BOOTHE LOSES BATTLE WITH GRIM REAPER

Death Came at 6 A. M. Today Following 387 Hour Battle With Grim Reaper.

Roanoke, Va., May 7-(AP)-Walter L. Boothe lost his fight with death at 6 A. M. The death came 387 hours after his lungs collapsed while he was being operated upon for displaced vertebrae and two scores of his friends were called upon to force the breath of life into his body by artificial respiration.

The 18 year old Botetourt county farmer had become resigned to his fate by the more than 15 and half days of suffering and submitted peacefully when the grim specter lowered over his worn body.

Boothe was injured in an automobile accident in May 1926. He and some companions were in a small coupe when the machine turned over. At first it was thought his injuries were only slight, but through several days afterward he became ill. He recovered however, and went back to work in a canning factory near his Mountain Home. One day last August he slipped and fell while carrying a heavy article and later he took a long truck ride. Both of these incidents tended to make his condition worse and in December he was forced to his bed with paralysis.

Later he was brought to a hospital here for an examination and physicians found he had suffered a fracture-dislocation of the vertebrae near the base of the skull. The doctors said an operation was his only hope. The boy welcomed the suggestion.

"Maby," he told his mother, "the operation will bring me back again and then I'll get well and go back to work again."

Boothe was in the hospital for about six weeks before the operation was undertaken. On April 21 he was placed on the operating table and while the surgeons were working on him his lungs collapsed. The operation was immediately abandoned and an emergency call sent out for his friends to hurry to his bedside to administer artificial respiration by the raising and lowering of the youth's arms.

Since then the youth had been kept alive by this method. Numerous times during the more than two weeks he suffered sinking spells and his weakened condition would not permit a rally. He fought on with his old determination but the constant flexion of his arms day and night had sapped so much of his remaining strength that he gradually grew weaker to the end.

Boothe is believed to have set a record for living by artificial respiration. Albert Frick, of Chicago was kept alive by the same method for 108 hours and 12 minutes. Frick died March 10 last.

Carload of Hogs Shipped by Pitt Countians Today

A carload of hogs was shipped to Richmond today under direction of County Agent E. F. Arnold, cooperating with the marketing division of the North Carolina Extension department.

The shipment today consisted of 90 hogs, representing a total weight of 16,000 pounds. This was the first shipment made from Greenville during the present season.

Mr. Arnold said today that other shipment would be made at a later date.

For this year the department has shipped 35,000 pounds of poultry. These shipments were made from various parts of the county, and brought the raisers good prices.

SAYS ARMY ENGINEERS ARE NOT COMPETENT

Prof. H. A. May, 7-(AP)-Congressman Henry L. Rainey of Carrollton, Ill., attacked United States army engineers as incompetent and unlearned in their profession at today's meeting of the congressional flood control committee here.

"They are not interested in our problem," he declared. "They never have been and won't be until we compel them to it by public opinion. We are the victims in this flooded valley of a series of blunders. The solution of this great problem is one for civilian engineers, not for the army."

COLONEL BINGHAM IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Asheville, May 7-(AP)-Colonel Robert Bingham, 88 year old head of Bingham Military School here, was in a critical condition at noon today, although attending physicians thought he had a chance of rallying. The veteran educator suffered a relapse yesterday from an illness suffered several weeks ago.

WHITE BIRD READY TO START ON TRIP FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK

Paris, May 7-(AP)-Captains Nungesser and Gull are ready to take to the air tomorrow before dawn on their Paris-to-New York flight if the expected improvement in weather conditions over the Atlantic is confirmed by final assemblage of meteorological data at midnight.

Their plane, "The White Bird" is in readiness at the Lebourget flying field, with the last gallon of gasoline in the tanks.

CONVENTION OF BAPTIST ENDS TODAY

Messengers Invited to Visit Theological Seminary Grounds Sometime Today.

Louisville, Ky., May 7-(AP)-The Southern Baptist Convention today entered into its final business session before adjournment with little unfinished business scheduled.

The majority of reports scheduled for presentation and discussion were routine ones and officials anticipated a speedy disposal of them, tonight however one of the most important set of recommendations of the convention comes before the organization when the report of the commission on social service is scheduled to be read.

The convention yesterday disposed of a vast amount of business in a crowded program. During the day the widely discussed and disputed efficiency board received final and favorable action while recommendations of the President's committee which sought the suspension of the education board and hospital commission were tabled. Chattanooga was named as the next convention meeting place during May 1928, and in addition to various other reports all committees for the coming year were named.

Following a morning session today the convention messengers were invited to spend the afternoon in a visit to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary grounds and then planned to return to the convention hall for a final business session tonight.

ATTEMPT TO FIND CAUSE EXPLOSION

Seven Killed When Yellow Cab Building Is Wrecked by Blast

New York, May 7-(AP)-Efforts were being made today to discover the cause of an explosion that wrecked the yellow taxi cab company's two story concrete building in east 23rd street yesterday, killing seven, employees and injuring 18.

Carroll Simont, Vice President of the company, who was absent from the building at the time of the blast said a large emergency gas heater had been located in the ruined section of the structure, but doubted whether this caused the explosion he said there were no explosives stored in the building.

The shock was so terrific that hundreds of persons rushed from shaking nearby houses and stores. Blocks of concrete and timbers were torn from the walls and doors by the crash at least 25 men and women in the eastern half of the building were plunged through the wreckage of the first floor into the basement.

Seven persons—two girl stenographers, and five men—were crushed to death or drowned in the basement which had filled with water from a main that burst under the weight of the debris.

Possibility of the presence of strangers in the building at the time caused a continuance of search for bodies.

The dead are Elizabeth Lovinger, 20; Florence Cavanagh, 19; Frank Zurmehlin, 20; and William E. Kelleher, 32, Lawyer; Robert O'Rourke, 30, Clerk; Charles J. Wainman, 55 Chief clerk; and Charles Mallet, 21 clerk.

