Solicitor T. A. McNeil took the nol pros after failing to find evidence to substantiate the story of Lucile Cummings, 15 year old Indian girl, that she saw Brooks killed.

The girl said a party was in progress in the home of her mother and that Joe Franklin Oxendine struck Brooks with an axe, June Braboy hit him with a hammer and Harvey Jacobs, Donnie Oxendine and Hester Oxendine helped dispose of the body. Bess Smithrow was named as one of those present. From Miss Roberts the district attorney hopes to obtain information of Diamond's activities out of which may develop a lead as to the reason for the murder. There have been many known reasons in the past why enemy hoodlums would want to remove Diamond, but none within the past few months.

As proof of the belief that the Diamond killers struck from an old grudge, the investigators cite Diamond's indifference to personal safety. Gangland regarded "Legs" as a coward, and in keeping with mob practices he usually had two (Continued on Page Three)

FILE PROTEST ON R.R. GROUP

Furniture Manufacturers Not in Sympathy with Inclusion of Lines Ohio System.

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association with offices at High Point, today added its protest to those of Southern business organizations against including the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad in the Baltimore and Ohio system.

The inclusion was proposed by eastern railroads in their four party application.

The association, which represents many furniture manufacturers in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, contended that inclusion of the road in the Baltimore and Ohio instead of dividing it between the Southern Railway and the Atlantic Coast System as proposed by the commission would not preserve competition.

Several days ago the Southern Railway and the Louisville and Nashville, which now own the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville jointly, and a group of southern cotton manufacturing organizations filed protests with the commission.

The singers will also gather at Five Points for the singing of several numbers. Santa Claus will be on the scene to ascertain the wants of children gathered for the exercises.

A giant Christmas tree will be put in place at Five Points by the Water & Light Commission next Monday in spite of the fact that it was announced yesterday by the committee on decorations that the tree had been abandoned this year.

The tree will be brilliantly lighted with scores of vari-colored bulbs and surrounded by five strings of lights at each street intersection, will prove the most outstanding of the city's decorations.

The singing of carols is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, under direction of Mrs. Ray Tyson, club pianist, assisted by J. H. The Ministerial Association is co-operating by furnishing the committee with the names of the sick and it will be the purpose of the singers to visit every bedside possible. TOBACCO MEN BEGIN HOLIDAY

Market Disposed of 3,853,490 Pounds of Tobacco During the Present Week.

Greenville tobaccoists cleared warehouse floors yesterday and suspended their labors to take part in the celebration of the Christmas holidays. The market will reopen Monday, January 11.

For the week just closed the market sold 3,853,490 pounds of tobacco for a total sum of $322,259.29, it was stated in the official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public this morning.

For the season the market sold 63,933,324 pounds of leaf to lead all other markets of the belt. The market paid out $6,085,715.61 and the general average was $9.52 per hundred pounds.

Due to the delay in marketing the first part of the season, sales have been fairly heavy for this season of the year and a considerable amount of leaf is expected to be handled when work is resumed after the holidays.

Suspension of sales for the holidays found the Greenville market in possession of a new record from the standpoint of volume handled in a single day. When the season was at its height over 1,500,000 pounds of leaf were handled daily on several occasions, but even this remarkable record was overshot on one occasion when sales went over 1,600,000 for a single day.

MANY VOTERS SIGN PETITION

Delegation of Pitt Democrats to Visit Raleigh Next Tuesday to Request Mr. Daniels to Permit them to Register Him as Candidate High Office; Petition Circulated in all Parts of County.

A movement to draft Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, as a candidate for governor gained considerable impetus here this week and will reach its climax next Tuesday when a delegation of Pitt county Democrats will go to Raleigh and formally present Mr. Daniels with the request from Pitt county voters.

