TEXAS ASSEMBLY TO PROBE ALLEGED BAD MANAGEMENT

Legislators Will Investigate Charges of Irregularity in Administration of Departments

Austin, Texas, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Charges of irregularity in the administration of state departments, which were leading issues in the two Texas primary campaigns, in which Attorney General Dan Moody defeated Governor M'riam A. Ferguson for reelection, will be investigated by State Legislators assembled in special session by the woman executive to validate a large road bond issue.

Following a stormy session yesterday the House of Representatives voted 104 to 22 for an investigation of various departments under Governor Ferguson's regime, and set aside $25,000 to finance a committee in conducting the inquiry.

The committee is to be appointed by the speaker and will report at the next regular session of the legislature in January.

Governor Ferguson called the special session shortly after her defeat in the July primary to validate approximately $100,000,000 of Texas road bonds declared invalid by the Supreme Court, and to "investigate any state departments deemed necessary."

TODAY

(Copyright 1926) Gary Resigns? Why? Do You Want a Eison? Kipling Feels Badly. Sweeping the Heavens. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, will be 80 years old next month, and Wall Street asks 'Will he retire?'

A great business needs a thinking mind, not a burble jumper. Why should he retire?

Gladiators ran the British Parliament when he was past eighty, Von Moltke ran the German army when just eighty. Pope Leo ran the world-wide Catholic church at ninety.

Why should Judge Gary retire in the prime of life? Many of his friends can testify to his perfect health and energy.

His organization holds its competitors in the hollow of its hand, and has $100,000,000 cash in the bank.

If that be the result of old age, many corporations would like some of that old age.

What man WANTS to do, he can do. A little while ago the noble bison was dying out, everybody had said farewell to him. Now the government, with herds of bison on its hands, offers you a vigorous live bison for $85, that you couldn't have bought for $5,000 a little while ago.

Rudyard Kipling does not like us, and tells us about it in poetry, beginning:

'At the eleventh hour he came, Kipling goes on to describe this nation as 'deaf to wirth and blind to scorn.'

However, Kipling is old, past his setting period, and his British ego-complex would make it the duty of 'Little Sam to finance England in her troubles.'

England has arranged to pay part of her debt, if she wants to cry about it in verse, nobody here will object.

However would Mr. Kipling answer these questions in another poem?

If the United States had been engaged in a war in 1924 'with its back to the wall,' as Kitchner put it, how many billions of dollars would England have sent us, and how many millions of men?

One man, one dollar.

No. What did Great Britain do in our civil war, and in 1776, and 1812? What great claim on American gratitude and generosity has Great Britain established, beyond the fact that on two occasions she took a beating quickly and gracefully?

Philosophers from many countries gathered in Cambridge, Mass., tells the world, 'materialistic theories cannot explain anything for the reason, among others that there is no such thing as matter. Reduce solid steel of floating feather to the so-called ultimate atom. Examine the atom and you find a small solar system like our own, the nucleus.

For the sun, little electrons flying around it, for planets. Matter is only particles of electric energy. And no one knows why that is.

A scientist said: 'I have swept the heavens with my telescope, and find no trace of God.' A director of the human body said, 'I have gone all through the human brain, and find no trace of thought, soul or mind.'

Nevertheless, thought, soul and mind do exist in that little universe we call the brain. A greater mind exists SOMEWHERE in that greater brain, the universe.

Senator Crainway, of Arkansas, wants the United States to dig up and bring to America the bodies of 30,000 American soldiers buried on French soil.

He says Europeans hate us so intensely that he saw insulting lines scribbled on the white crosses above the graves of our soldiers.

The dead soldiers would say: 'It was the biggest kind of a joke when we were taken from our homes, shipped across the sea to die in a war not our own, and so He here dead, killed in the squares of European high finance (Continued on page eight)

CROWDS ATTEND FASHION DISPLAY HERE LAST NIGHT

Many Visitors Among the Hundreds That Visited Local Mercantile Establishments

Greenville's population, together with many out-of-town visitors turned out last night to witness the fall fashion display and style show which was held in the stores of the members of the Merchants Association. This was the second annual like event attempted by the local merchants, and while the show of last year was highly complimented, last night's display eclipsed in every respect any former undertaking of its kind, and the crowds who thronged the stores were heard to express themselves in such manner.

