloon League Hotly Debated In the Senate

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—The methods and policies of the anti-saloon league were debated hotly before the Senate campaign funds committee today with Wayne B. Wheeler in the witness chair and Senator Reed of Missouri, as the interrogator.

Beginning in a soft spoken exchange of questions and answers the encounter soon brought on a war of words with retorts flying swiftly back and forth across the table.

A crowd in which standing room was at a premium looked on tense and breathless.

Wheeler was called because of his public assertions that the League interest had contributed to the expenditures in Pennsylvania's recent $2,000,000 Republican primary. But before he came to that subject Reed ran the scale of the League's general policy and Wheeler's association with them.

The witness gave his salary as $600 a month and said it constituted his only source of income and denied that he had "interfered" in prohibition cases pending in the courts except by way of seeing to it that dry's efforts are not framed by the liquor people.

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Under a machine gun fusillade of questioning by James A. Reed, Senator from Missouri, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the anti-saloon league, maintained today before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee that the league had played on the legitimate role in politics, legislation and litigation arising under the dry laws.

The league's entire financial chest for 1925, the witness estimated, would not run over $150,000 to $200,000. He said that he himself received a salary of $600 a month from the organization and had no other source of income.

Several times Reed accused the witness of failure to make definite replies and asked that exact facts and figures be produced later for the committee. This Wheeler promised to do. Although the league leader was called as a result of his public statements about expenditures of the recent Pennsylvania primary, that subject was scarcely touched by Reed during the hour and a half Wheeler was on the stand before adjournment for luncheon. Just before the session closed the Senator began to

One or More From 10 Carolina Banks Under Indictment, Are Awaiting Trial

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—One or more officials of 10 North Carolina banks are now under indictment, awaiting trial, for violation of the State banking laws, according to I. H. Bailey, attorney to the Corporation Commission, and charged with the enforcement of the blue sky laws.

Mr. Bailey's duties include assisting the solicitor in the various districts in prosecuting cases of other bank law violation, but the connection he has compiled a list of the cases awaiting trial.

Some of the indictments followed failure of the banks; in other instances the official was charged with embezzlement or other bank law violation, but the bank's financial status was not materially affected. Some of the cases have been on the dockets for months, or even years.

The banks whose officials are awaiting trial are listed, in the order in which the cases are expected by Mr. Bailey to come up for trial.

Farmers and Merchants Bank of Henderson, Henderson, failed. The case is expected to come up for trial during the present term of Vance Superior Court.

See the King Penguins, 100,000,000 Melon. Clergymen's Opinions. The Messiah Predicted. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

A dozen King Penguins may be seen standing up straight in New York's zoological garden. First to come here alive from their cold home in the Antarctic, it is doubtful that they will survive the hot summer. Pay them a visit if you can.

They stand three feet high, looking like soldiers or clergymen, very solemn. And their breeding habits make you thoughtful. The hen Penguin lays only one white egg. If she laid it on the ground in her home climate it would freeze in half a minute. She ups her feet together, the egg on top of her feet, lets down over it a roll of feather covered fat from her stomach and the heat of the fat keeps the egg and her feet warm.

When she can't stand it any longer, the father Penguin slides up and the egg is swiftly switched to his feet and he lowers a roll of fat.

This causes modernists to suggest that the Penguin could not have been created in the Garden of Eden, with the other birds. That garden was warm, otherwise Adam and Eve, who had no roll of fat to cover them, could not have gone about naked.

Modernists, needless to say, criticize thoughtlessly. A power that could create the earth, sun, moon, stars, oceans, trees, vegetables, minerals, all the animals, birds, insects and man, in six days, by the mere utterance of a command, could easily supply in some corner of the garden a spot of antarctic for Penguins, Walruses and such.

Germany is torn asunder by the fight to take six hundred million dollars' worth of property from the former Kaiser and other royalties.

War may break out any minute between Russia and Rumania because of a quarrel over Bessarabia. Rumania wouldn't last long, and if she is relying on the League of Nations she is leaning on a broken reed. Europe is NOT peaceful.

Mrs. Annie Besant, head of the theosophists, says "Christ is coming soon and will hasten His return somewhat in order to inhabit the body of Krishnamurti." Krishnamurti is a young Indian of whom Mrs. Besant has a high opinion. If the founder of Christianity did return it would be hard to imagine Him entering the delicate, strange body of a sensitive young Hindu.