A petition containing over two hundred names was in circulation throughout the county today and it was expected to bear more than a thousand names when it is presented to Mr. Daniels along with the request that he permit himself to be drafted for this important post. The petition reads:

"We, the undersigned Pitt county Democrats, do mutually associate ourselves into a club to draft Hon. Josephus Daniels a candidate for governor of North Carolina in the next primary, believing that by so doing we are serving the best interests of our state." The petition was signed, "For Daniels for Governor Club."

At a meeting Friday night to canvass the names for the petition the following resolution was adopted:

"At a meeting of the canvassing committee Friday night a resolution, was adopted to request and urge Mr. Daniels to permit Pitt county Democrats to register him as a candidate, and the committee was appointed to carry the petition to Raleigh.

Also, the meeting adopted a resolution to the effect; that it is to the best interest of Democracy that the present primary be more developed by injecting into it a little more statesmanship. In the past democracy, as an organization, has taken no part in registering candidates. Aspirants have been permitted, without approval, to register themselves and proceed to secure their own nominations by what ever methods they saw fit to adopt. This seems unsafe and certainly it has proven undemocratic, in results. To secure better results the resolution adopted relative to this provides that it is to the best interest of the party and government that the party designate and register one candidate for each office. This will tend to develop the strength of the party in support of one candidate for each office. Also, it was pointed out that if any aspiring Democrat felt that the convention designating candidates in the primary was "packed" that such Democrat had the privilege of registering himself and making his own campaign.

Enthusiasm characterized the meeting. It seemed to be realized that the average citizen is taking more interest in the affairs which shape and control public matters. It was freely discussed that the approaching campaign must be a contest between the "Big Fellows against the Average Fellows". It was agreed, however, that Democracy is about to assert itself, if the spirit of this meeting is any indication.

By Faith.

Have you ever tried, after reading or listening to that marvelous roll call of great men and women in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews to add to this list some of the notable worthies of modern times?

The writer of the Hebrews tells of men and women who "by faith" from the days of Abraham up to his time had wrought mighty deeds had conquered kings, had established nations, had fought valiant battles—who, in short, had rendered great service for humanity. What of the men and women who, by faith, in these latter days have wrought even greater deeds for humanity? Listen, while we call the roll of a few of them.

By faith, Louis Pasteur in France caught the vision of the germ of the disease and laid the foundation for all modern public health science.

By faith, Edward Livingston Trudeau, suffering from tuberculosis, saw at Saranac Lake, N. Y., the possibilities of providing treatment for millions of men and women who like himself, had the disease, and encompassed with his vision the day when through organization and education, the world would be rid of the great White Plague.

By faith, Vincent Y. Bowditch of Boston, came to the conclusion that tuberculosis need not be treated necessarily in distant climates and high altitudes, and proved that it could be treated anywhere, demonstrating to the United States the possibilities for local tuberculosis hospitals and other facilities for the care of the tuberculosis sick.

By faith, Lawrence F. Flick formed the first tuberculosis society on the American continent in Philadelphia, in 1892 and launched thereby what has proved to be the greatest life saving campaign of all the ages.

By faith, Hermann M. Biggs of New York City, seeing beyond the petty difficulties that blocked his progress everywhere, caught the vision of how to organize a local program for the control of tuberculosis and gave to America a model that has been followed for nearly forty years.

By faith, the National Tuberculosis Association has gone forward, carrying the message of these and hundreds of other pioneers and by faith we, in this year 1931, may also participate in this nation-wide humanitarian movement by the purchase of Christmas Seals.

The health department of the Woman's Club is selling Christmas Seals in Greenville.

Dances by this organization, given each quarter, are always the highlight of each season's social activities and that last night was no exception. Scores of visitors were in attendance, including several out-of-town people, and the dance was proclaimed one of the most brilliant of any holiday season of past years.

The building was appropriately decorated in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, and scores of couples whirled about the floor in an atmosphere completely in keeping with the festive season.

