HURRICANE TOLL CUBA ESTIMATED 650 WERE KILLED

Ten Municipalities Wiped Out by Wednesday's Storm and 6,500 Persons Rendered Homeless

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Belated advices reaching Havana today indicated that more than 650 persons perished at various places in the provinces of the island in the hurricane of Wednesday morning.

Ten municipalities were wiped out and 6,500 rendered homeless. It is believed the material damage will reach nearly $100,000,000. No definite figures on the total number injured on the island were available.

The two villages comprising the municipality of Batabano on the south coast of the island, reported more than 300 dead and both towns were destroyed.

Few reports had been received today from parts of three inner municipalities over which the storm passed. They were cut off from communication because of wrecked telephone and telegraph lines and blocked railroads and roads.

The survivors, many of them seriously injured, were without food, medicine or water, and frantic appeals were being made for aid. Two relief committees have been formed and nearly $100,000 has been subscribed.

(Copyright 1926) Sweet Alice Wall St. Bad News From Cuba. Beware Paratyroidism. Old-Fashioned Theft. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Wall Street is as sensitive as Sweet Alice in the old song. She would smile with delight when you gave her a smile, and tremble with fear at a frown.

The frown that startles the speculators now is Europe's suggestion that tariffs be wiped out. This frown would have reason to tremble with fear if that down with tariffs' suggestion were applied to the United States.

We might as well go out of business, start all over again, wearing the home-spin and living on our crops. But that won't happen.

The suggestion is good for Europe, where twenty-eight national currencies represent twenty-eight assorted tariffs. If those twenty-eight nations live without tariffs, something like our forty-eight states live it might be good for Europe. That is for Europe to decide. It is none of our business. France would not agree to that plan.

Europe is paying for her foolishness in the war now. We shall pay for it later. No use rushing into trouble ahead of time.

It is easy for big-hearted financiers to sign petitions for free trade. They deal in money, and there is no tariff on money.

It is natural also that they should be friendly to a gigantic European loan to be floated in the United States after our foreign debts are wiped out.

The international financial gentleman would notice that when, out a comfortable take-off in their pockets. Their view is perhaps a little one-sided.

More important than foolish financial talk about tearing down United States tariffs, which would mean tearing down United States prosperity in the condition of cotton growers and its effect upon the south.

This country, able to help railroads when they needed it should do something for the cotton growers. If it fails to find a way, cotton growers and the farm bloc demand will do things to worry the administration.

ANOTHER RECORD WEEK ON LOCAL TOBACCO MARKET

Total Sales for Week Will Be Over Four Million Pounds With Week's Average Price Best of Season

Sales on the local tobacco market this week will be over the four million pound mark with an average price of over thirty cents a pound. All sales this week have surpassed the above mentioned average price and in one instance the total sales for a day approximately a million pounds, average $31.70 per hundred pounds.

According to official figures on yesterday's sales made public by K. W. Cobb, secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade, 710,576 pounds sold for $229,821.33 an average of $32.35 per hundred. About a million pounds were included in today's offerings, but indications at the noon hour were that all sales would be completed before the market closed for the day. Prices continued strong today and the average price will be in keeping with the four day just passed.

Many new customers are being added to the local market from week to week.

GOVERNOR ENDS SPEAKING TOUR COUNTIES WEST

Governor McLean Turns Eastward Today After Carrying Gospel of Democracy to Voters in West

Marion, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Governor McLean today turned eastward after concluding his invasion of the west with an ardent pronouncement in behalf of the Democratic candidates of the candidate of McDowell county here last night.

Today's itinerary was an easy one compared with the strenuous round of activities that carried the state executive through five speeches in three counties yesterday. Upward of 150 miles of travelling was necessary to keep the engagement and for the first time during the tour Governor McLean evinced signs of real fatigue when he received shortly before midnight.

Arising early today the campaign party was conducted on a mountain sight seeing trip and had a real country breakfast before bundling off eastward to Barium Springs, where the Governor is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian Orphan age. He made a short talk to the children and took luncheon with them in the main dining room. His party then proceeded to cover the remainder of the 100 miles to Albermarle where the Governor was to conclude his week's speaking tour. After the speech he is scheduled to go to Greensboro where he will hold several conferences Saturday before returning to the capital.

The Governor yesterday waded into the Republican opposition with real vigor. It was the first time on the present trip that he had used forceful words on the subject, but he went after Senatorial candidates Johnston, Hayes and other Republicans and scarcely mentioned the other things he had been scheduled to talk about. He had been expected to discuss the cotton situation and the Ford-Corn trade policy of the Republicans.

The Governor declared the Republicans had access to the court in the states and that he was eager to aid them in obtaining fair election. This was in reply to statements of Hayes, who is stumping the state that all the Republicans want is a fair election. He then propounded three questions, which he asked Mr. Hayes to answer. He asked him if he would vote to send Representative Vane, Senatorial candi-

CAMERA CATCHES QUEEN IN TWO MOODS

QUEEN MARIE TO TALK OVER RADIO N. YORK TONIGHT

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Queen Marie will talk to the American people by radio tonight through a chain of 21 stations west of the Rocky Mountains. From 8:30 to 9 P. M. she will be before the microphone of WEAF.

The royal party is due to arrive at eight o'clock at the Commodore Hotel for a banquet in the Queen's honor given by the Iron and Steel Board of Trade. Afterward she is to go to supper at the 14th Avenue home of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

She had an appointment for luncheon at the Bankers Club at 12:30 today upon her arrival from Philadelphia and for a reception by the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. after the luncheon.

NAPOLEONIC RELICS

Paris, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Napoleon is said to have fallen asleep many times on his folded arms at a mahogany desk which was used for some time as a telephone switchboard at the French ministry of war. The desk has now been rescued from its telephone detail and will be placed with other Napoleonic relics at La Malmaison.

date in Pennsylvania, and Smith, who is seeking the Illinois seat; if he sponsored the records of Daugherty, Fall and Miller, and why Congress had not changed the Congressional representation as required by the constitution.

The Governor declared that this was open disregard of the constitution and enough to cause any Southerner to vote against the Republican Congress. If Congress were rightly appointed, he declared, the south would have the head of important committees instead of the west and the north.

Celebrated Artists Appear at Teachers College Last Night

The Columbia Opera Company, a notable singing organization, gave a most delightful concert at the Teachers College, Thursday evening. The members of the company, re-spectively singing and their program was highly enjoyed by the large number of students and visitors present.

