

KING GEORGE APPEARS IN PARLIAMENT

English Monarch Reads Speech From Throne at Royal Opening of Law-makers.

London, Feb. 7.—(AP)—England's finest spectacle of royal pomp and ancient pageantry, the royal opening of parliament, was enacted at noon today. It lacked just a little of its usual brilliance, however, because for the first time in his reign King George was not accompanied by Queen Mary.

The Queen was ill with a cold at Buckingham palace and the King rode a lone state in the coach of glass and gold to Westminster.

At Westminster he read his speech from the Throne in which he sympathetically studied the new draft of the treaty of arbitration with the United States to replace the treaty of 1908. The King touched on the improved situation in China.

The Royal forecast of new legislation contained little beyond proposals for amending parliamentary and local government franchises and consideration of measures to relieve the burden of local taxation.

The procession from Buckingham palace to Westminster and back again, together with the vivid theatrical scenes within the vaulted chamber of the House of Lords, where the King read his speech from the throne, continued to be London's best show.

Everywhere splashes of color, scarlet, blue and gold, and the flashing of shining bayonets like mirrors in the sun. Orders were shouted. Trumpets sounded.

At 11 o'clock there was a stir in the great archway of the palace. Through the opening rumbled a golden coach, with golden positions and golden footmen, as the king's horses to pull it. Inside the coach, King George in uniform resplendent in ermine and jewels.

Just outside the great iron gates of the palace courtyard the coach rolled into its place in the royal procession, and was surrounded by the King's personal bodyguard of "beefeaters" from the Tower of London, and by detachments of household cavalry. Bands played the cavalry march; a few dignified cheers came from the crowds.

Every foot of the way to Westminster was lined by troops, with the crowds pressing from behind.

Along the mall, under the admiralty Arch, Cuttina Corner of Trafalgar Square, the procession turned into Whitehall and headed for the Parliament building.

Through the aisle of government buildings in Whitehall the royal procession clattered along, past the old police where an English King lost his head, past Downing street and the Cenotaph, across the open space of Parliament Square, past the rear of Westminster Abbey, then the escort fell back and the golden coach disappeared under the Arch of the Victoria Tower of the House of Lords.

King George was deposited almost on the threshold of his robing rooms where he prepared himself for the final scene of Parliamentary ritual and pageantry.

The whole purpose of the King's appearance at Westminster is to read his speech from the throne. But not since the revolution of 1688 has a king actually prepared the speech he delivers. It is the work of his ministers and consists of an outline of government policy and proposed legislation for the forthcoming session.

The scene in the House of Lords was a climax to regal theatrical production. Notables from throughout the realm awaited the august presence of the monarch.

He arrived, crown and all, in robes in stage glory, and at his elbows a dozen high officials with romantic sounding names.

The prince of Wales looked on from a seat near the throne. Last year the heir to the throne added the only touch of comic relief known at opening of Parliament for generations. He stumbled over his sword. He smiled and walked on but dignified officials in charge of the ceremonies almost fainted.

Until the moment of the arrival of the King the great chamber was only dimly lighted. As his majesty entered concealed lights flooded the place.

The assembly bowed deeply to the king and then awaited the speech he was to read. An official emerged from the mass of color. He handed a parchment roll to the King, and his majesty unrolled it stood before the hushed assembly and read the speech from the throne.

Secretary Kellogg says the United States is "willing to sign a treaty with all powers of the world prohibiting the use of submarines entirely." That would be nice, but while awaiting the millennium, the United States should provide itself with the biggest fleet of submarines in the world. One submarine in war is more useful than a hundred battleships, and an adequate fleet of submarines backed up by a fighting air fleet would give the United States the security to which it is entitled.

After our statesmen have made THIS country safe, they may appropriately begin worrying about other countries.

What America needs is the greatest fighting submarine fleet and air fleet and the highest possible development of deadly gases and explosives for war.

It is all very nice to agree that submarines and gases won't be used. But if we began, they WOULD be used, and nations lacking them would be asked, "What are you going to do about it?" And find no adequate answer.

The Kings County Medical Society "condemns teaching birth control," pointing out, in horror, that "practice of birth control in this country from 1921 to 1926, reduced the birth rate 24 per cent to the 1.07 of population, although laws forbid its teaching."

Very moral, perhaps sound. Carnegie was the nineteenth child, birth control would have kept him from arriving. Birth control would have shut out Napoleon.

STATE G. O. P. GET ACTIVE

Party Leaders to Meet in Raleigh Tomorrow to Arrange For Campaign.

Greensboro, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Political moves and counter moves with the North Carolina presidential endorsement—if any—as the prize today occupied the interest of persons watching the republican party leaders in the state and the meeting tomorrow of the state party committee here tomorrow in particular.

The committee, of course, will not make any presidential endorsement of announcement, but in deciding on the place and time for the convention and other matters pertaining to political policies of the presidential year, there is expected to be more or less maneuvering for advantage particularly by the Lowden and Hoover adherents.

The committee is not expected to be here in full force until tomorrow but the advance guard was beginning to arrive today.

A. A. Whitener of Hickory has been announced as the manager for former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and it is said that W. G. Bramham of Durham, baseball dictator and former chairman of the state committee also favors Mr. Lowden.

But on the other hand it is pointed out that Charles Jonas of Lincolnton; Mrs. Lindsey Patterson of Winston-Salem, members of the national committee; Frank Linney of Boone and other leaders in the state are for Herbert Hoover.