An hour before the appointed time for the opening of the stores people began to throng the streets to hear their concert given by the Greenville Juvenile Band which was much enjoyed, and at the stroke of eight o'clock when the display windows were unveiled the eyes of the crowds beheld a showing of merchandise never before equalled in this part of the state.

Greenville merchants have long since won the confidence of the buying public of Eastern Carolina because of the quality, variety and price of their merchandise, and this one attainment has made Greenville the principal shopping center for more than twenty counties, and the territory from which the local stores draw their patronage with each day.

BRITISH HOTELS CHECK BIG TRAFFIC IN LABELS; TO USE STAMPS INSTEAD

London, Sept. 17.—(INS)—British hoteliers are adopting an ingenious device to stop the traffic in hotel labels. They are determined to check the validity of a certain class of traveler.

The idea comes from E. M. Pick, a hotel manager of Zurich. After many years experience he has tired of the man who has his baggage pasted with labels of the most expensive hotels in the world—although he has never stopped in one.

Pick's device is for the leading hotels each to issue its own travel stamp, to be issued to the hotel guest at the time when the bill is paid. These stamps are about four times the size of the ordinary stamp. They express some characteristic of the hotel, its wonderful view, its architecture, or some other distinguishing feature.

Artists are now designing interesting and attractive travel labels, and they are to be issued not only by hotels but by air-lines, steamships, railroads and even town placed in a special album they should be an interesting souvenir of travel.

THIEVES STEAL $60,000 IN JEWELRY FROM UNDER EYES OF POLISH POLICE

Warsaw, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Thieves succeeded in stealing from a jeweler's window in the Hotel Europe here more than $60,000 worth of jewelry, although at least twenty detectives and policemen were in the immediate vicinity.

The thieves accomplished their work in daylight. There were three house detectives in the building, two outside and six policemen on permanent duty in front of the hotel, which is the abode of most foreign diplomats and several governmental officials. Directly across the street is the garrison for the city detachments guarded by a score or more of soldiers.

No trace of the thieves has been found since they closed the door on the shop clerks and walked away with three bags of loot in their hands.

ILLNESS OF MRS. M'PHERSON MAY DELAY HEARING

Investigation Into Alleged Kidnapping of Evangelist Temporarily Halted by Her Condition

Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—(AP)—With the arrest of five persons charged by District Attorney Keys and statements of new witnesses adding to the mass of evidence in the Aimee Simpson McPherson kidnapping investigation, the serious illness of the evangelist threatened to delay the trial inquiry into her five weeks' disappearance.

Reports of the evangelist's illness Wednesday were followed by her collapse at an Angelus Temple service yesterday and subsequent announcement of her physicians that a dangerous infection might cause death if complications developed.

The illness was described as an abscess of the nose close to the brain. District Attorney Keys said he had prepared complaints charging five persons with conspiracy to defraud just as he named Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Kennedy, Kenneth G. Ormiston, friend of the evangelist, and former Angelus Temple radio operator, John "Doc" Martin and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Siclars. Mrs. Sjilass was named following her statement that she was employed by Mrs. McPherson to "frame" the "Miss X" hoax whereby she was to masquerade as the companion of Ormiston during a ten-day sojourn at a cottage at Carmel, California, shortly after the evangelist's disappearance, she named a Mr. Martin as the man who first asked her to undertake the role.

A new witness was linked with the case last night when Harry C. Swift, a truck driver, who claimed to have witnessed the kidnapping of the evangelist on May 18, told Keys that the person, who took her away in an automobile were Ormiston and her mother. He then issued a detailed statement giving his version of the kidnapping.

Paris, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Formal denial of reports published in Berlin that France was concentrating troops on the Italian border was issued by the War Minister today.

The report was telegraphed to a Berlin newspaper by its Paris correspondent.

PRINCE'S PINK SHIRTS

Le Touquet, France, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales launched a new fashion when he stayed here during part of his summer vacation. The Prince was seen one day to leave the Golf Hotel wearing a pink shirt which had the sleeves cut off at the elbows.

The Prince played a round of golf in this cool garb, and the news spread like wildfire.

The next day the shops in Paris Plage were riddled for pink shirts, which appeared on the golf links with the sleeves cut short, but the supply of the demand, and the next day telephonic and telegraphic messages were sent to London ordering pink shirts by the hundred weight to be sent to Touquet by airplane. They have since been all the rage, and the idea has been taken up even by the women players.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

Paris, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Rostand, the celebrated composer, had a delicious way of preparing the melons of which he was so fond.

