NOBILE POLAR FLIGHT DRAWS CRITICS' FIRE

Attempt of Relief Workers to Rescue Two Missing Expeditions Criticized.

London, July 2.—(AP)—With two airplane rescue expeditions missing, criticism of General Nobile's fatal polar flight and the conduct of relief operations was being voiced today.

Two weeks ago Róald Amundsen and five other men started out in a French seaplane to join in the rescue work and disappeared. On Friday the Russian airman Babushkin hopped off from the Soviet seaplane Kalgin in the polar sea and was swallowed up by the arctic.

A Moscow dispatch to the Daily Express today quoted Sergi Kameneff, inspector general of the Red Army, as charging that Nobile's base ship, the Citta di Milano, had failed to cooperate in the rescue work. He said the base ship had neglected to inform the Maligin that the position of the five castaways of the Italia and the Swedish airman Lieutenant Lundborg had been changed by the drift of the ice in time to warn Babushkin before he started on his flight to them.

Kameneff, who is one of the leaders of the Soviet relief committee, made a statement to the Moscow newspaper Ivestia in which he condemned "the shameful lack of co-operation" of the various expeditions. He contended that Amundsen ought to have been put in charge of a centralized relief organization. He believed that rescue could be accomplished by cooperation between Soviet ice breakers and Swedish airplanes.

The Berlin newspaper Montag Morgen today printed a dispatch from its Copenhagen correspondent in which he said that a large number of arctic explorers arriving at Tromsø from the meeting of explorers at Leaning were reported to have denounced the Nobile expedition.

Peter Frøchen, a Danish explorer was quoted as saying, "It was not a case of tragedy only, but Nobile's expedition was the darkest blot in the annals of Arctic exploration. It was a meeting both technical and moral defeat and discrediting entirely Arctic exploration by means of airships."

Experts in northern Norway believed that the French seaplane was probably forced down in storm conditions and collapsed upon hitting the waves.

Amundsen's friends remarked that such a finish would have been in accord with the veteran explorer's own wish.

Search by air and sea was continued today for Amundsen and new expeditions got under way. A special expedition, financed by popular subscription, left Alesund, Norway aboard the arctic vessel Velekari to join in the Amundsen search. Those familiar with arctic conditions suggested that a large fleet of whaling boats would be used to sweep wide areas in a desperate effort to find Amundsen.

Rome, July 2.—(AP)—It never said today that General Nobile intended to fly to the rescue of his comrades marooned on the ice north of Spitzbergen but a recurrence of fever prevented him. It appeared that injuries to his leg and back were not healing as quickly as had been expected. He was still suffering from the effects of his long stay on the ice without medical attention.

The paper said commander Romagna of the base ship Citta di Milano and the Swedish and Finnish authorities had agreed that three seaplanes, two Italian and one Swedish would fly together on a search expedition as soon as the weather cleared. They would keep in sight of one another so that in case one was forced down the other would be able to aid him.

Plan to Protect U. S. Ambassador From Train Wreck

Mexico City, July 2.—(AP)—Extraordinary precautions are being taken to guard American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's train when he returns to Mexico City from the United States tomorrow since train wreckers have been active along the railroad running to the border.

A Quezotaro dispatch to El Universal said nine men were executed when found along the right of way with dynamite.

A train running from Laredo to Mexico City was derailed last week and the engineer and fireman killed. Two attempts to wreck trains in the Quezotaro region and three attempts elsewhere have been frustrated in the last ten days.

When the nine men were found with the dynamite their summary execution was ordered by the commanding military officer of the district. They were at once marched out on a country road and shot by a firing squad.

Several Die in Fighting Thru Mexico

Mexico City, July 2.—(AP)—Dispatches from Queretaro to Eyselator today said that 26 insurgents, one army officer and two soldiers were killed in a five hour battle at La Orizaba, a few miles from the capital of the state of Queretaro. Seven soldiers were wounded.

A small detachment of soldiers forming the garrison of La Orizaba was attacked by more than 200 insurgents. Federal troops led personally by General Antonio Guerrero, military commandant, rushed to their aid.

Mexico City, July 2.—(AP)—Press dispatches today indicated only one election disturbance with two fatalities had occurred during Sunday's voting when General Alvaro Obregon was chosen President.

Supporters of two candidates for federal Congress clashed at Panuco, state of Vera Cruz. Guns, knives, sticks and stones were used in the fray and two persons were killed and ten wounded.

General Obregon's headquarters in Mexico City telegraphed him congratulations to his home at Cajeme, state of Sonora.

His election will be announced officially in September when the new Congress convenes.

Returns at midnight indicated that the majority of senators and deputies elected belong to groups supporting Obregon, thus assuring his control of the new Congress.

PLAYWRIGHT IS DROWNED

A Very Hopwood, American Writer, Drowned While in Swimming in France

Nice, France, July 2.—(AP)—Avery Hopwood, American playwright, was drowned tonight in the beach watched last night at Juan-Les-Pins on the French Riviera.

