Co-ops Will Not Deliver Tobacco Crop This Year

Judge Meekins Signs Order Releasing the Members From Obligation to Deliver 1926 Crop to Association

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—Thousands of tobacco farmers in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia who have been under contract for the last five years to deliver their entire crop to the Tri-State Tobacco Growers Co-operative Marketing Association, will this year sell on the auction market, unless they should join some new co-operative organization.

Judge I. M. Meekins last night followed up his receivership order of a few weeks ago by signing an order relieving the farmers of their obligations to make the 1926 deliveries.

Next week motions to throw the five subsidiary warehousing corporations into receivership will be presented to Judge Meekins in New Bern. Announcement of the board of directors of the tobacco association that they would not take an appeal from Judge Meekins' receivership order is taken to mean that these other motions will not be opposed.

While the receivers have not yet issued any statement as to the policy to be followed, it is considered in the light of last night's development that early liquidation of the assets of the organization is practically certain.

The organization has on hand large stocks of tobacco delivered by its members. When this tobacco is sold it is expected that the debts of the organization will first be paid off, then the expenses of the receivership must come out of the sales with the remainder to go to the growers.

Meanwhile, however, the warehousing corporations use the association large sums borrowed to make warehouse purchases. Should these warehouses be disposed of the association would probably receive some monies from this subsidiary.

Congress Will Adjourn Saturday

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Unless plans of leaders are unexpectedly upset, Congress will adjourn at 3 P. M. Saturday after the customary last minute scramble of members to get action on their pet local measure.

All of the major obstacles to adjournment appear to have been overcome with the farm relief record definitely closed and the bitterly contested rivers and harbors bill given right of way on the Senate calendar, beginning December 14.

Senate leaders were confident they could put the final deficiency bill through the chamber in time to place it in the hands of President Coolidge tomorrow night. It was reported to the Senate yesterday and the way was cleared for its consideration today.

Advocates of the measure to establish a radio control commission, independent of other government agencies, were hopeful that their proposal on which the House has already taken action, could be brought to a final vote, but others were doubtful that this could be done.

The Senate devoted yesterday to its consideration and expects to take it up again today.

League Flays Inadequacy of Law Enforcement

Asheville, July 1.—(AP)—Inadequacy of the law enforcement system of the United States came in for a severe criticism at the hands of the West North Carolina Epworth League conference here this morning, when the problem was brought up in open forum. Some of the conference members defended the administration of enforcement measures but the majority were of the opinion that the system is at fault.

WOOTEN FAMILY HOLDS REUNION NEAR KINSTON

Three Hundred Members From This and Other States In Attendance Yesterday

Kinston, July 1.—Hillcrest was the scene yesterday of the annual reunion of the Wooten family, and members of that prominent family gathered from all over North Carolina and from as far away as Georgia, to participate in the reunion, and renew friendships. It is conservatively estimated that 300 were in attendance.

The feature of the day's activities was the splendidly arranged musical program under the direction of Mrs. L. K. Wooten of Kinston, who was assisted by Mesdames Charles Gulley and W. McCullers of Clayton, and Daisy Smith of LaGrange. Mrs. Gulley and Mrs. McCullers are daughters of Mr. M. H. Wooten and are well and favorably known here.

Following the first section of the musical program, Dr. J. Y. Joyner, noted educator and himself a member of the Wootens, delivered an interesting address on the genealogy of the Wooten family, which was at once interesting and instructive to those assembled. After this the second section of the musical program was given, one of the numbers being a song fest by everyone, the singers being led by Mrs. L. K. Wooten. Thereafter, adjournment was taken for dinner, which proved to be a bounteous repast.

In the afternoon the business meeting was had, and the following officers to serve for the ensuing year were chosen: President, Frank Wooten, of Greenville; vice-president, M. H. Wooten, of Warsaw; treasurer, Sam Wooten, of Mt. Olive; secretary, Imogene Barrett, of Goldsboro; historian, M. M. Minton, of Goldsboro. J. Y. Joyner was the unanimous selection for chairman of a research committee, and associated with him on this committee, were included Mr. Winfield Wooten and Mrs. John Davis Wooten, the latter from Georgia.

The membership approved a budget of $100 per year to defray expenses incident to the reunion, and this amount was promptly subscribed by those present.

At this stage of the business session, the sad tidings of the death of the young Wooten boy from Greenville was broadcast, and the session adjourned.

Tax Collections for Fiscal Year Double Year 1925

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—Addition of more than $11,000,000 of insurance taxes which came in at the eleventh hour, brought the fiscal year state tax total exclusive of automobile and gasoline taxes, to $11,207,973.97, it was announced by Commissioner of Revenue Doughton today.

This is in comparison with $6,246,816.20 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

SAYS MOVEMENT IS UNDERWAY TO EFFECT REFORM

Dean of University Law School Tells State Bar Members of Changes in Profession

Wrightsville Beach, July 1.—(AP)—Two movements are today underway to effect reforms in the legal profession, one to re-state and improve the law itself, and the other to raise the standards or the personnel of the profession, Dean M. L. Ferron, of the University of North Carolina law school, told the North Carolina Bar Association here today.

