Older Than That. Pie-Eating Prisoners. More Pay, Terrible. What Is Women's Work? By ARTHUR BRISBANE

At sunset, tonight, Tom Kippur will begin, ushering in year number 5687 since the creation of the world, according to the Jewish teachings. The Christian religion adopts the old Jewish calculation. Christians and Jews know that the earth is much more than five hundred million years old, that men have been building cities, and killing each other on it for a great deal more than six thousand years. The old figures are preserved for the sake of sentiment.

The Jewish people have moved about, like Celts, Normans, Danes and others. And have not dwindled. In New York City alone are at least 1,500,000 Jews, more than five times as many as existed in the days when David conquered and occupied the Mountain Fortress of Jerusalem. (See the second book of Samuel.)

To treat prisoners cruel is vile. To make a joke of their crime is stupid.

The Governor of New York should tell officials of Sing Sing what he thinks of their Labor Day pie-eating contest, twelve convicts with their hands tied behind their backs, eating pies like swine, for a $5 prize.

How does that impress men and women, out of prison, working to buy food for their children?

However stupid as it is, a prison with pie-eating contests is not as bad as the prison of that Good Bishop, in which prisoners wore iron collars with sharp spikes turned inward, so they could not lie down to sleep, or the Spanish prison in which the noble-hearted English prisoner resister found a man fastened to the wall, his feet above ground, starving.

His face clothed with blood and tears or the prison mines in which Peter the Great chained each prisoner to his wheelbarrow, to stay chained night and day until death releases him, better than the ancient galley where the man chained to the oar was released when he fainted or died, his hand cut off to save time, body thrown overboard and another slave chained in his place.

We are sentimental fools in our prisons, but we have improved. The stock market opened cheerful after Labor Day, but, with one crumpled rose leaf in the bed of high finance, it fears that ag-

AUNT TO SHARE LARGE FORTUNE OF VALENTINO

Million Dollar Estate of Movie Star Divided Between His Brother, Sister and Aunt

Los Angeles, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino bequeathed a third of his estate valued at more than a million dollars to Mrs. Teresa Werner, an aunt by marriage, who remained loyal to him during a separation from Winifred Hudnut, his former wife. Miss Hudnut is cut off by $1.00 by the terms of the will.

That Mrs. Werner is to share equally with Valentino's brother and sister in the final distribution of his estate, was learned here yesterday when the provisions of the late screen star's will were made public by W. I. Gilbert, a confidential attorney. Gilbert has announced that he will file the document for probate tomorrow.

Attorney Gilbert professed to have no knowledge of the existence of the will until he received word from New York that it would be turned over to him to file. The will was dated September 1, 1925 and it was said to have been drawn to supercede one in which Valentino had made Mrs. Hudnut, then his wife, the sole heiress.

Valentino left an estate in excess of $1,000,000 according to the estimate of his attorney. This estimate does not include his right in two pictures still running which are expected to result in a gross earning of more than a million dollars. Some of the properties listed as left by Valentino were: his home in Beverly Hills valued at $175,000 and another house and seven-acre tract, a collection of armor and antiques, eight automobiles, a racing stable with five horses, 15 pedigreed dogs, a yacht, a complete bird collection and two bird aviaries, and a personal jewelry collection. In addition, his wardrobe is said to contain many suits of clothes, 50 pairs of shoes, 300 neckties, and 1,000 pairs of socks, exclusive of costumes used in the pictures.

Four Die From Automobile Wrecks Near Smithfield

Smithfield, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Miss Catherine Wyndham, of Wilson Mills, died early today at a local hospital as the result of an automobile accident between here and her home Monday afternoon. Her death brought to four the total of deaths caused by two automobile accidents near Smithfield Monday night. Her mother died instantly in the same accident.

The accident occurred when Miss Wyndham's brother lost control of an automobile when the car skidded and struck a sand bar and overturned. The other accident, in which there were two deaths, occurred Monday night when two men were killed when an automobile was in collision with an Atlantic Coast Line train.

Daring Robbery Staged Aboard Illinois Central Train During Last Night

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three dapper Chicago bandits, who robbed three diamond merchants of a half million dollars worth of jewelry on an Illinois Central train near here last night, were captured in a corn field near Buckley, Ill., this morning.

The bandits timed their movements last night by railroad schedule and bound, gagged and locked the three merchants just before the train arrived here from Chicago and then stepped out on the station platform. Without hurrying they hailed a taxi cab and were driven to nearby Urbana, where they engaged a driver and another car and started on their flight to Chicago, 120 miles away.

So quiet and methodical was their work that others on the Pullman were unaware of the robbery until the train neared Mattoon, 70 miles further south. Then William Davidson, of San Francisco, freed himself and his two companions, Joseph Risken, New York, and Morris Minsky, of San Francisco, and the alarm was given.

The bandits entered the drawing room of the three jewelry men 20 minutes before the train reached Champaign and bound the trio, rifled their suit cases and then bolted the compartment door. They did not make a thorough search as they missed $50,000 in uncut diamonds in Risken's satchel. Davidson told officials everything indicated the bandits knew of the jewelers' movements and what they had with them. The gems, he said, were fully insured against theft.

