ROBBERS MAKE RICH HAUL AT KANSAS CITY

Heavily Armed Men Also Get Away with $30,000 Cash at St. Louis Today

St. Louis, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Wellston Trust Company of Wellston, a suburb, was robbed of approximately $30,000 in currency today by three men who entered during the night from an office upstairs made prisoners of eight employees as they reported for work and compelled them to open a time safe. The robbers passed up $4,000 in coin.

It was the fourth robbery of the bank and its employees in four years with total loot of about $100,000. The losses were insured.

In escaping the robbers commandeered a taxicab, later transferring to an automobile, in which several accomplices made a belated appearance.

The robbers showed familiarity with the two story bank building and the vault containing the money. Indications were the robbers went up a back stairway and climbed through a window to a dentist's office.

Kansas City, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Six men carrying a machine gun, shot up the City Bank at 18th street and Grand avenue here this morning and obtained loot estimated by the bank officials as high as $20,000. No one was injured. The men escaped in a motor car.

Despite the promiscuous firing no one was injured. The robbers drove away in two motor cars. Entering the bank with a flourish of arms, one man fired point blank at R. C. Kemper, president, and commanded the fifty employees and a dozen customers to lie down on the floor. One of the bandits carried machine gun and two others with sawed off shotguns guarded the two doors. At first the bandits forced tellers to toss money boxes over the top of cages. Then they went behind the cage and recovered no money themselves.

R. H. Rheem, cashier, estimated the amount of loot at $20,000 on the basis of an incomplete check. First reports were that about $50,000 had been taken.

Mr. Kemper said that many of the boxes were tossed over by tellers and contained supplies instead of money.

The robbers were in the bank six minutes. Every time anyone moved a shot was fired and one pillar, from behind which an employee apparently attempted to fire, was marked with six bullets. The machine gun was not fired.

Mr. Kemper said he had believed it impossible to rob the City Bank. All employees are in the open and most of them equipped with revolvers and in each case is a burglar alarm.

Bankers Guests of Fayetteville

Fayetteville, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Fifty bankers from northern and eastern states making a tour of this state as guests of the North Carolina Bankers' Association, arrived here this morning from Rocky Mount for a brief visit.

The Kiwanis luncheon at which the bankers were honor guests, was preceded by a round of golf on the local country club links. The afternoon program included an inspection trip to Fort Bragg and in the evening the visitors will attend a banquet given by the civic clubs of the city.

They are scheduled to leave Saturday for Sanford.

THREATEN LIFE OF CHICAGO POLICE COMMISSIONER

Chicago, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The life of William E. O'Connor, deputy police commissioner, has been threatened, he said today, because of his efforts to run down the bomb terrorists.

"The war has been passed in gangland to 'get me,' O'Connor said. A police guard has been placed at his home and a bodyguard accompanies him. A vacant lot near his residence is carefully searched night, police revealed, to guard against an ambush.

Volcano in Eruption

Tokyo, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The great eruption of the Asamayama volcano in eight years occurred yesterday afternoon.

A deafening roar accompanied the disturbance and large boulders were thrown from the crater down a snow-dusted slope.

No casualties were reported.

TODAY

A California Breakfast.
Ask Mr. Ochs.
We Need Ships.
Powerful Mr. Upsidedown.
(By Arthur Brisbane)
Copyright 1927, by Star Co.

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—Often the east asks, "Doesn't a warm climate weaken the energies of California men and women? Are not the white people there enervated, as California Indians used to be?"

Mr. Ochs who owns the New York Times can answer that, having attended a session of the Los Angeles Riding and Breakfast Club.

At 3 o'clock this morning he was singing songs, hundreds of men putting their arms on each others shoulders, swinging back and forth sidewise as they sang.

Before 9 o'clock he had eaten buckwheat cakes, ham and eggs, boiled pears, hot rolls, heard Russian vaudeville performers sing, and had seen them dance, made a speech of his own and listened to six other five-minute speeches, had been photographed with five charming young ladies known as the "Wampas babies," met and was photographed with a young lady who had just ridden one horse 4,000 miles across the continent, had been photographed with Douglas Fairbanks, bounding young Mexican star Lupe Valez, and learned the chorus of a song beginning:

"O! You ham,
O! You eggs"

By ten he had posed for William Fox's "movie-tone" and was inspecting real estate, 1,700 feet high with young Mr. Chanler.

The remarkable thing about the people out here is their terrific energy.

Mr. Ochs will confirm that.

J. A. H. Kerr, vice president of the Security National Bank, told the energetic "breakfasters" that this country should have a merchant marine of its own, and not rely on competitors to carry out imports and exports that for the 1927-1928 period may amount to ten thousand million dollars. The country will pay for a year's transportation at sea $600,000,000 eighty per cent of it going to foreign shipping.

This country, during and since the war has spent three thousand million dollars on ships, and hasn't got a merchant marine yet.

In 1890, nearly 100 years ago, American ships carried more than 89 per cent of American commerce. In 1926 only a little over 32 per cent.

That is something to think about in connection with the birthday of Washington who objected to entangling foreign alliances. We are bound to have such entanglements if we depend on foreign countries to carry our supplies in case of war.