Dean Ferron, speaking at the annual meeting of the organization, was addressing the North Carolina lawyers on "Standards of Legal Education."

"Lawyers have told one another from time immemorial what a noble and learned lot we are," said Mr. Ferron, "and our system of law has been extolled as 'the profession of reason.' We lawyers were gullible enough, in our conceit, to swallow such blandishments and dote upon them for one hundred years. But this fatuous praise of law and lawyers which we have been heaping to each other has given way. A candid introspection has taken place and has revealed that while our system of law is an excellent one, there is still a great deal of room to improve both the law and the personnel of our profession."

"Two national movements now under way are of importance in themselves and of still greater importance in manifesting the spirit and determination of the bar to measure up to the work it has to do."

"One of these is the formation and activity of the American Law Institute. This movement is aimed to improve the law itself. The truth is that, in spite of our praise, the law is on many questions, uncertain, inconsistent and verbose. The Institute is attempting to re-state the law on most of the leading subjects. It is engaged in what is perhaps the largest undertaking of its kind in all history. Certainly nothing comparable to this task has been accomplished since the time of Justinian. It bids fair to work considerable improvement in our law and signifies clearly something more than a selfish interest on the part of lawyers."

Surplus Fiscal Year Just Ended Is $377,768,000

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—The federal government closed its fiscal year ending last night with a surplus of $377,768,000.

This margin, although below the estimate of $390,000,000 recently made by President Coolidge, is almost four times as large as was expected by the President earlier in the year. The surplus is to be used for reducing the public debt.

The total cost of the government for the fiscal years was disclosed today at the Treasury as $3,584,987,999, while receipts for last years amounted to $3,962,755,000.

Both customs receipts and income taxes exceeded those of last year, the latter despite the reduction in tax rates made in the middle of the year.

MILLION ACRES IN MEXICO SEIZED FOR BACK TAXES

Chihuahua, Mex., July 1.—(INS)—A million acres of land said to belong to the heirs of the late Jose and Pablo Martinez del Rio, half of the area known as the Magdalena and Rancho Nuevo holdings, in the municipality of Villa Ahumada, 85 miles to the south of El Paso, have been embargoed by the state government for non-payment of taxes, according to reports heard here.

Home Politics. What Will Farmers Do? Making Up a True Story. Dr. Worm—Mueller's Book. By ARTHUR BRIDGEMAN

Congressmen are going home to rest and learn what their constituents think. Like husbands going home late, they are thinking up a convincing story.

They have cut more than $350,000,000 of the national tax load. That's GOOD.

They tried their best to make this country join the World Court, and become subject to its decisions. That's BAD, and more senators will know it soon and stay home.

Congress collected some of the money that Europe owes us. That's GOOD. It is as well we did not try to collect all, we might not have gotten anything.

Congress appropriated $150,000,000 to be spent in five years on aviation. That SOUNDS all right, but there isn't any American aviation worth speaking of, and that's BAD.

What will the honest farmer do to the Republicans?

This year's election will find no answer to the question, "what is to be done for the farmer?"

Some things have been done INDIRECTLY. Not long ago, five million men were idle in the United States, unable to buy farm products. They are working now, but no "farm plan" has gone through. What will farmers say and do?

One-third of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives, will be elected this fall. Will farmers turn their backs on the Republican party, send Democrats to Congress now, and a Democrat to the White House in 1928? That's the interesting question.

Those that don't like him, war President Coolidge that he is doing; farmers won't elect him a second time. But perhaps the farmers will find it hard to select any Democrat that they prefer to Coolidge, or any Republican, either.

Where will the Democrats find a man to beat Coolidge? Some of them want to nominate Governor Smith of New York. Yet, ten to one, if they refuse to nominate Governor Smith, his friends will beat to a pulp any other Democrat nominated.

President Coolidge has this on his side. A majority of 115,000,000 Americans think they are like the President and believe as he does. You can't say that of any other conspicuous candidate.

Politicians tell you: "The spending of millions in the Pennsylvania primary is all the fault of the primary system. Politicians MUST spend money at primaries, not for corruption, but to get the vote out."

T. B. B., writing from Washington, calls attention to the fact that Mr. Brookhart, without any money to spend, carried Iowa in the primaries and beat the prosperous state machine by a big majority. What is needed to win the primaries is not money, but some name that the people know and want to vote for. Few of our "statesmen" know how little their names mean to the voter.

The Rockefeller Foundation spends money fighting disease, including the worst disease which is, ignorance. At present, seven distinguished men, scientists, professors and philosophers, representing seven European countries are traveling here as guests of the Rockefeller Foundation. One of them, Jacob F. Worm-Mueller, doctor of philosophy, economist and professor of modern history at Oslo, Norway, has written a book that should be translated from Norwegian into English. "Den økonomiske krise efter Napoleons Krigen." That book, published by Grendahl and Son at Oslo, translated into English, would enlighten Americans and particularly the British.

The British will not like Professor Worm-Mueller's views, but will be glad to know about them.

It was the development of steam power that rescued Europe and enabled her to pay her debts after Waterloo, perhaps electric power will now pay for the big war, as steam paid Europe's debts after the Porfirio Diaz regime.

