GANDHI ARRESTED AS INDIA AGAIN DEFIES BRITISH GOVERNMENT

NATIONALIST LEADER HELD

Mahatma Arrested Dramatically Following Issuance of Ultimatum in Disobedience Campaign; Carried to Old Jail at Yerawda But Refuses to Talk on Account of Observance Of Day of Prayer.

Poona, India, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi was walked up today in the British jail at Yerawda, a few miles from here, for the third time in his career as leader of the Indian Nationalists. He was arrested dramatically at Bombay in the early morning hours for what the warrant said were "good and sufficient reasons."

Vallabhai Patel, president of the Indian National Congress, also was taken into custody and a new series of repressive decrees against boycotting of British goods, "unlawful instigation," "unlawful association" and other acts associated with the civil disobedience type of "warfare" were promulgated at New Delhi by Viceroy Lord Willingdon.

The Mahatma and Patel, the only two members of the Congress, arrived here under guard at 9:30 a. m., both chilled through from the 120 mile ride from Bombay. It was Gandhi's day of silence and this kept him from speaking, but he gave his old jailer a broad smile of recognition, beaming upon him like an old friend. Once inside the jail he turned without hesitation to his old quarters which had been hurriedly prepared to receive him.

Gandhi's prison baggage included his portable spinning wheel, a pail of goat's milk, a basket of fruit, a rusty pen knife, an American fountain pen, a spare loincloth, a pair of sandals, a copy of an essay of Thoreau's which includes a dissertation on civil disobedience, a straw mattress and a Bible.

As the police commissioner arrested the Mahatma Mrs. Gandhi exclaimed tearfully, "Can't you take me also?" But the official replied that his warrant called only for her husband. So she stepped sadly aside.

"It will be a bitter fight to the finish," was Patel's message to the nation when, five minutes after the arrest of Gandhi, he also was taken into custody. "But it must be a non-violence struggle," he added.

Little groups of Gandhi's white-capped followers gathered and shouted, "Long live the Mahatma!" as the leader entered the prison car bareheaded and took his seat beside the prison physician, Dr. Bessal. He seemed pleased at being taken to Yerawda prison for it was there last year that he said the British had made him a "pampered prisoner," giving him a number of comfortable rooms instead of an ordinary cell.

It was considered doubtful, however, whether he would be permitted to have his own flock of goats brought to the prison this time as he did last year, for to believe prevailed in Bombay that Lord Willingdon would prove a more strict custodian than was Lord Irwin, his predecessor.

Two Depositors Stage Robbery Of Closed Bank

Moncks Corner, S. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Determined to get their money from the closed branch of the Peoples State Bank of South Carolina, two depositors today held up the assistant cashier, forced her to open the vault and fled with approximately $2,000.

Rail Head Sued

William B. Storey, 74, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, and his wife were named defendants in a $200,000 suit filed in Chicago by Ulysses Grant Warren, formerly a minister of Corning, N. Y., who charged alienation of affections. Mrs. Warren has begun a divorce suit in Reno.

PUSH SEARCH FOR SLAYERS

Houston, Texas, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Seven Houston detectives armed with riot guns searched a cottage here today for Harry and Jennings Young, Missouri desperadoes, but failed to find them. They acted upon a report Harry Young's bride of three weeks occupied the house. Nearby residents hurriedly left the neighborhood fearing a gun fight.

AGREE ON NEW TARIFF POLICY

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Democratic Senate-House policy committee today agreed on a tariff bill. The measure was drafted during the Christmas holidays by Speaker Garnier, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, Representative Reiney of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Collier of the House ways and means committee.

SUES OFFICERS FOR SLAYING

Goldboro, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie R. Roberts today filed suit for $60,000 against Sheriff John Morris and four other New Hanover county officers, charging them with conspiracy in the death of her husband, Lupo Roberts.

JAPS OCCUPY ANOTHER CITY

Tientsin, China, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Reports here today said the Japanese army in Manchuria had pushed southward along the Peking-Mukden Railway from Chinchow and occupied the town of Lienshan. It was believed they had not met resistance, for the only Chinese troops north of Shanhaikwan are two battalions detached from the brigade formerly stationed at that point.

Army is Reported To Have Taken Charge of Lienshan Without Resistance.

Northbound trains on the main line of the Peking-Mukden railway are turning back now at Shanhaikwan but there is still local service as far as Lienshan. Observers here now believe that the major theater of developments lies between here and Shanhaikwan. Evacuation of Chinchow temporarily put a stop to military complications in Manchuria but a considerable Japanese force, naval and military, has been shifted into the territory between Shanhaikwan and this city, south of the great wall. It was estimated the Japanese have more than 2,000 troops here in addition to 600 infantrymen and an artillery section at Shanhaikwan. Also eleven Japanese warships have been patrolling the shore line between Taku, the port of Tientsin, and Shanhaikwan, 150 miles away. (Continued on Page Four)

'Biggest Cop'

Sergeant Patrick J. Kelly of the police force in Summit, N. J., claims to be the biggest, heaviest and tallest policeman in the United States. He weighs 384 and stands 6 feet 4.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL BEGINS

Wilson, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Four men and a woman, accused of conspiring to obstruct justice in connection with a receivership action brought against the Home Mortgage Company of Hickory, a $7,000,000 corporation, were called to trial here today.