He would make a hole in the melon to the right of the pedicel and having drawn out the seeds and filaments with a silver spoon, would pour sugar and Marsala wine.

He then plugged up the fruit with the evacuated piece and put it away on ice until it was ready to eat.

American, unable to obtain the necessary Marsala may try the French way of serving melon as a dessert. Fill the fruit with a bit wild strawberries and ice-cream. Set on ice before serving.

NEWSPAPERS WILL NOT BE PERMITTED BROADCAST FIGHT

Rickard Declares No One Will Broadcast Dempsey - Tunney Fight Without His Contract

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Although denying today that he had yet leased the radio broadcasting privileges for the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia September 23, Tex Rickard told the Associated Press that any contract he signed would bar newspapers from broadcasting wire reports of the bout.

Rickard, reached by telephone at his Philadelphia headquarters, flatly denied any radio contract had been closed in spite of a telegram received by Editor and Publisher signed ostensibly by the promoter and worded as follows:

"The broadcasting rights have been contracted for and it will be an infringement on these rights for newspapers to use wire reports of the contest."

Rickard told the Associated Press he had not communicated with Editor and Publisher, but he readily confirmed the portion of the disputed telegram bearing upon his decision to prevent broadcasting on the fight directly or indirectly from any source not authorized so to do.

"This is a private show, and I have a perfect right to say who can and who cannot broadcast," the promoter told the Associated Press.

"Newspapers will not be permitted to radio any report they receive from the Press Association or any other source. The broadcasting privileges will go to whoever get my contract."

When his attention was called to the fact that newspapers controlling radio stations make a general practice of broadcasting news features received over Press Association wires, Rickard declared this would not influence his decision to bar such broadcasting for the title fight.

"I will not permit any telegraph wires at the ring side to carry reports which may be used for broadcasting in violation of my contract I may sign," he declared.

BELIEVES COTTON SOON BE PICKED BY MACHINERY

Commissioner Graham Declares Development of Cotton Picking Machine Will Solve South's Problem

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A call for cooperation among southern states in hastening the development of a practical cotton picking machine was sounded in a statement issued here tonight by William A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture for North Carolina.

Although the Federal Department of Agriculture has advised him that though it is interested in the perfection of such a device, it is not now in a position to participate actively in the experimental work that will be necessary, Commissioner Graham, however, states that he is not discouraged in his conviction that the picking of cotton by machinery is only a matter of time.

The Commissioner wrote some time ago to the Department of Agriculture at Washington presenting his views and was told the matter would be taken under advisement. In a letter just received from Acting Secretary C. F. Marvin, the opinion is expressed that the development of a practical cotton picking machine will be a "gradual process involving much costly experiment."

"That may be true and probably is," declared Mr. Graham last night, "but the sooner these processes are hastened, the sooner the South will have solved one of the biggest problems that confronts its farmers, and the sooner an expense will be eliminated that now cuts into the profits of these farmers to an enormous degree."

"When the talk of a practical cotton gin was started such a device was regarded by some as an improbability. It is needless to go into details as to the development of the cotton gin, which was invented by Eli Whitney, up to that time an obscure northerner who, following his graduation, visited a southern relative and conceived the idea that was later revolutionized into the cotton manufacturing industry.

"Whitney's invention was patented in 1774 after which time he visited the legislatures of the cotton growing states and urged them to buy the patent rights for use in their respective states, passed the right for that state paying $50,000 for it; and in 1804, the legislature of North Carolina bought the right for this state for which it paid $30,000. "Of course, the fostering influence of the United States Department of Agriculture is much to be desired. However, it seems to me that the cotton states themselves would do well to get together on the proposition of hurrying up the work of perfecting a cotton picking machine.

"There are several cotton picking machines now in use. Inventors of some of these claim that they are practical and can be economically operated. While I have not made an exhaustive study of the feasibility of any of the devices already in use, there can be no doubt but that, in time there will be perfected one that will meet the south's need."

Reports Indicate Denomination Is Making Great Progress Throughout State

Pine Level, Sept. 16.—The fourteenth annual session of the North Carolina State Convention of the Free Will Baptist Church closed a three days' session here this afternoon with the election of officers for the next year and the closing address by Rev. R. V. Self, of Asheville.