Word of the robbery was dispatched over railroad wires from Mattoon and the pursuit began. The men were finally located early today, having left their automobile at Loda when it had engine trouble and they started on the road to Chicago on foot. Poses were organized quickly to scour the entire section.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR APPEAL OF MURDER CASE

Will Hear Appeal of W. L. Ross, of Warren County, Now Under Sentence of Death

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The appeal of W. L. Ross, of Warren county, sentenced to electrocution for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Odum, will be heard by the Supreme Court next Tuesday when that body begins work on the thirty cases that constitutes the unusually heavy docket from the third and fourth judicial districts.

The appeal is based on 34 exceptions taken during the trial by attorneys for the defendant. The future of the exceptions is an allegation that the defense did not have the opportunity to prepare its case in that attorneys were neither able to have the prisoner properly examined by an alienist, nor to collect information concerning the killing.

Ross killed Mr. and Mrs. Odum on May 16, last. He was rushed to state prison the night after the killing to prevent mob action. Two days later he was taken back to Warren county and tried and one week after the killing he was back in state prison under sentence of death.

The double killing followed, according to evidence brought out in the trial, acts of kindness administered by the Odoms to Sally Bet Ross, the defendant's stepdaughter. It was alleged that the young girl left Ross' home on account of his ill treatment and was taken in by the Odoms. Ross, it was said, went to the Odom home to discuss the matter and during his visit became enraged and shot her protectors. The girl herself escaped when Ross stumbled while pursuing her. The man has been in state prison since the trial and has made no attempt at suicide.

Among the other cases on the docket is the appeal of R. E. Crowder, former cashier of the defunct Farmers and Merchants Bank of Henderson who recently was sentenced to serve 20 years on ten charges of misappropriation of funds of the bank.

W. N. POINDEXTER DIES OF INJURIES AUTO ACCIDENT

Winston-Salem Man, Well-Known Here, Died in Durham Hospital Just Before Noon

W. N. Poindexter, Jr., 26, of Waverly, near Winston-Salem, died shortly before noon today in a Durham hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident Tuesday night near Little River. Physicians said the young man died as a result of a compound fracture of both legs, loss of blood and shock. It was more than an hour after the accident before those at the scene of the wreck were able to extricate him from the wreckage. Funeral arrangements had not been announced this afternoon.

Mr. Poindexter was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Poindexter, Sr., of Waverly. He was a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a member of the A. T. O. fraternity. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the Waverly Chair Manufacturing Co. On June 27, 1925 he was married to Miss Nancy Arthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Arthur, of this city.

The deceased is survived by his widow and an infant daughter, his parents, a sister, Mrs. Frank Hanes, and a brother, N. S. Poindexter, of Waverly.

Mrs. Poindexter was visiting her parents in this city at the time of the accident and left immediately for Durham Tuesday night when advised that her husband had been injured. Mr. L. C. Arthur, Miss Virginia Arthur, Messrs. J. P. and R. B. Arthur left shortly afterwards today for Durham.

One Divorce to Five Marriages in California

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—California, country of the silver sheet's slacks and shebas, granted one divorce for every five marriages last year, according to preliminary figures compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce, which were made public today.

The figures also reveal that both marriages and divorces decreased from the total in 1924, and that divorces led in the decrease.

During 1925, according to a table which is subject to correction before official publication, there were 55,080 marriages performed in the state, as compared with 56,877 in 1924, representing a decrease of 597, or 1.1 per cent.

During 1925 divorces numbered 10,623, according to the same tables, and the year before to 11,258. This accounts for a decrease of 635, or 5.6 per cent.

The estimated population of California on July 1, 1925, was 4,179,708 and on July 1, 1924, was 4,048,503. On the basis of these figures, the number of marriages per 1,000 population was 13.2 in 1925 and 13.8 in 1924, and the number of divorces per 1,000 population was 2.54 in 1925 as against 2.78 in 1924.

Largest Increases in Enrollment Shown in First Grade and the High School Department

The Greenville City Schools opened this morning with the largest enrollment in the history of the schools. 1365 were enrolled in the white schools. The schools for the negroes will not open until next week. The mark reached by the white schools this morning was 115, in excess of what it was on the opening day of school last year. The enrollment by building was as follows: High School, 386; Intermediate School, 219; Model School, 217; West Greenville, 201; Evans St. School, 336.

The largest increases are in the high school and in the first grades. The high school has a freshman class of nearly 200, and has already enrolled more pupils than it did for the whole of the school year last year. The first grades have enrolled 185 which is an increase of 50. Every department shows an increase enrollment.

The principals of the various buildings had a conference yesterday morning with the superintendent of schools and after yesterday afternoon there was a general teachers meeting. At this meeting all teachers joined a unit of the North Carolina Educational Association. Following this Superintendent Rose took up with the teachers the general plan of work for the year, stating that three major aims of the schools for the coming year were character building, health and music.

When the general meeting adjourned the teachers went to the various buildings and there held a meeting with their building principal.

This morning the schools opened at 8:40 o'clock. In the elementary grades the children were dismissed at 10:30 o'clock. In the high school a full day's program was carried out without a hitch. This was made possible because of previous work and organization.

