INUKAI BEGINS FORMATION OF JAP CABINET

Stock Exchanges Suspend Sessions Because of Change in Government Circles.

Toyko, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Tsuyoshi Inukai, following a summons to the Imperial palace, today began the formation of a new cabinet exclusively of members of the Seiyukai party.

The political experts, although none of them knew anything, officially, thought the cabinet would shape up something like this: Kenkichi Yoshizawa, who is the new premier's son-in-law, foreign minister. He has been serving his government as delegate to the League of Nations through the recent meeting of the league council on the Manchurian dispute, and also as ambassador to France. Korekiyo Takahashi—finance minister.

General Sadao Araki—minister of war. The Tokyo and Osaka stock exchanges suspended sessions early in the afternoon because of a sudden advance in stocks due to anticipation of abandonment of the gold standard.

M. Inukai, at 76, is an "old timer" as a politician but he is a comparative newcomer in Seiyukai party circles, having joined the party in 1928. He became its president on the death of former Premier Baron Tanaka.

For years previously he had headed several minor parties, including the National party, known as the Kokuminto, which amalgamated with the Seiyukai.

Even as an ambitious youngster M. Inukai had his eye on the premiership and dreamed of a day the elder statesmen would consult with him with that purpose in view.

Jane Addams Operated On In Baltimore

Baltimore, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Jane Addams of Chicago, social worker and president for fifteen years of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, underwent a major operation at Johns Hopkins hospital here today. It was performed by Dr. Thomas S. Cullen of Baltimore.

Miss Addams came to Baltimore Wednesday morning accompanied by her secretary, Miss Mary Rosa Smith and a group of women. She went directly to the hospital as a patient of Dr. Cullen. The operation was decided upon the following day.

Wednesday evening Miss Addams was informed that she and Dr. Nicholas Butler of Columbia University had been awarded the 1931 Nobel peace prize.

While declining to make a formal statement, until official notification was received Miss Addams let it be known, through Miss Smith, that her share of the money would be used to advance the cause of peace and the work of the league.

Baptists Launch Bond Campaign For 1930 Work

Raleigh, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The debt advisory committee of the Baptist State Convention late last night launched a campaign at a meeting here to sell $300,000 worth of bonds to finance church work in 1932 and 1933.

The amount is to be divided equally between each year to meet current and outstanding obligations for colleges and other institutions. The board of trustees of Meredith college was represented at the meeting, at which $14,500 was subscribed.

The bonds will pay six per cent interest, and the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company was named trustee.

Dr. J. Rufus Hunter is chairman of the committee.

Kiwanians Contribute Liberally to Three Phases of the Relief Work Here.

Forever on the alert to do their part by suffering humanity, Kiwanians last night contributed to three different phases of relief activity in this community. The sum of $25 was contributed to Pitt County Welfare department which is co-operating with the city relief organization for improving conditions among the unemployed during the winter months.

One hundred per cent purchases were made of Tuberculosis Christmas seals and tickets to the concert for charity to be given by the Greenville Choral club at the high school December 15.

Two Castaways Reach Safety

Oslo, Norway, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two half frozen seamen drifted ashore near the fishing village of Maaloy today on a raft with the bodies of four who had been their shipmates in the German-owned trawler, Venus, described by coastguard officials as a rum runner.

The ship ran aground and sank, they said, after rescuers had carried them ashore. One lifeboat capsized as it was launched, drowning six men; a second boat also capsized but the seven men in it were clinging to the overturned craft when the raft bearing the two survivors and their four companions drifted out of sight.

LENZ AGAIN FORGES AHEAD

Wins Seven of Dozen Rubbers from Culbertson to Increase Lead to 5,650.

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby took advantage of great cards to run away from Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson in the fourth session of the contract bridge marathon ending early today.

By taking seven of the 12 rubbers of the session representatives of the "official" system of bidding accumulated 3,835 more points net for a grand total of 5,650.

It was slam session, Lenz and Jacoby bid three little slams and made them. Another could have been made with a correct choice of bids. Mrs. Culbertson made one. Her husband could have tried for another, but preferred a safe game and rubber.

It was a speedy session. More rubbers were played than during any other and the grand total rose to 17 for Lenz and Jacoby to 11 for their opponents. Hands dealt were 45, reaching the grand total of 154. Lenz and Jacoby shut out the Culbertsons in three rubbers. The Culbertsons won one shut out.