Graduating from the University of Michigan in 1905, Avery Hopwood went to New York as special correspondent for the Cleveland leader and almost immediately sold his first play "Clothes" written in collaboration with Channing Pollock and produced in 1906. He was 24 years old at the time, having been born in Cleveland in 1882.

From that time forward he was one of the most prolific playwrights, although in the last two or three seasons he had been an infrequent contributor to the Broadway stage. Many of his farces were adapted from the French.

His best known plays were "Fair and Warner," "The Gold Diggers" and "The Bat," written in collaboration with Mary Roberts Rinehart. "The Bat" was one of the biggest money makers ever staged.

Hubert Work Confers with Mr. Coolidge

Head of Interior Department at Superior For Political Conference.

Superior, Wis., July 2.—(AP)—Secretary Work of the interior department arrived in Superior today for a brief consultation with President Coolidge.

"I have my resignation from the cabinet in my pocket," said Secretary Work, who recently was named chairman of the national Republican committee. He intimated that this would be delivered to Mr. Coolidge today as he might leave again this evening to return to Washington.

Dr. Work was met at the station by Everett Sanders, secretary to the President and by James W. Good, Secretary Hoover's pre-convention manager, who had been slated to become western manager of the Republican campaign. Chairman Work said he still hoped to include Good to accept the post and to overlook the burden which this would place upon him.

Secretary Work said he preferred not to talk before seeing Mr. Coolidge, and quickly drove to Cedar Island Lodge.

Chairman Work arrived here in company of J. H. Carroll, chief counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, whose car was placed at his disposal for the trip.

Superior, Wis., July 2.—(AP)—Expecting the resignation of Secretary Work of the interior department during the course of his stay at the summer White House, President Coolidge had made all arrangements today to entertain the chairman of the national Republican committee on a one-way stay at Cedar Island Lodge.

Mr. Coolidge had planned not to come to his office today and instructions had been given for his guest to be taken to the executive residence immediately upon reaching here.

Secretary Work by coming to Superior, was given an opportunity to discuss with Mr. Coolidge the political situation and the campaign plans of the Republican party, and to sound out the chief executive as to the extent, if any, to which he would be willing to participate in the pre-election activities of his party.

Mr. Work, in addition, had the chance to consult with James M. Good, pre-convention manager of Secretary Hoover, who came last night to Superior from his summer home not far from here for such a conference. The cabinet officer, while passing through Chicago yesterday intimated that Good might not be able to assume the duties of western manager of the Hoover campaign. Good himself in Superior confirmed this report saying that he had been trying to get out of accepting the responsibilities of such a post as they constituted too heavy a burden upon him.

President Coolidge so far has given no consideration to possible activities on his party in the coming campaign.

Dr. Work, it is understood, also had several departmental matters for the consideration of Mr. Coolidge.

A decision as to Dr. Work's successor was expected to be reached by the chief executive soon. In the meantime, however, Mr. Coolidge was represented as awaiting for the cabinet post to be actually vacant before making up his mind as to how to fill it.

Injection of politics into the tranquil atmosphere of Cedar Island lodge followed closely upon the complete reunion of the Coolidge household. John Coolidge arrived yesterday from Northampton after graduating from Amherst College and after a short visit at the home of Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut.

John Coolidge's first appearance in public here was made immediately after his arrival at the lodge when he was taken by his father and mother to church at Brule.

OBREGON MAY HOLD CONFAB IN AMERICA

Mexico City, July 2.—(AP)—A conference between General Alvaro Obregon, President-elect, and the President-elect of the United States was regarded as possible today. General Obregon, who was unopposed in the election yesterday, will be inaugurated for a six year term on December 1.

Obregon's administration, it is believed, will prolong the present era of good will between the two countries. Observers think that the relations with United States Ambassador Morrow will be as friendly as those existing between Mr. Morrow and President Calles.

No disturbances were reported in Mexico City during the election and few were reported from the interior of the country. The vote, as yet unannounced, was light.

Saloons which were closed on Thursday night until after the election, reopened this morning.

STILL SEARCH FOR AMUNDSEN IN NORTHLAND

London, July 2.—(AP)—With the elapse of a fortnight since Captain Roald Amundsen flew from Norway into the arctic wastes to aid in the search for the lost men of the dirigible Italia, fear is naturally felt that they are face to face with death by starvation if they survived after their plane came down.

Notwithstanding that powerful British seaplanes are being fitted to take part in the search and will be sent to the north at the earliest possible moment.

FRANCE MOURNS DEATH 48 MINERS

Stetienne, France, July 2.—(AP)—The mining district here was in mourning today for 48 coal miners killed in one of the worst mining disasters France has known. Andre Tardieu, minister of public works, supervised the rescue work.

The disaster occurred when pipes broke out in a gallery carrying gas that supplied compressed air to portions of the workings that had direct ventilation. The pipes burst. Forty-one of the miners were asphyxiated. Seven were crushed to death when the flames ate away the roof supports.

SMITH TALKS CAMPAIGN IN N. Y. TODAY

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith was in New York today for some informal conferences at which he will thrash out the details of his campaign for the presidency with a few close friends.