When the elementary schools were dismissed this morning, each teacher was taken by mother and in an automobile they made calls on all children who were absent from school this morning.

Beginning tomorrow morning all the schools will move out on a regular full time schedule. At a later date, the time to be announced, each school will hold an assembly period for the purpose of inviting all the parents of the town to come to the school and meet all the teachers.

FLORIDA PROBES PRISON METHODS AS MANY ESCAPE

Investigation Is Ordered of State Penitentiary System When Prisoners Flee; Governor Martin Declares State's Jails Are Out of Date Completely

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 9.—(INS)—Florida's increasing number of convict escapes from the state road camps, the state prison at Raiford and by prisoners being taken from one place to another has resulted in a quiet but intensive investigation of the state's penal system by official and private sources, which may lead to revolutionization of Florida's prison methods.

Very few days pass when an escape of one or more prisoners is reported from one of the Florida road camps maintained at several points from country and city jails or even from courtrooms.

The prisoners for the main part are not classified as desperadoes, but many of them have been incarcerated for serious crimes. Most of the escaped prisoners are recaptured and returned to imprisonment, but the state prison bureau has records of scores who apparently have dropped off this planet completely.

The recent escape of Joe Tracy, notorious killer, robber and underworld Lothario centered the attention of the state on the prison situation. Tracy who had been confined at Raiford penitentiary since his sentence to life imprisonment for killing a negro taxi driver was released in custody of prison guards and his attorney on his promise to unearth $130,000 worth of stolen bonds.

After a meandering course over central Florida in which he led his captors from one city to another Tracy made an easy escape, and despite a state-wide scrutiny of all possible hiding places has not been heard from.

The investigation immediately started to determine responsibility for the escape of Tracy and one of his captors was dismissed from the state service. J. S. Blitch, superintendent of the state farm at Raiford was ordered not to allow prisoners to leave the penitentiary unless he was sure their guards were competent to prevent escapes.

Reports from Moore, Haven that prisoners were allowed to leave the prison farm without guards for visits to relatives, resulted in another investigation which ended in more strict rules being placed in effect.

Several newspapers began private investigations of the numerous escapes and the Tampa Times in a series of articles entitled, discovered that fifteen guards, eight on duty during the day and seven at night, watched over 900 prisoners.

Governor John Martin in a letter to the Times described the Raiford prison as hopelessly out of date.

Some of the walls could be kicked out by prisoners to escape, and only the honor systems keeps more prisoners from leaving, Governor Martin asserted.

Bloodhounds and trusted convicts who have extensive knowledge of the countryside near Raiford bring back many of the escaped prisoners, in fact the number of escaped prisoners who are recaptured is exceptionally high, according to the governor's statement that only the morale of the prison keeps the number of escapes lower than it might be.

inous coal. Among topics listed for discussion, in addition to a coal-base substitute for gasoline, are smokeless fuel; pulverized fuel; high temperature and low temperature pulverization; gasification of coal; by-products and hydro-electric power as compared with steam power.

Throughout Europe there is a great deal of research being done to get more out of coal. In France, Germany and England scientists are vying with each other to perfect a substitute for petroleum to be made from soft coal. There have been several successful experiments along this line at none, to date, which could be utilized on an economic basis.

Of course, these men are working not alone in the interests of science, but to fulfill a great national need. Each nation seeks to be self-sustaining in the matter of petroleum supply. At present, European nations must depend upon imports. If they are able to utilize their great coal deposits as potential petroleum supply, then they will have solved a crying national need.

Technologists the world over have shown greatest interest in the conference to be held at Carnegie Institute, Dr. Baker said. The question of utilization of bituminous coal deposits for petroleum supply has engaged the government; of Europe so deeply that practically every scientist of note has been called to give his attention to the multitudinous experiments now under way.

San Francisco's Street Car System Pays; 5 Cent Fare

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—(INS)—One of the hardest business propositions these days apparently is to make a street car system break even on a five cent fare—to say nothing of making the darn thing pay dividends.

There are mighty few privately owned traction companies in the country today able to turn this little trick at a nickle a ride—and the municipally owned systems that do it are still fewer.

One of the latter, however, is San Francisco's city owned street car system—one of the wonders of the business world. The fare is one round nickle and for this the passenger can ride as far and as long as he pleases.

With this fare not only does the local system make both ends meet but for years it has turned out a tidy surplus as well. And it pays its employees fully as much as companies that collect higher fares.

According to the report just submitted to Superintendent Fred Baker by Chief Accountant William H. Scott, San Francisco's Municipal Railway System is continuing its performance of past years, with a good percentage of increased business recorded for the first six months of 1926.

The system has been showing an increased business of 31-2 per cent annually since its inception. To June 30 this year the system carried 83,390,008 passengers, with total receipts of $3,413,873.21. Included in these figures are three bus lines which are operated at a loss.

Practically every cent of the surplus is being used for building new lines and extending the operations of the system. The high cost of equipment and construction is not helping materially the speed with which the system is branching out, but considerable construction work is always going on.

An instance of what the system—and all traction systems for that matter—is up against in the way of costs was given by an official of the organization. A year or two ago for certain types of cars the system was paying $7,109. The same car today cost more than $16,000.