Next week the Basque Uzdun, whom fight fanciers for convenience call "the Spaniard upsidedown" will fight a tall, powerful colored man named Godfrey.

This intellectual neighborhood has paid $44,000 for tickets to see what will happen to Mr. Godfrey. On mid Pacific or rough Atlantic human nature is the same. Men will pay $10 to see a fight that would not pay $5 for the best book.

Students of anthropology will note that the Basque Uzdun, and the South American Firpo are the two most powerful, rugged men (Continued on page six)

LINDY SILENT ABOUT FUTURE PLANS TODAY

Declines to Make Statement Following Conference With Aircraft Industry.

Detroit, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who has been conferring here with leaders of the aircraft industry preparatory, it is believed, to launching into a business career, today maintained silence regarding his plans.

The colonel, whose name rumor persists in linking with a reported new Chicago-New York air transportation project, refused to grant interviews and expressed a desire to drop out of public life altogether, his request was reinforced by one from his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, who said the colonel has "permanently retired from the public spotlight."

At the same time Edsel Ford, Major Thomas G. Lanphier, Stout Airways officials and the group of St. Louis aircraft industry representatives who accompanied Col. Lindbergh here were equally reticent.

Members of the group were quick to deny published reports that the purpose of Lindbergh's visit here concerned a new airplane designed by himself and Major Lanphier, but they would neither affirm nor deny the rumor concerning the new Chicago-New York air line.

Lindbergh spent last night at Selldridge field after visiting during the evening with his mother. In the afternoon he conferred with Edsel Ford and officials of the Stout Airways organization. His trip by airplane from Selldridge field to the general office of the Ford Company was interrupted by a forced landing due to fog.

Financial Affairs of Ruth Mix Put In Hands of Guardian

Los Angeles, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The financial affairs of Miss Ruth Jane Mix, 18 (correct) year old daughter of Tom Mix, film cowboy, were placed in the hands of a guardian today as the result of a fight waged by her mother, Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix, divorced wife of the actor, to have the girl's support allowance increased from $50 to $150 a month.

Mrs. Mix, in obtaining a divorce from the screen star several years ago, was given custody of the daughter and allowed $50 a month for the girl's support. Recently she petitioned the superior court for the increased allowance, contending that Mix's wealth had grown to such proportions that he could well afford to pay $150 monthly, to meet increasing expenses of her daughter.

Over Mrs. Mix's protest, Superior Judge Gray yesterday held that the California law gave children of 14 years or older the right to choose their own guardian, whereupon the daughter picked A. A. Kidder, attorney for Mrs. Mix in the original divorce proceedings.

The question of how much money Ruth will be awarded remained undetermined. Judge Gray announced that another hearing would be called to settle the matter. He hinted, however, that the amount would not be $150, by declaring that from his own experience in raising children, $200 a month would be a more appropriate sum than the amount asked by the mother.

The slayer was believed by the police to be a man Miss Brown had been in the habit of meeting in Central Park, New York, and whom she had described to her employer, James Gillespie, of Park Avenue, New York, as a "fine gentleman with a car."

Believing the man to be a drug addict, police were watching all sources of that nature in New Jersey and attempting to trace former connections of the "doctor" who they believed to be the slayer.

New York Mayor At Winston-Salem

Winston-Salem, Feb. 24.—(AP)—His social engagements may have pushed Mayor Jimmy Walker at a rapid gait during his flying visit to the south but the New York "traveling salesman" found time today on his final stop in Dixie to put a late sleep ahead of all other events on his schedule.

Although the mayor and his party arrived here at 7:30 this morning, the social executive remained aboard his private car until 11 o'clock and the early risers who hoped to catch a glimpse of "Jimmy" before his round of engagements began stood a fruitless vigil.

A local committee found the mayor ready at 11 o'clock and escorted him to the hotel. He was formally presented to the city at luncheon at 12:30 given by the local civic clubs.

A tour of the city was the program for the afternoon and the party was scheduled to leave for New York shortly before 5 o'clock.

SEEK DOCTOR AS MURDERER OF GOVERNESS

Search For Slayer Intensified Upon Receipt of Letter by N. J. Police

Barnardsville, N. J., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A "Doctor Hoff" or "Hoff" was being sought by police today as the slayer of Miss Margaret Brown, 30 year old governess, who was burned to death near here Monday night.

Search for the slayer was intensified by receipt of an anonymous letter in which the writer confessed the slaying and returned $2,500 in bonds and cash he had taken from his victim.

A friend of Miss Brown's said the murdered woman had been meeting a man either "Hoff" or "Huff," and who called himself a "doctor," in Central Park. He was known to be the owner of an automobile similar to that seen near the scene of the murder. The letter said the writer had told Miss Brown she was a medical student.

The slayer was believed by the police to be a man Miss Brown had been in the habit of meeting in Central Park, New York, and whom she had described to her employer, James Gillespie, of Park Avenue, New York, as a "fine gentleman with a car."

