TWO FIGURES IN FOREFRONT OF DEMOCRATS

Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Ritchie Stand Out for the Presidency

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—With Governor Ritchie of Maryland already in the field, friends of Governor Roosevelt of New York plan to lose no time in formally placing his name before the country as a Democratic candidate for the presidency.

The North Dakota state committee, which meets Jan. 14, has informed the Roosevelt forces it will adopt a resolution calling for a statement from the New Yorker which is aimed to put him in the open as an avowed candidate.

This came from the seething activities preliminary to the meeting of the Democratic National committee tomorrow as the committee printed its expenditures for 1931 to the clerk of the House.

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two among Democratic aspirants to the presidency stood commandingly forward in the party picture today as time came for formally beginning the year's campaigns.

Friends of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, claimed a preponderance of sentiment in the Democratic national committee.

The candidacy of Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland, was formally announced. His was the first hat of any size actually thrown into the Democratic ring.

The declaration came last night in Baltimore, at a party banquet which centered around the vigorous chief executive of the free state.

Tonight comes the big Jackson Day banquet of the party. Hundreds will sit down at table to hear Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James M. Cox, their presidential choices of other years.

Smith seeking the mantle again? The Democrats are asking themselves and one another, but have received no hint of an answer from the New Yorker.

Tomorrow the national committee of the party will meet, and it is toward that session that all the supporters of the various candidates are bending their attention.

The Rooseveltians also expressed confidence they could take the convention to Kansas City, preferring that midwestern point to San Francisco and to Chicago and Atlantic City.

Senator Bailey Asks Congressional Committee to Hold Up 25 Postoffice Jobs

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Senator Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina, has held up all postmaster nominations for the state pending study of complaints made to him of "irregularities in the appointments."

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Carrying his recently announced drive against alleged Republican patronage evils in North Carolina to the halls of Congress, Senator J. W. Bailey has asked the postoffice committee, of which he is a member, to hold up 25 postmaster appointments in his state.

The Senator has also asked the Department of Justice and the Civil Service Department for a complete investigation of methods employed in handling federal patronage in North Carolina.

He also announced today that he would oppose confirmation of J. R. McRary of Lexington, as district attorney for the middle North Carolina district before E. L. Gavin, the incumbent, who was not renominated by his party, can complete his case against W. H. Foster, secretary of the State Republican Executive Committee, charged with illegal solicitation of campaign funds from federal employees.

The battle between North Carolina's junior senator and Republican state officials waxed warmer with issuance here of a statement from James S. Duncan of Greensboro, state Republican chairman, saying his party welcomed an investigation in a strong language branding as false Bailey's recently published charge that the organization leaders are selling offices in the south.

In his statement Duncan said: "I prefer to believe Mr. Bailey was a victim of a hoax rather than a deliberate liar."

NECRO KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

Asbury Respass Pays Death Penalty for Slaying Nine-Year-Old Girl

Raleigh, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Asbury Respass, negro, confessed slayer of eight persons, was electrocuted at the state prison this morning for the murder of Vera Leonard, nine-year-old Guilford county girl.

The negro, who was about 30 years old, entered the death chamber singing.

He was asked after he had been strapped in the electric chair if he was "ready to go."

"Any time," he replied. "I am all ready." The first shock of current stopped a repetition of the statement.

He was given two shocks, one of two and half minutes and a second of one minute and eight seconds. The first was given at 10:26.

Dr. R. S. M. Bowie, Guilford county health officer, was a witness and pronounced Respass dead.

RED CROSS TO HELP MINERS

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A chance of Red Cross policy under which it will use a million dollars for relief among miners was disclosed today to a Senate committee.

Walter S. Gifford, director of the president's relief organization, told the manufacturers committee the relief agency would use the money in West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Several past appeals for help from those states have been refused by Red Cross officials.

Gifford testified that each state would be able to care for its own persons who needed help this winter without aid from the Federal government.

Gifford qualified this declaration with the stipulation that it was subject to "action by legislatures in possibly some four or five instances."

ALDERMEN TO MEET WITH SCHOOL BOARD ON MONDAY

The Board of Aldermen has called an adjourned meeting with the school board for next Monday night to consider a definite plan of financing for city schools during the present term.

The decision was reached at the monthly meeting of the aldermen last night at which time several other matters were given consideration.

A former meeting set for the two boards never materialized, and the aldermen resolved to call a second session so that some definite action might be reached relative to the payment of money which the city is holding for the schools.

After considerable discussion, the board approved action of the finance committee in authorizing the payment of emergency school bills amounting to over $600, although the aldermen had previously announced their intention not to make further payments until some agreement had been reached with school officials.

Discussion of the proper function of the various committees arose, and it was unanimously decided that all bills should be properly okayed by the various committees before being presented to the board for final approval.

It was agreed that all committees would give closer attention to this phase of activity during the new year, and that all members of any single committee should be notified of any action contemplated by that committee.

R. E. Ricks, head of a local transfer company, asked permission to erect a filling station at the corner of Eighth street and Dickinson avenue, but he had not prepared his plans, and the matter was referred to a committee and the building inspector with power to act.

Alderman Boyd said his committee had approved the employment of The Scott Auditing Company of (Continued on Page Four)

TO REORGANIZE BANKS IN S. C.

Columbia, Jan. 8.—(AP)—South Carolina was served a wholesome tonic today in the announcement of Albert S. Fani, state bank examiner, that arrangements had been completed with a syndicate of financiers for reorganization of the People's State Bank of South Carolina, which was closed January 2.

The plan will provide for every economical liquidation for the benefit of the depositors and an early distribution to each depositor, the examiner said.

His statement was the first since the department took over affairs of the institution composed of 44 branches in 41 cities and towns of South Carolina. The bank had over $24,000,000 on deposit as of September 29.

TOO MUCH ADVERTISING

Washington—Radio "blurb" writers would be thrown out of a job if Senator Couzens had his way. He told the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday there's entirely too much advertising going through the air and suggested advertisers be limited to mentioning the fact they are sponsoring the program.