While injured of both young ladies were described as serious this afternoon, hospital attaches said they were not expected to prove fatal.

Professor Graham, member of the faculty of Washington schools, who was driving the car suffered only minor injuries and was able to be out today.

The party was enroute to Raleigh where Miss Hogg was to meet a sister from New York. The injured were brought to the Pitt Community hospital here for medical aid, later being carried to Washington.

Junior Moore, colored boy of Greenville, is confined in the city lockup today awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to steal the Ford Roadster belonging to Chief of Police Jones.

The attempted theft occurred last night while Chief Jones was in the Woodman Hall on Evans street. Moore started the car and found it necessary to blow the horn. However, instead of blowing the horn he touched the siren which Chief Jones had installed sometime ago for cases of emergency.

Chief Jones heard the siren and knew something was wrong. He gave chase and captured the car before the negro was able to get out of the heart of town.

No Fooling With Mellon. Back Polishers, For Beauty A Complicated Lyching. (By Arthur Brisbane) Copyright 1927, by Star Co.)

Great Britain receives the right reply to her note concerning Mr. Mellon's letter to college professors about international debts. Secretary Kellogg tells Britain that what Secretary Mellon writes to American professors is our business. That covers the ground.

Incidentally, the British admit that beginning in 1932 they will be getting from their European debtors, recently called "gallant allies," more than enough to cover all payments to the United States. Mr. Mellon's statement was strictly accurate, barring one clerical error; and it enlightened his fellow citizens.

BIG CROWD AT REVIVAL

Rev. R. G. McCless Delivered another Powerful Sermon Last Night

An unusually large crowd assembled promptly last evening at 8 o'clock in the Presbyterian Church Dickinson Ave. and Green streets, to listen to Dr. R. G. McCless, of Chatham Virginia deliver a sermon of his usual attractive style.

Text: "Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." Rev. 3:20

If any man open the door, I will come in to him. And that will be heaven in his heart here and the heart of heaven yonder.

A lonely hamlet is now all that is left of the once wealthy commercial populous city of Laodicea in Asia Minor, the seat of the then strong and wealthy church to which this letter was written by John the Apostle from Patmos and addressed to Archipus, the pastor. Intense interest marked the reading of this letter to the wealthy, staid, worldly, selfish congregation, which expected praise for what they were, had done and would do. Deep dis appointment seized them when they heard "Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing and knowest not that thou art wretched and miserable, and poor and blind and naked."

The principal part of his sermon consisted in emphasizing the fact that Jesus is now standing at the door of the sinners' heart seeking an admittance to give salvation.

"He stands," he is here. He has power to save; He wants to save; He is commissioned duly with authority. Yes, He stands.

"He knocks." Knocks on the door of the sinners heart the King, the King, knocks, asking to be let in! How wonderful!

"If any man hear my voice, and open the door," I will come in. The sinner must let him in. He will not force His way in "God is no door-breaker!" You must let him in, or He will never come in.

"I will sup with him" I will bless him with forgiveness of all his sins against Me; I will become reconciled to him; and he shall be at peace with Me; and we shall then have fellowship, hallowed and sweet. That is what I will do for the sinner now if he will let me in. Then later he shall sup with me up yonder with my Father and all the holy angels, he shall sup with Me. But he must let Me in, or else I cannot do these things for him. If the sinner says No to Jesus, He will be insulted and will not save that soul. All Jesus wants is, for you to say Yes. If you say that He will save. But if you say, No, then your sins are still upon your own head.

After the sermon the invitation was given to accept Christ and some several responses were made.

There will be no service this (Saturday) morning. But there will be service as usual this (Saturday) evening at 8 o'clock.

Also tomorrow Sunday A. M. at 10:15 there will be a special service in connection with the Sunday School. This is for children, parents, young women and young men, for everybody.

W. E. Hooker welcomed the visitors in a brief, cordial way. He told them that the club was always delighted to have guest from the college and that the sentiment would never grow old.

Following the serving of one of the most elaborate suppers in several meetings, a quartette from the college entertained with several popular selections.

A mock school scene was presented in which members of the faculty impersonated in a most interesting and effective way. Miss Ethel Spratt's impersonation of Miss Henderson was one of the high lights of the program. Miss Frisby also scored in an attempt to imitate Miss Jenkins.

INCREASED BURDEN PLACED ON LEVES SOUTH OF NEW ORLEANS BECAUSE OF RISING TORRENTS

Relief Forces Continue Efforts to Avert Suffering in Mississippi Valley.

New Orleans, May 7-(AP)-With the rioting Mississippi rising steadily below Angola because of flood waters from northeastern Louisiana returning through the old river, increasing burdens were placed today on the levees south of New Orleans.

Major W. H. Holcombe, chief engineer of the fourth district, who is accompanying Secretary Hoover and his party on their southward journey said the west bank defenses over that stretch were being well maintained but that at points between Baton Rouge and the Crescent City the east bank levees were not so satisfactory.

Large crews are capping and strengthening the embankments over many miles and particularly at a sharp turn in the river some 15 miles above New Orleans where the unprecedented flood cross will exert great pressure on the Gulf.

At Angola the levee is 55.55 feet, a rise of one foot in twenty four. The stage at Baton Rouge, shown on the bureau bulletin, was 46, a rise of two-tenths of a foot overnight and at Donaldsonville, still further south, the rise had been one-tenth of a foot to 36 feet.

Water rushing through the two thousand feet break at Caennarvon, south of New Orleans had lowered the river here one-tenth of a foot to 20.3, the lowest gauge recorded since the effects of the flood first began to be felt near the mouth of the river.

Increasing flood waters were reported along the Red and the Atchafalaya rivers, the latter in the former at Alexandria being two tenths of a foot with a similar rise of the Atchafalaya at Metairie. The levees along these rivers still are holding.