It was peace session. Jacoby praised the Culbertsons for being graceful losers and poor winners. Culbertson remarked that he found his opponents in excellent humor for a change.

Lenz found in the last rubber of the session, the longest, which went ten hands, much material to contrast tactics of the teams. Culbertson lay in ambush, but the enemy refused to be trapped. All the kibitzers said Ely could have made game in no trump, but he let the official team get away with a one-club make.

Hoover Urges Complete Support Of His Program

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Every shoulder is wanted at the wheel by President Hoover in enacting, on a non-partisan basis, his entire domestic program for economic recovery.

He called in newspapermen last night, read them an incisive summary of everything he has proposed, told them he cared little about details but stuck out for principles, and addressed through them an urgent plea to Congress and to the whole people to join in united action.

"A definite program for turning the tide of deflation," was Mr. Hoover's estimate of his plans. He lumped together into a dozen short definitions the recommendations he made in his message to Congress, others he has expounded in (Continued on page three)

CONVICT MAN OF KILLING SON

Former Rochelle, Ga., Minister, Is Found Guilty by Jury At Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 2.—(AP)—J. M. Williams, former Rochelle, Ga., minister, was found guilty today of the slaying of his 19-year-old sailor son, Raeford Grady Williams. The jury recommended mercy which means a life sentence will be imposed.

The state charged the father lured his son home on a furlough from the navy on the pretext of the boy's sister was gravely ill, and then slew him to collect his life insurance.

Young Williams was shot to death in a millyard near Augusta last August.

It was the second trial for the former Methodist minister. Late in October a jury was unable to agree on a verdict and a mistrial was declared.

Williams offered an alibi as his defense. He claimed he was not even near the scene of the slaying at the time his son was fatally wounded.

The state, however, contended that a ballistics test showed the shot which killed the son were fired from a pistol which the minister had borrowed some time ago. It also introduced testimony that automobile tire tracks at the scene matched exactly with prints made by tires on Williams' automobile.

LENIENT WITH OTHER POWERS

Foreign Governments Will Not be Held at Fault if Their War Debts Due on Next Tuesday Are Not Paid; Action Taken Pending Formal Ratification of 1-Year Moratoriums Suspending These Payments; Mills Discusses Situation.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—An informal understanding was reached today between the administration and Senate leaders that foreign governments would not be considered at fault if their war debt payments due next Tuesday are not paid, pending formal ratification of the one year moratoriums suspending these payments.

Under Secretary Mills of the Treasury discussed the situation with leaders of both parties in the Senate.

He said Secretary Stimson will deal with the foreign governments respecting their payments but he does not expect the secretary to make any formal statement on the question.

Mills was informed the legislation ratifying the one year debt holiday, which went into effect last July 1, can not be enacted by Tuesday.

"I discussed the form of a statement to be made to these foreign governments," said Mills. "I asked, no agreement. I came over for the purpose of getting information and giving information."

Meanwhile Representative Rainey, Democrat leader, promised "the Democrats will not make the moratorium a party question."

Rainey said he would vote against it but the Democrats planned to leave it to the individual members as to their own position on the matter.

Opposition to the moratorium in both Republican and Democratic ranks was seen by the Illinois Democrat. He said, however, he expected the House to act on it and send it to the Senate before the Christmas holidays.

Going into the conference with the Senate leaders, Mr. Mills said he would seek to avoid a discussion of the controversy raging between President Hoover and Congress over a revision of war debts after the expiration of the moratorium.

Ratification of the moratorium by Tuesday is out of the question. The administration wants to send a statement to the powers which have payments coming due then, assuring that delay of ratification will cause no difficulty.

Previous attempts to get leaders in Congress to agree to such a statement failed, and Mr. Mills was on Capitol Hill to straighten out the matter if possible.

Discussing the controversy over debt revision, he said: "It is a short winter day and I don't think we will have time to get onto that subject."

ABOUT TOWN

The campaign to raise $5,000 for the charity relief campaign here during the winter months got under way this morning when members of a soliciting committee visited the business district to obtain subscriptions.

It was hoped the major part of the required amount would be raised during the first day's canvass, but work will be continued until the total sum has been subscribed.

A census of the poor shows conditions to be pronounced more serious than at any single time in past years, but with liberal donations of cash and clothing the relief committee hopes to be able to carry relief to every deserving family.

Each township has been called upon to assume the responsibility of caring for its own poor, and if this is done suffering ought to be less than last year even though want is more widespread than ever before.