SOULE TO SPEAK AT CONVENTION N. C. GROWERS

Dr. Clarence Poe Will Deliver Address At Dedication of Building

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—Four special features of the State Farmers Convention to be held at State College during the three days—July 27, 28 and 29—will be an address by Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, an address by Dr. A. J. Glover, editor of Hoards Dairyman, the dedication of the new animal husbandry building to the farmers of the state, and the hog raising contest.

Dr. Soule will speak at one of the general sessions of the convention, J. M. Gray, secretary said today. His subject will be community building. Dr. Glover who will discuss dairying, will speak at one of the night meetings, since the farm woman is interested in dairy problems, as well as the farmer.

The new animal husbandry building will be the feature of the last day. Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, will deliver the dedicatory address at Polk Hall.

The hog raising contest, on July 27, is expected to bring together the champion hog callers of the state. Fifty dollars, in three prizes, has been offered in this contest. The judges, as announced by Mr. Gray, are Earl Hostetter, W. W. Shay, and F. H. Jeter, all of the State College faculty.

Fully 5,000 farmers are expected, Mr. Gray said, and provisions have been made to take care of that many.

Senate Committee Giving Attention Pa. Primary Case

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—After taking another glimpse into the affairs of the association against the prohibition amendment, the Senate campaign funds committee today turned its attention again to the Senatorial primary in Pennsylvania and Frank X. O'Connor, a Philadelphia magistrate, denied that he had accused William S. Vare of trying to purchase his support for the Senatorship.

Under the cross-examination of Chairman Reed, and in the face of testimony to the contrary by three Philadelphia newspaper men O'Connor insisted that he never said that Vare offered him $75,000 and $150,000 for his aid in Vare's Senatorial campaign against Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot.

Detroit Suburb, Uses Patrol As A Jitney Bus

Detroit, July 1.—(INS)—Melvindale, the west side village, whose police department some time ago put the town on the map by stopping Henry Ford's car for speeding, is making a new bid for notoriety.

Again the police force is serving as the town's advertising agency. The Melvindale patrol wagon, developed, is the first wagon of its kind in the United States to be used for a jitney.

Motorists who have seen the wagon lately have concluded that a raid had just been made somewhere in the village. But, according to George W. Foster, village clerk, nothing could be farther from the truth.

The passengers are all upright citizens on their way to work and taking the only means of transportation available.

Senator W. M. Sapp, of Dalton, Ga., has announced that he will not be a candidate for Public Service Commissioner of Georgia. Perhaps he decided the commission was no place for a Sapp.—Knoxville Sentinel.

Had Chest

The "war chest" of Senator William B. McKinley was to be investigated by the Senate committee probing primary campaign expenses. McKinley lost the Republican nomination for re-election from Illinois.

40,000 GARMENT WORKERS STRIKE

Makers of 75 Per Cent of Ready-to-Wear of Country Walk Out Today

New York, July 1.—(AP)—40,000 Union garment workers who make 75 per cent of all the ready to wear coats and suits sold in the United States, today went on strike. 1600 shops are affected.

The demands of the strikers include wage increases and a minimum of 36 weeks employment throughout the year. The strike is unusual because it is not primarily against employers, but mainly against the jobbers who employ no labor directly, but who have garments made for them by sub-manufacturers or contractors employing Union operatives.

There was no disorder as the strikers went to their various meeting places where offices of the twelve unions involved instructed the strikers and organized pickets who will parade before the various shops later in the day. The chairman of the strikers' committee characterized the walk-out as "nearly a 100 per cent strike" and expressed hope for an early settlement.

Time Extended for Re-Instating Gov't. Insurance

It will most probably be of interest to all ex-service men who carried War Risk Insurance, to learn that the present session of Congress has seen fit to extend the time limit for re-instating and converting War Risk Insurance until July 2, 1927.

Any ex-service man who carried this insurance but has dropped it, can be re-instated before July 2, 1927, by paying two months' premium, which on an average would be $7.00 for $10,000. This a total of $14.00 would re-instate $10,000 insurance. After re-instatement the government insurance can be converted into ordinary life, 20-pay life, 30-pay life, and various forms of endowment insurance. This is the cheapest life insurance obtainable, and it is urged upon all ex-service men to see to it that their insurance is properly taken care of.

Any ex-service man desiring to have his insurance re-instated and converted would do well to call it to the attention of Arthur B. Corey, service officer of the local post of the American Legion. Do it now, and avoid the rush and consequences of too much procrastination.

Shoots Husband to Protect Self and Children

Asheville, July 1.—(AP)—Determined to protect herself and her four small children, she testified in police court this morning, prompted Mrs. Julia Hendricks, 30, to shoot and probably fatally wound her husband, Ralph Hendricks, last night when he entered the home with his brother, Eugene Hendricks.

The husband is alleged by police to have been intoxicated. The bullet Mrs. Hendricks fired, entered her husband's throat and his condition was said to be critical this morning.

In court, Mrs. Hendricks related the details of the shooting of her husband after she had come to the police station this morning and given herself up. Hendricks has twice been summoned to Buncombe County Superior court for non-support and once for an assault.