The first meeting of the National Democratic Committee is not until July 11 but it is generally believed that before that time the governor will have decided exactly what course he will follow and will merely inform the committee of his decisions.

Those close to the governor say that he intends to decide all important matters relative to the campaign himself, and that the National Committee will follow his directions rather than act in an advisory capacity.

The governor came here last night, boarding at Albany the special train on which several members of his family were returning from Houston with delegates. An enthusiastic crowd cheered his arrival at Grand Central Terminal. He went immediately to his suite in the Biltmore.

This morning he had appointments at his headquarters with persons whose political acumen he respects, but their identity nor the nature of the discussions he intended to have with them was not made public.

He has already decided to limit his two months' campaign to about fifteen speeches in various parts of the country. They will all be broadcast, and there will be no back platform talks to station crowds as the campaign train moves from one chosen city to another.

There will probably be one speech in this city, one in New Jersey, three in New England, one each in Detroit, St. Louis and Denver, and the rest in the border states with one possible appearance in a west coast city.

The 15 speeches will all be different, but they will be alike in that they will deal with really understandable problems stated so that they are understandable and appealing to the multitude.

Thousands of telegrams and letters have come to the governor since the nomination, hundreds of which call him "Al" and address him in terms of familiarity.

"Most of these people have never seen the governor," one man close to the nominee said today, "but they've heard about him and something in his personality has caught their imagination. He has got himself across to them somehow so that they feel friendly and seem to actually think they know him personally. There's a big vote of that kind going to Smith."

The governor's first speech since his nomination will be at the Tammany society's annual Fourth of July celebration.

Advertisements in New York newspapers announce that "patriotic speeches" will be delivered by the governor and Senators Cappel and Wagner. "All citizens of the United States and lovers of Americanism are cordially invited," the advertisement says. The speeches are to be broadcast.

The Ku Klux Klan has invited the governor to address a gathering of 25,000 members in Queens on the evening of Independence Day. A telegram guaranteed the governor and friends "absolute safety" and gave as the reason for the invitation "the sincere desire of the leaders and members of the Ku Klux Klan to know you more intimately, to see you personally and to hear your presentation of the great issues of the presidential campaign."

Smith circles were much interested today in the appeal of Joseph Daniels, to southern Democrats to support Governor Smith, but to "stand in Congress like a stone wall against any recommendation that Smith as President would make to modify the prohibition enforcement act."

KILLS HUSBAND AND CHILD AND THEN SUICIDES

Greensboro, July 2.—(AP)—Leaving notes of instruction as to disposition of the bodies, Mrs. Zaida Hilliard, 22 today shot and killed her husband, Raymond Hilliard, 20, and her daughter, Vivian Walker, 7, as they lay asleep in their boarding house room in the Revolution mill village here. She then shot and killed herself.

The bodies of the three were found by Pauline Joyce, daughter of Mrs. Jettie Joyce, boarding house keeper, when she went to call the Hilliard's for breakfast.

The bodies of Hilliard and the little girl, child of the woman by a previous marriage, were lying on the bed. That of Mrs. Hilliard was lying on the floor. A pistol with three discharged shells was lying near the woman's hand.

Three notes were found on a table, all signed by Mrs. Hilliard. One addressed to Mrs. Joyce, instructed her what to do with the bodies. A second was addressed to a Mr. Walker, of Draper, the woman's first husband from whom she was divorced. The third not addressed to anyone, was written as poetry.

None of the notes gave any reason for the shooting.

STILL SEARCH FOR AMUNDSEN IN NORTHLAND

London, July 2.—(AP)—With the elapse of a fortnight since Captain Roald Amundsen flew from Norway into the arctic wastes to aid in the search for the lost men of the dirigible Italia, fear is naturally felt that they are face to face with death by starvation if they survived after their plane came down.

Notwithstanding that powerful British seaplanes are being fitted to take part in the search and will be sent to the north at the earliest possible moment.

FRANCE MOURNS DEATH 48 MINERS

Stetienne, France, July 2.—(AP)—The mining district here was in mourning today for 48 coal miners killed in one of the worst mining disasters France has known. Andre Tardieu, minister of public works, supervised the rescue work.

The disaster occurred when pipes broke out in a gallery carrying gas that supplied compressed air to portions of the workings that had direct ventilation. The pipes burst. Forty-one of the miners were asphyxiated. Seven were crushed to death when the flames ate away the roof supports.

SMITH TALKS CAMPAIGN IN N. Y. TODAY

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith was in New York today for some informal conferences at which he will thrash out the details of his campaign for the presidency with a few close friends.

The first meeting of the National Democratic Committee is not until July 11 but it is generally believed that before that time the governor will have decided exactly what course he will follow and will merely inform the committee of his decisions.

Those close to the governor say that he intends to decide all important matters relative to the campaign himself, and that the National Committee will follow his directions rather than act in an advisory capacity.

The governor came here last night, boarding at Albany the special train on which several members of his family were returning from Houston with delegates. An enthusiastic crowd cheered his arrival at Grand Central Terminal. He went immediately to his suite in the Biltmore.

This morning he had appointments at his headquarters with persons whose political acumen he respects, but their identity nor the nature of the discussions he intended to have with them was not made public.