Believing the man to be a drug addict, police were watching all sources of that nature in New Jersey and attempting to trace former connections of the "doctor" who they believed to be the slayer.

Declares Failure To Provide Flood Relief Would Be a Calamity

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Failure of congress to provide for Mississippi Flood Control at this session "would be a calamity not only to the people in the flood territory but to the country as a whole," Secretary Hoover declared before the Senate Commerce committee.

The Commerce secretary, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, committed himself to no plan, declaring that he did not have the intimate knowledge necessary to give a detailed engineering opinion upon flood control.

He said, however, that it seemed to him that any plan would be altered in detail as the work progressed.

Mr. Hoover expressed the view that in some degree "the minor slackening in business activity throughout the country at present is a repercussion of the flood and I believe that the early consummation of legislation would be of value in stabilizing the economic fabric."

"It would restore courage, confidence and enterprise in the people of the flood territory," he declared. Called before the committee at the instance of Senator Hanes, Democrat, Missouri, and Willis, of Ohio, another Republican presidential candidate, the Secretary found himself in a small committee room crowded to the doors by those who expected important political skirmishing to accompany the hearing, especially in connection with Hoover's views on the controverted phases of the flood control situation.

Entering with chairman Jones, who had restricted the move to call him, on the ground that flood control was a matter in the hands of another cabinet officer, the Secretary of war, Mr. Hoover took a seat at the end of the long committee table.

"You have a statement you wish to read to the committee?" "Yes sir," Hoover replied, and then began to read:

"I am glad to have the opportunity to present to the committee my views as to the urgency of legislation for the control of Mississippi floods," the Secretary said.

"I believe the failure of action at this session of congress would be a calamity not only to the people in the flood territory but to the country as a whole, and it is indeed urgent that legislation should be completed at the earliest moment that it can be accomplished with proper deliberation."

"Engineering and the methods of course lie wholly within the war department and outside of the functions of the department of commerce. I can however, speak upon the necessity of legislation from both the human and economic point of view."

"I had the honor to be chosen by President Coolidge to organize and direct the relief activities during the recent flood. No man could occupy that responsibility and have witnessed its scenes without being deeply moved to the urgent human needs of preventive measures."

"I need not recount to you the unprecedented character of the flood. Some 750,000 of our people were compelled to flee from their homes in jeopardy of their lives. The damage to their crops, farms and villages amounted to hundreds of millions of dollars."

"It was only by the extraordinary co-operation and initiative of the people of the south, with the help of the Red Cross and our federal agencies that an enormous loss of life was prevented. We witnessed the unprecedented necessity of removing several hundred thousand people to concentration camps, providing them with the necessities of life safeguarding their health and rehabilitating their homes. I estimate that in all the agencies called into being upwards of $27,000,000 had been required to provide for them the barest necessities."

"Economic loss is not born solely by its direct victims. Every citizen of the nation has lost something from the reduced purchasing power due to the destruction in the valley. The loss of several millions acres of crops deprived the American people of just that much produce they might have consumed or exported."

"Every farmer and worker outside the flood area has been the loser from the decreased purchasing power of the flooded people and every investor in the railroads and enterprises in this area has lost something."

"It is my view that in some degree the minor slackening in business activity at present is a repercussion of the flood, and I believe that the early consummation of legislation would be of value in stabilizing the economic fabric."

"It would restore courage, confidence and enterprise in the people of the flood territory, would stimulate their activities for the future, would give larger employment both in actual labor upon the works and in the manufacture of equipment that will be required for its construction."

Several Believed Killed by Blast At Arkansas Mine

Fort Smith, Ark., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Fifteen to eighteen men are believed to have been killed by an explosion in mine number three of the Matu Coal Company at Jenny Lind, Ark., near here today. Approximately 125 men were in this and connecting mines at the time of the blast but more than 100 of them are believed to have escaped.

Rescue crews directed by Claude Speigel, state mine inspector and W. E. Pendleton, president of the coal company, were sent into the mine immediately.

The blast came from the back section of mine number 18 which, with mine number 20, connects with mine number 7. Those who made their escape worked their way through mine number 20. Those who escaped held little hope that any of those remaining in the explosion area were still alive.

BORAH TRIES TO FIND HOW THEY STAND

Gets Three Presidential Candidates to Express Themselves on Prohibition.

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who appointed himself to find out for the voters how presidential candidates feel about prohibition, now has answered from three of the all pretty much alike.

Secretary Hoover has joined two other Republican candidates Senator Willis of Ohio, and Curtis of Kansas, in expressing his opinion that the prohibition amendment should not be repealed and that the law should be vigorously enforced.

This enforcement the cabinet member added, should also be efficient and sincere and in his brief reply to Senator Borah, said that any president must under his oath pursue that course. He appended his observation.

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far reaching in purpose it must be worked constructively."

In much the same vein but in varying words, Senator Curtis and Willis made their earlier response to the Borah questionnaire. Willis who has Hoover's candidacy to contend with in his home state is content to let his answer stand beside Hoover's before Ohio voters.

The Senator had told Mr. Borah that he favored pledging the Republican party and its presidential candidates to "vigorous, faithful and efficient enforcement." Senator Curtis shares that sentiment but he and Mr. Borah refrained from comment on Secretary Hoover's reply.

