

SAYS CROSS BILL WOULD HURT MARKET

Russell Clark Thinks Limiting Short Sales Would Destroy Contract Markets

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, was quoted today before the House agriculture committee as predicting proposals to limit short sales to those who actually have or expect to have cotton would give control of the price to foreign markets.

Russell Clark, vice-president of the New Orleans Exchange, read to the committee a telegram he received from Hester on the pending Cross bill.

Hester said limitation or transactions as Representative Cross, Democrat of Texas, proposes would "close the American futures exchanges and transfer control of the American cotton crop to Liverpool and other foreign markets to the great detriment of American producers."

Clark added that with the Cross limitation "there would not be enough business to justify operation" of the exchanges at New Orleans and New York.

He asserted that he would not agree with statements that only a third of one per cent of hedges were legitimate. For the last year ending in June, 1931, Clark testified 20,552,000 bales of cotton were sold on the New Orleans exchange. Of that number, he added, 7,500,000 were what are called legitimate actions.

Of these deals, he said, brokerage commissions amounted to $2,050,000.

"There is no effect whatever upon the price by charges made for purely speculative deals," asked Representative Ketcham, Republican of Michigan.

"I don't think so," Clark answered.

The New Orleans Exchange official added that enforcement of provisions in the Clark bill would "absolutely close the exchange and destroy the futures contract system."

Even Mules Are Not Safe From Thieves in Pitt

Charlie Evans, constable at Black Jack, assisted federal officers in a raid in the lower section of the county last Saturday. The raid was a fruitful one. In addition to the capture of two distillers, a mule and cart were also confiscated by the raiding party.

Realizing the mule would eat Uncle Sam out of house and home before the case against the distillers could be aired in court, the officers turned the animal and cart over to Evans for safekeeping.

Evans carried his newly acquired property home and gave the mule an old-fashioned Pitt county meal. The next morning when Evans went out to the barn to again satisfy the mule's gastronomic craving the animal and cart had disappeared.

Officers started an investigation and mule and cart were located. A man, whose name was not disclosed, faces arrest on a charge of larceny and conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Parties Warned To Steer Clear Of Prohibition

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Anti-Saloon League biennial convention left behind it today a warning to the political parties to steer clear of prohibition this election year.

Reiterated by the speakers who mounted the platform at last night's final gathering, this theme was summed up in a declaration of policy which asserted "repeal or modification are not for party platforms or party lines."

With that the veteran dry organization went on record as opposing anything that might weaken prohibition, referendums, resubmissions, state control, modification and beer proposals, as well as repeal attempts.

It scored particularly the Raskob "home rule" plan of liquor control. Among the individual expressions was that of Dr. A. J. Barton, of North Carolina, chairman of the league's executive committee, who asserted the south would deny support to any presidential candidate either running on a wet platform or personally wet.

Today, state superintendents of the league contained conferences on their detail work, while the majority of the delegates headed for home.

COX TALKS POLITICS TO JOBLESS

Father James R. Cox, leader of the jobless, told a crowd, estimated at 55,000, at an unemployed rally at the Pittsburgh, Pa., stadium that he might be a candidate for president on a proposed jobless party ticket. The Pittsburgh clergyman recently led a march on Washington to demand federal relief.

Denver Man Kidnapped; Threatened With Death

Denver, Colo., Jan. 20.—(AP)—An apparent drive by a gang of gunmen against a Denver bakery corporation has culminated in the kidnapping of Benjamin P. Vower, 62, the manager, by two men who threatened him with death unless $50,000 ransom was paid by noon today.

LONG WINS VOTE FIGHT

Louisiana Governor's Candidate to Succeed Himself Rolls Up Big Majority

New Orleans, Jan. 20.—(AP)—O. K. Allen, chairman of the state highway commission, with the backing of Governor Huey P. Long, has been nominated for governor of Louisiana by the largest majority ever polled by a Democratic candidate for that office.

Returns from 564 precincts in yesterday's primary, more than one third of the total precincts, gave Allen a lead of better than 50,000 over the opposition field of four candidates.

In the 564 precincts, representing a total vote of 151,404 Allen received 100,740. Dudley J. Leblanc 30,792; George Kenneth Gulon 19,380; William C. Boone 234; and William L. Clark 258.

Likewise, John B. Fournet, running for lieutenant governor on the Allen ticket, held a commanding lead of nearly 15,000 over his combined opposing field.