There is some talk about the race for Governor going about here with predictions that Frank Linney will announce as a candidate but nothing definite has been brought out and the presidential gossip overshadows all else. A. A. Whitener, who some years ago ran for United States Senator, also is being talked of as a possible gubernatorial candidate.

British Flier Begins Flight To Australia

Croydon, Eng., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Bert Hinkler, British flier, hopped off from here this morning in a baby plane on a flight to Australia. He intends to make his first stop at Rome.

Hinkler and Captain R. H. McIntosh last November attempted a non-stop flight to India but were forced down in southern Poland.

NATION READY TO PAY HONOR TO FRENCHMEN

Washington Today Planning Rousing Welcome For Costes and Lebriz.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—(AP)—An all night rain that continued this morning and dangerous flying conditions along the air line to Washington today caused the postponement of the take-off of the French fliers, Costes and Lebriz, on their flight to the national capital.

The French globe trotters decided to postpone the flight after weather reports had been received this morning indicating low pressure areas and low clouds from the Atlantic seaboard far into the interior and in the path of the route to Washington.

Immediately after the announcement of the postponement the aviators returned to the quarters of Major William R. Weaver, commander of Maxwell field, and went to bed to get some long needed rest. However, it was not long until they were thoroughly convinced that the flight today would be hazardous did they finally consent to stay. They asked that they be awakened if conditions should improve during the day.

The flight will probably be resumed Wednesday morning, Major Weaver said. Officers at Maxwell field today were planning to entertain their guests tonight at a luncheon at the Montgomery Country Club.

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The capital waited today for its opportunity to pay to two French aviators a measure of the honor accorded Colonel Lindbergh when he flew the Atlantic to Paris.

Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebriz will arrive here late in the day from Montgomery, Ala., to receive as much attention as their program will permit. Their welcome to Washington will first be extended in the air when a squadron of army airplanes will meet them and escort them to Bolling field.

A reception committee will meet them there, including officials of the three government air services. A cavalry escort will take the Frenchmen to their embassy, the route including Pennsylvania avenue so as to give Washingtonians their first glimpse of them.

At the embassy Ambassador Claudel will be host at dinner tonight and later a reception will present the flyers to official Washington. President Coolidge will extend his congratulations to them tomorrow morning and after that Costes and Lebriz will follow a program of luncheons, dinners and receptions arranged for them by several hosts.

A ball at the French embassy has been arranged for Thursday night but no other entertainment has been prepared beyond that date.

During their stay the aviators' plane will be housed in a hangar at Bolling field, with a crew of mechanics detailed to look after it.

Statue of Christ Wrecked in Mexico

Mexico City, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Dispatches from Silao, state of Guanajuato, state a statue of Christ, located in what is supposed to be the geographic center of Mexico, has been destroyed by dynamite.

The statue, dispatches say, was blown up several days ago, presumably by elements opposed to Catholicism.

The figure was on a hill near the town of Silao and was a monument dear to Catholics in Mexico. It was paid for by popular nation-wide subscription. In the latter part of the administration of General Obregon, immediate predecessor of President Calles, the statue was dedicated by Monsignor Filippi, papal nuncio to Mexico.

Monsignor Filippi was deported in 1923 for conducting the religious ceremonies in connection with the dedication outside of a church building.

In continuance of the police campaign for enforcement of the religious laws two more private residences have been raided. Two priests were arrested on charges of conducting masses. About 35 men and women were detained for attending services. It is believed that they will be released upon paying fines as has been done in the case of others arrested lately for conducting religious services in homes in violation of the law.

AMPHIBIAN BLAME HELD AT CHARLESTON

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The pan-American airways amphibian plane, en route to Havana, which landed here last night, remained here this morning because of adverse weather conditions.

OIL MAGNATE APPEARS IN COURT TODAY

Robert W. Stewart's Case Taken Under Advisement of Justice J. Bailey.

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Robert W. Stewart, another of the wealthy oil operators who have roused the ire of the senate today in the District of Columbia supreme court, where half a dozen cases are ready are pending an outgrowth of the leasing of Teapot Dome and other naval oil lands by Albert B. Fall and his case was taken under advisement by Justice Jennings Bailey.

Disputing the authority of the senate to mete out summary punishment for him because he refused to answer questions of its oil committee, Stewart's counsel arrayed itself against the reinforced group of government attorneys headed by George W. Wickersham, who demanded the oil man's return to the custody of the legislative branch of the government.

While argument went forward in the Stewart case, which for the time being has focused major interest in the oil tangle, Harry F. Sinclair and his associates in a nearby section of the courthouse continued their long fight to purge themselves of the contempt charges which followed the Fall-Sinclair trial. At the capitol the third of the current oil proceedings—the senate oil committee hearings—proceeded but without the development of new information as to what went with the Liberty bonds of the Continental Trading Company, Ltd., of Canada. It is charged that Albert B. Fall, received $233,000 of them from Sinclair but George S. Taber former president of the Sinclair Crude Company, today's witness said he knew nothing about the transaction.

It was on this subject that Stewart refused to testify, and for this refusal he was arrested by the senate, but released on a writ of habeas corpus which the government sought today to have dissolved.

At one point in the argument by the Stewart case today Justice Bailey asked this question: "If the senate believe that the Continental Trading Company was organized for the purpose of bribing public officials and has evidence that part of its profits were so used it would not be justified in inquiring how the rest of these profits were used?"

"No, that is purely a judicial function," Jesse Adkins, of Stewart counsel, replied.

Adkins also told the court that the statute of limitations had run against any one who might have committed a crime at the time of the Continental Company was in operation from November 16, 1921, to May 26, 1923.