Observers who expected Senator Reed of Missouri, a Democratic candidate, to say something about prohibition on his present western speech making tour have thus far been disappointed, holding positive views against prohibition; the Senator has talked of nearly everything else in his attacks upon the Republican administration.

Another Democratic prospect, Governor Ritchie of Maryland has often made known his contention that prohibition, and a host of other questions, would be left for settlement by the states themselves, with out federal intervention others mentioned for the nominations possibly waiting to see if Senator Borah is going to mail them questionnaires are resting on previous statements for or against prohibition or for law enforcement.

More positive views may be expected when the favorite sons and others get into the swing of the pre-convention campaign.

TRIAL COTTON BROKER DELAYED INDEFINITELY

Charlotte, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Date for the trial of Eldred Griffith, cotton broker charged with assault with intent to kill on Col. T. Leroy Springs, millionaire financier and textile magnate, has not been definitely set and will not be set until such time as it is definitely determined when the victim can appear, it was said by city court officials here today.

When Griffith was arrested the day of the shooting, date for his preliminary hearing was tentatively set for Monday, February 27. This is in accordance with custom, court officials said, and when the victim of an attack is unable to appear the hearing is postponed from time to time until he is able to do so.

Col. Springs, shot in the face, has been returned to his Myers Park home here from the hospital where he was taken after the shooting. His physician, Dr. Addison G. Brenizer, said today that he is doing very nicely and should make a rapid recovery.

NATIONAL GUARD STRENGTH TOTALS 184,993 MEN

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The present strength of the country's national guard units, federally recognized, the War Department announced today, totals 184,993 officers and men.

HOLD HEARING ON DEEPENING LOCAL RIVER

Arguments Presented In Behalf of Project At Public Hearing Yesterday.

A public meeting was held at the court house in this city yesterday at one o'clock to discuss the possibility of deepening Tar River and opening it to navigation.

The hearing was conducted before Major W. A. Snow, of Wilmington government engineer, representing the war department, and was attended by large delegations from adjoining county and surrounding communities and much enthusiasm was in evidence.

Numbers of speakers told of the need of water transportation for this section and presented concrete facts showing that the section would enjoy a saving of approximately a quarter of a million dollars annually, the figures being based upon present freight rates.

While Major Snow was in no position to commit himself without further study of the situation, he expressed great satisfaction at the information furnished him, should his investigations result in a favorable report to the War Department local interest felt that the actual work on the river would begin within a year or two.

According to Major Snow something like a year would be required to complete the work and open the river to navigation. He stated that the improvement would cost in the neighborhood of $400,000. The cost of operation of a million dollars would be about $10,000 annually.

E. O. Flanagan presided over the session at the court house. Henry Brown, representing the Kiwanis Club, and Milford Hayes, prominent business man, of Tarboro, urged that the river be deepened all the way to Tarboro in order to give that town the advantage of the water rates.

Mayor J. C. Lanier, representing the city of Greenville, set forth in general the needs of water transportation here and urged the careful consideration of the matter on the part of government officials.

B. B. Sugg, speaking for the tobacco interests, declared that water freight rates, would save $27,000 annually on the shipment of tobacco to ports of Newport News and Norfolk.

James T. Little, speaking for the cotton interests, said water rates would result in a saving of $19,000 annually.

J. B. Kittredge, representing brokers and wholesalers, declared that thousands of dollars would be saved on the shipment of sugar and other commodities now being received here.

E. C. Davis, who recently made a survey of the city, gave figures on the total amount of groceries, hardware, etc., being received in this city and showed tremendous saving in this line by water rates.

Representatives of the Ford Motor Company, at Norfolk said that with facilities for water transportation here approximately 2,600 cars would be distributed through this point at a saving of thousands of dollars.

J. J. White, speaking for the gas and oil concerns of the city, declared a great saving would be made in this line.

D. L. Turriage, speaking for the fertilizer interests, indicated that great savings would be registered in this branch of industry.

Representatives of Pender's store declared that water freight rates to this point would make it possible for the concern to distribute from here at savings which would be passed on to the consumer.

Boat line representatives addressed the meeting and asserted that they had vessels ready to begin operation between Baltimore, Norfolk and Greenville just as soon as there was sufficient channel in the river to make transportation possible.

The plan to deepen Tar River has been up for discussion in this city for several years. Recently the matter was taken up by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, resulting in a bill for a survey of the river being presented to congress by Congressman Lindsay Warren.

Women Oppose The Election of Dr. Butler

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Election of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as delegate to the republican national convention from the nineteenth congressional district is being opposed by the leaders of women voters and the W. C. T. U.

The two organizations, are circulating petitions for Miss Lois Barr, a lawyer, who will run against Dr. Butler at the primary election April 2.

The assembly district leaders, however, are said to be in favor of his candidacy and his election is predicted by New York newspapers.

AUTO RACES HAVE ENDED AT DAYTONA

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Captains and kings of the motor racing world were departing from the hard-packed sands of this beach today, leaving new standards of speed for earth-bound vehicles behind them.