New Orleans, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana's combination Governor and United States Senator, Huey P. Long, today on the face of incomplete returns from the Democratic primary appeared to have won another political victory by nominating O. K. Allen to succeed him as governor.

Allen, chairman of Long's State Highway Commission, rolled up a 40,000 majority in the city of New Orleans and the hope of anti-Long leaders that ballots from county parishes would offset this lead.

REPORT BIG SALARY CUTS AT CAPITAL

Drastic Slashes in Various State Departments Said to Have Been Made

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Salary cuts and personnel readjustments today occupied the attention of state officials and employes alike.

Frank Dunlap, director of personnel, and Henry Burke, assistant director of the budget, continued their conferences behind closed doors with departmental heads but gossip around the capitol told of drastic slashes in pay.

Many of the rumors could be traced down to fact but definite announcements may not be made for a week or more.

So far as could be ascertained, only two employes, both in the department of buildings and grounds, have been discharged.

It was learned that other dis-

Dr. Martin Dewey Advocates Light Wines As Diet for Expectant Mothers

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Beer and light wines as articles of diet for expectant mothers were advocated before a Senate committee today by Dr. Martin Dewey of New York, president of the American Dental Association.

Not only is the small alcoholic content good for the mother, he contended, but it helps in the proper development of the unborn child's teeth. Dr. Dewey was the latest of numerous witnesses called by Senator Buchanan of Connecticut to testify in hearings on bills to legalize beer.

"It has long been known," said Dewey, "that one of the most important contributing factors to good teeth, is the proper nutrition of the"

PRAISE SALES TAX SYSTEM

House Committee Is Told That Canadian System Would Be Practical in U. S.

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The House ways and means committee was told today that the Canadian sales tax system was practical for the United States and that it would bring large federal revenue.

The statement came from experts sent by the treasury department to Canada to study the manufacturer's sales tax.

The experts, Dr. Thomas S. Adams of New Haven, professor of political economy at Yale University, and E. C. Alvord of Washington, formerly executive secretary to Secretary Mellon, explained the sales tax system to the committee.

They appeared at the special request of Chairman Collier to give information on the plan which Undersecretary Mills of the treasury previously has told the committee was impractical in this country, and unsatisfactory in many respects in the Dominion.

Adams said the Canadian sales tax strictly was a "manufacturers tax" in that a levy of four per cent on all goods manufactured or imported into the Dominion was imposed.

Duplication of taxes, he continued, was eliminated.

Adams said the tax was well administered and netted about $44,000,000 annually in Canada.

He declined to estimate how much such a tax system would net in this country but said it would bring revenue and was practical.

ONE DEATH IN EARTHQUAKE

Several Injured As Shock Rips Streets and Buildings in Peruvian Towns

Lima, Peru, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Inhabitants of Lima, Callao, and the surrounding area, were recovering today from a night of terror caused by an earthquake, which ripped streets and buildings and resulted in at least one death and serious injury to several.

The newspaper El Comercio reported one person killed in the crumbling of a house at Huacho. The shock was most severe at Huaraz and Huacho and was felt strongly also at Pisco, Canete, Ica and other towns.

The shock, which citizens said was the most severe since 1904, followed a lesser one earlier in the day. The second occurred at 9:30 p. m. on a hot summer night. It was preceded by a hollow, underground rumbling which caused the first fright among the people, even though they are accustomed to earthquakes and the west coast of Peru is frequently shaken.

Walls of buildings cracked, cornices fell, roofs crumbled and the streets rolled as if in waves. They were soon filled with careening automobiles, out of the drivers' control in the unsteadiness of the pavements underneath.

Simultaneously, the lights of the city went out. The darkness was filled with the hysterical screams of thousands who fled in panic from homes, churches and theatres into the unsteady streets and open squares. The crash of breaking glass added to the tumult.

Some women fainted. Others prayed. The crowds dodged from the erratic path of taxicabs and automobiles, flung here and there by the swaying of the earth. Most

CAPTURE TWO SMALL STILLS

Two Distillers Also Nabbed by Federal Officers in Raids in This Section

Two whiskey distilling plants and a similar number of distillers were in the hands of federal officers today as a result of a series of raids in this community during the week. Four gallons of liquor and a considerable amount of beer and still paraphernalia were also captured.