Six Years Old Lad Loses Life in Lake Near Kinston; Funeral Services Conducted Here Today

Wade Wooten, six year old son of Judge and Mrs. F. M. Wooten, of this city, was drowned at Hillcrest, near Kinston, shortly before four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Wade, who was attending the Wooten family re-union with his father, was playing with other children present at the time the tragedy occurred. Reports are to the effect that the lad fell into the lake and disappeared beneath the surface. The body of the lad was brought to the surface in a few minutes by a life-guard but all efforts at resuscitation were futile. The remains were brought to this city last night.

News of the tragedy cast a gloom over friends in this city who deeply sympathize with the parents in their great bereavement.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home at 30 this afternoon by Rev. H. Frederick Jones, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church, and Dr. C. Wooten. Interment will follow in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Responsibility Misuse of Frank Placed on Clerk

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Responsibility for misuse of a Senatorial mail frank in the Brookhart-Cummings Senatorial campaign in Iowa, has been placed by the Post Office Department upon a clerk in the office of Frank Lun, Senator Brookhart's campaign manager.

The Department disclosed today that it had evidence that campaign circulars were inserted by the clerk in about 150 envelopes, bearing the frank of Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, containing a check by Senator Reed, thus distributed free of postage to the Iowa voters.

This disclosure was made in a letter sent by the Department to Senator Reed and read today in the Senate. Department officials had interested themselves in the case after a charge of misuse of the frank for distribution of partisan campaign material had provided one of the high spots in the controversy of the closing days of the battle between Brookhart and Senator Cummins.

Negro Arrested for Attempted House Breaking

Nathan Powell, negro, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Manley Sellers, Tuesday, charged with attempted house breaking. The attempt, which led to the arrest, occurred at the home of Jim Manning, on the Stantonburg road, about two miles from this city.

According to reports, the negro had opened a window of the house and upon seeing someone in the house, had attempted to conceal himself under the house. A little child, playing in the yard, saw the negro as he crawled under the house and gave the alarm. The negro ran and officer, were immediately notified and the arrest followed.

Charlotte Callies, Famed Soprano, Ill and Destitute

New York, July 1.—(INS)—Almost penniless, but too proud to beg for charity, a woman who once strode dramatically across the opera stages of Europe or triumphantly from private concerts in the palaces of Kings, was found living alone in a cheap hotel not far from Times Square.

She is Charlotte Callies, once a famous dramatic soprano of European opera, who was frequently called upon to appear in private before the Empress of Germany, and in the palaces of rulers of other nations.

To inquiring people she explained: "We learn many things in life. We learn of joy and most of all, that pain comes to all and that all must bear it. Poverty is never pleasant. Tell only that once I could earn much, that I still have ability to earn much, that I need mostly to regain my health, that I would wish only a benefit concert such as given other ailing singers—then I could get well, and earn my own living and be a burden to no one. Dwell no longer than you have to, please, on Charlotte being destitute, in a hall bedroom."

BOOTLEGGERS NOW CROOKED, RUIN BUSINESS

Smugglers on Gulf Coast Complain Bitterly About Crooked Rum Runners; Imitation Liquors Made in Home Still Furnish Too Much Competition

Biloxi, Miss., July 1.—(INS)—The regime of daring, picturesque bootleggers of only a few years back who "took a chance with the law" in smuggling contraband liquor into the interior now is a closed chapter in the annals of "rum row" along the Mississippi Coast.

For a new generation of bootleggers, lacking the more colorful traits of the old timers, have sounded a requiem for the "honest" rum peddler. The new crop are dishonest even with their own trades, Gulf Coast prohibition enforcement officers say.

Inland manufacture of whiskey and "home-brew" now constitute the prohibition agent's greatest problem, according to officials of the Mississippi department. These, they point out, are enemies of the smugglers.

Liquor smuggling and distribution now has become a perplexing, and in most cases a discouraging operation for the "honest" bootlegger, and many of them have been forced to abandon the undertaking, it is declared.

The new generation of bootleggers, peddling their poor imitation of imported liquors, have played havoc with the smuggler, it is said. European liquor, it was pointed out, can not compete in price with the "real stuff" concocted and labeled on spurious boats in the Gulf of Mexico or on some island tyrant.

SIXTEEN MEMBERS DIE SINCE LAST BAR ASSOCIATION

Wrightsville Beach, July 1.—(AP)—Since the last annual meeting of the North Carolina Bar Association, 16 of its members have died, among them a former Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, an Associate Justice of that body, a former president of the Association, Superior court judges, and other high in the profession of the State. This was brought out here today in the report of the committee on memorials. That committee has prepared a sketch of each of the deceased members, the report said. And it listed the names of the dead, and those on whom it had called for memorials.

Following the committee's report, the sketches of the deceased member, were read. The entire afternoon session of the Bar Association, in session here, was devoted to this memorial service.

That was a red-letter day for me!

THE day I discovered the tidy red tin was a red-letter day for me. Up until that time, I was fairly well satisfied with my smoking tobacco. At the suggestion of a friend, I tried a pipe-load of his Prince Albert. More to please him than for any other reason.

Little did I realize then what a big favor he was doing me. I'll never forget that experience. Here I was, a seasoned smoker (as I thought), learning something new about tobacco. Why, that very first taste won me. Still, I wasn't hasty. I tried another load to be certain.

