Japanese Government's Answer to Stimson Note Transmitted to Capital

FAVOR OPEN DOOR POLICY

New Japanese Foreign Minister Says Conditions Have Changed in China since Signing of Nine Power Treaty, Modifying Application of Old Pact; Declares Nation Has No Territorial Aims or Ambitions in China.

Tokyo, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Conditions in China have changed since the nine-power treaty was signed, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, new Japanese foreign minister, said in the Japanese government's reply to Secretary of State Stimson's recent Manchurian note, which was transmitted to Washington today.

"It (the stand of China) certainly was not satisfactory then," the note said, "but it did not display that disposition and those antagonisms which it does today. This cannot affect the binding character of the stipulations of the treaties, but it may in material respects modify their application, since they must necessarily be applied with reference to the state of facts as they exist."

Japan has no intention of interfering with the principle of the open door, equal opportunity for all nationals in China, the note declared.

"As regards the questions which your excellency specifically mentions of the policy of the so-called open door," the note said, "the Japanese government has so often been stated, regards that policy as a corollary feature of the politics of the Far East and only regrets that its effectiveness is so seriously diminished by the unsettled conditions which prevail throughout China."

"It may be added that the treaties which relate to China must necessarily be applied with due regard to the state of affairs from time to time prevailing in that country and that the present distracted and unsettled state of China is not what was in the contemplation of the high contracting parties at the time of the treaty of Washington."

The last paragraphs of the note gave assurance that Japan has no territorial aims or ambitions in China, that any replacements in the governing personnel there since the occupation have been "necessary acts" of the local population, but that "the welfare and safety of Manchuria and its accessibility for general trade are matters of deepest interest and quite extraordinary importance to the Japanese people."

Gardner Cuts His Own Pay

Raleigh, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Gov. O. Max Gardner, it has been learned, has been turning back to the state treasurer, 10 per cent of his annual salary of $7,100.

The late Capt. Nathan O'Berry, while state treasurer, also turned back 10 per cent of his monthly check.

So far as could be ascertained today, none of the other constitutional officers has turned back any share of his salary. The treasurer's office said two had done so, refusing to name them, and it was learned they were the governor and Capt. O'Berry.

When he proposed a 10 per cent cut in all state salaries to the last General Assembly Governor Gardner requested constitutional officers, whose salaries could not be changed by legislative act, to voluntarily accept the cut. The governor would not comment on the matter.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home, four miles north of Greenville, on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be made in the family burial ground near House Station.

A practical plan for the relief of unemployment will be worked out at a meeting of the department executive committee of the North Carolina Department of American Legion to be held in the Carolina Hotel, Raleigh, at 2 o'clock January 17th, it was announced today by Henry C. FOOD PRICES ON DECLINE

Investigation Shows a Drop of 16 2-3 Per Cent for the Past 12 Months.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Investigations by the Bureau of Labor statistics showed today that retail food prices dropped 16 2-3 per cent last year.

Reports from 51 cities showed costs to be 2 per cent lower on December 15 than on the same date in November, and 16 2-3 per cent less this non December 15, 1930.

The retail price studies take 1913 as the 100 per cent year. The index was 137.2 per cent on December 15, 1930 and 114.3 per cent on December 15, last. The average for 1931, was 121.3 per cent.

The drops in food costs ranged over the period of a year from 10 per cent in Portland, Oregon, to 23 per cent at Springfield, Illinois. The figures included the following declines.

Lone Bandit Takes $2,000 from Theatre

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 16.—(AP)—With $2,000 in cash in his possession stolen at the point of a gun from a Roanoke theatre, a lone bandit was sought by police today for a daring robbery without parallel here.

Police who checked the license number on the bandit's car learned that the license plates were stolen from a parked automobile in Richmond Wednesday night, and with this information vanished the only tangible clue authorities had. The bandit who was described as a young man, about 25 years old, entered the manager's office on the mezzanine floor of the theatre building, flashed a gun, and lined Manager F. M. Westfall and his two assistants against the wall.

BAILEY DROPS POSTAL CASE

Withdraws Objection to Appointment of 25 Postmasters in North Carolina.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Senator Bailey has withdrawn his objections to the confirmation of the appointments of 17 of the 25 pending North Carolina postmaster ships.