He has already decided to limit his two months' campaign to about fifteen speeches in various parts of the country. They will all be broadcast, and there will be no back platform talks to station crowds as the campaign train moves from one chosen city to another.

There will probably be one speech in this city, one in New Jersey, three in New England, one each in Detroit, St. Louis and Denver, and the rest in the border states with one possible appearance in a west coast city.

The 15 speeches will all be different, but they will be alike in that they will deal with really understandable problems stated so that they are understandable and appealing to the multitude.

Thousands of telegrams and letters have come to the governor since the nomination, hundreds of which call him "Al" and address him in terms of familiarity.

"Most of these people have never seen the governor," one man close to the nominee said today, "but they've heard about him and something in his personality has caught their imagination. He has got himself across to them somehow so that they feel friendly and seem to actually think they know him personally. There's a big vote of that kind going to Smith."

The governor's first speech since his nomination will be at the Tammany society's annual Fourth of July celebration.

Advertisements in New York newspapers announce that "patriotic speeches" will be delivered by the governor and Senators Cappel and Wagner. "All citizens of the United States and lovers of Americanism are cordially invited," the advertisement says. The speeches are to be broadcast.

The Ku Klux Klan has invited the governor to address a gathering of 25,000 members in Queens on the evening of Independence Day. A telegram guaranteed the governor and friends "absolute safety" and gave as the reason for the invitation "the sincere desire of the leaders and members of the Ku Klux Klan to know you more intimately, to see you personally and to hear your presentation of the great issues of the presidential campaign."

Smith circles were much interested today in the appeal of Joseph Daniels, to southern Democrats to support Governor Smith, but to "stand in Congress like a stone wall against any recommendation that Smith as President would make to modify the prohibition enforcement act."

KINSTON WINS FINAL GAME FROM LOCALS

By taking both games of the week-end series from Greenville, Kinston evacuated the cellar in honor of Deacon Joliff's Tobacco. The score of the final game was 4 to 3. Doing mound duty for a total of thirteen safeties. All four of the visitors' runs came in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Greenville scored one run in the second and two in the fourth. After that time Elmore, the visiting hurler, had things going his way although he yielded a total of ten well scattered hits.

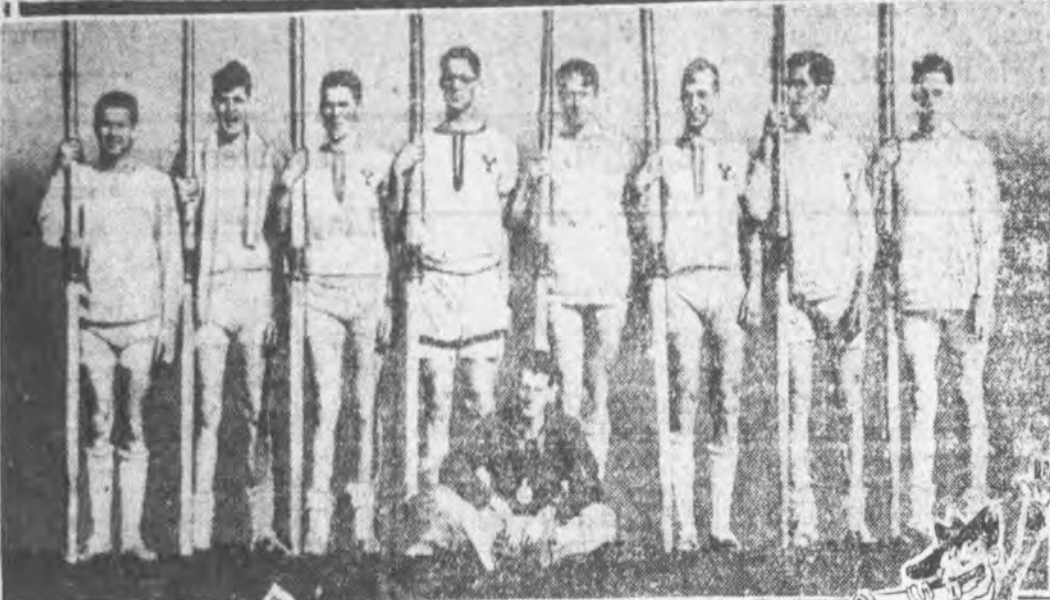

Only one member of the Tobaccoist outfit failed to connect safely during the fray. Finlator and Joliff took batting honors of the day by two hits out of four trips to the rubber. Parks led the visitors with three out of four times on.

The Tobaccoists left today for Wilmington, for a two-game series. They will return to the home lot with Rocky Mount Wednesday.

CALIFORNIA, YALE ARE FAVORITES IN OLYMPIC EIGHT-OARED TRYOUTS

Because California (lower) won a Poughkeepsie and because Yale (upper) decisively defeated Harvard, they are the choices of many in the Olympic rowing trials at Philadelphia, July 5-7. The rest of the field, consisting of Princeton, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Penn A. C. and the Detroit Wyandottes, the last two club entries, have a good chance of producing a winner. The two favorites proved their superiority over the four-mile course, but it may be a different story over Olympic distance of one and one-quarter miles.