The following members comprised the company: Miss Marie Sacket, soprano; Miss Kathleen Ryan, contralto; Mr. Paul Mallory, tenor; Mr. Philip Kaler, baritone; Miss Edythe Sackett, pianist. Each member of the company was a real artist, and as an ensemble, they were exceptional.

The program was varied, consisting of quartettes, duets and solos. The opening selection, "Spirit of Spring," by Cadman, was excellently sung. Squire's "Singing Lesson," by Miss Ryan and Mr. Bennett won instant popularity with the audience.

The second part of the program consisted of the "Spinning Wheel" Quartette—Martha by Flowet. This selection was given by members of the quartette who appeared in costume. A spinning wheel was used in this selection.

The program was as follows: 1. Spirit of Spring, by Cadman. 2. Sweet and Low, quartette, by Barnaby.

3. Questa Quella, Paul Mallory, by Verdi.

4. Deep River, by Burleigh.

5. Sapphie Ode, by Brahms. Come out Mr. Sunshine, by Biss.

6. Allah's Holiday, Cateka, by Frime.

7. Waltz Song, from Romeo and Juliet, quartette.

8. Sleep, Little-Tired Eyes, Marie Sweet.

9. Singing Lesson, Miss Ryan and Mr. Kaler, by Squire.

10. Little Bateau, O'Hara. Ms Little Bateau, Philip Kaler, by Dickmond.

11. Quartette, Sextette from Lucia.

Intermission.

12. Spinning Wheel Quartet, Martha, Flowet.

Quartette, in costume.

FEDERAL BANKS PREPARED LEND $200,000,000

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Federal Intermediate Credit banks are prepared to advance $200,000,000 if necessary to meet the present cotton price situation.

Eugene Meyer, chairman of President Coolidge's cotton committee said upon his arrival here today on a tour of the cotton belt.

In a statement issued before he went into a conference with cotton men and bankers of South Carolina Mr. Meyer warned the south not to become panicky over the reported prospect of a large government crop report Monday.

Regardless of what the report may show, he declared, "the storage and financial resources of the country are amply able to take care of the surplus and market it at their prices, provided the people do not get excited and panicky."

Hickory Man is Killed in Atlanta

R. P. Best, formerly of Hickory, N. C., died in a local hospital today as the result of wounds received last night in a shooting affair in a rooming house. Frank Gillespie and Mrs. Artie Collins are held without bond in connection with the shooting. Gillespie, who is charged with the actual shooting, said he fired in self-defense.

Hickory, N. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—R. P. Best, who was shot and killed in Atlanta, was the son of R. L. Best, formerly of Hickory, but now residing in Statesville.

The dead man was said to be about 32 years old. Several years ago he was living in Maiden, authorities said with his wife and several children, but he is alleged to have left them some time in 1924 and his whereabouts were not known until the report of his death was received today.

WATSON DENIES UNDERSTANDING WITH KU KLUX

Indiana Senator Tells Senate Campaign Committee He Had No Agreement With Klan

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Embarrassed denial that he ever had any understanding with the local or national office of the Ku Klux Klan was made today by Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, to the Senate Campaign Funds Committee. Senator Watson was questioned by Senator Reid at his room at the Methodist Hospital where he is slowly recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

"I never had any understanding with local or national officers of the Ku Klux Klan, that I was to be supported by them because of any vote or any action of mine," Senator Watson told the committee chairman, who has been drawing into charges of Klan political domination in Indiana.

REV. H. T. STEVENS IN STRONG SERMON HERE LAST NIGHT

Large Crowds Attending Services; Will Preach on "Second Mile Religion" This Evening

"That's a sermon every business man in Greenville ought to hear," remarked a prominent business man last night, after hearing Rev. Herman T. Stevens deliver his fourth sermon this week in the revival being held in the Immanuel Baptist church. "Sermons like that will make a man stop and think; especially those that profess to be Christians. I would give a lot to hear that sermon delivered to the business men of Greenville."

Mr. Stevens' topic for last night was "Why Christians Are Left in This World." In developing his theme, he told of the reason for his selecting such a topic. He said that when he was a young boy he overheard a remark made one day at a meeting that a young man made, in which he said that "all children, as soon as they are converted, should be taken out and their heads chopped off, because they were better than those they ever would be any more."

"It set me to thinking," said the speaker, "I wondered, after all, if there was any real reason why Christians should be left in the world. It kept ringing in my ears, day in and day out, and finally I found the answer. That answer I bring to you tonight, in three short sentences. They are: first, for our own sake; second, for the sake of the world; and third, for Christ's sake."

Mr. Stevens then explained in detail each reason for Christians being left in the world, being out his points clearly and concisely, and so simple that even a child could understand.

The speaker went on to state that a person, after giving their heart to God, should really live the part, and show in his or her daily life that their life belongs to Him.

"Live the part," he continued, "A Christian is expected to be different from the rest of the world, otherwise the world would lose confidence in religion. When the Christian people of Greenville realize that they are to do their duty and keep themselves unspotted from the world, then, and not until then, will the lost be saved. The trouble with people these days is that you can hardly distinguish the difference between a Christian and a sinner. They all seem to be travelling the same road."

The song service last night was unusually good. Rev. O'Brien, working hard on the Junior Chorus and a goodly number were present. He is urging that all, etc.

EARTHQUAKE FELT ON PACIFIC COAST EARLY THIS MORN

Scantly Clad Residents Rush to Streets When Awakened From Slumbers by Rocking of Buildings

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two violent earthquakes rocked the central coast counties of California this morning just an hour apart. The first shock was at 4:36 a. m., and lasted about 20 seconds. The second was at 5:36 a. m., and was much sharper but lasted only about 15 seconds. No injuries and no serious damage had been reported from either early today.

The center of shocks appeared to be between San Francisco and Monterey Bay. The tremors were felt as far south as San Luis Obispo, 250 miles from San Francisco and as far north as Napa, 50 miles from here. They also were felt at Stockton, 90 miles east.

In San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose, the largest cities, attack of large buildings, swayed like trees, driving people into the streets and parks for safety. Hotel guests were shaken from their slumbers and those who did not rush to the streets gathered scantily clad in the lobby.

Several other cities reported the tremors, but the damage appeared to be confined to breaking of windows and rocking of buildings. The shocks were felt at Safford, Santa Cruz, San Jose, Orland, Stockton and Pa. Alto.

The quake appeared to move in a north-south direction along the old fault which caused the quake of 1906.

The police department said no report of injury or property damage had been received.