While a part of the state food machinery was engaged in the task of holding the flood within its present boundaries, rescue squads with scores of large and small craft were engaged in evacuating thousands from the flooded area in the northeastern part of the state.

Besides the natural difficulties attending this work the rescuers are meeting with stout resistance from many of those caught in the flood. Reports today to Secretary Hoover and state authorities were that many of the marooned refused to leave their homes, preferring to take their chances here rather than become the inmates of refugee camps.

Memphis, Tenn., May 7-(AP)-Relief forces, keeping a watch on the situation along the Atchafalaya river levee front in south central Louisiana, moved steadily today to avert further suffering in the flood area.

With new concentrated centers established in the parishes and St. Martinville and St. Landry, the Red Cross waited further developments along the Louisiana front where refugees were becoming more numerous.

The work of relief in the older flooded sections was complicated by torrential rainfall and high winds in some places, notably at Forrest City, Ark., where 18,000 refugees are fed.

Two negroes were reported killed in an electrical storm which broke near Caldwell, Ark.

Tents in refugee camps near Forrest City were reported to have been blown down but there was no reports of injury or property damage.

The work of feeding more than 300,000 persons went forward today, together with preparations for providing for additional thousands. Two weeks supply of provisions for 7,000 persons was shipped from the relief headquarters here to Lake Providence, La., and another supply of food for 5,000 persons was sent to Alexandria, La.

Health forces kept pace with the bread line. Dr. John McMullen, chief surgeon of the United States Public Health Service, was sent to New Orleans to confer with Dr. Oscar Dowlin, state health chief of Louisiana, on the health conditions among refugees.

FOTHERGILL LEADING BIG LEAGUES IN BATTING AVE.

Chicago, May 7—(AP)—For the first four weeks of the season Bob Fothergill, slugging Detroit outfielder has connected safely at least once in each game and naturally he has leaped to the top of the American league list of leading batters. His mark in the average was 516 with 22 hits for his 16 games, among them nine doubles, a triple and a home run.

Next but far below him are two youngsters of the Chicago White Sox, Bud Clancy and McCurdy, close behind this pair are the heavy hitting twins of the Yankees, Muesel and Gehrig. Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth were tied with six home runs each Wednesday.

Gehrig evening the count that day with a base cleaner which sent the Babe home ahead of himself.

Simmons of Philadelphia has taken the lead away from Goslin of Washington in stolen bases with seven to date.

Ebrocht of Cleveland, who broke in last week and has played in six games, has started his major league career with a batting average of .50. Goslin of Cleveland and Jones of the St. Louis Browns have the best pitching records to date, with three victories apiece and no defeats.

The leading American batters who have played in more than ten games are: Fothergill, Detroit, 516; McCurdy, Chicago, 421; Clancy, Chicago, 417; Muesel, New York, 416; Gehrig, New York, 414; Goslin, Washington, 413; Cobb, Philadelphia, 411; Koenig, New York, 407; Scang, St. Louis, 395; Simmons, Philadelphia, 391.

Rogers Hornsby has made a brave start toward another National league batting championship and stands out strongly in this week's batting averages as the real leader with a mark of 420 in figures compiled today including Wednesday game. His nearest rival, and the only other National regular above 40 is old Cy Williams of Philadelphia, with a mark of 404.

Both of them have a pretty fair collection of Home runs, Hornsby having three and Williams four. Earl Webb the Chicago Cub new outfielder led the league Wednesday with five.

Due largely to the Hornsby stick work, the Giants are clinging to their 300 mark team batting and they are far in front in runs scored, with 127. Frankie Frisch, the lad who was swapped for Hornsby is doing the league in extra base blows. He has made 27 hits for a total of 51 bases, including five double-triples and three circuit drives.

Cuyler of Pittsburgh is getting an early start on his base stealing rival. He has seven, while Lloyd Waner, his team mate has six.

Jess Haines is the league leading pitcher this week, with five victories. Leading batters of the national league who have played in more than 10 games are:

Hornsby, New York, 420; Williams, Philadelphia, 404; Farrell, New York, 397; Lindstrom, New York, 385; Frisch, St. Louis, 380; Felix, Brooklyn, 357; Lucas, Cincinnati, 350; P. Warner, Pittsburgh, 356; Sands, Philadelphia, 351; Haley, St. Louis, 349.

HIGHS DEFEAT WASHINGTON

The local highs won their ninth straight game at Washington yesterday from the Washington highs by the score of 6-4. The feature of the game was the hitting of the entire Greenville team as every man on the team got a hit.

Harrington of the locals worked out a nice game striking out 12 of his opponents and letting them down with three hits. Curry, local catcher, caught a nice game catching four or five men at second.

THEN and NOW

Hans Wagner—good old Honus—has been a long time in baseball. He's still regarded by many as the greatest second baseman of all times, and at the keystone sack he was long the mainstay of the Pittsburgh Nationals. Retirement overtook him years ago, but he's still full of pep. Pictures show him at the height of his career and as he looks today.

TWINS CLIMB TOWARD TOP

Raleigh, May 7—(AP)—Winston-Salem called in the ninth to defeat Salisbury, 6:2 while Durham capped a 12-6 contest from High Point league leaders. In yesterday's Piedmont league activities, Winston-Salem and the Raleigh-Rocky Mount all in the latter city.

Today's lineup was the same as Winston-Salem with 647 pushed High Point, her neighbor, who held her lead at 6:07, for to position. Raleigh remained in Rocky Mount. All ad double bills scheduled.

Colleges Play Out of State Clubs Today

Raleigh, May 7—(AP)—Furman at Davidson, State at Georgia Tech, P. I. at Duke and Carolina at Georgetown University were the high spots on today's collegiate baseball card. Gilford's schedule called for a visit of Wake Forest.