Whether Japan will reply formally to the American note or publish a statement setting forth her stand has not yet been decided. A government spokesman emphasized, nevertheless, that American rights in Manchuria, regarding which Washington appeared to be concerned would remain intact.

The spokesman expressed regret that the present situation, caused by the outbreak of September 18, had hampered business generally, but he said it could not be helped under the circumstances.

"We stand for peace, order and honest government in Manchuria," he said, "and we give every assurance that our policy is one of the open door and equal opportunity. Our aim is to promote the open door in every way possible."

He called attention to the fact that Secretary Stimson's communication bears "a marked similarity" to the note of Secretary Bryan, forwarded on May 13, 1915, regarding the so-called 21 demands, in which it was stated that the United States government was not prepared to recognize any treaty agreement which might impair the territorial integrity of China, known as the open door policy.

Secretary Stimson's note, he pointed out, is not a formal than the 1915 communication, which was assumed then, did not call for a reply.

Japan, he said, recognizes as has often been stated, China's sovereignty over Manchuria, but it is the contention of the government that no actual authority has ever existed there. The hoisting of the Sun Yat Sen flag in 1928 by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, he said, was a mere pretext and even Marshal Chang's acceptance of a vice-commander-in-chief in the Nanking army and navy was without any real meaning.

Marshal Chang, he said, never consulted Nanking regarding his policies. He appointed his own railroad and other commissioners.

Spokesman of Japanese Government Expresses View That Military Operations in Manchuria Are Not of a Nature to Justify Third Party Intervention; Whether Government Will Reply Formally to American Note Not Determined

Tokyo, Jan. 8.—(AP)—American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes presented Secretary Stimson's note on the Manchurian situation to the Japanese foreign office late today and official circles expressed the view that the military operations in Manchuria are not of a nature to justify intervention by third powers.

Japanese Ambassador Debutchi also called a text of Secretary Stimson's note, which invoked the 9-power treaty, and it was reiterated that Japan has made no demands in Manchuria except what is stipulated in her treaty rights and that, even in the face of the representations of other powers, there is little chance that she will modify her Manchurian policy.

In this connection it was emphasized that any administrative integrity of China proper in Manchuria prior to September 18, 1931, was not destroyed by the Japanese because, it was stated, Nanking had never exercised any real authority whatever in the province.

The Chinchow government, it was said, was nothing more than "a masquerade" designed to disturb peace and order in Manchuria by instigating bandits and other lawless elements.

Whether Japan will reply formally to the American note or publish a statement setting forth her stand has not yet been decided. A government spokesman emphasized, nevertheless, that American rights in Manchuria, regarding which Washington appeared to be concerned would remain intact.

The spokesman expressed regret that the present situation, caused by the outbreak of September 18, had hampered business generally, but he said it could not be helped under the circumstances.

1932 Will Reward 'SHIRT SLEEVE' Effort Only

Sitting in comfortable office chairs "talking" about what ought to be done, won't send the "little black line" on its swift upward course across 1932 business charts It's going to take red-blooded optimism, coupled with "get down and dig" shirt sleeve determination, to put ALL business back on the only direct route to Prosperityville.

It won't be a joy-ride (we've already had that and see where IT landed us) It's going to mean W-O-R-K and lots of it. We're going to have to create CONFIDENCE, which means that all fear and uncertainty must be dissipated We're going to have to create NEW buyers of our merchandise, and our services, as well as regain and retain the former buyers of these commodities We're going to have to sell that confidence — Sell it, Sell it, Sell it

HOW?—With carefully merchandised newspaper advertising, attractively displayed, and consistently published We've a big selling job on our hands but "experience proven" merchandising methods coupled with a persistent program of advertising in this newspaper will disperse those clouds of fearful uncertainty and restore buying confidence.

The REFLECTOR advertising staff believes that 1932 will reward "shirt sleeve" effort ONLY—we've rolled up OUR sleeves and we're all set to give YOU every assistance in the mapping out of a program of advertising that will gain for you the successful rewards offered by the new year.

Galli-Curci's Needlework

The lady who "sat on a cushion and sewed a fine seam" has nothing on the world famous coloratura soprano, Madame Galli-Curci, who will be heard at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of January 25th. In both of her homes Sul Monte in the Catskill mountains, and her upper Fifth Avenue place in New York City, are elaborate examples of the great singer's needlework; petit point, tapestry, cutwork and the like.

In tapestry stitch she has made chairbacks and seats, executed in rich designs of flowers and scroll work. Some of these are in pastel shades, others in low tones such as we see in antique tapestries that have come down to us from long ago.

These lovely examples have been made up upholsterers on antique mahogany chair frames, and between the tapestry and lining there is always inserted a paper written and signed by Madame Galli-Curci telling when she made it.

She learned how to do these exquisite things during her girlhood in Italy. How does she find time to sew in her busy life? By stitching aboard trains, or on the decks of steamers, or on her long concert tours that have carried her around the world.

In her needlework, as in all else, Galli-Curci has a philosophy. It is restful, taking the mind from the surface worries otherwise dwelt upon; it gives poise through exercise of patience; and is a lot of help in home decoration. In her opinion, instead of its being bad for the eyes, it strengthens them. Eyestrain may have resulted in the old days when illumination was dim, but that handicap has disappeared.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS PROF. A. D. FRANK

The January meeting of the Woman's Club was in charge of the Citizenship department of the club. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Crisp, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore presided at a short business session at which time reports of the various committees and department chairmen were given. Mrs. E. S. Ragsdale, chairman of the Public Welfare department, said she could not give a complete report of the Tubercular Seal campaign, as it had been impossible to get returns from several committees in the county but she could assure the club that the sale went over well in comparison with preceding years. The Welfare department also reported that 34 new garments had been made and presented to the County Welfare officer in addition to a collection of used clothing. Club members were asked to continue their support of the sewing class that will carry on until the task of clothing school children in Greenville township has been completed. Announcement was made that Mrs. J. A. Watson with a committee was working on plans for a "Square Dance," to be given at the club house in the near future. A nominating committee was also appointed.

