FULL PROGRAM FOR CAROLINAS THANKS GIVING

Football Games and Other Activities To Feature Celebration in Two States.

By the Associated Press The Carolinas today prepared to celebrate Thanksgiving tomorrow and thus observe the 142nd anniversary of the holiday first proclaimed by George Washington.

While many citizens looked forward to football games over the two states, others made ready to don hunting clothes as they oiled guns today for an all-day quest of rabbits, quail and other game.

Weather reports indicated the day would be fair and cooler. Still others were preparing to occupy themselves with a Thanksgiving dinner and remain at home in leisurely style to rest from the cares of work accrued during the week.

In many cities theatre owners will donate the entire proceeds from special shows to charity organizations for distribution among needy families in the two states. Churches will observe special services.

In North Carolina crowds are expected to see Wase Foynt and his football team at Charlotte, the University of North Carolina and Virginia class at Chapel Hill and at Hickory. At Pinebluff the football season will open.

In South Carolina major games include Clemson vs. Furman at Greenville and the Citadel vs. Watford at Charleston.

At Chapel Hill the Morehead-Patterson bell tower, $100,000 gift of John Motley Morehead, III, and Rufus L. Patterson, university alumni, will be dedicated just before the game there. Gov. O. Max Gardner will accept the gift as the exercises are to be broadcast at noon over radio station WBT.

Governor Ibra C. Blackwood of South Carolina and Governor Gardner have issued proclamations for Thanksgiving.

The original proclamation, signed by the first President and said to be the first national proclamation ever issued, has been observed annually since that time but nowhere more than in the Carolinas. On the coast of these two states an abundance of duck and geese have usurped in many places the prominence given the turkey on the festive board of Carolina homes.

Some textile plants in the two states are planning shutdowns of from one to three days while others will continue operations without interruption. The policy of the individual mill is being determined by the status of the market for the particular class of products manufactured by that mill.

All state, county and city offices will be closed or will observe holiday schedules. Where courts are in session, a recess will be taken until after the holiday. Banks and other municipal institutions will observe their regular holiday schedules.

Zane Grey Story to Begin in The Reflector Friday

"Doctor" Zane Grey is the correct title of the eminent western novelist and it doesn't represent a Doctor of Literature, Laws or Medicine. It means Doctor of Dental Surgery.

Grey is one of the most widely read authors in America and nearly a million copies of his books, the publishers state, are sold annually. "Sunset Pass," one of his outstanding stories, will appear in The Daily Reflector beginning Friday, November 27.

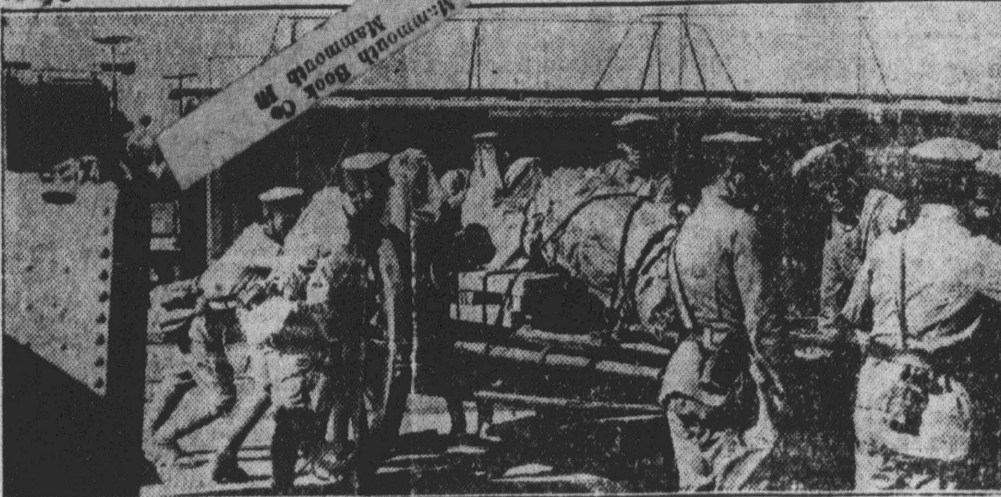

Zane Grey was educated at the University of Pennsylvania and his friends say that as a scholar he was a fine baseball player. After graduating he became a struggling young dentist in New York, financing the lean winters of professional dentistry with his earnings as a professional baseball player during the summer.

The dental practice never prospered and Grey decided to launch a literary career with a story about Betty Zane, sister of his great-grandfather. Grey eventually published it himself with borrowed capital. It still sells.

Through "Betty Zane" Grey met Col. C. J. "Buffalo" Jones, who invited the author to go west. Grey spent several months with Jones in Utah and there started his sudden rise to fame as a writer of western novels.

"Sunset Pass" is a thrilling love story. The first chapter appears in The Daily Reflector Friday, Nov. 27.

WARLIKE SCENE FROM MANCHURIAN FRONT

Manchuria, still bristling with Japanese and Chinese guns, threatens to thwart the efforts of the League of Nations for a peaceful settlement. This new picture from the trouble zone shows a Japanese gun crew moving a field piece from the railroad yards at Changchun, Manchuria, just before a fierce battle along the Nonni river.

Texas Election Brings Victory To Democrats

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Democratic organization of the new House appears certain as a result of the party's victory in the fourteenth Texas district yesterday at a special election.