Israel Cox and Simmy Judge, colored, were caught coming out of the woods with four gallons of whiskey in the Harris Cross Roads community. They will be given hearings before U. S. Commissioner T. E. Beaman here next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The distilling plants were taken in raids in the Griffin community. The plants, of 5 and 20 gallon capacities, were the smallest captured by officers in a raid in this community since prohibition became effective. They were of the copper variety and complete in every detail. The distillers were preparing to operate and fled as the officers approached.

Denies Reports On Anti-Saloon League in N. C.

Greensboro, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Scouting reports which he said were being circulated that the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League is disintegrating, the Rev. C. A. Upchurch, of Raleigh, state superintendent, today continued preparations for what he said would be one of the greatest state conventions ever held.

Saying that some North Carolinians reported in Washington during the recent national meeting of the organization that "I have completely failed in my program," he called it "ridiculous" and said a fight was being waged against him because of his anti-wet stand in the 1928 Presidential campaign.

"If the league goes out of business another one will be organized the next day," he said.

The 16th biennial convention of the North Carolina organization is to be held here Thursday and Friday.

JURIST TALKS TO PITT LEGION

Judge Cranmer Stresses Need of Christ's Teaching in Economic Life

The present economic system of this country is wrong, and the only way to improve it is through the application of the teachings of Christ, Judge E. H. Cranmer, of Southport, who is presiding over the civil term of Superior court here, told members of the Pitt County Post of American Legion, assembled in regular monthly session at the Rotary club last night.

Any system that enables some men to grow rich while thousands starve at their very doors is not only wrong, but clean out of proportion, the jurist said, and the only way to get back to higher ground is to practice the doctrine as enunciated by Christ on the shores of Galilee over nineteen hundred years ago.

He said Christ should come back to earth today he would not be crucified on a tree, but would be

Argentina Begins New Tax Pogram

Buenos Aires, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Argentine government proceeded today to shift the burden of national taxation from tariffs to direct levies on incomes and property, putting into effect one of the most sweeping innovations in its fiscal history as a means of balancing the budget and avoiding a moratorium on its debt.

The new plan, authorized in a series of emergency decrees last night, levies taxes of from one-half of one per cent to seven per cent on salaries, lands, property, securities, commerce and industry.

It is to continue in effect for at least five years and was described as preliminary to the installation of the new government of President-elect Augustin P. Justo which will take place probably in a few days.

The decrees promulgated by provisional president, Jose F. Uriburu, who has remained in power since the revolution of September, 1930, overturned a policy of half a century's duration during which tariff taxes on imports have chiefly been depended upon to furnish the nation's revenue.

TWO CAROLINA MEN SLATED AS RELIEF HEADS

Angus McLean and Bernard Baruch May Be Made Directors of Corporation

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Two Carolina Democrats, Angus W. McLean, former governor of North Carolina, and Bernard Baruch, who left South Carolina to become one of New York's best known financiers, today appeared as likely choices as directors of President Hoover's Reconstruction Corporation.

When the president appointed Gen. Charles G. Dawes to the corporation yesterday he announced the directors would be selected after a conference with Democratic and Republican leaders. The names of McLean and Baruch have been mentioned frequently in this connection.

The president is known to look with favor on Baruch as a director of the corporation. McLean's work on the war finance corporation, his administration as governor of North Carolina and his success as a banker have been presented to the president by North Carolina's congressional delegation and others.

In addition to Dawes, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, will be a director of the reconstruction corporation and serve as chairman of the board.

President Hoover also has other important appointments to make.

A successor to Dawes as ambassador to Great Britain must be named.

Relief Agencies Push Activity in Flood Districts

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Coast Guard and National Red Cross worked together today to bring relief to the flood-swept Mississippi delta and its thousands of refugees.

While a squad of Red Cross workers moved swiftly to alleviate suffering among the homeless and enforce public health measures in refugee centers, Coast Guard boats and crews, hurried here from the Great Lakes and Gulf stations, gave reassurance to marooned householders in the water-bound back country.

Wholesale vaccinations in the crowded, half-flooded towns of six counties where farm families sought comparative safety after seeing their homes inundated from the breaks in the delta levee system, were ordered by the Red Cross and were proceeding rapidly today under the direction of county health officers, scores of resident physicians cooperated in the work.

Robert E. Bondy, of Washington, Red Cross disaster relief director, told a conference of relief workers that "the same policy of relief the National Red Cross has followed in other disasters will be pushed in flooded Mississippi. We do not propose to let anybody die, freeze, or go hungry."