He argued that the senate resolution under which the oil committee was proceeding showed that it was not the purpose to legislate, but merely to carry out a judicial function of investigation.

Marshal Haig Laid to Rest At Edinburgh

Edinburgh, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Field Marshal Earl Haig today was buried among his ancestors at Dryburgh abbey with the simple rites of a Scottish laird.

Despite stormy weather crowds gathered along the route from St. Giles Cathedral, where the body had lain in state, to Waverly station, in a last gesture of homage.

At St. Boswells an ordinary farm cart awaited to carry the coffin over five miles of roads to the abbey. Another cart loaded with wreaths rumbled in the wake of the coffin.

Instead of great soldiers and world famous commanders as in London, plain country folks including a number of employees of Earl Haig's estate at Bemerside carried the coffin to its last resting place a few feet from the grave of Sir Walter Scott.

Presidential Candidates Getting Consideration by Two Dominant Parties

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Definite developments in the Hoover candidacy for the republican presidential nomination are looked for in the next few days.

Thus far the commerce secretary's standard has been borne by groups of friends but pressure is increasing daily to have Mr. Hoover transfer it to his own hands. These friends, who are rapidly achieving what they are impugning to have him remove his candidacy from its present apparently involuntary stage to a voluntary one, but how much of that pressure is being passed on to the cabinet member is not evident.

In the face of it all Mr. Hoover adheres to his refusal to discuss politics, but within a week or so he is expected to decide one way or another. The approaching close of the period of filing candidacies in the Ohio primary provides the opportunity for him to step out in the open—and into a spirited battle for Ohio's 51 convention votes.

At Miami, Fla., last night former Governor Frederick A. Gardner, of Missouri, said he would announce the senator's candidacy on February 23, in St. Joseph, at the state democratic convention.

Governor Al Smith's democratic friends have become active here with their eyes on the six votes which the District of Columbia will cast in the Houston convention. Under the leadership of Charles W. Herr, an attorney, a Smith-for-President Club has opened offices here. The club members plan an active campaign, as do sponsors of a similar club formed at Charleston, Va., nearby. It calls itself the Al Smith for President Club of Northern Virginia.

ROTARY HOLDS BEGINS BATTLE REGULAR MEET ON GUERRILLAS

Two Matters Given Consideration at Weekly Session of Club Last Night.

The regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was held last night. The session was presided over by W. H. Rogers, Jr., who told the coming to this city February 23 of government engineers to attend a public meeting at the court house. This meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing the possibility of making Tar river navigable and the government will make a survey with this end in view in case public interest is sufficient to justify such action.

President Rogers told of the imperative need of water rates in this community and urged that business men from all sections of the county attend the meeting at the court house and present as many facts as possible in behalf of the proposition. The session will be held at 11:30 o'clock and will be attended by government engineers of this section who have been ordered to make the survey in case it is deemed advisable. The interest exhibited by Pitt county people will have much to do towards making the opening of Tar river possible. Mr. Rogers declared, and it is the duty of representative business men to attend in large numbers.

Principals of the various schools of the county were guests of the club and following adjournment, met with members of the boys' work committee to complete arrangements for the annual Pitt county track meeting held under auspices of the Rotary club.

Vocational talks were made by Mack Henderson and Howard McGinnis.

MERCHANTS TO PREPARE FOR ANNUAL MEET

Directors to Meet Tonight to Arrange for Annual Meeting Wednesday Feb. 15.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Merchants Association will be held in the office of the secretary this evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to announcement made this morning. This is the last meeting of the year before the annual meeting of the entire membership Wednesday, February 15th.

Eugene Newson, president of the North Carolina Merchants association, and Willard Dowell, secretary, will be guests of the local association at the annual meeting.

The association has made considerable progress during the year and at tonight's meeting several matters of importance will be discussed.

The Merchants association has experienced rapid growth during the year. Its membership has used its influence for the promotion of many things tending to further the advancement of the city and trade territory. Chief among these achievements was an advertising campaign inaugurated during the middle of the year that attracted not only state-wide but national attention.

It is the purpose of the association to extend its activities during the new year, and with this end in view the directors at tonight's meeting will arrange a definite program to be considered at the general meeting to be held next Wednesday.

The association has not only fulfilled its mission as an invaluable asset to the business men of the city. It has acted in the capacity of a chamber of commerce in hundreds of cases and succeeded in bringing to the city numbers of enterprises which otherwise would have found their way to some other community.

Occupying this position of prominence the association has attracted attention of the leading organizations of the state, and the coming to this city of the state officials at the final meeting of the year is indication of the recognition which the local organization is receiving from this direction.

DORAN TELLS HOUSE ABOUT PROHIBITION

Commissioner Asks For More Funds for Treasury in Statement of Activities.

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The latest chronicle of Uncle Sam's multifarious efforts to enforce prohibition, as given to the house appropriations committee by Commissioner Doran, was revealed today with presentation to the house of a bill to provide funds for the treasury department.

The trailing of rum runners through 100,000 miles at sea, the widespread dragnets set around border cities for liquor smugglers, the wiping out of $70,000 investigations in a single raid there, and many more pictures of federal activity on behalf of the eighteenth amendment, unfolded as an explanation of how appropriations were expended by the past fiscal year. Problems besetting administrators of the dry law, such as that recently presented by the wholesale financing of civil service tests by enforcement agents also were detailed.