Whereas a few years ago a mile of track could be laid for $80,000 or $90,000, that mile today costs more than $150,000.

Chief Accountant Scott admits that the automobile is cutting into the street car business but in San Francisco the situation is not as bad as it is in some other cities.

Smokeless Soft Coal As Substitute for Gasoline Latest

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9.—(INS)—The possibility of manufacturing a substitute for gasoline out of soft coal will be among the topics for discussion among internationally known scientists who will gather in Pittsburgh on November 15 to 19. It was announced today by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

World leaders in the fields of science and engineering will be among the delegates to the International Conference on Bituminous Coal, to be held under the auspices of Carnegie Institute. Dr. Baker stated on his return from a ten weeks' visit abroad to arrange for the conference.

The purpose of the meetings, Dr. Baker pointed out, is to bring together men of all countries who have done outstanding research work for the utilization of bitum-

Those first hints of what the smart world would don in fall, have now developed into the authentic mode, represented by these distinctive Frocks and Wraps. There is a marked simplicity of line and absence of adornment, for fabrics are beautiful in color and often patterned. Moire and broadcloth are the latest innovations, and have acquired a well-deserved popularity. The skirt receives marked attention on new Frocks—often it is tiered, or cleverly pleated. AMERICAN DESPATCHES CARRY PARIS DATE LINE

London, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The American visitors to London are puzzled frequently for a time by reading the headlines in the British papers which are topped some thing like this: "U. S. Mail Train, Robber," and as they read further it is noted that the story is under a Paris date line. This is due to the fact that several papers here pick up American news from the American newspapers published in the French capital.

Here is an example: "Paris, Sunday, August 15. "Three bandits boarded the Omaha Portland mail train near Rawlins, Wyoming, United States on Saturday, compelled the driver to run the train at a snail's pace bound and gagged four mail clerks and escaped with twelve sacks of registered letters and parcels."

The story goes on to say that "the value of the stolen goods is not known, says the New York Herald, (Paris edition)", which gives the reader an idea of the source of this particular item.

MOTORIZING HUNGARY

Budapest, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The plodding peasants of Hungary are beginning to buy motor ploughs in large numbers and trundle over their acres in true mid-western fashion. Last year more than half a million acres were ploughed by the motorized implements in this country, the number of machines having increased from 245 in 1914 to 549 in 1925. Of motor ploughs broken all records for size than a thousand.

CAPE MAY STAGES BEAUTY CONTEST; NO MENTION MADE OF BATHING SUITS

Cape May Court House, N. J.—Sept. 9.—(INS)—A beauty contest without bathing suits! Cape May County will witness such a contest on September 16-17-18, when "Miss Cape May County" will be chosen. The contestants will be reviewed in this city by judges who reside outside the county.

To be eligible girls must be single and must never have been married. Qualifications to be considered in choosing the victor are facial beauty, physical beauty and grace.

A handsome loving cup will be given "Miss Cape May County."

The beauty contest is attracting widespread attention because of the lack of the bathing suit feature.

GIRL OF ELEVEN WINS SPELLING CHAMPIONSHIP

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 9.—INS—Irene Gansill, of Liberty, Sullivan county, is the New York State spelling champion.

She earned that title in the annual spelling bee at the State Fair when she spelled more than 1,000 words with but a single mistake.

The only word that Irene failed on was "differential" which she gave two f's and she failed on that after the 55 other contestants had bowed in defeat.

By her victory Irene won the cash prize of $50 for the winner of the contest.

CZECH HONOR SOCIETY

Prague, Sept. 9.—(AP)—It is an honor to belong to "Sdruzeni pro zajmy posuchacke a absolvent vryshduoin" here, the federation of university graduates as it numbers but 230 women. BUILD HUGE STADIUM OF SALVAGED LUMBER

San Antonio, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Material salvaged from the barracks of old Camp Travis near Fort Sam Houston, where thousands of troops trained during the World War, is being used to construct the Fort Sam Houston Hippodrome, the largest stadium made of salvaged lumber in the country.

All construction is being done by the Second Engineers along plans devised by Colonel Lytle Brown, formerly an instructor in the staff school at Leavenworth, and one of the best known men in the army.

IRISH CENSUS SHOWS DECREASE IN POPULATION

London, Sept. 9.—(INS)—The large number of Irish men and women killed in the Black and Tan wars and other Irish fighting of recent years is given in a preliminary census of the Irish Free State as one of the main reasons for the decline in population.

The census shows that the population of the Irish Free State is now less than three million, having fallen from 3,139,688 in 1911 to 2,979,802 in 1925.

There are only 973 females for every 1,000 males in the country. Emigration and the withdrawal of the British army of Occupation and their dependents are given as the other two main reasons for the decline.

MEXICO DEMANDING U. S. SPORT GOODS

Washington, Sept. 9.—(INS)—A market for American sporting goods is rapidly increasing in Mexico, it was announced today by the Department of Commerce, as Mexicans continue to turn from the bull fighting to individual competition on the field of athletics.

During the first half of the year, American manufacturers exported $215,000 in athletic equipment to the republic across the Rio Grande, it was said. This was nearly 75 per cent of the sporting goods exports to Canada and twice the value of the same variety of exports to Cuba.