Rev. S. H. Styrton, of Pine Level, was re-elected as President for the fifth time. Rev. E. T. Phillips, of Ayden, was elected Recording Secretary and Rev. A. H. Outlaw of Elizabeth City, Field

Secretary.

The convention was well attended, delegates and ministers being present from every section of the state, and a number of visitors present from adjoining states. The statistics presented by the Board of Survey shows that the denomination has made great gains during the past year, both in numbers and in increase of property. This gain is shown in every department of the state work, but the department of superannuation seems to have made greatest gains. Several new churches have been organized in the state, new buildings have been erected in many places, the capacity of the orphanage has been enlarged, a college has been opened and an assembly ground provided in the mountains.

Several important items of business looking to future growth of the denomination were enacted. Among the most important of these was the arranging for a better plan of financing the orphanage work, the endorsement of the Camp View Assembly at West Asheville and the adoption of plans for a state-wide campaign in the interest of organized young people's work.

The convention sessions were featured by addresses by prominent ministers and laymen of the state, and visiting ministers from other states. The principal addresses were delivered by the president of the convention, Rev. S. H. Styrton; Rev. L. R. Ennis, of Ayden; Evangelist "Bob" Self, of Asheville, and Dr. John L. Welsh, of Nashville, Tenn.

Yes, the crowds gathered here last night and were well pleased with the creditable displays of merchandise put on by the local merchants.

The announcement of former Governor Morrison that he will seek a seat in the United States Senate in 1932 is a perfect example of optimism.

CONSTITUTION DAY

While Constitution Day, September 17, is not a legal holiday it is observed with appropriate exercises in many schools, and various patriotic societies employ the occasion to renew acquaintance of our nation's organic law.

The Constitution of the United States was adopted on September 17, 1787, by the convention appointed in pursuance of a resolution of Congress. Washington presided over the convention, which was composed of 55 delegates, representing each of the original thirteen states except Rhode Island, and that body was in session nearly four months. The final draft of the Constitution was made by Gouverneur Morris, a delegate from Pennsylvania.

Delaware was the first state to ratify the Constitution which it did on December 7, 1787, and Rhode Island was the last, its date of ratification being May 29, 1790.

The first ten amendments, popularly known as the Bill of Rights, were proposed together, and adopted by the required number of states by December 15, 1791. Only two other amendments were adopted prior to the Civil War between 1865 and 1870 three more were added. Since then four additional amendments have been adopted, providing for the income tax, direct election of United States Senators, prohibition and woman suffrage. Every citizen of the United States should read the Constitution and its amendments at least once a year and Constitution Day is a very appropriate occasion for the purpose.

PRESS COMMENT

CHAIRMAN DAWSON'S APEAL

(News and Observer)
 Hon. John Dawson, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has opened his headquarters in Raleigh and has signalled the opening with a brief and clear-cut statement of Democratic doctrine and Democratic achievement in the Republic in North Carolina. Without being in any sense hortatory, it is a straightforward appeal for the suffrage of the people of North Carolina so that the improvement conditions in North Carolina may be continued without division of authority and without hindrance or embarrassment.

Mr. Dawson's summary of the Democratic ideals is as happy as it is brief. He gives no elaboration of the Democratic doctrine on the tariff, but sums it up as "the only means by which equity can be done the weak and the strong." He points out how the present high protection tariff is "a delusion imposed for the special benefit of the financially powerful to the crushing disadvantage of the weak." He lays down the bed-rock principle which he says the Democratic party "opposes the abuse of private monopoly and efforts by self-seeking interests to direct governmental affairs to private advantage. Never before was government so completely operated by privilege of privilege and for privilege."

Mr. Dawson does well for some people have very short memories—to call attention to the fact that when the Democratic party was called to power in 1897 and 1900 the State lay prostrate disgraced and infested by corrupt and inefficient Republican rule. It was no easy task to restore, first, confidence; second, order; and, third, to originate and carry out the policies which have secured a rebirth to North Carolina and have given it the high place it securely occupies. Mr. Dawson truly says that "with a patience becoming a great people," the Democratic administrations "laid the foundation for a far-reaching governmental development and builded upon it a modern commonwealth challenging the attention and admiration of all forward-looking people."