Luck? Take This Case of Brickell As Real Example

Take the case of Sterling H. Brickell, for instance. He promised to carry a friend some birds. The friend had a large family and Brickell couldn't find but four birds when he decided the time had come to fulfill his promise.

On the way to the friend's house, Brickell espied a covey of partridges cavorting around in a ditch alongside the road. The Bob Whites became frightened and took to wing directly across the road. Two birds, however, failed to gain sufficient altitude and crashed head-on into Brickell's car, killing themselves instantly.

Brickell alighted, picked up the birds and went on his way rejoicing. The lucky break had given him the number of birds required from the first.

Mrs. Meadows showed herself thoroughly conversant with this most interesting subject and gave her hearers much information that was both interesting and instructive. She closed her talk with a lovely poem called "The Flower" by Tennyson.

Mrs. B. G. Fitzgerald, chairman of the program committee, then introduced Mrs. H. J. McGinnis, who gave a splendid paper on "Benvenuto Cellini," the Italian engraver, sculptor and goldsmith, and a wonderful rendition of the life and accomplishments of "Leonardo da Vinci," one of the greatest masters of the High Renaissance, also celebrated as sculptor, architect, engineer and scientist. Especially impressive was Mrs. McGinnis's description and interpretation of Leonardo's "Virgin of the Rocks," "Mona Lisa" and "The Last Supper."

Then followed a discussion of current history, led by Mrs. W. C. Vincent who represents the club in the class of current history at the college, taught by Professor A. D. Frank. This feature is always delightful and magnifies the college in our midst.

RECONSTRUCTION MEASURE IS NEARING COMPLETION
After eight hours of conferences which began yesterday afternoon, Senator Norbert, Republican, South Dakota, chairman of the Senate banking committee and a leader of the conferees, said there had been "no rows." He explained that the task of "ironing out" the differences is one that takes time but added "we are getting along fine and hope to report the bill tomorrow."

Once that is done, Congress will probably take a very short time to approve the adjusted legislation and send it to the other end of Pennsylvania avenue for President Hoover's signature.

After eight hours of conferences which began yesterday afternoon, Senator Norbert, Republican, South Dakota, chairman of the Senate banking committee and a leader of the conferees, said there had been "no rows." He explained that the task of "ironing out" the differences is one that takes time but added "we are getting along fine and hope to report the bill tomorrow."

Once that is done, Congress will probably take a very short time to approve the adjusted legislation and send it to the other end of Pennsylvania avenue for President Hoover's signature.

"Tel the newspapers or police it will be just too bad."

They instructed Mrs. Bower to have Stephen Knight, president of the bakery, at the Bower home at noon with $50,000 in cash. They tore a telephone from the wall.

The group, however, sought the help of authorities soon after the kidnapers and their victim departed. Police said they had no information that the ransom would be paid.

ASK STIMSON TO PRESENT OIL DEAL CORRESPONDENCE

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Senate finance committee today requested Secretary Stimson to furnish certain correspondence relating to the Barco oil concession after the State Department had submitted telegrams with the oil matters eliminated.

The committee unanimously agreed to a motion by Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, requesting a telegram of June 19, 1931, which Assistant Secretary White testified mentioned the valuable oil concession in Colombia.

The committee's action was at an executive session in which a letter from the Secretary of State transmitting some of the correspondence regarding loans to Colombia had been considered.

Stimson submitted portions of four communications between the State Department and the American legation in Colombia regarding loans made to that country by the National City Company.

Testimony before the committee indicated that the National City Company borrowed the last $5,000,000 of a loan, contracted for by Colombia the year before, ten days after that government restored the Barco oil concession to the Mellon-owned Gulf Oil Company and other American interests.

The Couzens motion, which was seconded by Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, follows: "I move in view of the fact that the communication received from the Secretary of State makes no reference to the Barco concession in the telegram of June 19, that he be requested to furnish to this committee the telegram which confirms Assistant Secretary White's testimony given before the committee in respect to the Barco concession."

White testified that among the reasons mentioned by President Olaya of Colombia for the loan to be made was that he had restored the oil concession.

He insisted, however, that there was no connection between the concession and the loan.

"It has also long been known, that in certain types of malnutrition associated with pregnancy, the health of the mother can be greatly improved by adding a small quantity of beer or light wines to the diet. The importance of beer as an article of diet in pregnant mothers cannot be overestimated."