Cattle Dipping in Alabama to Continue

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 22.—(INS)—Cattle raisers who have three times this year dynamited the government's cattle dipping vats because they were opposed to tin dipping of their stock will not be required to have all animals dipped for ticks.

The state of Alabama has continued the dipping program. Cattle tick eradication work will be carried on throughout the state without suspension but on a reduced scale.

Nine men have been employed as range riders to see that cattle raisers have their cattle dipped and to watch for destroying of the government vats.

Memphis Suffers Series Robberies

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(INS)—Memphis is in the grip of its annual influx of yeggs.

Police, who for the past three years have been troubled with an invasion of a gang of safe ripers during the winter months, are again turning their attention to a sweeping investigation of yeggs' work in this city.

A still watch consisting of an extensive police dragnet over the area where the safe robbers have been striking together with constant patrol by police autos has been inaugurated.

Twenty-five safes have been robbed during the past three weeks. Over 100 were robbed last winter.

parents bring their children in order that the choir may be made as large as possible.

Mr. Stevens spoke this afternoon on "What I Want On My Tombstone." Tonight he speaks on "Second Mile Religion." Saturday night is Young People's night, and everybody is asked to bring a piece of string. In reply to a question as to what the string was for, Rev. Stevens would only say, "Come and see."

Quite a few out-of-town people were present at the services, among them being "Fighting John" and a goodly number were present. He is urging that all, etc.

GREENVILLE MAN SEES ARRIVAL OF QUEEN MARIE

Writes Vivid Description of Scenes Surrounding Arrival of Queen Marie and Party in New York

(Wyatt L. Brown)

Amidst the sound of innumerable factory and boat whistles the Queen of Rumania arrived on the ocean soil only thirty minutes late. Though as a usual thing queens are greeted with quiet and solemnity Queen Marie was sure greeted in the real American way, cannon and rifle salutes, blowing of whistles, and hearty cheer, all together making a monstrous noise.

The royal party was landed at Battery Park on a boat sent out by the New York reception committee. Though the weather was cloudy and the rain on a momentary stopped the crowds jammed around the dock in spite of damp or cold. Due to the familiarity of the public with the Queen's face which has often appeared in our publications in the United States, she was immediately recognized and hailed.

One could not tell from the reception whether the one honored was queen of a country or industry or screen—there was no pomp and splendor to greet the queen other than the honorary guard of soldiers, sailors, marines and policemen. The reception was very democratic—the queen was dressed like any well dressed American woman with a smile for all and there was no bowing and scraping or prostrating on the part of the reception committee.

The Queen was escorted up to the city hall where she was publicly received. There was a company of soldiers on the United States to escort the queen on the way to the city hall; also there were sailors and marines. On every hand were New York police keeping the crowds out of the path of the parade; beside the numerous policemen, who kept the way open from the pier to the City Hall there was special guard to accompany the Queen.

A brass band composed of policemen immediately preceded the Queen's car beside the soldier and sailor bands which were in the front of the parade. Each side of the street was crowded to the bursting point with people anxious to see the Queen pass. The policemen were kept busy trying to make the people keep out of the line of march. Up in the windows of the tall office buildings many were watching the Queen's passage up town. Some threw streamers and confetti from the windows adding to the scene of goodfeeling evidenced also by the cheer, and pressing forward of the crowds on the street.

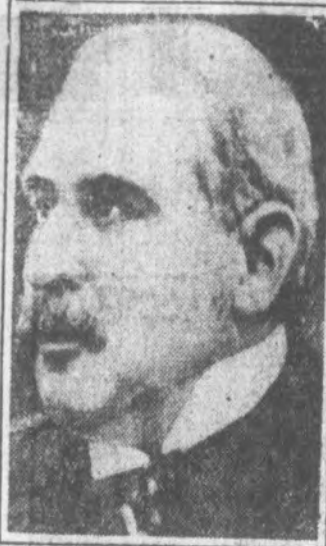

The army bugle sounded "fall in" and the "attention," the crowd waited with nervous interest to see the queen pass. The bugle sounded "forward march" and the line of march was started toward the city hall. After the honorary guard passed the queen herself passed with smiling face and frequent waving of the hand to the cheering crowd all along the way. She rode in an open touring car of American make; the only evidence of nobility was in the character of the men's dress, who were with her— they wore high hats and frock coats. The queen was clad in a dark coat which brought out her pretty blond face and short bobbed blonde hair. She looked so young and pleasant as she passed smiling up the street.

She and her party did not hide their interest in the tall buildings which they saw. The men raised their eyes and craned their necks to see the tops and called the queen's attention since the queen was apparently more interested in the cheering crowds enthusiastic at her presence. She took her eyes off the crowd long enough to take a glance at the skyscrapers which were indistinct from the harbor due to the heavy fog this morning.

The rest of the royal party followed behind in closed cars all peering through the windows at the people who craned their neck to see it all considerable pushing and shoving among the masses through which stretched from the pier up to Broadway and on up Broadway ten or more blocks to the city hall. No one could tell that the party was composed of foreigners since all were dressed like Americans except a Rumanian military official or two which accompanied the party. It was impossible to tell which were visitors and which were the reception committee unless one knew the persons.

Just as soon as the party passed the crowds rushed right out into the street following in behind up to the City Hall where Mayor was to give the key of the city to the queen publicly. The crowd eager to see the queen was added to by the office people since it was lunch hour. Traffic was hopelessly stopped all the way from the pier to the city hall by the jam of people rushing toward the City Hall.

The public ceremony at the city hall was made audible to the throng by the use of loudspeakers placed in front of the building from which steps the speeches were made. These the push of which had been spread out for ten blocks between the Hall and pier was crowded all into one place. Nothing but the intense interest in what was going on made it possible for so many to get in hearing distance of the amplifiers. After the speeches the Queen's party went to lunch at the Ambassador Hotel after which they left on their special train for Washington, D. C.

Scientists to Tokyo for Most Important Meet

Tokyo, Oct. 22, (AP)—Probably the most important meeting of scientists ever held in the Orient will open in Tokyo October 30, for a twelve-day session. The conference is that of the Third Pan-Pacific Science Congress and prominent scientists from almost every country in the world are expected to be in attendance. Among the important topics to be discussed are:

Review of the present state of knowledge of the physical and biological oceanography of the Pacific and currents, temperatures, salinity, hydrogen, concentration, abundance of plankton, duration of the swimming larval stages of organisms that are sedentary in the adult stage, etc.