HOLD WOMAN IN DEATH OF JACK (LEGS) DIAMOND

He ignored a warning in the Troy court room the day before he was slain that New York gorillas were after him, and that night he went out alone and eventually reached home unattended.

The Diamond beer business still existed, but it had fallen off and the mob that Jack built up in the Catskill mountain, resort district virtually had been dispersed.

One reason advanced for the killing was that rival beer runners and racket promoters may have feared that Diamond, feed of state accusations by two Troy juries, would reassemble his hoodlums, revive his activities and revive the terroristic regime he set up in the Catskills.

This theory is strengthened by the fact that the killers waited until after the last jury exonerated Diamond.

Diamond "Kiki" Roberts, showgirl sweetheart of Diamond, was with her mother in Boston, whither she fled a few hours after the killing. Jack went from her room to his death, but police doubted she could help them.

Diamond's wife, Mrs. Alice Diamond, whom he left sitting in a speakeasy with friends while he kept a tryst with Miss Roberts, was in New York, where the body was taken last night. She will bury Diamond there, probably Monday.

But it was the third time the erstwhile bodyguard of the late Arnold Rothstein left Marion and stepped into enemy gunfire. She was with him in a New York hotel when rival gunmen riddled him with bullets that all but ended his career.

As czar of Greene county racketeers, he left her to make a call at the Saratoga Inn and was ambushed.

Finally he went to her, happy after a court victory at Troy, where he was acquitted of a kidnapping charge, and from her he went to his death.

So far as police know, Marion was the last woman to see him alive, and his wife was first to see him in death. Before she left for her former home in Maspeth, L. I., last night to make the funeral arrangements, Mrs. Diamond told how she felt about her husband's other woman.

"He loved her, and I loved him," she said. "That's all there was to it. It was nothing I or anyone else would help. I never felt particularly unfriendly toward her. It wouldn't have done any good."

SAYS RAIL WAGE CUTS TO BE SETTLED PEACEABLY

Press dispatches seem to Willard to have stressed the point that the railroad leaders had issued a 30-day ultimatum for a 15 per cent wage decrease. He contended it was made to appear that this point was the most important phase of the statement issued.

"Nothing of the kind," Willard said emphatically.

As he explained it. Some labor leaders suggested the formal serving of such notice. Willard said it would not have been issued that way otherwise.

"Our idea," he said, "was that the negotiations should have been pursued without such a notice, since, if they should fail, we could always put it out then."

INTER-RACIAL CONFAB SOON

(Continued from Page One) theory that the welfare and highest interests of white and negro peoples are mutual; that if they knew each other and the facts in a given situation, the best of each race could be trusted to do the right thing. Acting upon that philosophy, its efforts have been to get this theory into practice; to restore confidence through conference and co-operation based upon intelligence, justice, and fairness. Results have proved the soundness of this theory. As a by-product of these co-operative efforts to improve conditions and to provide more of the human needs of a modern community, a growing good will is evidenced in improved relationship and in more intelligent community co-operation.

Whitner Quits Under Fire at Princeton, N. J. By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Connected with Tiger football for twelve years, player for three, line coach for eight and head coach for one—Whitner announced his resignation last night although his four-year contract still has three years to run.

The resignation was accepted by the university board of athletics "with deep appreciation of your loyal and devoted services to football at Princeton over the past decade."

Whitner will continue as Princeton basketball coach, a post he has held since the 1922-23 season. Although the board of control said there had been no discussion as to a possible successor, the name of John P. (Chick) Meehan, who resigned as head coach at New York University less than a week ago, Jim Crowley of Michigan State and Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, were mentioned.

PLAN PUBLIC BRIDGE SHOW

Culbertson and Lenz May Appear on the Stage in N. Y.; Culbertson Lead Grows.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A subtle movement was under way today to put the four all-star bridge system battlers, currently playing quasi-secretly in Mr. Ely Culbertson's own pastebord arena, in a glass case on a New York stage for the benefit of charity.