More happy times in Wall Street yesterday. Somebody bought 122, the price to 137 1/4. There is a big melon hidden away there: At least four hundred million dollars' worth of melon. But Judge Gary is by nature NOT a melon cutter, but a conservative. That is why "big steel" has got the $400,000,000 cash.

Europe wasn't so cheerful. The French franc dropped to a new low price for all time, and unless the French can find a way to stabilize their currency, that will impress outside nations, the franc will drop still lower. Bad judgment must be responsible for the franc's dilemma. No nation on earth is more thoroughly solvent.

The Reverend Dr. Young, shocked by the Pennsylvania election fund of $2,000,000, says public sentiment alone will end buying public offices.

The difficulty is that public sentiment doesn't know what's going on until it is done, and when public opinion does get any information it soon forgets it.

The Reverend Dr. Slaten expects the human race to change greatly in sixty years. "Our grand-children will make nature their teacher, rather than theology or philosophy." He also, says our grand children will believe in internationalism, which will replace the patriotism of today.

Australia Gets Eucharistic Meet

Chicago, June 17.—(AP)—Official announcement was made today that the 29th international Eucharistic Congress would be held in Sydney, Australia in 1928.

Things don't happen so rapidly. Patriotism, which means holding together and keeping what your ancestors have accomplished, will be necessary for many generations. As for making nature your teacher, without the help of theology or philosophy, nature can teach little unless the light of philosophy helps you understand and the light of inspiration makes it worth while. Primitive men had nature for teacher, and she only taught them to murder each other, and invent superstitions to justify it.

CINCINNATI LIMITED CRASHES INTO EXPRESS AT BLAIRSVILLE, PENN.

Smash-Up Occurred On Slight Curve Two Miles West of Blairsville Intersection; Two Locomotives Reduced to Mass of Twisted Wreckage; Sleeper Where Most of Victims Were Located is Completely Telescoped

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 17.—(AP)—Fifteen persons, including four trainmen and eleven passengers, were killed in the wreck of the Cincinnati Limited near Blairsville intersection, the Pennsylvania railroad officials said today after a careful check of all mortuary establishments to which the bodies had been removed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 17.—(AP)—Eighteen persons were killed when the Cincinnati Limited train No. 40, crashed into the Washington Express near Blairsville intersection shortly before midnight last night, Pennsylvania officials said today.

Of the 18 victims, nine bodies were recovered from the Cleveland sleeper. Three were trainmen. Five bodies were found in the club car of train No. 40 which was immediately behind the double-header locomotive pulling the Limited.

The smash occurred on a slight curve two miles west of Blairsville intersection, an important railroad center. Here the ground is level and the entire countryside is farm land. As daylight dawned, those at the scene were given their first real view of the wreck. Four main line tracks were ripped up and twisted for about 100 feet. The two locomotives on No. 40 were reduced to a mass of twisted wreckage, while the sleeper, in which most of the victims were located, was telescoped its full length. Inside this sleeper, another car had been pushed by the terrific impact. The two sleepers appeared as though one had been constructed around the other. Another sleeper was standing on its end with the rear section high in the air.

G. M. Sixsmith, superintendent of passenger transportation, said today that the smash-up occurred when the express halted on a broken air base could be repaired.

The flagman on Number 50, he said, went to the rear of the train to set off flares and the block signals were set against east-bound trains. T. W. Beecher, performed his duty as the express Number 40 bore into the express. Sixsmith said Beecher's flare, were found burning on the right-of-way.

Great crowds gathered at the scene of the wreck during the morning. Those in charge of the rescue work expressed the belief that additional bodies would be found, especially in the Cleveland sleeper, which was telescoped and which at dawn gave up nine dead.

COMMISSIONER WOULD SPEED UP COTTON PICKING

Says Financial Conservation of Cotton Picking Should Be Considered

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—A definite conclusion on the part of the Commissioner of Agriculture William A. Graham, that in the interest of financial conservation for the South, the time has come for earnest consideration of some plan whereby cotton may be picked by machinery is shown in an exchange of letters between him and Secretary W. M. Jardine, of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington.

A recent letter from the United States Department at Washington, in reply to his correspondence with the Secretary, shows that Commissioner Graham has interested authorities there in his proposal and has secured a promise of cooperation.

He asked that the Federal Department take up and give special study to bringing on the market an effective and reasonably priced machine to aid Southern farmers in picking their cotton without having to pay prices of from a dollar to two dollars for every hundred pounds of seed cotton picked.