"In all cases of malnutrition," he continued, "the medical profession has long recognized the value of beer as an addition to the diet. It is a well established fact that all individuals who use small quantities of beer regularly, are better nourished than those who do not."

As the count progressed, charges of election fraud were hurled at the Long camp by Francis Williams, manager for Dudley J. LeBlanc, runner-up to Allen. In the midst of the charges, Edna Cognovich was brought to a New Orleans hospital suffering from gunshot wounds received in a fracas at Boothville, in Plaquemines parish, where the ballot box was torn open and the ballots thrown to the four winds.

During the day charges that anti-Long voters were being threatened by a shotgun squad at the Lafitte precinct down in the Barataria country were received at the attorney general's office. Thomas Gilmore, special assistant attorney general, was sent to investigate but

ABOUT TOWN

The spirit of Rotary was carried into the Fountain community Monday night when members of the local club held the first of a series of rural-urban meetings there.

The Rotes told Fountain people what they are trying to do to awaken the world to the need of more brotherhood, and the Fountain speakers told the Rotes what they were doing toward taking care of the poor during the most severe period of depression experienced in this territory in years.

Fountain is to be congratulated upon the stroke in behalf of the poor. The caring for 42 children of indigent parents is very commendable, and shows what a group of earnest women can do when they set their hearts on a thing.

This is a time when closer relationship between town and country people is going to play a big part in the future destiny of the nation and programs such as those started by the Rotarians should do more to accomplish this purpose than any other thing to be imagined.

Work is what this country needs to bring a return of better times and it should be the purpose of people of all communities to begin all construction programs possible at this time.

Improvements to homes and business houses which have been planned for sometime could be made now at much less cost than formerly because of the decreased cost of materials and labor. Men who have been roaming the streets in quest of work would be glad to work at fair wages, and the money put into circulation would do its bit toward easing conditions materially.

Every community is expected to take care of its poor this winter, and there is no better way to do this than through the creation of employment of those who would be forced to accept charity if they are not provided with work.

Other sections of the country are stressing the construction phase in no uncertain terms, realizing that this would do more toward relieving distress and suffering than anything they could do.

Sunset Pass

SYNOPSIS: The Prestons are in desperate straits since their cattle rustling is becoming known, but Truman Rock is trying to persuade Gage Preston to try to make peace with the ranchers. Rock knows that Preston's father, Ash, dominates his father, but his interest in Thiry, Gage's daughter, spurs him on.

Chapter 45
 "YOU ASK ME TO BE A THIEF?" Rock ran. He leaped the brook. He made the camp in bounds. "Thiry! Of all people!... Aw, I'm so glad to see you," he panted. "Howdy, Truman!" Her smile was strained and she scarcely met his eager gaze. He had never met her in rider's garb. Could that make such a difference? She wore a tan blouse, with blue scarf, fringed gauntlets, overalls, and high boots. She looked like a boy until she dismounted. Rock had a wild desire to snatch her in his arms.

"Boys, throw my pack and unroll my bed," she said. And while the boys obeyed with unified alacrity she led the stunned Rock away from camp, under the golden aspens, into the forest. "Glad to see me?" she asked. "Glad!" he echoed, as if words were inadequate. "You don't show it." "Thiry!... I'm lousy."

She still held his hand, that she had taken openly before her brothers. Rock could not shake off his trance. Still, it did not seem the Thiry he knew. "Kiss me," this unknown Thiry said, not shyly, nor yet boldly, but somehow unnaturally for her. When Rock obeyed, restraining himself, in his bewilderment, she put her arms around him and her face against his neck.

"Bad news, Truman dear," she said as if forced. "Sure I could have guessed it. But it's welcome, since it fetched you." "Ash made a killing of Half Moon steers and shipped the beef from Wagontongue," went on Thiry, talking by rote.

Rock's frame jerked with the hot gush of blood through his veins, but he did not voice his anger and dismay. "Dad wants you to come in with us—share our fortunes, our troubles—our sins... help us fight these enemy outfits... If we—" "We?" he interrupted, in bitter heat.

"Yes, we. Ash and Dad and I—and my three brothers... and you"— "I... And what do I get for spillin' blood for thirs? Ah, that's Preston's game. He wants me to kill—to spread terror among those Wyoming outfits... And my reward will be—" "Me," she said, without emotion.

"With Ash Preston's consent?" demanded Rock, angered to probe to the depths of this proposition. "Dad claims when you become one of us—Ash will have to consent." "Thiry Preston!—You ask me to do this thing?" "Yes," she droned. But he could feel a changing in the stiff form against him.