At the close of the business session Mrs. J. L. Fleming, chairman of the Citizenship department, presented Prof. A. D. Frank, faculty member of E. C. T. C. Prof. Frank briefly reviewed the history of the two major political parties of the United States. Much interesting information was gathered from this review, and we were led to see that the chief difference in the Republican and Democratic parties today is in name only. He said he had been disappointed in the way women have used the ballot. He thinks we should vote for principles and to vote for principles we must study and keep ourselves informed as to the major issues at stake and vote for candidates who will uphold the issues in which we believe.

At the close of the program the hostesses of the afternoon, Mesdames Futrell, Hart, Harvey and Ragsdale, invited the members and guests to gather around the tea table, which was attractively decorated with spring flowers and candies. Tea with appetizing accompaniments was served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Tea For Mrs. Funk

Charleston, West Va., Jan. 7.—Among the many social affairs given in honor of Mrs. Sherwood W. Funk since she has been in West Virginia, was a lovely tea given on last Wednesday afternoon from three to five o'clock by Mrs. W. M. Funk and daughters, Misses Mabel, Virginia and Elizabeth, at their home in Wyoming street. Greens and red cut flowers were very effective in carrying out the season's colors. Red burning tapers lighted the house.

The guests were met at the door and introduced to the receiving line by Mrs. Fred Bothe. Mrs. W. M. Funk, Miss Mabel Funk and Mrs. Sherwood W. Funk, honoree, composed the receiving line.

Little Miss Janet Childress presided over the register from where the guests were shown to the dining room by Miss Elizabeth Funk. The dining table was especially pretty with a lace cloth, and centered on either side by tall burning tapers. Mrs. W. N. Allen poured tea. She was assisted in the dining room by Miss Virginia Funk, Miss Elizabeth Smith and Mrs. Truma Bryant. Mrs. Bothe bade the guests adieu.

At six o'clock a delightful buffet supper was served, entertaining the honor guest, Mrs. Sherwood W. Funk, those who assisted with the tea, and a few invited guests.

Mrs. Sherwood W. Funk, before her marriage in December, was Miss Athlene Edwards of Greenville, North Carolina.

Aerial Hearse Takes Body of Flier Back Home

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—An aerial hearse, carrying the body of Dale (Red) Jackson, famous stunt flier who was killed in an airplane accident at Miami Wednesday, hopped off from here at 8 a. m. EST, today en route to the aviator's home in St. Louis. Pilot O. G. Harned said he expected to reach there before night.

Besides the casket, the plane, which arrived here late yesterday from Miami, carried Jackson's widow, Mrs. Sally Jackson, and Joseph P. McGahan, Miami undertaker.

Pilot Harned said he would fly to St. Louis via Atlanta and Nashville. Jackson, co-holder of the world's refueling endurance flight record, and one of America's outstanding aviators, lost his life when he plunged 3,000 feet to his death when the wings fell off his plane as he completed an inside loop. He and Mrs. Jackson went to Miami only recently to participate in the all-American air meet there.

WANT ADS PAY

Kansas City Out for Convention of the Democrats

Kansas City, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A bid of $150,000 by Kansas City for the Democratic national convention has led supporters of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to make hotel reservations here in the belief its selection is virtually assured.

A Chamber of Commerce delegation was enroute to Washington today to formally present the National committee the offer, $100,000 in cash and pledges of $50,000. Jerome Walsh, Kansas City lawyer, tentatively engaged the presidential suite and one entire floor in addition at a Kansas City hotel (the Muehlebach) for the Roosevelt forces.

He said he was acting at the request of James A. Farley, chairman of the New York Democratic state committee and a leader of the Roosevelt presidential boom. Press Associations also made arrangements for quarters here, contingent upon the selection of this city. San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlantic City, however, are actively in the race.

The scene of the gathering here would be convention hall, in which Democrats nominated William J. Bryan for the presidency in 1900 and Republicans chose Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Bishop Invites Pope to Join the Methodist Church

Richmond, Va., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Inviting "everyone who believes in God to go shoulder to shoulder," Bishop Edwin D. Mounoz, opening the mid-winter meeting of the Virginia State Methodist Board of Missions, also invited the Pope to join the Methodist church.

"This is not a time for anyone in the world to be throwing stones," said the Bishop.

"I am not here throwing any stones at the Catholics, although we have no intention of joining them. I invite the Pope to join the Methodist church. Everyone who believes in God should go hand in hand and shoulder to shoulder." Pointing out that the Baptist were gaining members and the Methodist losing, the bishop said it may be that our trouble today is that Methodism is leading the world. There are some people who wish certain people would leave us," but he mentioned no names.

"The Baptist increase because they can see more and count better than we can. The Baptist believe in the church and are the most ecclesiastical people in the world except the Catholics," he continued.

Greensboro, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Edgar Myers was scheduled to go on trial before Magistrate Sample F. Huffine here today on charges of highway robbery. The fruit of the enterprise was one banana.

The warrant was taken out by B. W. Owens, filling station operator near here, who said Myers held him up at the point of a pistol and searched his pockets. Finding nothing else, the boy took the banana, Owens said.

Fliers Forced to Stay in N. C. By Weather

Charlotte, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Ten aviators, enroute to the Miami air races, awaited clearing weather today for continuance of their flights after having been delayed by fog and rain which has prevailed in the Carolinas for the last three days.

At Pinehurst, N. C., were P. M. Allen of Ambler, Pa.; Miss Laura Morgan of Philadelphia; M. Garrison Silcock, third, of New York; and Miss Evelyn Deserovsky of New York. They had been held here since Tuesday, after arriving with a squadron of amateur derbyists enroute from New York to Miami.

Edgar Thaw of Boston; C. H. S. Weaver, of Thompson, Conn.; Miss Jessemine Goddard, of New York; E. J. Detmar, Tarrytown, N. Y.; and Mrs. Betty Gillies, of Garden City, L. I., members of the same group, were marooned at Charleston, S. C., after having attempted to continue from Pinehurst to Miami.