CITY IS READY FOR HOLIDAY

With every branch of industry in Greenville will turn to the observance of Thanksgiving Day tomorrow more completely than in years.

While hundreds of persons no doubt will attend football games and visit relatives in other sections of the country, those remaining at home will attend the union Thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Episcopal church in the morning and a football game in the afternoon.

And of course there will be the usual Thanksgiving dinners with tables literally groaning under the weight of turkey, cranberry sauce and other things that go to make a menu complete.

The tobacco market, courthouses, schools, banks, and a majority of stores will close their doors as the city goes about the business of expressing thanks for the manifold blessings received during the year.

With completion of today's activities, both the tobacco market and public schools closed until Monday in order to opportunity to fully observe the season of Thanksgiving. East Carolina Teachers college also closed today and will resume work next Monday morning.

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Church of Christ, will deliver the sermon at the 10:30 o'clock. The service, an annual affair sponsored by the Ministerial Association, is always one of the most inspirational of the year and the building was expected to be packed to overflowing as a grateful people attempt to express their appreciation of the blessings bestowed upon them.

The football game will be played between Farmville and Greenville, ancient gridiron rivals, and large attendance was expected by Coach C. W. Porter as he put his team through the last grueling practice today in preparation for the battle.

Athletic officials were urging the public to attend the game in large numbers and help boost the treasury of the high school which has been at low ebb all the season. The team is badly in need of equipment. It was said, and the boys are looking to proceed, from this game to help them obtain it.

Bogus $5 Bills In Circulation In This State

Merchants in this section were warned today to guard against the acceptance of bogus $5 bills which are gaining circulation in the Piedmont section.

Photostatic copies of Lincoln bills were said to have been given out in several sections of western North Carolina recently, and all those officers were attempting to apprehend those responsible for issuance of the bills nothing definite had so far been accomplished.

Merchants should heed the warning and watch closely bills of this denomination, especially when tendered by strangers.

There will be no edition of The Reflector tomorrow as the staff goes about the annual celebration of Thanksgiving Day. The paper, however, will appear as usual Friday afternoon. A II members of the editorial, business and mechanical departments will join the community in returning thanks for the bountiful blessings of the past year as well as take part in other activities in connection with the occasion.

INDEPENDENTS DEFER ACTION

Slight Attendance Causes Them to Postpone Deliberations At Washington.

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Independents in Senate and House met separately today, but standstill attendance in both cases forced them to defer action to later meetings.

On the Senate side, there was an informal discussion centered upon the unemployment problem. The hearing of the Senate agricultural committee postponed for the absence of many of the independent senators, including Senator Norris of Nebraska.

GIVE SUPPORT TO FARM BOARD

Farm Representative Ask Congress to Strength Organization at Investigation.

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The great farm organizations buried differences today in a plea to Congress to retain the Farm Board and strengthen it with the equalization fee or the export debenture.

The National Grange advanced the debenture and the American Farm Bureau Federation the equalization fee but each offered to compromise.

Louis J. Taber, master of the Grange, asked the Senate agricultural committee to forget the differences between the various plans and enact legislation to dispose of agricultural surpluses.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, stressed the equalization fee, but said his organization would not oppose the (Continued on Page Two)

Washington Gave First Thanks Proclamation

The custom of the President of the United States issuing annually a Thanksgiving Proclamation can be traced back to the time when George Washington was at the helm of the nation's affairs. On November 26 (the same day on which Thanksgiving falls this year) 1879, President Washington proclaimed for the first time a national day of thanksgiving, thereby setting a precedent for all future Presidents.

Celebration of Thanksgiving Day in America, we are informed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission can be traced back to the earliest days of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. From there the custom spread to all parts of the United States.

Washington's first national Thanksgiving Proclamation met with some objections. When Elias Boudinot, on September 25, 1789, introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives, "That a joint committee of both Houses be directed to wait upon the President of the United States, to request that he would recommend to the people of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging and grateful hearts, the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a Constitution of government for their safety and happiness," it met with protest from some of the members.

Representative Thomas Tudor Tucker, of South Carolina, argued that it was not the business of Congress to ask for a national day of Thanksgiving.

Representative Aedanus Burke, of the same state, thought we should not mimic Europe "where they made a mere mockery of thanksgiving."

SAGE OF HAPPY VALLEY IS DEAD IN TENNESSEE

Former Governor Alfred Taylor Passes After Colorful Political Life.

Johnson City, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Former Governor Alfred A. Taylor, the 83-year-old "Sage of Happy Valley," whose colorful career in Tennessee politics brought him national prominence, died early today at Appalachian hospital here.

It was he who participated in the famous "War of the Roses," a campaign for the governorship that he and his brother, Bob Taylor, waged side by side against one another.

He had been in ill health since 1929 but it was only recently that his condition became critical. He (Continued on Page Two)

NON-SUIT IN LOAN CASE

Court to Adjoin for Thanksgiving Following Session This Afternoon.

Non-suit was declared today in the case of King Sutton, executor of the will of the late Jesse Sutton, against Lena Mills Waite and others, executors of the estate of the late Fred Mills.

The suit grew out of a loan of $1,000 which Jesse Sutton was said to have made to Fred Mills some time prior to their deaths. The plaintiffs failed to show any papers regarding the transaction and stated that the loan was made on a verbal agreement.