"You ask me to be a thief—a killer—to save your rotten brother, your weak and crooked father?" he flung at her, in a stern and terrible voice. "I ask you—"

In violence, almost with brutal force, Rock shook her, as if to awaken her out of a torpor. "No! No, you poor driven girl!" he cried. "I would die for you, but I'll never let you ruin your soul by such dishonor. They have blinded you—preyed on your love. Your brother is mad. Your father desperate. They would sacrifice you. Ash would agree to this, meanin' to shoot me in the back... No, Thiry..."

"You—will not?" she sobbed. "Never! Not even to have you!" Suddenly, then, he had a wild weeping creature in his arms whose cries were incoherent, whose beating hands, and shaking body wrought havoc to the iron of his mood. "Oh, thank God—you won't be wpt, lifting streaming eyes and working face." "I prayed you'd refuse. I told Dad you'd never never do it... I told Ash he lied... he'd never let you have me... But they made me—they drove me— all night they nagged me—until I gave in... Truman darling, say you forgive. I was weak. I loved him so—and I'm almost broken... But you lift me from the depths. I love you more—a thousand times! Let come what will. I can face it to more mature and experienced performers.

Postponement Of Reparations Confab Likely

London, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Postponement of the Lausanne reparations conference was regarded in British official circles today as inevitable because of the French political situation.

With the debate in the French Chamber of Deputies carried over until Thursday, Downing street considered it impossible for the arrangements for the conference to be completed and give time for the delegates to arrive at Lausanne by January 23, the date set for the meeting.

British opinion is that the conference will be held perhaps a week later. Discussion continued today among the British, German and French governments regarding the conference.

So far the British government has made no formal move to postpone the meeting although it is in England which took the initiative in fixing the date at January 23. It is understood that a mutual understanding regarding the postponed date may be reached during the exchange of views now proceeding among the European capitals.

FOOTBALL AND GOLF FEVER SWEEPS U. S.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—One of the most striking features of the Associated Press poll of newspaper expert opinion is proof of the astonishing growth of football and golf in national popularity, testifying strongly to the advance of the amateur side of our competitive forces.

These two sports have swept the country within the past decade. Most observers agree. Meanwhile, baseball has had a fight to hold its own and remain the "national pastime," by a narrow margin, and other professional sports such as boxing and horse racing have experienced sharp declines in public interest.

Baseball's lead over all other sports has so far been cut down that the Associated Press poll shows a compilation of 141 points to football's 163. Golf is a good fourth with 114, but boxing is a poor fourth with only 29.

Five years ago boxing undoubtedly would have been included in the first three by out of every 100 observers. Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth's chief rival as a public idol in the boom days, was a big factor in football's popularity and his retirement, along with that of Gene Tunney, accelerated the sports decline in general interest.

Professional wrestling, several experts find, has helped oust boxing from its former favor.

While many observers now feel that golf tops all sports in the amount of player activity, it is conceded that football and baseball command greater all around interest. This, it is pointed out, is due to the fact they are "young American games," thereby millions of participants are involved to start with.

STATE TEAMS WAKE FOREST

Charlotte, Jan. 20.—(AP)—With a double-barreled victory over Wake Forest, North Carolina State continued today to hold the spotlight in state basketball circles.

While the varsities were fighting through to a 19-14 victory for the Wolfpack, the freshmen of the two schools clashed, a 9-3 count against the Baby Deacons being the result. Captain Bud Rose dropped one through the hoop just as his first half whistle blew, to give State's varsity a 9-7 lead which was never broken.

In another sports department University of North Carolina teams also scored a double win, varsity and freshmen boxers counting Duke out 4 to 3 and 5 to 2. The matches drew approximately 3,000 people, one of the largest boxing crowds ever gathered at Chapel Hill.

Minor loop basketball teams, invading Tennessee, divided honors for the state. Western North Carolina Teachers defeated Tusculum 39 to 29, while Appalachian was losing to Tennessee State Teachers, at Johnson City, 27 to 25.

Tonight's program for North Carolina college sportsmen was not so heavy. The only scheduled event is between Western Carolina and East Tennessee quintets.

BLOCK MOVE TO BOLSTER TARIFF

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Senate Democrats today blocked an administration move looking to a bolstering of the tariff wall against depreciated currencies of foreign nations.