RAIL RATES GO UP TODAY

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Railroad rates go up today on every class of freight except agricultural commodities. This is concrete first aid to the roads which are having hard times making ends meet under the shrunken volume of commerce. All except roads already in bankruptcy, will collect the increases in the form of emergency surcharges.

Police Probe Explosion Of Bombs In Four Cities

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The police of four cities today sought the perpetrators of three bombings and an attempt to dynamite the St. Louis Mart, a 20-story structure in the heart of the industrial district of the Missouri metropolis. No one was killed or injured. The bombs were exploded in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, Trenton, N. J., and Chicago yesterday and last night. At Coeur D'Alene two dynamite bombs were thrown at the home commissioner Emmett M. Barnes. The first one failed to explode, and the second struck a small tree and exploded with terrific force before reaching the house. Barnes is in charge of unemployment relief crews working on county roads, but could give no explanation of the motive.

Police Probe Explosion Of Bombs In Four Cities

Racketeers were blamed for the bombing of a beauty parlor in Trenton. Two bombs were exploded at the shop, which is directly across the street from the East Trenton Presbyterian church, the members of whose congregation were terrified by the force of the detonations. The calmness of the Rev. J. Elliott Epright, the pastor, who was preaching at the time, was believed to have averted a panic. He urged his congregation to remain seated. In Chicago a black powder bomb the first of 1932—was exploded in front of a garage, but the damage was slight. The police were investigating a report that the failure of the owner of the place to join an association of garage men might have been the motive. The St. Louis police believe the attempt to damage the St. Louis Mart was made by inexperienced persons. A fuse attached to twenty eight sticks of dynamite became extinguished almost as soon as it was lighted. Two policemen found the bomb, which had been dropped into the entrance through a door the glass of which had been broken. Charles E. Rickardson, president of the building corporation, was unable to ascribe a motive, adding that there had been no labor difficulties at the building. Meanwhile Federal and other investigators continued a search for those responsible for last week's Easton, Pa., bombings which caused the deaths of three men. Apparently investigators had found no definite clues.

HOOVER RELIEF PLAN ASSAILED AS VICIOUS BY GOVERNOR PINCHOT

URGES DIRECT FEDERAL HELP

Pennsylvania Executive Declares Program for Unemployment Takes Money from the Little Fellow and Does Not Affect the Big Man.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The "Hoover-Gifford" unemployment relief plan" was assailed as "vicious" by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania today before the Senate manufacture committee.

The Republican governor urged direct federal aid for unemployment, a plan opposed by President Hoover.

"It is vicious," he said, raising his voice. "It takes money from the little fellow. It does not take it from the big fellow."

"It is an attempt to get by without increasing taxes and letting the big fellows come in to share the load."

He said his state has more than one million unemployed. (Continued on Page Four)

Every Class of Freight Involved in Increase Except Agricultural Products.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Railroad rates go up today on every class of freight except agricultural commodities. This is concrete first aid to the roads which are having hard times making ends meet under the shrunken volume of commerce. All except roads already in bankruptcy, will collect the increases in the form of emergency surcharges.

The weathered roads, through a newly formed corporation, will loan the proceeds to the weaker ones. They are standing together to maintain general railroad credit, to keep up the value of bonds by making possible payment of interest on all.

The surcharge will range from six cents on a ton on bulky classes of carload freight, to two cents per hundred pounds on odd-lot shipments. Their establishment is the final compromise between the roads and the Interstate Commerce Commission a rate boosting proposal which began seven months ago with the railroad demand for a flat 15 per cent increase. GUINAN CLUB IN NEW YEAR'S RAID

Dry agents raided Texas Guinan's Chicago night club a few hours before a rollicking New Year's celebration was to have taken place, and stripped the place of its furnishings. Here the Broadway night club hostess is shown as she shouted, "Here's a bottle you forgot," to the raiders.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Japan presented an apology today for the assault by three Japanese soldiers last night on Culver B. Chamberlain, the American consul.

Party Faces Big Decisions

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—This week ushers in a period of fundamental decisions for the Democratic party.

With the Jackson Day dinner on Friday, signs point to an ending of that jockeying for the starting line which so far has marked the activities of leading prospects for the presidential nomination.

About the same time a clarification of party policy may begin. In showing the Democrats elders are growing signs of getting their feet squarely on the ground, preparing to offer legislation bearing so indelibly the party trade mark as to force it upon the country's attention as campaign material. Tariff and tax plans seem the leaders in this.

The Jackson Day dinner brings back to the arena, as a political speaker at least, Alfred E. Smith, about whose potential candidacy once again speculation has been exceedingly busy. With the assembling of the party's key men, the disciples of such leading prospective candidates as Governor Roosevelt of New York, and Governor Ritchie of Maryland, are intensifying their consultations. Hats certainly fly into the ring soon, almost certainly within the month.

Saturday should bring something like a test on the determined thrusting forward of prohibition as a party issue. There will be an effort in the committee meeting to quench anything like the outbreak which Chairman John J. Raskob precipitated last March with the injection of his state liquor control plan. If it comes up again they will try to sidetrack it into the convention.

The committee must pick the convention city. Chicago and Kansas City are among the favorites, Atlantic City is mentioned, and a delegation from San Francisco is coming with an awfully strong talking point—a $150,000 certified check to defray convention expenses.