The defendants contended they had no record of any such transaction and as the plaintiffs were unable to prove that such a loan was made the case was automatically barred by statute.

The case was begun yesterday morning and was completed shortly after court resumed hearing this morning.

After disposal of two or three other matters this afternoon, court was expected to adjourn for celebration of the Thanksgiving season. The session convened last Monday morning and several cases have been disposed of. The calendar contained over a half hundred cases. Judge Clayton Moore, of Williamston, presided.

ANOTHER TOWN FALLS AS JAPANESE TROOPS CONTINUE WARFARE

THE GUEST OF HONOR

1621 1931

DISARM COPS AT SINMINFU

Representative of Small Nations in the League of Nations Council Said to be Championing Cause Of China in Manchurian Dispute; Japanese Government Instructs Representative to Accept Council's Peace Resolution.

Peking, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Japanese troops captured the town of Sinminfu, after the town of Mu-dun on the Peking-Mukden railway, this morning, disarming the Chinese police.

The town of Sinminfu, reportedly captured today by the Japanese, probably is the same as Heiminan, where fighting was reported in progress yesterday.

The difference in form is a result of variation between the Chinese and Manchu spelling.

Paris, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Representatives of small nations in the League of Nations council were reportedly reported today to have assumed the role of champions of China in the Manchurian deliberations.

Sipkesmen for certain smaller nations were not identified here but were said to have accused the powers of letting the league covenant go to pieces by their unwillingness to exercise the coercive measures it provides.

Ever since the league was formed, its covenant has been the bulwark of smaller states against aggression by stronger powers, the spokesman asserted, and if the council permits Japanese occupation of Manchuria to continue this bulwark will be destroyed.

Because of this new attitude, it was thought by most observers that the council would not be able to obtain adoption of any Manchurian measure which does not provide for evacuation by the Japanese.

Meanwhile the council studied instructions from Nanking to Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese member. A private meeting was called for this evening.

Tokyo, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Japanese government today instructed Kenkichi Yoshizawa, its representative at Paris, to accept the League Council's Manchurian peace resolution with the single reservation that the second clause be understood not to preclude "such military measures as may be required for the protection of Japanese lives and property from bandits and other lawless elements."

The situation at Chinchow, which was reported here to be becoming gradually more threatening, prompted the reservation, which was made at the eleventh hour.

It applies to the portion of the league resolution which calls upon the Japanese and Chinese governments to order their troops commanders to take no initiative which might result in loss of life or fighting.

It was stressed in authoritative circles that Japan's agreement to the other provisions of the resolution is a concession on its part, but that it could not agree to hamper its military forces which, it insists, are endeavoring to "bring order out of chaos."

Woman Still Held in Jail in Poison Case

Lexington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Lola Perdleton Pickett, 44-year-old widow who is under indictment for murder in connection with the fatal poisoning of her six-year-old child, Elizabeth, was still being held in the Davidson county jail here today, no effort to obtain bail having been made.

Prior to her indictment yesterday defense attorneys petitioned the court for a continuance until the January term of court, and it was granted.

KLEBERG WINS TEXAS FIGHT

Election of Democrat Hailed as Victory by the Anti-Prohibition Faction.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Richard M. Kleberg, a Democrat who came up from the range of the vast San Gertrudis ranch, has won the position of Representative in Congress left vacant by the death of Harry M. Wurzbach, San Antonio, Tex., Republican. His plurality in the election yesterday was approximately 5,000 votes.

In retrieving for Democracy the Texas desk that has been occupied by Wurzbach for 11 years, the Lone Star delegation once more becomes solid in its Jeffersonian political faith.

The Texas victory moved the House Democratic membership plurality up to four and virtually clinched the speakership for John N. Garner, of Uvalde, Tex., whose district adjoins the fourteenth.

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The election of Richard M. Kleberg, a Democrat, in the fourteenth Texas Congressional district, was heralded today by a statement by the Washington headquarters of the Crusaders as an opening anti-prohibition wedge in the "dry south."

"The Crusaders have cracked the dry south," the statement said. "The Texas victory will spur the Crusaders to greater efforts in the organization of militant Crusader battalions in the south, particularly in North and South Carolina and Georgia where battalions are being formed."

The organization said it supported Kleberg and Carl W. Johnson, Democrats, both described as anti-prohibitionists, against C. W. Anderson, a Republican, whom, it said, had the support of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The Greenville tobacco market cleared its floors about the noon hour today and closed for celebration of the Thanksgiving season.

The market will reopen next Monday morning with the regular five sets of buyers on duty.

Scores of tobacco men left for their homes in other sections of the country to spend the Thanksgiving holidays but will be back in time for the re-opening Monday.

According to the official report of sales issued today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, the market yesterday sold 1,316,822 pounds of tobacco for $109,923.58, at a general average of $8.35 per hundred. There was much wet and damaged tobacco in evidence, and farmers were urged to keep their offerings dry and the best condition possible.

The report of the supervisor also showed that season's sales, including yesterday's offerings, had reached 54,059,963 pounds, considerably in advance of any other market of the bright belt.

There was approximately 200,000 pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses this morning and sales were completed about the noon hour.

FIRES NEAR WILMINGTON

Pall of Smoke Covers Business area as Forest Blazes Creep Nearer.