His announcement came on the eve of the Senate committee hearing here today into the election corruption charges made by George W. Pritchard, Republican, in contesting the seat occupied by Mr. Bailey.

The junior senator from North Carolina announced that a personal investigation had convinced him there was no irregularity in connection with the following postmaster appointments: Benjamin E. Atkins, Apex; Jed Shephardson, Belhaven; John P. Hoffman, Dallas; Neill S. Green, Dunn; Laurence T. Gibson, Gibson Coy S. Lewis, Hemp; Edith E. Holton, Jamestown; William R. Stevens, Leaksville; Mary W. Yarborough, Louisburgh; George E. Hunsucker, Maiden; Blanche E. Edwards, Newport; Raymond C. Edwards, Pomona; Evelyn Hill, Snow Hill; John C. Matthews, Spring Hope; Lucy B. Hoffer, Sunburst; George H. Wright, Jr., Wendell; Ina L. Jordan, Winton.

Removal of the Senator's objections was understood to have made confirmation of these appointments assured, but left still pending appointments to the offices at Battleboro, East Bend, Mount Gilead, Murphy, Pembroke, Scotland Neck, Taylorsville and Wake Forest. Senator Bailey originally blocked confirmation of the appointments pending an investigation of charges that Republican party leaders had engaged in improper patronage transactions.

Gardner Boosts McLean as Head of Relief Body

Raleigh, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Governor Gardner has wired President Hoover asking him to appoint Angus W. McLean, of Lumberton, former governor, a director of the new National Reconstruction Corporation.

The governor's telegram, in part, follows: "Notwithstanding his conspicuous success as governor of North Carolina, I believe the work of McLean as a member of the war finance corporation was perhaps his most important contribution to the nation."

"His rich experience in business and government, combined with his fine and complete devotion to the welfare of his county in this period suggests his natural fitness for this high position. "Mr. McLean is unaware I am sending this wire. I am moved to make this recommendation solely because of my belief in his unusual fitness for this position."

CORPORATION BILL NEARING END OF RIDE

Two Billion Dollar Measure Sent to the Senate After Passage by House.

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The reconstruction corporation project bore today a vigorous stamp of approval from the House of Representatives, and sped on through the technicalities which remain to be settled before it can become law. This presidential plan to infuse two billion dollars worth of new life into business was approved 335 to 55 in the vote by which the House passed it last evening, a support which matched the overwhelming approval already given it by the Senate.

DRYS WILL NOT COMPROMISE

Declaration Made By Sen. Sheppard As Senate Observes 12 Anniversary Law.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The twelfth anniversary of National prohibition was observed in the Senate today by Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, with a notice that there will be "no compromise by the drys."

The co-author of the 18th amendment noted demands in Congress for a national referendum and for beer. He concluded a two-hour address with this statement: "Let these recalcitrants be placed on notice that so far as the drys are concerned, there is to be no compromise on the question of keeping the nation, as a nation, arrayed against beverage alcohol, no submission of a proposed reversal of the American constitution except in obedience to the will of the people in each district and each state—The only true source of power in our American system—and no statutory torpedoing of the American constitution by a beer submarine."

He added that "no (party) convention declaration can bind any representative or senator in opposition to the desire to the people who gave them political bearing."

Advise Merchants to Use Publicity

Burlington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Merchants meeting here last night in annual session were advised to "advertise, turn stocks regularly, eliminate unnecessary prices, and sell personally in your business."

People Forced To Housetops By Flood Water

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The slowly rising inland sea in Tallahatchie county's flooded tippe basin became a raging torrent today, sending marooned families to their housetops and threatening life and property, following three major levee breaks.

Relief forces, weary from weeks of rescue duty in farflung flooded areas of northwest Mississippi, renewed efforts to remove several thousand families from the basin, across the river from here.

Expressing fear that the breaks last night, bringing sudden rises of water, had caught many families unawares, the flood workers called for immediate concentration here of all available boats to bring in the estimated 11,000 Tippe Basin residents over whose farm lands the released waters were rolling in some instances ten feet deep deep.

Throughout the night, refugees were brought into Glendora and other towns in the area, already crowded with the homeless and most of the mknnee deep in backwater.