"This department, of course, is interested, and will agree with you that a successful cotton picking device would overcome a very important agricultural problem," the Federal Secretary advised Commissioner Graham.

Twin Brothers Flip Coin for Honors; Tie for Valedictory

Boulter, Colo., June 16.—(INS)—The baffling problem of providing scholarships for twin brothers has been solved by a special meeting of the trustees of Colorado university, and as a result Keith and Kenneth Shields of Manitou, a suburb of Colorado Springs, will be able to continue together their pursuit of learning.

The Keith brothers, 18 years of age, have been "first in everything" scholastic in their high school work and when their perfect standings in the senior class in the Manitou high school was reviewed by the principal, he was unable to decide which of the two to recommend for a scholarship at the state university.

President Norlin of the University of Colorado here, submitted the question of whether a scholarship could be granted both youths to the university board of trustees, who, at a special meeting, decided favorably and both Keith and Kenneth will matriculate here next fall.

In disclosing the close scholastic standing of both boys at the Manitou high school, the principal of that institution informed President Norlin that it was necessary for the pair to flip a coin to decide who should deliver the valedictory at the commencement exercises. Keith won the toss.

PALE & PEAKED

Texas Lady Was Advised by Her Mother To Take Cardui, Which She Did With Good Results.

Hamilton, Texas.—Mrs. Gladys Poitevin, of this city, says: "At times I suffered awfully with pains across my back and through my sides. I would have to go to bed and stay two or three days at a time. It was very worrisome. I managed to keep going, but... did not enjoy myself at all. "One day my mother remarked on how bad I looked. She said: "You look so pale and peaked, why don't you take a bottle of Cardui?" She had taken it herself a number of times, and it had always improved her health, so she thought I had better try it. "I got the Cardui and began taking it, and from the first dose or two I could see a change for the better. The first thing I noticed was that my appetite was improved. I began to be hungry and I enjoyed my meals. I slept better at night. My rest was so much quieter that I got the benefit from it. I kept on with the Cardui and took it for several months. The pains in my back and sides grew less until they finally quit bothering me."

Works Leave

16.—(INS)—One of the city's old landmarks is being making way for a new building. Among the last to be removed is the old clock that was located in a steeple at the foot of Fort street, the timepiece by which King Kalakaua was accustomed to set his watch and which later set the time for the Provisional Republic, the Republic and even the Territory of Hawaii in its early days. A gigantic tower, five times as high as the old steeple and a giant clock, five times as broad as the old clock have recently taken their places on the waterfront, so dwarfing the old steeple and clock that the contrast was nothing short of pathetic.

Senator "Jack" Lucas, who was a close friend of King Kalakaua, Robert Louis Stevenson and others in the beginning of the "gay nineties" when the clock was in its prime, was responsible for having it removed. In those days, Lucas ran a planing mill at the foot of the clock tower, but later, as the tides of commerce began to rise and the spars of the city began to be classed as business section, Lucas moved his mill to a more secluded section of the waterfront. Here the old timepiece has been taken and is to be installed in a new tower alongside the mill.

To the old familiar tune of saws and lathes it is to go on measuring off the hours which make the old romantic Honolulu ever more remote and more unreal.

289 Entries From All Countries Try for British Open

London, June 16.—(INS)—A record entry has been received for the British Open Golf Championship, the final stages of which are to be played at Lytham St. Annes, on June 23, 24 and 25.

Probably due to the fact that this year there is a new method of qualifying—competitors will qualify in three different centers—289 entries have been received.

Thirty-two amateurs have entered for the championship, together with representative professionals from all countries. Fifteen Americans have entered, including Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, Bobby Jones, Leo Diegel, George Von Elm, Watts Gunn, Roland McKonzie and W. Melhorn.

Argentina is represented by A. Perez, of Buenos Aires, Australia by her champion, R. Sinclair, and Britain by such famous golfers as Cyril Tolley, Mitchell, Duncan Gadd, Herd Jamieson, recent conqueror of Bobby Jones, and the veteran, Robert Harris.

A notable entrant is Archibald Compston, who has entered as an American, and is being soundly tipped as the ultimate winner in many quarters.

Qualifying rounds will be held today and tomorrow at Glasgow, Blackpool, and Sunningdale Golf courses, and qualifiers will enter into the championship proper at Lytham St. Annes, a seaside course on the Lancashire coast.