On the whole, the department stated, American manufacturers have but little competition in Mexico with the exception of Spain and Belgium are showing increased strength.

"I have never made any contention that a criminal cannot get a fair trial in any other commonwealth in the Union and won't have I am governor," he declared, adding that if this course were universally followed it would help greatly the relations between the states, especially in regard to extradition proceedings.

Farley was held by the sheriff of Haywood County after the governor had honored extradition papers because the sheriff wished to collect a $500 reward. Governor McLean sent him a sharp telegram of censure and ordered the

FACTS AND FIGURES

While it is not our idea to start a controversy with any of the surrounding tobacco markets nor newspapers in the respective towns, we would call attention to reports published in this and other newspapers on the opening of the eastern markets and the claims made by the various papers for their markets

In yesterday's issue of the Reflector it was stated that "Greenville Led the State." This assertion was supported by the official report of the Secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade to the effect that on Tuesday the Greenville Market sold 845, 106 pounds of tobacco for $219,935.75, an average of $2.02 per hundred pounds.

Some papers of the section today carry reports with similar claims for their markets, but supported only by estimates and no definite figures. In view of these unsupported statements we still claim that GREENVILLE LED THE STATE and to the tobacco farmers we respectfully submit Greenville's official figures for comparison with like figures from elsewhere.

"DRUNKEN DRIVERS MUST GO."

Judge W. A. Darden dealt a blow to drunken drivers by his action in this week's session of county court by imposing heavy fines and suspended sentences upon offenders and prohibiting them from operating an automobile within the county for certain periods of time. This is a step in the right direction toward breaking up the practice of loading up on moonshine whiskey and then driving automobiles on the public thoroughfares.

Efforts to mix gasoline and whiskey result in a deadly combination and drunken drivers of automobiles should be placed behind prison walls where they can get their hands on neither the alcohol nor the automobile. Judge Darden has indeed made a start toward ridding the county of the menace of the drunken driver, and if his action Tuesday and yesterday does not bring forth the desired results, no doubt he will substitute long jail sentences in the place of heavy fines when the next offenders are brought before him.

Perhaps a stenographer who tried to swim the English Channel quit because someone told her it was five o'clock.—Durham Sun.

PRESS COMMENT

MORAL OF THE MARKET

(News and Observer) Early anticipations of good prices on tobacco markets in the Eastern markets were realized yesterday when, according to reports from the tobacco belt prices were materially higher than last year and farmers were well pleased.

If there is any moral to the uncertainty of market, it is the warning shouted out long ago to the man who carried all his eggs in one basket. The maintenance of good prices on the tobacco markets will insure good living on the farms this fall, just as the collapse of prices will doom a large part of Carolina to the point of distress.

It should not be so. The preachers of diversification have pronounced their judgments against the one crop practice so long, the sound of their complaining voices have become so much a part of the routine that, apparently, the effect is lost. Here and there, it appears they have made progress. Here and there farmers have heeded the advice or learned the bitter lesson in their own experience. Wherever you see the farmer who provides for his family from the products of his farm, produces something to sell in addition to the principal staple crop you have a man who can send his children to school, who can provide home conveniences, who can equip his farm with the most approved machinery, and who, if he cannot snap his finger at the tobacco and cotton markets, at least can watch the fluctuation with the assurance that though the worst come it will not be accompanied by want.

U.S. TEACHERS FIND NEW FUN IN EUROPE

Not Only the Millionaire, But the School Teacher From the Little Red School House Now Spend Vacation in European Countries

Paris, Sept. 9.—(INS) — The American school teacher is beginning to discover Europe. Not only the high salaried specialist from the immense granite structures in New York, Chicago and San Francisco but the humble school mar'm from the little red school house in Indiana and Texas has found the charm of Paris and the beauty of France, according to the report made by an important travel agency and steamship company.

A transcontinental trip to either New York or Los Angeles for two months cost well over one thousand dollars, while the same time can be spent in Europe if one stays in a country of depreciated exchange for about half that sum.

A new generation of American travelers is beginning to appear abroad. Gone is the well known effete globe trotter and in his place is the modern type of American tourist: alert, energetic and middle class, spending his money freely but discriminatingly.

All that is best in European culture is more readily and more gratefully absorbed by this new type. In the days before the war none but the richest could afford to travel; a trip to Europe was a luxury. Now it is practically a necessity. Young college men esteem it the best graduation present, young professors cherish a sojourn in Europe with opportunities for research in the oldest libraries in the world.

Hotel directors in certain parts of France tell us the most desirable type of client is the middle class American. They have more enthusiasm and less criticism and seem to be genuinely pleased with any additional service.

The slump of the French franc has had many results that seem to have worked out to the reciprocal advantage of both France and the United States. It has enabled many Americans to visit France. That source of profit has been abundantly tapped by the travel agencies. At the same time the amount of money usually left in France by Americans, which has been estimated at many millions of dollars is considerably increased.

First Woman Coast to Coast Flier, Was a Housekeeper

Salem, Mass., Sept. 9.—(INS) —When a woman achieves the distinction of being the first of her sex to make a coast-to-coast flight in a commercial plane as a passenger, the first to brave the perils of the vast ether that stretches from Los Angeles to Salem, one might expect to hear a story that would be of interest to psychol. But Miss Lydia P. Grove, of this city, seemed to take the feat as a matter of fact, and was distinctly proud, not of the flight, but the fact that she was the first woman to literally bring housekeeping to its highest level.