Doran charged that cooperation with the federal authorities was lacking in five states, New York, Maryland, Montana, Nevada and New Mexico, because "there is no state code under which the state officers may work."

The greatest single problem facing enforcement officers now, he said, is that of illicit distilling. "Coast guard and customs have checked off large smuggling operations such as old rum row," he said, adding that satisfactory control of industrial alcohol has accentuated the illicit distilling problem.

"It is merely a case of the illegal traffic going to the next most available material for liquor," said the commissioner. "They prefer to have straight whiskey of pure alcohol, then specially denatured alcohol, when completely denatured alcohol, and failing to create an adequate supply of that for the illegal trade, they necessarily resort to illicit distillation from the raw potato still whiskey, which has a distinctive illegal market, but the putting up of rather large sized illicit plants for the making of a fairly good grade of alcohol. The raw material we find now in the larger rathouse is corn sugar-glucose."

Doran said that such distilleries are put up at a cost of from $20,000 to $75,000 and the enforcement program was to "detect and break up these places before they have had time to shake a financial return to the operators."

The narrative of coast guard activities was given by Rear Admiral Frederick C. Bullard, commandant, who said that extensive scouting operations over wide areas now is necessitated by the absence of rum row off the New York coast.

"The situation is this," he continued. "We will scout over the north Atlantic ocean and find a vessel, we will say that we know is laden with liquor more than 200 miles off shore. One of our patrol will then completely encircle the vessel and failing to create an adequate supply of that for the illegal trade, they necessarily resort to illicit distillation from the raw potato still whiskey, which has a distinctive illegal market, but the putting up of rather large sized illicit plants for the making of a fairly good grade of alcohol. The raw material we find now in the larger rathouse is corn sugar-glucose."

Doran explained the isolation of Michigan as a district of itself, saying that a "peculiarly difficult problem centering in Detroit," warranted such a step. "We were compelled to take special measures to combat the shipping out of Detroit, in a fan-like condition or formation," he added, "of this quantity of liquor that was being imported from Canada, and in addition we had a domestic moonshining and sale condition in Detroit that we felt required special handling."

The prohibition commissioner expressed disappointment that more than 60 per cent of the agents had been disqualified by civil service examination, taking the stand that such "mental" tests provided no measure of a man's fitness for enforcement work.

AUTOMOBILE WRECK CLAIMS SECOND VICTIM

Rocky Mount, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The automobile wreck between Nashville and Spring Grove which cost the life of D. B. O'Neil Sunday afternoon claimed its second victim last night when Mrs. O'Neil died in a local hospital.

PLAN TO NAME BALL MANAGER NEXT MONDAY

A manager for the Greenville Baseball Club of the Eastern Carolina League will be chosen at a meeting of the Board of Directors to be held next Monday night, according to information issued this morning by Guy Smith, president of the local club following a meeting of directors last night.

President Smith stated they had four men under consideration who are well and favorably known throughout baseball circles of North Carolina. Numbers of applications have been received since announcement of the city's entrance to the league, but all application have been sifted until choice at the present time centers around one of the four now under consideration.

Mr. Smith said the question of a manager had been given more than ordinary attention because they realized the success of the club depended largely upon the ability of this official. "We have given painstaking attention to the records of the four applicants and our decision will be based upon their records of achievement."

Actual work in connection with improvements of the park at the fair grounds will begin immediately, Mr. Smith stated, so that everything will be in readiness for practice when the first players arrive during the first days of April. The improvements will include new bleachers, re-arrangement of the location of the diamond and many other features which heretofore have not been in demand.

The diamond will be moved up nearer the main grandstand so that home plate will be directly in front of the center of the structure. This improvement alone will be one of the most important since establishment of the fair grounds and will enable the largest crowds of the season to see the games from a vantage point.

Out of one hundred applications, Mr. Smith said that only three or four players had been selected to report for practice here April 10th. He declined to divulge their names at the present time, intimating that publicity concerning the player personnel would be given out as soon as the entire team had been completed. Much attention is being given to the records of the players, and when the team is finally completed it is generally believed it will be among the best of the league.

"We are proceeding as methodically as possible in organization of the club," the president declared, "and have no intention of being hasty when so much depends upon deliberate action. We realize the success of the Greenville club depends mainly upon the kind of start we make at the beginning of the season and for that reason it is our purpose to sign upon the most efficient and capable players obtainable."

Local Cagers And Farmville Battle Tonight

The boys basketball team of the Greenville High School will play a similar aggregation in Farmville tonight, it was made known this afternoon by C. W. Porter, director of high school athletics.

At the same time this game is in progress the local girls team will be playing Ayden at Gorman's warehouse. Both games begin at 7:30 o'clock and are expected to be hard fought and featured by spectacular playing.

GENE TUNNEY IS DOUBTFUL ABOUT FIGHTS

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gene Tunney is back in New York rather doubtful whether he will be able to get the two bouts he wants this year because he feels that Jack Dempsey will never fight again.

Returning from Miami Beach last night, the heavyweight champion outlined his plans for the year, disclosed his reasons for believing that Dempsey is through with the ring and said that regardless of whether he appeared in one or two fights this year the promoter would probably be Tex Rickard.

"There is no sane reason for believing that Dempsey's retirement is not genuine," said Tunney. "I believe he is convinced he will be exposing himself to grave danger of permanent injury if he ever engages in a boxing match and for that reason has decided to abandon boxing. I do not agree with the popular belief that Dempsey's retirement is part of a publicity or publicity scheme because I refuse to recognize the necessity for any widespread publicity. A championship bout is a championship bout regardless of the amount of publicity that it receives."