Miniature Pile Driver Tests the Safety of Match

New York, June 16.—(AP)—A match is a match to most every one, but to the expert there is a wide difference between a safe and dangerous match.

At the Underwriters Laboratories here, where tests are made of thousands of devices and materials to prevent fires, a miniature pile driver daily pounds away on a match.

The little weight falls on the side of the match head. If the match blazes it is reported unsafe. The requirement is that it must be lighted only by friction at the end of the head.

Another device tests strength of the match stick to make sure it is strong enough to stand or-

I've signed up with P.A. for life

TWO months ago, I would have told you that I was pretty well satisfied with my smoking tobacco. I didn't know Prince Albert then! Gee, what a lot of tricks I missed without even knowing it. Never mind. I'm making up for lost time now. My jimmy-pipe is working double shifts.

I load up the minute breakfast is cleared away and hit it up from then until "lights out." That's one of the fine things about Prince Albert. You never tire of it. Each pipe-load tastes better than the last, if such a thing is possible. I know I'm set for life now.

Prince Albert is cool as a dip in the lake. No matter how hard you drive it, you never burn out a bearing. It is sweet as a check in the morning's mail. Fragrant, too, like fresh-picked flowers. Fragrant in the tin, and fragrant as you smoke it. Real tobacco, I tell you.

Maybe you think you are all set in the matter of smokings. I wouldn't stop there. Because, if you haven't smoked P. A., your best bet is still to be collected. On my say-so, and that of millions like me, why don't you try Prince Albert? I'll guarantee you'll be glad you did.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

SUMMER SCHOOL GETS UNDERWAY AT THE COLLEGE

Recitation at Eastern Carolina Teachers College Began Yesterday Morning

Recitations began yesterday in East Carolina Teachers College summer school. Approximately 700 students have registered for work. This is a larger number than usually register on the first day.

A large number of former students who have graduated before in the two year professional course have returned to begin work on the college course leading to an A.B. degree. More than fifty per cent of those enrolled are doing regular college work.

This speaks well for the teaching profession in North Carolina. There are scores of other summer schools in the state filled with teachers in service who are doing the same type of work that these are doing in East Carolina Teachers College.

There is no other profession that picks itself up bodily once a year and goes off for professional study in order to prepare itself for better and more efficient service. Occasionally a doctor will go to lectures. A few lawyers attend the bar association occasionally and get a new joke. Some of the churches send their pastors off to summer school for preachers. It is not always known, however, whether they do this to improve the preacher or to get a rest from going to church.

But there is no other profession in the state that digs down into its own pocket and attends summer school literally by the tens of thousands but the teachers. Last year more than 12,000 teachers attended summer school in North Carolina. Some of them may go for selfish purposes, but the majority of them go for the purpose of being able to do better work the next year. Out of the modest salary of the teachers of North Carolina they spent last year the astonishing sum of two million dollars in attending summer schools. This band of men and women have their hearts set upon service.

There is no other organization in the state with as large a membership as the North Carolina Education Association that dabbles in politics as little and lobbies with legislatures as seldom as does this organization. It has upwards of ten thousand members and should it ever find it necessary to turn its attention to politics it would be a tremendous force.

This organization holds its meetings regularly, but they are purely of a professional type. It has never memorialized the legislature for a raise in salary. It has never threatened to whip public sentiment in line for any selfish attainments. Its aim is that of service.

While this organization has been sawing wood and saying very little, the standards for the teacher have been steadily raised. There was a time when anybody could teach school just as there was a time when most anybody could practice medicine if he knew how to make out a blue mass pill. At the present time, however, more than half of the white teachers of the state have had more than two years college training. The time will come, no doubt, when the professional training of the teacher will be of as high standard as that of the lawyer and the doctor and the nurse.

The demand for this type of training is shown by the tremendous number of applicants that are annually turned away from the leading state institutions, especially East Carolina Teachers College.

This institution has been turning away students for the fall term of 1926 since last December. It is now registering students for the year 1926-27 and 1927-28. More students have been refused admittance for next year than have been accepted.

The type of summer school students as evidenced by the personnel of those entering this college as well as other colleges, is improving each year. There was a time when the summer schools were filled mostly with scrub teachers, but that is no longer the case.

The summer school is now made up largely of the college woman, who has either graduated previously or who is doing work toward her degree. She is looking forward to the time when she will belong to a profession.

They are:

Pine-Hills-On-the-Bay, near Pass Christian, cost $1,000,000.

The Markman, Gulfport, cost $1,000,000.