New York —(AP)—The Golden Bear of California and the Bull Dog of Yale are picked to fight it out in the final to represent the United States in the Olympic eight-oared races.

But any of five other crews with much less pretentious records may sweep to the fore a winner. California and Yale have been judged highly on the basis of their showings over the four-mile course, although the Elis showed good sprinting ability earlier. The Olympic distance is 2,000 meters, or scarcely one and one-quarter miles.

The tryouts will be held on the narrow Schuylkill course at Philadelphia, July 5-7. Heats will be necessary because the course is inadequate for more than two crews at a time.

Eight crews, six of which will wear college colors, are entered. California, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Harvard and Pennsylvania will be rowing for the dear old school. The other two are from the Penn A. C. of Philadelphia and the Wyandotte club of Detroit. The Wyandottes are national senior champions.

Three of the crews are the equal of any college eights developed in modern American rowing history. California, Yale and Columbia comprise the trio. California and Columbia, first and second, respectively, at Poughkeepsie, both broke the course record, while Yale swamped a heavier and a favored Harvard crew winning hands down. Ten eights was the margin of victory.

So the rowing authorities anticipate a worthy American representative regardless of the outcome, and predict a repetition of Yale's victory for America in the 1924 Olympics. They know the calibre of California, Columbia and Yale and reason that any eight that can beat them will be eminently qualified to row for Uncle Sam at Amsterdam.

The tone of skepticism concerning the ability of California and Columbia to show well over the short distance is tempered somewhat by the fact that these stalwart sweepers raced the length of the four mile Poughkeepsie course at a virtual sprint.

Paced for two miles by a desperate Cornell crew, California and Columbia rowed nearly their best the first half of the gripping race. Then tradition demanded a spurt at the three-mile mark, a spurt which carried both across the finish line in unprecedented time.

Likewise Yale set a hot pace from the outset of its contest with Harvard. The Elis eight snubbed up to a fast beat at the gun a pace that never slackened. The Bull Dog rowed so rapidly that Harvard was extremely slow by comparison, prodding reports that the Harvard shell was everything but water-tight. Coach Ed Brown met these rumors with the retort that he would use the same shell at Philadelphia. However he did sink up his crew.

Princeton, Harvard and Pennsylvania, inspired by the likelihood of an upset, will be rowing with nothing to lose and everything to gain. The Tigers have a veteran eight but got a slow start this year. Penn doggedly determined to redeem itself after finishing last at Poughkeepsie, will be concluding its first year under Coach Rusty Callow, whose old Washington crews brought to the east perennial reminders of the Huskies' rowing supremacy.

The club crews boast oarsmen more experienced than those in the college shells, but have had neither the competition nor high-pressure development that has brought the undergraduate eights up to top notch.

Both club crews will be representative of the type of sweepmen in the national amateur rowing circles which in years past produced some excellent eights. Philadelphia, especially always, has been foremost in American rowing, having several clubs devoted exclusively to the sport. Numerous national and international honors are held by Quaker City oarsmen. Detroit too has shown its class in the past, particularly in the N. A. A. A.

Interested in the Olympic trials by no means will be confined to the eights, for many entries have been made in the four-oared races, the doubles and singles. In the latter class is entered Walter Hoover, Undine Barge club, Philadelphia, former holder of the Diamond Scull, emblematic of the world's singles rowing championship.

Spartanburg and Knoxville Show Signs of Life

By the Associated Press.

Going into another week of play in the South Atlantic Association Asheville is faced with the problem of maintaining its rather slim lead over Macon—a team that has tasted the sweets of first place only to be forced back into the compromising contentment of second position.

Appearances of a walkway for the Preaches and Tourists have been wiped out, Knoxville and Spartanburg coming to life and exhibiting a brand of baseball which has carried them to within reaching distance of the leaders.

Ray Kennedy's mark of 400 is outstanding among individual batting averages for the circuit and the Asheville manager seems to have set a good example for his ball tossers, their team average reading 311, two points ahead of Knoxville.

Augusta and Columbia round out the quartet of 300 hitting teams in the league, their figures carrying them two points over the entrance requirement of the charmed circle.

Charlotte takes off first honors in the fielding department, Hornet errors totaling 86 in something like 2,500 chances for 996.

Title Walker, slugging outfielder of the Greenville Spinners, has lifted 27 balls into four base territory as a sort of spicer to his 383 per centage with the willow.

As for pitching, latest statistics show the following leaders:

YANKS STILL STEPPING OUT IN AMERICAN

(By the Associated Press)

While the Yankees lead their closest rivals in the American League by 13 1-2 games and the Cardinals are ahead in the National by three and a half, most of the other clubs are battling desperately for positions as close to the leaders as can be secured. The standings, for second place down, show one or more shifts almost daily.

In the American League, only twelve and a half games separate Detroit in last place from Philadelphia in second. In the National the Giants, in runner-up position, lead the Pittsburgh Pirates in sixth by eight and a half games. Boston and Philadelphia apparently doomed to the last two notches in the standing, are staging a private duel to escape the cellar with the Braves two games in front.