Report on the network of earth quake observations in the countries of the Pacific.

Transmission of earthquake waves across the Pacific.

Study of volcanoes in the Pacific region in their various aspects.

Study of volcanoes in the Pacific region; stratigraphy of the bearing formation.

Antiquity of man in the Pacific region; anthropometry of the races of the Pacific.

"TREASURE HUNT"

Unique Entertainment For Brides and Brides-elect

One of the most enjoyable and unique of the autumn social functions, was the "Treasure Hunt" given by Miss Margaret Fleming Thursday evening, complimentary to Mrs. Gifford Smith and Mrs. Person Nicholson, recent brides, and Misses Hannah Dixon and Emily Moye, autumn brides-elect.

The forty couples enjoying Miss Fleming's hospitality, met at the Fleming home on Greene street, at eight o'clock. The home was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, and bright fall flowers. After the guests had all arrived they were served fruit punch and the "Treasure Hunt" was explained by the hostess. To every two couples she gave a jingle suggesting the first station on the "Treasure Hunt". There were eight stations in the different parts of town and the surrounding country, where two couples awaited the guests, with clues to the following stations. At the eighth station a ghost was standing guard over the "Treasure Chest".

MISSES LONG ENTERTAIN

Bride Luncheon For Brides.

Misses Hennie and Anna Long charmingly entertained a number of friends Thursday morning at a pretty bride luncheon, as a compliment to the three autumn brides, Mrs. J. Person Nicholson, Mrs. Hannah Dixon and Mrs. Emily Moye.

The handsome long home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with profusions of fall flowers and sixteen tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. Bruce Wren, making top score, was presented a box of stationery and an ostrich pen while the booky comic novelty, fell to Mrs. John Hodges. Attractive footstools were given Mrs. Nicholson and Miss Moye and embroidered pillow slips to Mrs. Dixon. The cut-of-town guests, Misses Hector Banks, Esie Barnes, Daphne R. P. of Wilson, Mrs. Joe Rodgers, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Miller, of California, were regaled with both sets.

At the conclusion of the games an elegant two course luncheon was served.

MRS. RAY TYSON ENTERTAINS

Beethoven Year Finds Music Status Similar

New York, Oct. 22. (AP)—Celebration of Beethoven's centenary finds music in a transition period as it was when the little German composer died.

When Beethoven lived the romanticism of the nineteenth century was encroaching slowly on eighteenth century formalism. It was in the combination of the newer romanticism with the beauty of form developed by the eighteenth century master that he excelled.

The musical world will revive virtually all of his compositions this season in observance of the centenary. He wrote nine overtures, nine symphonies and thirty-eight piano sonatas. His principal vocal work is "Fidelio," an opera.

Like Haydn and Mozart, Beethoven was of peasant birth. Finding his home intolerable on account of his father's intemperance and the early death of his mother, the erratic genius turned early to music and published his first work in 1783.

He attended the early work especially in Vienna, where in 1793 he was received with great acclaim. But the eccentricity of the man was a constant worry to his friends. Dozens of incidents are told of his fits of bursts of temper that followed as an aftermath to the playing of some practical joke.

One such incident concerns a Vienna woman who admired him so ardently that she was bent on having a lock of Beethoven's hair for her own. A friend of the composer suggested to him in a jocular spirit, that a lock of goat's hair would suffice just as well and Beethoven, in a spirit of hilarity, acquiesced, and sent her a lock of goat's hair, the color and coarse texture of which resembled his own. Later the woman heard of the joke and accused Beethoven of perpetrating it. His fury fell upon the friend who suggested the ruse. While he immediately cut off a lock of his own hair and sent it to his admirer, it is said that he never forgave his ingenious friend.

It was on account of his unsteady disposition that he was never able to teach and thus pass to his pupils the power of his genius. Only one man, Reich studied directly under the master and can be said to have been his pupil.

During the latter years of his life complete deafness overtook Beethoven, but the ability to compose was not dependent on auditory faculties and it was after his hearing was quite gone that he composed Miss Solennis, one of his most famous works. At his death in 1826, it is said that 20,000 people attended the funeral.

MISSES LONG ENTERTAIN

Bride Luncheon For Brides.

Misses Hennie and Anna Long charmingly entertained a number of friends Thursday morning at a pretty bride luncheon, as a compliment to the three autumn brides, Mrs. J. Person Nicholson, Mrs. Hannah Dixon and Mrs. Emily Moye.

The handsome long home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with profusions of fall flowers and sixteen tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. Bruce Wren, making top score, was presented a box of stationery and an ostrich pen while the booky comic novelty, fell to Mrs. John Hodges. Attractive footstools were given Mrs. Nicholson and Miss Moye and embroidered pillow slips to Mrs. Dixon. The cut-of-town guests, Misses Hector Banks, Esie Barnes, Daphne R. P. of Wilson, Mrs. Joe Rodgers, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Miller, of California, were regaled with both sets.

At the conclusion of the games an elegant two course luncheon was served.

Falling Is a Science for Movie Comedians Now

New York, Oct. 22. (AP)—Comedians who make good in fast-moving pictures not only must be athletes, but they also must have the stamina and courage to withstand hard knocks and falls.

"It isn't what a man stands for that counts—it's what he falls for," wise-cracked Walter Catlett.

"And it's not the fall which knocks him out, but the way he falls," supplemented Charlie Wininger.

"It isn't always the big falls that hurt, but many times it's a little fall of three or four feet," added Bobby Vernon.

The fall not properly broken is a screen comedian. You have no idea how many corners, and edges there are on a chair until you drive into one going as fast as you can run.

"While talking falls is only the least of a comedian's requirements, it is one of the most trying things in the profession."

Al St. John, whose stunts on a trick bicycle are well known, in a new picture "de down the street with a growing lion perched on the rear seat of his bike, the beast jumping up behind the comedian before his bathing beauty friend can get on the bicycle to escape from the animal.