The Edgewater Gulf, on the Gulfport-Biloxi beach front, cost $2,000,000.

The Pascagonia Hotel, Pascagoula, cost $250,000.

Statues Crowding London Parks; No Room Future Heroes

London, June 17.—(INS)—London's parks and open spaces are getting too full of statues and big memorials. This is the decision of the Office of Works, the London Council and the Westminster Council, the official bodies which have control over the Royal Parks, and the streets and squares which are the prey of the memorial promoters.

Two big statues are still due to go up this summer—one of Lord Kitchener, and the Guards Memorial in the Horse Guards Parade. After these are unveiled, the Office of Works will take the position that the present generation has had its share of memorializing in marble, and that some space must be left for the millions who in the years to come will have their own ideas about statues and their own heroes to honor.

The Thames Embankment is controlled by the London County Council, which closely scrutinizes all applications for memorial sites with respect to the artistic soundness of the statues which it is proposed to add to the hundreds which already dot the river-side for miles. The two best positions thus far are taken up by the Air Force and the Submarine memorials. The L. C. C. also owns the famous Eros statue, which formerly stood in Piccadilly Circus, but is now in a temporary position in the Charing Cross district under the control of the Westminster authorities.

The Horse Guards Parade, between Whitehall and Buckingham Palace, will present a crowded appearance shortly with The Royal Naval Memorial on the north, Lord Wolseley and Lord Roberts on the east, Lord Kitchener on the south, and the Guards Memorial on the west. All of these, except Wolseley, went up since the war.

Parliament Square, just across the street from the Palace of Westminster, presents a fine site for public memorials, but it is already occupied by statues of Peel, Palmerston, Beaconsfield and Derby, besides a reproduction of the Charing Cross.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All druggists sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, raking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

ago statue of Abraham Lincoln. If posterity should not have the same liking for these statemen as the present generation, Parliament Square may also provide space for some large memorials along with the Horse Guards Parade.

The authorities of Westminster Abbey find themselves confronted with the same problem as the Office of Works, as the space available for statues and memorials becomes less and less as the years go on. To conserve for the future what space there is remaining, the standards with respect to Abbey funerals have been raised so that Britain's famous poets and statesmen of the future centuries will not be crowded out by the lesser lights of modern times.

MOUNTAINEERS RESENT MARCH OF PROGRESS

Stronghold of Higback Mountain Gives Away to Development of Age

Greenville, S. C., June 17.—(INS)—Old mountaineers living in the virgin wilds of Higback Mountain are resenting the march of progress and are ready to defend their stronghold against the advance of invaders.

R. C. Remick, developer of the upper Greenville County mountain, will soon place five special deputies and a regular officer in the Higback construction camp to provide protection for workers now building a road to the top of the mountain, he announced here.

County officers are conferring over plans for preventing any further attack from mountaineers living near the construction camp.

Several days ago four young men, working on the road, were fired on from ambush while driving near the camp, and this has led officers to take every precaution to prevent another outbreak.

It's still a small town if the natives say, "A couple of fires would do this burg good."—Agansas Democrat.

Are These Things Not Worth Something To You?

Is it not gratifying to know that when you buy at home, you are not only patronizing your own townspeople, but are at the same time, serving your own interest by encouraging the merchants to carry better assortments?

That you can buy at home in comfort, at ease, and with a feeling of confidence, knowing a complete adjustment is always to be had in case something goes wrong?

Also, that you do not have to wait for delivery, or take a chance on the article not being just what you thought it was as to color, quality or appearance?

If these things are not worth something to you, then the principle of business, of civic pride and the golden rule in general, needs some adjustment. If home means anything to us, surely the home merchant should be given preference over out-of-town concerns.

There are signs of welcome suspended above the main roads leading into Greenville. They at once attract the eye of the visitor. They convey their meaning plainly and concisely. No one can mistake the note of cordiality. They express the spirit of Greenville. They only repeat the invitation of the town's slogan, "Our Greenville, Yours if you come."

The people of Greenville have always been kindly and hospitable; they always will be. They were reared in an atmosphere where "service above self" is a dominant influence. They realize that human life is short at the best, and that it is what we do and not what we say that counts.

They have their own code of ethics. It is not different from many other progressive cities of the state. It is based upon the high standard of living handed down by those who went before them. It is in evidence wherever one may go. In churches, banks, and business houses, the same code prevails. It will continue to prevail as long as human progress prevails. It is one of those heritages of which everyone is proud, and of which everyone is doing his utmost to perpetuate.