Wilmington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A forest fire, estimated to have swept through 10,000 acres of valuable timberland in northern New Hanover county, today had approached within a short distance of Wilmington and its smoke threw a heavy pall over the downtown streets.

The fire has burned steadily for the last month and took on new life the first of the week.

Telephone communications have been interrupted as the flames damaged telephone poles along the highway; several outbuildings, two barns and one residence have been destroyed and other damage has been reported to timber in the path of the flames.

The Texas victory moved the House Democratic membership plurality up to four and virtually clinched the speakership for John N. Garner, of Uvalde, Tex., whose district adjoins the fourteenth.

To Probe Death of Dry Officer

Charlotte, Nov. 25.—(AP)—H. K. Williams, representative of the Home Detective Agency, Greensboro, today was absolved by a coroner's jury of blame in connection with the fatal shooting of A. B. Ingle, special agent for the Department of Justice.

Williams was at liberty under a $5,000 bond pending the verdict.

He said his gun fell from his pocket on an uptown street, discharging.

The detective's brothers, Warren R. Williams, Sanford attorney, and C. L. Williams, solicitor of the fourth judicial district, were here to assist him, while it was understood District Attorney Charles A. Jones or his assistant, J. M. Hoyle, would represent the government.

LADY with a PAST

The old quarrel between Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick (below) and her daughter, Mathilde, wife of Max Oser, Swiss riding master, has ended. Mr. and Mrs. Oser and their two children are at the McCormicks' Chicago home. Mrs. Oser is shown with her son, Peter.

SYNOPSIS: Venice Muir returns from Europe with a manufactured "past," brilliant and sensational, which brings her popularity in New York society. She wants to repay Rollo Wainwright for his former neglect, and Rollo is attracted. Drake Farrelly, however, whom Venice actually cares for, believes the rumors about Venice and dislikes them.

AFTER THE BALL
There was a dinner of fourteen at the Wainwrights before the Charity Ball.
Venice sat on Rollo's right and winked with whimsical satisfaction that Guy could see her now. At her left was Baron Stenvel, New York's latest titled darling. He had known Rene de Thénardier slightly and read of his suicide. His attentions to Venice were marked and persistent. She purposely led him on, for the girl with the cerise nails was on his other side. Her honeyed tones fell on indifferent ears. The Baron must discover why Rene had killed himself for this girl with the russet hair and small immature mouth. Her gown of silver lace was exquisite and her figure slim and lithe but he would hardly have expected de Thénardier to be ensnared by such freshness.

"I shouldn't have told mother to put the Baron on your other side," Rollo whispered to Venice. "Don't let it turn your head, my pretty."
"My head is already turned," she smiled and forced herself to give a long look into his eyes.
"Are you going back to Europe soon again, Miss Muir?" The Baron was firm in his intention to focus her interest on himself.
"I doubt it. But like all good Americans, I hope to get to Paris when I die."

Cerise nails were pressing on the Baron's arm. Venice started with that renewed picture that brought back Roland Wainwright's insolent lids of a year ago.
"Am I interrupting?" she asked sweetly leaning slightly across the Baron towards that honeyed voice.
"Oh, no," said the other girl just as sweetly.
"I beg your pardon," The Baron turned quickly to her.
"I have a bone to pick with you," smiled Cerise Nails.
Venice wanted to laugh. So that was the way that particular girl courted interest. She turned back to Rollo.

They reached the ball about 12 o'clock. It was a seething mass of richly groomed humanity. Debutantes, dowagers, married couples, titles, rows, probably a pickpocket or two.
Venice whirled from one pair of arms to another. Suddenly she saw Drake Farrelly. He was dancing with a snub-nosed girl of about seventeen. Her crisp black hair, cut like a Velasquez picture, indicated that she might be his sister. Venice dancing with Rollo, called quiet purposefully. "Hello, Drake."
She saw quick color dye his face. "Hello, Venice."
Baron Stenvel was taking her away from Rollo. She lost Drake in the sea of gyrating forms. She was annoyed. Her eyes went slewing about the room. All at once she saw him sitting on the sidelines. Some one had gone off with his sister. He was watching Venice. Why doesn't he ask me to dance, she thought. She looked up into the Baron's face.
"You waltz like the hero of a Viennese operetta," she said. After the words were out she reflected that it was a dubious compliment. Apparently he did not think so.
"To dance with you is a dream," he murmured.
Oh, my God, went her mind. Drake. I mustn't lose him.
"I like the other end of the room better, don't you?" she managed. Donny Reese cut in here.
"And I once thought you dull," he sighed. "What a whirl you're having, Venice."
"Life a leaf in an autumn wind. Let's go up toward the other end of the room, Donny. I think it's a little less crowded."
"Right, Rollo's gardenias methinks."
"No, Wadley and Smythe's." Where was Drake? There, in the same chair. He was still watching her and she smiled at him. He rose.
"Sorry, Donny." He touched Venice's arm. They were away together. She had nothing to say but it was her first moment of real happiness that evening. He danced well. Smoothly and evenly. He held her tightly but impersonally.
"Was that you sister?" she asked.
"Yes, Peggy, the older one. This is her first big party."
"I thought you shunned big affairs like this."
"I do generally."
"Why tonight then?"
Rollo's hand was on Drake's shoulder.
"May I?" he asked with a proprietary smile.
"Of course. Thank you, Venice." Drake was lost again. She became silent.
"Come along," said Rollo. "I've arranged a little supper in one of the dining rooms."
"Oh, just around the room once more, Rollo." Her eyes sought madly for Drake. They couldn't find him.
Supper was hilarious. The Baron and Rollo sparred for her attention. Rollo took Venice home when the first grey banners of dawn were flying across the sky.
Rollo unlocked Venice's front door. He went inside with her.
"What an evening!" she sighed. "It's been marvelous, Rollo. But it's too late for you to come in unless you want to wait a few minutes for breakfast."