Several Arrested In Raid on Mine Union Quarters

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Local headquarters of the National Miners Union, which called a strike in the southeastern Kentucky coal fields, were raided today, several men taken in custody and a quantity of literature seized. Deputy sheriffs made the raid on orders of County Attorney Walter B. Smith, who ordered them to seize any seditious literature found. Mr. Smith said he intended to break up the activities of any communist organization in Bell county. Rocky Mount.—(AP)—J. R. Marshall, charged with attempted assault upon Ollie Joyner, 15-year-old girl, was held for superior court at a preliminary hearing.

NURSE HANGS TWO CHARGES AND HERSELF

Police Begin Probe Into Three Deaths at Fashionable Suburban Lake Forest.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Authorities today sought the reasons why Mary Roth, 23, a nurse, maid of unknown origin, hanged her two small charges and herself in the fashionable, suburban Lake Forest. The blonde domestic, who cared for the children with devotion which sometimes, the children's parents said, bordered upon jealous insanity, suspended nine-month-old George by the neck to the side of his crib.

The elder brother, John B. Heindel, 4, was found hanged with a short piece of rope in the doorway. Miss Roth hanged herself in a closet of the basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Heindel, who were attending a bridge party Saturday night, found the bodies after police helped them break into the barred and locked home.

Bursting in, they found gas escaping from the kitchen range. Bed sheets had been hung about to arrest drafts. Their frantic search for the children ended at the nursery door.

Police said they believed the nursemaid carried the sleeping children into the gas-filled kitchen where she left them until they were unconscious or dead. Then she tied up the motionless little bodies.

The grief-stricken parents were at a loss to account for the tragedy. Miss Roth, they said, loved the children with such intensity that she refused to leave them during their waking hours. She even slept in an adjoining room. Upon occasions she appeared jealous when the mother fondled the children.

During the past several days, Heindel said, she had seemed depressed, but inasmuch as she refused to confide her troubles, he assumed they were personal affairs. He said there was no reason for her to believe that she was to be discharged.

Dr. Francis J. Gerty of the Psychopathic hospital, advanced the theory that the maid's affection for the children had developed into a form of insanity. Such aberrations, Dr. Gerty asserted, were not unusual in childless women, and often caused similar tragedies.

Police were inclined, however, to follow another line of investigation. Miss Roth became employed by the Heindels three weeks after George was born. Mrs. Heindel engaged her through a church employment agency.

Two weeks previous to this she was a roomer in the home of Mrs. John Drexman of Chicago. She packed two suitcases and a hatbox when she left the Drexman home. She had only the hatbox when she arrived at the Heindels.

Mrs. Heindel said the girl explained that she came from Georgia. Beyond that, the girl said nothing, either to Mrs. Heindel or to Mrs. Drexman. She never talked of her personal affairs.

Mrs. G. H. Hardy Passes Away Here; Final Rites Today

Mrs. George H. Hardy died at the hospital here on Sunday morning at about one o'clock. She had been sick but a few days and her unexpected death was a great shock to her family and friends. She leaves surviving her husband; two young sons; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ross Smith, of Robinsonville; five brothers: Roy Smith of Richmond; Hubert Smith, Williams son and Curtis Milton and James Smith of Wilmington; and Miss Myrtle Keel Smith of Robinsonville.

Funeral services were conducted from her home at No. 1101 Cotanche street at three o'clock this afternoon by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, of which Mrs. Hardy was a devoted member. She was buried in Greenwood cemetery.

ABOUT TOWN

Milk thieves are continuing to harass households in various parts of the city, and the police department is in a fruit trying to break up the practice. Three young negroes were apprehended for stealing bottles of milk from porches during the early hours about a month ago and four more were rounded up the latter part of last week.

The theft of milk from porches proves very embarrassing to milk companies and their patrons, and there will be no letup in the vigilance of city officers until the movement has been stopped.

The suggestion of Representative Fish of New York for a probe of Fascist activities in this country probably will receive immediate attention by Congress in view of the attempted bombings which recently claimed three lives.

Fish termed the bombings as a diabolical conspiracy and called on Congress to do something about it. Although Congress has had its hands full of investigations into activities of public life for the past two years, it is confronted with a situation where a complete investigation is not only necessary but highly important to the welfare of the nation.

If there should be a conspiracy to disrupt law and order it should be ferreted out and the conspirators fully punished. Such an investigation unquestionably would prove expensive to the government, but it should also have a tendency to produce more far-reaching results than some of the others which have been prosecuted from time to time in recent years.

The loss by fire in this part of the state continues to increase with each day's news, bringing the people face to face with the necessity of more concerted effort to reduce the constant menace of the fire demon.

Greenville, due to three large and spectacular blazes, experienced a four times greater loss in 1931 than in 1930. This occurred in the face of the fact that we have one of the most efficient fire departments for any town of similar size in the state. It is impossible to cope with fire unless hazards are definitely removed, and the thing Eastern Carolina must do is to clean up all rubbish and decrease fire hazards. Fires are more frequent during the winter months than any other time of the year because of more extensive use of fire for cooking and warmth in the hundreds of homes of the community, and it should be the duty of every household to see that it is given no chance of getting out of control.