Also at Charleston held back by the weather, was Lieut. Clayton Jerome of the U. S. Marines, enroute from Quanaico, Va., to Nicaragua.

TO PROBE DEATH OF WAYNE FARMER

Goldboro, Jan. 8.—(AP)—An inquest was set for today into the death of Ed Daniels, 36-year-old Wayne county farmer alleged to have been instantly killed by Joe Howell, 20, at a filling station near here last night.

Howell, held without bond, said he fired in self-defense when Daniels, intoxicated, threatened him.

ABOUT TOWN

Greenville "hippers" undoubtedly are in favor of patronizing home industries after an unidentified bootlegger pulled a fast trick on newly acquired customers here Wednesday. Circulating the report that he had a splendid supply of Scotch liquor ready for sale, the bootlegger practically sold out and left town immediately. When the bottles were unsealed it was discovered that they contained nothing but water. And right here is a chance for local dispensers of illicit whiskey to wink knowingly and remind the boys that it pays to patronize home industries. The brand may not be better than bottled in bond but it should prove more satisfying than water.

Ten thousand unemployed men marched on the capital at Washington yesterday demanding jobs and food for those unable to work. The demonstration was orderly, in striking contrast to the communists' march several weeks ago, and the leader, a Pittsburgh, Pa. priest, was received by the President in a friendly manner.

Asserting their belief that the government should provide for them, the marchers were told by the President that nothing could be done immediately, and that plans were being worked out at the capital with a view to relieving the situation.

If there ever was a time when the people needed government aid it is now and if it is possible to put at least a part of the army of idle back to work conditions ought to undergo a pronounced improvement in the near future.

Democrats gathering at the capital today for the Jackson Day dinner were non-committal as to what they had in mind concerning the campaign, but their jaunty demeanor suggested a spirit of optimism that may mean great things for the party.

That the suggestion of John J. Backus, party chairman, for a prohibition referendum is going to be sidetracked for important economic problems was plainly discernible. Opinion prevailed that jobs and not whiskey was the pressing need of the time, and working on that theory, something will be done to bring about an improvement in the unprecedented situation confronting this country as result of the depression.

The Democrats have innumerable strong talking points to place before the voters without mentioning the miserable failure: the Republicans have made of the attempt to bring a return of prosperity, and it is believable the strength of their argument will be reflected by the vote in the next campaign.

The South plans to spend $125,000,000 for improvement and maintenance of highways during the present year, and this gives rise to belief that the economic situation ought to experience a distinct improvement before the year is over. Some of the construction programs, providing work for the thousands of men, have already been started, and others are in the offing. When all of them get underway all districts involved should find money easier than it has been in months.

Nothing tends to improve life more than steady employment for the average workingman and the division of payrolls among community enterprises creates a better feeling among everybody. Construction programs are what the nation needs to aid in reconstruction, and the more started the better everybody will like it.

World powers have started another movement to restore peace in the Manchurian district, and if Japan is wise she will listen to the boys.

Heretofore the Japanese government has practically disregarded all pleas for establishment of peace, and have captured virtually all important towns in the Manchurian area.

The nine power treaty was the latest step taken to induce the Japanese to halt the rapid advance of troops, but whether that will be sufficient to restore peace is doubtful.

Certainly the Japanese government would not be foolish enough to continue hostilities against the Chinese in the face of continued protests from the principal powers of the world. To do so might jeopardize her own safety, but whether she will recognize the right of the other powers to interfere is purely problematical.

Time, however, will be a wonderful factor in determining the question, and the next few days will tell the story.

POLICE WATCH FOR BOMBS SEN TIO ITALIAN RULERS

Detailed information of the bombs reported aboard the Excelsior was lacking, but the company's agents at Geona said they were advised from New York that the mail contained two packages, one for the premier and one for the king.

Since the recent bomb attempts in the United States, all persons and institutions here likely to be marked to receive bombs have been wary of packages and so far no bomb has sifted through the guard of caution.

The newspapers continue to give prominence to the news of bombing attempts in the United States and other countries and dispatches yesterday told of the discovery of stores of explosives and the arrest of several Italian suspects in Paris and Nice.

ALDERMEN TO MEET WITH SCHOOL BOARD ON MONDAY

(Continued from page one) Charlotte to audit city books during the present year, and the action was accepted by the board. The audit will cost $300 and provides for two separate audits as required by state law.

Mayor Flanagan read a communication from the State Municipal League inviting the City of Greenville to membership in the organization at a fee of $10. The board accepted the invitation, believing that the league should be able to accomplish much good in behalf of the various cities through proper representation at the regular sessions of the state legislature.

The board accepted a report from the Salvation Army explaining activities of the organization during the past month, and authorized the regular monthly payment of $25 which the city devotes to the cause. The remainder of the session was confined to reading of reports and payment of bills. Mayor R. C. Flanagan presided and all members of the board were present.

JAPANESE CABINET QUILTS: ASKED TO AWAIT ORDERS

The bomb exploded immediately in front of the emperor's state carriage as he was nearing the palace grounds on the way home from the annual military review. It fell under the carriage of Count Makino, minister of the imperial household, but injured no one.

A young Korean named Rihosho was immediately arrested by police. A second bomb was found in his pocket. The resignation was believed to be merely formal and in accord with the dictates of Japanese custom. Premier Inukai visited the palace, made inquiries regarding the emperor's condition and offered the government's apologies.

"It would seem," Gifford said, "that the combined efforts of communities, counties and states can take care of the situation this winter."

"Should such community and state responsibility be lessened by Federal aid, the sincere and wholehearted efforts of the hundreds of thousands of volunteers engaged both in raising and administering relief funds would doubtless be materially lessened.

BLOODSHED FACES INDIANS

(Continued from page one) action. Their leaders conceded that the government had won "a temporary victory," but added that the struggle would continue for two years.

In Bombay local leaders announced the Nationalists will embark at most immediately on a series of acts intended to goad the government into using force, including firearms.