We are making no effort to boost the old town. It boosts itself. It is doing its own advertising. And it is being done in a way that is irresistible. No one can get away from the fine sentiment expressed on every hand. We have never seen anybody attempt it. Getting Greenville dirt on one's feet is just like falling in love with a good-looking girl, you just can't get along without her. And it is an assured fact you do not want her to continue living without you.

If you are a Greenville visitor do not make the mistake of thinking the words of welcome are superfluous. They are merely words, of course. But the spirit is behind them. And there are thousands of honest, whole-souled men and women ready to make them count for everything they say.

NEUROTIC STATE OF AFFAIRS

France again faces a crisis in government. The resignation of her minister of finance and the subsequent collapse of the entire cabinet cannot be treated lightly. Premier Briand, despite the great task remaining before him, is endeavoring to improve the situation by reorganization. But what can he expect to accomplish? He is facing a hopeless task. It is futile indeed to attempt to improve a situation when the task is greater than we are ourselves. This is not the first time the cabinet has quit. And it will not be the last time, unless members of the administration forces learn that nothing good can be accomplished without the aid of all parties concerned.

How would our own government function if its leaders were to quit every time some controverted matter required their attention? What would we ever accomplish if they accepted their positions in the light of an avocation instead of a vocation. The French seem to forget the faith and confidence reposed in them by the public. They seem oblivious of the fact that they are to minister unto the people instead of having the people minister unto them.

No one doubts for a moment but that they are face with a serious problem. Deflation of currency is always serious. But can the situation be improved by continued changing of cabinet members? Can financial stringency be relieved by placing new men in office every few weeks or so? There is only one answer. It cannot.

The American people are desirous of seeing France get down to business. There is a catholicity of sympathy for her statesmen, because they actually face a grave problem. But sympathy on our part will not bring the desired relief. We might use every influence in our power to help them, but our efforts would be in vain if they fail to help themselves. Faith in herself, and the ability of her leaders is the only thing that can possibly relieve the abnormal and neurotic state of affairs as they exist today.

Feet Are as Varied as Faces No. 8

This is one of a series of twenty illustrated advertisements explaining the difference between the many types of feet, and suggesting the proper footwear for each.

THE BALL OF THE FOOT

Among the difficult cases that confront the shoe salesman in fitting is the enlarged ball under the great toe joint, it being the leverage point in walking. Much depends on the proper preparation of the sole in order to accommodate the enlarged ball. Shoes must be chosen which consider the abnormal, extra-sensitive ball; often arch supporters will give great relief. Yet each case of this sort must be diagnosed and treatment suggested according to individual needs.

Pitt Shoe Co. salespeople have studied feet; they know how to fit shoes so that you may enjoy complete comfort and resulting better general health.

Let us fit you in a pair of Arch Preserver Shoes. The shoe that we can recommend to cure most foot troubles. Pretty styles for men and women carried in stock all the time.

Swedish Crown Princess Declares Nothing to Criticize

New York, June 17.—(INS)—
"I've a garden in Sweden, with you 'twould be Eden."

—Once Popular Song.
Being a princess places certain obligations on one, and raising a racket (and also roses) seems out of the picture until you hear the Crown Princess Louise of Sweden confess that such is her favorite sport. Not the traditional "sport of kings" but that of a modern princess who says when asked of hobbies:

"I play a little bad tennis."
Gardening is really her favorite pastime. She tells you with a glow in her hazel eyes:

"English roses grow beautifully in Swedish gardens. They don't seem to mind transplanting."

And this lovely young British Princess has weathered transplanting from her own land to Sweden's court. She possesses gratifying chic which, strangely enough, withholds itself from the camera, so that you are delightfully surprised when you behold a royal elegance that too seldom exists among the highly placed. She says of American women:

"I have always had lots of American women friends, but I find them even more charming in their own country. I think, perhaps, one is always best against one's own background."

Feminine eyes eagerly took in details of the Princess's costume—beige tailored frock, nude stockings and light kid one-strap slippers to match her gown; broad-brimmed hat of black transparent straw with a wide rose velvet ribbon twisted smartly about its crown and tucked under the brim with a matching rose or two; scarf and white figured chiffon about her throat.

"Look at that lovely old fashioned jewelry the Princess wears," one of the company whispered. So it was—old-fashioned—wide yellow-gold wedding ring, the conventional solitaire, neither too big nor too small, and a simple size sapphire of a style that begun at least fifteen years ago.