Stockholders of two banks at Hickory received dividend checks amounting to $30,000 last week, and that people in other communities will receive similar checks in the near future goes without question. Many banks of the state in spite of hard times the last two years have enjoyed thriving business, and will play an important part in the recovery of the state from the period of depression felt so keenly in all communities. The paying of dividends is the most cheering news we have heard in some time, and the more they do it the more the people will be impressed with the fact that all the money has not gone to some other section of the country.

The tobacco market will re-open after the holidays tomorrow, and farmers will continue their pilgrimage to Greenville to continue disposition of the crops. Although a considerable part of the crop has already been sold, numbers of growers still have right much tobacco on hand and will speed up marketing with the resumption of sales. Tobaccoists who went to homes in other parts of the county to spend the holidays will be back on the job, and all large buying companies will have their regular breeze of returned property.

Sunset Pass

By ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS: Intrigue menaces Trueman Rock's happiness when an old love, Amy Dabb, tries to poison Thiry Preston's mind against him. He is working for Thiry's father because he loves her, although he fears that Gage Preston is rustling cattle. Thiry's brother, Ash, has warned all cowboys against interest in Thiry.

Chapter 32 "HOWDY, MISTER RED SCARF" "Amy's happiness," flashed Rock. "I don't need to swear that, if you really know me, as you told Hesbitt. "I met Amy the day I arrived in Wagonwagon and again yesterday. Dabb, she'd scalp me alive if she ever found out I told you this. . . . She's lonesome and unhappy. You've failed to win the best in her, Dabb. I don't suppose anyone ever dared to hit you this way. I don't care a d—how angry you get, if I can only make you see."

"You're making me see red, cowboy," replied Dabb, hoarsely. "But go ahead. I've not the nerve to pull a gun on you." "Dabb, I always had a hunch you weren't a bad fellow, under your skin. You're rich now. Pay some attention to your young and pretty wife! Like you did before you married her! If you don't do this, sure as I'm sittin' here, Amy is goin' to the bad. . . . That's what I came to say and that's all."

Rock ended abruptly, forced by the older man's torture. The rancher wheeled in his chair, clawed at things on his desk, bent his head, and jerked it aloft, then with action growing slower and slower he lighted another cigar. When again he turned, his face was half enveloped in smoke. "You are a queer one—Rock," he stammered, with incoherence gradually clearing. "I don't know whether to order you out of my office—or to believe I'm a d—d old fool you make me out. . . . Any way, it's too sudden. You've hit me where I live. And it hurts like sixty. . . . But you talk like a man. And I'm not yet so set in my mind that I can't learn from any man."

"I'm not convinced, but I'm some staggered. If the truth turns out as straight as your talk—well, young man, you're on parole till I find out. . . . Now since you've presumed to advise me on a delicate matter, I'll retaliate. "Throw your gun, John. I'm ready to duck."

"Quit Preston!" cut out Dabb. "Why?" snapped Rock, just as sharply. "I can't say." "But why can't you say?" "Some things just can't be said. "Because they can't be proved. "Exactly."

"I'll stick to Preston until these damned underhand rumors are proved—or until somebody suffers for startin' them. "If you do any gun-throwing in defense of Preston, it'll ruin you. "That depends. It's far-fetched, Dabb. "Not at all—if you're sweet on Thiry Preston," rejoined Dabb. "Between you and me—I am."

"So—That accounts, I'll respect your confidence, Rock. She's a charming girl. "I think I ought to tell you I've broken business relations with Preston. Preston had the small end of a cattle deal with me. I bought him a suit. And then I cancelled all beef orders. "How did Preston take that?" inquired Rock, after a moment. "Kicked about the deal. But I took it he was relieved to get out of selling me more beef. My reason was good, but I could scarcely divulge it to him."

"Mind tellin' me?" asked Rock, leisurely rolling a cigarette. "Yes, I'd mind. It would necessitate violating some one's confidence. "By the way, Dabb, are you still head of the Territory Cattle Association?" "No, I resigned. Hesbitt was elected. "Gee! Sorry to hear it. "He never was a cowboy," said Rock, significantly. "Good day, Dabb, Reckon I'll meet up with you at the rodeo and the dance."

buyers on the floors of various warehouses. Pitt county farmers have produced plenty to eat this year, and they mean to share it with the unfortunate of the community. Producers who patronize the curb market here gave large amounts of foodstuffs to the poor the latter part of last week, and it did its part toward relieving some of the distress and hunger.

The food was distributed under direction of Miss Lill Wilson, who has been quite active in relief work and whose efforts are contributing greatly toward amelioration of the condition. The success of 1932 depends upon united effort of the community to improve its condition. In the words of Mayor Flanagan, there must be a pronounced spirit of loyalty in evidence every day of the year if the people hope to experience achievements like those of the past.

Business men are facing the future with confidence and optimism, believing that the best is to come out of the changing conditions of past months. They mean to meet every problem with commonsense and enthusiasm and who doubts but that they will come out with colors drifting proudly in the breeze of returned property.