The record summed up of care for the helpless and afflicted; the big school building program "following the vision of the eloquent and fish Aycock who fired the people with an ambition that started the State on its upward walk of achievement"; the construction of a road system which "proving of incalculable economic value and is becoming the marvel of the country; the safe guarding of public health, and the just imposition of a "taxe justly laid" which are cited as the outstanding things which have come to bless the people in a long administration from Aycock to McLean. It is a record that "justifies a Democratic majority of 100,000 in November."

There should be no need to appeal for support to the party which has done so well for North Carolina. In fact, there is no need to urge the people to rally to its support. It is only necessary to recite the big things done and call attention to the satisfaction with which the bulk of the people reflect upon what has been done since Aycock was inaugurated in 1901. Every administration has contributed its part to progress and stability, and the future is full of promise in North Carolina.

—And that is the only appeal if there is to be no break in the continuity of Democratic rule. Every citizen should see to it that the party in power in North Carolina continues to steer the ship of State.

From no quarter is there any organized desire to transfer control from the Democratic to the Republican party. If there are changes to be made and improvements and further progress to be made, and there are important ones, the best hope is in the party that redeemed the State from suffering and corruption 26 years ago. It has its face to the future and will prove itself responsive to the will of the sovereign people of this sovereign state.

HARVARD TO MAKE RADICAL CHANGES FOOTBALL SQUADS

Horween, Harvard's Head Coach, Will Introduce New Plays in Football for This Season; Old Players Up Against It—Set in Their Ways

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 17.—(INS)—Radical changes are looked for in the development of the Harvard football squad this fall. If the plans of Arnold Horween, head coach of the Crimson, mean anything.

Horween recently returned to Cambridge from Chicago, where he presided over a series of conferences with his brother, Ralph, Jim Brader and Chuck Carney. The next result, according to Horween, is that football at Harvard is in for a general overhauling.

For years, Harvard has banked on the Houghton system of play which, being interpreted, simply means that a clever kicker is developed and called upon to do his stuff at every opportunity.

It looks as though Horween intends to cast into the discard all offensive plays used in the past by Harvard and introduce his own system, which is, largely, the immediate development of "greenhorn" players in preference to players who have become set in the ways of some previous coach.

The Horween system will be an innovation at Harvard and some veterans who served under Bob Fisher, former head coach, may find themselves up against a tough proposition which will call for all their tackling ingenuity.

Big Ten To Invade East for Important Games

Columbus, O., Sept. 15.—(INS)—Three Big Ten conference grid-iron machines will invade the East this year, but New York will get to see one in action for the first time when Ohio State meets the Columbia Lion at the Polo ground on October 16. Jack Wilce's pretense will be accorded the honor of the first invasion of the metropolis, and alumni from all over the East are planning to make the conference's debut a memorable one.

On the same date, Chicago will invade Philadelphia to do battle with Pennsylvania, while Michigan is the third stranger from out west meeting the Navy at Baltimore on October 30. Illinois, another conference member meets Pennsylvania, but the clash is slated for Urbana, Ill.

Ohio State's appearance is in return for the Blue and White's invasion of the new University stadium here last year. The Buckeyes came before the East's eye after this struggle in which they vanquished the Easterners, 9-0.

Coach Wilce will have an experienced eleven to pit against Columbia next month. One hundred or more candidates answered the initial call, and with all but three regulars from the 1925 team back, indications point to a good season.

Aiding Wilce, are Andy Oberlander, erstwhile Dartmouth luminary who will work on the backfield assignments, Sam Williams, late of Iowa State, will take care of the general work, while Charley Snedden, a stellar guard on the 1926 Ohio State varsity which took the Big Ten title that year will be back again.

Japan Film Industry Lacks Money Make Pictures Equal U. S.

Tokyo, Sept. 16.—(INS)—Japanese motion picture actors and actresses are just as good as those in Hollywood but Japanese films are inferior to American films because of lack of money to spend in their production.

Hollywood stars and directors who talk about their "art" are talking through their hats. The only real "art" in the movies comes from France, Germany and Russia.

Such is the opinion of at least one of the Shochiku Studio, one of the largest film plants in Japan. Midzutan and his sister, Miss Yako Midzutan, who is called the "Mary Pickford" of Japan, have just returned from a three months' visit to the United States.