The performance would be for one night and would allow the polo of the bridge flipping fraternity to get eyes and ears full of defender Sidney S. Lenz's quips at challenger Culbertson, and vice versa.

A star chamber session was held by all four players and the referees early today at the conclusion of the ninth session of play. It lasted 45 minutes and was ostensibly to discuss how many sessions, and when, would be played during the Christmas holidays.

Theodore A. Lightner replaced Mrs. Culbertson as her husband's partner Thursday night. The two sessions Lightner has played have been marked by a turn of the cards much in favor of Culbertson's side.

Culbertson's team will begin the Christmas week 7,915 points ahead of Lenz and Jacoby, having gained 12,755 points in a week.

Sunset Pass

By ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS: Truman Rock takes a job at Sunset Pass, under Gage Preston, to be near Preston's daughter, Thiry—and finds himself mixed up in a mystery. Thiry is terrified; his brother Ash is hostile and Gage Preston proves to be suspiciously prosperous. Thiry begs Rock to leave, but he refuses.

Chapter 20

EGYPT DISAPPEARS

Ash Preston was crooked. No doubt of this! Perhaps the father was, too, and some of the brothers. But Mrs. Preston was ignorant of it; so were Alice, and the younger brothers. Thiry bore this burden alone. That was the secret of her sad eyes and lips. That was the power Ash Preston had over her—love for him and fear. It did no longer seem unnatural. That was why no cow-boys ever got a fair chance to win Thiry Preston's friendship.

Rock knew the West. He had become a part of it. The Prestons were new, comparatively, to this wild range. He knew Western men, their uncanny power to suspect and search out and find among them the cattlemen who transgressed the unwritten laws. All cattle-raisers stole from one another. But there was a distinction with a difference.

Gage Preston was getting rich—a little bit swiftly for a rancher on an ordinary scale. How? Rock answered the query in many ways, but only one way seemed tenable. Preston sold cattle on the hoof, the same as other ranchers. None but rustlers ever sold cattle that did not belong to them. And certainly Preston could not be a rustler. It was inconceivable that Ash Preston could be a rustler, either, at least without his father's knowing. But Rock scouted the rustler idea.

The Prestons had become butchers of cattle on a considerable scale. Did any one, outside themselves, know just how many steers they butchered? What a pertinent question here! Rock was certain that he would find out that no outsiders knew how many head of stock they killed. And here was the gist of the matter.

Some of the Prestons, with Ash at the head, and the father either in with them or unable to prevent it, were killing cattle not their own, burning or hiding the skins, and selling the beef at near and distant points.

"Good Lord!" muttered Rock, under his breath. "I've hit it plum center—The damn fools, thinkin' they can hide that long! . . . Gage Preston ought to have more sense. He struck me queer, though. But it's that rattle-snake son who's got this outfit buffaloed. No wonder poor Thiry has sad eyes. Well, by Heaven, I'll stay at Sunset Pass!"

A bell awakened Rock from late slumbers. The sun was up and as he peeped out over his blanketed eye-crib he saw the grass shine gold under the cedars. He had overslept which was not a remarkable fact, considering how long it had taken him to get to sleep. In the sober light of day the task before him seemed tremendous. He had to prove his suspicions, and had lost no strength during sleep, and if they were well founded, then he must somehow stop the illicit proceedings before the Prestons were overwhelmed by catastrophe.

No new thing for Rock was it to appear a light-hearted, careless cowboy when underneath this guise he was hard and cautious, keen as a blade. The Prestons, excepting Ash, would be easy to deceive.

Briskly he strode toward the double cabin, conscious of heart-beat, ting anticipation, and when he thumped upon the porch Alice Preston came out of the kitchen, carrying plates and cup, which she set upon the table.

Mrs. Preston looked out of the kitchen and greeted Rock with pleasant smile and words.

"Are the boys up, too?" he asked as he fell upon the ham and eggs and hot biscuits.