Westmoreland pitched the Tar Heels to a 4-1 win over Georgia in Athens yesterday. He was stingy with safe blows. State, despite Juten's two homers, lost in Atlanta to Tech, 8-7. Wake Forest with Jowin, Clayton, Riley and Kuyken, full hitting timely, made it two straight over V. P. I., 3-2 in another last inning rally.

Campbell college's entry, coached by Harry Hartzell, former state star and coach-referee, visited Wake Forest to meet the baby deacons.

Brummitt Leads Piedmont League

Raleigh, May 7—(AP)—Hob Brummitt, slugging outfielder who led the loop hitters in 1924 as the champion batter, has gone on the warpath for more honors and the same title this season.

Piedmont batting averages for all games, including past Monday's show that Brummitt is leading the field with a mark of .485. In 1925 he led the Piedmont hitters with an average of .356. Brummitt in 11 games poked out 16 hits in 33 times at bat and his list of bingles include two homers, two triples, two doubles and 100 singles.

Brummitt was tried out at third by Rocky Mount but Lee Gooch shifted him to the outfield because of his erratic handling of grounders. He has done much better in the outfield and his hitting has won a number of titles for the Buccaneers.

Next to Brummitt in batting is Fearl, of the Pointers, who has a mark of .476 and just nine points below the leader.

The first batch of league averages, released Saturday by Irwin Howe, Piedmont statistician, reveals that eight players are batting better than .400 and 28 in the select circle of 300 batters.

As league leaders, the Pointers are first in club batting with 309 while the Capitals are leading in fielding with a mark of .972. The caps, however, are last in team hitting with an average of .259.

Jim Buggy, of High Point, is the best hurler with four victories and no defeat in a tie with Lloyd Mount, next with three wins and no defeat in a tie with Lloyd, of the Twins, who has the same record. Since Monday, however, May has added another victory, while Buggy had a loss chalk against him.

Many Teams Eliminated In High Series

Raleigh, May 7—(AP)—The Winston-Salem High Point clash in the Twin City was the outstanding contest to be played in the North Carolina elimination series to determine state high school baseball champions. Wilson was at heartford for the quarter-final in the east.

The process of elimination found Warsaw and Whiteville along with the Wilson-Heartford winner, left in the east while Cherryville, Shelby and Bonlee remained in the west. Cherryville and Shelby, bitter rivals meet in Gastonia May 10 to

CINCINNATI BEATS BOSTON

The first general intersectional engagement of the year has opened auspiciously for the west. The scalp of the Boston Braves was taken by Cincinnati.

Eastern clubs of the national league now will entertain at home while the American league clubs of the east partake of western hospitality.

It was good sharp shooting from pitcher Shab and batters' box that brought the Reds their 5 to 3 victory.

Cincinnati came east after losing 14 out 19 games and taking possession of the National league cellar. May's smoke ball zipped down the grove at Braves field in the 7th while Kelly, the former giant, lit 'em hard and far. His homer in the first was a long drive that cleared the left field fence at the Braves Park for the third time in baseball history.

Frank Snyder and Bernie Neis are recorded as the only Batsmen ever to accomplish the feat before. While it didn't fly quite so far a homer by outfielder Allen also helped in the Cincinnati victory.

CHROMIUM PLATING NOW BEING USED BY GOVERNMENT

The features that have made chromium plating attractive to motorists are introduced by Oldsmobile radiator shells during the past year are being put to work by the United States government in manufacturing money at lower cost. This ultra-hard plating is now used to improve the protective surface of the plates from which our paper is printed. Its use has resulted in a substantial saving to the government.

Until recently the currency printing plates were made by rolling the design into a soft steel plate which was then case-hardened. These yielded from 30,000 to 70,000 impressions before the fine lines of the plate were spoiled by the abrasive particles of pigment in the inks and the heavy pressure used in printing.

Electrolytic plates composed of layers of copper and nickel were tried. These were cheaper to make but did not last long. Then experiments were made with chromium plating. A report from the United Engineering Society states that this plating, deposited on the nickel surface of an electrolytic plate in a film only two ten-thousandths of an inch thick increases the useful life of the plate at least four times that of a nickel surface and twice that of a case-hardened steel surface.

Tests made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards of scratching chromium with a diamond show that it is the hardest metal thus far examined. It was the bureau that developed chromium plating methods for currency printing.

Chromium plating was practically unknown in a commercial way when it was introduced into the automobile industry by Oldsmobile and General Motors. Its hardness, which brought about its use by the government, made it an ideal plating for automobile surfaces exposed to wear. In addition it has another quality that made it ideal for use on automobiles and which influenced its adoption by Oldsmobile. This is its resistance to tarnish and atmospheric corrosion. An occasional wiping off with a rag is all that is required to maintain its high, blue-white luster, in fact, its surface is so hard that polish has no effect on it.

The practical test given chromium plating on thousands of Oldsmobile radiator shells during the past year has more than proven its worth to the automotive industry.

COTTON SHOW DRAWS CROWD DESPITE RAIN

Affair at Gorman's Warehouse Last Night Proved Outstanding Event of Year.

Despite inclement weather, a large crowd attended the Cotton Fashion show at Gorman's warehouse last night, and watched a program surpassing anything of its kind ever before held in this city.

The show was staged under the auspices of Circle No. 1, of the Memorial Baptist Church, and nothing was left undone to make it one of the outstanding events of the year.

A section of the mammoth warehouse was gorgeously decorated for the occasion. The decorations carried out a garden scene effect, and was in complete harmony with the handsome cotton costumes worn by the numbers taking part in the fashion display.

C. B. Rowlett, secretary of the Merchants Association, acted as master of ceremonies. He represented a negro from the great cotton fields of the South, and was ably assisted in the interpretation by youths of the city.