The champion said that whether he engages in one or two bouts in 1928 depends upon ring developments among the heavyweight contenders.

Here on business, Tunney plans to remain in New York for about ten days and then return to Miami Beach to resume training.

Basketball Thu /day Night

Gorman's warehouse will be the scene of action for the basketball game to be played here Thursday night at 8 o'clock, between the strong New Bern Y. M. C. A. team and the local Battery "E" team.

The Battery team will be composed of the same team that has represented it in previous games with the exception of Doug West and Gord in Davis. Those wishing real excitement should come out and see George Respass, Kenneth Beatty and Troy Burnette in addition to the above mentioned.

The visiting Y. M. C. A. team boasts of real stars in "Piggy" Doyal, Freddie Shipp and Mack Simpson in addition to Captain McGowan.

The game played between these two teams in New Bern the past Wednesday night resulted in a 21-21 victory for New Bern, but the local boys are confident they can even the count in this game.

Hot Springs, Ark. Feb 7.—(AP)—

Marking the real opening of the big time Dixie tournament golf season for 1928, the national outstanding link professionals will begin the 72 hole South-Central open here Friday. The tourney originally set to start Wednesday, was postponed because of inclement weather delaying tournaments in Texas.

TEX GETS GENE

Miami—Another long count for champion Gene. The matter of proper payment to Uncle Sam of taxes on the million or so made at Chicago and elsewhere last year has forced Mr. Tunney to interrupt the chase after birdies and other pleasant results South in order to make the trip North.

DIAMOND IDOL TO COME HERE WITH NEWARK

Walter Johnson, one of the greatest idols of baseball, will appear in Greenville with the Newark, N. J., baseball club April 6th when that organization meets the New Haven, Conn., Internationals at the fair grounds here, according to information given out this morning by the local committee having the exhibition in charge.

It was stated several days ago that these two clubs would play here on the above date, and a message was received today from Mr. Johnson in which the date was confirmed.

The coming of these two clubs has attracted more than ordinary interest, especially in face of the fact that training season of the local club of the eastern Carolina League is scheduled to open about April 10th. The park will be put in splendid condition by the date for the exhibition game and seating capacity is expected to be sufficient to accommodate the large crowd from many parts of the state.

This will be first time the famous idol of baseball has ever appeared in this section of the country, although he has been seen in action many times by local people while visiting Washington City. Aside from Babe Ruth and Gehrig, home run kings of the diamond, Johnson is unquestionably the best known and most popular star in the baseball firmament. From many years he played an important part on the pitching staff of the Washington Senators, and only two seasons ago staged one of the most spectacular hurling exhibitions of his career in the world's championship series.

As manager and part owner of the Newark club Johnson is expected to produce one of the greatest clubs of the International League. He is a past master of the game and his long experience in dealing with players places him in position to offer strenuous opposition for pennant honors of the circuit.

The New Haven Club is a member of the Eastern League, a circuit in the same class of the Internationals. It is also the first time a club of this league has played in this section of the country and consequently their meeting here will be a means of arousing more than passing interest.

While these clubs are scheduled to play in two or three other towns of the state, it is expected that Greenville game will occupy greater interest in the public eye. Extensive preparations will be made to accommodate the big crowds expected, and the city will no doubt take on a real festive appearance as the influx of sport lovers gets under way.

NEW TYPE AUTO RACE PROPOSED BY BUGATTI

Paris, France, (AP)—A real race between the world's great automobile drivers but all with exactly the same cars, is being organized by Ettore Bugatti, one of the leading car builders of France. He is anxious to see what different men will do with the same automobile and to determine whether it is the car or the man that wins a race.

Bugatti, whose firm has been engaged in most of the big races all over the world for many years, proposes to furnish a large number of cars and let the drivers draw lots for them.

VIOLATION LITTLE HELP IN BASKETBALL WARFARE

Wichita, Kas., (AP)—Army advocates of a plan to transport infantry by airplane find little encouragement in the experience of the University of Wichita basketball team.

Unsatisfactory connections to Hays, Kas., the "front" in the game with Kansas State Teachers College, caused the Wichita coach to charter five airplanes to carry his team on the 200-mile trip. The flight required only two hours, and it was hoped it would save the athletes from the fatigue of travel. But Wichita, although expected to win, lost the game.

Free Admission to Sports

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(AP)—So as to popularize track and gymnastics at the University of Chicago, A. A. Suggs has adopted a free admission policy for meets of the classes of sport.

The policy brought a crowd of 2,500 to the Chicago-Indiana meet last week, the largest that has ever been seen at an indoor meet at Bartlett gymnasium.

Virginia League To Function With Only Four Clubs

Richmond, Va., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Times Dispatch says today that the Virginia league will continue to function during 1928 with a four club circuit.

Decision of Petersburg to accept terms offered by President William H. Bramham last night assured the continuance of the league with Richmond, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Petersburg as members, it was said. Kingston and Wilson, North Carolina cities, were also members last season.

The league will operate this year on a "pool" basis, the paper says, this being the condition under which Petersburg accepted.

GENARO WINS N. Y. FIGHT

Toronto, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The National Boxing Association's world's flyweight crown rested today on the brow of Frankie Genaro, of New York.

Genaro won the title by scoring a decisive victory over Frenchy Belanger in a bout here last night. Belanger captured the N. B. A. championship two months ago and defended it successfully recently when he won a decision over the man who'dethroned him.