That settled it. I bought a tidy red tin of P. A. right then and there. That was a good many years ago, but P. A. is still ministering to my smoke-taste, repeating my early experience many times a day. P. A. is so cool and sweet and fragrant, you just never tire of it.

No matter how hard you hit it up, P. A. never backfires. It is uniformly mild and mellow. Never bothers your throat or tongue. It is so genuinely friendly that you just go to it from morning to midnight. Cool contentment in every perfect puff. Get some P. A. today.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Mr. Pittman has appeared before Greenville audiences many times in the past and has a host of admirers here who will welcome this opportunity to hear him again. Prof. Casey is considered one of the best singers with the Eureka College glee club.

In addition to the concert, a pageant, "Mother Church and Her Missionary Children" will be put on by Mrs. L. E. Ballard, under the auspices of the missionary society of the church. The pageant is rich with missionary history, and was composed for the occasion by Rev. and Mrs. Ballard. The actors are members of the "Joy League" of the church.

The program is put on in the interest of missions.

BOSTON HAS PIGEON THAT GOES JOYRIDING

Boston, July 1.—(INS)—This city has a joy-riding pigeon.

The bird steals rides on passing autos on Tremont street, between Park and Boylston streets and, unlike small boys, cannot be chased away.

Whenever the fancy seize, the feathered joy-rider, it swoops down on a big machine, gets to the front of the hood, and proceeds to enjoy its ride. A sudden stop invariably makes the bird fly away, but if the traffic is clear it will ride the whole distance between Park and Boylston streets.

AMERICAN TRAVELERS IN OLD CHINESE CRAFT MAKING WORLD CRUISE

Boston, July 1.—(INS)—A blaze with red and carrying the grotesque figures and eyes of Chinese junk, the Amoy, on its round the world cruise tied up at T. Wharf here.

Flat of bottom and square of ends, measuring 68 feet in length and 19 foot beam, the Amoy presented a strange sight.

Captain Alfred Nilson and his wife, the former a lecturer and writer of stories, and the latter an artist of marked ability, are accompanied on the trip by Benjamin Whiting, native of Panama Canal Zone. The party will sail soon across the Atlantic.

HEARNE-PEARSALL

Red Springs, June 29.—On Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at her home on Main street, Miss Georgie Pearsall was united in marriage to Mr. Closs Wightman Hearne, of Greenville, N. C.

Very quietly, and with only the immediate family present. The vows were taken in the living room before an improvised altar of Southern smlax and shasta daisies, over which shaded candles three a golden light. Rev. E. L. Hillman, of the Methodist church, was the officiating minister, the beautiful ring service being used.

Miss Pearsall wore a becoming gown of boise de rose georgette, with trimmings of hand-woven lace of contrasting color, and carried a shower bouquet of valley lillies and bride's roses.

Mr. Hearne was attended by his brother, Mr. Roy Hearne, of Greenville, who acted as best man. After the ceremony a delicious ice course with cake was served, the color scheme, gold and white, being carried out in the refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Hearne left at once for a trip through the western part of the state. Mrs. Hearne wore a costume of dark blue flat crepe with accessories of beige. They will be at home in Greenville after July 7.

Mrs. Hearne is the possessor of a charm and personality that has endeared her to hosts of friends here and in other sections of the state where she has taught. She is a graduate of Flora Mac Donald College and Conservatory, and later pursued her musical education in New York under Gustav Becker, and is a gifted pianist. She was also a student for some time in an art school at Washington, D. C., winning a success in the painting of miniatures.

LIBRARY NEWS

Our Slogan: "Let the Library Serve Greenville"

Library Hours for the Summer: 9 to 12 Noon and 4:30 to 7 P. M.

Books given to the library during June are: "Boy Scouts at the Panama Exposition," by Lt. Howard Payson; "Baseball Joe of the Silver Stars," by Capt. Wm. Roosevelt; "Frontier Boys in the Rockies," by Lester Chadwick; "Missing Tenderfoot" by Capt. Allen Douglas; all given by Wayland Hart. "Jack Winters' Gridiron Chums," by Mark Overton; "Radio Boys First Wireless" by Allen Chapman; "Boy Scouts of Lenox" by Frank V. Webster; given by H. L. Rivers, Jr. "Just Patty" by Webster; given by Lillian Brown. And "Flaming Forest" by James Oliver Curwood; given by James Albritton.

Monday, June 28, was a red letter day in circulation of books. There were 99 novels taken out; 10 classics; 2 on ureful arts; 1 on science; 2 magazines; 46 junior books; making a total for the day of 161.

Mrs. George Moore from the Library Commission, Raleigh, has been with us this week to establish our mending department which is now a regular department of the library and will be under the supervision of Mr. Withers and Miss Francis Harvey. The mending of a book involves a great deal of care and work and Mrs. Moore spoke very highly of Mr. Withers' and Miss Frances' ability for the work and the quickness with which both responded to instruction. We feel very glad indeed to have these young people a part of our library staff.

We have under consideration some contest work for the summer that is conducted by the Stokes Publishing Company, New York. It involves a list of books that are of interest to young people between the ages of 12 and 18 from which list of books one is to be chosen as a basis for an essay. The essay is to be turned in to the local librarian, and the five best essays are to be sent on to the Stokes Co. for grading, then the fifty best are to be awarded prizes of books which the contestants may choose from the list involved in the contest. We would like for all who are interested to report at the library immediately so we may know the number of lists we need. We now have 50 of the lists and if necessary we can procure more.