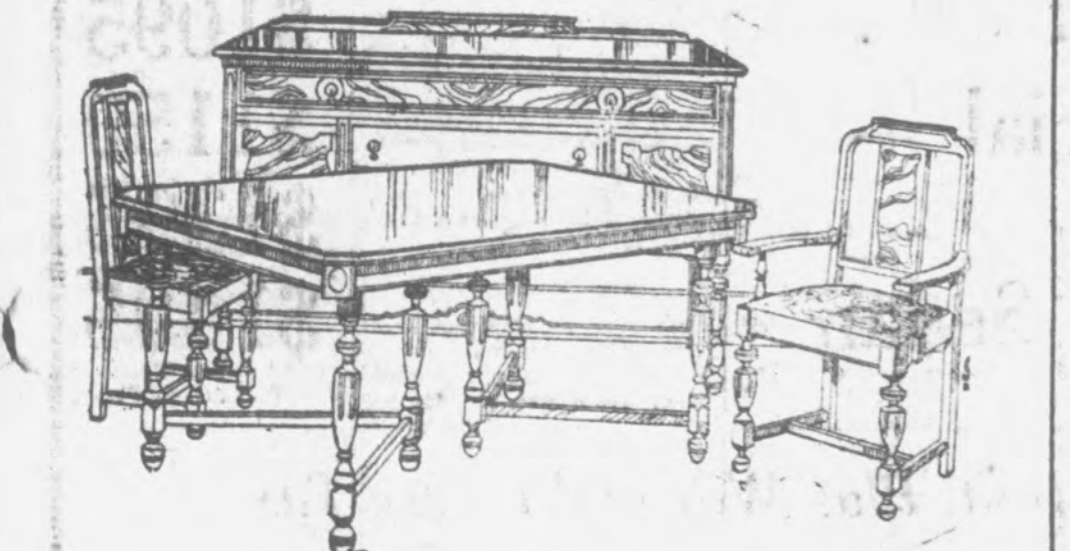

The late Duke of Orleans, the French pretender, bore a decided resemblance to Buffalo Bill.

Uniform Cement Made At New Central Plants

Chicago, Oct. 22. (AP)—The American plan of standardization is spreading through the cement industry, so that 23 cities over the country now have in successful operation central mixing plants where ready mixed unhardened concrete is prepared for instant delivery to any part of town.

The uniformity of the product makes an especial appeal to contractors and these plants mix it, hauls of eight to ten miles may be made without impairing the quality of the product. In order to haul the wet concrete it must be of stiff consistency, and as the less water used, the stronger will be the finished concrete.

WHY NOT THE EAST?

It is apparent that Queen Marie's itinerary will include North Carolina cities, and others cities in the west besides Asheville, are bidding for a visit of the Queen...

Queen Marie has expressed a desire to see what there is to see in America, and if she does not visit eastern North Carolina she surely will not see all by any means.

Eastern North Carolina has many sights to offer visitors even though they be Queens, and the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce should not only invite Queen Marie and her party to eastern Carolina, but should urge the invitation and impress upon the minds of those in charge of arrangements that the Royal visit to America will indeed be incomplete if members of the party fail to witness the many sights offered by this Garden Spot of America.

A DAY FOR PATRIOTISM

November 11, Armistice Day, is a day for the show of patriotism by every true American and already the local post of the American Legion has announced an elaborate program for celebration of the day here. The day is one that means much and will long be remembered throughout the entire world, and it is to be hoped that every citizen of this county will join the ex-servicemen in properly celebrating the day.

NOVEMBER 2 WILL TELL

So far as the Recorder's Court in Smithfield is concerned, Deputy Sheriff Hartley is guilty of criminal libel as a result of his statement that the Republican sheriff, under whom he has been working, instructed him to arrest Democratic and negro moonshiners, but to leave Republicans alone, as arrests of same was hurting the party's cause in the county.

Despite the judgment of the court, however, Hartley's guilt or innocence, so far as the people of the county are concerned, has not been made public, and their action at the polls on November 2 will be their verdict as to whether or not they believe the charges made by Hartley against the county administration.

PRESS COMMENT

THINKING FOR THE FUTURE

(News and Observer) An acre in Tarnovia is worth a whole township in Utopia, according to Dr. E. C. Branson, who is sending out another one of those perennial year books from the University of North Carolina. It has been quite a while now since their year book began to circulate over North Carolina after their contents had been thrashed out in the North Carolina club at Chapel Hill. None of them have been revolutionary, but all have been constructive in thought. Best of all is the fact that they represented the work of students who were early being taught how to think about their own State as a dwelling place for the mind as well as the body.

The latest contribution from the North Carolina club at the University is entitled "Town and Country Interdependencies," an academic way of saying that town and country go together. Prof. Edward James Woodhouse starts the booklet with an instructive resume of the history of Western civilization. Generators of Western civilization, he describes them. He traces them through all of ancient history, and on through the ages until he gets to the North Carolina town of today.

Cities and towns dominate civilization, according to Prof. Woodhouse. He states no new conclusion. The problem of relating country to town is one that ought to be given close study in the state. Cities and towns are growing at a rapid rate, much more rapidly in proportion than country, and the problem of rural civilization in this state instead of getting easier with the advent of automobiles and good roads, gets more difficult.

There are many rural problems that would be fairly easy if they could be transported to town. Removal of isolation, which is the chief thing that makes towns grow in intelligence has not made it easier to solve these problems. They have been made more complex with the advent of machinery because the individual mind unaccustomed to co-operative action, finds it difficult to become adjusted to new surroundings.

If town and country could be matched in harmonious adjustment or could be balanced on an even scale, the biggest problem of this civilization would be solved. That isn't possible but it is a help when University students with such leaders as Dr. Branson and with the co-operation of men of such perspective as Prof. Woodhouse put their minds to the problem.

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.—(INS)—Can dolls cement international friendship? The women of the O.S. Council of Churches believe so, and are planning to send thousands of dolls to Japan during December to be distributed in time for the annual Doll Festival—the great gala holiday of the Japanese observed every year on March 3.

Probably 25,000 doll messengers of friendship will be shipped to the Orient for distribution through the public schools in all parts of Japan, according to the present plans of the organization.

Innumerable Middle-Westerners, who admit they have not done much hobnobbing with royalty, are spending considerable money on etiquette books in anticipation of the visit of Queen Marie, of Romania, book dealers declare.

Residents of Ohio and Indiana will subscribe several millions of dollars to two Jewish relief drives that have been underway in the United States for nearly six months, it has been estimated.

One of the drives is for general Jewish relief work, with a goal of $25,000,000, and the other is for $20,000,000 to be used in Palestine. Podiatrists are becoming less careful, according to a report made by city officials here following a three month traffic survey. The report disclosed that an average of six persons were struck by automobiles here during every day of last month. The average was higher in every city of the same or greater population than the report inferred.

Mr. M. Hill, citizen of Dayton, Ky., has announced that she will carefully search her husband's overalls before washing them again. She reported to secret service official that the last time the working clothes were laundered she ruined a perfectly good $5 bill that had been left in one of the pockets.