"But there's a secret, understanding between you and her—for this dance." "Yes, there is. But it's not sentiment on my part," he replied. "I mean to defend Amy Dabb. She needs it. Heaven knows. But if you let her jealous tongue 'spoil anything' for you, I'm through." "Trueman, I could forgive a great deal, I think, but no bold lie," she murmured, her grave eyes piercing him. "I would not lie to you, to save my life," he returned, in weary cold finality. "I apologize. It is I who am a little suspicious," she returned, softly. "I'm a woman and I haven't told you my real feelings. And I cannot. But I could never cope with Mrs. Dabb. She read my soul and tortured it. She thought I might—like you and meant to destroy." "Thiry, did she destroy what little there might have been?" asked Rock. "She averted her face. "I don't know," he said, excitedly. Perhaps at the dance—if you disprove much and prove more I will—" The arrival of Altes Preston, breathless and pink and merry, checked Rock's impassioned reply. The girls, laughing and talking, started for home, and Rock accompanied them toward the corner. Just before they arrived there, a man and a woman hove in sight. Evidently she was trying to hurry away from him. "I tell you no—no!" she cried, in a rage. Then Rock recognized the voice and the blazing black eyes. Amy Dabb! The man was a tall rider. He wore a red scarf, and his face was almost red. "She hear, sweetheart, you can't come that with me," he drawled. Rock with a stride and leap was upon them. "Rustle, Amy, with the girls," said Rock sharply, as he gave the rider a hard thrust back and then confronted him. "Howdy, Mister Red Scarf!" Copyright, Zane Grey

In the afternoon, rather late, Rock walked round to see Winter. He was received almost with open arms. "The Prestons got in early. True, Thiry has been in half a dozen times," said Winter. "Asked for you every time!" "Sol, you lyin' old geezer!" "She came an' went," Sol went on, "till the last time, a little while ago, who she was with Amy. Then you bet she didn't ask about you. He! He! He! . . . I'll bet you a million Amy got in some good ticks." "Sol, you can laugh about that!" ejaculated Rock, with a groan. "Rock rushed out to the door, where through the window he had espied Thiry Preston. The action brought him right in front of Thiry. "Why, hello!" he said, forcing a pleasant surprise to hide his rapture, as he doffed his sombrero. She greeted him shyly, with absence of inhibited expression which marked her meetings with him at Sunset Pass. "We started at daybreak yesterday morning," she said. "Oh, Ash stayed home." She spoke this as if it was an afterthought, scarcely important. "That so?" replied Rock, with constraint, though he inhaled. "Well, it's too bad, if you're disappointed." "I'm so greatly relieved I—I don't know myself," she replied, with unexpected candor. "I don't remember a Fourth that Ash hasn't spoiled by getting drunk."

"May I walk with you a step?" asked Rock, chancing the subject. "You may." She lifted her head. Rock devalued her lovely face before he realized it had never worn such an expression for him. Doubt, disdain, petulance! "You're going to the dance," she said. It was not a question. "Reckon I'll drop in for a peep," he replied, his heart giving symptoms of pyrotechnics. "Are you going to mask?" "Sure. It wouldn't be fun otherwise."

"Would you tell me what you'll wear?" she asked, sweetly—too sweetly not to be dangerous. "That'd spoil the fun. I sure want to fool you," he protested. "Have you not already fooled me?" she went on, with bitterness tingled with pathos. "I have not!" he shot at her, swift to speak his sudden passion. It startled her. "Trueman Rock, you have a great deal to disprove and more to prove," she said, wide strange eyes on his. "My Rock," she went on, "this dance was to be the first gay happy time for me—since I grew up. Dad somehow prevented Ash from coming to town. He filled me with beliefs about how you would make it wonderful for me. I—I dreamed myself into. . . . no matter what. . . . Then I come to town to have my ears filled to burning—all day long. The dance was to be given for you! You wouldn't even dance with any other woman but her! You were an old lover renewing his vows! You—"

Thiry, hush!" interposed Trueman, in rage, despair, and exaltation, all bewilderingly mingled. "I trusted you and that woman has killed it." "Oh, no Thiry, don't say that."

At last—the mysterious rider. Why has he been looking for Rock? The two clash Wednesday. SALE OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS TOOLS, FEED, CORN AND PERSONAL PROPERTY ON R. L. Crime Continues to Show Decrease in This Territory

Crime continued to reflect a distinct reduction today in a report of city and county officers showing few arrests during the week end.

Sheriff Whitehurst stated the situation was extremely quiet in all sections of the county, and that only a few arrests for minor offenses were recorded by township officers.

A similar situation prevailed in Greenville and only a few cases were given hearing in police court today. They involved minor charges of theft.

Smith Speaks At Mildred, Bethel

Walter Smith, Greenville churchman, spoke to congregations at Bethel and Mildred yesterday.

He addressed the congregation of Bethel Baptist church yesterday morning and last night, and the congregation at Mildred during the afternoon.

Rev. W. L. Barrs, pastor of the two churches, who has been sick for several weeks, was reported as getting along nicely today and hoped he would be able to fill his pulpit in the near future.

Mr. Smith, who has been in considerable demand by various churches in this section, spoke at Battleboro and Whitakers the previous Sunday.

Commissioners In Regular Session

The regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners was in progress here today but only matters of a routine nature were scheduled for consideration.

All members of the board were present and it was indicated that work would be finished during the early afternoon.

City and County Schools Re-Open

After enjoying unnumbered pleasures of the holiday season, students of both city and county schools returned to work today.

City schools closed for celebration of Christmas December 18, but the county schools did not suspend work until the following Tuesday. Inspirational exercises dealing with the Yuletide were given by practically all institutions before the closing.