Congress believes Europe should make plans for reduction of armaments before this country listens to President Hoover's plans for reconsideration of war debts.

The public will agree with the opinion it is not to be doubted. It would not be fair for this nation to increase its own deficit by granting a reduction of war debts with the principal powers involved spending huge sums for strengthening their armies and navies.

The time has come for the country to draw a line on financial dealings with other nations. If they are not willing to help themselves out of their financial difficulties by reduction of expenses wherever possible it is difficult to understand why they expect us to increase our own load by relieving them of just debts.

The United States is face to face with a deficit that is increasing all the time. President Hoover has called for reduction of expenses in every department, but how in the world are the expenses to be cut should interest on the foreign loans not be paid as customary.

Congress has a right to rebel and an equal right to demand that the other nations reduce if they expect further aid from America.

The Greenville tobacco market will close for the Christmas holidays Friday, December 18, and reopen January 11.

This will give market employees and farmers too, plenty of time to do their Christmas shopping and recover from the holiday strain before returning to work, and the last lap of the season should be marked by intense activity.

The Greenville market was well above the $1,000,000 pounds mark at conclusion of sales this week and that it will be near the 70,000,000 stage when the market suspends for the holidays is not to be doubted.

their point they will do so after one of the bitterest battles since the saloon went into oblivion. Don't forget Tuberculosis Christmas Seals speak in eloquent terms of your consideration for the intense suffering existing among poor people at this time.

Sunset Pass By ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS: A beautiful girl and a mystery at Sunset Pass have drawn Trueman Rock there, under the pretext of looking for work. Rock fell in love with Thiry Preston when he first met her, and his intention now is to find some excuse to stay near her. Trouble threatens him in two directions, Ash Preston, Thiry's brother, has the reputation of a killer and resents any attention that is paid to Thiry. When Rock arrives at Sunset Pass, Ash warns him that the world would be better off if Thiry were dead. There are also mysterious rumors that Gage Preston, Ash's father and the head of the outfit, is mixed up in cattle rustling. Rock was forced to leave Wacongonia six years before because of a gun fight, and he does not want to get in trouble now. But the mystery excites him, and he is determined to help Thiry. Gage Preston offers Rock a job.

THIRY'S ACCUSATION Mrs. Preston appeared a worthy mate for this virile cattleman. "Ma, this is Trueman Rock, who come to ride for me," announced Preston. Then he presented Rock to Alice, a girl of sixteen. She was shy, but curious and friendly. Rock took instantly to the barefooted, big-eyed children, Lucy and Burr. "Where's Thiry?" asked the rancher.

"She's ironin', Dad," replied Alice. "Wal, didn't she hvar me call?" "Reckon she did Pa, for you'd most woke the daid," replied his wife, and going to the door of the second cabin she called, "Thiry, we've company, an' Pa wants you."

Rock caught a low protesting voice that came from inside. "Nonsense, daughter," replied the mother. "You don't look so awful. Anyway, you can't get out of it."

Whereupon Thiry appeared in the door in a long blue apron that scarcely hid her graceful symmetry. Her sleeves were rolled up to the elbow of shapely arms. She came out reluctantly, with troubled eyes and a little frown. She showed no surprise. She had seen him through the window.

"Good afternoon, Miss Preston," greeted Trueman, evincing but little of the pleasure that consumed him. "Oh, it's Mr. Rock, our new grocery clerk," she responded, with manner and tone that was a little beyond Trueman. "How do you do? Aren't you lost way out here?"

"Reckon I was, but there's hope of me getting' back in the trail." "Hey, Rock, what's that about you bein' a grocery clerk?" I reckoned I was hirin' a cowboy."

Whereupon Rock had to explain that he had been keeping store for Sol Winter when Thiry happened in. Thiry did not share in the laughter. Rock thought he saw the gray eyes quicken and flicker as she glanced swiftly from him to her father.

"Thiry, he's going to handle the boys," replied Preston, as if in answer to a mute query. "You are a— a cowboy, then," she said to Rock, struggling to hide confusion or concern. "You don't know the job you've undertaken. What did my brother Ash say?—I saw you talking with him."

"He was telling me your dad would sure give me a job. . . And that you'd be glad," replied Trueman, with the most smiling and disarming assurance.