She produced the ruined currency and after much red tape she was awarded a crisp new one. "Never again," said Mrs. Hill. "Uncle Sam made me wait too long."

Even as it did in the days of the stage coach and the early years of railroading, shipping on the historic Ohio river may again flourish.

Of the 50 locks and dams that will provide a permanent nine-foot stage in 1,000 miles of the river, from Pittsburg to Cairo, 42 have been completed and eight are expected to be finished within a few years, the Ohio Valley Improvement Association has announced.

The unfinished dams are located in the lower stretch of the river between Louisville and Cairo, in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois. The dam at Louisville is also being rebuilt to provide hydro-electric power.

Once the system is completed large river freight boats, somewhat speedier than the ancient flat boats are expected to carry on a much more extensive service between New Orleans and the steel and coal center of Pennsylvania.

Huge Moody Mem. a Church for Masses

Chicago, Oct. 22, (AP)—Erected by a congregation whose scroll counts not a single wealthy patron, a million dollar Roman-Bysantine edifice stands near downtown Chicago as one of America's truly distinctive pieces of church architecture.

It is a memorial to the internationally known evangelist, D. L. Moody, which will celebrate his first anniversary on November 8th.

Colossal yet unpretentious, it represents the desire of its congregation and pastor, the Reverend F. W. Philpott, to embody in a building the strong and kind personality of Moody, the simplicity of his life, the economy of his organization and a friendly and wholesome atmosphere in which would live the motto of his church, "Ever Welcome to This House of God as Strangers and the Poor."

Six stories high and with exterior and interior of red brick and terra cotta, the Moody Church is semi-circular with a huge half dome covering the church proper. To the right is a two story office and Sunday School annex.

Arches in brick relief arranged above and below large windows of the same style are the only exterior ornamentation, and on the semi-circular side ten arched doorways lead from a concrete plaza to a curved foyer which surrounds the auditorium. To the rear, the church drops away to two story height with a row of arched doorways extending the width of the church, above which are a row of arched windows which light a long foyer. Above the curved main-floor foyer is a second foyer surrounding the balcony, and on both foyers arched doorways lead to a

TALKING UNDER WATER IS NEXT SCIENCE FEAT

Navy Experts Predicting Voices at New Bottom Soon Heard; Efforts to Be Redoubled to Make Communications Through Ocean Easier

Washington, Oct. 22.—(INS)—Having made the atmosphere an almost perfect medium for transmitting the human voice, scientists now are redoubling their efforts to make it simple to talk under water.

Navy experts predict that in the future it will be almost as simple to communicate in the depth of the ocean as above it.

Turning the new science of "sonar," the navy's experts are bending their energies in particular toward improvement of communication between submarines.

Since the World War great advance has been made in the art of underwater communication and depth sounding, says an announcement by the Navy department, up until 1918 the chief mediums were audible sound receivers and transmitters.

Theories in the application of the piezoelectric effect to underwater sound transmission and reception, however, have opened up a new field.

"The term 'super-sonics' refers to frequency above the limits of audibility of the human ear," says the navy announcement. "For instance, the human ear may be considered a sound receiver tuned to receive sounds lying between frequencies of 20 to 20,000 cycles per second. Sounds lying above this spectrum are inaudible and the reception of these sounds is accomplished by the use of the piezoelectric principle.

By use of these short waves, it has been possible to telephone under water and to telegraph at speeds of 20 to 30 words per minute. This is considered by scientists as quite an advance over the other methods of audible transmission and reception under water.

So important does the navy regard the possibilities of underwater communication that the Naval Research Laboratory at Belleuve, D. C., has established a sound division with Dr. Harry C. Hayes acting as superintendent. Two barges have been fitted up to be used in the sound experiments.

views for detecting the presence of submarines through sound receivers were unsatisfactory. Toward the end of the war great improvement was made. Now a sonic depth finder has been developed which it is claimed will accurately place a submarine in depths of 40 to 1,000 fathoms and in a radius of forty miles.

A new peace-time use has been discovered for the sonic depth finder. When the navy department was called upon to survey the route of the War Department's submarine telegraph cable which serves Alaska, the problem on a rough ocean bed made up partly of submerged mountains faced it.

By the use of the sonic depth finder—measuring the depth of the water by the angle of reception of the vessel's own propeller sounds which were reflected—the Navy experts to be able to make a map of the bed of the ocean without sailing it.

Another use for this war-born device is in protecting Atlantic ship lanes against huge icebergs. The distance and bearing of the bergs is obtained by means of echoes given off by the submerged faces of the bergs. While the range is still somewhat limited, scientists hope to perfect the sonar to a degree where it will be comparatively easy to spot icebergs and plot their course.

British Authors Also Kick At Film Versions

London, Oct. 22. (AP)—The British writers don't like the film versions of their stories any better than many Americans do.

Thomas Burke, the accredited author of "London," which the British National Film Company is now showing, is chafing under the liberties taken with his original scenario.

"My scenario was called 'The Pilgrim's March' and bore no resemblance to what is being offered," he declared. "This film is called 'The Romance of Mayfair and Limehouse. I never called the scenario that, because it wasn't any romance at all. I never saw a foot of the film when it was being made and was amazed when I read there was a 'Limehouse death dance' in it. I never heard of such a dance. There is no literary version of the story, so I suppose the public will always think I am responsible for the filmed version."

Dorothy Gish is the featured player, which the London press has received unfavorably.

Ballyhoo, meaning extravagant advertising, has become a member in the society of good speech and will appear in the next edition of the New Standard Dictionary.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

Paris, Oct. 22.—(INS)—Cheese Soup is one of the best French varieties. Put a layer in the soup tureen, then one of bread cut into thin slices, another of cheese and so on until the tureen is filled.

Make a good onion bouillon of one with cabbage. Grate a good quantity of Gruyere and Parmesan cheese. It is best to use the two kinds. Mix two glasses of fresh cream with the bouillon and pour over the bread and cheese. Add very little salt to the bouillon because of the cheese.

MONT. CAMPAIGN IS GROWING HOTTER, DRY ISSUE IS UP

Helena, Mont., Oct. 22.—(INS)—With state and county wheel-horses getting warmed up under the collar Montana's bye-election next month for selection of one representative in congress from each of the two districts; for two associate justices of the supreme court one member of the state railroad commission, the legislature and 11 county offices issues are slowly but surely being clarified.