Let her tell it: "Several weeks ago, we went to Ritzville, Washington, on a trip. When it came time to return, I decided to go back to Salem by plane. I had flown in planes before, and was not the least bit afraid.

"Mr. James Luther Adams, a minister and a friend of the family, accompanied me on the trip. Of course, the sensation of seeing the country unfold itself as we roared through the air, thrilled me. We crossed the Grand Canyon and it seemed like a picture in the fairy book.

"But what I enjoyed most was the role of 'housekeeper.' We did no night flying, and as we flew from dawn to sunset, it was my duty to do the cooking.

"It was very light housekeeping, I admit. But I'll wager no man enjoyed a pot of coffee more than the pilot and we two passengers.

LIBRARY NEWS

Our Slogan: "Let the Library Serve Greenville"

Library Hours for Fall and Winter: 2 to 9 P. M.

The list of books for juniors which we announced a few weeks ago, are now in circulation and know the juniors are glad for a last dip of reading before beginning of school. There added for juniors also "The African Boy" through the kindness of Paul Fitzgerald, Jr.

Besides the above, we added following for adults this past week: "The Black Hunter," "The Hunted Women," "The Snows," all by J. O. Curwood; "Understand Heart," by Kynne; "Padlock," by Rex Beach; "Crow Cur," "Hustler, Joe," "The Girls His Billet," "Subconscious Artship," "Wrong Mr. Right," "Official Fiance," by Bertha K.; "The Last Trail," "The Undering Herd," by Zane Grey; "The Water," by Lincoln; "The House of the Godless Valley," by Honoré Wilsie; "House of the Evening Pine," by Anne K. Ken; "Prill's Girl," by Caro Wells; "Rocking Moon," by Willoughby; "Empty Hands," by Arthur Stringer; "The Great Renovation," by E. P. Oppen; "The Night Operator," by F. L. Packard; "Pleasure Buy," by A. S. Roche; "Ariel," by G. L. Hill; "I've Married Marjorie," by Margaret Widdemer; "The Tale of Trioma," by W. J. Locke; "Smiles" and "Smiling Pass," by E. H. Robinson; "Story of the Bible," by Hulbert; "Nomad's Land," by M. R. Rinehart; and a few reprints to replace some popular old ones worn out.

The August report of circulation of books did not fall so low as we expected. There were 1652 books in circulation, making an average of 62 plus a day during the month. 112 was the greatest number in one day. There were 21 new readers added during the month of August and 22 persons did reference work in the library.

The book reviews from the International Mind Alcove that Rev. J. E. W. Cook has been giving, are especially timely now for they ought to be a guide for choosing the non-fiction type of reading which ought to be planned now for the winter. Following is another review which Rev. Cook gives this week.

"The Jangling Chinese" by Edward Alsworth Ross. In the ten chapters of this book Dr. Ross has succeeded in giving to his readers a most comprehensive view of the vast country of China, its physical appearance and resources; the occupations of its teeming millions; and their terrific struggle for existence; but he has done more—he has opened up the thoughts of the Chinese and explained with clarity their way of looking upon life and its serious problems.

The End of a Long, Hard Swim

Mrs. Clemington Corson is shown finishing her swim across the English Channel, in a fainting condition. (The Washington International News)

One cannot do justice to this reliable. The attractive old people of China are one of its charms and a living proof that there mental outlook is not to be despised.

Chapter 1. China to the Range Eye. In this chapter is clearly shown the evil results of deforestation; a warning quite worth while the attention of our own national and state authorities.

Chapter 2. The Race Fiber of the Chinese. This chapter shows why the Chinese are able to withstand conditions that the resistant and recuperative powers of our race cannot overcome. "The survival of the fittest" under severest conditions has produced a toughness with which we cannot compete. "Reilly can outdo Ah San, but Ah San can underlie Reilly." That is a fact which should interest every worker in our country.

Chapter 3. The Race Mind of the Chinese. (The intellectual capacity of the yellow race is equal to that of the white; and foreigners who know them best find them extremely likable and intelligent may be had in Chapter 4. The Struggle for Existence in China. "The silk worms are eaten after the cocoon has been unwound from them. After their work is done, horses, donkeys, mules, and camels become butcher's meat." Overpopulation is one of the great factors in the struggle. "If people will blindly breed when there is no longer room to raise more food, the penalty must fall somewhere."

Chapter 5. The Industrial Future of China is full of interest. Think of the cheapness of labor. "In the steel works at Hanyang common labor gets $3.00 a month. Coal miners get seven cents a day and found; that is, a cent's worth of rice and meal. They work eleven hours a day up to their knees in water, and all have swollen legs."

Speaking broadly, in any part of the empire, willing laborers of intelligence may be had in any number at from eight to fifteen cents a day.

Yet, "Not we, nor our children but our grandchildren will need to be awake nights. It is along in the latter half of this century that the yellow man's economic competition will begin to mold with giant hands the policies of the plants."