"I would like to do some shopping in New York," said the Princess. "Especially for silk stockings. We have good ones in our country, but there is something about American silk stockings that is simply wonderful. I shall take home quantities of them."
The Princess smoked while she talked, using a long, plain black holder, which she held at an angle of 45 degrees.

"I don't see much difference in skirt length here and back home," she replied to a question. "Styles are the same everywhere."
"Yes, Sweden has gone in for bobbed hair," she laughed, a fringe of light brown bobbed hair show-

"Fashions have grown comfortable, and I am sure they will stay that way."
"The Charleston? Oh, I saw that in Paris. It looks like fun, doesn't it? I love your theatre.
We saw 'Craig's Wife,' the play of the woman who loved her home too much. In America you don't have to wait between the acts as long as we do on the other side."

"I didn't try the subway. Didn't want to. I know one thing I should like to do in New York—
walk and walk and walk."
"If you ask me if I have noticed a distinct American type in women, I should say yes—that it is rather on the tall side, slender, graceful."

"Your country life here is just like England's. In Sweden I have not been at many private homes—
just a few castles."
The royal Princess revealed fondness for another sport and settled its pronunciation.

"I love to 'shee,'" which is the way to say ski.

PRINCESS LIKES AMERICA

Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, giving her views of this and that for the press, said there is something about silk stockings made here "that is simply wonderful." She is fond of gardening and plays "a little bad tennis."

American cooking? The Princess likes it.
"I like your hot rolls and lobster. All your food is splendid."
"Of course I found charming—the Americans who have entertained me."
The Princess laughed at the question someone asked, as if she could not or would not say otherwise. Talking on with her cigarette holder hanging from the corner of her mouth.

"Women of Sweden are advanced, that's true. They are interested in labor movements, in feminism and in education, in work for children and in better hospitals.
But I think women should, and most of them do, place their homes
first in importance."

Ahead of her when she returns is a pleasant Summer working in her garden. Of this she confides:

"In the Summer we can keep to ourselves more. We can be quiet and talk plain."

Her slender hands seemed to tremble a little as she took the burned-out cigarette from its holder and arose to say goodbye.
The Crown Princess is quiet and retiring, and very likely would prefer not to be interviewed.

"No, I shan't criticize anything in America," she said. "I see nothing to criticize."

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Los Angeles, June 17.—(INS)—The settlement of the British general strike was due to the stabilizing influence of the women of Great Britain. Gilbert Frankau, noted English novelist, who is visiting here, declared today.

"Every woman," Frankau explained, "is a conservative at heart. American women, however, do not take the interest in politics that British women do. I believe it was the active interest and stabilizing influence of British women that made it possible for Great Britain to pass through the recent labor crisis."

"The most powerful argument against motion picture censorship is Chicago," Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Will Hays organization, with headquarters in New York, declared here today.

"For the past twelve years in Chicago all crime scenes have been cut out of pictures and yet today Chicago is known as 'the crime capital' of the United States."

The village of Broek in Holland is the cleanest place in the world. That's the assertion today of D. A. J. Kessler, wealthy retired oil man the The Hague, the Netherlands, who said all the floors in Broek are clean enough to be used as a table and the stables so immaculate they are occupied by guests in an emergency.

"You can sit down in the middle of any street in Broek and not get your trousers dirty," Kessler declared.

The installment payment system will be the biggest problem discussed at the annual convention in Los Angeles late this summer of the American Bankers' Association, F. N. Shepherd, executive manager of the organization, declared today.

"The installment payment system," he said, "is one of the outstanding developments in finance, but there is a difference of opinion with regard to its merit and demerits. Some financiers think it a downright menace, while others are equally certain that it is a great improvement over the book credit system."

The disappointing showing of Lee Barnes, American and Olympic pole vault champion, who failed to win the I. C. A. A. title at Cambridge recently, was due to the high wind, Tommy Davis, assistant track coach at U. S. C., explained today.

"Barnes grasps the pole at about 11 feet 6 inches," Davis elaborated, "and then chins himself over the bar. But when he bucks a wind he's severely cramped because his style has been perfected in California where the wind isn't much of a factor."

Diamond Prices Are High Now On London Market

London, June 17.—(INS)—American gem buyers are now searching the Hatton Garden market for the best gems, and for a diamond of anything over four carats $1,500 will be paid, providing the stone is of pure blue-white quality.