GENE TUNNEY'S PUNCHING MUSCLES

States. "My sister and I," said the director, "were struck with the fact that everything in American studios was done on a large scale, the studios we visited being equipped with everything necessary to turn out a really high class film. Japan, unfortunately, has not the same amount or quality of equipment, hence the pictures produced cannot be compared with those of the United States. I believe that our artists are quite as good as those at Hollywood and the matter of cost is largely at the back of Japanese inferiority of production."

"I was asked by Americans what I thought of American comedy. I replied that it is extremely questionable if a comedy can be considered as art. Comedy is intended to be laughter-provoking but it has no depth. It is my opinion that there is not much of stage art in the United States or England. The types of film that require real artists for their production are those manufactured in Germany, France and Russia. Films made in those countries are not exported to the United States because Americans do not care for them. In that respect Japan is more fortunate because many of these films are imported here."

Midzutan also spoke a little scornfully of the American preference for the romantic film with the happy ending. He intimated that he regarded this American characteristic as a deterrent to artistic achievement. That is one of the fundamental differences between the Japanese theatre and the American theatre: the Japanese are most pleased when the play ends with the unhappy lovers committing the "shinju" or double suicide, so they may find happiness together in another world.

Test Short Wave Length Broadcasting

South Dartmouth, Mass., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Short wave radio signals are temperamental, scientists have discovered. They have pronounced preferences for certain kinds of weather and even for certain times of the day in making their heading dashes through space. Strange to say, they travel best when a broad rain area includes both sending and receiving stations. Afternoon seems to be the best time for short distance transmission.

These and other curious phenomena about the baffling of radio signals in short wave transmissions to weather and times of day have been discovered by engineers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was made known today. The experiment was being conducted under the direction of Dr. Vannevar Bush, Professor Edward L. Bowles and James K. Clapp, of the Department of Electrical Engineering, at a new radio research station on the estate of Colonel E. H. R. Green at Round Hill, near here. The work has been made possible through the generosity of Colonel Green.

Messages to other continents

—even Australia—have been dispatched over antennas scarcely more than twenty feet long.

The experimenters also have found that signals are regular when the sky is clear, but weaken or entirely disappear when certain conditions of cloudiness are encountered, although a widespread area of rain which includes both transmitter and receiver generally has been found to give better signals than those obtained in clear weather.

Tests also are being made with many types of antennae for short wave transmission. These vary from a small antenna mounted entirely within the station to a large exterior structure more than 100 feet in the air. One of the most remarkable facts discovered in the short wave research is that signals may be sent great distances without a large antennae structure.

Communication between I-XV—the Institute's field station—and various stations in Europe, Australia and South America has been carried on regularly on an antennae system consisting of only two wires slightly more than 20 feet long and six feet apart.

A new movable transmitter has been constructed and is now being subjected to experiments. In this the antennae system may be turned to any direction, both in vertical and horizontal angle.

The direction in which the rods point when in a horizontal position apparently has little effect on the strength of the signals at the receiving station, although there are indications that the strongest signals are obtained when the antennae rod is pointing north and south. Communication with stations at great distances, notably Australia and European stations, have been obtained with this.

BUILDING MAINTAINS FREE LAW LIBRARY

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Swimming pools, gymnasiums, day nurseries and recreation rooms are among newer inducements offered tenants, but one of Chicago's oldest skyscrapers has for some thirty years used perhaps an even more novel form of attraction.

The Ashland Block, in the center of the downtown district, maintains on one of its upper floors, a law library of more than 10,000 volumes. It is kept up to date, with all the newest statutes and decisions, at no cost to those who use it. The library is believed to be the only one of its kind in the city if not the entire country.

The majority of the offices in the building are occupied by lawyers, and most of the judges in the city have at one time been located there.

A. J. Alexander, wealthy Kentuckian, built the Ashland Block when tall buildings were few in Chicago. It was his first venture and the proposed height worried him. Because he was afraid the building would not be safe, engineers constructed a foundation sufficient for twenty stories instead of seventeen.

'Adjudged "Miss America"

while in other cases "actual reductions are problematical."

The Commission prefaced its order by the statement that "in view of the characteristics of this traffic, it is reasonably entitled to a relatively low basis of rates." As analyzed by the Fertilizer Association, however, the effect of the decision will be as follows:

"In the state of Alabama the commission's order will cause a material advance in the rates; in South Carolina and Georgia, if the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission is observed by the state commissions, there will be advances in the single line rates, with some reductions for the joint line hauls. If the Interstate Commission's order applies to rates in the states of Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Florida, it will effect advances over existing rates. The state commissions of those states, have not as yet announced what their action will be respecting the order of the Interstate body. Should the North Carolina Commission adopt the Interstate Commission's scale, it will cause considerable reduction under existing rates in that state.