Fire Destroys Tobacco Warehouse in Farmville

Bell's tobacco warehouse at Farmville was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin this morning at 3 o'clock. Sixty thousand pounds of tobacco housed in the building along with trucks and other equipment were also destroyed. The loss was estimated at $40,000. The wooden structure, previously insured for $15,000, carried only $10,000 insurance, the original amount having been reduced only a short time ago. The tobacco and equipment were also partially covered by insurance, it was said.

There was no indication of how the fire began or in what section of the warehouse it originated. The blaze had gained considerable momentum by 4 o'clock. (Continued on Page Four)

COLD MOVES TOWARD EAST

Colder Temperatures on East Coast is Predicted for Tonight; Freezing in West.

Bureau experts in all sections continued to scratch heads in puzzlement today and delve into yellowed records seeking some precedent for the ducks and drakes caperings of freakish weather.

A complete reversal of conditions gave the west coast almost freezing temperatures while the Atlantic seaboard was enjoying premature spring with temperatures yesterday up to 77.

In some parts of California six inches of snow and cold weather were recorded, threatening citrus fruits, but in New York spring apparel was in order. Even the oldest oldsters can't remember anything to compare with it. All records have gone by the board.

In Arizona there was heavy snow fall and government planes dropped food to marooned Indians. In the south rains swelled rivers and threatened riverports. The Tallahatchie was on a rampage near the delta, imperiling levees.

Cold temperatures in the east were predicted for later today with the mercury scheduled to drop as much as 30 degrees. In the west it was expected relief would be in sight by the early part of next week.

Weather men have been able to offer no explanation of the whims weather is indulging in.

Senate Committee Is Not to Ask for Carco Concession Data Until Next Week.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Senate Finance committee today postponed until next week a vote on demanding correspondence from the State Department relative to the Barco concession.

Secretary Stimson was called before the committee to explain his department's refusal to supply correspondence with reference to the Barco concessions and loans to Colombia. (Continued on Page Four)

RAIL HEADS TALK WAGES

Willard Tells Workers Why They Ought Accept Voluntary 10 Per Ct. Cut.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, told organized railway workers today why the management thought they should accept voluntary wage reductions of ten per cent.

The white-haired executive, leader of the committee of nine presidents, had the floor at the second session of the negotiations between management and organized labor on wage reduction and unemployment problems.

The proposal, he explained, was this: "Ten per cent to be deducted from each pay check for a period of one year. Basic rates to remain as at present. This arrangement to terminate automatically twelve months after the plan becomes effective unless extended by mutual agreement."

Yesterday, David B. Robertson, head of the labor delegation, presented the program of the Brotherhoods and unions, aimed at relieving unemployment and assuring employment to an "average force" for one year.

Strictest secrecy surrounded the meetings, with guards placed at every entrance. Only two spokesmen were permitted to reveal any of the happenings in the conference room. They were Willard and Robertson. Both scheduled press conferences twice a day.

The presidents, who were out-numbered 20 to 1 yesterday, swelled their numbers today with a few secretaries and three advisory experts on labor matters.

Leaf Sales Reach 65,274,388 Mark On This Market

Sales for the season on the Greenville tobacco market today stood at 65,274,388 pounds, it was revealed in the official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public today.

The total amount paid out by the market was $6,164,056.88, and the general average was $9.44.

For the week ending yesterday sales were given as 985,953 pounds. The market will close for the season on January 29, and farmers have been advised to carefully rework their tobacco and market it as rapidly as possible.

Wrecked Boat Reaches Port

New London, Conn., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The coast guard destroyer Herndon, disabled in a collision collier Lemuel Burrows, arrived at New London harbor shortly before 8 a. m. today. She was in tow of the coast guard tug Acushnet which had taken her over from the Burrows five miles inside of Montauk Point.

Coast guard officials said the Herndon, carrying a crew of 82 men, would be towed to New York for repairs if she were found to be too extensively damaged. The Burrows, officials said, probably headed for New York after turning over the destroyer to the Acushnet.

M'NEIL RAPS PARTY POWER

Attorney for George Pritchard, Republican, Contesting the Election of Senator Bailey Puts Charge Before Senate Elections Committee; Bailey Questions the "Good Faith" of the Contest; Committee Adjourns.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A charge that "a system has grown up" in North Carolina that "does not allow a fair and honest election if the machine in power does not desire it" was made today by Robert H. McNeil, attorney for George M. Pritchard, Republican, who is contesting the election of Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat.