Topping the list of achievements, which yesterday's last-minute efforts failed to improve, was that of Captain Malcolm Campbell, who came here from London to set a new world's mark for automobiles of any specifications at all with a speed of 206.95 miles an hour attained Sunday.

Gil Anderson, of Indianapolis, enlivened yesterday, the last day of the twenty-fifth annual racing meet here, with a new record of 105.5243 miles an hour for stock cars, made in a Stutz.

Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, yesterday added another chapter to the thrilling events of the past week when he was forced to drive his Whippet into the ocean to quench uncontrollable flames which burst from his motor to cut short his effort at a new record for four cylindered cars.

Anderson's new record supplanted that made last week by Wade Morton, in an Auburn, with more than 104 miles an hour. Tom Rooney, of Chicago, also bettered Morton's record yesterday when he drove an official mile at the rate of 105.54 miles an hour.

In coming away victorious in the triangular contest among the high-powered Leviathans of rapid motion, Captain Campbell was threatened by Frank Lockhart, youthful Indianapolis driver, who is now convalescing from injuries sustained when his 400-horsepower Stutz Blackhawk Special catapulted from the beach Wednesday and crashed among the breakers. Lockhart said yesterday he would rebuild his automobile and make another effort as soon as possible.

J. M. White, whose Gargantuan 36-cylindered triplex special rolled over the sands yesterday at an officially clocked rate of 203.73 miles an hour, experts to fit his machine with a reverse gear which will make it conform to American Automobile Association standards and attack Campbell's record later.

Campbell made two exhibition runs in his champion Blue Bird Special yesterday, but failed to better the time with which he Sunday displaced the former record, held by Major H. O. D. Segrave, also of England, at 203.6 miles an hour.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Three cornered mile race next Wednesday bringing together Lloyd Hahn, Ray Conger and Dr. Otto Peltzer, at the Knights of Columbus indoor meet may not be the "mile of the century" as it is enthusiastically billed, but it should add a colorful chapter to the astonishing mile running book of the current decade.

If the boys are careful about the use of their elbows, it also should be one of the fastest mile races ever run indoors, if the present record of 4:12 is not actually broken. It is unfortunate that neither of the joint holders of this record, Jole Ray and Paavo Nurmi, will be on hand to defend it. Ray is back in competition but not up to any top-notch mile performance just yet.

It is interesting to note that four of the greatest milers of all time have been developed since the war.

The "Big Four" is headed by peerless Paavo Nurmi. The others are Hahn, Ray and Edwin Wide, the high stepping Swedish school master.

Here are the best three miles each of this quartet has turned in since 1919, when Ray had one of his greatest years.

Nurmi	Wide	Hahn	Ray
4:10-2-5	4:12-3-5	4:11-1-5	4:12
4:11	4:12-3-5	4:12-4-5	4:15-2-5
4:12	4:13-1-5	4:13-2-5	4:15-3-5

It is not worthy in scanning this startling collection of figures that the Scandinavian pair did their best work outdoors while the American stars achieved their low marks on the boards. Nurmi's 4:10-2-5 is the present world's outdoor record, set in 1923 at Stockholm where he defeated Wide.

Of the milers who flourished 15 and more years ago probably John Paul Jones of Cornell, had the best equipment of all to give Nurmi or any of the current big four a real battle.

Jones, in the opinion of his coach Jack Mackley, had everything, but he never applied the scientific record breaking methods that Nurmi and others have employed since Jones hung up the intercollegiate record of 4:14-2-5 in 1913. It still stands.

The American big four of mile running in the days before the war included Abel Kiviat, Norman Taber and McIl Shephard as well as Jones, but all four of them were beaten in the historic Olympic 1,500 meter final of 1912 by the long striding Englishman, Arnold N. S. Jackson, now a resident of the United States.

Then a youth of about 18 Edwin Wide was a contender in that famous Olympic race of 16 years ago, finishing fifth, but his greatest fame has come since the war. The Swedish star is the only survivor of that noted group still in competition. Nurmi had not been heard of then.

Boston Adds Two Pitchers.

Boston, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Pitchers Pete Traynor and Charlie Small have reported to manager Carrigan at the Red Sox headquarters at Bradenton, Florida, and brought his hurling staff up to 17. Both the newcomers are recruits and both wear glasses, giving the Sox three bespectacled hurlers. Traynor came from Portland, Oregon, while Small claims Gloucester, Maine, his home town.

NEW YORK IDOL TO FIGHT McLARNIN

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Sid Ferris, idol of New York's East side, and Jimmy McLarnin, of Los Angeles, met over the ten round distance in Madison Square Garden tonight with prospects of the winner gaining an opportunity to challenge Sammy Mandell for the lightweight crown.

The west coast battler is reputed to be a heavy puncher and many enthusiasts have switched allegiance from Ferris to McLarnin for this tussle. Nevertheless, the ghetto flash rules an eight to five favorite to whip McLarnin, who will be making his initial bow in the east.