The Yankees yesterday trounced the Athletics for both ends of a double header, 12 to 6 and 8 to 4. Lou Gehrig hit two home runs in the first game, his 17th and 13th of the season.

The St. Louis Browns lost to Detroit 7 to 4. A five run rally in the eighth won the game.

George Burns' homer with two on in the sixth gave Cleveland the verdict over the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2.

Boston moved to within a single game of the fourth place Indians by taking Washington into camp twice 2 to 1 and 7 to 1.

The National League program saw the Cardinals end all runners after a double header with Pittsburgh. Fred Fussell blanked the Cards in the first game, 2 to 3. The Cards made four errors and were out-hit 17 to 11 in the second but pulled it out of the fire 8 to 8. Eppa Rixey pitched the Cincinnati Reds back into third place with a 4 to 1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Brooklyn dropped into fourth position two points ahead of the Cubs when the Braves won 8 to 7.

DEFENDS SOUTHERN TENNIS TITLE

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, July 2.—(AP)—The campaign of Olympic preparation that has been on all spring with considerable enthusiasm and vigor reaches the big climax this week at Philadelphia and Boston.

The prospects are for the most exciting battles ever waged for places on the American team, particularly among the eight oared college crews at Philadelphia, Friday and Saturday, as well as the track and field forces at Boston the same two days.

Two unbeaten crews, Yale and California, victors in the big college classics at New London and Poughkeepsie, will be foremost among the contenders on the Schuylkill, along with the Columbia eight that chased California all the way down the Hudson and also has the stuff to jump to the front this week. With the champion Wyandottes of Michigan also among the contenders, it ought to be a spectacular naval affair.

Two of the greatest, young the far west or southwest has turned out in some time, Frank Wykoff, of California, and Claude Bracey, of Texas, will be in the spotlight at Harvard stadium. These two have come along like twin streaks of lightning where such favorites as Borah, Scholz, Paddock and others have dropped a little behind the big parade.

At Philadelphia, where special trials will be held for the few events not on the program at Boston, the 400 metre run will bring Barbuti Spencer, together again, as well as Taylor, Cuhel and Gibson in the 400 metre hurdles, Jim Stewart and Pat Elkins in the Decathlon.

The broad jump will bring together Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech's sensational performer, in competi-

Polish Wrestler Weds an Actress

Zbyszko has been one of the leading heavyweight wrestlers of the world in 1922 when Stanislaus announced he was ready to retire he attempted to pass the title on to his younger brother. Dr. Cook's Library Given City Library

The library of Dr. J. E. W. Cook, after his death in Greenville, N. C., in 1927, was presented to his family to the Greenville Public Library. Dr. Cook's library consists of five hundred and twenty-one volumes and is the largest donation of books made by any individual to our local library.

The members of Dr. Cook's family, in making this donation, were prompted by the desire that this aggregate of books might serve and furnish information to the largest possible number.

Dr. Cook's library contains fourteen volumes of reference encyclopedia, seventeen volumes on philosophical subjects, two hundred and ninety-three volumes of religious literature, including Bible dictionaries and expositors dictionary of texts, evangelists cyclopedia, and many books on the Life of Christ, sermons and church histories forty-seven volumes on sociological subjects, four volumes philology, six volumes science, two volumes useful arts, fourteen volumes fine arts, thirty-eight volumes literature, sixty-two volumes history, travel and biography, and twenty-four volumes of fiction.

Greenville and its entire community are deeply grateful to each member of his family, for no man was held in higher esteem or more deeply loved than Dr. Cook, former rector of St. Paul's Parish, Greenville, North Carolina.

The classification of his library shows the wide range of Dr. Cook's mind and the many and varied fields of inquiry which gave back their compensations to the mind of the cultured man.

Change In Library Hours.

The hours for the Greenville public library for the summer will be from nine to twelve in the morning and from four to seven in the afternoon.

Hold Memorial Service For Dr. J. E. W. Cook

Memorial services for the late Dr. J. E. W. Cook, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, were conducted at 11 o'clock by the Right Rev. Thomas G. Darst, bishop of the diocese of Eastern North Carolina.

During the services members of the family of Dr. Cook presented the church with a set of candles.

abras, or altar lights, which were dedicated to the service of the church.

Holy Communion was celebrated.

Bishop Darst spoke in glowing terms of the life of service of the deceased rector. He said he had done much for the advancement of humanity, and that his labors would not soon be forgotten by the communities where he worked so unselfishly and lovingly.

He declared it was fitting the lights should have been dedicated at this service, because they reminded one of the life of Dr. Cook. His deeds were as beacon lights to the weary traveler along life's broad highway, and while other things may perish from the earth, they will live forever in the memory of those who had benefited.

The services were very inspiring and were attended by a large congregation.

Police Seek Assailant Of Durham Girl

Durham, July 2.—(AP)—Police, supplemented by posses numbering several hundred persons continued their search today for the negro who attempted to attack a 16 year old white girl Saturday night.