Genaro was not to be beaten last night. Belanger put up a gallant but futile battle to retain the diamond. He found the New Yorker's defense hard to pierce and toward the end he himself realized that his only chance to win lay in putting over a finishing blow.

Genaro led from the start. For the most part he depended upon his superior boxing ability to give him the edge but at times he flung caution to the winds and slugged away, toe and toe, with his Canadian foe.

Newspaper men at the ringside credited Genaro with winning six rounds; gave the champion two and called two even.

Genaro weighed in at the flyweight limit, 122 pounds; Belanger scaled 111.

Texans Lead Open

San Antonio, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Two native sons were favorites in the field of 85 golfers who shot better than 106 to qualify for the second 36 hole fight in the Texas open today.

Tom Lally, of San Antonio, led the field with an aggregate of 144, five strokes better than his nearest out of state competitor, and one under the card turned in by Harry Cooper, of Buffalo, N. Y., who learned his golf on Texas links.

Lally shot a par 71 yesterday, two under his total for the first 18 hole round Sunday. Cooper moved into second place with a 70 for the second 18 after taking a 75 on the initial round. He was the only one to crack par.

The program calls for 18 holes this morning and 18 this afternoon with 1,500 offered for low score for the 72 holes.

Colburn Medallist

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—B. S. Colburn, of the Biltmore Forest, N. C., country club, stroked himself to medalist position with a 77 in the annual Ormond Beach championship golf tournament here yesterday while John D. Rockefeller paused from his regular round to observe the play.

Colburn's card was closely followed by A. B. Badwin, Baltusrol, with a 78, while J. R. Gormley, of Ormond Beach, was third with a 79.

Mr. Rockefeller plays his customary six holes a day on the course here, and yesterday stopped several times in his play to watch the progress of the qualifiers.

SPIRITUAL PLAY AT COLLEGE TOMORROW

There has been great interest in the play to be presented at East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow evening at 8:15. "The Chastening," by Charles Rann Kennedy, partly because it is the first time the people of the college and Greenville have had the opportunity of seeing one of the significant repertory plays by the famous author, partly because of the theme of the play, a miracle play suggestive of the Passion Play, but perhaps most of all because it brings here the three noted players—the author himself, his wife, Edith Wynne Matthison, and Margaret Gage, their pupil, who has caught in a marvelous way their idea and presents their ideals with great truth and beauty.

The play will begin at 8:15 instead of 8 o'clock, as advertised at first, so that those attending pray-meetings may have time to get into their seats before the opening scene.

Tickets will be on sale at the door.

"THE CHASTENING" TO BE PRESENTED AT COLLEGE TOMORROW EVENING

Members of the college faculty have presented most inspiring and illuminating interpretations of "The Chastening" and of the work of the great artists who will appear at the college tomorrow evening. The churches, clubs and schools have shown a splendid spirit of cooperation and appreciation of these efforts to give the community the benefit of a clear understanding of the work of these artists, who are making a distinctive contribution to literature and drama, and at the same time have a message of religious and spiritual value.

Miss Andrews gave the presentation to the college through the Y. W. C. A. Misses Turner, Rainwater, Hooper, Charlton, Davis, Coats and Townsend, and Mr. Adams have given the interpretation to various clubs and Sunday school groups.

Miss Jenkins, director of publicity for the college entertainments, has attempted to make clear the difference between advertising for the purpose of increasing the sale of tickets and the kind of publicity that gives the community the opportunity to get information and understanding of real benefit to the public. Those who will not see the play tomorrow evening have benefited by getting the message and those who will see it are better prepared to enjoy and appreciate it.

OUR LAST CHANCE
 According to announcement just made, representatives of the War Department will be in Greenville on the morning of February 23 to meet with citizens here regarding the possibilities of navigation on Tar River up to this point. There was a time several years ago that the government offered to do the necessary dredging of Tar River to make it navigable if indications furnished by this city were such as to show that it was wanted and that there would be sufficient freight hauled via this route to justify the government's going to the expense of dredging the proposed channel.

There was much enthusiasm and talk about the matter for several weeks after which it dwindled into slumber and until this day the boat line to this city has not been established. Through the efforts of Congressman Lindsay Warren, the government has again agreed to make a survey of the river with a view of making it navigable, provided Greenville feels that it needs and wants a boat line, and it is to ascertain this information that the War Department engineers will soon pay a visit to our city.

It goes without saying, that water transportation means lower freight rates as well as affording additional means of distribution and if possible we should have it but unless our citizens interest themselves enough in the matter to be on hand at the court house on the morning of the 23rd of this month our last hope of water transportation here will have passed, and in the future we must depend upon our present means to do our hauling into and out of the city. Naturally if our river is at all navigable and we need and want water transportation the government wants us to have it, but the government is not going to keep offering it to us and spending money for surveys of the river if we continue to appear disinterested and do not turn our hand to make water transportation to this point a reality.

As stated above, the visit of the engineers here this month will no doubt be our last chance and if we feel that we should have a boat line it is high time we were giving the matter some serious thought.

SOUNDS GOOD
 While no definite announcement has been made regarding the outcome of the negotiations for the selection of this city as the site of the new plush mill, indications are that the report when it is received here will be favorable and Greenville will get the mill. If this be true, and we sincerely hope it is, it is only the beginning of Greenville's future as a manufacturing center. If the mill locates here it is the result of the efforts put forth by certain local interests and citizens, and goes to show that hearty co-operative effort can accomplish much for our city and community.