Little Misses Lucy James, Jane Hall, dressed to represent school day girls and boys, and Mary Dorcas Harding, as cotton queen, were the cynosure of all eyes during their part of the program. Little Miss Harding was charmingly attired in a cotton gown, with court train trimmed in cotton. She carried a corsage of cotton roses.

The midnet dance was given by the Model school and elicited much applause. It was one of the most unique terpsichorean affairs probably ever staged in Gorman's new brick warehouse, which has become the center of local festivities.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Ernestine Forbes and her orchestra. The program consisted of many entertaining numbers. One of the outstanding features of the musical program was a solo by Miss Emma Mallison and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor.

Prizes awarded in the style revue were given by merchants of Greenville and other Pitt county towns.

Children's prizes were awarded to the following Greenville people: First prizes: evening frock, Jane Rowlett; playtime frock, Martha Brooks Carter.

Junior prizes were presented to: Morning dress, Blanche Staton; afternoon dress, Louise Hooper; cotton novelties, Frances Harvey; cotton novelties, Mary Jane Lipscomb.

The following won in the Senior contest: Morning dress, Bet Dixon; afternoon dress, Catherine White; evening dress, Hester Phelps.

Slumber clothes, Elizabeth Gates and Thomas Bland.

The following out-of-town contestants were winners: Miss Grimesland, Mrs. Guilford Smith.

Girl Startles with Success in Training Boy Relay

Miss Christine Lemmo, former Welesley track captain, has done what few men are able to do, in training three successive championship teams at a Philadelphia school. She is shown with three of the boys who recently won the University of Pennsylvania relay championship in their class: Stanley Galker, James Perri and Paul Compeau.

PHILADELPHIA (I-N Special).—Male track coaches are given a black eye, a back seat and, to mix the metaphor more, the old razamatraz by one little woman here.

She's Miss Christine Lemmo, who's taken the raw stuff at the W. A. Lee School and produced three successive champion relay teams. The Lee youngsters have won the championship of their class at the University of Pennsylvania relay games this year as they did in 1925 and 1926.

Producing three successive winning track teams is a feat in any academy, but experts view Miss Lemmo's success as phenomenal. She is handling boys not yet or scarcely in their teens—at an age most coaches will tell you that can't be handled. But Miss Lemmo has succeeded in superimposing training rules and regulations on the idiosyncrasies of the turbulent and unmanageable.

She was formerly captain of the Welesley track team, and knows well what a relay race is all about.

GOLF CHATS

(This is the first of a series of features by O. B. Keeler, internationally known golf writer, whose articles will appear regularly twice a week in the sport pages of The Reflector.)

(By O. B. Keeler)

Atlanta, May 6.—Each spring, along with the poetic thoughts of love, we find an earnest and influential group of golfing authorities considering a new and less powerful golf ball as standard to supplant the present 1.62, which means the ball must be not smaller than 1.62 inches in diameter nor heavier than 1.62 ounces.

The idea is that this ball goes too far. Not many duffers will agree. Their own standard fault is standing too near the ball after hitting it.

How far is a drive that is too far?

In 30 years of golf, I have seen one really extravagant orgy of slugging by Cyril James Hastings Tolley, former amateur champion of Britain. Cyril visited Atlanta three years ago and played three matches with his friend Bobby Jones. The matches were informal and they amused themselves by slugging.

Cyril got most of the amusement. He was outitting Bobby, who is no short driver, 30 and 40 and 50 yards. It appeared somewhat unreal. With his odd, pigeon-toed stance, Cyril was slugging so enthusiastically that his great bulk (he weighs about 210) was fairly spinning at the finish and he was facing at right angles to the line of play.

At Druid Hills, he set records likely to endure. From the sixth tee his drive carried 310 yards, crossing a water-ditch that is a hazard for second shots. At the twelfth, facing a light breeze he touched off a drive which had to carry 280 yards to cross a stream. It did. To show there was nothing accidental about it, he drove three more balls across the stream. These ranges are not estimated and there was no roll to include in the huge wallops.

At the sixteenth, his drive, with a carry and a roll of 340 yards was just off the green, and he duplicated that range next day at Brookhaven, the hot-beign more severe as it had to carry an angle of forest, to take the direct line to the thirteenth green.

No one else ever had the temerity to try that shot. Tolley cut off enough of the angle on a 400-yard dogleg hole to send the ball to the edge of the green, pin-high.

I had watched Abe Mitchell and Charlie Hall and Ted Ray and all other great rangers of golf, but I never had seen anything like such consistently tremendous walloping. I asked Cyril if he ever had hit them so hard before. Cyril is a most modest Englishman. He reflected:

"Well," he said finally, "I've never hit at them as hard, before."

And he told me an apparently inconsiderable factor which enabled him to hit with all his gigantic power and still retain something of control. It was the curious pigeon-toed position of the left foot in the address.

That position, said Cyril, tended to "lock" the left hip and prevent it from turning too soon during the downward stroke. That was three years ago. You probably have read a good deal since concerning "biting against the left leg." This was the idea in that quaint pigeon-toed stance of Cyril James Hastings Tolley.

SEAL OFF FIRE ZONE AT EVERETTSVILLE MINE

Fairmont, W. Va., May 7.—(AP)—Completion of sealing off the fire zone in the explosion wrecked Everettville mine before nightfall was the goal of rescue workers today. The blast which swept thru the workings a week ago today, has exacted a toll of 32 lives and in all probability has claimed the lives of 63 entombed miners.

Rescuers felt sure that the total death list would be 95.

While the work mainly centered in a comparatively small area as the system of air locks slowly but steadily advanced, there was a possibility that the helmet men might encounter additional bodies in their push forward. Experts, however, did not expect to make much progress toward locating the remaining victims until the smouldering fire was locked in the four sections ordered sealed.

CHICKENS AND FENCES

Mrs. I. is telling everybody that the fences are all down and that she just can't afford to have new fences built. She says she knows this is the time of year to get your premises ship-shape but she just can't have fences fixed up. She ought to be sure that she really cannot have fences sagging and ramshackle for there is nothing that makes a place look more out-at-the-elbows and down-at-the-heels as fallen down fences.