"No, darling. Tonight's my night. Are you going to marry me, Venice?" He smiled down at her with possession and smug self-assurance in his gaze. His golden cockscomb was enhanced by the one lamp in the hall. His sapphire eyes were gay and certain of his own irresistibility. The consciousness of his own charm seemed to visibly exhilarate him. She would have liked to slap his face.
"No, Rollo," she said carefully, "I'm not going to marry you."
"Don't joke, sweet."
"I'm not joking."
He stared at her through a silence in which neither of them seemed able to find words. The evening's success faded for Venice in the supreme triumph of this moment. If Cerise Nails could but see her now! She was not good enough for him when she was actually Venice Muir, shy and grave and suffering from the indifference tendered her. It needed a man's death to call her to his attention.
"Why not?" he finally asked. His tone was irritated and truculent.

Venice completes her triumph with Rollo, tomorrow. But what of Drake?

SAGE OF HAPPY VALLEY DEAD IN TENNESSEE
lapsed into a coma Monday. The old political leader's two sons, Frank and Blaine Taylor, were at his bedside when the end came at 5:45 a. m. (EST).
Complications arising from uricemic poisoning caused his death. Roses, red ones and white ones, played an important part in the life of "Uncle Alf" who lost his "war of the roses" back in 1886 and built a house by the side of a road in Happy Valley so he could be a "friend to man and hunt foxes."
That was all fought by the firebrands in Tennessee's mountains.
All was nominated for the governorship by the Republicans and his brother, "Fiddling Bob," Robert Love Taylor, was nominated by the Democrats. The two campaigned in the same buggy, debating by day and sleeping together by night.

If their father, Old Col. Nathaniel, had not made the decision to let his sons fight it out, that campaign might have been still more a family affair for he was urged to run as the prohibition party's candidate.
One night Bob and Alf stopped at Bridgeport, Ala., after a rally at Madisonville, Tenn., and their hostess, thrilled by the sentiment of the campaign, pinned a red rose on Alf and a white rose on Bob.
"Wear these for your mother," she said. "I know she is proud of two sons who can differ so in politics and still love each other."

So it became the war of the roses. Alf entertained his crowds with his fox hunting tales and Bob fiddled. The fiddle won and Bob went to the governor's chair and Alf came back to Happy Valley and his fox hunting.
All Taylor had left a seat in the National House of Representatives to make the race and in 1889 his district returned him to the post where he served until 1895. In 1920, his party again called on him to run for governor and he made the race and won.

CHANGE OF LIFE
FOR over fifty years, women have been taking Cardui for troubles like Mrs. M. C. Weatherford, of Tahlequah, Okla., describes below: "I had spells (during change of life) when I could not stand up. I had the headache all the time. I was dizzy and had attacks of nausea. I read about Cardui, so I got a bottle to try. It helped me so much that I continued to take it until I was entirely past the critical period of my life. I have given Cardui to my girls. It has been a wonderful medicine in my home." Cardui is a mild, purely vegetable tonic. Sold at the drug store.

ABOUT TOWN

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving again and the city, county, state and nation will turn their attention to the business of expressing deepest gratitude for the manifold blessings received during the year. It is an old custom, this of returning thanks for the blessings bestowed upon this nation each year. It dates back to 1621 when the first settlers, in the midst of unexpressible toil, sacrifice and anger, went to the crude little house of worship, got down on their knees and thanked God for providing them with the necessities of existence.

They were perilous days away back there in the early stages of the settlement of this mighty nation, and if the sturdy hearts thought they should be thankful for the few comforts and conveniences which they had provided in the wilderness, how much more thankful should be the people of today after the passage of 90 years of growth and progress. Recognized as the most powerful of nations, America has more things for which to be grateful than any nation on earth today. While others are experiencing wars, elemental disturbances carrying appalling death and disaster, this country is serenely sleeping along on a mighty wave of progress and development in spite of the hard times piling reverting from one end of the nation to the other.

True we have more unemployed people and our markets apparently have gone to pieces, but we have more of the necessities of life than we ever had before. It is a situation any country might be glad to step into for as long as any race of people have enough to maintain life and happiness, truly they should be thankful. Right here in this community, and hit by low prices for money crops, we have produced the most plentiful supply of foodstuffs in years, and whether the market remains low or reaches the perilous, we are assured of plenty to eat and drink, and that in itself something that should fill every heart with ecstasy and delight.

Jobless men there are who are being to find it difficult to keep their heads over their heads during the cold winter months, but benevolent organizations even at this moment are busy providing for them and suffering will be cut to a minimum through this effort. Conditions may not be as normal as they used to be, but when we remember that mountains rise majestically on the side of each valley, we should be led to maintain implicit faith in the future and the ability of this nation to come through the storm with sails trimmed for the realization of greater achievements than ever before.