A motion by Senator Harrison, recalling an order made yesterday by the Senate to the tariff commission to inquire into the results of depreciated currencies on American trade was adopted on a party division.

The old coalition of Democrats and Republican Independents which fought the Smoot-Hawley tariff act again lined up to some extent. The order recalled from the tariff commission was sponsored by Senator Reed (Republican, Pa.).

He said in debate today it was his intention to seek increases in tariff rates if inquiry showed that foreign countries were capturing the American market by cheaper production of goods resulting from depreciated currency.

The Harrison motion to reconsider was approved 43 to 32.

CAPTURE TWO SMALL STILLS

JURIS TALKS TO PITT LEGION

In addition to the talk by the distinguished jurist, the legionnaires heard a report on Salvation Army activities here, and discussed the membership drive being waged by the state organization.

The report of the Salvation Army was presented by Captain Armstrong, who said they were doing everything possible to cope with the situation arising from unemployment but were greatly handicapped by shortage of funds. He asked the Legion to lend its support to the workers as they go about their business of trying to carry relief to hundreds of distressed people.

The post decided to continue the campaign to obtain as many new members as possible, and solicit their aid in the great fight which the state and national organizations have launched against unemployment.

It was decided to hold the next meeting either February 22 or 23 and to confine the program to observance of the birthday anniversary of George Washington. The auxiliary will be invited to join in the observance.

A solo number was rendered by Mrs. Armstrong, assisted by Miss Earle.

Members of the post made a contribution to a needy family, and a committee was named to see that proper clothing and food were delivered to the home.

Ackerman Makes Strong Plea For Constructive Advertising

"Could anything be more ridiculous than hoarding?" asked Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, former war correspondent and well known writer on business subjects, in a talk on "Co-operative Advertising" at a luncheon meeting at the Advertising Club of New York, October 28.

"Suppose the automotive industry initiated a national advertising movement," said Mr. Ackerman. "Suppose Mr. Ford, Mr. Sloan, Mr. Chrysler, Mr. Erskine, Mr. Macauley, Mr. Nash and the other chief executives called their advertising advisers together and asked them to prepare copy for a national campaign to attack the reasons for the economic stage fright of the American people as problems of national morale were dissolved during the World War by advertising."

"Suppose the automotive companies showed the American people, as they can by facts and figures, that an increase in production of one million units in 1932 over 1931 will put more than a million men and women back to work in mines, mills and factories; that the sale at retail of that number of additional new cars will move used car stocks and directly or indirectly stimulate other industries and other businesses. In fact, if the automotive industry even approximates the volume herein suggested, in 1932, it will increase the revenues of the railroads more than the recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Suppose the steel, the rubber and the oil industries joined with the railroads in supporting and augmenting this movement. Suppose that in addition to their appropriations for competitive copy, all of these industries subscribed to a $25,000,000 co-operative advertising pool, and that would be an infinitesimal fraction of their total surpluses, is it not conceivable that the whole nation would benefit by a revival of confidence quite as much as the automotive industry?"

"Moreover, this is practical common sense. It is applying advertising to the larger problems and fundamentals of business. It is taking it out of the rut of competition and applying it to an economic problem at a time when the American people have a keener interest in economics than they have in horsepower or Adam's apples."

Toward the end of his remarks, when the speaker had put the question, "Could anything be more ridiculous than hoarding?" he continued with these statements: "Do you suppose the people who are secreting gold and paper money and paying premiums for safe deposit boxes are anticipating the end of the United States? Do they expect to read in their daily newspapers some day a streamer headline to the effect that all banks, all shops, all railroads, all municipal and government offices, all telephones and all radio stations have been closed or silenced?"

"And yet, is not this the logical result of their fears; the ultimate reward for their timidity and cowardliness?"

"Fortunately for our country, the young men and women in our schools and colleges are not hoarding. They are preparing for their future in a world which to youth is always new. They realize that, while older men and women may hoard gold, no one can hoard an education. Education must be used to have value. In fact, education is one of the capital assets of a nation which is never used up; which always increases in value and never passes dividends.

"Fortunately, also, we have leadership in industry, leadership in journalism, leadership in finance and in religion...."

"Fortunately, too, we have in advertising, business men who know the difference between saturation points in markets and saturated viewpoints.

"We have also an increasing desire for co-operation. We need what President Sloan of General Motors emphasizes so often. We need 'open minds,' and the two greatest influences in opening the minds of men and women are news and advertising."