Slight Interest Still Displayed in Marriage Altar

Interest in matrimony was at a low ebb in Pitt county during the week-end and only two licenses to marry were issued by Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins for that period.

The lowest record for many past years was recorded in the issuance of licenses here this year, but officials looked for a revival of business with the coming of balmy days of springtime.

Both couples applying for licenses over the week-end were colored: They were Herbert Foreman to Mattie Washington, of Greenville; Stephen Tuson to Lillian Paskey, of Farmville.

SURPLUS FOOD CROP IN PITT

Live-at-Home Program Results in Production of an Abundance of Foodstuffs.

By E. F. ARNOLD, County Agt. The farm set-up in Pitt county, consisting of the Pitt County Board of Agriculture, two county-wide committees on field crop and live stock production and the county farm agent, have been working for the past five years for a diversified agriculture, termed by some a live-at-home program. This program has resulted in Pitt county having an abundance of food and feed for both man and beast in this good year of 1932. We will not only have plenty for ourselves but a surplus for our neighbors.

In order that this surplus of food and feed might find an economically organized outlet, the organized farmers incorporated a Mutual Exchange for handling the buying and marketing problems of the farmers by consolidating the marketing activities of the poultry growers, the swine growers and the curd market sellers in order that the potato growers, sorghum producers, and other products resulting from the live-at-home program might have an outlet for their produce. We have already had buyers of sorghum asking for quotations as far away as Bedford, Mass., and national distributors of sweet potatoes asking for trade connection with our organization. However, the policy of our organization is to give local agencies the first opportunity at all sales and purchases.

Market House on Cotanche Street The curb market joined the Mutual Exchange last November and the first sale held under supervision of the Pitt County Mutual Exchange with Miss Henrietta Hyde as manager, was on November 28. The total sales, including November 28 to January 2, amounted to $430.65. For the same period last year the sales were only $217.61. The exchange is highly pleased with this improvement in sales. The exchange is also pleased with the cooperation of the buying public of Greenville. This organization feels that if each buyer of food that can be produced in the trade territory of Greenville, whether on the street or in the store, would demand that the seller of said food state from whom he purchases and where same was produced and refused to buy if locally produced food could be had, that they would at once become the most important factor in a return of prosperity to our section. With a demand of this coming from the customers of our storekeepers, it would create a demand to home grown products. Every grocery store in town has bands of foreign-grown syrup with 50,000 gallons on the farms of Pitt county looking for a market. Surrounding counties will flood our streets with sweet potatoes known as "hill potatoes," which are diseased and will rot within a few days after taken from the "hills". We have 30 sweet potato curing houses brimful with cured, disease-free potatoes to offer the buying public. When buying sorghum or potatoes, demand home-grown and watch Old Man Prosperity come into the sunlight. In this way you are helping our farmers finance next year's crop which means they will have money with which to buy from local stores the supplies they cannot produce on the farm. Think about it seriously, folks, and buy home-grown poultry, eggs, pork, potatoes, sorghum, cream, milk, butter, vegetables, nuts, meal and various other products. They can be had—if you can't get them at the stores. Farmers carry a surplus home from the curb market house every Tuesday and Saturday. They would be glad to sell you. They have one of the best-equipped markets in the state and are offering a line of fresh wholesome, home-grown food that cannot be excelled anywhere from a standpoint of quality and freshness and price. It is all guaranteed, direct from the farm to market. It is not hauled all over the country and then kept over several days. Every article is fresh and crisp.

Greenville is fortunate to have such a market and with it comes Greenville's opportunity to help give relief. The town is now engaged in a relief campaign. All our farmers need is buyers—for what they have to sell. Insist that all articles of food you buy be home-grown and you will have a real relief, prosperity, the kind we are all hoping for.

Miller said they had planned the robbery last night. They entered the bank this morning after Miss Maggie Wiggins, the assistant cashier, had left the front door unlocked as she was opening the morning's mail.

Monck's Corner, S. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Two depositors in the branch of the Peoples State Bank of South Carolina, which closed Saturday, held up the assistant cashier here today, opened the vault and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Sheriff C. P. Ballentine of Berkeley county said the men were H. E. Mill and Blease Woodward, both of Monck's Corner. When they entered the bank, Miss Maggie Wiggins, the assistant cashier, fainted and an hour later had not sufficiently revived to indicate how much had been taken. She was not subjected to any violence, however.

Sheriff Ballentine said the men were depositors who were "determined" to get their money. They left Monck's Corner in an automobile. An immediate appeal was sent to Governor Blackwood to have state constables aid in the search.

DEMAND SEVERE PENALTY FOR ATTACK ON AMERICAN

Details of the attack on Chamberlain in which he was badly bruised about the face by three Japanese soldiers at Mukden, were contained in a report from Consul General Myers, at Mukden.

The report was sent through the American minister at Peiping who appended a note to the State Department that he also had made representations on the attack through the Japanese legation at Peiping.

Myers reported that Chamberlain was on the way to the station to go to his new assignment at Harbin at 6:30 A. M. in the Mukden consul general's automobile when it was stopped by three Japanese soldiers.

The consul general said Chamberlain had identified himself by card and passport after which the soldiers attacked him without justification, striking him in the face "many times." Chamberlain's face was badly bruised but he otherwise was uninjured.

Minister Johnson has requested Myers to forward to him immediately the results of their investigation and penalty for the incident.