With Victor Ellery and his father Charles, Ellery, in the title roles. "The Chip and the Block" by E. M. Delafeld, furnishes a rather interesting story even if it does not leave the commonplaces of the average life. Charles Elder the weight of an unbearable disposition of selfishness, and not a trip-full pocketbook, both of which conditions do not make for a very happy home although his wife never complains of her lot of poverty and disagreeable husband for she loves him and her family too well and besides, she has the reproach of her husband's people for not quite meeting their qualifications of "blue blood" for entrance into their family circle, via marrying the son and brother. And so the Ellerys jog along with the money earned from "jobs" given to Charles and with the hope that his real literary worth will be appreciated some day when they will live in ease.

But before his literary successes become realities an epidemic of flu strikes all the family except Mrs. Ellery and it is through her faithful care that the children recover, and then Charles takes it. Of course, Charles is much more ill than any others of the family and that he may have the proper quiet the children are sent with a nurse to a resort while Mrs. Ellery nurses her husband through the siege and then sends him away while she renovates the house in preparation of the family's return. But the strain of it all is too much and she falls ill only to find that an operation is all that will save her life and, of course, the inevitable happens, and she dies.

Charles Ellery, as usual, shifts the responsibility onto his mother and sisters of rearing his children. There follows a few years filled with humor, pathos, and pity for all while the children and their grandmother and aunts try to adjust themselves, on the one hand, to a most exacting grandma and two prim old maid aunts, on the other side, to three very childrenny children. Just as life was becoming interesting Charles Ellery marries again, and fortunately, a woman who seems to understand and to sympathize with the children and so she helps to bring out the best and the natural talents of the trio.

"The Chip and the Block" in many respects, is comparable to "The Perennial Bachelor" for it carries along without any thrills to arouse the reader's interest, especially, however in our judgment, it is a better story than the latter for it does interest in a way and does accomplish something in the final success of Charles Ellery's literary attempt.

and also in the development of the three children, in spite of disadvantages of childhood struggles.

PAYING THE FIDDLER
"Honesty is the best policy."

It has always been the best policy. It always will be.

A man may try to get by in this life by being dishonest with other people. But it cannot be done. All records of those who have led "shady" existences show that they received just deserts before the end of their time.

Charles Ponzi probably realizes that the straight and narrow way is the best.

He has done his best to fleece American people out of hard earned money. In many cases he was successful. But in the end, his exploitations were unfruitful.

But he was not satisfied with the failure of his first efforts. The government was too easy with him. So he went down to Florida and entered the real estate business. The public are acquainted with the outcome of his efforts. He was convicted of several charges of violating laws regulating the exchange of lands and sentenced to jail.

Ponzi is a sly old fox. We must give him credit for being one of the greatest financial tricksters of the age. He furnished bond in Florida, secured his release, and skipped the country.

Until a few days ago no one knew where he went. They didn't care particularly, just so he remained out of America. But Ponzi could not be satisfied. He got a job on a vessel and entered an American port in disguise.

American port officials probably are not as crafty as a fox. But they are clever and cunning. Ponzi found himself in the toils of the law within a short time after landing.

Today he faces the courts. And the courts, rest assured, are facing him as grim as death itself. Ponzi has violated the laws of this country the last time. He must pay for this crime against civilization, even as criminals before him have done.

The law of the harvest is to reap what you sow. And Ponzi must bow to this law.

BRYAN AND EVOLUTION

"Do those evolutionists stop to think of the crime they commit when they take faith out of the hearts of men and women, and lead them out into a starless night?"

These words were uttered by William Jennings Bryan shortly before his death in a little Tennessee town. The phraseology is wonderful. It is couched in terms of language which helped to make the "Commoner" one of the greatest orators of his time.

But there is something more significant than English style attached to the utterance. It is a great truth.

Mr. Bryan was one of the greatest defenders of the truth as presented by the Bible. He believed implicitly in the teachings of Christ. He believed that no good may be accomplished without a spiritual aid. He believed in the omnipotence and omniscience of the Creator. And he denied any teaching, any creed or dogma tending to sidetrack the simple truths of the word of a living God.

Mr. Bryan was armed in a great cause. It is a cause as holy as the cause of life itself, because without a giver of life, there would be no life. There would be no plan of creation without a creator. There would be no laws governing civilization without the laws of the greatest of lawgivers. God is the same today as he was yesterday. He will be the same tomorrow. And He will be God always.

In disputing the plan of creation as presented by the Bible, evolution is doing more to undermine civilization than any other thing we can imagine. The claim that the story of the Garden of Eden is a matter of fiction is desecrating the teachings of the Bible. It is an effort to destroy the faith of millions of human hearts striving to find the truth of life.

If we should be foolish enough to admit the teachings of evolution, what have we to satisfy the cravings of those millions of mortal souls? There is only one answer. Nothing.

The immortal Bryan was right. He will always be right. Civilization depends upon the Bible. Destroy it, and all is lost.