McNeil's statement was made before the Senate elections committee after Bailey had questioned the "good faith" of the contest and Pritchard had come forward to defend himself.

Chairman Shortridge, Republican, California, ruled the committee should confine itself to passing upon the "sufficiency" of the allegations, rather than going into the matter of good faith.

After hearing both sides for two hours the committee adjourned with the understanding that no more hearings would be held. Chairman Shortridge said he would call the committee together next week in executive session to weigh the arguments and decide if the petition justifies a Senate investigation of the election.

Bailey's demurrer, which he read in support of his motion to dismiss the contest, asserted "nothing appears" in the petition "by which the claim may be set up that Mr. Pritchard was elected."

"Nothing," he added, "beyond his mere assertion. "All the allegations are indefinite and general."

He contended no specific case of irregularity had been cited, although "broad and vague allegations of fraud" including "intimidation, coercion and mismarking of ballots had been made."

Bailey recalled his margin over Pritchard was 113,632 votes and asserted the returns had been duly canvassed and certified by the bipartisan board of canvassers.

He said no protest had been made to issuance of his certificate of selection and on the other hand Pritchard sought "through the Nation, made public statement expressing satisfaction with his record of getting 69,000 more votes than a Republican candidate for office ever had received in the state."

He charged that after the position of contest had been filed, Pritchard sought "through the Republican organization of the state" to get evidence to support it.

In view of this "dragged questioning," Bailey said he attached significance to the fact it had not been followed by "a single specific case of alleged irregularities."

In answer to a question from Senator Buckley, Democrat, Ohio, Bailey said the names of Senatorial candidates were on a ballot separate from other offices and added he had consented to this "because Mr. Pritchard wished it."

After reading numerous legal opinions to show charges must be definite, Bailey said, "I don't think the contestant could come now and show any substantiation on my argument is that it would be too late if he did."

At the desire of the committee Bailey confined his initial testimony to the question of the sufficiency of the complaint. He served notice, however, he proposed to "raise in very definite terms the question of good faith" when given the opportunity.

When Bailey concluded, Pritchard arose and asserted the contest "was filed in absolute good faith in the interest of clean and honest elections" in his state. He said it had been filed "in response to information" received after the 1930 election.

Sunset Pass

By ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS: Cattle rustling has involved Gage Preston and his son, Ash, until the range is suspicious, but Trueman Rock hopes to find a way out of danger. He loves Thiry, Preston's daughter, and wants to save her family. But Ash refuses to stop butchering cattle.

Chapter 42

ROCK USES STRATEGY

"Thiry, if you believe I could betray you or them—shoot!" he replied, swiftly.

"You will not tell?" she flushed.

"Never. You sure got me wrong." She gave vent to a shuddering sound. The gun fell from her hands. She swayed. He could see her eyes were tight shut. Then she sank forward, her face on his knees, and, clinging to him, she broke into low sobs, every one of which was like a knife-thrust to Rock.

He let her have it out, and storked her hair and her tight fists, one of which clenched his scarf, the other his coat sleeve. She did not recover soon, though presently the sobs gave way to soft weeping. Then he held her closer, scarcely seeing her or the black pine-streaked gloom or the stretching flares of yellow light along the horizon. He was seeing something blacker than the night, more sinister than the shadows. As a last resource, he could kill her and her father. He could kill Ash Preston, protect her name and insure a chance for her future happiness. But for Ash, this blundering, thieving work could be halted in time to prevent discovery. The range was silent. Preston already saw the error of his ways. He could be amendable to any plan. Ash was the stumbling block.

At this brooding juncture of Rock's meditations he became aware that Thiry was stirring. She rose from her knees.

"Can you forgive me?" she whispered.

"Thiry, you talk nonsense sometimes."

"But I might have shot you."

"Sure I thought you were going to."

"I was out of my head. I should have known you would never betray us. My wits were gone. Everything went but a hot terrible fury. Oh, Trueman, I am a Preston."

"Well, I reckon I don't want you anybody else."

"Can anything be done to save us?" she queried, appealingly.

"It must be done, Thiry. Sure I don't know what. We've got time I'll find some way."