Several arrests were made today in connection with the assault.

Mr. Chamberlain's official report on the incident said one of the men who attacked him wore a heavy fur cap and a long, dark coat over what appeared to be Chinese civilian clothes.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 4.—(AP)—An investigation into the assault and painful beating of Culver B. Chamberlain, young United States vice consul, by Japanese soldiers in one of the main streets of Mukden yesterday was begun today by S. Morishima, Japanese consul.

The assault upon the young American, who was so badly beaten his face was cut to the bone in two places, was reported immediately to the Japanese consul by American Consul General Myrl S. Myers here. Myers told the Japanese official the assault "was entirely unprovoked."

Chamberlain alighted from the Kansas City and has been a member of the consular service for 10 years. He arrived in Mukden Saturday on the way to Harbin, where he recently had been assigned following a vacation trip to the United States.

He was riding in the American consul's automobile, which displayed an American flag and coat of arms, on his way to the station to catch an early morning train for Harbin. The automobile was halted at the border of the Japanese railway town by three Japanese soldiers apparently forming a patrol.

Chamberlain alighted from the car and showed his diplomatic passport, explaining his status in Chinese, which he speaks fluently. One of the soldiers, he said, showed a knowledge of Chinese and Chamberlain does not speak Japanese.

The three soldiers quickly began to beat him with their fists and he retreated to the inside of the car. They followed him and continued to beat him. The chauffeur finally got the car away and Chamberlain returned to the consulate, later continuing his journey to Harbin.

Occupation to Chinchow was completed yesterday and only the "mopping up" of irregular Chinese bands was left to complete the Japanese occupation of Manchuria. Japanese aviators reported that several bands of irregulars still were visible along the Peiping-Mukden railway between Chinchow and Shanhai-kwan, where the great wall reaches the sea.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL BEGINS

A special venire of 75 men from Wilson, Nash, Edgecombe and Wayne counties was called for jury duty.

The courtroom was crowded when Judge Hayes opened court and ordered that selection of the jury be begun from the special venire.

All the defendants were in court. All were flanked by counsel.

Mrs. Ramsey was represented by W. R. Ashburn, of Norfolk. Tazewell Taylor, of Norfolk, appeared for Davis, W. A. Finch and W. A. Lucas, both of Wilson, represented Drewry; E. S. Merrill, of Norfolk, was retained by Jordan and M. J. Simpson, of Elizabeth City represented Dozier.

District Attorney W. H. Fisher, of Clinton, was aided in the prosecution by B. H. Crumpler, of Clinton and Wheeler Martin, of Williams-ton, his assistants. Forest A. Harnes, of Washington, assistant attorney general, also appeared for the prosecution.

Federal Judge I. M. Meekins, of Elizabeth City, was here as a witness.

Before the selection of the jury began, counsel for Drewry moved that the indictments against Drewry be dismissed. These were read to it court by the district attorney. Judge Hayes denied the motion.

An identical motion was made on behalf of Dozier. This also was denied.

The defense took exception to the rulings.

RAIL RATES GO UP TODAY

(Continued from Page One) The plan continues in effect only for the period of emergency and in no case beyond March 31, 1933. A yield of $100,000,000 is expected by the Interstate Commerce Commission during this time. As the rates go into effect the American Railway association forecasts a reduction in freight volume this quarter of 6.6 per cent from the first three months of 1931.

Two N. C. Banks Close Raleigh, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Merchants Bank at Durham, with a branch at Creedmore, did not open for business today. Gurney P. Hood, state bank commissioner, was notified today.

The Citizens Bank of Richland, in Onslow county, also failed to open its doors this morning.

The Citizens Bank at Richland had deposits of $101,000, total resources of $173,230.30, capital of $20,000, and surplus of $25,000. Dr. C. W. Sutton was its president and G. B. Whitted cashier.

The Merchants Bank listed deposits of $1,490,000 in its statement of September 29 last. It was capitalized at $100,000; reported a surplus of $100,000, undivided profits of $70,000 and total resources of $1,935,000.

W. P. Viemonts was president and D. C. Barbee cashier.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Cotton opened barely steady today, at a decline of 7 to 15 points under southern selling and news of the political unsettlement in Indiana. March sold off to 6.27.

The easier tone of the stock market was also a factor, no doubt, but the offerings were not particularly heavy and after the early selling had run its course on the decline of about 14 to 17 points from last Thursday's closing quotations, prices steadied up 3 or 4 points from the lowest on trade buying and covering. Liverpool cables reported hedging and Bombay liquidation absorbed by trade calling at the decline in that market and said the news from India was restricting business in cotton cloths.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Notwithstanding a decrease of 603,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, contrasting with increases a week and a year ago, wheat values sagged today.

North American wheat export business was relatively slack, and the bearish course both of stock market and cotton served as a drag on cereals. Electioneering between rival candidates for board of trade directors, occupied much of the time of members.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The financial markets limped feebly into the new week today.

The seasonal improvement in major industries, such as steel, falling to appear as promptly as had been hoped in some quarters, sentiment remaining rather gloomy. The president's message to Congress urging immediate action upon his emergency program was regarded hopefully, but as fresh evidence of the gravity of the situation, was scarcely stimulating to the security markets.