It is now realized that America is the best market for precious stones. Throughout the year Europe has been scouring for these pure white gems in anticipation of the early summer rush of American buyers.

The American buyers come to London at this time every year to purchase the best diamonds, pearls, rubies and sapphires. Hatton Garden merchants always reserve the largest and purest of the stones for the Americans.

Mr. Charles Swan, one of the most important of the Hatton Garden merchants, told the International News Correspondent that: "The American buyers will have nothing but the best blue-white stones. The American women's tastes in jewels is constantly changing, and the present craze is for gems of large and odd shapes."

"The circular diamond which still remains the fancy of most European beauties is now losing favor in America, and as they have the most money it is only logical that the fashion in jewelry should come from across the Atlantic."

"The black opal is the most popular stone of the moment. It has had a most wonderful run and American buyers are combing the market for this particular stone and as most of such stones are in the possession of English merchants we are having a particularly bright season."

GRAND JURY ENDS SUMMER SCHOOL INVESTIGATION AT UNIVERSITY PRISON ATROCITIES STAGES OPENING

Warden and Four Convicts Charged With Causing Deaths of Youthful Prisoners

Birmingham, June 17.—(INS)—Finishing one of the longest grand jury probes in Alabama history, the Jefferson County grand jury investigating alleged "atrocities," resulting from Alabama's convict lease system, charged that youths of high school age are being worked in prison mines by the side of "hardened criminals."

Warden Charles R. Davis and four convicts were charged by the grand jury with causing the death of James W. Knox at Flat Top Mines. Davis is under $25,000 bond awaiting trial. The four convicts indicted with him are in the state prison. W. A. Bates, former deputy warden at Flat Top, is under indictment on a murder charge growing out of the investigation. He is charged with killing Frank Harper, a negro convict.

The grand jury, in its final report, found it advisable to refer investigation of alleged discrepancies in financial accounts of Warden Davis at Flat Top to a subsequent grand jury.

Formally Opened Yesterday With Record Enrollment of 1400 Students

Chapel Hill, June 17.—The University of North Carolina's 30th Summer School was formally opened here last night with a record enrollment of some over 1400 students, and the total is expected to reach approximately 1500 before registration for credit closes tomorrow.

The opening exercises were held in Memorial Hall and were largely attended. Introduced by Director N. W. Walker, President Chase delivered the address of welcome. The devotional services were conducted by Rev. Alfred S. Lawrence, rector of the Episcopal Church.

Calling attention to the celebration in Philadelphia of the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, Dr. Chase urged the summer students not to be "sentimentally patriotic."

timentially patriotic." His plea was for an "understanding patriotism." He declared that "those who are simply sentimentally patriotic and who mean well are often dangerous. The kind of patriotism we want to instill in our pupils," he went on, "is patriotism that is not blind to our shortcomings and limitations, but which fearlessly looks facts in the face and procures remedies based on rational statements."

Commonwealth Conference Will Discuss State Rights

Iowa City, June 16.—AP—Extension of federal authority through federal aid and subsidies in education, highway improvement, forest fire prevention and social welfare has revived the doctrine of state rights, not as a theory of nullification but as a protest against the encroachment of the federal government upon states as areas of local self-government, asserts Benjamin F. Shambaugh, chairman of the fourth annual Commonwealth conference.

The conference, which meets at the University of Iowa, June 28 to 30, will discuss problems arising from presented inquiries as follows:

"Are states in danger of surrendering the management of their own affairs through Federal favor and coercion?"

CAFE COD MACKEREL WEAR GARTERS AROUND NECK, THE MEN FIND

Boston, June 17.—(INS)—Mackerel off Cape Cod have taken to jazz garters.

That's what the fishermen out of Boston and Gloucester say. They appeared in the market here with several specimens to back up the story.

Having no legs to adorn, the fastidious fish wrap 'em about their necks.

At any rate, several mackerel have been caught off the long arm of the Cape wearing rubber bands back of the gills.

"This thing one on your fish horn," says the delvers of the deep.

HOUSE MEMBERS PREFER NAME OF "CONGRESSMAN"

Washington, June 17.—(INS)—Representative Epslaw, (D) Ga., one of the Dry leaders in the House, has launched a new reform campaign.

It is against the word "Representative" as descriptive of members of the House.

"We ought to be called Congressmen," he said, "rather than Representatives. Direct election of Senators made them as truly representatives as members of the lower branch."