While struggling with the girl the negro left finger prints which were photographed. Several additional clues uncovered by detectives during investigations may lead to an arrest, police said.

Searching parties yesterday surrounded the Forest Hill section in which they thought the negro was hiding. They combed the dense undergrowth but could not find him. Two persons reported coming upon the negro but said he jerked from their grasp.

Saturday night the negro gained entrance to the house after he had asked his way to Chapel Hill and found that there was only one man at the house. A young man who was calling upon the girl left soon after the negro departed. Shortly afterward the negro reappeared and knocked at the door. When the girl opened the door he forced his way in and threw her to the floor. She screamed and her mother ran to her assistance, calling to a second daughter to bring a gun. The negro then fled.

ABOUT TOWN

It's not such a long drop from fourth place to the cellar of the Eastern Carolina as Greenville and Kinston can easily attest," said a baseball fan who has seen both clubs in action several times during the present season.

"Trade in Greenville, the shopping center of Eastern Carolina," is the advice of men and women who have had an opportunity of seeing exactly what local merchants have to offer the discriminating buyers every season of the year.

"The family of the late Dr. J. E. W. Cook, former pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church of Greenville, has presented his library to Greenville public library," observed a reader of this column today.

"I see the Reflector is going to observe the Glorious Fourth of July by suspending operation for the day," mentioned a reader of the column this morning.

LAST DEMONSTRATION FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Final demonstration of the vote that gave the Democratic nomination to Alfred E. Smith on the first ballot at the Democratic national convention at Houston, Tex., July 1, 1928. It was the climax for which most of the delegates had been waiting and when they enthusiastically fell into another group and demonstration which was followed with individual cheers over standards and banners.

It may have been some money, or it may have been the sun, but the picture did not catch the eye of New York with his cousin's smiling smile, as he left for the convention to attend the Democratic national convention.

LEAPS TO SMITH'S SUPPORT

Opposing Governor Smith to the first ballot, Governor James A. Reed rose from center to victory by a narrow margin for the party and party in which he pledged his support to the Democratic nominee and party. Reed's oratory fired the convention as one of the best in the history of the party had been in years that have passed. He came to the platform immediately after Smith's nomination.

SMITH KEEPS TALLY SHEET AS DEMOCRATS NAME HIM

Alfred E. Smith sat in the executive mansion at Albany and heard himself nominated for president by the democrats. Tabulating the vote as it was reported by radio, the governor looked up when Ohio switched its vote to him and exclaimed: "Ah, now it has come." With the nominee are Frank J. Warner and Mrs. Warner, the governor's daughter—and, of course, the governor's pet dog, Betty.

THE DONKEY SMILES—AND VICTORY

As soon as it was evident that Gov. Alfred E. Smith had been nominated for the presidency, friends of the candidate's wife passed a miniature donkey up to her box in convention hall. It was received and embraced by Arthur Smith, a son, who was with his mother during the sessions.

SENATOR PITTMAN OFFERING DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Senator Ray Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the committee on the platform, offered the form which the Democrats in this year's convention adopted with their platform. Senator Pittman's speech on the platform and the declaration as drafted was accepted by the convention and the platform was adopted as a permanent record.

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—With reports current that Russian purchases of wheat in Europe totaled as much as 6,000,000 bushels, wheat prices went sharply higher today. Towards the last, however, a reaction ensued. Wheat futures today on Chicago July contracts amounted to 4,999,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unsettled at 1-4 to 3-4 net advance; corn at 1-2 off to 1-2 up; oats varying from 3-8 decline to 3-4 gain; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 to 17.

STOCK MARKET.
New York, July 2.—(AP)—Stock prices reactionary today on selling presumably inspired by the return of 8 per cent call money. Loans renewed at 7 1-2 per cent but the rate was advanced to 8 when banks called $30,000,000 to strengthen their reserve position and prepare for the heavy holiday demands for currency. Time money rates also advanced, being quoted as high as 6 per cent.

Some bear selling also came into the market of the theory that the rapidity of the recent advance had weakened the technical position of the market, and that there was a dearth of fresh buying power at the recent high levels. Floor traders also were inclined to take profits over the holiday.

Motors and high priced specialties bore the brunt of the selling pressure, although there were strong spots in each group. Case Thrashing and Radios crashed about 10 points and General Motors, General Electric, International Harvester, Rossa Insurance, Texas and Pacific and Houston Oil were carried down 3 3-4 to 4 3-4 points by early afternoon. American International, Mack Trucks, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and U. S. Rubber first preferred also showed substantial recessions.

On the other hand, Brooklyn Edison jumped 9 points, Collins & Aikman 4 1-2 and Dodge Bros. preferred and General Railway Signal 3 1-2 and 3 points, respectively.

The closing list of total sales approximated 1,600,000 shares.

CHICAGO RAISE $100,000 FOR PROBE OF CRIME

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—An indication that Chicago citizens are willing to dig into their pockets to help rid the city of crime is found in the public subscription of approximately $100,000 to pay the expenses of a special grand jury investigation into alleged political-criminal alliances.