Such a show of force, the leaders said, would evoke public sympathy for their cause. They planned a huge public meeting in the Esplanade Maiden late today. A boycott procession tomorrow and salutation ceremonies for the Congress flag Sunday. They also planned to extend the "peaceful picketing," which now is a penal offense.

J. H. DANIEL FOUND DEAD

(Continued from page one) upon two theories, one that Daniel was killed and his body thrown on the tracks to divert suspicion and the other that he was a victim of an accident.

Daniel was seen about last midnight in the business section of the city by Police Sergeant George Wheelless who said he told him he was on his way home at the time. He never reached home and a search started by members of his family this morning resulted in the discovery of the body.

The point where the body was found is several hundred yards from where Daniel spoke to Wheelless and not on his way home.

The body apparently had been run over by a train and the trunk was virtually severed.

Coroner J. E. L. Thomas of Tarboro called an inquest for this morning.

Daniel operated four stores here, was president of the New Home Building and Loan Association, a director of the People's Bank and Trust Company and had extensive real estate holdings.

He was about 50 years old. His widow, who prior to her marriage was Miss Mary Jones, and three daughters and two sons survive.

The children are Jocile, 18, a student at Converse College, Spartanburgh; Mary Henrietta, 17; Ruth, 14; John Henry, Jr., 8, and Williams Hills, 6.

Daniel was a native of Halifax county, but had lived here for many years. Car inspectors who examined the train which was believed to have struck Daniel said there was no evidence of blood.

Relatives and business associates of Daniel discounted any possibility that the death was a suicide. They said there was no reason for him to take his life.

REP. FORDNEY DIES IN MICH.

(Continued from page one) developed Sunday. He had been in virtual retirement since 1923, when he completed his twelfth consecutive term in Congress as representative of the eighth Michigan district.

In Congress he succeeded the late Ferdinand C. Brucker, Democrat, and father of Michigan's present governor, Wilbur M. Buckner, and built up a tradition of unswerving Republicanism in the eighth Michigan district which was not broken until last year when Representative Michael J. Hart, a Democrat, was elected.

The man known affectionately to his constituents as "Uncle Joe"

Fordney was, according to one political writer, the "shining example of conservatism in Congress." For nearly a quarter of a century, he was a leader among the so-called "protectionists" and the 1921 tariff bill to which he gave his name was largely written by him.

During his last term in Congress he held the coveted post of chairman of the ways and means committee and had an important part in making the laws during the first session of Congress under the post-war Republican administration.

He introduced the soldier bonus bill in the House and despite criticism from within the ranks of his own party, clung tenaciously to support of the bill. "It is the only honorable thing to do," he declared in pledging for its passage.

He was born in Blackford, Ind., Nov. 5, 1853, but came to Saginaw county when a young man and became a lumberman. Enlisting the aid of a capitalist, he acquired great tracts of undeveloped timber lands. Adding mills and yards to his building, he amassed a fortune before he entered politics.

NEGRO KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

The negro also had told guards "if Governor Gardner was to set me free today, I would tell him I would rather die in the electric chair."

When the guards opened the cell door for the short walk to the death chamber, Respus began chanting a song, "Farewell", and moved with lively steps toward the little white door at the end of the cell corridor. He shook hands with the "boys"—others on the row awaiting execution—without halting in his singing.

There was the least bit of hesitation as he entered the death chamber, but he sat in the chair without directions. He calmly glanced at the score of witnesses about him and seemed to be interested in the job of strapping him in.

Then his spiritual advisers asked him if he was "ready to go."

Sumner township school in Guilford county, witnessed the execution. Respus died for the murder of nine-year old Vera Leonard, a pupil of the school.

Deputy Sheriff Murray Benbow, who tracked down and arrested Respus, also was a witness.

Warden H. M. Honeycutt, after the execution, revealed that a son of Respus, James, 25, was serving a 20 to 25 year sentence in prison for manslaughter. James Respus was sent up from Northampton county at the age of 17 in 1925. He is in the Stokesdale prison camp.

At his own request, Warden H. H. Honeycutt, at State's prison allowed Respus to tell his story to newspaper men before he died.

The negro confessed he killed and burned the body of 9-year-old Vera Leonard in Guilford county when she screamed as he tried to assault her. The death penalty was imposed for this crime, the others having been confessed after the sentence was passed.

Respus said seven of his killings were committed while he "was in a spell." He blamed this trait on a childhood fall which injured his head. He said he killed Lizzie Banks and Zenie Britt, one with a gun and the other with a stick, in Northampton county before 1912, and that about the same time he killed Beck Storr at Boykins, Va., with a stick.

In 1912, he said, he shot and killed Ed Payne, of Northampton county, and was sentenced to 15 years in prison, where he went insane, but recovered and escaped in 1916. He denied crimes at Norfolk, Va., and Greensboro, N. C.

SAYS JAPAN WILL NOT LIKELY MODIFY POLICY IN MANCHURIAN AREAS

(Continued from page one) cordance with the principle of self-determination. Japan's military action, he said, has not infringed the Kellogg pact because Japan acted, and is acting entirely in self-defense "which is the fundamental right of a nation to its existence, recognized both by the nine-power and the Kellogg pact."

Scientifically Purer..

Something every smoker wants to know!

Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke. "Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette. Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor. The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette. In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4 1/2 minutes. More purity! Notice, too, the clean, white, attractive package... moisture-proof. Chesterfields come to you as good and as pure as they're made. Good... they've got to be good! Change to Chesterfields and see.

SYNOPSIS: Trueman Roek finds many obstacles in the path of his love for Thiry Preston. Amy Dabb pursues him. Thiry's father has the reputation of being a cattle rustler. And Ash, Thiry's brother has sworn vengeance on any cowboy interested in Thiry, and has threatened to follow her to Amy's masquerade.