Share prices slipped 1 to 4 points or more, with the general average sagging into the vicinity of the bear market low of December 17. A ghost of a rally at midday disappeared when Case tumbled more than 6 points. The losses of 2 to 4 were registered in such issues as American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American Allied Chemical, Eastman, and Norfolk and Western. Issues of a point or more included U. S. Steel, American General Motors, New York Central and Southern Pacific.

Annual statements of leading banks, which began to appear, were read with considerable interest. The high degree of liquidity shown was indicated in high financial quarters as an evidence of the success with which the shrinkage of deposits of commercial banks had been met. Shrinkage in deposits in the first statements roughly coincided in percentage with the shrinkage in Federal Reserve credit outstanding.

Failure of the market to improve, with the lifting of tax selling, has caused some disappointment, but indications of a substantial increase in the short interest caused some observers to look for a technical rally.

Colored Nurse Begins Job Here

Georgia King Battle, colored public health nurse, reported for service at the Pitt County Department of Health today.

She will do educational work in connection with the venereal campaign started among the colored people in this county two years ago.

Expenses of the nurse will be born by the Rosenwald Fund and United States Public Health Service. Regular clinics will be conducted through the County Health department and Dr. B. H. W. G. will assist the department as clinician.

THREATEN TO BLAST LEVEES

Threats of Deliberate Bombing of Levees Adds to Gravity of Flood Situation.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Threats of the deliberate blasting of levees to divert the course of flood waters rolling through the Tallahatchie Valley added to the gravity of the situation in the Delta lowlands today.

Shotgun squads patrolled parts of the threatened system while convicts, laborers and householders worked together to strengthen the water-logged and crumbling barriers against the steadily rising water.

Chief Engineer Offenbeier of the Yazoo-Mississippi delta levee board, official observer of the flood situation, said the water probably would reach its peak here today. He was fearful, he said, of what might result as recession began and considered that the situation will remain critical throughout the week.

Workers concentrated toward saving the four-mile Jones Frederick levee south of here today. It was regarded the weakest point of the system and gave concern to flood fighters at Reynolds and Ross plantation farther south. A break there, however, would lessen pressure here.

Levees from Batesville in Panola county on the north through Quitman and Tallahatchie counties as far south as Phillip in Leflore county still held against the pounding of the waters from the Coldwater and Tallahatchie rivers.

Reported threats of dynamiting around Porters river bridge in Panola county led to the institution of shot gun armed patrols there. A guard thwarted an attempt to blast Pattison Bayou levee in Tallahatchie county.

The Red Cross said the situation was well in hand but asked for boats against a general breaking of the levee system. Backwater from Ouchita has forced dozens of families from their homes in the lowlands of West Monroe, La., and about 100 houses were isolated by water but the occupants refused to move in belief the river virtually had reached its turning point.

The agreement of the ten senators and ten house members was reached after a two hour conference in the Speaker's office.

The measure does not touch the rate structure of the tariff. It sets out a policy that the Democrats would follow in event they captured both the Senate and the House in the elections next fall.

JAPS OCCUPY ANOTHER TOWN

It would be easy to put a landing party ashore at any point along that stretch if the Japanese should desire to do so.

Things were quiet, however, both here and at Shinhakwan but the situation had the appearance of an armed truce with Chinese and Japanese troops glaring at each other from opposite sides of the streets in both cities.

Called by Chairman La Follette for his views on measures for federal appropriations to aid the unemployed, the governor detailed conditions in Pennsylvania and efforts to meet them.

Best estimates, he said, list the jobless at 27 to 30 per cent of the employable.

The tall, spare witness related his unsuccessful effort to put through a $120,000,000 relief plan in his Legislature, and blamed the "Republican machine" for the defeat.

His $19,000,000 relief bills before Congress he described as "totally inadequate."

Just Senators La Follette and Costigan, Democrat, Colorado, who are sponsoring federal relief bills, were present to hear Pinchot.

TAKES CRACK AT PRESIDENT

If necessary, marshal this great force and use it for a political purpose in which he is vitally concerned.

"A good beginning for the Republican party this year would be a resolution to stop saying: 'In accordance with a time-honored custom, we shall, of course, re-nominate the President,' and begin to say: 'Who is the best man in the United States for the biggest job Uncle Sam ever tackled?'"

THREE PIECE BEDROOM SUITE $4.95

THIS IS PROBABLY THE LOWEST PRICE FURNITURE ADVERTISEMENT EVER PRINTED

This suite is made out of lumber. The pieces are regular size. They can be used and it costs only $4.95. Any man handy with tools can make it himself from old packing cases.

Like other low price furniture, it has its disadvantages. The style isn't so good—the wood is rough—the mirror is second hand—and it wouldn't make a good impression upon your guests—but it will fill a bedroom.

On the other hand, if you want your home to look well and gain for yourself the respect of friends—if you want the beauty and livableness in your home—pay the price of good furniture. Good bedroom suites are priced as low as $75.00. Period designs as low as $125.00. Suites of selected woods and really fine craftsmanship for as little as $175.00.

They are lower in price than a year ago. They are lower priced than material costs and present labor scales justify—but that is our affair and not yours.

You can make money by buying furniture at today's prices. At their regular prices you can trust these suites to give you your full money's worth. But "$169.00 suites for $52.00," and "$100.00 suites for $39.00," is just plain hokum. You can take our word for it. We know and we can furnish proof.