"Yes, he was," retorted Thiry, blushing at the general laugh. "You're right, Miss Preston," returned Rock, ruefully. "Your brother was not—well, quite taken with my visit."

"What did he say?" "He told me you didn't see ev'ry rider who come along. And that your father was not home. And that—"

"I apologize for Ash's rudeness," interposed Thiry, hurriedly. She had not been able to meet Rock's gaze. "Never mind, Rock. It's nothin' to be hurt about," added Preston. "Ash is a queer, unsofiable feller. But you're shore welcome to the rest of us. Thiry, if you never heard of True Rock, I want to tell you he's been one of the greatest riders of this range. An' I need him bad, in more ways than one. An' I can tell you somethin' the'd make you glad he happened along."

Members of the various women's organizations in town and Mrs. James Station of Williamston, were guests of the club for this occasion.

The assembly room was artistically decorated with evergreens, gleaming red candles and other suggestions of the Christmas season.

Mrs. George P. Hadley, president of the club, presided over a short business session, during which plans were completed for the community Christmas tree.

Miss Jesse Moye, sponsor of the club, in a most gracious manner, presented Miss Isabel Busbee of Raleigh, landscape artist and chairman of the Garden Department of the North Carolina State Federation of Women's Clubs, who gave a delightfully interesting and helpful talk on gardens. Miss Busbee encouraged the use of the native evergreens. She also told of the work being done by club women in the development of the landscape beauty along the highways and of their organized effort to eliminate billboards and other roadside advertising. She urged everyone to transform her backyard into a place of growing loveliness.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses invited the assemblage to the further end of the spacious room, where seated at either end of a beautifully appointed table, Mrs. Winslow and Mrs. Clifton poured tea from silver tea services. The table, covered in old lace was centered with crimson primroses and crimson candles in silver candleholders. Delicious sandwiches, cakes, mints and salted nuts in silver containers were served by Misses Mary Wright, Mary Harding and Sonora Moore.

MECESS TAKE IN KANE TRIAL

The lunch recess at 1 p. m., and limited to a total of four hours and a half for both sides, it appeared certain that the case would reach the jury this afternoon.

This morning the defense offered Dr. Paul J. Parker, of Hampton, who testified that "no human being on earth could tell whether that woman (Mrs. Kane) died of drowning or heart trouble without a properly performed autopsy."

Members of Mrs. Kane's family, appearing in rebuttal for the Commonwealth contradicted a number of statements made by the defendant when he was on the stand yesterday.

While the last of this testimony was being heard in the court room Mrs. W. H. (Hop) Graham, who already had testified, was waging a battle with news photographers in the courthouse yard. She kicked one camera, knocked another to the ground, pulled a coat from one man and swung wildly at another while her husband, from a window, urged her on and promised to join in the fray. Both he and his mother were escorted from the court by officers.

THREE ESCAPED CONVICTS KILL SELVES; ONE FREE

The general belief was that the convicts had outside aid and that the rifle, shotgun and pistols in the possession had been smuggled into the prison with the assistance of underworld friends.

Earl Thayer, 65-year-old mail train robber from Oklahoma, was still at large and was being hunted by a group of prison guards using bloodhounds. Army planes and soldiers from Fort Leavenworth were not used as had been planned.

"Thayer is old and ain't get far," said Fred Zerbst, warden of the prison, anxiously acting warden in place of White who is in the hospital with a gunshot wound in his left arm received when he wrestled loose from his captors on a highway.

Thayer was reported to be armed with a rifle.

Zerbst said the inquiry will stress among other things why Guard Gray at the main gate tower of the prison did not fire on the convicts even though they held the warden and his secretary, E. H. Eckholdt, as hostages to shield themselves.

As the party went across the lawn to the warden's house outside the gate, Zerbst said, the prisoners offered a good target and were not too closely lunched but what some of them might have been picked off.

After an autopsy Coroner T. N. Sexton said there was no doubt in his mind that Will Green, alleged leader of the breakers had killed his two companions and then taken his own life.

DRIVE TO RAISE $5,000 FOR RELIEF WORK HERE GETS UNDER FULL SWING

Similar campaigns will be waged in every township of the county under the direction of K. T. Futrell, director of the Welfare department. Each community has been thrown upon its own responsibility to care for its poor, and if plans materialize it was believed this situation would be fully cared for.

A complete survey has been made of the community, and members of the organization believe they will be able to take care of the demands of deserving families through the cold winter months. Employment will be obtained for as many jobless men as possible in order to relieve the strain on the public funds and enable the committee to serve a greater number of people.