Chapter 6 deals with The Grapple with the Opium Evil and Chapter 7 with Unbinding the Women of China, both in interesting and informing way.

Chapter 8. Christianity in China. "None need despair at the outlook for they perceive that the aggressive rivalry of Christianity, coupled with the coming diffusion of education among the masses, is bound to raise continually the religious plank of the Chinese by forcing the native faiths to assume higher and higher forms in order to survive."

Chapter 9, entitled The Far West of the Far East, deals with a twelve hundred mile trip to Chengtu, the capital of Szechuan in the summer of 1910; and the last, Chapter 10, is on The New Education. It ends with this sentence: "The renaissance of a quarter of the human family is occurring before our eyes and we have only to sit in the parquet and watch the stage."

If you would know how and when the "Yellow Peril" is likely to come, and why, you must read the whole book.

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace have conferred a favor on Greenville in placing this book in the "International Mind Alcove" of our library.

FELT STUPID, DULL
Mississippi Lady Says She Took Black-Draught For These Symptoms and Was "Greatly Relieved."

Starkville, Miss.—"I have been a user of Black-Draught for about twenty years," says Mrs. C. E. Buntin, of R. F. D. 5, this city. "I used Black-Draught first for constipation," continues Mrs. Buntin. "I would feel dull, stupid, and have severe headaches, even feverish. I had an uneasy, tight feeling in my stomach. "I read quite a bit about Black-Draught. I began using it and soon my bowels acted regularly and I was greatly relieved. I used it every once in a while for about eighteen years. "About two years ago I found I was having indigestion, a tight smothering in my chest, then severe pain, especially after eating sweets. I commenced taking just a pinch of Black-Draught after meals and by doing this I could eat about anything. "I gave Black-Draught to my children for colds and headaches. I can certainly recommend it." Theford's Black-Draught is recommended by thousands of others for the relief of indigestion, biliousness and simple ailments due to constipation. Safe, easy to take. Costs only 1 cent a dose. "You are right," she said, "but while I know you save your customers lots of money, I never thought there was such a large difference."

She told how she had bought the same articles at a "sale" a few days before and paid $7.49 for them.

The salesman explained that the prices on her sales-slip were our regular prices, which never change except when there is some drastic price-changes at the mills.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

London, Sept. 9.—(INS)—This Fall is going to be a very blue one for fashionable London men-about-town, according to the early hints of London tailors. Plumbeous China Blue, and Madonna Blue are among the new colors threatened for suits, topcoats, and hats.

Sir Phillip Sassoon, one of England's richest and most eligible bachelors, is already affecting suits of these shades and the Prince of Wales was observed coming out of York House the other day in a near-blue turn-down hat.

These three shades of blue, according to the tailors, are to be the leading colors, because they tone well with other shades. Shades for hats in a list that reads more like a dressmaker's than a hatter's include Bordeaux, Chili, and Amalea, three tones of red, cedarwood and bluff, and lilac, stormy-gray, chamouis, and sage.

London's literary coterie is already excited over H. G. Wells' new novel, The World of Mr. Cissoid, the first volume of which is due to be published during this month, and the other two volumes at monthly intervals. Wells' publishers have made an arbitrary innovation for London, sending the book to the reviewers three weeks before the date of publication. Sybil well-known English people who are still living are said to be portrayed in the new book.

American tracked to the North for the grouse shooting season in greater number than ever this season, according to the tourist agencies, railroads, and leading hotels. Terrific prices are reported to have been paid for the pleasure of rutting several of the more famous Scottish moors, much to the displeasure of many English sports men, who complain that the Americans—with their freedom with money—are forcing up prices to an unprecedented extent.

Pierpont Morgan was one of the many distinguished Americans who made the Journey North, while others who rented moors were Viscountess Furness, the former Thelma Morgan Converse, Jardine Bell

Zoning Laws to Affect Human Moods By Change In Styles of Buildings

ZONING laws in the principal cities of the United States have started a change in the prevailing style of business buildings which may determine whether the American of the next decade is a cheerful or a gloomy person. This is the double possibility seen by most of the leading architects today.

Deadly monotony, jarring chaos, or harmonious beauty may come out of the new trend, which so far is largely in its formative stage. Whatever style the new architecture takes, those who have studied the problem declare it will have its effect upon the people who must look upon it daily.

Among the chief causes of the change at this time, are the requirements that walls can be built only to certain heights, above which they must be set back further from the street, giving the effect of a terrace, or huge steps, so that more light and air are available for occupants of the lower offices.

Architects predict a tendency, particularly in the more crowded districts, to build all walls to the maximum height allowed, forming a straight sky-line, or at least a straight cornice line at the first level.

The situation is compared to that which prevailed when most of New York City's famous "brownstones" were built. Four stories was found to be the most convenient height, with the result that monotonous rows of four-story brownstones stretch for block after block, almost without decoration to relieve the monotony. In the period of reaction which followed every builder sought to be different from every other, so that the effect of each was lost. Parts of Fifth Avenue are cited as instances of this chaotic construction.

The problem now, in the opinion of architects, is to avoid both of these evils. With the heights largely determined by law and the demands to use all available space, it is hoped to avoid the depressing effects of monotony by the inclusion of brighter color designs in such materials as terra cotta, and by the use of fitting ornamentation at the various cornice lines.