Chapter 35
SNATCHING MASK
"Not Amy Dabb," he said turning to find her face averted.
"But, Trueman, she is your hostess. If I remember correctly, she meant to embody the duty of all her masculine guests in your attendance."
"Did she?" replied Roek, a little nettled at her satire. "You mean she gave you a hunch I'd dance all my dances with her? She was wrong."
"Then I was wrong to believe her. But you must dance with your hostess—at least once," said Thiry, hastily.
"Would you stand for it once?"
"I... Stand for it? I fear you!"
"No," he interrupted. "Now don't get proud. I mean, straight out—do you want me to dance with you instead of Amy Dabb?"
"Yes, I do," she returned, hotly. "She hurt me."
"Thiry, my obligation is paid," replied Roek, trying to contain himself. "I have had that one dance with Mrs. Dabb. It's over. So there."

"I'd like you to dance with Allie," returned Thiry, shyly.
"Fine. Let's find her and your friends."
Roek enjoyed his dance with Allie more even than the one with Amy Dabb.
"Allie, doesn't Thiry look just gorgeous?" he asked.
"Yes, she's lovely. But I almost wish she had not come."
"Why?" asked Roek, anxiously.
"She's worried half to death. She's game, and only I who know her would even guess it. She's afraid Ash will come here and discover her. If he catches her in that dress he'll ruin it. Ash hates to see Thiry make herself so beautiful."
"Thiry is unhappy. It's the way Ash nags her. I wouldn't stand it. But Thiry loves Ash, as much as I hate him."
"Don't say that. He's your own brother."
"I don't care if he is. I never felt like his sister. And you can bet he never treated me as if I were."

"There goes the music," replied Roek, and he arose. "Allie, our dance was fine."
"Trueman Roek, I can't help but like you," she said, with a serious abruptness that reminded him of Thiry. Then at the door of the hall she squeezed his arm and left him.
Roek became all eyes then. If Ash Preston was there, Roek determined to locate him. He lounged around the door of the hall during two dances before he convinced himself that Ash was not among the cowboys dancing. Likewise he searched the patio. Returning to his pots just inside the dance-hall door, he took up his vigil there.

"Traitor!" a woman whispered. He looked around from the disappearing Amy to see Thiry close at hand, coming alone.
"Come. The rest is yours," she said, and took his arm.
"Has anyone discovered you?"
"Only one I know of. Amy Dabb. She said: 'Hello, Thiry! You look great. But wedding-gowns don't always mean wedding-bells.'"
"Humph! She has a nasty tongue as I well know... Thiry, I reckon there's not a young man at this dance who wouldn't ring wedding-bells for you."
"Rash, flattery Trueman," she retorted. "There must be many. I know five boys who are madly in love with their prospective partners."
"Five? You mean six!" rejoined Roek.
"No."
"Thiry, I made number six," said Roek, and quickly looked away, too guilty to dare to see how she took his remark.

"You broke your word. You make me remember," Thiry said, reproachfully.
Again they strolled under the magic rose and purple of the dimming lanterns and on to the secluded bower in the patio.
"Trueman you must take me home soon," she said, as if coming out of a spell.
"Oh no, not now. Just one more dance," pleaded Roek. "You said the rest were mine."
"But I'd forgotten. Ash will come any moment."
"Thiry, he is not here now. Please risk it."
"Well, then—one more."
But at the end of this dance she forgot again or could not resist the joy of the hour. Once more Roek led her to their shadowed corner.

"Take off your mask," he begged. Then she was unmasked under his worshiping eyes, under the dim light of the lantern above and the far, white, and knowing stars. Once she lifted her eyes to him—eyes that betrayed the spell of the moment—then no more.
"You do not talk, senior," she said, trying for conversation.
"How can I?... I'm holdin' your hand."
"Oh, so you are!—Well, let go."
"Pull it away," he whispered, darily.
But she did not.
Roek won her to stay one more dance, revealed in his power to persuade her, though his conscience flayed him.

"Trueman, we must go now," she said, nervously.
They reached the patio. Something had happened, as Roek guessed from excited voices. A girl cried out in dismay.
"Hey, look out there!" called some one, unmistakably a cowboy. "He snatched at my mask," replied a girl, angrily.
"He got mine," added another woman, shrilly.
"Roek drew Thiry to the right, out of the press.
Suddenly into the open space before him leaped a little figure of a cowboy, wearing a red handkerchief that masked him, to disclose the livid face of Ash Preston. His evil eyes, like coals of blue fire, flashed over her face, her spreading ruffled gown.
"Ash," grasped Thiry, clutching Roek's arm tighter, "meet Senor del Toro—my masquerade partner!"
"Senor 'ell!" he bit out incredibly cold and fierce. Like a snake's head his hand shot out, to fasten in Thiry's dress and tear it with field-his swiftness.

Rock gets into action tomorrow, against Ash's threat— "I'll kill you!"

FARM NOTES

By E. F. ARNOLD, County Agent
For the convenience of those who go to work at 8:30 in the morning, the management of the Farmers' Market House on Cotanche street have decided to open at 8:10. There will be some 35 farm homes represented on the market Saturday morning offering home-grown farm produce such as poultry and dairy products, fresh meats, fresh vegetables, sweet and Irish potatoes, pantry supplies and various other foods produced on the farm. All of every dollar spent on this market remains in the trade territory of Greenville and has 00 per cent value in stimulating better times in this area.

Tobacco Seed Re-cleaned
Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays will be devoted to re-cleaning tobacco seed for the farmers of the county, except in cases where we will be unavoidably called to the field. The cleaning of tobacco seed reduces the loss from leaf spot diseases and inferior plants in the production of a quality crop of tobacco. This service is free to the farmers and is being taken advantage of by a large number of growers.

Poultry and Orchard Work
E. B. Morrow, state orchard specialist, and C. P. Maupin, assistant state poultry specialists, will be in Pitt county next week and will hold public field meetings at the following places. On the farm of John T. Thorne at 11:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, Mr. Morrow will give a demonstration in pruning and caring for grape vines. In the afternoon, on the farm of J. C. Parker, a field meeting will be held and a demonstration given in peach tree pruning, and at the Fountain High school on the night of the 13th, he will address the farmers of that community and the surrounding territory on orchard care and management.