But if Mrs. I. cannot have her fences fixed there is one thing she should do forthwith and immediately. She ought to get rid of her chickens. This is for the sake of her neighbors who keep tidy premises and plant gardens and flowers. Almost every neighborhood has one or more families whose chickens range all over the premises of the neighbors leaving destruction in their wake. This is hard, awfully hard, to bear and the householder who loses patience and kills trespassing chickens most certainly has right on his or her side. Two or three roving draggie-tailed hens can dig like a steam shovel. A troop of frying size chickens wandering at will can wreck a flower bed in a few minutes, eating up every green sprig.

Perhaps chickens cause more disputes and quarrels than any other one thing. Often times kind neighbors bear long and patiently with chickens that are a public nuisance but they cannot and should not bear with them forever. It is all right if you live on a farm to let your chickens range for then they will take out their destruction on your own possessions but in town where you have close neighbors you should never even think of raising chickens unless you have chicken-proof fences. About the quickest way to get yourself disliked in any neighborhood is to let your chickens range on your neighbors' premises. And the neighbors have right on their side of the argument.—Pedee Advocate.

MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day will be observed tomorrow.

It was Mother who smiled when we first smiled as babies, rejoiced with us in our childhood pleasures, smothered our hurts with kisses, suffered heartaches at our griefs, watched with joy and pleasure our successes as men and women, and grieved at our misdeeds.

While in some cases the true conception of Mother comes only after she has gone to her great reward, there is no one upon the earth to whom higher reverence is due from son and daughter.

Mother's Day is not for the living Mothers alone, but for those who have passed on as well. If your mother has already passed the Great Divide, tomorrow is the day on which your thoughts should be upon her and the love for God in your own soul which she taught you in early childhood when you knelt at her knee in your first prayer.

If you are among the more fortunate, and still have a Mother upon whom to lavish your affections, tomorrow is the day that you should be near to her and show her by your devotion that you love her and appreciate her love and tender care with which you have been blessed.

If miles separate you from your Mother, think of her, and let her know that your thoughts are with her and that she is near and dear to you.

It requires no great display of emotion to let her know that she is uppermost in your thoughts. If you cannot be with her, a letter or card will do much to add to her happiness, or if you are near to her, your little kindnesses will do much to lift the burden of years from her heart. There is no substitute for Mother, and tomorrow is the day to make her happy, or to hal- low her loving memory.

A VIVID LESSON FOR FORESTRY WEEK

Whether with malice aforethought or by providential accident, the Mississippi flood comes most appropriately to teach America the inexorable penalty of ruthless deforestation and to suggest more eloquently than words that we must start a systematic reforestation along the headwaters of our great rivers.

This view is becoming well defined and widespread. The Mississippi river sweeping ruin on its way to the ocean is giving America a terrible forest week lesson, and the Worst is Yet to Come declares Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association. The nation must plant snow holding and rain retarding trees at the headwaters of its rivers and streams as a result of the unprecedented flood, he declared.

Forests are necessary at the headwaters of streams. The trees break the force of the rain and the forest flood, acting as a large sponge, absorbs rainfall and prevents run off and floods, according to Mr. Pack. Unless there are forests at the sources of streams and rivers, floods occur. The spring uprisings of the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers are due largely to the lack of forests at their headwaters.

It will be sheer folly to wait for the devastation of another flood to profit by this lesson learned in the cruel school of experience. It takes time to produce full grown trees. Why not plant a few million shrubs this spring along the upper Mississippi for the benefit of the next generation?

INDIGESTION GONE

Tennessean Was Worried Considerably Until, on Advice of An Acquaintance, He Began To Use Black-Draught.

Sewanee, Tenn.—"For several years," says Mr. J. L. Russell, of this place, "I suffered continuously with spells of indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and I was in a bad way."

"Nothing did me any good until I found Black-Draught. One day a man in a store where we traded told me to try Black-Draught. He said he knew of it relieving indigestion, so I decided to give it a trial.

"In my case it seemed to go right to the very root of my trouble. It straightened me out, and ever since that time, over thirty years ago, I have used Black-Draught.

"When I have a spell of indigestion coming on, I begin on Black-Draught. I take several small doses, in a regular course, and I find it will usually have me well in less than no time. Now I never suffer—I take Black-Draught.

"I also found it fine to break up a bad cold. In the winter time, I always keep a box handy, so when I sneeze, or feel chilly down my spine, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and that wards off the cold."

THIRTY POUND FISH CAUGHT HERE TODAY

A new record was set for fishermen here today when Ed Moy drew from muddy waters of Tar river a rockfish weighing approximately thirty pounds. The fish was caught in a revolving net near the Water and Light plant. An eighteen pound rock was caught in the same net a few days ago. That was considered a record for the season at the time, but the haul this morning shatters any record of recent years.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON New York, May 7--(AP)--The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 6 to 9 points on overnight buying orders brought in by the weather and flood news of yesterday.

Private cables said there had been trade calling and covering there at the start but prices had eased later under realizing. Business here was moderately active, July working off to 15.87, and the general list showing reactions of about 8 to 10 points at the end of the first hour.

STOCK MARKET New York, May 7--(AP)--Speculative operations for the rise were resumed in today's brief session of the stock market under the leadership of the investment rails and public utilities. The sharp increase in brokers' loans last month was disregarded on the theory that it would have no influence on money rates, which, it is generally believed, will remain easy until the crop moving season. The close was easy. Total sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

GRAIN Chicago, May 7--(AP)--Wheat rallied sharply today from an early setback which resulted from an unexpected sharp drop in quotations at Liverpool.