ABOUT TOWN

"What the public is more desirous of knowing at this time is whether or not the city is going to get the branch factory of that Philadelphia Plush Manufacturing concern," asserted one of the local business men today, speaking of the vast possibilities of this city for a concern of that kind.

"Greenville needs more manufacturing enterprises to make it develop in the future as it has in the past. With numbers of plants putting out weekly payrolls business conditions would be greatly improved. The population would increase to no little extent and in a mighty short time this would be among the largest towns in this section of the country."

"It is to be hoped our business men get behind this manufacturing proposition and bring it to a successful conclusion."

"With every other town in the Eastern Carolina league having chosen a manager, it begins to look like it was time for Greenville to be doing something of the kind," one of the old followers of the national sport remarked to the writer this morning.

"Of course there is no hurry about making the announcement the public is impatient to know who is going to guide the destiny of Greenville in its first appearance in organized baseball. But it is a matter that cannot be hurried over and it is presumed the directors of the club are giving the matter the careful consideration of which it is so surely deserving."

"If they promise to give us a manager with a knack for winning, then we shall be able to restrain ourselves until the selection is definitely made."

"Dollar Days," said W. H. Woolard, president of the Greenville Merchants Association, "will be the greatest events in the history of the city this year. This is a semi-annual occurrence. The first is dated for Thursday of this week. It promises to eclipse all other events of the kind ever staged under auspices of the association and those who come from miles and miles around will be well repaid for their sojourn."

"Fifteen merchants of the city will take part in Dollar Day this time. They represent the largest merchandising organizations in this section and have collected stocks comparing favorably with stores many times as large."

"If you have never visited an event of this kind in Greenville, let me urge you to do so and in that way get an idea of what Greenville business men are doing in behalf of the trading public."

"Well, I see that Reuben Bland, of Robersonville, is not only the ebullient father of the United States, but is a finished clog dancer," observed an Ayden citizen who dropped into the office today to pay his respects to the reproducer of this column.

"It is remarkable how a man who has raised thirty-four children still has enough life about him to dance like Mr. Bland danced at the Fiddlers' convention at Ayden the other night."

"Why that man cut up like a sixteen-year-old boy. He is just as lively and full of animation and vitality as one whose sun has not passed the meridian and headed toward the west. His exhibition was truly remarkable—a display of science and skill in an art that flourished extensively during the days when Bland was a boy and he had no thought of a stock presenting him with the distinct honor of becoming the champion father of the United States."

"If you have a spare room notify members of the committee arranging for the coming of the four hundred delegates to the Older Boys conference here Friday, Saturday and Sunday," members of the Y. M. C. A. committee urged local people today.

The Older Boys' Conference is composed of deserving school boys from seventy-five high schools of the state. They held these conferences for the purpose of discussing matters of importance to the future welfare and advancement of the young men of the state.

The conferences are sponsored by the State Y. M. C. A. and should receive the hearty support of men and women in all cities in which they are held. Greenville should feel exceptionally proud of the opportunity of entertaining such a great number of representative young men, and the citizenship ought to make every effort possible to see that the visitors are well provided with rooms and meals while they are here.

Cooking School Now In Progress Here Drawing Large Attendance Daily

Demonstrations At Gas Office Are Interesting To The Women.

Yesterday afternoon opened the cooking school which was brought to Greenville under H. H. McCoy Company of Kingston, and the Omega Flour Company. The demonstrations are being held in the office of the Greenville Gas Company, near Five Points, and will continue through tomorrow afternoon. The sessions are being held from 3 until 5:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Shaw noted demonstrators and lecturer, of Memphis, Tenn., is in charge of the school and her talks and demonstrations were found interesting by the number of ladies in attendance at the school yesterday. Special attention is given to all questions of menu, special dishes, meal planning, etc., by Mrs. Shaw.

Mrs. Shaw stated yesterday that each afternoon there are prizes to be given to the ladies who attend. There is absolutely no charge connected to the school and demonstrations and every lady in Greenville is urged to come to the sessions of the school.

Cooking School Using Napanee Kitchen Cabinet

Representative Of Manufacturer Tells Of Progress Of His Product.

Mrs. Shaw, noted lecturer and representative of the Napanee Kitchen Cabinet, Inc., use in her work. Mrs. Shaw stated that wherever she goes to conduct cooking schools she always uses the Napanee cabinet whenever it is possible. The cabinet being used for the demonstration now being conducted at the local gas office, is a electrically equipped type and embodies all the conveniences the housewife can desire in a kitchen cabinet.

The cabinet was installed in the office for the cooking school by the Home Furniture Company, who are local dealers for this fine cabinet.

Omega Flour Is Proving Popular Wherever It Goes

Home Furniture Company Installs Cabinet For Use In School.

Omega Flour is growing more and more popular each day, declares Mr. Vance, representative of the Omega Company, who is here in connection with the cooking school being conducted at the gas office.

"I believe that once you use Omega Flour, you will always use it," Mr. Vance declared yesterday. "We have found housewives everywhere we've been, eager in its praise."

This brand of flour is handled in this section by the H. H. McCoy Company, who wholesale it to the various grocers.

SPIRITUAL PLAY TO BE SEEN AT THE COLLEGE

"The Chastening" is very different from the ordinary theatrical performance, which has elaborate stage setting and ornate equipment. The play is adapted for performing anywhere: out of doors, indoors, on a bare school platform, at the end of a drawing room, in the chancel of a church, or under the scenic conditions of a regularly equipped theatre. The action of the play is continuous, with no breaks and no need for the dropping of curtains.