Helen Willis Dosent Like Ring Battles

San Francisco, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Miss Helen Willis, women's tennis champion, who attended the Mickey Walker-Jack Willis prize fight here Wednesday, made known today that she never wanted to see another ring battle.

"Unless," she added, "I might have the opportunity to see Mr. Tunney some day. I understand he boxes and does not fight. I think I might like that."

Miss Willis attended the bout after she received the approval of her parents that it was "perfectly all right for women to attend prize fights if they wanted to."

"The fight was very interesting," said Miss Willis, "but I do not want to go again. Tennis is the only game, and I do not believe that anyone who really loves tennis like I do could ever become a fight fan. The two sports are so different. It is hard to talk about them together."

CADET RIVALED ON DRILL FIELD BY FILM ACTORS

Actors make perfect soldiers. So says Major Raymond G. Moses, U. S. A., of the tactical department at West Point, after working with a crew of men, headed by William Haines, who came to the academy from Hollywood to enact cadets in Haines' new starring vehicle, "West Point." According to Major Moses, a member of the West Point instruction staff, the group of actors proved absolutely perfect material for military training at the school.

"All of them, including Haines," he said, "had some military experience, but still it was amazing how they grasped every detail of intricate drill, and were able to appear in the maneuvers along with the regular cadets after single rehearsals. Of course actors are used to learning movements and action fast, but at the same time it was astounding to the officers."

In the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which comes to "White" Theatre Monday and Tuesday, Haines plays a West Point cadet in a romance of love and football at the government's military academy. Much of the picture was directed at West Point by Edward Sedgwick, with the regular cadets appearing with the actors. Major Moses supervised the military detail.

Joan Crawford played the heroine and Ralph Emerson, Neil Niven, William Bakewell, Leon Kellar and others of note are in the cast. It is an original story of Raymond L. Schrock.

The great Army-Navy football game, with the thrilling nish, spectacular maneuvers and dress parades of the cadets and scenes on the Hudson filmed on the famous steamer "De Witt Clinton," are among the interesting details of the big production.

Ten cents will nominate a baby for the "Beautiful Baby" contest.

LOOKS GOOD NOW

Prospects for the carrying to completion of the proposal to deepen Tar River up to Greenville, making water transportation possible, looks good to us, following the meeting held in the court house here yesterday. According to government engineers, here for the hearing, the facts set forth by Greenville business interests in regard to the amount of money that could be saved this community through the lower freight rates made possible by water transportation, were indeed an eye-opener, and the government could well afford the necessary expenditures on the river in order that such a saving could be realized.

Unofficial figures place the initial cost of deepening this channel and installing dikes in order to furnish ten feet of water here, at $400,000, while the maintenance and operating costs after that time would run approximately $10,000 per year.

According to the figures submitted to Major Snow yesterday, water transportation rates to Greenville would mean an annual saving of approximately a quarter of a million dollars which in two years would save the people of this community an amount equal to the cost of deepening the river and maintenance and operating expenses for a period of ten years. In the face of these facts we do not see how the recommendation of the engineers can be otherwise than favorable and therefore, we are looking forward to the time if the gear future when the government will begin and complete the job of making our river suitable for navigation.

IF WASHINGTON COULD SEE

In presiding over the breakfast given the visiting bankers at Greenville, W. H. Woolard recalled that when he stopped there on his Southern tour Washington, in his diary, called Greenville "a dirty little town on the Tar River." The only resemblance between Washington's description and the clean and progressive town that delighted the bankers is that it is "on the Tar River." In Washington's day it was little more than a river landing and trading place whereas today it is a growing city, the second bright leaf tobacco market in the world, with strong banks and industries and business houses, the

ABOUT TOWN

"Greenville and Pitt county people who came in contact with Eddie Jones, president of North Carolina Bankers Association, during his recent visit here with the party of bankers touring North Carolina, found him to be one of the most entertaining representatives of his profession," Fred Forbes, cashier of the National Bank of Greenville, remarked to the writer of this column today.

"Eddie, as he is familiarly known among bankers and business men in all parts of the country, is one of those rare personalities that reflect cheer and good humor every time you come in contact with him. Whether you meet him in a business or social way, you will always find him agreeable and sympathetic, and when he says no the sound of his voice contains such a catholicity of sympathy that you almost feel like he is doing you a favor.

"It has been a long time since Greenville has had the opportunity of being host to such a splendid type of North Carolina's manhood, and everybody joins local bankers in wishing him God-speed in his great work in the financial realm of the nation."

"Greenville people were present in large numbers at the meeting held in the court house here yesterday to discuss the proposed deepening of Tar river to make it navigable for transportation," E. G. Flanagan, one of the most consistent exponents of water rates in this part of the state remarked today.

"We don't know yet just what weight our arguments had in convincing the government of the absolute necessity of opening up the river to navigation, but we hope something of a favorable nature has been accomplished.

"I do not know of anything more vitally essential to the rapid development of Pitt and adjoining counties served by this great trade territory than cheaper freight rates. Our merchants are forced to pay out enormous sums of money annually because of excessive freight rates. With water transportation, rates assuredly would be lowered and great possibilities would be opened up for future development in all branches of industry.