Great interest centers in the scrap between Scott Leavitt, Republican, twice elected to congress from the second district and H. R. Mitchell, a real dirt farmer and mayor of Great Falls Democrat.

Leavitt is bone dry and a Coeidge supporter. His strength was shown in the August primary when the farm vote put him over against real opposition by the old-time Republican party leaders who must now submit gracefully and swing in line in his support. His strength is gained in his work at Washington in making more liberal terms to the government efforts on federal reclamation projects and his efforts to retain many federal offices here. In spite of the national administration's relentless economy program.

Mayor Mitchell, owner of one of the largest and best equipped dairy farms in the state a few miles from Great Falls, has made a splendid record for economy and executive ability in two terms as Mayor of Great Falls, Montana's second largest city.

While he is opposed to a wide open liquor law he has expressed himself for modification with strict limits.

Montana is this year one of the battlegrounds for the national prohibition forces. An initiative petition was placed on the ballot to give the voters the opportunity to express themselves for or against modification. Its passage will not change the status of Montana but may show which way the wind is blowing. So far this campaign has been free of pyrotechnics.

This year, for the first time in a decade, Montana voters are reduced to the two old parties once more. The non-partisan league is forgotten, with good crops and good wheat prices; the progressives, the laborites and other issues have gone into the discard with Montana's prosperity keeping every one too busy to grind other-wise dull axes.

NEWS OF WOMEN

Belgrade, Oct. 22, (AP)—Artificial ruby lips and creamy complexions are doomed in Yugoslavia. At least, the government has so ruled out Serbian women are likely to have something to say about it.

The decrees forbidding women to apply rouge or powder to their faces is entitled "Bill to combat corruption and luxury," and is part of a governmental drive for economy. Church and State have united against female luxuries but the women are presenting a solid front.

The Church has forbidden women to appear at religious service except in sober garments and without any artificial beautifiers. The State, in order to enforce its decree, has slapped an almost prohibitive customs tariff against cosmetic, most of which are imported from France.

Madison, Oct. 22, (AP)—Dancing as a pre-requisite to sports and physical development is being taught in the University of Wisconsin as a new course.

The class was organized by Miss Carol Rice, assistant professor of physical education, and a student of Nels Bukh, of Copenhagen, Denmark. The course will emphasize coordination, strength and flexibility as prerequisites to future work in dancing, sports and physical development generally.

London, Oct. 22, (AP)—Jessie Bond, who was the original "Pitti-Sing" in "The Mikado" when it was produced at the Savoy Theatre in 1885, was given a great ovation at the opening performance of the modernized version of the opera at Princes Theatre, where the Gilbert and Sullivan season opened with Miss Bond Premier Stanley Baldwin, Dame Edger Kendall, Cyril Maude and many other celebrities in the audience.

While the new costumes and scenery provided by Charles Rickards depart materially from the original production, which has been adhered to for forty years, critics agreed they were an improvement.

Munich, Oct. 22, (AP)—A mighty demonstration against the employment of married women in factories marked the 25th anniversary of the Central League of Christian Textile Workers in Germany.

It was agreed that with many men needing work, it was unfair competition to engage married women in factories, as the majority of these women were being fairly well taken care of by their husbands and in many instances took up factory work merely to earn a certain amount of pocket money for unnecessary luxuries.

Paris, Oct. 22, (AP)—Feminism won an important victory in France when women hairdressers henceforth will be permitted to work in hairdressing parlors on an equal footing with men.

Women "tonsorial artists" also will be allowed to join the "Barbers Union" which to them has been a closed corporation since its creation.

Said Monsieur Jean Forestier, President of the Barbers Union, "We have women taxi-drivers, women lawyers, women doctors, and I fail to see why we shouldn't have women hairdressers. You will find that women customers will always insist upon being attended by men, while the latter doubtless will favor feminine workers. I am sure women have a lighter touch than men for shaving."

Breslau, Oct. 22, (AP)—An American woman, the former Miss Muriel White, through her marriage to Count Hermann Scherr-Thoss, has become one of the richest estate owners in Germany and undisputed head of the smart set of the province of Silesia. In Silesia, despite revolution and republic, blue blood and nobility still mean social and economic leadership.

The couple were married in 1909 when Henry White was American ambassador to France and the young Count Scherr-Thoss was attache at the German embassy in Paris. They retired to Rosnochau Castle in Silesia, which the Count's late father turned over to them. Countess Muriel personally designed the plans for renovating the castle, and transformed it into one of the most beautiful abodes in the province.

Before the war, the count and countess spent most of the winter season in Berlin, where countess Muriel was known as one of the most beautiful women at the court. Since the war, the Countess' social activities have been mostly restricted to Silesia.

Local police are now enforcing an ordinance providing for license tags on airplanes. They aren't tags, such as tacked on the front and rear bumpers of your car; they are numbers three feet high painted on the bottom of the plane.

All airplanes flying from Los Angeles fields must have a number, so that machines flying too close over the city or committing any other breach of aerial etiquette can be checked.

Enforcement of the ordinance followed the death of two young girls who were recently killed on the beach when struck by a low-flying plane, and as a result of the penchant of certain giddy pilots for flying at a dangerously low altitude over the Los Angeles coliseum during football games.

Sees Recreation For Workers in the Arts

Atlantic City, Oct. 22. (AP)—Light opera, lectures and music rather than baseball or tennis, are the suitable recreations declared James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, in an address today before the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

"The popularly accepted idea of recreation is athletic sports—running, jumping, swimming, golf, lawn tennis, and baseball," he said. "All these sports are without doubt very good for those who need that kind of recreation, but few workers engaged in modern industry need them. "Their work gives laboring men all the physical exertion necessary. What they need is recreation of a different kind, such as music, lectures, good books, light opera, educational dramatic productions, adult education in a class room equipped with restful chairs and with an atmosphere of democracy.

"The coal miner or steel worker can well afford to sit on the grandstand and watch the bank clerks play baseball. The banker can well afford to play golf on a hot summer day while the coal miners sits under a shady tree reading a good book or listening to a band concert. Both will be getting the physical and mental recreation needed, and both will be healthier, happier and better equipped to face the problems of life."

To avoid industrial stagnation and unemployment, workers are demanding increased wages and decreased hours of labor. This, he said, means additional hours of leisure which should by all means be turned to good account. "Religion in America is superficial because it must make its appeal to people who are in a hurry," said Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver in another address.

"The Kingdom of God comes without haste," said Dr. Silver. "The heart of the religious mood is meditation, the hushed and silent contemplation of lifes profundities. But what American ever meditates? We need more time to get acquainted with ourselves. We should develop a new science—the Science of Leisure.