DOWN WITH THE FLAPPER TEACHER

Majority of 19,000 Farm Women Answering Query in Natin-Wide Survey, Say Better Teachers Are Needed Rather Than More Equipment

Chicago, July 1.—(INS)—"Down with the flapper teacher! Give us back the good old-fashioned school farm!" is the cry of the majority of 19,000 farm women who answered the question. "What is wrong with the rural school?" put to them in a nation-wide survey conducted by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

Not more country schools, but better teachers, older and wiser women who know more of life and are better fitted to guide children, is almost the universal plea, according to Mrs. Mary C. Punks, of the Foundation, who had charge of the compilation of the farm women's answers.

The American countryside, the survey revealed, still is dotted with "Little Red School Houses," and the average distance from the farm house to the school is one and two-third miles.

Despite the family fliker and better roads, however, the long truders to the school house is no a thing of the past. Figures gathered in the survey show that 6 per cent of rural school youngsters ride to school daily by auto; 6 per cent ride horseback, about 9 per cent are able to tell some kind neighbor, "Thanks for the buggy ride," and 18 per cent get to school by means of school buses covering regular routes. Sixty-one per cent of the rural pupils walk both ways between home and school.

In the corn belt— Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio— school houses average two miles from the farm houses and the bus system is better developed than in any other section. Twenty-nine per cent of the country children can ride to school in buses in these states.

In spite of the talk about consolidated schools, the little one-room one-teacher school house still is the rule. Seventy-two per cent of the rural schools are equipped for only one teacher who must teach all eight grades in one room. Twenty per cent of the country schools have two rooms, and 8 per cent are consolidated schools. Ten per cent of the country teachers are men, but most of them are employed in consolidated schools.

Women in Joke On Johnson

Minneapolis, July 1.—(INS)—Mangus Johnson, former United States senator and farmer-labor nominee for governor, finds himself in an embarrassing position these days. Mr. Johnson was aroused from bed at 2 a. m. by a group of women attending a business women's convention at the same hotel at which the former senator was staying.

"Let's have a speech," the women teased, while Mangus rubbed his eyes sleepily and was escorted down to the lobby.

Mr. Johnson began a political address, surrounded by a group of women.

"I want to say to you this afternoon—er, this morning—" he began, and the talkative Minnesota farmer was off on another lengthy oratorical outburst.

About 3:30 a. m. the night clerk called a halt to the impromptu political rally, and Mangus walked off muttering to bed. Some of the women giggled and others snickered while the remainder smiled.

Executive heads of the Business Women's Association heard of the nocturnal "prank" and immediately demanded an investigation. They charged that those responsible for awakening Mr. Johnson brought ridicule on themselves and the association instead of upon the former senator.

To which the authors of the girl's "prank" replied: "Just go and ask Mangus if we annoyed him."

Officials of the association confronted the ex-senator.

"Were you annoyed by being awakened?" they demanded to know.

Mangus blushed, and for once was unable to say anything.

And all subsequent efforts to determine whether he was "annoyed" have been fruitless.

PASTOR PEDDLES MILK TO INCREASE SALARY; CONGREGATION OBJECTS

Des Moines, July 1.—(INS)—Believing that the sale of milk on weekdays is not incompatible with the preaching of the Word of God on Sunday, the Rev. C. C. Cole, until recently pastor of the Grant Park Church of Christ here, continues to operate his dairy business and conduct revival services.

The congregation of the church here objected to their minister's side-line, with the result that he has resigned. He is at present conducting revivals in small Iowa towns and in the meantime casting about for new customers for his dairy.

In commenting on his resignation, the Rev. Cole said he saw no reason why he should not increase his income by the sale of milk.

N. Y. GIVES TREES FOR REFORESTATION

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—(INS)—The State Conservation Commission is preparing an illustrated bulletin on municipal or community forests showing how profitable use may be made of large areas of idle land that is suited to the growing of forest trees.

In nearly every county in New York State, the commission says, there are thousands of acres of land capable of producing crops of lumber and wood worth from $300 to $500. This land has grown forest in the past and can easily be used for that purpose now, the commission declared.

In commenting on the waste land, the commission said:

"The present economic waste in this idle land constitutes a serious problem that can be solved in large part by utilizing it for growing public forests. The state is encouraging such use by supplying trees in unlimited quantities free of charge.

"Emphasis is laid upon the fact that municipalities can afford to wait for forest crops and will be well repaid for waiting as has been proved for centuries by the success of public forests throughout Europe where they are an important source of revenue to the cities and towns that own and operate them."

Proves Mother is Your Closest Friend

Jersey City, Mr. J. Paul writes: "I awakened each morning with an unpleasant taste and was often reminded by my Mother that my breath was disagreeable. I tried perfumed tablets, mouth washes and other camouflages which gave temporary relief. After consulting my dentist and finding my teeth in good condition, a friend suggested my trouble was constipation. After taking a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills my stomach and bowels were relaxed, food and impure gases eliminated. Druggists, 25¢ & 75¢ red packages."