"We have been hammering away on this issue for the last several years, but never before has such determined fight been waged in its behalf. With facts now in hands of the government, it seems to me that some favorable action should be forthcoming in the next several months. It is to be hoped so at least.

C. N. Evans, of Cincinnati, Ohio of the Third National Bank of that city, and former president of the North Carolina Bankers Association was one of the nation's big bankers who passed through Greenville Wednesday on their tour of the Coastal Plain region of North Carolina. Mr. Evans is a former North Carolinian and according to his own way of expressing it, "is just as much at home here now as he ever was."

"I shall always feel like North Carolina is destined to be one of the great industrial and commercial sections of the country," he said while here, "because I know the kind of stock its men and women descended from. They have always been trial blazers in all big issues, and it is my earnest opinion, the same condition prevails today."

Mr. Evans apparently derived great enjoyment from his visit in and around Greenville. He came in contact with numbers of people in a social way, and always impressed them with his insight into the business affairs of the nation. It is seldom North Carolina has an opportunity of entertaining one of her sons who has gone away and won such distinction in his chosen field of service, and the return of Mr. Evans naturally has been received with genuine interest in the many sections which the bankers have visited in their tour of the state.

"The election of Herbert Waldrop cashier of the Greenville Banking & Trust Co., to the presidency of Group One of the North Carolina Bankers Association, is a well deserved honor," numbers of bankers of the district were heard to remark during the recent session of the organization held in this city.

"Mr. Waldrop is tireless in his endeavors to place banking on a safe and sound basis in this section of the state, and his administration is expected to be filled with many notable achievements.

"His plea for co-operation of the membership of Group One delivered upon his election to this high office was couched in earnest, sincere terms and no doubt will meet with ready response of her bankers who realize the time has come when their influence must count in improving credit conditions of the locality.

"Mr. Waldrop is the man for the office to which he has been elected and we predict success of a most brilliant nature."

COLBY SUES FOR DIVORCE

Paris, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Passages from his wife's novels were before Versailles court today as grounds for divorce in the suit of Mrs. Bauronage Colby, former American secretary of state.

Former President Alexander Millerand of France appearing in behalf of Mr. Colby said that Mrs. Colby published a novel, "Green Forest," showing a politician, who in every way resembled her husband, in an unfavorable light. Then shortly after this, M. Millerand stated, she published another book in which President Harding was attacked.

He advanced the "capricious" nature of the literary wife as grounds for divorce.

Pleading for his client's freedom, M. Millerand also read a number of letters from Mrs. Colby, who was Nathalie Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass. He asserted that the temperament of Mrs. Colby made life unbearable for his client.

Mrs. Colby did not appear at the proceedings nor was she represented. Judgment will probably be handed down in a week.

The plea for freedom on behalf of Mr. Colby served to revive rumors in New York that he intended to marry the former child prodigy Winifred Sackville Stoner, 2nd. These brought a denial from Miss Stoner's mother, who said:

"Please understand that my daughter and Mr. Colby are just good friends, who have known each other for years. They are not thinking of getting married."

Looking Backward

Hints Taken From The Reflector Of Twenty and Thirty Years Ago

February 24, 1928. A telegram received from New York by Col. F. G. James this morning brought the happy information that he was a grandfather, C. C. Skinner, Jr., having made his arrival in that city last night.

A new house is going up on the late R. M. Moye lot on West Dickinson Avenue.

When Greenville gets ready for them the street cars will have to take elevated tracks.

The lengthening days now bring the evening A. C. L. train in early enough to attract the large Sunday crowds at the depot.

JONES TELLS OF FLOGGING

One-Armed Country Storekeeper on stand in Flogging Case at Raleigh.

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A little gray-haired, one-armed country storekeeper today described to a jury in superior court here how a masked mob of 75 men wearing Ku Klux Klan robes, including, he said, a former president of the county medical society and a deputy sheriff, took him and his negro helper from their beds and flogged them 14 months ago.

Taking of testimony in the flogging of E. A. Jones, 52, and his negro helper, Sam Green, got under way with the former taking the stand in the fourth trial growing out of the assault on the night of December 13, 1923. Jones told in plain words his part in the whipping, how he was taken from his store bedroom, and a leather lash applied to him.

Jones testified he recognized 11 men when they removed their masks. He named Eddie and Paul Robertson; Clyde Weathers, a deputy sheriff; D. J. R. Healer, Benjie Weathers, Lothra Stell, Leland Rogers, Wiley O'Neal, Jr., Wolf Ramsey, John Hamrick and W. G. Belshe.

Rogers and Belshe have been acquitted. The state now pressed the indictment against Benjie Weathers.

State counsel drew from Jones a statement that he had served on the community school board at the time a sister of O'Neal was discharged. He swore "little Wiley

MARY LEWIS SCORES HERE

Metropolitan Prima Donna Captivated Audience at College Last Night.

Mary Lewis, the famous prima donna, captivated her audience, both the public and the college girls, with her beautiful, artistic singing, and her charming personality, in her concert at East Carolina Teachers College last evening. The occasion was a brilliant success, both artistically and socially, and seems prophetic of a new era for both the college and Greenville.