"Oh, Trueman, you are my one hope. To think I've tried to drive you away! . . . That I nearly shot you! . . . How little I know myself. But I do know this—if you stop this selling of stolen beef—if you prevent it before they're arrested—I'll—I'll love you with all my heart and soul."

"Darling, I will do it somehow," promised Rock.

"I'll go now," she said, rising and swaying unsteadily.

"I'm glad now you came to Sunset Pass," she whispered. "But you've added to my fears. It's now you, too, who might fall under the Preston shadow."

"Be brave, Thiry. Don't give up. . . . Never lose faith in me. . . . Good night," he concluded, and, loosening her hand, he kissed it and fled silently into the darkness.

Forty-eight hours later Rock rode into Wagoning.

Gage Preston had been more than glad to give him leave of absence, sensing no doubt, in Rock something not inimical to his precarious fortunes. In a note to Thiry, Rock explained the reason for his going, importuning her to wait patiently and not to be a victim to imagined evils—that somehow he would find a solution.

When Rock dropped in to see Winter it was not with any definite purpose, but that night he and his old friend locked themselves in a room at the hotel. There were range channels open to Winter to which Rock had no access. The Preston situation was graver—actual accusations had been made, it seemed. But by whom was not manifest.

"Sol, old timer, I'm in deep," said Rock at the conclusion of Winter's confidence, and he opened his palms expressively. "Thiry loves me!"

"Do you know anything that makes Preston's guilt sure?"

"Yes, but I promised Thiry not to tell," Rock answered.

ABOUT TOWN

The American Legion, realizing the seriousness of the unemployment situation in this country, hopes to work out a practical plan for relief at a meeting of the Department Executive Committee to be held in Raleigh January 17.

North Carolina is expected to take a lead in this movement in view of the fact that it is the home state of Com. Henry Stevens, whose active campaign in behalf of this cause has commanded the attention of the entire nation as well as individual members of the Legion.

The Legion has wielded a powerful influence for good since its formation immediately after the war, and considering the fact that thousands of former soldiers are involved in the unemployment issue, it is nothing but natural the organization should attempt to work out a plan for relief.

Just what these plans will consist of is not to be said this time but that they will have a far-reaching effect in improving the situation is generally conceded. It is a great task—one of the greatest attacked by any organization—but these men who gave their best in behalf of another cause thirteen years ago should be able to find a solution to present conditions if anybody can.

The inter-racial conference which was to have been held in this city yesterday has been postponed until February 5 because of the inability of state workers to attend this month.

Chairman will be named to represent the twenty-one counties of this conference district in the hope of having each community well represented. The idea of the inter-racial meeting is to effect an improved spirit of co-operation between white and colored people, especially in the great agricultural communities where whites depend upon the negro for labor just as the negro depends upon the whites for work.

The conference here will discuss problems affecting the negro in shifting agriculture and it is expected to bring out many valuable points in this connection.

It will be the first time a gathering of this kind was ever held in this immediate section of the state and the aid of important business men and growers has been solicited in an effort to make it the desired success. Leaders of public opinion of the state will attend the Greenville meeting and attempt to impress upon the various community representatives the tremendous part which the colored population plays in the life of the farm territories.

W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Democratic "Victory Fund" campaign in this county has called upon the people to contribute freely to the movement and help raise enough money to pay the national Democratic debt and defray cost of the next campaign.

Always optimistic concerning the future of his party, Mr. Hooks expressed opinion it stands a good chance of emerging victorious in the forthcoming election and that it would play a vital part in delivering the nation from the unprecedented economic situation prevailing at this time.

He called attention to the fact that everybody would be expected to give something, regardless of the amount, and that such contributions would help swell the national treasury to such extent the party would be able to pass through the next campaign unhampered by financial worries.

The party is asking $1,500,000, a portion which will be used for old debts, the remainder being diverted for use in the campaign to elect a Democratic president and members of Congress.

In face of the denunciation being heaped upon the heads of administration leaders because of their apparent inability to improve one of the most serious economic situations in years, it was believed the time has come for Democrats to act. It is a big opportunity for victory, and this fact will be stressed in all parts of the nation.

ABOUT TOWN

But you can go to Preston and tell him you know. Scare him to sense."