And may the faith of that little group of people who gathered in the forests despite danger and hardship, to express their appreciation of blessings and faith in their new home find its counterpart in the observance of the occasion here tomorrow.

The Greenville tobacco market has shattered more records this season than the Republican party made prosperity promises in the last campaign, and approaches the record of the season with one of the greatest records of achievement in history. Monday the market sold 1,646,400 pounds of tobacco. It was not only a record for the market, but believed to be a high mark for any market in the world to take crack at if it so desires. It was over a hundred thousand pounds above the record established several weeks ago, and put sales all above the fifty million pound mark and away in advance of the fire belt. Greenville has done nothing but better records the last five or six years, and in doing so has forged the front as the greatest market of the belt. It is a distinction that has filled the dreams of tobaccoists for many years and now at this stand on the threshold of realization every effort will be brown into the task of holding it. Hundreds of new customers, many of them from a distance of many miles, have brought their offerings to the city this season, and the things they said about the facilities of the market brought smiles of happiness to the scores of men bending every effort to give their customers the best of service. It is possible to find on any of the large markets of the world. Greenville tobaccoists realize that it takes patrons to make any kind of industry and have gone to no end of trouble and expense to provide the best to be had both in warehouse and factory facilities.

It is these things which have contributed to the growth experienced the last few years, and especially to the series of new records chalked up from week to week of the present season. Growers may be assured of the best of treatment by the entire citizenship, and they will always find the latchstring hanging on the outside at all seasons of the year.

North Carolina must have the courage to go forward in this period of depression, in the opinion of Gov. O. Max Gardner, speaking at the opening of an exposition in Raleigh.

That the state will do just that is not to be doubted. After forging to the front as one of the leaders of the south, it is not likely the people will lie down and let all of their brilliant achievements in the field of business and industry go to naught.

They realize every period of life has its depression and that the temporary condition prevailing at this time will not be with them always.

It is hard to beat a people who have forged to the forefront as this state has done in past years and it will take more than defeatism and depression to divert from the fixed course of progress.

PROVIDE EQUIPMENT FOR NEW HOME OF LOCAL CURB MARKET

Carpenters are busy building new tables and otherwise equipping the curb market home in the annex to the old model school on Cotanche street. Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, has very generously offered the use of this building to the Pitt County Mutual Exchange for winter quarters for the farmers of Pitt County to sell their produce.

There is plenty of parking space around the building. The patrons of the market can drive in from either Cotanche or Eighth street. We will have a comfortable room, well screened and lighted, and new neat tables from which to sell. To show their appreciation to those who have been trading at the market and to induce those who have not traded to come and get acquainted, the sellers will offer all produce at 20 per cent less than current prices on opening day Saturday, November 23, beginning at 8:45.

The doors will remain locked until 8:45 so that it will not be necessary to come before that time to be able to get what you want. If you get there a few moments before 8:45, just wait in your car until the door is opened. There will be a good warm fire to greet you when the door does open.

The market basket will be drawn for and given away each morning at 8:45 instead of by the present method.

POSTOFFICE WILL JOIN THANKSGIVING OBSERVANCE

The local postoffice will join in the observance of Thanksgiving tomorrow, it was announced today by Postmaster Munford. General delivery window will be open from 11:30 to 12:30, but the registry and mail order windows will be closed all day. City carriers will make the usual morning delivery, but rural carriers will not go out.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL OBSERVE THANKSGIVING SEASON FRIDAY NIGHT

Thanksgiving will be the keynote of the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Woman's club Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Herman Duncan will be in charge of the program which will be confined to observance of the season of Thanksgiving.

Each Kiwanian has been requested to bring some article of food which will be turned over to the Welfare Department for use in the winter campaign.

DISTRICT UNEMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE MEETS HERE

A district meeting of members of Governor Gardner's Council on Unemployment was held at Sycamore Hill Baptist church Monday night, and speakers prominent in the relief movement spoke of the campaign to relieve the colored people in various sections of the state.

Prof. Epps, principal of colored schools, who was elected chairman of the district relief committee, presided over the meeting, and it was the sense of the gathering to urge all colored people to join the effort to provide for members of the race during the winter months. The principal address was delivered by Lagrange Oakley, of the State Welfare Department, Hon.

F. C. Harding, and K. T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Department of Welfare. Mayor R. C. Flanagan delivered the address of welcome.

AIRMEN THRILL PATRONS AT YUM YUM BARBECUE PALACE

The C. & W. Flying Service has made the Yum Yum Barbecue Palace headquarters for this week and the place has been converted into a popular resort, as hundreds of visitors are thrilled by the exploits of the airmen as they sail around through the clouds in the Yum Yum territory. The flying field is located on the land adjoining the Yum Yum location, and fliers representing the C. & W. Service will give daily free exhibitions of their skill in the air. They are also taking the air-minded for spins into the ether at prices ranging from $1 per trip up.

In conjunction with the flying service the Yum Yum Barbecue Palace, under the supervision of Jim Clark, is offering the best service to its patrons. Serving from 100 to 200 persons daily, the palace has afforded unsurpassed service to its visitors. Pigs are taken off the fire at 12 o'clock and 6 o'clock daily, assuring the patrons of fresh barbecue at all times. Mr. Clark said he expected hundreds to visit the palace and flying field during the next several days to take advantage of the thrilling air performances while enjoying the best of service at the Yum Yum.