"Land's sake! They're up an' gone long ago," she replied. "They were sure funny. Tom said: 'Let him sleep, Ma. The longer the better.'"

"An' Al said: 'Don't wake the new boss, Ma. He won't never get no sleep when Ash is here, so let him get some now.' An' Harry said: 'Ain't Thiry up yet, either?' Reckon settin' up in the moonlight is bad for some folks."

"It sure is, Mrs. Preston," laughed Rock. "I'm sorry, though, if I'm to blame."

"Oh, Thiry was up hours ago," Alice informed them. "Saw Pa and the boys ride away. I know she had a run-in with Ash, because she had been cryin'."

"That's too bad," said Rock, bending over his plate and eating fast. He had seen the mother's face change very slightly, almost imperceptibly. Ash Preston was a thorn in the flesh of this wholesome family.

Rock made short work of his breakfast, and glad somehow that he had not encountered Thiry, he hurried down toward the corral. At the barnyard Rock found Al Preston leaning in some horses; and one of his brothers was jacking up a hind wheel of the green wagon.

"Morning, boss. Hope you're not sick," drawled Al.

"Boys, I was plumb dead. I'll sure let you punish me for bein' lazy." The other boy nodded at Rock.

"Are you Tom or Harry?" asked Rock, suddenly reminded of the twins.

"All right, Harry, I'll know you tomorrow or bust. Where's Tom?"

"He left us to grease the wagon and went off after a horse for you?" "For my white horse, Egypt?" asked Rock. "No—I'm—sorry to say," returned Harry, haltingly, as if he had had news. "Did Egypt jump the pasture fence?" "No, Ash saddled him and rode off on him."

Rock sat down suddenly, stifling the yell that leaped to his lips. (Copyright, Zane Grey)

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, at an advance of 4 to 7 points on overnight buying orders. Trading was active and January sold at 6.31.

Trading was quite active with the demand coming from local, Wall Street and trade sources while there was also some buying here believed to be for Liverpool and Japanese account. The demand was checked by realizing combined with some southern selling, however, and prices eased off a few points after the initial demand had been supplied with January selling around 6.25 at the end of the first half hour; May reacted from 6.68 to 6.63. Liverpool cables said the market there was higher on Bombay buying and reported fair sales of cotton yarns to India. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 193,000 bales against 168,000 last year.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Grain prices averaged lower early today despite firmness of the New York stock market. Bearish factors were relative weakness of Liverpool what quotations and the fact that the decrease in official estimates of United States winter wheat acreage was smaller than expected. Opening unchanged to 3-8 lower, wheat receded all around and then rallied slightly. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 higher, subsequently sagged and then advanced.

Upturn in wheat values following early setbacks carried the market soon to a cent a bushel higher than yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats followed wheat market changes.

Provisions were firmer, responsive to action of hog values.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The sweeping advances in security prices were well maintained in today's session, despite a flurry of hangover liquidation in shares in the last few minutes.

Railroad securities, both stocks and bonds, were swept upward, on top of yesterday's wide advances, by news that Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio had assured the president that he was confident of successful termination of the negotiations for a wage reduction.

The selling in shares in the last few minutes, however, reduced or cancelled the earlier gains, many of which had ranged from one to four points. The close was irregular, with narrow gains and losses for the most part. Trading was active, the turnover for the two hour session aggregating some 1,500,000 shares.

Norfolk & Western pushed up 4 points. Three point gains in Union Pacific and Santa Fe were sharply reduced. New York Central and Southern Pacific lost about half of extreme gains of 2 points.

American Telephone turned heavy losing 2 points. Standard of New Jersey was also sold in some volume, losing about a point.

United Corp. preferred also was a soft spot, off 3. Bethlehem preferred, however, shot up more than 6 points. U. S. Steel closed off a minor fraction, after getting up a point. Auburn, after selling up more than 3, closed about 3 net lower.