COTTON GOODS

New York, May 7--(AP)--Cotton goods markets have been stronger and sales of print cloths and sheetings have kept pace with production as many contracts have been entered carrying into the last quarter of the year. There have been some price advances, averaging 1-8 cent yard but the rise has not been in keeping with the future cotton advance, plus the premiums now commanded for good spinning cotton.

Production continues active and is substantially above single shift capacity. Denims have been sold to capacity for deliveries through July and August. Several lines of southern flannels have been sold up and withdrawn. There is a steady business passing on printed goods and on low end ginghams. Many bids for goods for delivery in late months have been declined, owing to the disparity of prices with costs, the late cotton months being higher than nearby months.

Bids for goods requiring long staple cotton have been declined more generally than goods made of the shorter staples, the cause being found in the rise in staple cotton due to the floods along the Mississippi where these grades are grown. It may take some weeks for the water to drain from the land and so that it may be seeded and cultivated. Wholesale and retail distribution in some sections have become quieter.

Prices current in primary markets are as follows: Print cloths 28 inch 64 to 64 1/2-2c; 64x60s 5 1-4c; 38 1-2 inch 64x64c 7 1-2c; brown sheetings southern standards 11 cents; denims 14 1-2 cents; tickings 18 cents; and 19 1-2 cents; prints 8 cents; table ginghams 9 cents; dress ginghams 14 5-8 cents and 16 1-2 cents.

WEEKLY STOCK REVIEW

New York, May 7--(AP)--Resumption of the upward price movement in this week's stock market was featured by the urgent retreat of an overcrowded short interest in many issues, particularly in the oil group. Easy credit conditions and pending developments affecting individual companies appeared to be the main spring behind the advance. Business reports continued to show irregularity.

While first quarter reports of most of the motor companies were disappointing or only fair, the April figures made a good showing, and stimulated speculation in the group. General Motors, Mack Truck and Hudson all reached new peaks on buying influenced by large current business. Paige Detroit was bid up to a new high in reflection of the entrance of the Graham Brothers Reading 114 1-8.

Except for a stiffening of steel sheet prices, reports from the steel trade were rather disappointing. Both demand and production tapered off. The recovery in the oil took place in the face of another increase in crude oil production. Public utilities responded favorably to steadily expanding earnings and talk of new super-power projects and stock splits-up. Amusement, chemical, textile, railroad equipment, electrical manufacturing, sugar and mercantile shares also presented several points of strength.

WEEKLY GRAIN REPORT

Chicago, May 7--(AP)--Corn is the king just now in the grain trade. The speculative buying has hoisted the corn market 10 to 11 cents a bushel in ten days, and a case is cited where one Chicago broker alone has taken 1,000,000 bushels in a single hour. The buying is largely based on extraordinary wet weather, delays to planting, and on assertions that all available stocks of corn will be wanted. Compared with a week ago, corn was 6 to 7 3/4 cents a bushel higher this morning, with wheat 1 1/2 to 4 1-2 cents up, and oats showing 2 1-4 to 2 3-8 cents to 2 5-8 cents gain, but provisions 10c to 12.22 down.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

Paris—INS—Astounding is expressed in French circles that 2,000,000 English women registered their ages as being between 30 and 45 years. The press assures it's a reader that if such a census were taken in France not 125 women could be found.

If the vote is given to French women will they allow the age limit to be fixed at 21 or 31? In England there are three million between the ages of 21 and 31 which is not surprising. Also in France if the same registering was necessary a majority would be found at this age. Other would be given as over 45 but between the two not one soul would be discovered.

The wonder is how England distinguishes between a miss of 18 and her grandmother of 50. In France as the young girl wear the same salse peals and the grandmother the same short skirts there is no marked difference.

Some practical arrangement shall have to be made for the age question, if the French women are to be given their freedom. One observant journalist suggest that the age be calculated according to the number of divorces.

A miner painter has been discovered at Burbure, in the Pasde Calais. His name is Augustin Lesage and he declares that a "voice told him sixteen years ago that he should paint pictures.

Art critics marvel at his sureness of touch and color. Monsieur Lesage has never attended an art class in his life and the character in his work is unexplained. He feels that his style will change, sharply and he is preparing to paint smaller pictures, less abstract in their nature.

Tippling has become so prevalent in France even the postman offer small rewards for service rendered by their chiefs.

One postman who habitually received a few sou for carrying cigarettes and packages for the town-people recently took into Paris demanding a change of post. Aided to the note was three francs in stamps for an appeal. Wisely the director sent back the stamps and according the change.

A French barman, recently, was gravely injured because of the novel idea of entertaining his two fiancées, past and present at the same time.

Marcel Mona invited his former friend Olive Quchini, a young Corsican to meet his new girl Mile Yvonne Colomb. The dinner passed pleasantly and plans were discussed for the wedding of Mona and Mile, Colombo. The Corsican was witty and gay until the dessert came, when she dragged a razor from her purse and proceeded to cut her rival's face. The barman intervened and was severely cut on both hands. Finally, the enraged girl turned the razor on her self and cut her throat in several places.

At present the culprit is before the Correctional Court.