On the following day, January 14, Mr. Maupin will visit a number of poultry farms in the county, among which will be the poultry plant on the farm of J. E. Winslow on the Paeotous road which is under the supervision of Mr. Clarence Vincent. He will also visit the two annual record demonstrations being kept by Mr. Roy Bowling on Mr. John T. Thorne's farm near Farmville and Mr. J. C. Parker near Fountain. On the night of the 14th he will be the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Farm Club at Farmville which will be held in the city hall at 7:30 P. M.
These meetings are open to all farmers, and we hope that a number of farmers in other sections of the county will take the time to attend these meetings.

Sweet potato growers to meet in Farmers' Market House at the request of the county agent.
Owners and operators of sweet potato-curing houses in Pitt county will meet at the Farmers' Market House on Cotanche street Saturday morning at 9:30, following the close of market. The object of this meeting is to arrange for wholesale price and select agency for handling the sale of cured sweet potatoes. Members of the Pitt County Mutual Exchange will meet with the growers and it is hoped that both a retail and whole sale price of all produce for local consumption will be announced in the near future.

Law Violations Decrease Here

Infractions of the law continue to show a pronounced decrease in this city and the police department made only 38 arrests during the month of December. It was revealed today in the monthly report of George Clark, chief of police.
Thirty-six of the arrests resulted in outright conviction, although the majority of the defendants were bound over for final hearing in County court. Costs collected totaled $152.

Robbers Causing Officers Concern In This Section

Safe crackers who several nights ago took $400 from the safe at the Gulf Refining Company plant here were believed responsible for the robbery of a filling station operated by the same firm at Wilson night before last, officers said here today. Although the Wilson robbery did not net as much as that in Greenville, the loss was said to have been estimated at between $150 and $200.

Robbers entered a safe in a combination filling station-store at Chocowinity the same night of the Wilson robbery and escaped with approximately $300, police were informed here yesterday.
Officers did not associate the Chocowinity robbery with those at Wilson and Greenville, although it was said it would have been possible for the same band to pull two robberies in a single night despite the distance between Wilson and Chocowinity.

The holdup and robbery of a hotel clerk at Kinston by two masked men last night was not attributed to the robbers connected with the safe crackings, and officers in all cities in this section of the state are keeping a keen look-out in the hope of apprehending both bands.

Sale of City Auto Plates Ahead of 1931

Sale of city automobile license plates through January 7 showed a slight increase over the corresponding period last year, it was shown by records in the office of the city clerk yesterday.
Last year 583 licenses had been issued for that period, and this year the figure was given as 590, an increase of seven plates.
The new plate went on sale December 15 and automobile owners have responded fairly well to the call for immediate attention of providing themselves with city tags.
The law requiring all automobiles in the City of Greenville to carry tags will be more stringently enforced this year than ever before, it was indicated today, and citizens who have not made their purchase were urged to do so immediately.

New Bible College
Asheville—The old Asheville post-office building is to be razed and available materials re-erected near Eliada Orphanage here for use as a summer school building by the Columbia (S. C.) Bible college.

Baptist Plan More Money
Raleigh—Plans for handling a $150,000 bond issue were discussed at a meeting of the general board of the Baptist State Convention, when J. R. Jester, Winston-Salem, was elected chairman, J. M. Kester, Wilmington, vice-chairman, and C. S. Green, Durham, secretary.

Two School Girls, Held by Police, Returned Home

Two school girls, who started out to see the world, were returned to their home in Belhaven last night after spending a day in the custody of Greenville police.

Slipping away from the Belhaven school Wednesday, Myrtle Calhoun, 14, and Dorothy Wilkerson, 13, hitch-hiked their way to Greenville where they were picked up by the police and held while awaiting advice from their parents.

"I'm glad we were caught," Myrtle Calhoun told police last night as she sat in the police station awaiting the arrival of her parents. "I don't know why I ran away except that I was tired of staying home and wanted to get out and see some of the world."
Both girls were afraid they would be sent to a reformatory because of receiving the aid of their parents, but were told that if they went back home and stayed there no such fate would befall them.

Heavy Fire Loss Here in December

The fire loss in Greenville during the month of December was $70,000, the largest for any similar period probably in history of the city, it was revealed in the monthly report of George Gardner, fire chief, submitted to the Board of Aldermen last night.

The major part of the loss was involved in destruction of McGowan-Cannon's warehouse during the early part of December.
The department responded to a total of nine alarms, two of which were false, the report also indicated.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to two points off, with orders evenly divided. March sold at 6.35.

Trading was quiet and showed no special feature but the offerings were light. In addition of trade buying there was some scattered covering which held the market steady after the call, with March ruling around 6.38 and July 6.71 at the end of the first half hour or about net unchanged to 1 point higher.

Liverpool cables reported local liquidation in that market on the improvement in sterling and reported small sales of cotton cloths to India and China.

Futures closed steady, 8 to 10 points higher.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago Jan. 8.—(AP)—Abrupt falling off in overseas demand for North American wheat did much to pull speculative buying support out from under all grains today.

Late advances in securities were largely ignored, and there was a material narrowing of the spread between Liverpool and Chicago wheat quotations, with Liverpool may delivery quoted only 3-8 of a cent over Chicago at the time Liverpool closed today.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 -5-8 lower than yesterday's finish, corn also 3-8 -5-8 off, oats 1-4 down, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents decline.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—For the third successive session, the stock market continued to climb today.

The resumption of the movement in its third day made it one of the most persistent in weeks, but much of the momentum was lost, trading dwindled in small volume, but hesitancy during an early period of profit-taking was soon overcome.

Coppers and rails were notably firm groups. In the red metal group, Kennecott, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco rose about a point, and Anaconda gained a point, and others gained a point or so. U. S. Steel advanced moderately, and miscellaneous issues up a point or so included Eastman, Allied Chemical, Kreuzer and Toll, Coca Cola, and several of the New York tractions. There were several declines of a point or so during the early profit-taking, but they were soon cancelled.