In the performance at East Carolina Teachers College on Thursday evening, the stage in the campus building will be set before the opening. The costumes worn are realistic and appropriately picturesque. The period might be any: it is "Once upon a time."

The place is where three roads meet in an open place, and there are boulders by the roadside.

The whole emphasis is upon the play itself, its shape, its meaning, and upon the acting and the voice. The acting stands out superbly, so those who have seen it say, and the action of the three famous actors is perhaps the finest to be heard today in the English speaking world. Edith Wynne Mathison's voice and diction are cited everywhere as the model of perfect English music.

Bell Arthur News

Nearly everybody is preparing tobacco bets.

Mr. Robert Jones has moved back to Greene county, and Mr. Wilbur Drake has moved in with Mr. Geo. Crawford.

Mrs. B. Nichols suffered last week with rheumatism and we are glad to know that she is improving.

Little C. B. Allen is sick with the measles. There are several cases around Arthur.

We have a fine school and the teachers are very popular.

Arthur is improving. The garage has opened up with a first-class mechanic. Also we have a nice filling station and a pressing club.

Mr. Joe Jones paid his regular visit to Arthur Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Jasper Joyner and family visited their mother, Mrs. J. B. Joyner last Saturday.

Mrs. Nesh Joyner has moved on Mrs. Nichols' farm near Kingston, but is still working for Mr. Griffin every Saturday.

Mr. O. P. Pollard's home was burned to ashes last Monday night about two o'clock. His loss was very heavy.

I suppose Mr. Mills Smith will move to Greenville.

There was a moving picture show in the school building last Friday night and a large crowd was present.

LONE EAGLE FETTERED TODAY BY HAITIANS

President Pays Tribute to Intrepidity of American Flying Ace.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Feb. 7.—(AP)—With boundless enthusiasm Haiti continued in fete today for the "Great Silver Eagle" which dropped on a peaceful mission from the pale blue tropical skies at the appointed hour.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who idled in the clouds so as not to arrive from Santo Domingo ahead of time, will leave for Havana tomorrow continuing his good will cruise.

President Borno hailed him "as a radiant messenger of the greatest things in the world, namely, science, dauntless courage and unflinching faith."

The peasants acclaimed Lindbergh as "Gros Chef." In soft Creole voices they cried, "Vive, Bon Papa." Ninety per cent of them illiterate, they could not comprehend his trans-Atlantic flight but they hailed the boyish American who had passed among them smiling, and extended to him their natural hospitality.

Eight years ago, in the hills of Haiti, the peasants, who had once been negro slaves, saw their first airplane. It was an American machine plane scouting for bandits.

Word was spread by conch horns and voodoo drums of the magic flight of a "great white bat." The bandits later unhesitatingly attacked an abandoned plane, slashing its wings to kill the great bird.

Half an hour before the time scheduled for its arrival, the peasants saw the Spirit of St. Louis, to them "the Great Silver Eagle," appear. It was three thousand feet above the three thousand foot barrier of the mountains.

Realizing that he was ahead of time, Lindbergh disappeared. He flew over the old bandit strongholds and in the distance saw a range of mountains lost in the haze which rose from the celebrated windward passage. Three miles off shore he saw the battleships Wyoming and Utah.

It headed two o'clock, the hour that Lindbergh had set ten days before his arrival. Suddenly the plane darted out of the clouds and sped like a silver lance straight for the target—Bowen field. It was exactly 2 o'clock when he landed.

The first question Col. Lindbergh asked Brigadier General John Henry Russell, United States High Commissioner was "Well, did I get in on time?"

When assured that he did, with his boyish smile, the flyer said: "Fine, I tried to."

Ayden's best talent is being used to make this the best production of its kind ever staged in Ayden. The choruses are unusual, costumes attractive, and the music will be snappy. The play itself is full of fun and mirth from the time the curtain rises until the finale.

What's the use to spend you time and money going to New York, when you can see a finished production of this kind in Ayden? Shall we "See You Later" at the show?

OKESON TO SELECT COLLEGE GRID OFFICERS

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—After 22 years of service, the central board has abandoned its task of creating the machinery for the selection of football officials for some sixty eastern college and non-named Walter R. Okeson, of Lehigh University, as its successor.

If the board's suggestions are carried out, Okeson will select the officials for virtually every college in the Middle Atlantic and New England states.

The Lehigh man acted in a similar capacity last year for a dozen of the larger eastern colleges, including Army, Navy, Princeton, Yale, Columbia, Penn State, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Harvard, Brown and Pennsylvania.

Otis, of this place, named president at the organization meeting here yesterday, the body already has plans under way for forming chapters at Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Greensboro, Tarboro, Lincolnton, Asheville, Durham, and Charlotte.

STOCK MARKET.
New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today after an early period of strength. Except for the marking up of the call money renewal rate to 4 1-2 per cent, there was nothing in the day's news to influence the price movement. Pools, however, appeared to be having more difficulty in attracting a public following, encouraging a resumption of short selling in some of the recently volatile specialties. Laclede Gas broke nine points, reexport Texas, 8, Detroit Edison 1-2, and General Railway Signal, Vanadium Steel, Mullins corporation and Midland Steel products were hammered down 5 or more points below last night's final quotations. U. S. Steel common and General Motors both lost their early gains of about 2 points each. Renewal of selling pressure against the rails was in reflection of the poor 1927 earnings, preliminary figures of which are now being published. Pittsburgh & West Virginia collapsed 6 points, Gulf

Mobile & Northern 4 and Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Delaware & Hudson, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific and Canadian Pacific sank 2 points or more.