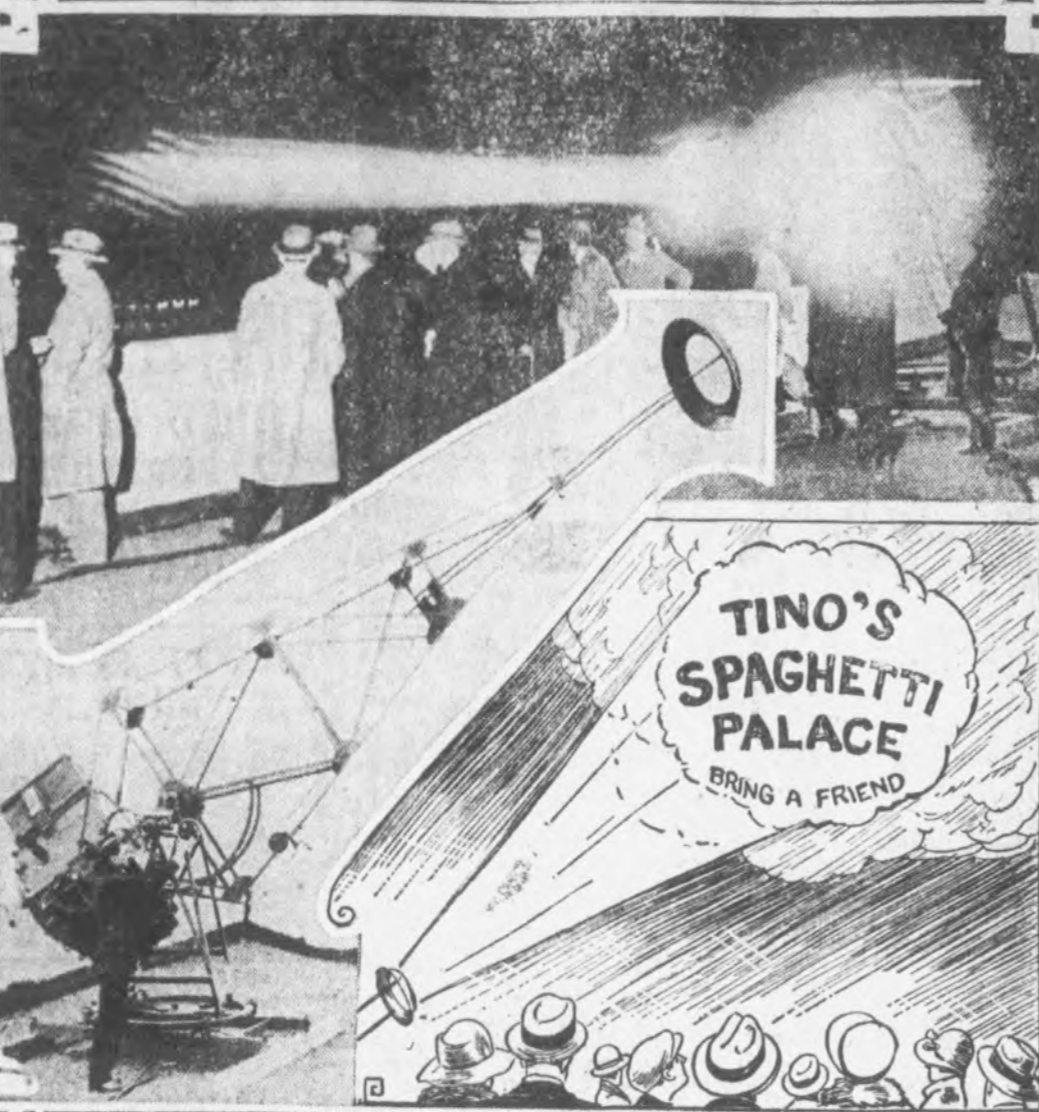

Old wine tasters are used for cigarette ashes in Paris.

These lovely antiques can be seen in the old shops along the quais and purchased for a small sum. Years ago every cellar had its tiny taster for testing the quality of the wine. They are in silver with designs around the tops of bottles and grapes, to make them more suggestive.

The word "Boche" is taboo. Such is the official edict which went forth recently to French film manufacturers. They were instructed that hereafter, the word, "Boche" must never be used in a motion picture title to describe a German. Instead the adjective "German" must be used.

All of which indicates that the war-time hatreds with its wartime vocabulary are passing.

HUGE SEARCHLIGHT PUTS PICTURES ON CLOUDS

A 450,000,000 candlepower searchlight, perfected by a Brooklyn company, throws colored pictures on distant buildings and the clouds. This latest achievement of science is the result of the experiments of H. Grindel Matthews, inventor of the "death ray," and Dr. Elmer A. Sperry. Pictures show the machine throwing the picture of a flag on a building, and the machine as it looks in daylight.

burned it on a corner of the busiest street in the negro section of the city.

There can be no dispute as to what Carter deserved, but there is doubt on this point: Will the lynching, dragging and burning really have a wholesome effect upon thousands of negroes and whites that witnessed it? Will it inspire the negroes with respect for the white race?

This IS news! A tractor and plow, with no driver, all by them selves, guided by electricity, ploughed a twenty-acre field on the farm of the Nebraska Agricultural College yesterday. Farmers, professors and business men looking on. The first furrow only was ploughed by human guidance. That furrow acted as guide and the machine did the rest.

There you have the ultimate solution of the farm question and proof that "back to the farm" is not necessary. The farmer will sit, spyglass in hand, on a tower in the middle of his acres, watching one machine spraying potatoes, another cultivating corn, a third cutting green oats for hay, and not a farm hand on the place.

In Kansas alone this year additional "combination" machines for harvesting wheat, will do away with 25,000 itinerant extra farm hands. Brains, money and machinery will solve the farm problem, as they have solved other industrial problems.

Vanzetti appeals to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts for "justice," not "mercy." Half a dozen reputable and not "radical" witnesses testify that there was a fixed determination on the part of the court to get Sacco and Vanzetti. It is alleged, that the judge before whom the two men were convicted, and who, alone, under the Massachusetts law could grant a new trial, said that he would "get them, good and proper."

It is important that the men, if guilty of murder, should not escape. It is more important that they be not punished as murderers on account of a judge's objection to their radical opinions, no matter how sound the judge's objections.

The suggestion that Governor Fuller may appoint a commission of investigation with the president of Harvard College as chairman, will suit everyone.

Tucson, Ariz., May 7.—(AP)—Thirty-nine Yaqui Indians who crossed the international border and were being hunted by a United States army detachment from Fort Stephen D. Little, have surrendered to border patrolman Felix Hughes, reports at patrol headquarters said today.