MACCABEES INSTITUTE TENT-HIVE IN GREENVILLE

The Greenville Maccabees organized and instituted a Tent-Hive

Maccabee lodge last night with a charter list of 27 members and will be known as Greenville Tent-Hive No. 10. The lodge was formally a men's lodge but under the new arrangement the ladies may join with the Sir Knights and work under one charter. The new unit will meet each Tuesday night in the Pythian lodge hall at 7:30.

The lodge was instituted by J. E. Turner, state commander, of Norfolk, Va., assisted by Paul Ricks, of Washington and Henry Ricks of Kinston.

The following were elected and installed as officers: S. A. Spain, Past Commander. T. A. Etheridge, Commander. Mary L. Williams, Lieutenant-Commander. William E. Stokes, Chaplain. Nellie J. Moore, Sergeant. T. I. Moore, Record Keeper. J. E. Ricks, Assistant Record Keeper. Thomas A. Etheridge, Jr., Sentinel. Robert K. Williams, 1st Master of Guards. Julia S. Williams, 2nd Master of Guards. A large class of candidates and a Junior Court was arranged and will be added to the local lodge during the next two weeks. The Junior Court will be composed of children under sixteen years of age and its work will be devoted to training children in character building and offers very fine recreation features. The Greenville District has been placed under the management of T. I. Moore, a local Maccabee.

CAROLINA TO TACKLE VA. TURKEY DAY

Charlotte, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Cavaliers came down from the hills of Virginia today to Chapel Hill for the traditional Thanksgiving Day game with North Carolina while Wake Forest's Deacons packed their grips and headed for Charlotte to meet Davidson in the state's other big Turkey day contest.

Thirty-three players, all drilled for a week in how to stop Carolina plays, were in the Cavalier caravan.

Indications were that they would perform before the largest crowd to see a football game in North Carolina this year. Word from Chapel Hill said advance ticket sales gave promise more than 20,000 would be in the stands of Kenan stadium for the 37th clash between the two teams.

Johnny Branch, quarterback, reinstated after a six weeks suspension for breaking training, put fire and dash into the Tar Heels' last hard workout for the Virginians.

He led an assault on two freshmen teams who scrimmaged the varsity. Three backfield aces, Stuart Chandler, Bill Croom and Rip Slusser, did not scrimmage. All were hurt in the Duke game last Saturday, but will be able to play against Virginia.

Stanton McIver, guard, was also held out of the scrimmage. Fronberger ran at his post.

Pat Miller, Deacon coach at the last minute cancelled plans to take his squad directly to Charlotte and decided to break the trip with a workout at Concord. The Deacons will spend the night at Concord and move on to Charlotte early tomorrow.

Signal and punting drills took up most of the time in the last Deacon workout on Gore field. Every man in Wake Forest's camp is in good shape.

One feature of Davidson's last preparations was a "skull practice" during which Coach Monk Younger diagrammed Wake Forest's plays on a blackboard and told his men how to stop them.

In the 12 days since their last game the Wildcats have completely revamped their offense.

Tomorrow's games will end the season for Davidson, Wake Forest and North Carolina. N. C. State finished the 1931 campaign at Columbia, S. C., last Saturday by taking a licking from the South Carolina Gamecocks.

Duke will wind up next Saturday at Lexington, Va., in a clash with Washington and Lee.

With Kid Brewer, captain and fullback, out with an injury suffered in the North Carolina game, the Blue Devils will present a new backfield combination. Lowen Mason, who has worked at quarterback and halfback, has been shifted to Brewer's post.

Mixed Team to Play in State Charity Game

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A Duke Carolina football team pitted against a team selected from the other three Big Five members will provide North Carolina's big charity football game on December 3 in Duke Stadium, the athletic division of the governor's unemployment council has decided.

At the same time Henry C. Bourne state commander of the American Legion, informed the committee that the Legion would handle ticket sales throughout the state.

Governor Gardner said the plan to pit the Duke-Carolina combination of stars against those of N. C. State, Wake Forest and Davidson was "the best feasible plan which could be worked out."

He appealed to the sporting public and others to lend full support.

Sixty per cent of the proceeds will go to the state relief fund and 40 per cent to the local charities in the communities where the tickets are sold.

Other civic organizations which desire to sell tickets will be allowed to apply the 40 per cent to their individual relief funds.

Six Tar Heels to Sing Swan Song Thanksgiving

Chapel Hill, Nov. 25.—One more of the Virginia classic here on Thanksgiving Day, and taps will sound for six of North Carolina's finest football stars. The sextet is pictured above, including Johnny Branch, sensational broken field star, who has been reinstated to run this final game. Pictured with them is Chuck Collins, Carolina's clever coach and strategist. All six men have performed brilliantly and gallantly during three years of competition at Carolina, and Virginia has never pulled down Carolina's victory banner while these six were in the lineup. They will be set to keep the record clean when they run their last game in beautiful Kenan Stadium tomorrow and they will also be out to run their best games individually, for every man of the six is a strong contender for All State, and Fyval is a leading contender for the All Southern honors.

Rip Slusser, one of the number, who is leading Carolina's scorers, and who will lead Carolina's running attack, is a Virginian, hailing from Blacksburg. John Phipps, hard running sophomore, who led the ground gainers in the Duke game, is the only other Virginian on the first two teams at Carolina.