Whyte, of New York, J. L. Steers of Boston and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Glorney, of Boston. Many Americans unable to make the trip North emulated the English gorments by having grouse sent down by airplane a few hours after the official shooting season opened.

Prominent hoteliers and storekeepers estimate that London hotels and stores benefited to the tune of five million dollars a day by the anti-American demonstrations in Paris, many Americans having cancelled proposed trips to London and England through the fear of being involved in "incidents."

The whole of the English Royal Family is now vacationing. King George and Queen Mary are leading the simple life at Balmoral.

Although the type of the building practically prevents such decorations as the old overhanging cornices, it is pointed out that some pleasing design is needed at the set-back lines because these parts of the roofing are visible to the occupants of the upper stories of the building.

The Prince of Wales is spending his time between London and visits to Sandwich for golf, and other members of the Royal Family are at their respective country homes for shooting, walking, and deer-stalking.

London society circles credit Prince Henry, third son of King George and Queen Mary, with the intention of taking unto himself a bride in the very near future. The names of a young Scandinavian princess and an accomplished daughter of an English peer, a distant relation of the Royal Family, are being mentioned.

tation for better wages among railroad employees may be successful, it might even add one hundred million dollars a year to the railroad payroll. The present prosperity of the railroads will probably force the granting of something.

Wouldn't that be too bad. Men that own railroad stocks, and never do, never did, never will do any hard work, think it sad that the men working on the railroads should get one hundred million dollars more a year. That would be a great deal less than thirty cents a day average for each man, while the railroads get the hundreds of millions more and have the Government and its interstate commerce commission always ready to force the public to pay higher rates if railroads need them.

The government, compelling the public to pay more for railroad service, without giving the public anything to say about it,

It is contended that those who live or work in the vicinity of these buildings would be unconsciously depressed by dull colors and the absence of graceful lines, while brighter tones and beauty of form would exercise a cheering influence.

Interior decorators have recognized the effect of surroundings on the individual's good, and architects now say that exterior appearances, on a mass, are as important, or more so, because of the greater number of persons affected.

should also compel railroads to pay more to working people, without giving railroads anything to say about it. But government and its workings are arranged by those that own the railroads, not by those that work on the railroads.

Fifty years ago, fewer than two million women worked for pay in the United States.

Half of them in domestic service. Now 9,000,000 women are engaged in gainful occupations that pleases the practical mind. Farmers like to see the horse and mares working. German farmers harness the cow.

Our boasted 'gainful occupations for women' take women out of their only occupation really gainful to civilization, the production of good children.

A splendid specimen of American womanhood, Miss Clarabell Barrett, returns from Europe in the steamer after an unsuccessful attempt to swim the channel. The plucky public school teacher actually swam 22 hours in the cold water, through the darkness of night, and through thick fog after her boat had lost her. Properly guided she could easily have swam the channel.

Now she returns with no money, in debt $2,000 and first class passengers praise enough to pay her debt. Such a magnificent woman, she ought to be married and be the mother of at least twelve children.

One Abraham Lincoln would be worth more to this country than all the 'gainful' women in creation. And Miss Barrett is the Nancy Hanks type, tall and powerful.

VOTE ON RAISING PAY OF KANSAS LEGISLATORS

Topoka, Kan., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Citizens of Kansas will decide at the general election on November 2, whether the services of their lawmakers are worth more than $3 a day. They will vote on a proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for the payment of $8 a day to members of the legislature for a period of 60 days every two years. The present pay was adopted 67 years ago.

FASHION NOTES FROM LONDON

London, Sept. 9.—(INS)—English fashion designers have gone back to the days of the old-fashioned petticoat, the flounced frock, and the nipped-in waist in an attempt to create something new for the lady of fashion.

Thus, ballroom skirts that sweep the floor at the back and beribboned petticoats are decreed as the new fashion for the coming season. Frocks will be heavily flounced and ruffled, and some of them will have a waist that is something more than just a waist in name only.

The new type of skirt, however, is as short in front as it is long behind, giving the wearer the effect of a peacock strutting along with a sweeping tail. This kind of skirt is worn over a petticoat, which will be laced, ruffled, and ribbed in the old-fashioned style.

Many of the long-skirted gowns have their skirts composed of heavy flounces—not the skittish frill that the modern fashion designers have popularized—but the heavy-weight flounce such as Mrs. Grundy rejoiced in.

New designs in women's smoking suits shown here indicate that the exotic Eastern trend which up to now has influenced these popular modern garments is beginning to diminish, and that a style allied to that of the belt-bottom trouser worn by the sailor is coming into vogue.

Trousers that were either loose, baggy, or tied in at the ankle, have given way to the bell-bottom in most of the suits exhibited. One suit shown here combined a simple silver tissue waist, modeled to the figure, with black satin trousers, closely fitted to the hips and baring at the ankles. A pink satin band swathed tightly round the waist was tied in an enormous bow at the side.

The question whether or not the coat and skirt will oust the popular two and three piece toilette from feminine favor is exciting attention among fashionable dress-makers and women generally here.

Indicative of the way the wind is blowing is the fact that some of