A splendid audience, cultured and appreciative, honored the artists by paying them the fitting tributes of intelligent listening and generous applause.

She proved herself an artist to the finger tips, through the varied types of songs on her program up to the brilliant aria, the "Waltz Song" from "Romeo and Juliet." Every one in the audience found something especially pleasing and appealing, and the favorites vary according to the taste of the individuals.

The musicians spoke especially of the beautiful quality of her pianissimo, the round, pure tones of her low notes. Her perfect enunciation—her diction—was a marvel to those who know the difficulties.

"She sang everything in character, just as it should be sung," was the verdict of one of the musical critics: "Mozart was Mozart, the 'Second Minute' was a minute."

Her dramatic acting showed her the opera star in all the selections that gave opportunity for such expression. Yet when she sang the lyrics, she was as simple and natural as a child, letting the song apparently express itself.

She was a little hoarse at first, from getting drenched the night before, but her hoarseness soon cleared up. By the time she reached the Arias, and the tongue tricks of "The House That Jack Built," her voice was limber and in fine shape.

"Graciousness" was the word most frequently used to characterize her manner. Her grace, her easy bodily movements, the splendid beauty of her tall, lithe body, were delightful to see. Some recognized the "Ziegfeld walk." Her trick of looking back over her shoulder at people as she walked off the stage was pleasing and her habit of turning her beautiful eyes directly upon the person to whom she spoke was flattering to the speaker.

Elmer Zoller was the ideal accompanist, and many in the audience, every time they applauded her, meant a share for him. He seemed to bring out the best, anticipate everything, and keep himself out of it. Yet on and off the stage he was watching for any and everything that would help contribute to the coherent and to her artistic best. She was generous with encores, giving back several times and giving "Dixie" as a finale.

She is tall and beautiful, but by no means of the flapper type. She wore a flame-colored dress, and had a flame handkerchief, which she used dramatically in one of her numbers. She is an ash blond, with her own hair, not bobbed, and has beautiful blue eyes.

The college girls presented her with a basket of flowers and the entertainment committee had a basket of jonquils on the table in the dressing room. She gathered them all together and took the basket with her, putting them in the taxi to turn over to the porter to take to New York to show flowers from the south to her home people. She has a noon engagement in New York today, which she will fill. They arrived in Wilson late the night before in the heavy rain storm, but finally got settled and decided it was best for her to rest in Wilson through the day instead of coming over.

She sang at Miami on Sunday evening, in Augusta, Tuesday, and will sing in Danbury, Conn., Saturday, returning to New York for "Panna" at the Metropolitan Opera House next week. She has been going at this rate ever since September, three concerts to the week and back into New York from time to time for grand opera engagements.

She asked about the time, and called for her watch, and jokingly displayed a dollar watch, about which she told the story. She said she sent out for some time piece and the messenger returned with the one she had. She said, "It keeps perfectly good time, only five minutes off now."

She seemed to enjoy the college girls and admirers gathered around her, and said "I wish I had two hours with nothing to do but sign their programs."

A beautiful, new grand piano, Mason and Hamlin, furnished by Dornell and Thomas Piano Company from Raleigh, was a delight to both the artist and her audience.

that the prize ring has seen in 100 years.

Mr. Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney will tell you frankly: "I'm quite willing to let some one else take care of that Uzcudun person."

It seems he hits very hard, and when you hit him, he does not notice it.

Frank Lockhart, whom Barney Oldfield calls "the greatest automobile driver in history" drove his car 300 miles an hour on a Florida beach yesterday, lost control, shot out into the ocean and may die.

Such speed in automobiles is valueless because it cannot be used. Trying for it is as unwise as some "stunts" that fliers do, emphasizing the danger of flying, instead of emphasizing its safety, as they should.

It is to be hoped that Colonel Lindbergh, the most important young man to his country, will realize the danger and folly of unnecessary risk.

A serious accident to Lindbergh would set flying back ten years in America. That is not what he wants.

Many will be interested to learn from Mr. Ochs that Lindbergh paid all his expenses on his trip through Mexico and the central American republics. His flying on United States territory was financed by the Guggenheim flying foundation. He financed his own trip south of the Rio Grande.

Washington's birthday brings more arguing about George Washington's "morals," what he drank, whether he manufactured his own beer, whiskey, etc.

Washington's job was to beat the British and establish the nation's country good advice. The rest is as unimportant as Lord Nelson's love affair with Lady Hamilton. Nelson wrote his story at Trafalgar. Rooting around in semi-historical mud will not change that.

1928 Is Lucky Year

For the man who "has his own ideas" about dress. Seldom has fashion allowed him so wide a range of models from which to choose. He may have a long or a short lapel. His coat may have two buttons or three. It may have a well defined wastline or practically no waist at all. Not only does he have his choice between a double and a single breasted coat, but the double breasted waistcoat is finding favor among the younger men.

Nor when it comes to fabrics and colors, has he any occasion to complain of lack of variety.

If you are interested in "what's what" in men's fashions our new showings for spring will prove a liberal education.