While the measure to create the reconstruction finance corporation on which several important financial quarters are pinning their hopes of a restoration of economic stability, has proceeded in congress somewhat more slowly than some quarters had anticipated earlier in the week, confidence was expressed in banking quarters that the corporation will be functioning in time to prevent threatened receiver ships that until recently had caused considerable worry.

The December of Generalledit The December sale of General Motors sales indicated the beginning of a consumer response to the new models. Sales to domestic consumers totaled 53,588 cars, against 34,673 in November, and only 4,401 less than for December of last year. Nevertheless, seasonal acceleration of automobile making is proceeding slowly.

Prices rallied strongly in the afternoon, finishing higher for the third consecutive day. Rails showed general improvement and coppers were strong. Transactions approximated 1,600,000 shares.

Ring (11 Wild Bells. Ring out wild bells, to the wild sky, The flying cloud, the frosty light; The year is dying in the night; Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new, Ring happy bells, across the snow; The year is going, let him go; Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind, For those that here we see no more, Ring out the feud of rich and poor, Ring in redress to all man kind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause, An ancient feud of party strife; Ring in the nobler modes of life, With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin, The faithless coldness of their times; Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes, But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood, The civic slander and the spite; Ring in the love of truth and right, Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease, Ring out the narrowing lust of gold; Ring out the thousand wars of old, Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free, The larger heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of the land, Ring in the Christ that is to be.

The New Year. A new year is upon us. Its beginning should make us glad and fill us with hope. Indifference should be supplanted by courage and determination. Selfish, bigoted, self-centered living should give way to consideration and altruism. Understanding should reign instead of ignorance.

We, as high school students, should determine or more properly, resolve, that this year, 1932, will be successful for us, scholastically and otherwise. Honest determination will bring about results. If we will it, we can make 1932 our happiest and most successful year.

Debating Activities
On Wednesday morning, during the activity period, the debating club began its activities for the year with its first meeting. Quite a number of students came out for debating this year—an even dozen; and more are expected next week.

Among the freshmen were Herbert Souville and Earle Shuff. Joseph Proctor was the lone representative of the sophomores. Douglas Butler, Juanita Cooke, Harold Sugg, George Willard and Charles Shuff were the juniors present. The seniors attending were Elizabeth Muselwhite, Catherine Tyson, Gretchen Willard and Frances Willard.

Mr. V. M. Mulholland, Miss Clem Bridges and Miss Mary Ellen Powell will coach the teams this year.

The state handbooks on Compulsory Unemployment Insurance, the query for this year's triangular debate, were handed out at this meeting and assignments made for the first week's work. The first preliminary will be held in about three weeks in an effort to pick the teams.

Tag Football Tournament.
C. W. Porter, athletic coach, has just initiated a tag football tournament. Every boy who takes physical education has been placed on one of the twelve teams formed.

The teams are divided into two leagues, the Southern Conference and the Big Six.

Coach Porter has divided the teams equally according to sizes so that no team will be superior in this respect.

The teams in the Southern Conference are Georgia, Davidson, Tulane, Virginia, Tennessee and Carolina. Those in the Big Six are Duke, Southern Calif., East Carolina Teachers College, N. C. State, Alabama and Vanderbilt.

The games will take place at 3:25 in the high school ravine each afternoon and the champion of each league will play a final game for the award, which will be a half holiday.

Character Education
At a faculty meeting held Monday afternoon at the high school it was decided that regular and formal chapel programs would be held each Friday during the new year.

These programs, which are to be in the form of character education programs, will be in charge of various classes and sponsored by teachers.

The first program of this type will be on "Law Abstinence," and will be planned by Miss Rachel Scarborough and her history classes. It will be given on January 15.

Mr. Porter will be in charge of the next program, which will be on "Sportsmanship," to be given Friday, January 22.

Each Friday thereafter an interesting program will be given; and it is expected that these Friday programs will be anticipated with pleasure.

BRIDGE MATCH NEARS CLOSE

Marathon Race Will End Tonight With Lenz 8,770 Points Behind Culbertson

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A sensational spurt in the home stretch by Sidney S. Lenz and Com. Winfield Liggett, Jr., left Ely Culbertson's side only 8,770 points ahead today in the contract bridge match. It will end tonight with the playing of the last six of 150 rubbers.

By the largest gain of any session by either side—5,405 points—Lenz and Liggett reduced Culbertson's plus last night to the lowest figure it has been since before Christmas. Culbertson and a new partner of one night, Howard Schenken, a New York importer, won only one of seven rubbers and netted only 60 points in that. They failed to score in two rubbers.

The rubber standing of the series became 74 for Culbertson and 70 for Lenz, the points 118,240 for Culbertson and 109,470 for Lenz.

There remained no doubt with neutral experts that Culbertson would collect his long-end bets tonight, yet his opponents in the world of contract will find much room, to doubt the value of the long match as a test of rival bidding systems.

BRIDGE MATCH NEARS CLOSE

Marathon Race Will End Tonight With Lenz 8,770 Points Behind Culbertson

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A sensational spurt in the home stretch by Sidney S. Lenz and Com. Winfield Liggett, Jr., left Ely Culbertson's side only 8,770 points ahead today in the contract bridge match. It will end tonight with the playing of the last six of 150 rubbers.

By the largest gain of any session by either side—5,405 points—Lenz and Liggett reduced Culbertson's plus last night to the lowest figure it has been since before Christmas. Culbertson and a new partner of one night, Howard Schenken, a New York importer, won only one of seven rubbers and netted only 60 points in that. They failed to score in two rubbers.

The rubber standing of the series became 74 for Culbertson and 70 for Lenz, the points 118,240 for Culbertson and 109,470 for Lenz.

There remained no doubt with neutral experts that Culbertson would collect his long-end bets tonight, yet his opponents in the world of contract will find much room, to doubt the value of the long match as a test of rival bidding systems.

Creates Pest Fund.
Los Angeles—Pats of the late Mrs. Sarah C. Lincoln gnawed bones and lapped milk contentedly today as though they understood all about the provision their mistress had made in her will, setting $5,000 aside as a "pet fund" for them.