DOUGLAS MANSION, OLD N. Y. LANDMARK, HAS BEEN TAKEN DOWN

New York, July 1.—(INS)—Another old landmark of old New York is destined for oblivion. The old Douglas Mansion in West 14th street where Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, was entertained and where Theodore Roosevelt played as a boy, is being torn down. The Metropolitan Museum of Art was once housed within the high domed chambers. A half-century later its noble walls were humiliated by sheltering a typical East Side dance hall where an automatic piano banged out music and beer was sold for a nickel a drink. The Salvation Army took the building over for social work in 1907. The mansion was erected in 1840.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Moscow, July 1.—(INS)—America's famous gold brick swimmer has its Russian counterpart. Moscow communists are now relating with pleasure the tale of Mikhail Kolossoff, whose "bourgeois greed" cost him his fortune of 450 roubles.

Kolossoff, like all Russian peasants, prided himself on being, in spite of his illiteracy, considerably smarter matters of business than the cleverest "city slicker." Having 450 roubles, which made him a distinguished and unpopular figure in the province of Sartov, where the average wealth per inhabitant is about 75 cents a head, Kolossoff was esteemed more than usually astute.

He came to Moscow, and at the famous old Smolenski market met a cautious individual who offered to sell him a quantity of Czarist gold coins. Kolossoff had the chance to get rid of what he considered unstable Soviet currency. He invested his entire savings in the shining metal pieces.

An hour later the police were alerted at the entry of a distracted man who rushed in, threw a bag of coins on the desk, and demanded to know what they were. They turned out to be slightly gold-lined two-kopek coins of the regime of Nicholas. For his 450 roubles Michael had received exactly nothing, since Czarist kopeck pieces are no longer tender.

As a practical step toward realization of the Red Army chiefs' ideal that every citizen of the Soviet Union should know how to handle firearms and become, if possible, a good shot, the government has issued a decree announcing that all citizens have the right to purchase abroad and import without duty a small calibre rifle. These guns, it is stipulated, shall be for target and hunting purposes. A special supply of them has been assured at a cost of $15.

The significance of this concession can only be realized in view of the prohibitive tariff on all imports into Russia. So impossible high is the tariff that imported goods are entirely out of reach of any except unusually prosperous Nephews.

Some idea of the expensiveness of clothing in Moscow may be gained from the fact that it is cheaper to spend the $200 necessary for railroad fare and visas to go abroad and purchase an outfit of clothes than it is to buy it here in Russia. In addition to the minimum of $200 required to reach Paris and return, Russian citizens must pay the government

$110 for the privilege of leaving in spite of these charges, the passport department of the Moscow militia is constantly crowded with Russians, clamoring to get out on shopping tours, disguised as business trips.

Unemployed laborers in the Siberian gold mines of the Aidan region have received an unusual species of support from the government. They have been given a gold mine of their own. Organizing themselves into a co-operative, the formerly jobless workmen are now running the mine at a profit to themselves of about 12 roubles or $6 a day, which is marvellously high wages in Russia even for gold miners.

Napoleon. Professor Worm-Mueller believes that Britain's economic situation is most dangerous, more so than after Waterloo, when England had little competition.

Will Mr. Ivy Lee kindly have that book translated for the enlightenment of his clients?

Vincent Astor, well-known New Yorker, back from Europe, says: "I didn't go to France because the French are antagonistic to Americans. There is none of that in England."

Mr. Astor is mistaken. The British are more tactful, not less antagonistic, especially when they deal with an American whose letter of credit is deep.

When a man sees another to whom he owes a large sum that he cannot pay, he is not GLAD to see that creditor. That's how Europe feels toward the United States.

MISSES MOYS AND ANDREWS ENTERTAIN

Yesterday morning, the home of Miss Martha Moye, on Fifth street, was the scene of a very pretty party, when Miss Moye and Miss Elizabeth Andrews entertained at bridge, having as honor guests, Miss Elizabeth Fields, of Farmville, and her guests, Miss Olive Wiley, of Lynchburg, Va., and Miss Betsy McCorkle, of Salisbury; Miss Francis Porter, of Charlotte, house guest of Miss Andrews, Miss Della Batchelor, of Nashville, Miss Fannie Greene Allen, of Harrisonburg, Va., and Miss Dovie Burnett, who will be married in August.

Seven tables for bridge were arranged on the porch. The decorations were daisies and other summer flowers, carrying out a yellow and white color scheme.

On arrival, the guests were welcomed by the hostesses and served punch. The top score was made by Miss Clara Moye, who was given a box of dusting powder. The low score, shampoos, went to Miss Mary Lee Pittman. Miss Brunette, bride-elect, was given lingerie, while the other honorees were remembered with attractive dainties. Following the game a tempting ice course carrying out the yellow and white idea, was served.

NO MOVIES OR DANCEHALLS IN ANGORA: OPERA PLANNED

Angora, Turkey, June 30.—(AP)

—Angora is believed to be the only capital in the world where there are no cinemas, no theatres, dancehalls, cabarets or other places of amusement.

Although the Anatolian metropolis has a population of 81,500, there are no recreations or diversions of any kind. This is not due to any restrictions of the Koran or Turkish religion, but to the fact that Angora is just emerging from a mud village to a modern capital.

Mustapha Kemal, the Turkish Dictator, promises that in time the Turkish people and foreign residents will have ample amusements. Plans are now under way for the erection of an opera-house to seat 3,000 persons.