"At study of the Commission's decision as its affects interstate rates, indicates that the rates reduced will be offset by rates that are advanced; therefore, considering the southern territory as a whole, no advantage in interstate rates is secured by shippers or receivers of fertilizers.

"The Commission's decision authorizes the Norfolk Southern railroad to charge rates 10 per cent higher than rates applicable over other standard lines, and it allows certain so-called short and weak lines rates 50 cents per ton higher than the scale of the standard lines. The Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railway is included in this list of weak lines. This differential in favor of short lines will cause increases for single lines and generally reductions for joint hauls.

"Some benefit to the shippers and users of fertilizer may result from the new basis for figuring distances contained in the order."

Growth of Cities Raises Problems of Government

Chicago, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Through hundreds of years from the days of ancient Greece and Rome down to the Venice of more modern times the city-state has made its mark in political history.

Now a few advanced political economists are discussing the possibility of some leading American cities becoming political entities or city-states. Chicago and New York, particularly, whose spheres of influence and environs have crossed the borders of their own states, are prominently mentioned.

The continual warfare between the urban and country districts of such states as Illinois and New York is seen as another reason why a separation of a city from the rest of the state is within the range of possibilities.

The ancient cry similar to "no taxation without representation" has been raised in both Illinois and New York. The two largest cities in the country both have complained that they are not equitably represented in the state legislatures in proportion to their population, wealth, influence and the size of their tax bill. In Illinois, for instance, a downstate majority has halted every attempt of Chicago representatives to put through a legislative reapportionment program, which, it is claimed, is provided in the state constitution.

The metropolitan district of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Chicago has overrun northern Illinois and its suburbs reach into Wisconsin and Indiana. A city, however, cannot push its limits across the border into another state, so that in the case of New York and Chicago artificial barriers break up what is really a unified metropolitan district.

ARGENTINES BECOME APARTMENT DWELLERS

Buenos Aires, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Apartment house life is gaining rapidly in popularity among the Argentines. One of the chief attractions is the central heating system, almost unknown in Buenos Aires a few years ago. Argentines claim the winters here have become increasingly severe in recent years and that this explains why so many detached houses without any heating facilities, are being deserted for steam heated apartments.

One newspaper has begun a campaign in favor of heating the railway stations, street cars, subways and schools, pointing out that every year it is becoming colder to the great discomfort of the public.

Fertilizer Rates Not Reduced By I. C. C. Decision

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Manufacturers and farmers were warned today by the National Fertilizer Association that they need not expect general decreases in Southern fertilizer rates to result from the recent order on that subject handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In its official publication, The Fertilizer Review, the Association declared the Commission's findings had been so worded and arranged as to give an impression of wholesale rate reductions but that a technical study of the decision would show that on the contrary, "in a considerable portion of southern territory, material increases must be expected"

FIRE LOSSES IN NORTH CAROLINA CONTINUE SMALL

Only 104 Fires During August as Compared With 202 During Same Month Last Year

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Fire losses in North Carolina during August continued at the low ebb reached in July, and ran up a total of destruction of only $188,762 in 104 fires, according to figures made public by the State Insurance department today. Last August the loss was $361,982.

Value of property at stake in the August fires was placed at $1,677,980 covered by insurance amounting to $1,044,925. In 1925 the property jeopardized totaled $2,403,016 with insurance of $1,824,995.

The 104 fires during the month included 40 dwellings. During 1925 there were 202, of which 88 were dwellings. The report shows that in only two of the larger towns of the state, Greensboro and Wilmington, that single fires entailing a loss in excess of $5,000 occurred. One fire in Wilmington netted a loss of $22,118 and one in Greensboro, $15,300. The largest loss from a single fire in the state was a buggy factory blaze at Oxford with a loss of $27,500.

No fires were reported from the following towns during the month: Hickory, Concord, Belmont, Shelby, Bryson City, Durham, Wake Forest, Mt. Airy, Pinebluffs, Granite Falls, Elm City, Aberdeen, Thomasville, Southern pines, Beaufort, Leaksville, Henderson, Elizabeth City, Waynesville, Fairmont, Kernersville, Sanford and Pinehurst.