A story, giving a graphic picture of the want and distress prevailing among the poor, was told by a member of the committee this morning.

He said a child went to school during a recent cold day without a coat. The teacher, noticing the incident, asked the child why she had not worn her coat.

regardless of what happened abroad.

The program he summed up included: Reduction of federal expenditures and temporary tax increase; united local unemployment relief; continued part time employment; strengthened Federal

"I don't have but one coat," the child said. "I wear it one day and my brother the next. Today it was brother's time and I had to go without any wrap."

An investigation of the situation revealed the fact that the child's father had been without a job for several months and that the family was in destitute circumstances.

Scores of cases of a similar nature confronted the relief committee as it started the drive for contributions this morning, and type was expressed by J. S. Ficklin, chairman of the organization, and Ralph Garrett, head of the canvassing committee, that everybody would do his best to give to the worthy cause.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady, unchanged to 7 points lower under southern and local selling which was promoted by relatively easier Liverpool cables. January sold off to 6.02.

There appeared to be a little more hedging at the start than recently, and there was also some selling on the opening action of the stock market. The offerings were not heavy, however, and there seemed to be sufficient covering or trade buying to absorb them, as the market showed a decline, with prices showing rallies of two or three points by the end of the first half hour.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 196,000 bales against 163,000 last year.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Affected anew by breaks in securities, the grain markets averaged lower today. The trade, however, generally regarded wheat as having given an excellent account of itself under the circumstances, a moderate export business in North American wheat was noted.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-2 cent lower to 1-8 to 1-4 higher, compared with yesterday's finish; corn 1-4 to 5-8 down, oats unchanged to 1-4 up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The stock market was boosted today by short covering in the last few minutes of trading, after sinking further into new low ground.

Losses of 1 to 2 points were cancelled or reduced in the final upturn, and several issues closed with gains of fractions to a point. The closing tone was steady. The market was fairly active, transfers approximating 1,500,000 shares for the two hour session.

Further weakness of bonds, and fairly wide breaks in several preferred shares, had a depressing effect upon the general equity list, before the covering movement began.

Rails, on the whole, attracted considerable buying, as the attitude of the union leaders in selecting a committee to confer further with executives was regarded as distinctly conciliatory, although the prospect of an early agreement on wages was regarded as dim.

Selling of U. S. Steel was a major factor in the general slump of shares during the middle of the session. This issue dropped to 43, and closed at 44, off 1 3/4. Bethlehem regained a 1-point loss, and American Telephone converted a 1-point loss into a gain.

The fall of the Japanese cabinet, and the prospect of a new government committed to inflation, was not regarded in Wall street as seriously disturbing. The Japanese yen again broke widely, but further declines in silk futures were moderate.

BOYS' BASKET BALL PRACTICE BEGINS

Last week the first boys' basket ball practice was held at the Greenville high school. Every afternoon since, from 4:30 to 7 the squad has practiced. About thirty boys have been reporting for each practice.

PLAYER LIMIT AND SALARIES CUT IN MAJORS

Chicago, Dec. 11.—(AP)—There will be less wear and tear on major league benches and uniforms next season and salaries will not be quite so robust, club owners had decided.

There will be less wear and tear because the magnates, at the annual joint meeting of the American and National Leagues, yesterday, voted to reduce the player limit from 25 to 23 players, trimming the list of bench warmers by a total of 32.

The decision was made partly as an economy measure, and partly to give weaker clubs a chance to use capable ball players who, as members of stronger teams, might see little action. The salary cut was not specified, but the general opinion was that wages should be trimmed 10 per cent. This would save each club about $10,000 annually.

It also was decided that there should be no more "synthetic" double headers, manufactured in the past by moving up games to provide attractive bargain bills, without the consent or approval of the presidents of both leagues.

The schedules for both leagues again will list 154 games, but will require four days less to accomplish. It was voted to open seasons on April 12 and close them on September 25. The 1931 campaigns opened April 14 and finished September 27.

In spite of the leaning toward reduced expenses, the league again voted to underwrite the American Legion's junior baseball championship tournament up to $50,000, and to contribute $7,500 for the relief of needy veterans of baseball.

Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Billy Evans, manager of the Cleveland Indians, were appointed to work with members of the "Big Five" committee of minor league baseball, to study the problems of the latter branch of the industry.