Foreign markets improved, in response to yesterday's upturn in Wall Street. The outlook for certain commodities was also regarded as much brighter, notably copper. No further advance in metal prices was had today, but further advances were widely predicted in the trade. The cotton market was steady, closing virtually unchanged.

Weekend news from the steel industry was somewhat mixed. While most quarters in the trade were looking for numerous year-end shut-downs, estimates of next week's output for the Youngstown area were unexpectedly encouraging, indicating a fair increase in aggregate output.

Notable in foreign exchanges was a strengthening of the dollar as against the French franc, and recoveries in sterling and German marks, in terms of the dollar. Sterling cables at $3.29 3-4 were up 3-4 cents.

New Hotel For Atlantic Beach

R. W. Cordon, representing Manufacturers Trust Company of New York, owners of Atlantic Beach at Morehead City, was in Greenville this morning on his way back to New York from Morehead. Mr. Cordon for the past two years has had charge of the management of Atlantic Beach and his business here at this time was in connection with completion of the new hotel erected on the beach since the closing of the past summer season.

Mr. Cordon stated he had come from Atlanta where he arranged for shipment of furniture for the hotel. The hotel will be completely furnished, placed in charge of a caretaker immediately and everything will be in readiness for the opening of the next summer season.

It is believed by the owners of the beach property that the building of this hotel on the beach will be a greatly added attraction and they are looking forward with much optimism toward the coming season.

Greensboro, (AP)—Woodrow Smith, who was convicted of careless and reckless driving and sentenced to 30 days on the road or $20 fine said he would keep his money and go on the roads.

These proposals, looking to a higher standard in southern conference athletics, had previously been approved by an inner group of seven member schools which organized here Thursday and served notice that they would give preference in shaping schedules to those schools which observed the stricter requirements.

The seven member group is scheduled to hold a further meet.

ing later today. The members are Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Tulane and Florida.

In addition to approving the commissioner, the conference adopted amendments to its by-laws providing "no one employed by or officially connected with the athletic staff of a member institution shall engage in recruiting by offering financial inducements; and another which read that "all scholarships and loan funds for which athletes are eligible must be placed in the hands of the university officer or committee that usually administers such funds, with no preference to athletes."

The conference voted for a high commissioner in Southern conference Athletics to supervise competition and enforce eligibility rules, directing the president to name a committee of four to consider all angles of the commissioner's duties and to report at a special meeting of the conference in Atlanta in February.

Strictures on recruiting of players from secondary schools and seeming athletics subsidies also were adopted in the closed session of conference delegates which lasted into the early hours of this morning.

VOTE TO RAISE REQUIREMENTS FOR ATHLETICS

New Orleans, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A situation that threatened to split the southern conference appeared to have been averted early today when the conference as a whole adopted a program designed to raise the standard of scholastic eligibility requirements for its athletes.

DEMPSEY MAY AGAIN ENTER "BIG" FIGHT

Sioux Falls, S. D., Dec. 19.—(AP)—He has not quite decided, but Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion of the world, thinks he will be ready for another whirl in the big time next summer, not, however, that he is "broke."

Dempsey finished his exhibition bout here last night and decided himself pleased with the progress he has made in meeting around 150 opponents in 40 cities.

"My plans are still indefinite," Dempsey said, "but I will say that if I progress as rapidly during the next few months, when I intend resuming my tour, as I have in the past months, I will be ready and willing to take another whirl at big game among the heavy-weights."

Any idea that Dempsey is "broke" apparently is all wrong, for he said he planned to return to action "in the game that has given me an opportunity to make many friends, as well as fortified me financially for the days to come."

He said he planned to visit his mother at Salt Lake City, Utah, during the holidays, then will go to Reno, Nev., to rest until January 10, when the tour will be resumed. The tour will continue until late in March, after which he will rest again before going into strenuous training for "whatever" might present itself sometime late this summer.