Polo Encroaches On Southwest Rodeos

Junction, Texas, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A lot of "cow punching" goes glimmering in the hill country of southwestern Texas because of the growing interest in "mountain polo." The game—regular polo—draws great crowds from the ranching communities of this section during the summer months and in a measure has revived the old tournament riding that once was so popular.

Cowboys who are most apt at "roping" and other tricks of ranch life, almost invariably are the polo stars. "Cow punching" in the hills and wily undergrowth of this section of Texas has produced the most expert lasso-throwers in the West, and these same men become very expert at polo.

After elimination tournaments among the mountain teams, the winners challenge various United States Army teams from nearby posts for engagements. Despite superior training and scientific horsemanship of the Army players, they often are defeated by the cowboys.

The cowboy players frown on the standard uniform and saddle used by the Army teams, and cling proudly to their stock saddles and ranch wearing apparel, except for the uniform colored shirts. Their only standard accoutrements are the mallet and ball. First of all, the "puncher" insists on retaining his broad-brimmed hat, which often is lost in the mele of beating hoofs and mallets, but he usually regains the headpiece as quickly as it was lost.

Except for the removal of saddle strings and other "punching" equipment, the cowboy poloists sally afield as though ready to "sideline" a steer, some players even using chaps. Their hard riding often verges onto foals but analyses of movements usually show that the hardy mountaineers have not violated rules of the game.

The parlance heard at a "mountain polo" contest smacks strongly of the cowboy's daily "lingo" and rooting is carried on with much ardor by the Western audiences, parked in trees, on cars and on horses.

An onlooker not familiar with the nature of the play might think a rodio was going on, as the volley of encouraging or discouraging yells gives little clue to the game. "Ride 'em off; Corral that ball; Look at the boss race"; are some of the phrases heard on the lines.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Not all the romances of Hollywood blossom before a camera. Acting as casting director for her father, J. Stuart Blackton, pioneer producer, Marion Blackton vetoed the selection of Gardner James for a part in a picture. James was so perturbed about his sudden rejection that he traced responsibility. Introducing himself to Miss Blackton, he made a personal protest. And then the fun began. Despite an eloquent appeal, James was refused the role, but will be married to Miss Blackton as soon as he finishes a production for Inspiration Pictures.

Work on "Tillie, the Toiler," Marion Davies' next picture, will be started within the next few days. Irving Thalberg, production executive at Metro-Goldwyn-May-er studio, announced today. Hobart Henley, the director of "The Auction Block," "His Secretary," and "A Certain Young Man," will megaphone Miss Davies thru "Tillie's" labor troubles.

Realism in art can be carried to excess. During the filming of "Down the Stretch," a Universal race story, at the Riverside track, Ward Crane acted as bookmaker and used real money. The sporting citizens of Riverside, pressed into service as a race track through, entered into the atmosphere so wholeheartedly that they took the race and book-maker seriously. They placed bets and collected their winnings, forgetting the clicking cameras. Crane found himself short when the time came for an accounting to the property man.

The first musical comedy to be transplanted in its entirety from the stage to the screen is "Kid Boots," which Eddie Cantor has just completed for Paramount. Although it was difficult to "translate" the stage humor, Cantor declared himself satisfied. Clara Bow, the pert red-head, plays opposite Cantor.

Novels, plays, short stories, songs, poems and even pictures (paintings) have been made the subject of film stories but "Kid Boots," is the first musical comedy to be filmed.

Samuel Goldwyn, the veteran motion picture producer, increased to $500,000 his insurance policy on Vilma Banky, the beautiful Hungarian actress who played opposite Valentino in the late 'sheik's' last picture. Miss Banky increased screen value and her narrow escape from death when trampled by a horse during the filming of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," were responsible for Goldwyn's action. It was said.

Henry East, trainer of dogs for the 'movies,' declares his greatest problem is fleas. His intelligent animals are carefully cleaned before appearing on the set, but sometimes a voracious insect will ruin feet of film by making a heroic dog turn his attention from the noble work of saving a heroine into the pressing and intimate business of scratching himself. 'Hanks,' one of East's cleverest canine actors, is starring with Alec B. Francis in "The Return of Peter Grimm."

It is said the G. A. R. considers disbanding at its 60th national encampment next week, at Des Moines. That's NOT a good suggestion. The Grand Army should keep going to the last man.