"Sol, Gage Preston can't call his soul his own. I reckon Ash led him into this and now has got him defaced. Nothing on earth or in heaven can stop Ash Preston."

"Nothin' out lead!"

"Ahh!" "Wal, I never yet seen that kind of a hombre miss meetin' it. Now, Rock, I've an idea. If Dabb an' Lincoln know what I know—an' it's a good bet they know more—they will tell you. They obviate any broken promise on your part. Dabb is human. Lincoln is the whitest man in these parts. They're both rich, an' they rule the Cattle Association. Heshitt is only president. What Dabb an' Lincoln say is law. Now you go to them."

"But, Sol, good Heavens! What for?"

"If you can get Dabb an' Lincoln to sympathize with you an' Thiry, the'll be sympathizing with Preston. Ten ears ago there was a case somethin' like this. Wal, his friends got him to make good what he'd stole an' saved him from jail, if no worse. Preston's case ain't so bad; that is, yet. If you've got the nerve an' the wit you can keep Preston from ruin an' Thiry from a broken heart."

Rock leaped up, inspired, suddenly on fire with the vision Winter's capacity had conjured up. He pushed aside table and chair and hurried his startled friend.

Rock presented himself at Dabb's office the next morning.

"Hello, Rock!" replied Dabb in answer to his greeting. "Have a chair and a cigar. I've been hopin' you'd run into town."

"How's Amy?" queried Rock.

"She was fit as a filly when I saw her last. She went to Denver to visit. Expect her home next week."

"John, I told you I was in love with Thiry. Well, that wasn't so bad. But now she's in love with me. And the situation is hell."

"Man, you've only yourself to blame. You were advised not to go I myself told you not to stay."

"I loved the girl," replied Rock, simply.

"Humph!" said Dabb, chewing at his cigar. "Rock, some of us estimate know you haven't looked for anything shady about Preston."

"How do you know?" asked Rock.

"Well, that question came up the other night at our Association meeting. Heshitt gave you a hard rub. Over this Preston scandal, Tom Lincoln an' I one or two thers took exception to Heshitt. We claimed you not only weren't in with Preston on anything crooked but you hadn't trailed around lookin' for it. The reason, of course was you were sweet on Thiry Preston."

"John, that was most damned good of you," returned Rock, warmly.

"You an' Lincoln figured that if I had looked for shady work I'd have found it?"

"Sure. We knew that. No outfit could fool you."

"Well, what then?"

"Not so easy. But personally I believe you'd have come to me for advice an' help."

"I don't know that I'd have presumed so far," went on Rock.

"What's worryin' you now, Rock?" Heshitt's outlie after Preston," replied Rock, and he gave Dabb a detailed account of Dunne's maneuver at the Notch camp and what had come of it.

"You dared that foreman Dumme to throw his gun?" exclaimed Dabb, gravely.

"I sure did."

"Rock, that was a bold move an' a wise one. I'm darn glad you told me this. Reckon it didn't seem important to you—that I knew—you'd have told it quick. But it is important."

"How so?" asked Rock, curiously.

"Well, in the first place it vindicates Lincoln an' me in our stand for you. An' it will stump Heshitt."

"Ahh! Then this new rancher is dead set against Preston?"

"Is he? Well, I guess. An' he has his outfit farin. . . . Now, Rock, the strange thing is Heshitt has been losin' a good deal of stock most Half Moon brand—an' his men can't locate them. Hide nor hair! . . . But other men have!"

"Dabb, what're you tellin' me?" shouted Rock, fiercely.

"Rock, now listen. You once rode for Jim Slagle. Preston ruined Slagle. An' Slagle has hung around on there to get even. Reckon he's in a fair way to do it. For he has tracked the Prestons down."

"Aw, this's awful!" groaned Rock.

"Jim Slagle? An' he has tracked Preston down? What to, John?"

Mercury Begins Toppling Here

The mercury began falling here unseasonably warm weather, and unseasonably warm weather, and it was indicated that the cold wave which has held the West Coast in its grip during the week, was headed this way.

The lowered temperatures were accompanied by overcast skies which gave forth promise of fulfillment of the weather man's prediction of rain along the coast tonight and tomorrow.

The recent warm spell was the most prolonged for a similar season in years, and the aged weather wise wagged their heads and declared it "beat anything they had seen in many a day."