We have not enough amateurs in our society—men who, out of sheer love of life, set about to utilize their leisure time purposely and creatively. Our industrialized civilization demands specialization, which tends to narrow man's mental and spiritual life. Most of us have only one world in which to live—the world of our vocations. For the purpose of earning a living—that is admirable. For the purpose of earning life—it is fatal."

autobiography how the great Rachmaninoff once became so undignified as to conduct "an early morning serenade consisting of cat's music played on impossible instruments." The occasion was Chaliapin's wedding in 1898 to the ballet dancer Tornage.

"The next morning," Chaliapin says "there came across from beneath my window a deuce of a noise—a group of my friends with the composer Rachmaninoff at their head had composed in my honor an early morning serenade.

"They tapped on the window and whistled and shouted an impromptu concert." Thus, he remarks. "I stared on my married life."

Chaliapin's marriage was an unusual affair. "There was nothing that one usually has at weddings," he says. "No beautifully decorated tables, no speeches. On the carpet were bunches of wild flowers and bottles of wine. We drank out of the bottles!"

That same year Chaliapin was given the part of Boris Godounov to study under Rachmaninoff's direction.

"Rachmaninoff had just left the Conservatoire," he says. "He was a man who enjoyed life, a distinguished musician and a pupil of Tschalkoviski's. The elements of music I learned from him and I owe him my theoretical education.

"I was so delighted with 'Boris Godounov' that I wasn't content to study my own part only, but learned every other part in the opera by heart, both male and female roles, so that I could sing the whole opera from beginning to end. Later I learned that such a thorough mastering of a whole opera is for a singer an enormous advantage; and so I always did the same afterwards with every opera I appeared in.

"After I studied the music of Boris Godounov to my satisfaction, I wanted to know all about the work from the historical side. I read Paschkin, Karamassin and others, but failed to obtain from them a correct picture of the epoch. Then I got to know the famous Russian historian Klutschewski, who described the time of Boris Godounov so graphically that I saw the characters standing alive before my eyes."

British Race Turns To More Wine

London, Oct. 22. (AP)—Drinking habits of British people have undergone a change during the last eighteen months, according to close observers. There is less consumption of beer and spirits but a growing demand for wine and light foreign beer.

The fall in consumption of spirits is responsible for a report that distillers are contemplating a reduction of one-third in their output this year.

Bandits Cave Now A Study for Geologists

Rocheport, Mo., Oct. (AP)—Rendezvous for student outings, and a subject of study for geological field trips from the University of Missouri, the Rocheport cave, near here, once was the den of river bandits and the haven for escaping horse thieves.

The cavern, a deep recess in the rolling hills of central Missouri, is not far from the Missouri river which skirts Rocheport. The entrance about 50 feet high, and half that wide is screened by the heavy underbrush, that in summer almost completely conceals the opening.

In the crinoline days when Rocheport was one of the most important river points between St. Louis and Kansas City, folk lore records the operations of a band of river pirates who regularly stripped the wharves of barrels of sorghum, boxes of provisions and other commodities. The loot was stored in the cave. A fight between the river robbers and a posse of enraged boatmen at the mouth of the cave is said to have ended the career of that band, and the lives of several of its members.

Horse thieves in later years would hide in the cave when the vigilantes pressed them too closely. It has many chambers and winding tunnels.

URGE EFFICIENCY IN CONSERVATION LUMBER SUPPLY

Southern Logging Association Convention in Atlanta Ends Today

New Orleans, Oct. 22.—(INS)—Efficiency in conservation of lumber resources in the South through logging methods was the principal subject at the opening of the Southern Logging association's 16th annual convention here this week. Approximately 100 of the larger lumber producing companies of the South are represented at the convention. E. H. Stevens, Picayune, Miss., president of the association, presided over the sessions.

C. D. Shy, of Memphis, Tenn., gave an outline on a plan for selective logging. J. M. Campbell, Broken Bow, Okla., told how his companies are permitting the young timber to grow for future use.

The meeting will close here today following addresses from J. M. Camp, Frank's, Va., W. M. Nicholls, Elrod, Ala., and C. R. Brownell, Morgan City, La., and V. S. Snodgrass, former Louisiana State Forester.

WICHITA RINGING BELLS TO BOOST BELL FOR CONGRESS UNIQUE FIGHT

Topeka, Kans., Oct. 22.—(INS)—Probably the most unique contest for a seat in the congress of the United States is being staged at Wichita, which is the central city of the Eighth congressional district of this state. For more than a dozen years the Republicans of this district have been trying to defeat the Democratic congressman, W. A. Ayres. The Eighth district has been going Republican by around 15000 majority for every office except congressman. No Republican candidate has yet been picked who could make a dent in the 12,000 to 15,000 majority regularly given to Ayres. The last one to try it two years ago was Chester I. Long, former congressman and United States Senator and late president of the American Bar Association. Mr. Long met the usual fate.

This year Fred L. Bell, Wichita business man is the Republican candidate for congress. His managers have capitalized his name, and now Wichita and the Eighth district has become the noisiest section of the middle west. Five thousand supporters of Bell for congress are equipped with the ordinary size sheepbells which they carry in their coat pockets to use at moments notice. These little brass bells with clapper and handle can be heard a half block when 'Ring for Bell' to gather a crowd on a street corner. When a Republican supporter of Fred Bell sees three or four men talking on a street corner he walks up and rings his bell and assembles a dozen or more voters on the curling and makes a speech for his candidate. The sheepbells have practically taken possession of Wichita streets, with Bell meetings everywhere.

Danish King Had Best Meal With Poor Family

Copenhagen, Oct. 22. (AP)—King Christian is very fond of boiled potatoes, but he can't get them at the palace as he likes them because the chief insists upon too many trimmings.

But at the dwelling of a country vicar the King, when his automobile broke down, enjoyed what he termed "the most delicious potatoes I have ever tasted."

Leaving the car near Ribe, the King with his principal chamberlain, set out on foot to reach the nearest village. Arriving at the local manse the King told the vicar of his mishap and explained that he was exceedingly hungry.

The Vicar and his family were just ready to start their evening meal, consisting of potatoes and onion sauce. The King insisted upon joining them. The vicar was apologetic about the Spartan food, but the King declared it to be better than many of the royal dinners.

Scotland's national costume is worn by King George, his sons, and most society people when in the kingdom north of the Tweed.