An appeal was made for subscriptions after the county board had failed to appropriate money to carry on the inquiry. The total needed—$150,000—is expected to have been fully subscribed before the end of the week, those in charge of solicitation said.

An explosion in the home laboratory of Philip Rosenblatt, 17, wrecked the apartment. Philip's skull was fractured, Robert Withers, inspector of the bureau of combustibles of the fire department, was burned severely by another explosion when he was investigating the first.

Four other persons received minor injuries.

A month ago Philip graduated from an evening trade school. He is a cripple. Barred from the play of his fellows he became something of an expert in chemistry.

"Wait until you see the fireworks I'm making for the fourth," he boasted to a friend.

A policeman heard an explosion yesterday and dashed up the stairs to the Rosenblatt flat. In the small front room the boy was prone from injuries. Philip's 16-year-old sister had been blown from her bed and was bruised. If the adjoining flat a baby was thrown from bed and severely bruised. Windows were shattered.

Five hours later as Inspector Withers was wrapping torpedoes which Philip had made one of them exploded and set off several others. Withers' hands were mangled. Louis Rosenblatt, Philip's 11-year-old brother, was severely burned by the second blast and a patrolman was struck in the eye by a piece of flying debris.

Bremen Flyers Reach London

London, July 2.—(AP)—Fresh from a long round of welcoming ceremonies in Germany, the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron Von Heuenfeld and Major James Fitzmaurice, arrived in London today in the German plane Europe, sister ship of the trans-Atlantic machine.

The fliers landed at Croyden at 2 o'clock this afternoon and were given an enthusiastic greeting by a crowd of spectators, representatives of the air ministry and the Royal Aero Club. They were immediately driven to the Savoy Hotel where they were the luncheon guests of the Royal Aero Club.

The Amundsen plane which was harbor to the battery and the two explorers were escorted to city hall over the route already traversed by such heroes as Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Byrd.

Capt. Wilkins and Lieut. Eielson, last April 15 flew from Point Barrow Alaska, to dead man's land, Spitzbergen, across the top of the world. Captain Wilkins is an Australian who started flying in 1910 while Eielson is an American.

Among the first to greet the explorers today was Ole Eielson of Hatton, N. D., father of the lieutenant.

"I am proud of him—but I've said it a lot already," said the father, who was accompanied by a younger brother of the flier, Arthur, who lives in Orange, N. J.

Unlike other receptions to distinguished visitors down the bay, the welcome for the arctic fliers was quiet. There was no great confusion or excitement on the Macom.

Wilkins spoke for both, although Eielson, now and then questioned by

was on board the tug, Capt. Wilkins was second in command to Stefansson in his explorations from 1913 to 1916.

"We did not know that the world war was still on," said Stefansson, "and when Wilkins got back to civilization he joined the Australian forces in France and became chief of the photographic division of the army, making many flights across the enemy's lines."

Capt. Wilkins in confirming his plans for an antarctic flight declared his expedition would not be in conflict with the Byrd explorations to the south pole. He said hold strictly to the frozen coast, he said, as his interest in that region was to locate a spot where a meteorological station will be located later.

Asked whether regular travel by air over the polar region was practicable, Captain Wilkins said:

"If you take advantage of the fine weather early in the year, it is possible, of course, it is bitterly cold, but that is no setback. The one thing that has to be taken into account is that while there is no snow in the air at this time, there is the danger of snow drifting over the land."

After his antarctic explorations, Wilkins plans to circumnavigate the Pacific ocean before returning to Australia. From the south polar regions he will work his way up the South and North American coasts to Alaska, cross by way of Siberia to Japan, fly around Asia and finally to Australia.

He would return from the antarctic in April or May, he said. "If I find my location, I will come back within 24 hours," he added, "for that is my only objective in going."

POLAR FLYERS ARE WELCOMED TO NEW YORK

piloted by the French aviator Gilbert, it was supposed to be in the vicinity of Bear Island but searches in that region have been without result.

Road Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole and noted arctic explorer, left Norway June 18th with Lief Detrichsen, another noted Norwegian and a French crew in a French seaplane to search for General Umberto Nobile, then stranded with five companions off North-west Land. General Nobile has since been rescued by Lieutenant Lundborg, Swedish flier, and is now aboard the base ship Citta Di Milano off northern Spitzbergen.

Amundsen's decision to help in the search for Nobile was all the more dramatic as he and the Italian dirigible expert had been at odds ever since their dirigible flight in the Norge over the North Pole.

The pilot of the French seaplane was Commander Rene Guilbaud and the three other members of the crew were Lieut. Albert De Couville, Emile Valette, radio operator, and Gilbert Braze, mechanic.

London, July 2.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company reports that according to messages received from Oslo the body of Captain Roald Amundsen has been found in the sea off Norway. The report lacks official confirmation.

London, July 2.—(AP)—Two large British seaplanes will shortly join the international group of searchers who are seeking to find trace of Roald Amundsen noted Norwegian explorer, and his five companions in a French plane which took off from Norway two weeks ago today to assist in the Nobile relief work.

The air ministry made the announcement today that it was preparing to send the two planes. The destination, time of departure and the pilots who will man the machines have not yet been decided.