County, N. C., to which reference is hereby made for further description. A deposit of ten per cent of the amount bid will be required of the successful bidder at the hour of sale. FARMVILLE TO PLAY LOCALS THANKSGIVING

Thursday afternoon at 2:45 the football teams of Greenville high and Farmville high will offer the fans of this community a football contest that should be entertaining in every respect. These two teams played to a scoreless tie earlier in the season and each team thinks it should have won that game. As the result of that tie game both teams will be fighting with all their might to win Thursday's game.

Greenville will present several new faces in her lineup. Some of them have never played football before, others have been ineligible for conference games, but all of them are anxious to play against Farmville.

The admission price to the game will be 25 and 50 cents. It is hoped that enough people will turn out to enable the locals to buy some much needed equipment to start the season next year.

GRID SEASON NEARS CLOSE IN THE SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The 1931 football season is on the wane in the south.

Thanksgiving Day, a fairly complete program is offered. A few important battles will be fought out this week-end and next and after that Dixie's gridiron war resolves itself into a handful of scattered engagements.

The Kentucky-Tennessee game at Lexington, Ky., ranks high up on tomorrow's bill for it is just barely possible that Kentucky might be able to conjure up enough of its old time bad medicine for Tennessee to squeeze the Tennesseans out of the untied and undefeated class.

Kentucky would be happy to do just that and it would leave Tulane the undisputed leader of the Southern Conference.

Vanderbilt's game tomorrow with Alabama at Nashville, Tenn., also should offer plenty of activity. Both teams have been defeated but both are strong and clever. Auburn and South Carolina will settle a severe Thanksgiving dispute at Montgomery, Ala.

The North Carolina-Virginia tilt at Chapel Hill; the Virginia Military-Virginia Poly clash at Roanoke, Va.; and the Mississippi-Mississippi A. and M. battle at Oxford, Miss., all hold interesting possibilities on tomorrow's program.

Florida is on the west coast to play the U. C. L. A. outfit at Los Angeles, Calif. Among the other Thanksgiving Day games are the Chattanooga-Centre match at Chattanooga;

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, 3 points higher on December and generally one to two points lower for other months, on realizing and some southern selling. Trading was rather quiet.

Trading became somewhat more active after the first few minutes with more selling in evidence on the easier opening of the wheat market and the easier ruling of stocks. By the end of the first half hour January sold off to 6.19 and May to 6.57 or about 12 to 17 points net lower.

Expectations of increased hedging in advance of tomorrow's holiday, probably contributed to the decline while after the covering and advance of yesterday, there was a disposition to expect pre-holiday realizing.

Liverpool cables reported Bombay and continental buying with limited offerings but said that the demand for cotton goods in Manchester was unequal to the output.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Wheat prices plunged downward anew today, and went to more than 10 cents a bushel lower than the high point reached on November 9. General selling took place, with many fresh stop loss orders uncovered by the drop in values. Big stocks of unsold wheat shown to be in the hands of government financed agencies were asserted in various quarters to be largely responsible, together with slackness of export demand for wheat from North America.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fresh weakness appeared in the leading financial markets today.

Selling of wheat and other grains, inability of cotton to hold yesterday's gains, weakness of the pound sterling and the heavier tone of the dollar contributed to selling in the stock market. Discouraged security holders apparently abandoned hope of early settlement of the railway wage problem and saw little of cheer in various trade reports. Activity at times was heavier than in preceding market sessions of this week.

Publication of additional railroad earnings reports for October, disclosing shrinkage of more than 25 per cent in revenues as compared with last year, and the carloading total which was down a shade, more on the week than seasonal, caused early selling in the rails and in the afternoon this spread to other sections of the list.

New lows were made by Atchison which was off around 4 points, by Union Pacific which gave way more than 3 and by Southern Pacific, New Haven, Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio, among others, which lost one to more than 2. U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric and International Telephone likewise went to new low ground, the first named responding to reports of slackened steel production with a loss of over 3 points.

The primary American markets are still watching closely developments in Europe. Favorable reaction to announcement that the Reichsbank recently had lifted the bars on export of German capital in sufficient amount to absorb a $6,000,000 maturity of government guaranteed bonds in this country has been more than offset by conflicting reports on the outlook with regard to Germany's February maturities, which include large amounts of short term credits. Further weakness of sterling accentuated this general concern today, with leading New York houses reporting moderately heavy shifting of sterling into dollars.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S LAND SALE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust executed on the 8th day of October, 1929, by Hubert Evans, Mattie Evans and Martha J. Evans, to W. H. Woolard, trustee, of record in Book D-18, at page 255 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in the payment of the debt secured therein and the holder of the notes having requested said trustee to foreclose said trust, the undersigned trustee, will, on Saturday, the 5th day of December, 1931 at 12:00 o'clock Noon before the courthouse door in Pitt County, expose to public sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash the following described real property, to-wit:

First Parcel: That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands of Ed Moore, Chas. Hardee, Floyd McGowan and also adjoining the 30 acre tract described in this deed as second parcel, and being the southern half of the tract of land devised by William Evans, Oscar Evans in Will Book 4, page 190.

the fresh cigarette!"

FRESHNESS

— that's the thing!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

Have you noticed the new trend in cigarettes?—freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with—blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back—if you can.

CAMELS

Made FRESH—Kept FRESH

Don't remove the moisture-proof terra ping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked.