TRY TO VACATE HEAVY THRONE

By WILLIAM WEEKS

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Chicago, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Here Max Schmeling, the world heavyweight champion, and the New York State Athletic Commission have made up, but Schmeling and the National Boxing Association appear just about to have a serious falling out.

Just as Schmeling was making his peace with the New York commission by promising to sign for a championship match against Jack Sharkey in New York before next July 1, General John V. Clinkin, president of the National Boxing Association, and chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, dispatched ballots to members of the N. B. A. asking them to vote on the question of vacating the heavyweight title, because of Schmeling's failure to defend, or sign to defend, it within the prescribed six month time limit.

Schmeling's troubles with the New York group began when he failed to keep a promise to give Jack Sharkey, whom he defeated on a foul in June 1930, thus gaining recognition as champion, a return match. The New York commission withdrew its recognition a year ago, when Schmeling did nothing about meeting Sharkey again.

All that time, however, the N. B. A. recognized Schmeling as champion, and sanctioned his title bout with W. L. (Young) Stripling, at Cleveland last July 3. Under the N. B. A.'s rules, he was due to fight or sign up by January 3. At that time a match for the championship with Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight (titleholder was brewing, and the N. B. A. awaited developments.

The Walker-Schmeling battle, scheduled for Miami, Fla., collapsed after two weeks of discussion over contracts.

General Clinkin yesterday decided that it was time for N. B. A. action and sent out his ballots.

Should the N. B. A. vote to withdraw recognition from Schmeling as champion, he would hold no title at all, his New York standing being of a leading contender.

Babe Ruth Talks To 1,000 Boys

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Babe Ruth wants the kids to "knuckle down" this year in baseball—or whatever sport they prefer—and show what they can do for themselves. The Babe told upwards of 1,000 of them at the boys' club of New York last night that he expected them to "come through and show their appreciation for the opportunities they have been given."

Ruth was nearly mobbed by his youthful admirers upon his arrival at the clubhouse on Manhattan's densely populated East Side. Outside, after it was all over, three small boys wound up in a terrific argument. One claimed he had leaped on the Babe. Another said he had shaken hands with the great man. As a clincher, the third piped: "Well, he said to me, he said: 'Get in there, kid, and sock em, will you?'"

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of nine to ten points on southern selling, promoted by relatively easier Liverpool cables. March eased off to 6.53.

According to private advices from Liverpool, the market there was influenced by hedging combined with local and continental liquidation on less favorable view of the international situation.

The initial offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering but demand was not aggressive and was supplied on rallies of 2 or 3 points. A continuance of good weather in the south may have encouraged some selling but southern offerings were light, and trading was comparatively quiet during the first half hour.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Persistent speculative selling attributed to a leading trader induced a reversal of wheat market weakness today during the late transactions. On the decline, prices went below January's finish, and about 3 cents under the top of Monday's bulge. General demand today for North American wheat to be shipped overseas was not aggressive.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The stock market attempted to push forward at the start today, but showed little stamina, as slow selling opposed the movement.

Early advances of 1 to 3 points were than lost after midday, but trading dwindled to small proportions. In fact, it was one of the quietest sessions in recent months.

The tobacco and Myers B and American Tobacco B advancing about 3 to 3 points, but these gains were substantially reduced as the session wore on. New York Central, Santa Fe and others lost. Gen. Elec. dropped more than a point, registering a new low for the present shares under 22. North American also sagged a point.

The tobacco were helped by the ordering of the usual extra dividend of $1 by Liggett and Myers, and the company's 1931 earnings report, showing net of $6.87 a share for 1931, or only a little less than the $7.15 a share earned in 1930. Another prominent company reporting for 1931 was National Biscuit which earned $2.86 a share, as reduced from $3.40. This was regarded as relatively satisfactory, although it marked a check to the steady expansion of earnings of this corporation over the past several years.

Wall Street remains primarily interested in the earnings and dividend announcements of U. S. Steel to be made after the close of the market next Tuesday. While it is taken for granted that the company will show a deficit for the last quarter of 1931, there is a marked, by more hopeful attitude that some distribution will be made on the common stock, although usually well informed quarters decline to predict what the directors may decide to do.

Short covering in the last hour lifted leading stocks a point or two after an earlier advance had been mostly lost during a slow selling movement. Trading was very dull throughout the session. Tobacco were strong. Transactions approximated 1,100,000 shares.
